Smokey Bear signs recovered

Two images of Smokey Bear stolen from a fire information sign near High Rolls have been recovered in good condition from a private residence, thanks to information supplied by an anonymous tipster.

Zoila Bennett, 30, of Alamogordo was charged with removal of federal property by Forest Service law enforcement officer Charles "Hoot" Murray. Bennett was fined $100 and given a stern verbal reprimand by Judge Galvan in Federal Magistrate Court. Two other individuals remain under investigation for their involvement in the theft.

The Smokey Bear images were removed July 8 from a sign located on Highway 82 about six miles east of Alamogordo which displays the current level of fire danger.

Roadblocks set up to check hunters

The New Mexico Department of Game and Fish is setting up roadblocks at a variety of times and locations in southeastern New Mexico during the current hunting seasons.

Conservation officers will be checking for game law violations, and also to obtain information on hunter harvest. Other law enforcement agencies, such as the State Police and sheriff's departments, will help look for other criminal activities and help with traffic control.

Humane Society pet gifts at annual Christmas Jubilee

Pet gifts and care items will be for sale at the Lincoln County Humane Society booth during the annual Christmas Jubilee, Nov. 8-10, in the Ruidoso Civic Events Center.

Leashes, collars, long and short-sleeve T-shirts, Christmas cards, animal sweaters and stocking stuffers for pets can be purchased for the holidays.

Proceeds will benefit the Humane Society shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road and its population of abandoned and unwanted cats and dogs.

Gift certificates also will be available for those who want to give a pet as a gift, but choose to wait until after the holidays to let the recipient pick out the animal.

Republican candidates sweep Lincoln County

Lincoln County voters returned their incumbent state representative to Santa Fe Tuesday, but placed a new man in the district attorney's office.

And in a landslide vote, they tapped a former sheriff for a new four-year term in a post being vacated by James McSwane, who didn't run for re-election.

All four winners in local races were Republicans in a county where Grand Old Party members outnumber Democrats 5,591 to 3,226 and represent 53% of the registered voters. In fact, this county favored Republicans all the way up to the presidential race.

Dub Williams won a second term as state representative in District 56, while attorney Scot D. Key ousted the incumbent district attorney in the 12th Judicial District. Tom Sullivan will be the new sheriff in Lincoln County and Stirling Spencer will leave the county commission to become the new probate judge.

Sullivan, who served two terms as sheriff in the 1980s, was the big winner of the day, beating Democrat Ralph Romero by taking 67.5% of the vote for county sheriff. The final number, which will be unoffi-

Lincoln County Commissioner L. Ray Nunley and his wife, Mary Lee, battle a strong wind as they leave the Ruidoso Civic Events Center Tuesday after voting in the general election. Nunley lost his battle against Republican Dub Williams in his race for state representative.

Bonito man stabbed to death near Capitan bar

by DIANNE STALLINGS
 Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A rural Lincoln County resident was stabbed to death early Saturday following an argument with a Camp Sierra Blanca parolee at a local bar.

A warrant for the arrest of Samuel Don Stanton, 34, was issued in Ruidoso Magistrate Court on an open count of murder in the death of Kendall Jennings, 24, said Sheriff James McSwane. Police still are looking for Stanton.

It was the second suspected murder in Lincoln County in less than a month, after the county had gone 2.5 years without one.

Stanton was released on parole from the former minimum security prison about 13 miles northeast of Ruidoso in November 1994 after serving concurrent sentences of 1.5 years for breaking and entering, and three years for aggravated battery. His parole would have expired Nov. 14.

Jennings' body was found at 6:49 a.m. Saturday on the shoulder of U.S. 380 about 50 yards from the Rodeo Bar, two miles southeast of Capitan, the sheriff said. A fatal stab wound to the back of his left leg apparently severed an artery, McSwane said.

"We believe the weapon was a knife, but an autopsy is being performed in Albuquerque by the state Medical Investigator's Office," McSwane said.

Jennings also had a small wound on his back, he said.

It was at least the third incidence of violence at the Rodeo Bar in three years. The bar was the scene of a double shooting in November 1993 in which one man died and another was wounded. In November 1994, another man was shot in the bar parking lot, but survived.

Witnesses told investigating deputies Bobby Angermiller and Larry Cearley that Jennings and Stanton were arguing late Friday and early Saturday, first in the bar and then in the parking lot, McSwane said.

Jennings, who lived near Bonito Lake, worked odd jobs in the area, McSwane said. Friends described the murdered man as fun-loving.

Stanton, who lived in Roswell and Capitan, worked on Top Mountain Ranch southwest of Capitan. The ranch is owned by Jack Treadway.

"Stanton has family all over the country," McSwane said. "He's communicated with some of his family and we're investigating the leads."

Treadway, who moved to Lincoln County three years ago from Florida, said he was shocked to hear Stanton might be involved.

"I just never saw anything during the six weeks he worked for me that would indicate he was capable of what he's purported to have done," Treadway said Monday. "If things didn't go right on the job, sometimes he'd get upset, but I never saw him go into a rage."

Treadway previously employed Stanton on a work release program while Stanton was an inmate at the nearby prison camp, before it was closed as a minimum security prison for men a few months ago.

After his release from prison, Stanton apparently worked in Oklahoma, but was fired, Treadway said. He called Treadway looking for a job. Michael Toms of the state Corrections Department said the last entry they have on record about Stanton was that he was in Oklahoma. The state was never notified that he had changed locations, Toms said.

"I liked the guy. He was reliable, but if he started drinking, it was bad news," Treadway said.

And Stanton was drinking Friday night, Treadway said.

Armed men rob Ruidoso bank

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
 Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Two men who robbed a Ruidoso savings bank Monday morning were still on the loose Tuesday night.

At least one of the masked suspects had a gun and threatened the bank manager with it. The men made off with an undisclosed amount of cash in about 40 seconds after emptying one of the First Savings Bank cash drawers around 10:18 a.m.

It's the first bank robbery in Ruidoso since the Ruidoso State Bank north branch was robbed in 1989, police Chief Lanny Maddox said.

The bank was open, but no customers were present. Three bank employees were, but no one was injured. The bank is located at 2718 Sudderth Drive.

Photos of the men were caught on a bank security camera, which the FBI will be enhancing, Maddox said.

It's possible the suspects are local residents, he said.

Maddox and the FBI won't reveal the amount of money stolen until the case is resolved.

Both men were described as Hispanic males between 18 and 22 years of age, 5-foot-8 to 5-foot-10, and around 155 pounds.

Police believe they were picked up by a third suspect in a light blue pickup truck with a black roll bar

Fort Stanton groups plan meeting with state official

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Proponent of Fort Stanton's future as a history center hope supporters derail a plan for a prison at the fort when they meet with state officials Friday.

About 30 members of Operation Old Fort Stanton showed up Saturday to plan a car caravan for the meeting Friday in Santa Fe with Secretary Stephen Beffort of the state General Services Department (GSD).

They were reacting to an announcement last week by David Harris, acting Secretary of Corrections, that he has asked Beffort to approve moving 80-100 minimum security women inmates into the fort in December. Harris said he will need the fort for up to two years, until a new prison is ready in Santa Fe.

Although Tom Sullivan, a former corrections department employee and candidate for sheriff, said he believes "it's a done deal," members still hope to change Beffort's mind.

Operations president Sally Burkstaller urged people who oppose the prison plan to write, call or FAX messages to Beffort before the Friday meeting.

Last week, Beffort said he would welcome a tenant in the fort, which was closed as a state hospital in March 1995 by the governor. Sitting empty, buildings are deteriorating, he said. The state has been unsuccessful in finding a new private tenant. A citizens' proposal to create interpretive displays and history demonstrations to preserve the fort was initiated about two months ago and is being pursued by the Operations group and Friends of Fort Stanton/the Fort Stanton Foundation.

"We don't want to go with a belligerent attitude," said Jerry Mattox, who serves on the Operation's steering committee. "We want to be positive and press for our goal, to preserve the fort as a historic living museum."

"We want to be positive and press for our goal, to preserve the fort as a historic living museum."

They will give Beffort an overview of the Operations group and its 400-plus membership, as well as other local, state and national groups that have expressed an interest in the plan, he said.

"Four to five people will make the presentation to give some variety in approaches and voices," Mattox said.

They also will leave copies of a master plan for the fort compiled eight years ago, another a plan to create a conference center there and a plan to convert it into a New Mexico Center for the Western Horse.

But the major emphasis will be the group's vision of what the fort could be, a place for battle reenactments, trail rides, an elder-hostel, research library and museum.

"Our major concern is access to the fort," Burkstaller said. "We've already heard with a minimum security prison there will be no fence or window bars, but I'd like to hear that from someone in power."

"And if the women inmates do end up there, if they are going to be doing things to the fort, we want them to do what we want done."

Sullivan said prison employees already are moving into cottages at the fort and have been told they'll be staying two years. Currently, some of the women inmates are staying at Camp Sierra Blanca, a former men's minimum security prison, about one mile away. The women inmates must be moved in December to make way for a juvenile offender environmental work center at the camp, and that when Harris wants the women shifted to Fort Stanton.

"I can't see why they don't leave the women at the camp and expand it," Sullivan said. "It doesn't make any sense to me."

Other sites, such as an armory in Roswell, are as ready-made for a minimum security prison as the fort, he said.

Having male juvenile offenders less than one mile away from a "no fence" minimum security women's prison also bothers him, he said.

