Bond release study ordered on accused Hondo murderer

A bond release study was ordered Friday by District Judge Richard Parsons in the murder case against Hondo Valley resident Steve Hernandez.

The study, which examines a defendant's past, is performed by local parole and probation staff.

The 33-year-old rancher is accused of killing horse trainer Jim Hare with a sledgehammer Oct. 5 at a roping arena next to U.S. 380.

More than 50 people attended the hearing in Carrizozo to testify on Hernandez' behalf, Parsons said. His family and attorney Gary Mitchell are seeking his release, contending he would not be a danger to others and would not flee the area.

But Parsons said since Ruidoso Magistrate Judge didn't set a bond at an October hearing, where Butts determined there was enough evidence to send the murder case to district court, a bond release study was needed.

Texas man critical after car accident

An Irving, Texas, man remained in critical condition Monday after the car he was riding in rolled over on U.S. 380 west of Carrizozo.

Phyllis Cane, 56, was driving a rented Ford van east on U.S. 380 early Friday when she tried to avoid some deer on the road. The van rolled twice, according to State Police Officer Mike Ramirez.

Her husband, Joseph, 58, was airlifted to University Hospital in Albuquerque. He was in the surgical intensive care unit Monday.

Accidents between deer or other wildlife and cars, especially at night, are common along New Mexico highways, police said. To avoid collisions, authorities caution drivers to take it slow, keep lights on high beam when possible and be alert to movement on the side of roads.

Controlled burns cause smoky skies

Smoke wafting through Ruidoso area skies Monday came from controlled burns on the Mescalero Apache Reservation.

The burning, conducted by the Bureau of Indian Affairs Forestry Division, will last through the holidays, officials said.

Return of timber cutting helps environment, forest official says

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The reopening of the Lincoln National Forest to timber cutting will benefit the Ruidoso area environmentally more than economically, a district ranger said Monday.

"We have about 30 people around here who cut firewood commercially, and that income is pretty important to some of them," said Jerry Hawkes with the Smokey Bear District.

"But I hope from an environmental standpoint, that these people who called themselves environmentalists realize they're doing more damage to the environment than anyone else (by pushing for forests to be closed to timber cutting)," he said. "They need to understand that we use these fuel cutters, who also get economic gain, to improve the forest and everyone wins when that happens. They seem to have decided that anything that is commercial is bad."

A tree cutting ban was imposed on 11 national forests in New Mexico and Arizona in August 1995.

The lawsuit that resulted in the ban was filed by environmental groups to protect the habitat of the threatened Mexican spotted owl.

U.S. District Court Judge Roger Strand removed the ban Dec. 5 after the U.S. Forest Service submitted a biological opinion to the court. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service helped write it.

The court agreed that the opinion contained all of the elements required in the Endangered Species Act.

"We will proceed with full management of the forest," said Merle Glenn, public information officer in the Alamogordo administration office. "A number of projects that were resolved through negotiations proceeded, while those that may have adversely affected the spotted owl were held in abeyance until the 16-month injunction was lifted."

Although environmental groups have threatened to file more lawsuits, rangers in the forest's three districts of Guadalupe, Smokey Bear and Sacramento are moving ahead on:

— starting several small timber sales;

Capitan teachers seek resignation of board member

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Capitan teachers association called Monday for the resignation of school board member Freda McSwane.

Speaking for the Capitan Association of Classroom Teachers (CACT), Dottie Mac Veigh said the members believe that on more than one occasion, McSwane overstepped her duties and violated the board's code of ethics by ignoring the chain of command and intervening on behalf of a student.

The most recent incident involves an allegation that in October a middle school female student struck a female teacher. At the school board meeting in November, board members unanimously voted to modify the discipline recommended for the student by the principal and Supt. Diana Billingsley.

The teachers association called for a special school board meeting Monday to air their objections to the decision.

McSwane, wife of out-going Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane, said Tuesday she would review the association's statements and use them to evaluate her performance as a school board member.

"The CACT is a professional organization and I feel I personally, along with the board, am going to take a strong look at what they said," McSwane said. "I think CACT is like a check and balance, and the board and I will look closely at what they said."

"I think any elected official always wants to make sure that they are maintaining integrity in what they do, and if there are things that I need to take a look at personally, then I will, of course, do that. That is the way you can evaluate yourself and become a better person and board member."

She declined to comment on any specific allegations by the CACT or parents.

During the Monday meeting, parent Rene Cupit said the fact that the child's parent is a law enforcement officer may have prompted McSwane to become involved.

The parent, who has contended his daughter only bumped the teacher, appealed the original discipline to the school board.

Middle School Principal Bill Mac Veigh, husband of CACT president Dottie Mac Veigh, and Billingsley had recommended the student be given out-of-school suspension for six days and then be barred from all athletics for the rest of the school year.

New law takes guns from domestic violence offenders

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A new federal law prohibits anyone convicted of misdemeanor domestic violence from owning a gun — including police.

And because the law is retroactive to 1968, an officer or civilian who struck or threatened a family member 28 years ago can legally lose their right to have a firearm.

About 400 calls of domestic violence were received by Lincoln County law enforcement officers this year alone, police say, and the majority of suspects have firearms in their homes.

But just how far local police will go to enforce the law remains to be seen.

"We're going to enforce it to some degree, but we're not going to confiscate guns retroactively," said Ruidoso police chief Lanny Maddox. "I'm in total disagreement to it being retroactive to 1968 and feel it infringes on citizens' constitutional rights."

When in Albuquerque this week, Maddox said he plans to ask Attorney General Tom Udall for his opinion on the new law.

Ruidoso police received 146 calls reporting domestic violence so far this year. A large percentage of those offenders also own firearms, Maddox suggested, although his department hasn't surveyed how many are actual gun owners.

Ruidoso Downs Police Chief David Hightower estimates his department receives about 10 calls about domestic violence each month.

"Probably a majority of those (involved in the calls) own a gun," Hightower said. "Most households in this area have a gun in them, whether it's their granddad's old hunting rifle or some other firearm."

The same goes for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office. Sheriff James McSwane said there were about 150 calls reporting domestic violence this year, and gun owners were involved in about 125 of those incidents.

Tracking misdemeanor convictions of gun owners is an "unrealistic burden," McSwane said, because most often the domestic violence incident took place somewhere else and the deputies have to deal with the arresting agency.

McSwane won't direct deputies to go after those with prior convictions because "we're already undermanned," he said.

"We'll do a background investigation as far as the NCIC goes (National Crime Information computer), but as far as doing additional research mandated by the federal government — they can worry about it," said Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane.

The NCIC reveals whether a subject is a felon, and that's as far as the sheriff's office will do research, McSwane said. If felons are found to have guns, they'll be arrested because it's illegal for a felon to possess a firearm.

However, unless the domestic violence perpetrator committed aggravated battery or assault, the conviction is a misdemeanor.

Maddox said his department will seize the weapons of future convicted offenders, but will not go about researching gun ownership by past domestic violence offenders unless they're felons.

