Veterans gather to remember fallen comrades

Since 1859, Fort Stanton has stood as a reminder of the brave men who battled against the Mescalero Apache to protect Lincoln County settlers' way of life.

Now, 138 years later, the Fort will serve as a living link to the men and women who have given their lives in defense of the American way of life. At 10:30 Saturday morning a special memorial service will be held to remember war veterans at the Merchant Marine and Military Memorial Cemetery just east of Fort Stanton.

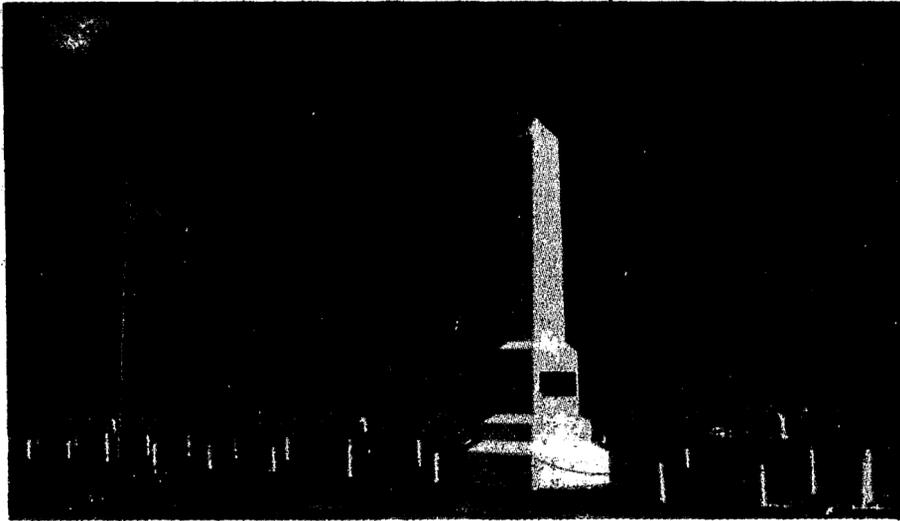

As a training ground for generals in the Spanish-American War and World War I, Fort Stanton has seen the start of many illustrious military careers including those of Gen. John J. Pershing and Col. Christopher "Kit" Carson, who became famous for his exploits while in command at the Fort.

In 1899, Fort Stanton took on another historic role when it was set aside by presidential executive order to be the first public health hospital to treat merchant seamen suffering from tuberculosis. The Fort was chosen for its location and the dry, year-round mild climate. Since that time, merchant mariners of many different countries have been laid to rest in the nearby cemetery, together with members of various branches of the U.S. armed forces and military men from other countries.

When driving away from the Fort, heading east, passersby can catch a glimpse of the unusual cemetery. It is different from the usual country burial site - it gives the appearance of a military cemetery, with row upon row of little white crosses. At the center of the approximately 10-acre field is a tall white monument with the inscription, "In memory of the men and women of the American Merchant Marine."

The Merchant Marine and Memorial Military Cemetery will be the site of the county's Memorial Day commemoration Saturday. The cemetery is located just east of Fort Stanton. The ceremony begins at 10:30 a.m.

Two Ruidoso men accused of robbing a laundromat operator at fingerprint last week are in county jail.

Timothy Craig McMullin, 18, and Shane O'Reilly, 19, are charged with armed robbery of Duds and Suds east of Ruidoso Downs and with conspiracy to commit a felony, said Lincoln County deputy Orlando Montes. Their bail was set at $100,000 each by Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean Jr.

Montes said both men gave statements about the incident. They said they had been washing clothes at the business earlier in the evening.

"They cruised and planned the robbery," Montes said. "O'Reilly was in the getaway car. About 7:30 p.m., Tim walked in with his hand under his pullover sweatshirt. He pointed his finger (to look like a gun under his clothing) and said, 'Give me the money, b—h.'"

The attendant begged him not to kill her and opened the register.

McMullin was wearing sunglasses for a disguise, Montes said.