However, if any type of inmate has to be confined at the fort, women are cleaner and should be good at keeping the historic fort ship-shape, he said.

"Evidently, this discussion (about women inmates at the fort) has been going on a long time and they just didn't let us know," one woman said.

But Burkstaller urged members not to be disillusioned.

"I still think we can do it if we work together within the system," she said.

Member Chuck Griffin said the group needs letters from the major elected officials in Ruidoso and the county, to take to Friday's meeting.

Another woman suggested contacting the NAACP about the connection between the fort and the Buffalo Soldiers, a contingent of black cavalry stationed there before the turn of the century.

To join the group, meet at 7:30 a.m. Friday, Nov. 8, in the Sierra Mall parking lot at the Eastern New Mexico University Building off Mechem Drive. Spokesmen for supporters will meet with Beffort at 1:30 p.m. in the Sims Building, south of the Capitol Building.

To contact Beffort, call (505) 827-2000, Fax at (505) 827-2041 or write P.O. Drawer 26100, Santa Fe, NM 87502-0110.

Stanton said he would drive back to the ranch later with his girlfriend to pick up his clothes, but never did. When the rancher returned to Capitan, he heard Jennings had died and contacted the sheriff's office.

Stanton later called Treadway's son, Greg Treadway, to find out if Jennings was dead, the affidavit stated. The younger Treadway responded that Jennings had died, and told Stanton he should turn himself into the sheriff's office.

Jack Treadway said Stanton apologized and said he was going to kill himself.

"I told him that's the coward's way out," Treadway said. "He doesn't remember doing it. He knows he got into a fight. He said this guy beat him up twice."

Stanton is described as Anglo with dark brown hair, a thin build, brown eyes and possibly a beard.

"Their noses were pushed in the carpet," said detective Jim Biggs.

When the man vaulted back over the counter and went for the door, the one holding a gun to Gibson's head said, "If you raise your head, I'll shoot you," Gibson related.

Moments later the workers called out to each other, certain the robbers had left. They locked the door, pushed a panic button alerting police and called 911.

"In less than three minutes, the bank was completely full of police," Gibson said.

The bank, formerly Sun World Federal Savings Bank, was kept closed for the rest of the day as police investigated and a trauma counselor visited with victims, but the branch reopened to the public Tuesday morning.

Both tellers had security training, as did Gibson, and all responded appropriately to the robbery, he Gibson.

"The most important thing is for no one to get hurt," he added.

Throughout the rest of the day and night Monday, the dreaded moment — when Gibson realized they were being robbed — continuously replayed in his mind, the 17-year banking veteran said.

"I hope it never happens again," he said.

station, he said.

"The individual in my office told me to get down on the floor and stay there. He put the gun to the back of my head and held it there while I was on the ground," Gibson said.

The robber was also wearing baggy khaki coveralls and a white, long sleeved shirt, Gibson said.

The gun's frame and slide were blue, and the barrel was nickel or chrome, which is unusual for a semi-automatic, Maddox said.

Twice the armed robber yelled at Gibson, "Stay down or I'll blow your (expletive) head off," Maddox related.

Meanwhile, the teller behind the counter was physically shoved under the counter by the other robber, disguised by a nylon stalking over his face and a Michigan blue and gold ball cap with a design on the back. That man wore baggy khaki pants and a long sleeved blue shirt.

When that robber caught sight of the second teller in a room behind the counter, he forced her to the counter area and pushed her on the ground while he took money from the cash drawer, Gibson said.

Police said the victims didn't know if the men stashed the money in a bag.

When Stanton and Treadway finished putting a roof on Treadway's barn Friday, Stanton suggested celebrating with a few beers in town. He didn't have a car and needed a ride. They arrived at the bar about 6:30 p.m.

"I drank three beers and I already saw the place heatin' up and I saw a change in him, because he was drinking whiskey. Guys were coming in drunk and rowdy," Treadway said. He urged Stanton to go home with him, but the younger man wanted to stay and play pool.

When Jennings came into the bar, he looked as if he already had been drinking, Treadway said.

"They (Jennings and Stanton) hadn't been playing pool 20 minutes when they got into an argument," he said. They were separated by Godfrey Chavez and and loud engine waiting in the Apache Hills area, 1.5 blocks southwest of the bank.

"A witness possibly saw two Hispanic males enter the truck south of the bank," Maddox said. "We got quite a few Crime Stoppers tips last night and are following up on leads."

Crime Stoppers is offering a $1,000 reward for information that leads to the arrest of the suspects. Callers are kept confidential.

"We're spending a lot of time on this and we hope to have it wrapped up shortly," Maddox said.

Two bank tellers, Sheri Linde and Inetta Tercero, and bank manager Eddie Gibson were inside the bank when the two robbers entered.

"I was talking on the phone and looked out the window when I saw an individual crossing the parking lot towards the bank," Gibson later related.

The man didn't raise his suspicion, but when Gibson hung up the phone and turned around, the same man, now wearing a white knit cap over his face with holes cut out for his eyes, was in his office pointing a semi-automatic gun. At the same time, another man ran across the lobby and jumped the counter into the teller cial until certified Friday by the county commission, was 4,203 votes to 2,021.

"I'm really flattered the community supported me so overwhelmingly, and I will live up to their expectations," Sullivan said from his victory party in Carrizozo. "I look forward to a good relationship with other law enforcement agencies in the area, working together to make this county a safer place to live."

Williams won his bid for a second term as state representative. In Lincoln County, he claimed 52.5% of the vote with 3,302 votes to Democrat L. Ray Nunley's 2,984.

District 56 covers all of Lincoln County, seven of Otero County's 45 precincts and one precinct in Chaves County.

Williams won the Chaves precinct, Penasco, adjoining Lincoln County at its southeastern boundary, with 63 votes to Nunley's five. Absentee votes had not been counted by prestime.

The Republican also was ahead in Otero County with only the Mesquero Apache Reservation precinct yet to report at prestime. He pulled 1,519 votes to Nunley's 1,075.

Williams was not available for comment, but Nunley said he worked hard and was not ashamed of the race he ran for office.

He may try again in 1998, Nunley said. Until then, he will continue in his position as a county commissioner, working for the betterment of the county, he said.

"L. Ray's loss is our gain," Commission Chairman Monroy Montes said, referring to the two years remaining in Nunley's term on the commission.

Key, a Republican in private practice with Ruidoso attorney Gary Mitchell, ousted Democrat Bert Atkins as district attorney. Atkins was running for a third term. The district attorney is elected from Lincoln and Otero counties. Key won Lincoln with 61.3% of the vote. With only the Mesquero precinct left to tally in Otero County, he was ahead with 8,349 votes to Atkins' 7,021.

"I'm elated," Key said after declaring victory about 10 p.m. "First, I thank God and second, my wife who has gone through utter chaos in our lives during this campaign."

He singled out the Lincoln County Republican Party for helping "to get our message out."

"Lincoln County is important to me and my family has history there," Key said. "I assure you, the people in Lincoln County will know who I am. I have a positive outlook for the future of law enforcement in the district."

In the probate judge race, Spencer took 55.9% with 3,397 votes compared to Democrat Jack Johnson's 2,678 votes. Johnson will finish out the last two years in his term as Capitan municipal judge.

County Clerk Martha Proctor came close with her voter turnout projection of 65%. When the final figures were coughed up by county computers, the turnout was 63.2%, or 6,670 ballots out of 10,547 registered voters.

Taking advantage of the chance to vote early were 1,397 voters, and 654 voted absentee.

Proctor said the election ran smoothly, with only a slight bump early in the day when proponents of Indian gambling were asked to leave the parking lot outside the civic events center where all Ruidoso precinct voting occurs.

The advocates were violating state election law by handing out photocopies of ballots with pro-Indian gambling candidates marked, which equates to altering or defacing the ballot, Proctor said.

Commissioner seeks raises for elected county officials

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Election returns will be certified by the Lincoln County Commission Friday. And if Commissioner Bill Schwetzmann is successful, the newly selected county officials will be getting a raise after they take office in January.

County officials already in office also would benefit, if the commission decides to cash in on its new salary classification based on a countywide taxable property valuation of more than $300 million.

By moving into a higher valuation category, county officials could see their annual salaries increased by $4,000-$6,000.

Schwetzmann has scheduled a discussion about raises for the commission meeting at 9 a.m. Friday in the county courthouse in Carrizozo.

Salaries for elected officials in Lincoln County are the lowest or one of the lowest in the state, Donna Smith, executive director of the New Mexico Association of Counties, said Tuesday.

If raises to the maximum limit under the new classification are approved, annual salaries of commissioners would increase from $10,005 to $15,012, according to information from the county finance office. The sheriff's salary would jump from $31,510 to $39,253. The salaries of the county treasurer, assessor and clerk would increase from $30,130 to $37,653.

The probate judge's annual check would nearly double from $7,015 to $13,166.

The budget impact for a full year would be $92,602, because the salaries of the chief deputies in each department also would be increased in step with their bosses.

This would be the county's second run at salary increases. In April 1994, commissioners voted 3-2 to approve a 7% increase to take effect Jan. 1, 1995. But they rescinded the action in December 1994 after Attorney General Tom Udall reaffirmed his position that the raises were illegal.

The confusion arises from conflicting directives in the state constitution and statutes.

The constitution prohibits county commissioners from voting on salary increases for themselves and receiving raises while they're in mid-term. But the state Legislature passed an "equity" statute in 1990 stating if one elected official in a county receives a raise, all must receive raises.