In the past when Ruidoso officers responded to domestic violence calls, they seized weapons in open view or those suspected of being involved in the violence, said detective Wolfgang Born. They will continue to take those weapons away.

Until told otherwise, however, they will not search the premises for a firearm unless it's part of the complaint, he said. And in the past, it has been up to the judge whether weapons are returned, he said.

But now, the seized firearms will automatically become property of the state and, after a motion is signed by the district court, the police will destroy the guns, Maddox said.

Local officers affected?

To the best of his knowledge, Maddox added, not one of the Ruidoso officers has been arrested for domestic violence.

"That's attributed to our doing a thorough background check on them (before hiring)," he said.

McSwane also said he doesn't believe any of his deputies' jobs will be lost by the new law, "but I understand there's concern statewide that it will impact some of the officers."

Hightower said his department hasn't officially received the new law yet, so he is not ready to comment on how his department will enforce it. However, he is aware of it, having seen a copy sent to the sheriff's office, he said.

No federal funds

Local departments were notified last week of the new law, which amends the gun control act of 1968, by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. ATF spokesman Brian Burns said it caught many agencies by surprise after Congress tacked it into a federal spending bill in late September.

"Congress makes the laws, we just enforce them," Burns said.

The repercussions for failure to fully enforce the act remain unclear, he said.

No federal funds are provided to local police departments or any agencies to enforce the new law, Burns said. So if police search conviction records for domestic violence offenders who also own weapons, local municipalities will have to foot the bill.

"There's still issues we have to work out so we have an equitable, fair enforcement policy," Burns said.

— asking for bids on timber thinning projects;

— preparing commercial fuelwood sales;

— completing prescribed burns to reduce fuel for wildfires;

— targeting hazardous trees to be cut on power line corridors;

— and thinning trees at places for motorists to see vistas.

"We will be improving the health and sustainability of the forest by concentrating on such things as thinning dead and diseased trees from the forest," said Forest Supervisor Jose Martinez. "Our major goal is to protect the urban/wildland interface (where forests and communities join) from catastrophic fire."

Ruidoso abuts the national forest in the Smokey Bear District and constitutes one of the urban/wildland areas, Hawkes said.

The forest around the community is plagued by bark beetles and dwarf mistletoe and has become too heavily forested, creating a fire risk to homes, he said.

"By opening some more (commercial) sales, besides the economic advantages, we use the sales to improve the watershed condition and wildlife habitat," Hawkes said. "It doesn't cost us anything. We sell the wood. Right now, the trees are so thick the land is deteriorating."

Local thinning contractors also are required to thin trees too small to be useful for fuelwood, Hawkes said.

"They have that added expense in their contracts," Hawkes said. "It doesn't do them any good, so we normally do the sales for a little less (charge) to get a better job."

While the ban was in place, some fuelwood cutters found private landowners who wanted trees downed. The district office also planned ahead and received court approval to allow work on several fuelwood tracts, Hawkes said.

"We were thinking (the ban) would only last a short while," Hawkes said. "We were cautious and we put down a lot of fuelwood sales for court approval where it wouldn't have any impact on spotted owls. We had quite a list approved by the court and those kept us going quite a bit."

"There were some areas we couldn't sell because we had no idea it would go this long."

The ban also interfered with some wildlife projects, he said.

"We couldn't do one 1,000-acre burn in our Carrizo demonstration area (where management techniques are tested)," Hawkes said. "We lost out in November 1996, because it was under injunction and then again this year, because they didn't list it (with the court) soon enough before it snowed."

"Eventually, we'll get it done if we ever get the right burning conditions."

Christmas Extravaganza plays at The Castle theater this Friday

by FANELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso Little Theater is hosting a choral Christmas Extravaganza at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 13 at The Castle on Highway 70. Choirs from three churches and a bevy of local talent will perform traditional Christmas favorites and secular holiday songs.

Organized by RLT board members Apache Spirit and Steve Norbury, the show promises to be an uplifting evening of Ruidoso voices and music. Along with the Eastern New Mexico University Choir and two Ruidoso High School choirs, the collection of church choirs will top off the show with Handel's "Hal-lelujah Chorus.

Church choirs at The Castle will be from First Christian Church, First Baptist Church, and Holy Mount Episcopal Church. Ruidoso High School is sending the Warrior Chorale and the Orphic Chamber Choir, directed by Nate Kruse. Kruse will also direct the ENMU Choir that evening.

On the list of local talent is vocalist Debra Funke d'Egnuff, guitarist Eddie Hedin, and former Mountain Music performers Luanna, Wayne and Roger Ellison. Soloists Stan and Sandy Thomas, and Evelyn W. Jenkins will also perform. Pianist Donna Willard will accompany the high school choirs, the Episcopalian and First Christian choirs, and Funke d'Egnuff.

Cloggers from Nancy Shaver's dance group will give a special performance as well.

Tickets are $5 for adults, and children age 12 and younger get in free. Hot wassail and treats will be served after the show, and guests are invited to bring their favorite Christmas desserts to share.

"We would like to make this our first annual music benefit for RLT," Apache Spirit said.

The community theater group is raising money to pay for The Castle, its new home.

'Michael Collins' is worth the money

by EMMETT DOWNES

Special Review for The News

The film "Michael Collins" starring Liam Neeson, Julia Roberts and Aidan Quinn opened at the Sierra Cinema in Ruidoso on Friday, Dec. 6 and closes Thursday, Dec. 12. If it's nail-biting action you crave based on historical fact along with a haunting musical soundtrack, you are urged to see this film.

Neeson, best remembered for his starring roles in "Schindler's List" and "Rob Roy," portrays the life and times of the legendary Michael Collins, who brought the British government to its knees in Ireland. This ultimately led to the creation of the Irish Republic.

In his capacity as the leader and founder of the underground Irish Republican Army, Collins was the father of guerrilla warfare tactics that became the role model in later years for rag-tag forces around the world seeking to throw off the shackles of colonial imperialism.

The motion picture itself is an action-packed effort filmed mostly in Ireland at the actual sites of many of the historic events in and around Dublin. Julia Roberts portrays the true romantic interest and Aidan Quinn is the third element of the love triangle between the three main characters.

Note: A must-read book on the subject is "The Man Who Made Ireland: The Life and Death of Michael Collins."

Local Irish radio show host Emmett Downes will host a special viewing of "Michael Collins" at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 11 at the Sierra Cinema in Ruidoso.

The first 25 people in the theater will receive complimentary copies of an actual reproduction of the memorial issue of the 1922 "Free State" commemorating the murder of Michael Collins. Downes will also give away copies of "Irish Eyes," a Phoenix-based Irish-American newspaper.

Downes hosts the "Harp and Shamrock Fiesta" at 10 a.m. to noon every Saturday on KBUY-AM and KWES-FM.

does not allow parents to contest out-of-school suspensions, but he objected to the suspension from athletic activities.

The board last month changed that portion of the discipline. They barred the girl from all extra-curricular activities through Jan. 1 and said she must complete 20 hours of community services to be determined by her principal. If that portion of the discipline is not fulfilled, the original athletic suspension for the full school year will be reinstated.