"We found a knife in the Tracker they were driving, but we don't believe it was used in the robbery," Montes said.

The two men were stopped near the Ruidoso Downs Race-track by Downs police after they were alerted by the sheriff's office that a robbery had just occurred. Montes and deputy Trini Zepeda took the men to jail in Carrizozo.

Doctor calls for new hospital management prescription

As their hospital management contract with Presbyterian HealthCare Systems winds down, Lincoln County commissioners must decide whether to open bidding on operating the hospital.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A local physician, who has clashed in the past with the management of the Lincoln County Medical Center, wants county commissioners to let other companies compete to operate the county hospital in Ruidoso.

Although Presbyterian HealthCare Systems based in Albuquerque and administrator Valerie Miller are credited with pulling the 37-bed hospital from the brink of financial disaster when they took over in 1988, Dr. Ray Seidel said there also has been a downside to the management.

He contended some good physicians have left the area because they couldn't work with the company and pointed out that a civil suit recently won by Dr. Arlene Brown accused the hospital administration of constraint of trade.

Miller, in a separate presentation to commissioners last week, handed out a comparison of the medical center's operation, showing it out-performs surrounding hospitals. She asked commissioners for a commitment to renew Presbyterian's lease of the hospital, which comes up in January. Without assurances that commissioners want to continue with Presbyterian, the management company is reluctant to start on a $2 million expansion program that may end up in someone else's hands, she said.

"As commissioners are aware, the lease for LCMC expires on Jan. 18," Miller said. "In the current lease, there is an option for renewal for a further 10 years. It is Presbyterian's intent to exercise its option of renewal. It is the county's option to accept or terminate with 180 days notice. Everything we are talking about here depends on whether you are going to accept the option to renew. I wouldn't be putting in a budget for someone else to live with."

The budget to which she referred shows how Presbyterian intends to spend the money generated by a special annual tax levy for the hospital and revenue committed to expansion by the commission and other sources.

The Carrizozo Health Centers will use $200,122 for operations and $528,122 already designated for capital projects for the expanded facility. The hospital in Ruidoso will use $390,000 for operation, the same as last year, $156,000 for replacement of existing equipment and $2.4 million for construction and new equipment for the expansion.

"Before we move aggressively forward, we need to know how you are going to treat the option for renewal," Miller told commissioners.

But Commission Chairman Monroy Montes said he's not ready to make that commitment.

"I'm not saying no to the option," he said. "It's probably the right way to go, but I haven't looked at the contract and it's probably outdated. I think you've done an outstanding job both with the medical center and the clinic...but I need to allow more time for commissioners to think about it."

The item will be put on the commission's agenda July 8, he said.

Miller pointed out that the contract was reworked in 1994 and should not be outdated.

Seidel said the county may see better services with more competition for the hospital. The lease with a new enti-

Semi rollover leaves teenage girl slightly injured, drivers frustrated

Traffic along State Road 48 was backed up for more than a mile in either direction Tuesday morning after a semi-truck carrying a full load of lumber rolled just north of Gavilan Canyon Road.

Lumber spilling from the overturning truck's bed crashed into the passing car of a 15-year-old Ruidoso girl, crunching the driver's side of her car.

State Patrol Officer Sal Beltran said the girl, Kara Hutchison, did not have any serious injuries from the accident, but was being kept at Lincoln County Medical Center Tuesday night for observation because of nausea.

"Basically, what happened was the semi was traveling southbound on 48, and the driver was going too fast," said Beltran, who estimated the driver's speed at about 40 mph. The speed limit where the truck overturned is posted at

"My load shifted as I was going around the turn," said Ivan Chavez, a 24-year-old Los Lunas man and driver of the truck. "I could see it (the lumber) in my rear view mirror."

Chavez, who was uninjured in the accident, has been charged with reckless driving and possession of a radar detector, an illegal device for commercial vehicles, Beltran said.

Chavez was driving the lumber to Ruidoso from Los Lunas for Montoya Trucking Co., he said.