Udall agreed with two previous attorney general opinions that the equity statute is unconstitutional and that county raises should apply only to newly elected or re-elected officials.

But earlier this year, Ruidoso attorney Dan Bryant sued in district court on behalf of the state association of counties and a list of elected county officials around the state.

He argued that county officials are being discriminated against if they are the only group of elected officials in the state with staggered terms who cannot approve mid-term raises.

"The attorney generals over the years have said that all other elected officials in statewide and judicial offices with staggered terms can have increases during their term if the increases coincide with the taking of office by someone else within their group," Smith said. "That's to ensure those with experience will not end up being paid less than newcomers."

"We argued there was no reason to treat county officials any differently than all the others."

Udall used a 1914 state Supreme Court case to contend county officials are the exception to that standard.

District Court Judge Robert Doughty ruled in favor of the association, but Udall appealed that ruling Sept. 30.

"The court, however, denied our motion for a stay," said Udall spokesman Kay Roybal. A stay would have prevented counties from approving any pay increases for elected officials until the higher court ruled on the case.

"We just want to recognize the fact that we're in a new category and that at the first of the year, we could implement raises for all elected officials," Schwetzmann said Monday. "I want it worded that we can do it, provided the budget will allow it."

"It's been five, almost six years since some of the elected officials received a raise."

With only 10 elected officials in the county, the proposal isn't a budget buster, he said.

"My intent was not to campaign and pass something, just to be aware that we can and will do this provided funds are available," Schwetzmann said.

In other business, the commission:

— is scheduled to appoint members to 12 boards;

— will hear a presentation on a retiree health benefits program for employees;

— will discuss an after-school program in Ruidoso and a sidewalk project in Corona at the request of Commissioner L. Ray Nunley;

— will receive an update on the future of Fort Stanton;

— will discuss the sale of disposal road surfacing equipment by the road department and economic development requested by Commissioner Wilton Howell;

— and will discuss roads in District One requested by Commissioner Sterling Spencer.

Ruidoso officials file appeal of Mescalero land annexation

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The decision to annex Ruidoso land to the Mescalero Apache Reservation is arbitrary, capricious and an abuse of discretion, argue Ruidoso officials.

The arguments were listed in a recent appeal of the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs' decision to approve the annexation. The appeal was written and researched by assistant village attorney Chay Rennick.

Ten times in the village's 23-page brief, Rennick charges the BIA area director's decision was "arbitrary, capricious and an abuse of discretion" because he lacked authority to make the decision, didn't properly review the village's arguments against it, and failed to follow Interior Department directives.

BIA officials have 30 days to respond, the village will have 15 days to argue back, and then the Board of Indian Appeals will render a decision on the appeal.

At stake is 7.5 acres of land including the Mescalero Inn restaurant (formerly the Carrizo Lodge), which is about one mile from downtown Ruidoso and 15 miles from downtown Mescalero. The site also includes a nightclub and 12 condos. The land was annexed by the village in 1993 and linked to village sewer and water services.

Gaim-Ko, Inc., which supplies slot machines to the tribe's Inn of the Mountain Gods, gave the tribe the land in 1995. Gaim-Ko purchased it for $1.2 million, the Ruidoso legal brief said.

Gaming and friends

The BIA area director failed to consider the use of the land by Gaim-Ko, Inc., a third party, and the potential for gaming at the site, the village argues.

Interior Department directives say if a third party will be involved in the use of property, then all documents tying the third party to the land and tribe must be presented to the area director. That wasn't done in full, the village brief says.

Gaim-Ko continued selling alcohol at the property after the land title was given to the tribe in 1995, which indicates its third-party involvement, the brief says.

The area director said he didn't review the gaming issue because the tribe said there would be no gaming on the property, the brief says.

According to a 1994 Interior Department directive, "all requests for the acquisition of land in trust for gaming purposes shall be approved/disapproved by the central office."

The Mescalero Inn property appears to qualify as a gaming facility because it offers services to the casino, Rennick said.

What's the need?

The area director failed to analyze the tribe's need and use of the land as required, Ruidoso argues.

The area director stated the tribe needed the land because it currently has approximately 460,000 acres of land; all its tangible resources are connected to its land; and the annexed land will provide economic opportunities, the brief says. But the area director didn't say why official trust land status is necessary for these opportunities, Ruidoso argues.

Taxation

The village has collected $4,401 in annual property taxes from the site, not the 1/4th of $4,401 as the area director said in his review. The review didn't address the village's loss of sales and lodger's tax revenues because of the annexation, the village argued.

Jurisdictional conflict

In its initial argument, the village raised six jurisdictional questions about water; sewer; planning and zoning; franchise ordinances; police, fire and emergency services; and alcoholic beverage regulation.

The area director addressed each of these concerns in his annexation approval, but village officials say he failed to comply with a BIA rule to analyze jurisdictional problems and potential conflicts of land use. The rule also says every effort should be made to resolve any conflicts.

Potential issues the rule says need to be addressed include cross-deputization, utilities, zoning, and contributions for fire protection. Instead, the area director "states simply that the tribe can handle its own regulatory matters," Rennick argues.

The village has concerns about broken contractual agreements with the land's previous owner; compliance with planning and zoning codes; and the village's water and sewer hookups to the land.

The tribe and village have a tentative agreement about water supplies. The tribe now supplies its own water, although fire hydrants are still connected to village water lines.

The area director said the serving of alcohol at the Mescalero Inn without a state liquor license is a matter of state, not local interest.

No authority

Ruidoso officials note that the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in April in a South Dakota case that only Congress has the power to add trust lands to an Indian reservation, not the BIA.

Following that ruling, the U.S. Interior Department began allowing municipalities to file appeals within 30 days.

The Interior Department appealed the court's ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court. Without issuing a written opinion, the court remanded the case earlier this month back to the Interior Secretary to try the new 30-day rule.

This makes Ruidoso one of the first to test that rule, Rennick later noted.

Cree descendants visit Ruidoso

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Descendants of James Edward Cree, the Scotsman known locally as Lord Cree, visited their great-grandfather's former estate in late October.

The original ranchland of about 7,000 acres once owned by Cree is now greater Ruidoso, including White Mountain Estates, Cree Meadows, Alto and beyond.

"It's a bit strange to think he owned it all," David Cree said.

David Cree and his cousin Charles are the great-grandsons of Ruidoso's Scottish founding father. David was born in Edinburgh, Scotland and now lives in Norfolk, England. Charles was born in Santa Fe and now lives in Austin, Texas.

The occasion of the visit to Ruidoso was to celebrate David's 60th birthday and to visit the property the two cousins inherited from their grandfather James Edward Cree II through their fathers Gerald and Charles. Also, they were anxious to clarify their great-grandfather's title as "Lord."

"He wasn't a lord at all," David said. "I think that was something the cowboys around here called him. The Apaches called him the 'Little White Father.'"

The "old man," as David refers to his great-grandfather, was a man of wealth and stature in Scotland, then he married into the prominent Crabbie family, who owned the large Crabbie distillery. For a time there was a whiskey labeled "Crabbie & Cree" in honor of the alliance, Charles said.

Charles and David Cree are the great-grandsons of "Lord Cree," who once owned a large chunk of what is now Ruidoso.

The senior Cree was highly respected in Lincoln County, according to family lore. Throughout the Lincoln County War, Cree remained neutral. He employed both Pat Garrett and William Bonney (Billy the Kid) before the war. Members of the Apache tribe once killed a bear for the Little White Father, and the skin is still among David's collection of family history.

"He (Cree) never carried a gun, never even a pocket knife or a weapon of any kind," Charles said.

The Cree's visit to their inheritance was mildly disappointing as they discovered the remaining several acres of the great Cree Ranch they still own is comprised of inaccessible cliffs behind Inspiration Heights in Ruidoso Downs.

"We have been unable to put foot on it," Charles said.

The highlight of the visit, especially for David's first time in the Southwest, has been touring

New Mexico. "This is a fantastic place," David said. "The contrast, the magnificent scenery with the lighting, sunsets."

The Cree cousins expressed a modicum of regret that their fathers sold the last valuable part of the ranch to White Mountain Development. However, they were pleased with how the land has been used.

"They did a good job on the golf course," David said.

"It's definitely not a detraction from the area," Charles added.

The Cree cousins had to leave Ruidoso with one mystery left unsolved — the location of their great-grandfather's original burial site.

Though the body of James Edward Cree was exhumed and sent back to Scotland, the gravesite remained and was known to "old-timers" familiar with the area around Highway 37 before the road was widened.

The Cree cousins have left their addresses with The Ruidoso News if anyone wishes to contact them.

Ruidoso School District commended for seeking students' opinions

Students must be among the toughest — and the most honest — critics of the things we adults do.

Therefore we must commend the Ruidoso School District for including students in the district's self-evaluation of its education process. Specifically, the group will assess whether the district is meeting its goals for its accreditation review: to create a caring, learning environment based on mutual respect, and to improve teaching and learning in the communications field.

The students have already offered some constructive criticisms, such as the need to open up access to the computer lab.

The district's methods of meeting accreditation goals are certainly worthy. Students are required to write papers in all of their classes. If there's one thing we all need throughout our lives, it's writing skills. Appropriately, each student's writing portfolio will follow his or her progress throughout their school-age life. We hope this unique program catches on in other school districts.