Sitting in on the special meeting Monday was Frank Albetta of the Simons, Cuddy and Friedman law firm in Albuquerque that represents the school board.

He reminded those in the audience the student's name should not be used during the meeting, because it would violate the girl's right to privacy.

"The board is not here to rehash this particular case," he said. "That's been decided. I recommend that your comments be forward-looking rather than how things were done in the past."

Teachers who spoke tried to stay within those boundaries, but parents said they were disappointed in the board's actions and said they had lost confidence.

Parent Ed Vinson said the three school board members who were elected two years ago "made a promise to us in public and print that you would not be involved in the day-to-day operation of the system, yet you jump right in the middle."

The board's actions showed a lack of commitment to the school system and lack of backing for its administrators, he said.

The role of the board is to make policy, and hire and fire the administrators who carry out policy, Vinson said.

But Albetta said state statutes also require the board to establish disciplinary procedures, and members do not have the right to refuse to review disciplinary decisions that are contested by parents.

"How they exercise that responsibility can be open to question by teachers and citizens," he said.

Cupit said the board should have called staff members into the executive session when it was considering changing the discipline.

"I understand that you can overturn your administration, but (the way it was done) showed a lack of respect or confidence," she said. "It has undermined the authority of the staff."

McSwane should have removed herself from the discussion and decision, because of her husband's relationship with the parent as his employer, Cupit said.

Citing three rules from the state Board of Education prohibiting school boards from becoming involved in administrative matters, Mac Veigh said the chain of command should be followed in discipline protests: first the teacher, then the principal, then the superintendent and last, the board.

"When we are told a board member wants to know (something about a student situation), it means that the board member is not sending a parent through the chain," she said, adding that situation leads to misinformation and accusations.

"We realize that everyone can make a mistake," she said. "It must be difficult for a board member to tell a friend or relative they must talk to the teacher first, but this is what they were elected to do."

In calling for McSwane's resignation, Mac Veigh said association members and others think McSwane has interrupted the command chain on several occasions.

"The board member has violated the board's state duties and its own code of ethics of New Mexico school board members," she said.

School Board Chair Beverly Payne-Calaway said Tuesday she had no comment on the situation.

After a closed-to-the-public executive session Monday, board members said they will draft a written response to the CACT, but did not specify when the letter would be sent.

Sampling of teacher remarks at Capitan School Board meeting

Remarks from teachers during Monday's special meeting of the Capitan Classroom Teachers Association included:

"I've worked in big school systems where teachers don't feel safe at work," said teacher Tiffany Menix. "This was supposed to be my safe place and I'm wondering if that's in question."

"If rules are on paper they should be followed to the tee for each and every student alike," said retired teacher Angie Provino. "I feel sports is a privilege, not a right," said teacher/assistant coach Kimberly Jose. "Participation is earned by good behavior."

"In the future, if the board disagrees with a policy I've made, I'd appreciate a person-to-person conversation as a courtesy," said Becca Ferguson, principal of the elementary school. "It's only fair for an administrator to know what you expect."

the board's action tells students and parents they don't have to abide by the rules if they complain to the board, said physical education teacher Cheryl Bowman. "It doesn't create a comfortable environment to work in and ensures that such incidents will occur again," she said.

the board needs to support its teachers and administrators and not make decisions that divide the community, said teacher Todd Proctor.

Light up the town

Several businesses and residents have answered the call to compete with their Christmas lights this season, and we couldn't be happier.

There's something about a downtown lit up with colorful Christmas lights that really puts you in the holiday mood. And it's fun to seek out segments of residential areas with rows of well-lit homes.

Even if you're not competing in the Ruidoso-area contest, you have plenty of time to get into the holiday spirit with outdoor Christmas decor and lights. One look at the village's newly-lit School House Park shows how beautiful a display can be. Many local businesses are selling unique decorations, too.

Many of us here at The Ruidoso News couldn't resist buying trees at our Sierra Blanca Festival of Trees last weekend, and lights are popping up on desks throughout the office. It makes work more fun, too.

Let's see how many lights we can put up in this town. If enough people do it, the lights alone would become a tourist attraction.

Illegitimate male children more involved in crime

TO THE EDITOR:

Men who are born out of wedlock live an average of 50 years while men legitimately born who don't smoke live an average of 80 years. This is proven using data from issues of the Statistical Abstract of the United States.

70% of all prisoners come from fatherless homes. 65% of those arrested for serious non-drug crimes test positive for drug use.

About 15% of men born out of wedlock who are between the ages of 18 and 54 are in jail. Only about 1/2 of 1% of those legitimately born of that age group are in jail. Roughly 10% of all males born illegitimately are murdered.

At current rates about 10% of men born illegitimately have died from or will die of aids. Suicide, accidental death, and death from other causes are also much higher for this group of men.

Some of our states still have a murder rate of 1 to 2 per 100,000 people per year - while some of our cities with the highest murder rates have a murder rate of 50 to 75 per 100,000 per year. This merely reflects those states had illegitimacy rates of about 2% while the cities with the highest murder rates had illegitimacy rates of about 50% or greater 20 years ago.

Anyone doubting the above items should go to the library and check out pages 21, 44-46, 77, 99, 140, 200-202, 207, 217, and 852 of the 1995 Statistical Abstract and review those items in the older Abstracts for the long-term trends.

THE DREAMER

Friend reunites friends after 64 years

Funeral Services for Herbert Lee Traylor

Services were held Dec. 6 at the Trinity Southern Baptist Church in Capitan for Herbert Lee Traylor, beloved pioneer educator and historian, who was called home by our Lord on Dec. 2.

The Reverend Floyd Goodloe read Psalm number 91: "He shall call upon me and I will answer Him; I am with him in trouble. I will rescue him and bring him to honor. With long life will I satisfy him and show him my salvation."

Rev. Goodloe also read from the letter of the Apostle Paul to the Ephesians: "For by grace we are saved by faith, and not of ourselves: it is the gift of God. For we are his workmanship created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God has before ordained that we should walk in them."

The Graham Brothers sang "Amazing Grace" and "The Old Rugged Cross."

Pallbearers were Jay Eldridge, Stanley Hair, Kyle Traylor, Richy Vinyard, Vance Traylor, and Stanley Vinyard. Honorary pallbearers were: Bob Harkrow, Bill Edgar, Preston Stone, Benny Dalton, Red Burnett, Ralph Barber, J.C. Harris, Johnson Stearns, Bonnie Nichols, Gerald Dean, Jack Eldridge, Hollis Cummins and Lee Schweitzer.

Speaking of the large crowd at the services, the Reverend Mr. Goodloe said, "This was a well-deserved tribute to a beloved man."

The life of Herbert Lee Traylor will always remain a blessing in our lives, and we rejoice that our dear friend has been re-united with loved ones who have gone on before to be with our Lord in Heaven.

After 64 Years
On Dec. 6, Ernest McDaniel called up to tell me that a mutual friend and former fellow student at the university had come in from California. I went down and here was Stanley Irvine, whom I had not seen since 1932 when we were students at the University of Texas.