Clean-up of the site continued for another seven hours, with the one lane of traffic halted intermittently for periods as long as 30-40 minutes to allow clean-up crews to maneuver the scattered lumber, Beltran said.

Chavez, who was helping pick up materials at the accident scene Tuesday afternoon, said he didn't know how fast he was going when the truck overturned. He added that he regretted any injuries Hutchison suffered from the accident.

Beltran said the road was cleared much sooner than would have been possible otherwise because of the help of a local lumber company, C&L Lumber.

STARDATE
On May 21 it is the full moon, called the milk moon or planting moon. Mercury appears farthest from the sun in the early morning sky. Unfortunately, this is not a good time of year to see Mercury in the morning sky. It rises at a shallow angle, so it stays near the horizon instead of popping straight into the sky. As a result, the brightening twilight overpowers Mercury.

Corona, meaning crown, is truly a crown as it is located at the highest point between New York and the Pacific Coast, via Chicago and the southern route by rail on the Southern Pacific Lines at an elevation of 6666 feet above sea level... In 1899 the village of Corona began its development as a cowtown, as the surrounding country was a veritable paradise for stockmen.

The village developed from an earlier settlement known as Red Cloud Post Office, located on the Cook and Greathouse ranch a few miles to the southwest of the present townsite... An important part of the early history of Corona was the construction of the railroad. In 1899 the old El Paso and North Eastern Railroad was constructed from El Paso to Carrizozo. The real development of Corona dates from 1902 when the railroad was completed and a station established... The first permanent building in Corona was a rock building and corral between the railroad and Gallo Lake.

Over the past two years, the memorial cemetery has been undergoing complete restoration and improvement. This renovation has included the removal of weeds, mowing and trimming the entire area, bringing in dirt to level graves that settled over the years and planting a ship's hull-shaped garden around the 26-foot-tall monument and flag pole. About 500 new white crosses have been installed to replace those broken or missing. The restoration was completed in early 1997.

The cemetery is located on State Highway 220, which runs from State Highway 380 south past Fort Stanton, about a half-mile east of the Fort. All veterans, their families, and the public are invited to attend the one-hour ceremony honoring the heroes of the American military.

War memorial replica comes to Alamogordo

The Moving Wall, a 250-foot, half-size replica of the Vietnam War Memorial, will be on display in Alamogordo's Washington Park from Thursday through May 25.

The Moving Wall goes on public display following Thursday's 9 a.m. opening ceremony. The ceremony will be preceded by an 8 a.m. reception for Gold Star Mothers. Thirteen Gold Star Mothers are expected to take part in the opening day ceremony.

Floyd Stringer, a helicopter door gunner who was twice wounded, is the guest speaker. Stringer served in the Mekong Delta with the 102nd Assault Helicopter Company 1st Aviation Group from January through April 1969. He received two Purple Hearts for wounds suffered on April 10 and April 15, 1969. An Alamogordoan since 1969, Stringer is a 1967 graduate of Alamogordo High School. He currently works for the U.S. Postal Service in Alamogordo.

fighters painted in Vietnam-era colors will perform a flyby. The visit of The Moving Wall is being sponsored by The Community Friends of the Vietnam Wall.

All 58,196 names on the Vietnam Wall are on The Moving Wall. Among those are the names of 399 New Mexicans and 131 others from the El Paso area. The names represent those who died or who are listed as missing in action.

Following the ceremony, The Moving Wall will be open to the public around the clock through May 28. Volunteers will be on hand 24 hours a day to assist visitors in locating the names of their loved ones on the wall.

The May visit to Alamogordo is the third time The Moving Wall has visited New Mexico in its 12-year history, and the first time it has ventured south of Albuquerque in the state.

Mid-Town parking laws may shift gears

BY TONI K. LAXSON
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Parking lot requirements may be a thing of the past this summer in Ruidoso's Mid-Town shopping district.

An amendment to village laws, drafted on the "fast-track" at the request of village councilors, could be in place as soon as the first of July, a village official said.

The amendment completely eliminates previous requirements for a certain number of parking spaces based on a company's business.