Restaurant is neutral on gaming

TO THE EDITOR:

It has been brought to my attention that Cattle Baron Steak & Seafood Restaurant and Farley's Food, Fun, & Pub have been placed on a "list" of businesses that do not support gambling on the Mesquero Apache Reservation. I'd like to state our company's position in order to help eliminate any misconceptions:

Cattle Baron Restaurants, Inc., maintains a neutral position on the gaming situation.

Several factors could attribute to business fluctuations in Ruidoso, this past year especially, including but not limited to: forest fires, the drought and forest closure, the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta, a general down turn in tourism activity throughout the Southwestern United States, a poor 1995-96 ski season, a reduction of race days at Ruidoso Downs, and perhaps the casino; however, it's very hard to determine which of these conditions, or combinations of conditions, attribute to our business fluctuations one way or another.

We're for anything that maintains and promotes healthy tourism in Ruidoso, and brings people to town.

As to the placement of petitions in our restaurants, we do not allow any petitions to be placed in the restaurants.

I sincerely hope this clarifies any misinterpretations and/or misperceptions as to the position of Cattle

Baron Restaurants, Inc. regarding Indian gaming.

Thanks for help with bear memorial

TO THE EDITOR:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our neighbors and friends who helped with their time and donations toward our Cinnamon Bear Memorial, and for their love stories about this little red bear. He has been greatly missed from our creeks, dumpsters and even from a few of our decks, too.

Man has dominion over God's creatures and man has moved into the bears' beautiful country. I believe though, that we can live side by side as long as we respect them.

Maybe someday we will be able to forgive our new neighbor who needlessly shot Cinnamon Bear and we can learn to live with and love him as a neighbor should.

The Cinnamon Bear Memorial is located at 130 Brady Canyon.

A special thanks to Lonny Masterfield of Bearfoot Crossing, for carving and installing our Bear Memorial.

Let us all respect and protect our wildlife and our fellow man.

Thanks for help at time of friend's death

TO THE EDITOR:

In the aftermath of tragedy, we would like for the people of Ruidoso and Lincoln County to know what fine and caring medical personnel you folks have been blessed with. None of us are aware of the jobs which are done by the health care professionals until we experience that care on a first-hand, emergency basis.

On Saturday morning, Oct. 12, three couples of us were completing a weekend vacation in Ruidoso at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, when one of the ladies, Brenda Lumpkin, was stricken with a severe heart attack. As her husband, Mark, began CPR he called for the hotel security, who in turn called for the paramedics. Within a matter of a few minutes, trained emergency medical personnel were on the scene administering life saving procedures as they prepared to transport her to the Lincoln County Medical Center.

Upon her arrival at the hospital, we, her family and friends, were met with warm, compassionate medical caregivers who were prepared to meet the needs of the one who was fighting for her life as well as the needs which we as on-lookers had in facing uncertainty and being fearful of her condition. During the morning hours, the doctors and nurses were able to stabilize Brenda and to prepare her to be mediflighted to a cardiac care unit in Oklahoma City.

In the days while Brenda was hospitalized in Oklahoma City prior to her death on Wednesday, Oct. 16, several of the people from the Lincoln County Medical Center, the paramedics who had transported her, and the staff of the Inn of the Mountain Gods called to check on her condition, as well as the well being of her family and friends.

We would like to commend those who were involved in assisting

Brenda, because in them we found comfort, hope, and the genuine commitment to serving their fellow man. The tragedy was not that Brenda was taken from us after only 43 years, for she had already prepared herself for an eternal home in heaven; the tragedy will come about as we, the survivors, fail to recognize the gifts of life and friendship or in the failure to tell those people who are dear to us that we appreciate them; or, if we fail to express gratitude to strangers who minister to us in times of need.

Thank you, Lincoln County Medical Center; the paramedics; and the security and staff at the Inn, for going above and beyond the call of duty in our emergency. May God bless each of you.

Scott even had poem for game of football

Welcome Home to Lowell Nosker

Lowell Nosker has arrived home and is recovering well from a hip transplant operation at the Veteran's Hospital in Albuquerque Oct. 15.

We all offer congratulations to Lowell and hope he will soon be back at work on the Perry Ranch where he has lived all his life.

The Perry Ranch was established by Lowell's great-grandparents, pioneers Phoebe and George Coe.

Life is itself but a game of football

Now during football season I am remembering a few words written by Sir Walter Scott, world-beloved Scottish novelist, poet and statesman.

Scott is the author of several novels including "Ivanhoe."

He was also gifted as a poet, especially of book-length narrative poems of the history and lore of his native land, all in perfect rhyme.

He wrote as rapidly as he could move the pen, oftentimes with the printer standing over his shoulder to receive the page when Scott handed it to him.

One of Scott's gifts was to write his verses on the spur of the moment on any subject.

By the way, Carl Rogg of Ruidoso has this same ability. He once dashed off a highly complimentary poem about me one time right on the spot.

Although born with frail health and crippled in one foot, Scott was blessed with an abounding joy of life and high-hearted spirit, which inspired all whom he met.

Also he developed into a robust youth who took part in athletics in spite of his handicap.

Even at the height of his fame as a writer he was present at a soccer game.

Someone came up to him and just before the game asked him to say something to the crowd.

So Scott, without any notice or warning, thought for just a minute or so and then said:

"Then up lads and to it though foul be the weather and if per chance you should happen to fall there are worse things in life than a tumble on heather and life is itself but a game of football."

Chamber expansion approved by planners

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

It's sort of a tradition for the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce to close its doors at election day and reorganize files, director Joan Bailey said.

"But this year it's a little different," Bailey said when taking a break from picking through boxes of newspaper memories. "Not only are we cleaning out our files, we're packing them, too!"

The chamber is temporarily moving to the old title building at the north branch of Ruidoso State Bank at 707 Mechem Drive, while the chamber's building at 720 Sudderth Drive is demolished in size by Eagle Creek Construction, Inc.

Bob Dolgener, the agent for the development, gained a unanimous approval from Ruidoso Planning and Zoning commissioners Monday for the chamber's site development plan.

balance being made in three-year pledges, Bailey said.

The funds are being held in the chamber's "Excelsior through Service" bank account at the Ruidoso State Bank.

The chamber also has retained pledges for at-cost construction services and supplies, somewhat resembling an old-time bar-raising effort.

"We've gotten so many generous contributions at cost," Bailey said.

Supplies donated at cost include building materials from C & L Lumber and Supply, carpeting from Carpet Market, and cement from Valley Transit Mix of Ruidoso, Bailey said.

Additionally, the Lincoln County Homebuilders Association will be overseeing the project with Dolgener, and supplying extra labor when available, she said.

No government funding has been requested for the expansion, Bailey said.

"The chamber board felt it was important to build the new building with the commitment of the community itself," she said. "We want the whole community to be able to enjoy this building, it's their chamber building."

Also at the Nov. 4 meeting, commissioners:

NEW BUSINESS

Approved a variance allowing construction of a 144-square-foot addition within 7.2 feet of the side lot line at lot 23, block 4, Wingfield Homestead, 2nd Addition Subdivision. David and Joyce McMath, applicants. Shaw Engineering, agent.

Approved a variance allowing construction of a 390-square-foot deck within 10.5 feet of the lot line at lot 3, block 20, Town & Country North, Units 1 & 2 Subdivision. James D. Reed, applicant.

Approved a variance allowing construction of a 278-square-foot house and driveway without a dip section at lot 7, block 5, Paradise Canyon Subdivision. Mountain Top, Inc., applicant. Jess Enser, agent.

Tabbed a replat request at lots 12 and 13, block 2, Country Club Estates Subdivision. Gene Hoyt, applicant.

Recommended the vacation of eight feet of public right-of-way to cure encroachment of a deck that encroaches 5.8 feet into the planned roadway at lot 130, block BB, Sleepy Hollow Subdivision. Beth Boggs and David Anderson, applicants. Mark Mobley, agent.

Approved an amendment to a commercial site development plan to allow construction of a 1,380-square-foot addition and a 504-square-foot deck at lot 18A, Block 1, Ruidoso Springs Subdivision. Audran Franklin, applicant. D.T. Collins, agent.

The approval is subject to the rezoning of the commercial area to allow apartments to be added to businesses for use by their owners.

Approved a preliminary and final plat for the subdivision of 9.81 acres of unimproved land for four single family dwellings at the southeastern quarter of the westwestern quarter of Section 20, Township 11, Range 12, East NMFPM. D.J.J. Partnership, applicants. D.T. Collins, agent.

Commissioners approved the sketch plans for the plat Sept. 3, and required that certain conditions be met, which Collins did. The State Engineer's office has approved a complete plat. The state environment department approved a septic system. Lincoln County Commissioners approved the development application.

OLD BUSINESS

Tabbed requests for vacations of public rights-of-way to cure encroachment at lots 39, 40 and 41, block D, Singing Pines Subdivision. Timothy L. and Pam H. Owens, and Wilma G. Hayes, applicants. Wyatt Sparks, agent.

An agreement still has to be worked out for assessments at the sites to allow village utility crews to access water lines.

Recommended that village planning director Cleatus Richards present options to village commissioners for resolving encroachments into the riverbed, the right-of-way and neighboring properties at the Ruidoso Springs Subdivision, which was incorrectly mapped and planned by developers several decades ago.

Options that will be presented to commissioners Nov. 12 include asking block F property owners to dedicate the existing river area through their land to the village in exchange for vacation of the planned right-of-way river area. This could provide for a balance in land swaps and substantially minimize the payment required for land vacations, Richards said.