Stanley is remarkably well-preserved and I would have recognized him, even after all these years. Ernest had not seen this friend of ours for 40 years.

Stanley was captain of the first swimming team at the university in 1932. The team won the conference championship that year and Stanley and Ernest were teammates. Ernest also was a member of the team the following two years, in which they won the conference championship.

After graduation Stanley went from the water to the air and became a flier during World War II with the Army Transport Command carrying army personnel, including wounded soldiers, and military supplies.

He flew from Thule on the northern tip of Greenland to the most remote regions of the Pacific.

Later he was an airline pilot for 3 years. It was great visiting with Stanley Irvine after all those years and I appreciate the kindness of Ernest in letting me know Stanley had arrived at his home.

to Joseph Layne Southard

Joseph Layne Southard, young son of Chet and Leeann Southard, will soon celebrate his first birthday. He was born last year on the day of the second snow of the year.

Therefore, his grandmother Cheryl Southard, following a custom of her grandfather of giving his children Indian names, gave Joseph Layne Southard the Indian name of Joseph Two Snows.

We wish this fine little fellow many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

The Irish Troubador

After enjoying his Harp and Shamrock Fiesta for some time I had the good fortune to meet the Irish Troubador himself, Emmett Daniel Downes.

He and editor Joanna Dodder were at the moment talking about me when I walked in - sort of like "Speak of the devil and he'll appear."

What we used to call personal magnetism, and now called charisma, comes echoing through the radio. Then when you meet him personally you find that his joy of life, and his regard for his fellow man overflows, spreading good will all around.

You feel you have known him all your life. He honors and appreciates his Irish heritage. In fact, he is named after the Irish patriot, Robert Emmett.

That is what Emmett Daniel Downes is: a patriot. He served our country in World War II and today he is in the forefront of workers for traditional American and Christian values.

Long live the land of the harp and shamrock, and the Irish troubadour.

Game commission changes license fees

The State Game Commission has made it easier for hunters to apply for big game and special draw hunts.

Hunters need to submit only the $6 nonrefundable application fee when applying for 1997-98 hunts. The change will apply for all applications for public-land elk and antelope licenses, for oryx, ibex, bighorn sheep and javelina licenses, and for deer entry permits.

The new license purchase structure will remove a financial burden for many families. It will also simplify the process for hunters and the Game and Fish Department, Game and Fish Department Director Jerry Maracchini stated in a press release.

"One of the most common reasons for rejecting hunt applications has always been wrong amounts of money sent with the application," Maracchini stated. "If you add the further complications of having five elk license fees for three different bag limits, you just add confusion. We're hoping this change will simplify the application procedure for everyone."

Unsuccessful applicants will no longer have to wait for refunds either.

The procedure for special hunt licenses will work similar to the way it has for deer entry applicants.

Warrior cagers confront busy week

Roundballers need practice not games, says Ruidoso coach

by LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

The Warrior boys basketball team needs practice, not more games. But it's games Ruidoso will get plenty of the next three days.

Coach Ben Sanchez's troops head north for the Bruce King Tournament hosted by Moriarty. The tourney starts Thursday and continues through Saturday. The Warriors play the host Pintos at 8 p.m. Thursday. A victory means a 7:30 p.m. Friday date with either Las Vegas Robertson or Belen.

Sanchez and his Warriors have a 2-1 record after splitting contests with Belen and Tularosa Friday and Saturday. Ruidoso played New Mexico Military Institute Tuesday. (The final score was not available at press time.)

"I really think this team needs practice time because our conditioning level in games is definitely affected," Sanchez said. "Our conditioning level isn't what I'd like it to be. The more chances we get to practice, the better we get."

Fatigue played a role in Saturday's loss to Tularosa, Sanchez said.

The Warriors, coming off an impressive victory over Class AAAA Belen, Friday night, couldn't solve Tularosa's zone defense the next night.

"We just got a little frustrated with the way they were playing. We just didn't execute very well down the stretch against their zone," Sanchez said.

Ruidoso didn't shoot the ball well either. The Warriors were a tepid 30% from the field, while the Wildcats hit 41% of their shots.

The Warrior defense was steady both nights. Ruidoso held

Laura Clymer/The Ruidoso News

Ruidoso's Garvin Grant and Erik Padilla (40) fight with a pair of Wildcats for control of a rebound. In the midst of that fray is Ruidoso's Corey Saenz. The Warriors snagged the board but could not capture a victory over the Wildcats.

Belen's Eagles scoreless for six minutes in the fourth quarter. That spearheaded a 26-9 fourth quarter outburst for the Warriors.

"We really played well on both ends of the floor," Sanchez said of Friday's contest. "We rebounded well and were able to force them into bad shots."

The Warriors will be wary of Moriarty's Matt Miera. Miera's shot at the buzzer beat RHS last year in the King tourney.

Sanchez will give senior Erik Padilla the Miera defensive assignment. Padilla will try to force Miera into a physical, rather than a finesse game.

In the other bracket, Shiprock meets St. Pius X and Fort Wingate takes on Harrison from Colorado Springs. Harrison is Colorado's No 4-ranked Class AAA basketball team.

Grizzlies face first 'real' test Friday

by LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Semester exams aren't for a couple of weeks, but the Carrizozo girls basketball team will take a test on the hardwood Friday.

The Grizzlies face a feisty Cloudcroft Bear team, which should present the first real challenge of the season for Kim Padilla's 4-1 squad.

Carrizozo is coming off back-to-back victories over the weekend - a 55-23 victory over Hondo Valley Friday and a 41-38 win at home versus Mesilla Valley.

Three Grizzlies scored in double figures in the Hondo win. Senior Naomi Vallejos had her way with the Eagles scoring 24 points. Renee Rael added 12 and Mandy Baca had 11 Friday night.

Carrizozo struggled the next day versus Mesilla, shooting less than 25% from the field. Vallejos' 19 led all scorers.

House is the only team to get the better of Carrizozo this season. That Grizzly loss came in the opening round of the Hondo Tournament. Since then, 'Zozo has rattled off four straight victories.

Tough Grizzly defense has been the difference, Padilla said. But when Carrizozo plays Cloudcroft, the Grizzlies will need to complement their defense with more efficient offense.

"We've got to shoot better than we have been," Padilla said. "We're getting good looks (at the basket); we just can't convert it."

The Grizzly offensive attack does feature a nifty one-two punch with senior forward Vallejos (25 points per game) and freshman guard Rael (16 ppg).

Junior Baca has been playing a tough off-guard for the Grizzlies, Padilla added.

Carrizozo will have to neutralize Cloudcroft's one-two punch of Rustie Waldon and Beth Anderson. Anderson's outside range complements Walden's tough interior play for the Bears.

Cloudcroft recently dropped a heart-breaker, 52-51, to Capitan at the Roadrunner Tourney Saturday. But the Bears own a 52-39 victory over Ruidoso from earlier in the season.