Ruidoso bear cub on road to recovery

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Junior the bear cub, hit by a car in Ruidoso last September, was moved this weekend into a new enclosure at Dr. Kathleen Ramsey's wildlife center in Espanola.

Now 9 months old, Junior has recovered from his injuries and loves his new surroundings, Ramsey said.

"He's great entertainment," Ramsey said. "He played with a ball and things suspended from the ceiling. He had a blast. The cage is huge, about 40 feet wide and 60 feet long in an L-shape."

Unfortunately, Junior will spend the winter without the companionship of other bears, unless Ramsey's clinic receives a new arrival.

The other young bears at her wildlife center attained their 100-pound desired weight and were released this fall, she said.

Junior weighs about 45 pounds and is scheduled for release next May or as soon as female bears start leaving their dens with their cubs, Ramsey said.

It will be up to the state Game and Fish Department where Junior is released.

"If your game warden wants him back in that area, that's where he'll go," Ramsey said.

Junior was hit on Main Road in Upper Canyon Sept. 13 and was treated at The Ruidoso Animal Clinic before being flown to Ramsey's clinic. He was suffering from head injuries, a detached retina and cuts to his paws.

The retina healed on its own and Junior sees quite well now, Ramsey said. It took weeks of medication, but the swelling in his brain finally went down and he has recovered his balance completely.

"He's a lot of entertainment and no longer the pussycat he was when he came in," Ramsey said.

Before moving him to his new cage, the staff had to remove an intravenous catheter, she said, adding, "It took 45 minutes and part of the problem was that we were laughing so hard."

Because of the flood hazards at the chamber site along the Rio Ruidoso, P&Z staff helped Dolgener design the additions to meet flood hazard requirements. The final design meets criteria because it is elevated above the floodplain by 6.5 feet at its north end and includes a flow-through footing design, said P&Z Director Cleatus Richards.

Construction should begin Dec. 1, the same day the Chamber will officially be located at the temporary Mechem Drive location. Offices will move back to the old, refurbished address by April 1, Bailey said.

Designs call for the current 1,800 square feet of interior walls to be gutted, plus construction of a 1,200 square-foot addition, making room for three new offices. Also pegged for construction will be a 600 square-foot deck overlooking the Rio Ruidoso, which the Chamber hopes small community groups will utilize for meetings.

The additions will all be made to the backside of the 44-year-old building.

Dolgener estimated the cost of construction to be approximately $170,000, Bailey said, the bulk of which will be handled through the nearly $100,000 the chamber has raised through its 540-member "Excelsior through Service" fundraising pledge drive. Almost $50,000 of the funds raised is in cash, with the

Bearly eaten

Jim L. Brown took this photo after a bear slipped into his Main Road cabin sometime overnight Oct. 26 by ripping open a porch screen and found a smorgasbord to his liking. The porch is used as a pantry and is filled with dry food. The hungry bear opened cabinet doors and taste-tested dry spaghetti, chips, cereal and butter cookies stored in tins. When climbing into the porch, the bear stood on and broke a Xerox copying machine. Brown, who usually sleeps on the porch, slumbered peacefully in a back room as the bear munched away.

Vietnam vets offer three scholarships

Children and step-children of Vietnam Era veterans may apply for a $500 scholarship offered through Vietnam Veterans of America, Inc., New Mexico State Council, and New Mexico Vietnam Veterans Foundation.

Three Doug Cochran Scholarships are available this year. Doug Cochran, who died a few years ago, was a member of Vietnam Veterans of America, Inc. and volunteered in the local chapter office. He was homeless when he first came to the VVA resource and referral office for help.

Once he was back on his feet, Cochran's life was filled with helping the MIA/POW issue and trying to locate his brother, who was listed as MIA.

Last year's scholarship winners were Armando Amador of Bayard, who is attending Western New Mexico University, and Juliann Steffen of Farmington, who is attending New Mexico State University.

To request an application, call (505) 268-1101 or write to: Vietnam Veterans of America, Inc., New Mexico State Council, Doug Cochran Scholarship, 406 San Mateo, NE, Suite 124, Albuquerque, NM 87108. Application deadline is Dec. 15.

The Hondo Valley Schools' suspended business manager filed a lawsuit Friday against the Hondo Board of Education and superintendent Barbara Casey.

Abdel Ibrahim accuses school officials of wrongful termination, breach of contract, retaliatory discharge and deprivation of due process.

Ibrahim's attorney Richard Hawthorne filed the suit in Lincoln County 12th Judicial District Court. Casey is named as a defendant both in her official capacity as superintendent and in her individual capacity.

Casey is also a state representative in Roswell's District 58.

The lawsuit was prompted by the Hondo board's failure to schedule a termination hearing for Ibrahim within 15 days of his termination notice, as is required by law, Ibrahim said. The hearing should have taken place by Oct. 31, according to Ibrahim and his attorney.

Ms. Casey changed her allegations of reasons for termination three times, from two reasons to six reasons and finally to seven reasons," Ibrahim stated in a press release.

Casey's attorney Frank Albetta of Santa Fe said a hearing should be scheduled within 15 days of the most recent termination statement, but he is now waiting for Ibrahim to respond to that statement.

"The Hondo School Board issued a second statement of reasons because the more we look into what has been done with respect to the school's finances, the more we find reasons pertinent to Mr. Ibrahim's termination," Albetta said.

Albetta believes Ibrahim's lawsuit is a legal maneuver to avoid appearing before the school board and following statutory procedure. The law requires a termination hearing to take place before a lawsuit can be filed.

Ibrahim contends Albetta and Casey are the ones who failed to follow procedure, by firing him without the benefit of due process.

Casey fired Ibrahim Sept. 19 after an argument over a check-handling procedure suggested by an independent auditor. Ibrahim described the conflict as emotional and suggested Casey acted without full understanding of the matter in question.

The Hondo School Board voted unanimously Sept. 26 to fire Ibrahim on Casey's recommendation.

"It is amazing that the Hondo Board... continues to maintain the level of high turnover in administration which accounted for approximately four business managers and five superintendents in five years..." Ibrahim countered.

Albetta said Ibrahim's wrongful termination suit is premature.

"He hasn't been terminated yet, wrongfully or otherwise," Albetta said. "He was given a notice of the board's intention to terminate him. He's been put on suspension with pay."

Ibrahim said he has received a paycheck through the month of October.

Previously, Casey has made statements that Ibrahim was fired.

About two weeks after the school board's decision to fire Ibrahim, Casey alleged that Ibrahim is responsible for school district discrepancies in financial transactions." Casey requested an investigation by Assistant District Attorney Viola Rhodes and State Auditor Robert Vigil.

Ibrahim claims that on Sept. 25 and Oct. 14, before Casey's call for an investigation, he reported six serious violations he alleges were committed by Casey and school board President Victoria Sanchez to the State Auditor and the State Department of Education.

Neither party has revealed the exact nature of these allegations against each other. However, Ibrahim also has accused Casey of using school time and resources to run her re-election campaign and do legislative work.

Casey hired another independent auditor to review the district's financial records. Casey was unable to state whether or not money is missing.

Coming to blows

When the fired man Casey told Ibrahim to stay off school property, then secured a preliminary injunction against him on Oct. 23.

The injunction filed in Lincoln County restrains Ibrahim from threatening, intimidating, or harassing any Hondo employee and from coming onto the property without written authorization, District Judge Richard Parsons said.

Ibrahim and Frank Casey, Barbara Casey's husband, filed charges against each other following a violent confrontation on Oct. 14. Ibrahim filed charges against Casey for battery and criminal trespass. Casey filed charges against Ibrahim for battery. That case goes to court Nov. 21, Hawthorne said.

Students evaluate district, promote accreditation goals

Students will have writing portfolios

One of the Ruidoso School District's goals is to improve students' writing abilities. To this end, White Mountain Elementary Principal Frank Cannella and a committee of teachers are piloting a program to develop writing portfolios for children throughout their education, kindergarten through 12th grade.

Students may select one writing sample every nine weeks for the portfolio. Samples are not graded but show a child's growth in writing over the years, Cannella said.

"It's nice for parents to have," he said. "We hope it inspires kids to write more."

Cannella's committee is in the process of developing a rubric (scoring device that lists important elements of writing) to analyze student writing in a uniform way. This allows them to assess how a student is doing at each particular grade level, Cannella said.

Pre-testing students helps them decide what to work on (i.e. capitalization), and it helps parents focus on specific skills.

Ruidoso is the only district in the state developing a program like this, Cannella said.

"Nobody does this," he said. "It's really hard to get elementary and high school teachers to agree on the same rubric."

The Ruidoso School District gets an accreditation check-up this month from the North Central Association (NCA) Commission on Schools. The visiting accreditation team will evaluate how well the schools are meeting their goals for improvement set last year.

Before NCA gets here, though, Ruidoso High School is including four students in the self-evaluation process. Seniors Sneha Sharma, Somer Paxton and Pascal Enjady, and junior Gerald Gomez met Monday to start discussing how their school is doing. The students will also help school administrators design and evaluate future programs to fulfill district goals for improvement.

Last year the district's individual schools targeted two main areas for improvement: 1) to create a caring, learning environment based on mutual respect; and 2) to improve communications, teaching and learning, especially by using computers and writing across the curriculum.

Part of the first target area (caring for self and others) involves reducing the amount of discipline problems on campus. The new student court helps in this area, as does the respected presence of principal Ron Hodges, the students said.

Student court, a sentencing-by-peer process to punish students who break the rules, hears four to six cases a week and is an effective disciplinary tool, Somer Paxton said. Student court is the high school's form of student mediation and conflict resolution.

Paxton observed that one problem student court encounters is students who fail to carry out their sentence.

"There's a lack of initiative and responsibility to fulfill the punishment," she said. "We have lots of cases coming back through for not taking their punishment the first time."

"I saw a 100% improvement when Mr. Hodges came. Before he came there was no reason not to be in trouble."

SOMER PAXTON
RUIDOSO HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR

While students may not receive high marks for taking responsibility for their actions, the student committee agreed that Ruidoso High School is a much safer place when Ron Hodges is around.

"I saw a 100% improvement when Mr. Hodges came," Paxton said. "Before he came there was no reason not to be in trouble. Now he takes care of it."

"He's pretty powerful," Gerald Gomez said.

The students recalled their early high school experiences with daily fights in the halls, Satanic t-shirts, a student smoking area, and would-be gangs. Hodges' rule of zero tolerance for violence and his willingness to suspend violators has dramatically changed the atmosphere at school, the students said.

Under the district's second goal, improving communications education, the students reported spotty success. Of the four representatives, three said their experience with computers was adequate, and one felt less than prepared for college computer use.

The problem, Paxton suggested, is that the high school computer lab is a classroom and access is limited.

High school students Sneha Sharma, Somer Paxton, Gerald Gomez and Pascal Enjady (not pictured) gave principal Ron Hodges a glowing review as a disciplinarian. The students are helping evaluate the district's fulfillment of accreditation goals.

Gomez said he learned something in one computer class but the other was not good.

The students reported that writing across the curriculum has been successfully carried out at Ruidoso High School, requiring students to write papers in all their classes. In history class, the students write book reports and research papers on historical figures. Science classes require correctly written lab reports, and psychology requires research papers.

Ellie Keeton, the student group's coordinator and RHS librarian, said the school district now keeps a writing portfolio for each student, and the portfolio follows them from school to school as they advance through the grades (see sidebar).

The student representatives will be publicizing RHS's efforts to meet the district's accreditation goals. Art students have hung posters around school promoting respect and non-violence.

College Spanish class tours Lincoln's Hispanic history

Spanish 201 dug into local Hispanic history on a recent field trip to Lincoln with Eastern New Mexico University instructor Lynda Sanchez.

Established during the 1850s, Lincoln was originally an Hispanic settlement called Las Placitas del Rio Bonito, Sanchez told her class. Hispanic settlers moved here from Manzano and Albuquerque during the mid to late 1800s, and others came as refugees during and after the Mexican Revolution of 1910, she said.

The college Spanish class took a look at architecture, family history and even Billy the Kid from a Spanish perspective, Sanchez said. She led most of the discussion in Spanish so students could practice for future tours in Mexico, Spain or South America.

Students toured the Casa de Patron, now a bed and breakfast, but originally the home of prominent citizen Juan Patron. He was a major player during the Lincoln County War and was also the youngest member of the territorial Legislature, Sanchez said.

They also visited the Lincoln Heritage Trust Museum, the Tunstall store, the San Juan church, and the Montano Store and home.

To finish off the Hispanic culture experience, Sanchez invited students to her Lincoln home for a "comida mexicana" potluck. James Sanchez led students on a walk along historic streets and the Rio Bonito. Students' homework assignment was a two-page report on the tour, written in Spanish.

Optimists give a Head Start picnic

A Head Start student enjoys a hot dog and a balloon at the picnic sponsored by the Optimists.

The Ruidoso Optimist Club sponsored a picnic Friday for 94 families with children enrolled in the Lincoln County Head Start preschool program.

This year Head Start has 62 children in its Ruidoso class, 12 in Hondo and 20 in Capitan, said Head Start director Sylvia Wilson.

All of these families meet the low-income eligibility requirements of the federal program, Wilson said. Head Start prepares children ages 3-5 for kindergarten through playful learning.

The Optimists treated kids to face painting, balloons, and T-shirts they'll get to wear on field trips throughout the school year, Wilson said. The picnic is also an opportunity for families to socialize.

Children went home with special gift bags of crayons, scissors, pencils, rulers, erasers and other school supplies.

Several private Ruidoso businesses and individuals joined the Optimists in donating to this event.

Wilson said her Capitan class is most in need of assistance. The class had to give up its room at the Capitan elementary school because of a boom in first- and second-graders. The Head Start children are now housed at Capitan Country Store, Wilson said, and Smokey Bear Restaurant helps provide food. Wilson is working with Senator Pete Domenici to find a new facility, she said.

Parents can borrow college tuition out of life insurance policy

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Many parents consider life insurance a necessity. Now they can get college tuition insurance along with a life insurance policy — giving new meaning to the joke about spending their children's inheritance.

United Insurance Companies, Inc. (UICI) is guaranteeing $10 million of its assets to college-bound children in Lincoln County, offering secured loans of up to $50,000.

The El Paso/Southern New Mexico District of this insurance company is headquartered in El Paso, Texas and includes Lincoln County. The local College Fund Division agent is Gloria Pafford of Honda, a special education teacher for the Ruidoso Municipal School District. She is also a licensed life and health agent for the New Mexico Department of Insurance.

UICI will pre-commit a loan of up to $50,000 for the education of children 17 years old or younger when their parents sign up for a life insurance policy with UICI. The loan is secured because the insurance policy accrues cash value, Pafford said.

Parents essentially spend their children's inheritance by borrowing money the policy will eventually earn. Then they pay back the loan at an interest rate of 2% over prime, adjusted quarterly.

A federal student loan may offer a lower interest rate, Pafford said, but this year Congress committed less money for student loans than was available last year.

"We complement federal loans," Pafford said.

With two high school children of her own, Pafford was intrigued by UICI's private loan program, believing it sounded almost too good to be true. Having become an UICI agent, she believes this loan option helps out parents who can barely pay even a fraction of college expenses, and it expands a student's college options.

"And you know ahead of time how much you'll get," she said. "Federal loans have to be renewed every spring."

Parents may borrow $30,000 for a child's undergraduate college expenses, which includes tuition, books, and living expenses. Then they can borrow an additional $20,000 for graduate school. The total loan of $50,000 must be paid back, of course, but if parents keep the insurance policy, they should receive about a 70% return on their investment, Pafford said.

The cost of higher education goes up 8% every year, according to district manager Robert Azar.

"If one thinks education is expensive, try ignorance," Azar said. "Because of our billion dollars of assets we are able to make pre-commitment, non-collateralized loans to be used for higher education only."

This college funding program is unique in that there is no collateral required, Azar said. Lincoln County families need not worry about qualifying based on income, credit or need.

"The student and family only must have the desire for higher education," Pafford said.

For details about applying for a UICI college loan, call Gloria Pafford at 653-4132 or (800) 299-9222.

The College Fund Division of UICI is based in Norcross, Ga. The A+ rated NASDAQ holding company specializes in niche markets investments and serves Mid-West National Life Insurance Company of Tennessee and Mega Life & Health Insurance Company, officials said.

LINCOLN COUNTY SCRIPBOOK

A glimpse into Lincoln County's past, compiled from local newspapers by Polly E. Chavez.

Ruidoso News Nov. 1, 1946

Lincoln County Selective Service officials have been notified of the suspension from Oct. 15, 1946 to Jan. 1, 1947 of all inductions into the U.S. Army.

Miss Ruth Wassel of Statton School spent the weekend in Carlsbad visiting relatives.

Senator A.L. Dunn of Alamogordo and George Hightower of Ruidoso returned Tuesday from a hunting trip through the canyons on Mount Baldy and brought with them two fine bears they killed.

Sadie Hawkins Day will be observed at Mesalero on Friday, November 8.

Ruidoso's first fireplugs, six of them recently installed, have now been tested and are ready to serve the main business district.

OFFICIAL RECORDS

RUIDOSO MAGISTRATE COURT

The following information is taken from Ruidoso Magistrate Court records.

Ruidoso Magistrate Judge William Butts sent the criminal edge of a 34-year-old Ruidoso man to district court Tuesday after finding probable cause in the domestic violence charges against him.

The defendant, John S. Morytko of 111 Camel Wood Drive, allegedly assaulted his 26-year-old girlfriend, went after her with a large kitchen knife, and threw beer bottles at her as her 3-year-old daughter hid behind her leg Oct. 23, police said.

Morytko pleaded innocent to third-degree felony child abuse, fourth-degree felony aggravated assault against a household member and petty misdemeanor battery against a household member. The charges were filed against him Oct. 24 after his arrest.

Morytko is being held at the county jail on a $15,000 bond, but Butts is allowing a conditional release if Morytko can put up 10% of the money, or $1,500.

The adult victim told police that when she came home from work Oct. 23, Morytko, who was lounging on a chair, started accusing her of lying about money. He then left the residence, and when he came back a few hours later he was drinking beer and tequila.

He allegedly started arguing with the victim again, who said she didn't want to fight and retreated to a bedroom as Morytko allegedly started throwing chairs and tearing things off the wall. When she went back out into the living room he allegedly started throwing beer bottles and shot glasses at her while her little girl hid behind her leg. The girl suffered a small cut to one right finger from the flying, broken glass, and her mother suffered cuts and bruises to her right hand, police said.