Rebounding will be another key for Carrizozo Friday. The Grizzlies, who don't have anyone topping 5-10 on the roster, have relied on their quickness, beating opponents

Senior forward Keri Shafer at 5-10 might return to the Grizzly lineup, but not until Monday when Carrizozo takes on rival Capitan. Doctors reconstructed Shafer's left knee last winter. She returned in time for most of the volleyball season, but has been hampered by soreness since then.

Shafer's presence under the boards should help the Grizzlies, if and when she returns to play.

The girls game tips off at 6 p.m. Friday.

Tigers send a message to 6AA opponents with tourney victories

by LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

The Roadrunner girls basketball tourney turned out to be a preview of the District 6AA race for Capitan's Tigers.

After losing in the opening round to Fort Sumner, the Tigers played district foes Dexter and Cloudcroft in their final two games of the tourney, coming away victorious in both.

"We went down there and accomplished our goal - we won two out of three," said first-year coach Dionne Lewis, whose team improved to 2-2 overall. "It would've been nice to win the first one, but they (Fort Sumner) pretty much stomped everyone."

Do the early-season wins over the Demons and Bears mean anything?

"I don't think so. I don't think they (Dexter) were ready to play us. They weren't expecting the team they saw show up," Lewis said.

That's because some of the Demons witnessed Fort Sumner's humiliation of the Tigers by a score of 40-11 Thursday.

The Tigers shot a paltry 13% from the field against the Vixens. Capitan managed just 14 defensive rebounds and two offensive caroms versus Fort Sumner. Combine that with 30 turnovers and it adds up to a rout.

"I told them that was probably the ugliest game I've seen them play, and that I hope it was the last one I ever see," Lewis said.

The Tigers responded with a rout of their own, a 52-25 whipping of Dexter.

"We were a totally different ball club. Against Fort Sumner we weren't aggressive. Against Dexter we were," Lewis noted. "We came out to play and we executed our offense."

Capitan then met Cloudcroft in the fifth-place game Saturday. The Tigers built a 15-point lead heading into the final eight minutes, but the Bears didn't fold.

Cloudcroft trailed by 10 with two minutes left in the game, and whittled the Tiger lead to six with 19 seconds to go. The Bears' Beth Anderson hit a three-pointer with 11 seconds left, and then Cloudcroft stole the ball, scoring again to trim the lead to one with five seconds to go. Even though they didn't need to inbound the ball - time would expire without a violation - the Tigers threw it in, and managed to maintain control of the ball until the clock ran out.

The 24-year-old Tiger coach probably found her first gray hairs after that victory.

"I think the wins give the girls a little more confidence from being blown out in Elida and then again against Fort Sumner to doing so well against district teams," Lewis said of the victories. "I hope it puts some doubt in their (Cloudcroft's and Dexter's) minds, too."

Capitan played Hot Springs, a Class AAA power, Tuesday night in Capitan. Results were not available by presstime. The Tigers' next opponent is rival Carrizozo Monday, Dec. 16.

Lewis knows what her Tigers will work on between now and Monday: shooting, offense and rebounding.

"We need to execute our offense better. We're not utilizing picks and screens well enough," she said. The Tigers then need convert a higher percentage of their shots. "We just need to be more disciplined on offense and hope the same team shows up for every game."

The Capitan-Carrizozo girls game is set for 6 p.m. Monday.

TIGER TRACKS: Senior forward Mandi Aldaz had arthroscopic knee surgery, and the results were better than expected - no torn cartilage or ligaments. Aldaz had bone fragments scraped away. She should return to action in three or four weeks....Rumor has it that junior Coye Robbins is feeling better and might be back before Christmas....The play of forward Sonya Wood and point guard Andra Fish has impressed Lewis.

Star Tiger, supporting cast take 4th

by LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Capitan's Cody Turnbow was no longer the only star on the hardwood for the Tigers at the Roadrunner Tournament. His supporting cast gave a performance worthy of critical praise - the praise of Tiger head coach Gerald Montes.

The Tigers took fourth place of eight teams, picking up their first win of the season. Capitan is 1-4 for the season.

"Overall I thought we played well. We had some kids step up and play. It was a good tournament for us," Montes said.

Turnbow, the Tigers' only returning letterwinner from a year ago, played his part, scoring in double figures in three games. The senior guard scored 27 against Eunice Saturday.

Then the rest of the Tigers complemented Turnbow's performance with steady play defensively and on the boards.

The supporting cast included: Kris Davis on the boards (31 for tourney), Jason Montes on defense (neutralizing speedy David Castanon of Tatum), and James Robinson (nine points versus Fort Sumner).

Eric Ferguson, Eric Helmstetter and Raymond Harris also turned in solid performances, Montes said.

Capitan opened the three-day tourney with Fort Sumner. The Tigers turned in one of their better shooting performances of the season - 21-of-52 from the field - for a 58-51 victory over the Foxes.

That win advanced Capitan to Friday's semifinals where Tatum held off the Tigers, 61-58, to advance to the finals. Capitan had three chances to tie the game in the waning seconds, but all three "treys" missed.

Capitan had to bounce back from Friday's late game to an early game on Saturday. Eunice outlasted the Tigers in the fourth-place game, 61-55.

"We just didn't have any legs on Saturday," Montes said.

Montes is addressing his team's conditioning this week in practice. The Tigers don't play a game until Monday, Dec. 16, so that give Montes plenty of practices to run the Tigers' tails off.

"Practice this week is going to be conditioning, rebounding and repetition on offense," he said. "We're also going to work on establishing some discipline on the court offensively so we're not so helter-skelter."

At the Roadrunner tourney, the Tigers improved their care of the ball. After committing 22 turnovers versus Fort Sumner and 18 against Tatum, Capitan had only 13 turnovers in the Eunice game.

But as the tourney wore on, the Tigers' fatigue affected their shooting from the floor, from 40% in the Fort Sumner game to 38% against Tatum to a meager 30% in the Eunice contest.

Montes hopes this week's practice will help remedy those shooting and conditioning woes.

Schools want state to make education funding and excellence top priority

EDUCATION BOARD

Hondo board reviews policies

The Hondo Valley School Board will review potential policy revisions at its regular 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 17 meeting at the school library.

Some of the revisions are being required by the State Department of Education. The board will go over its written powers and duties, the duties of members, policy regarding substitute teachers and part-time employees, and policy regarding travel requests and reimbursement.

Superintendent Barbara Casey will present a process for the board to evaluate the superintendent.

The board will also consider joining other school districts in Lincoln County and give the Benson Asset Survey to students. The survey measures how healthy students' lifestyles are, and whether they are at risk for problems.

No sex education in Capitan yet

On the education page of the Dec. 4 issue, The Ruidoso News incorrectly reported that a health curriculum committee in the Capitan School District endorsed a sex education program. The video the committee approved is restricted to the subject of puberty and body changes.

Capitan school nurse Leecha LeMay organized the committee of parents, teachers, and community members who are creating a health education curriculum for Capitan. Any sex education program the committee approves will be abstinence-based, LeMay said.