Morytko also allegedly pushed her into a wall. He then allegedly took a large kitchen knife, followed the victim into the bedroom and slashed the waterbed, police said. He left the house before police were called, but was arrested by warrant the following day.

Morytko faces up to five years in jail and a $10,500 fine.

Warrior gridgers remain alive and kicking

by LAURA CLYMER

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Ruidoso football coach Les Carter said a quick start in Friday's district clash with Cobre would be one of the keys to a Warrior win.

Senior back Billy Rogge gave Ruidoso just what the coach ordered by opening the game with a 59-yard kickoff return. Rogge's return to the Indian 25-yard line set up Ruidoso's first of three first quarter touchdowns, and set the tone for the rest of the game.

The Warriors went on to post a 44-0 landslide victory and thus preserved their playoff hopes. Ruidoso, 4-5 overall and 2-1 in district, must beat Hot Springs Friday night to make the Class AAA playoffs.

"It was just a real team effort," Carter said.

The Warriors dominated on offense and on defense. Ruidoso limited the Indians to 39 yards in total offense, while the Warrior offense racked up 353 of its own yards.

"We played real sound on both sides of the ball. And this is the time we need to have those things happen," Carter said.

Ruidoso can lock up a bid to the post-season with a victory over Hot Springs Friday at Horizon Stadium. The Tigers fell to Santa Teresa, 42-28, in their district game.

"Everything is in our hands, and that's the way we want it," Carter added.

Ruidoso dominated Cobre in all aspects of the game. The Warriors had 18 first downs to the Indians' five. The Warriors rushed for 244 yards to the Indians' 21. The Warriors passed for 109 yards to the Indians' 28.

Cobre led Ruidoso in only two statistical categories: fumbles (two to zero) and punts (six to three).

The Warriors opened up its early 21-0 lead on two touchdown passes from sophomore quarterback Corey Saenz to senior tight end Erik Padilla. Running back Arthur Rojas scored his team-leading 15th touchdown to close out the Warriors' first quarter scoring.

"Our offensive line was just blowing them off the line," Carter said.

Beneficiary of the Warriors' effort on the line was junior fullback Brett Meyer, who led all players in rushing with 96 yards on 14 carries.

Getting in on the scoring act in the second half were Alex Eckert, Adrian Herrera and kicker Jimmy Stover, who knocked home a 41-yard field goal.

"It could have been a 62-yarder. He smoked it," Carter said of Stover's boot.

Spearheading the Warriors defensively were Arthur Miller with seven solo tackles and Matt Wharton with six of his own.

DRUMBEATS: Friday is the Warriors' final home game of the 1996 season and Parents Night as well. All parents should meet at 6:45 p.m. at the east end of the football field prior to Friday's game with Hot Springs. It looks like the Warriors won't be without the services of kicker Jimmy Stover Friday. Stover, who plays for Ruidoso's state-bound soccer team, plans to be at the Ruidoso-Hot Springs grid matchup. The Warrior soccer team plays in the Class A-AAA State Soccer Tournament beginning Thursday. If Ruidoso wins, it plays again Friday morning. Stover will drive down to the football game, if necessary.

Hustling Tigers dismiss Dexter for district crown

by LAURA CLYMER

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Hustle, determination, rowdy fans and a little help from above propelled the Capitan girls volleyball team to the District 6AA title in Dexter Saturday.

The Tigers defeated rival Dexter in a way that has become typical for Capitan, taking five games to dismiss the Demons 10-15, 15-12, 15-9, 4-15, 17-15.

"That was a great match. A great match for both teams," said a relieved and smiling Tiger coach, Bryan Massé, immediately afterwards. Watching his team celebrate on the floor, Massé then took a deep breath and shook his head in near disbelief.

As they have all season, the Tigers took the long road to the title. Capitan has become an expert in five-game matches, and that experience paid off Saturday, Massé said.

Tiger seniors Andra Fish and Joni Autrey agree.

"(When the score was tied) at 15-15, I wasn't a bit worried," said Autrey, who admitted she's usually the one biting her fingernails. "I don't know why, but I was smiling and laughing."

Fish also "knew" the Tigers were going to pull out the win.

"I knew pretty much knew when we came back on them and won the second and third games, and in the fifth when we tied it at 12," said the Tiger setter.

Capitan's hustle and timely rallies demoralized the young Demons.

After splitting the first two games, the Tigers fell behind early in the pivotal third game, trailing 6-0. But sparked by the arrival of a spirited group of Capitan football players, the Tiger girls started to rally. Capitan tied that game at six, exchanged points with Dexter until pulling away for a 15-9 win.

Dexter zoomed to an early lead in the fourth game, thanks to numerous Tiger passing and killing errors. But the Demons couldn't put away from Capitan as quickly as they hoped. The Tigers fought off five game points before finally succumbing, 15-4.

"I told them that even if we don't win the game, at least we're establishing some momentum for the next game," Massé said.

Ruidoso spikers and kickers enter final stretch

by LAURA CLYMER

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

It's now or never for two Ruidoso athletic teams starting today.

The Warrior girls volleyball team travels to Hot Springs for a 7 p.m. District 3AAA semifinal match with the Tigers. A victory continues the season for the Warriors, a loss ends it.

Coach Jauna Sanchez's troops are coming off a 15-6, 15-8, 15-10 quarterfinal win over Cobre Monday.

Mandi Lewallen paced the Warrior attack with 17 kills. Apryl Figueroa served nine service points in a row in the second game in the winning Ruidoso game.

The Warriors are now 9-9 overall.

The Tigers and Warriors have split two matches this year, but Ruidoso owns a 4-1 mark against Hot Springs over the last two years.

At stake is a trip to Silver City Saturday to face the Colts in the District 3AAA championship, and more importantly, a bid to the Class AAA State Volleyball Tournament Nov. 18-19 in Roswell.

Sanchez believes her girls have a mental edge over the talented Tigers, but they will need a quick start tonight to keep a leg up on the Tigers.

"If we can get them down from the beginning, we should be able to keep control of the game," Sanchez said. "It's just going to come down to us giving everything we've got."

Junior middle hitter/blocker Bailey Bishop is hobbled by a sprained ankle. Bishop had a career night against the Tigers Oct. 26. She led the Warriors to a 15-11, 15-10, 11-15, 18-14 victory. Bishop recorded 11 kills and nine blocks in that win.

The Warriors will need team effort and sound fundamental play, Sanchez added.

Kickers head to state

Ruidoso's soccer team makes its third straight appearance in the Class A-AAA State Soccer Tournament Thursday. Coach Sigurd Schmitz's Warriors are District 3AAA champs and have a nifty 12-4 record.

The Warriors play Moriarty, 4-0 winners over Pojoaque in Monday's preplayoff match.

Unlike Ruidoso's two previous appearances, this year's bracket seems to favor the Warriors. The Warriors don't have to play a top Albuquerque team in the first round.

Additionally, should the Warriors win Thursday, they meet the winner of Sandia Prep and Bernabillo. Sandia Prep upset Albuquerque Academy in its district championship, sending one of the state's top teams to the lower bracket.

"Our first two years we had a better skilled team, but we didn't get the good bracket," said senior Warrior Piper Adamian.

Adamian and classmate Jimmy Stover lead the young Warriors. Stover is the state's top Class AAA scorer, followed by Adamian.

First-year coach Schmitz is not looking beyond Moriarty in the least.

"I just want to take it one game at a time because they've always gone up there real confident and lost in the first round," Schmitz said.

Both Adamian and Stover had their doubts at the start of the season. They had a new coach and lots of new teammates, including a bevy of eighth-graders.

"There's a bunch of hidden talent (in the underclassmen), and they haven't discovered it yet, but I sure have found it," Stover said of his younger teammates.

The season has been a pleasant surprise for Adamian, who considered transferring to Alamogordo High School for his senior year.

"We've not only surprised a lot of people, but also ourselves," Adamian said.

Schmitz said the Warriors worked on their conditioning last week, running nearly four miles a day in practices. The last three days Ruidoso has reviewed its fundamentals.

What will be Schmitz's advice when his team takes the field at 9 a.m. Thursday?

"Leave it all on the field," he said. "Walk off with no regrets."

Adamian's advice to his teammates is similar.

"I'm going to ask the eighth-graders to play like it's their last game," he said.

Vixens sweep past Grizzlies in districts

A determined Fort Sumner volleyball team reclaimed the District 3A title with a 15-7, 15-9, 15-10 victory over Carrizozo Saturday.

The Vixens, who lost the district championship to the Grizzlies last year, wouldn't be denied this time.

"We'd get up on them, and then with our inexperience, we'd fall behind," Carrizozo coach Kim (Gremillion) Padilla said. "We just looked young out there."

The loss doesn't keep the Grizzlies out of the regional tournament. The top two teams from a district automatically advance to regional play.

Carrizozo takes on Hagerman in Hagerman at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. Fort Sumner will play Mesilla Valley Christian in the other Region D semifinal.

Pain may be eliminated for millions
 (SPECIAL) -- A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Two-thirds of the way through the deciding game, the Tigers found themselves behind 12-8. Junior Coye Robbins stepped to the service line, delivered two unreturnable serves for points, and suddenly the Tigers were back in the match. Monica Johnson pounded a kill off a Dexter block for Capitan's 11th point, and with it the momentum swung to the Orange and Black. The Tigers then tied the game on a killing error by the Demons.

Dexter regained some of its composure while the two teams traded points. The Demons got to match point on Anna Miles' ace. Massé called a timeout to freeze the sophomore outside hitter. The strategy worked, and Miles missed her serve.

Capitan tied the match and went ahead 15-14 on a Robbins kill. Shana Finch's kill knotted the game at 15 for Dexter.

Enter the little help from above.

The Demons sent a devilish serve over the net to Capitan's Ann Holt. Holt got her arms on the serve, but it was an errant pass to the net.

Fish went after it and said a little prayer as she dug it out of the net.

"I said, 'Please lord, don't let the ref call me for lifting,'" Fish recalled.

The ref didn't. And Fish's play allowed teammate Joni Autrey to keep the ball in play. Autrey hit the volleyball over the net. The play caught a Dexter defense off guard. The Tigers earned a sideout with their hustle.

"We tried to take something off the ball. We were just trying to place the ball and keep it in play."

BRYAN MASSE
CAPITAN VOLLEYBALL COACH

It was Robbins' turn to serve and, like she had for most of the match, she sent a pair of tough serves over the net. The Tigers turned them into points for the match and then turned to each other in celebration.

"It's getting tougher. Cloudercroft gave us fits all year and Tularosa was much improved," Massé said of his team's district triumph.

The second-year Tiger coach was especially pleased that Capitan was able to go to Dexter and beat the Demons in their gym.

Upon reflection, both teams played rather conservatively, Massé concluded.

"We tried to take something off the ball. We were just trying to place the ball and keep it in play," Massé said.

"We missed a few too many serves. We can play better. We made some mistakes in defensive coverage, but any way you can find a win, a 'W,' that's OK," he said.

The 12-6 Tigers host the Region G Tournament Saturday. Capitan starts the action with an 11 a.m. match against Animas. Dexter plays Hatch Valley at 1 p.m.

The Panthers are scrappy, Massé said. They double block well and have a solid middle hitter, but they have some internal strife as well.

"That (internal problems) can make you look a lot worse than you are," Massé said. "They are very capable of putting together a good match."

"When you get this far it really comes down to who is going to make the least mistakes...Basically you get back to serving and passing and if you do those two things well, you're in good shape," he added.

Cloudercroft capitalizes on Capitan miscues

by LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Like a bad penny, turnovers keep turning up for the Capitan Tiger football team.

The Tigers gave away the pigskin three times to rival Cloudercroft Saturday, and the Bears capitalized twice en route to a 28-6 victory over Capitan for the District 3A crown.

"Mentally, we forgot to get off the bus," said Tiger coach Ed Davis, whose team was haunted earlier in the season by fumbles.

"Maybe I put too much pressure on them — it's Cloudercroft, it's for the district championship. Gosh..." Davis added with disbelief in his voice.

The outcome improved the Bears to 7-3 overall, and dropped the Tigers to 4-5, snapping a three-game Capitan winning streak.

The Tigers' mental miscues encompassed more than their three turnovers.

"We didn't tackle well and we didn't block at all. And that's mental," Davis said.

The Bears took advantage of Capitan right from the start. On their second play from scrimmage, Cloudercroft's Josh Colson ran around the outside 51 yards for the Bears' first score. It was a play that the Tigers had practiced defending all week.

"Cloudercroft was ready to go mentally," Davis said. "They took it to us. Their offensive line whipped us up and down the field."

Cloudercroft also had help from the Tigers, who fumbled on consecutive possessions in the second quarter. Both resulted in Bear touchdowns for a 20-0 lead with 3:24 left in the first half.

The Tigers threatened only once in the first half and that came late. But a Bear interception ended that threat, and the home team headed into the lockerroom with a three-touchdown lead.

The Bears closed out their scoring on yet another Tiger miscue. Cloudercroft blocked a Capitan punt early in the third quarter, recovering the ball on the Tiger 6-yard line. Josh Turnage ran it in for a 28-0 Cloudercroft lead.

Senior quarterback Steve Wilson accounted for the lone Tiger score, a 5-yard scamper early in the fourth quarter.

Capitan will try to regroup in time for its first-round football playoff game at 2 p.m. Saturday in Texico. The Tigers take on the Wal-verines, a pack they've already lost to earlier in the season. Texico downed Capitan 28-14, thanks to five Tiger turnovers.

Despite the loss to rival Cloudercroft, Davis remained optimistic.

"I still think this young bunch can put it together," he said.

PET CORNER

These pets are currently up for adoption at Lincoln County Humane Society
Call 257-9841

Que, an eight-month-old whippet/chihuahua mix, is full grown at nearly 10 pounds. The friendly little guy is house broken and likes other dogs and children. With short hair, little grooming would be required. He's a real jewel.

Tawny is a charming young female cat with long hair and gray and brown tabby markings. She's sweet and loving, a perfect cat for a family or for an owner who would give her back in care what she gives in loyalty and affection.

Sometimes people think that they shouldn't have to pay for abandoned animals that need homes.

They criticize the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter for requiring shots and neutering.

"The shelter performs only responsible adoptions to ensure to the limit of its power that animals are placed in adequate, caring homes, and provided the things necessary to live a normal, healthy life," Shelter Administrator Jim Riggins said in explaining the Society's stance.

"These conditions are assured through the use of legally-binding contracts, follow-up and prepaid fees. We feel that at a minimum, all new animals should see a veterinarian for a full examination to ensure good health and to detect developing illness. Each pet should be given a course of full spectrum Parvo/distemper or feline vaccinations to prevent deadly disease.

"We feel that every pet must be spayed or neutered to stop the tragic waste of life in America, where our shelters kill 20 million unwanted animals each year. Enough homes are not available to match the rate at which unwanted animals are being born."

State law also requires rabies vaccination for dogs and cats, he said.

"All of our adoptable animals are previously unwanted and a majority were abandoned, so we feel these mandates are very necessary," Riggins said. "The Society, through the generous support of our local veterinarians, will provide all of these services and a license for $65 for a female dog. Males are $10 less."

A telephone survey of local veterinary rates for non-Society animals showed that the average charge to spay a 45-pound female dog was $58.16; the office visit was $23.22; the Parvo-distemper shot, $12.50; and the rabies shot, $6.83, for a total of $100.83. A Humane Society dog would be $36 less than even a "free to good home" dog.

Some people argue it's not necessary to give shots or spay.

"We explain these are inflexible minimums and sometimes potential adopters walk away for financial reasons," Riggins said. "These encounters sometimes also prompt the question that is the acid test of our moral resolve.

"You would rather see the animal dead than leave it with me unvaccinated and unspayed?" the person asks. We have the tragic and lonely job of looking them straight in the eye and saying, "Yes."

Night Driving and Glare

When driving at night do you have problems with annoying glare from oncoming traffic? Do the lights in your place of business or from your computer cause a reflection or a glare? If you answered yes to either one of these questions Anti-Reflective Coating on your glasses may be the answer for you.

Anti-Reflective Coating is a special coating put on your lenses that helps to eliminate glare and reflections and allows up to 99% of the light to reach your eyes. Even if you don't wear glasses you can get lenses with no prescription on them and add the Anti-Reflective Coating just to help you with the glare of driving or office work. Call 257-5029 or drop in at Family Vision Center and speak to any one of our friendly staff members. They can answer any questions you may have on Anti-Reflective Coating.

THE GREAT WAR
and the Shaping of the 20th Century

Sarajevo erupts in violence; Germany seeks new power in Europe; Russia rocks in turmoil; new technology transforms industry and daily life; economic hardship prompts unrest among working people; and women staunchly demand equal rights. While this description summarizes many current events, strikingly similar circumstances existed in 1914 when the world was plunged into World War I. The Great War and the Shaping of the 20th Century is a new eight-hour documentary series that reveals the impact and importance of World War I.

Five years in the making, The Great War is the first TV production to go beyond the military and political history of World War I to reveal its ongoing social, cultural, and personal impact. It is also the first major documentary produced about the war in over 30 years.

The Great War introduced the use of chemical weapons. The term "homefront" originated with this war, as civilians became targets of aerial bombardment; everyone became a soldier, one way or another. World War I was also the first war ever to be fully documented on film, and it inspired the use of propaganda that told people what to think, what to do, even what to eat. The war took a terrible step further when ethnic and national hatred against Armenia mushroomed into the century's first genocide.

By the end of the war in 1918, nine million people were dead — including 52,000 Americans who died on Europe's battlefields. More than 21 million others were injured in body or spirit. Europe was in shambles, and many Americans retreated into isolationism. World War I laid the groundwork for another world war just 21 years later, and irrevocably formed the character of the 20th century. Yet today, as the 21st century approaches, many old issues are still unresolved or arising anew. There are few Americans who remember — and even fewer who understand — this most pivotal event of our time.

Actors featured as characters central to the series are Ned Beatty, Timothy Bottoms, Nastassja Kinski, Helen Mirren, Liam Neeson, Martin Sheen, and others.

A large cast of leading actors also lend their voices to the characters who shaped the time. Among them: Leslie Caron (Czarina Alexandra); Ralph Fiennes (Wilfred Owen); Louis Gossett, Jr. (W.E.B. Du Bois); Jeremy Irons (Siegfried Sassoon); Martin Landau (Woodrow Wilson); Jean Stapleton (Mrs. Edith [Woodrow] Wilson); and Michael York (Robert Graves).

The Great War and the Shaping of the 20th Century will be broadcast Sunday through Wednesday, November 10th—13th at 8:00 p.m. on KENW-TV.