Portales fall graduates include 11 Ruidosoans

Eleven students from Ruidoso are among 258 fall graduation candidates at Eastern New Mexico University-Portales, with 15 students receiving associate degrees, 212 receiving bachelor's degrees, and 26 receiving master's degrees. This will be Eastern's first fall commencement since 1982.

The Ruidoso students are:

- Harla Webb, associate of art in general studies;
- Patricia Martin Shepard, bachelor of science in psychology;
- Traci Ware Shepherd, associate of art in general studies;

Power company grants jump starts for teachers

Texas-New Mexico Power Company has awarded mini-grants to four Ruidoso teachers. The grants are designed to help K-8 classroom teachers in math, science, and energy education.

Lisa Vasquez from White Mountain Intermediate school, Clifton Neal from Ruidoso Middle School, Misty Munoz from White Mountain Elementary, and Kathy Hedin from Sierra Vista Primary each received $200.

"The teacher mini-grants are a way that TNP can support the excellent job these teachers are already doing in their classroom," said area manager Dave Gottula.

The focus is on math and science because the company wants to sup-

- Beverly Smith, associate of art in general studies;
- Cecilia Sanchez, bachelor of special education in elementary education, with distinction;
- Shannon Pal, associate of art in general studies;
- Collene Lopez, associate of art in general studies;
- Berdine Largo, bachelor of special education in elementary education;
- Denise Ellard, associate of art in general studies;
- Rosa Linda Baeza, associate of art in general studies;
- and Stephen Anderson, associate of art in general studies.

Local grad blows his horn in Iowa

Ruidoso High School 1996 graduate Forrest Green has been selected for the Coe College Music Department's concert band, jazz band, and brass quintet.

Green plays euphonium and tuba in the concert band and tuba in the brass quintet. He plays trombone in the jazz band. He was also selected for membership in the Iowa College All-Star Concert Band, which performed for the Iowa Music Educators Association Conference in Ames, Iowa on Nov. 23.

Green is the son of Cindy and James Green.

Coe College is an independent liberal arts college in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The 75-member concert band, which performs original music for concert bands and transcriptions of orchestral and keyboard music, presents several major concerts each year and tours during spring break. In April, the group hosts a Festival of Bands, featuring educational clinics for high school bands and hosting a guest director.

Coe's jazz band performs frequently on and off campus, playing Big Band music in the style of Ellington, Goodman, and Herman as well as contemporary ensemble jazz. This fall the band will perform an all-Gershwin charity benefit for the Red Cross in Cedar Rapids. In January the group will present "A Salute to Duke Ellington" in conjunction with the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition. The highlight of each year for the jazz band is the annual February Jazz Summit, which brings guest artists of national stature to Coe to conduct clinics and present a concert with the Coe musicians.

port teachers in reaching the high world standards that Americans once enjoyed, Gottula said.

The grants also focus on energy conservation because TNP wants to promote using energy resources wisely, he said.

TNP also sponsors scholarships to students and has established a matching customer contribution program. This program will use stockholder money to match up to $100,000 of customer donations to support community programs nominated by TNP customers.

TNP provides local power service to more than 213,000 customers in 84 cities and towns in Texas and New Mexico.

New Mexico Public Schools need at least $55 million in new money for 1997-98 just to fund existing salaries and programs, according to the New Mexico Federation of Teachers (NMFT).

For the first time in history, the NMFT and the National Education Association (NEA) of New Mexico have developed joint legislative goals, demanding in part that state legislators make a real monetary commitment to education.

"The 1997 legislative session may be the most critical in the history of New Mexico's Public Schools," NMFT president Ernie Johnson said.

The basic $55 million does not include the cost of student population growth, salary increases, or new programs, Johnson said. The groups are seeking an increase in per-student funding to cover inflation and new state-mandated programs, but they don't list a specific number.

"School funding must once again return to levels which indicate that public education is the number one priority of the New Mexico (Legislature)," the organizations stated in their legislative platform.

In past years the NEA and NMFT, the two largest employee organizations in New Mexico, have each produced their own legislative wish lists. This year they are presenting a unified front, calling for realistic and reliable education funding, better employee benefits, higher academic standards, and more opportunity for parents to become active in their children's education.

"Our approach asks for very specific changes in statute to enable parents to be full partners in their children's education," said NEA-NM president Mary Lou Cameron. "This includes requiring all employers to allow limited paid leave (8 hours per child in each school year) so that the parents of school age children may participate in activities at their child's school."

The wish list also calls for giving teachers authority to suspend or expel disruptive or dangerous students from the classroom, and to drop a student from the roll after 10 unexcused absences.

If lawmakers grant the NEA-NMFT wishes, it could produce two fundamental changes in New Mexico schools: paying more for better-qualified teachers, and throwing out standardized multiple-choice achievement tests, the groups said.

The Ruidoso Education Association has not reviewed the full platform yet, but the group will issue an official opinion later.

Employee rights goals

- raise personnel and teacher salaries to the regional and national average;
- base individuals' salaries on additional training, length of service, and job responsibilities;
- allow unused sick leave to transfer among school districts and compensate employees for it when they retire;
- and improve retirement benefits for educators so they are equal to those of state employees.

Academic Goals

- throw out standardized achievement tests, which focus mainly on knowledge and low level skills and essentially measure socio-economic status; replace the standardized tests with performance assessments that require students to apply knowledge in solving problems, giving performances, or developing products;
- create a professional practices and standards board, similar to those in the legal and medical fields, that would oversee and approve programs that certify and license education professionals;
- allot state funds so all New Mexico educational professionals can continue their professional development;
- and reduce class size not only at the classroom level, but also at the grade level.

THE WHY

Aspiring journalists are out of luck at RHS

Ruidoso High School has a lot to offer many of its students. There are wonderful athletic programs offering teams for almost anyone. There are art programs for artists of all levels of experience and talent. There are certainly the academic options to give everyone something to be interested in. Sadly though, RHS does not have the classes or resources available to suit those interested in journalism, writing, or photography.

The why
MEREDITH KEETON
STUDENT COLUMNIST

Though RHS has a newspaper with classes made up of students from every grade, a yearbook which is published by a nationally known textbook company, and a photography class with an at-school darkroom, these classes do not receive enough funding or support from the school to be very challenging or productive.

"RHS Today," the monthly newspaper, manages to get by with a small lab of outdated computers, but the class could increase the quality of the paper greatly if the funding to install new hardware and design programs was provided by the school. Much of the money that goes into producing "RHS Today" comes from businesses who choose to advertise in it.

Also, "Today" is so censored that its staff is forced to steer clear of many subjects that affect the students who read it, like drugs, sex, and censorship itself.

Ruidoso High's yearbook, "The Tomahawk," has received numerous awards in national contests, but after the resignation of long-time advisor Jackie Tobias, the class was handed over to two teachers with no background in publications or journalism.

"The Tomahawk" staff struggled much of this year with a computer too small to handle the technical programs they need to produce a yearbook that will be acceptable to the students who buy it. Most of the money that goes into its publishing also comes from ads that the staff sells to businesses around town.

Anyone desiring a good base for a career in photojournalism is pretty much out of luck. The photojournalism class does have a well-equipped darkroom, but there is no formal instruction from a teacher.

Colleges today are looking for well-rounded students. Students interested in a wide variety of activities make successful people. It is understandable that many students are interested in playing competitive high school sports, but even according to an unnamed football coach, there is a lot of over-budgeting in the athletics department.

If the bond issue proposed for next year passes and a large chunk of the year's budget is set aside for technology, hopefully a portion of it will go to journalism. If not, the finance problems facing the RHS publications are being highly overlooked.

New courses are in demand at Eastern

by PAMELA CROMWELL, Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Eastern New Mexico University's (ENMU) Ruidoso campus has just released its 1996-97 catalog. The 56-page booklet includes new pictures of faculty and students in class, as well as everything students need to know about registration, financial aid and tuition, and available courses.

The ENMU Ruidoso Instructional Center offers two-year degree programs in business administration, child development, general studies, liberal arts concentration, liberal arts education preparation, and psychology. Students can take certification programs in banking, child development, welding technology, and hospitality training.

The banking certificate program is new to the Ruidoso campus, director Jim Miller said. The 30-hour program was added to the curriculum at the request of Ruidoso's financial institutions.

The Associate of Arts in psychology is new this year, too, added at the request of ENMU students, Miller said. The 64-hour course may be of interest to parents and professionals who work with young people, since the classes include child and adolescent psychology.

People who want a bachelor's degree in early childhood education can complete their first two years of schooling at the Ruidoso campus. Ruidoso's child development courses now transfer into the degree program at Portales, Miller said.

Business majors can put the power of higher math to practical use in calculus for business. The new 3-credit-hour course for business majors teaches students to solve quantitative problems in business and economics using differential and integral calculus.

The entire college curriculum available in Ruidoso amounts to more than 300 courses in the following categories: academic studies, accounting, agriculture, anthropology, art, banking, bilingual education, biology, business, child development, communication, computer information systems, criminal justice, dance, drafting technology, economics, education, emergency medical services, English, finance, geography, geology, health and physical education, history, humanities, management, marketing, mathematics, music, paralegal studies, philosophy, physics, political science, psychology, reading, religion, American Sign Language, sociology, Spanish, statistics, theatre, and welding.

These courses earn college credit. ENMU also offers community education classes just for personal growth and fun.

Registration for the spring 1997 semester begins Dec. 2. Classes begin Jan. 21 in Ruidoso. Anyone interested in attending classes at ENMU's Ruidoso Instructional Center may pick up a free catalog at the office, located on Mechem Drive in the Sierra Mall. Call 257-2120 for more information.

Hondo Fiesta wins state Quality Education Award

Hondo Valley Public Schools will be recognized for an innovative program on Friday, Dec. 13, during the 14th Annual Quality Education Awards luncheon in Albuquerque.

The luncheon is scheduled for noon at the Sheraton Old Town Inn, and is sponsored by the University of New Mexico College of Education-based New Mexico Research and Study Council (NMRSC).

Hondo Valley Public Schools won second place in the district category for its "La Fiesta de Hondo" program and will receive $150 and a plaque. The program is about the re-creation and preservation of folk dances and songs dear to Hispanic people.

The entire student body (pre-school through 12th grade) participates in the program. Some students are dancers while others help make props and decorations, serve as hosts and hostesses, and help prepare and serve the meal for the fiesta. The program enables the students to hold onto their heritage and national identity.

With this aim of improving educational management and instruction at all levels, the NMRSC's Quality Education Awards Program recognizes outstanding school programs and educators. The awards program singles out both individual schools and district-wide programs. A team of educators selected the winners.

RHS Students and Employee of the Month

Ruidoso High School seniors Mackey Tulley and Shiryn Williams were named Students of the Month for December. School janitor Richard Guevara (far right) was named Employee of the Month. Tulley is in the high school rodeo club, National Honor Society, and Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA). Williams is on the volleyball team, student council, FCA and National Honor Society. Guevara has worked at RHS for three years. The honor of Student and Employee of the Month comes with a reserved parking space up front.

Smart students

The preparation and display of the Christmas luminarias has become a total community effort, with cash donations coming in nicely and other donations already volunteered, including lunch for workers at the Fire Hall on Saturday, Dec. 14, and hot cider and caramel apples Tuesday evening, Dec. 24 at McDonald Park, in cooperation with the Lodger's Tax Committee Christmas tree trimming. Other donations are coming in and will make all the hard work a great fun time for all. Also, there will be a banner on the Stearn's bulletin board on Central Avenue welcoming travelers to our magnificent display on Christmas Eve, courtesy of the Lodger's Tax Committee.

Of course, the Carrizozo Police Department will direct traffic and ask the drivers to dim their car lights in order to bring out the full effect of the candle display. The Volunteer Fire Department helped the courthouse crew decorate the buildings with electric luminarias, twinkling wreaths, a tree, and Santa and reindeer. Otero Electric Cooperative again has mounted the large electric displays on the lamp posts on Central Avenue and Highway 380.

Everyone is getting in on the act! Isn't it wonderful?

Thanksgiving Day saw much visiting with many out-of-town travelers arriving in Carrizozo... Rosemary Neal from Albuquerque visited her Aunt Mabel Rentfrow and was hostess for the 100th birthday celebration on Sunday, Dec. 1, together with other nieces and families from Las Cruces, Colorado and Oklahoma. Congratulations, Mabel, on your contributions to our community. Irene and R. C. Barham welcomed Bucky Martin and five members of his family from North Dakota, as well as Irene's brother Harry Martin from San Diego, for the Thanksgiving weekend, together with daughter Becky and family from Alamogordo, and Doroth Forsythe from Carrizozo. Barbara Ward had her son Tom, sons Jack and Don and families for Thanksgiving Day at her home in Carrizozo and the day was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Lincoln County, the town of Carrizozo and the New Mexico State Highway Department are all to be complimented on the street and road improvements in and surrounding Carrizozo. And the survey crews have been doing their artwork on Central Avenue, preparing for future construction...the potholes and other hazards will be missed!

Yvette Hernandez, a senior Physical Education major at New Mexico State University, has recently been elected the student representative for the New Mexico Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance (NMAHPERD). NMAHPERD is the state association for the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance (AAHPERD). As the largest organization supporting health, physical education, recreation and dance, AAHPERD serves as one of the foremost representatives of the HPERD profession and promotes quality programs in our nation's schools and communities. Yvette's primary duty as student representative is to be liaison between New Mexico students in the HPERD fields and the NMAHPERD board. In addition to being elected NMAHPERD Student Representative, Yvette has also been named NMSU Physical Education Major of the Year by the NMSU PERD faculty. This honor is given each year to students showing leadership and dedication to the HPERD fields. A certificate will be presented to Yvette during a recognition ceremony at the National AAHPERD convention in St. Louis, Mo. in March. Yvette graduated from Carrizozo High School in 1991. Did anyone remember to celebrate Abraham Lincoln's birthday on Friday, the day after Thanksgiving? Don't forget George Washington's birthday on Thursday, Dec. 28!

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

by PAULA PAPPONI Superintendent

Educators come across a vast array of information regarding educational issues and topics. There are volumes written on such topics as learning styles, curriculum, multiple intelligences, cooperative learning, etc. — just to name a few. Also, much has been written on children and how their education will affect their future, as well as the future of our nation.

I receive piles of literature daily on the aforementioned topics. Some of it is filed away because I am sure I will need it at some future date. Another might be exactly what I've been looking for and need right now. And, of course, some get tossed right in the trash.

Yesterday, I came across something I would like to share with you. I found it to be as true and as relevant today as it was when it was written more than a century ago.

"A child is a person who is going to carry on what you have started. He is going to sit where you are sitting, and when you are gone, attend to those things which you think are important. You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they will be carried out depends on him. He will assume control of your cities, states, and nations. He is going to move in and take over your churches, schools, universities, and corporations. All your books are going to be judged, praised, and condemned by him. The fate of humanity is in his hands. Teach him well.

— Abraham Lincoln

CARRIZOZO

by BARB WARD
Carrizozo Newsletter Staff

Thanksgiving comes along but not without some bloopers. A friend cooking her first turkey discovered a small package beneath the chest of her bird containing the liver, heart and neck. No harm done but a lesson learned. Another friend had Thanksgiving dinner at his in-laws' house one time and ate some strange mashed potatoes. Prior to serving the dinner, the hostess offered some egg nog. When she went to get the egg nog she discovered the carton in the trash. They ate egg nog flavored mashed potatoes. No harm done here either. Sierra Blanca Brewery is housed in what people refer to as the Belco Building; but the building actually housed the Cibola Hotel as well as the Ford garage in the past. Henceforth the building will be renamed the Ford building, returning to bygone Jays.

With some help from friends, the building was constructed by someone by the name of Wetmore. A.L. Whittaker had the first Ford dealership. Second was Roy Shafer and third was Marvin Roberts in a silent partner arrangement.

Buster Smoot was one of the Ford salesmen. Ernest Casey and Nick Vega started working with Marvin Roberts about the age of 17 when still in high school. Nick started doing muck jobs, then gradually he learned how to change oil and after about 30 years on the job, he became a full-fledged mechanic. Nick was all smiles when I approached him for information about the Ford Garage and dealership. There was also a repair shop for the Ford agency at the Johnny Morales location today.

There is a wonderful coffee shop in Cape Coral, Fla. named "Brewed Awakenings" run by Mike Cohen and his charming wife, Rita. I went there on my recent vacation. Morning coffee includes many choices of blends plus some pretty terrific pastries. Morning newspapers abound, along with chess boards, checkers, books and lots of philosophical conversations with the various patrons. Really very enjoyable.

Our bowling lanes here in Carrizozo are open for business and I received a very nice note from a Capitan friend in which she has praised the Town of Carrizozo for letting the games begin. She further states there are bowlers on the Wednesday Night Mixed league from Ruidoso, Nogal and, obviously, Capitan. They all agree this is the best place to bowl. She concluded with the fact that she and her husband also bowl in Ruidoso, but they like the Carrizozo Recreation Center lanes the most.

Dolly Ward, middle name "GO," has returned home from a trip to Lubbock, Texas with her niece Mariane; then on to Oklahoma to visit her daughter Kathleen and husband Dwane. Her other daughter Betty Lou and her spouse Doil joined them there, as well as Inez and Ken Ballenger returning to Fayetteville, Ark. after a summer in White Oaks.

Tilly, an attractive calico female, has a long-hair luxurious coat and great facial markings. She's looking for a home where she will receive plenty of love. About 2-years-old, Tilly is easy-going and affectionate.

Ralph is a tiger-striped gray and brown tabby, about 12-months-old. He has short-hair and would like a buddy who will care for him for life, give him regular attention and satisfy his need to play. He was picked up as a stray.

As a former Floridian, the manatee, so graceful and gentle in the inlets off the Gulf of Mexico, is one of my favorite causes.

During my years as a reporter with The St. Petersburg Times, I was fortunate to have several encounters with manatees, including babysitting a 1,000 pound beached female for several hours until the tide came in and lifted her into the waves.

The Save the Manatee Club is offering others who have affection for the endangered mammal a chance to help.

For $20, you can adopt a manatee as a Christmas gift. The club will send the recipient an adoption certificate, photograph and biography of the adopted manatee, along with a manatee education handbook and a subscription to the club's newsletter.

Proceeds from the club's adoption program are used to protect the manatee and their habitat.

This slow-moving mammal averages about 10 feet in length and eats aquatic plants. It spends much of its time traveling and basking in warm waters, but recently, several along the shores from Crystal River to Fort Myers have been dying from an unknown cause. Scientists believe there may be some connection to a toxic phenomenon - called red tide. Others worry that pollution may be the cause.

Manatees are found in shallow, slow-moving rivers, estuaries, saltwater bays, canals and coastal areas. They migrate to Florida in the winter and are found as far west as Louisiana and north as Virginia and the Carolinas in the summer months.

Currently, about 2,600 manatees are left in the waters of the United States. Many are killed each year from encounters with boats, because they are slow-moving and as mammals must surface to breathe.

Fish hooks, monofilament line and other litter also gets mixed in with the plants they eat and can cause internal damage or death. Entanglement in crab lines and harassment also are problems, along with the overall problem of loss of habitat.

Save the Manatee Club is a nonprofit organization established in 1981 by U.S. Sen. Bob Graham and singer Jimmy Buffet, who is club co-chairman. They wanted to create an avenue for the public to participate in conservation efforts to save the endangered manatee.

For more information on the manatee or the adoption program, write the club at: 500 N. Maitland Ave., Maitland, Fla. 32751 or call 1-800-432-JOIN (5646).

FAMILY VISION CENTER

Dr. D. Joyce Sonnenmoser
Dr. Anatole F. Gutowski
(505) 257-5029

Insurance Coverage For Vision Services

Primary, secondary, HMO, PPO...do you know if your insurance plan covers vision service? There are as many different insurance plans as insurance companies. Many insurance plans cover some aspect of vision care. Emergency services as well as diagnosis and treatment of eye diseases are covered by most major medical plans. However, these plans such as BCBS and Medicare usually require that annual deductibles to be met before services are covered. Other plans require a co-payment at the time of the visit. Still others may require a referral from your primary care physician. You insurance plan may cover services and/or materials based on a calendar year or they may be covered on a 12 or 24 month basis. Do you know how your insurance plan works?

Routine eye examinations and glasses or contact lenses are usually covered on a limited basis by a specific vision services plan. This may include a maximum allowable fee for each covered item, such as frames and lenses, or global coverage for services and materials such as for contact lenses. Some insurance companies which may include vision services are BCBS, The Prudential, Presbyterian Health Plan, UFCW, CIGNA and Brokerage Services as well as Medicaid and Medicare.

To find out more about your insurance plan's allowable vision care services and materials you can call the 1-800 number for benefits on you insurance card or call FAMILY VISION CENTER at 257-5029 and our staff will be happy to assist you.