For example, restaurants are now required to provide one parking space for every three seats, or one parking space for every three occupants, said Ruidoso Deputy Village Manager Alan Briley.

Retail stores in the three-block Mid-Town area must allow one parking lot space for every 250 square feet of store area.

A representative of a downtown merchants group requested more lenient parking regulations for the shopping zone at a recent council session. Ann Bolton told councilors more restaurants with seated dining areas were needed to "anchor" shoppers in Mid-Town. Yet, she said, with the village's current parking restrictions, restaurants don't even consider Ruidoso's Mid-Town.

Parking spaces are seemingly scarce now in the Mid-Town area, which has more than 53 shops, including at least two "mall" sites.

Last week, Bolton applauded the amended draft, which must pass approval with the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission as well as the Ruidoso Village Council before it can become law.

The current law, Bolton said, "is just an old thing that needs to be done away with. Times have changed."

Ruidoso village councilors also have directed their planning department to develop more lenient parking requirements for businesses village-wide. However, they did not ask that those changes be expedited at the same pace as the Mid-Town amendments. Nor did they ask that amendments to village-wide parking requirements eliminate former requirements.

Cleatus Richards, director of Ruidoso's planning department, said last week he did not have a definite date when village-wide parking amendments will be presented to the Planning and Zoning Commission for review.

Though Bolton did not know of any restaurants or other businesses considering a move to the Mid-Town area because of the pending amendment, she said the revision would open the area up to business prospects.

Briley cautioned that the amended parking lot requirement, which would apply only to the Mid-Town area, doesn't assure that restaurants will move there. And, he said, it may even eventually create havoc if existing parking areas are converted into stores.

Vacant parking spaces in the Mid-Town area may become more scarce if the village eliminates businesses' parking space requirements.

The village has already responded to complaints about a lack of parking areas by acquiring and building a couple of parking lots in recent years, he said. "We (the village) have used $150,000 in the last three years to build public parking lots," Briley said.

County OKs Eagle Creek Road subdivision

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A 160-acre subdivision with 30 five-acre lots, is being created by White Mountain Development Co. along Eagle Creek Road.

Eagle Creek Acres, Unit Two, east of Gayilan Canyon Road, received design approval last week from the Lincoln County Commission after surveyor Tim Collins fielded some questions about water.

Voting against approval was Commissioner L. Ray Nunley, who disagreed that if water runs short, it will be the problem of the supplier, Alto Village's water corporation.

"If they oversell and property values go down, it is the county's problem," Nunley said.

In its recommendation to the county commission, the county planning commission noted that the State Engineer wants Alto Village to buy more water rights if the build-out of the subdivision exceeds 30% permanent occupancy.

The planning commission also asked for changes in the subdivision's disclosure statement to buyers. A paragraph was changed to read that a low water crossing may overflow during flash floods or periods of continuous heavy rain.

"This may make the subdivision inaccessible during these periods," according to the statement.

Commissioners didn't have a problem with a proposed road width of 20 feet with 2-foot shoulders, noting that the same measurements are part of the county's revised subdivision regulations for private roads.

In his review of roads and drainage for the county engineer John Shaw noted that lot owners will have other routes to exit the development.

Commissioner William Schwettmann, who did the engineering on the project, left the meeting because of his conflict of interest. But commissioners called him back to give information about the subdivision. He abstained during the vote.

Although Alto Village's water corporation was established to benefit the main development and its related subdivisions, the state Utilities Commission approved its request also to sell water to other subdivisions, Schwettmann said.

"(Alto's consultant) is satisfied we can take care of Kokopelli (subdivision) and Eagle Creek, even with a fully developed Alto," he said. "So many people are combining (lots) for more room, at full build, there will be (fewer homes to serve) than originally anticipated."

The village has money to develop new wells where needed and to acquire water rights, he said.

In more than 50% of the subdivisions supplied with water by Alto Village's water corporation, a maximum supply has been set during drought or other water emergencies, Collins said. Each lot is allotted 109 gallons of water per day based on 100% occupancy 365 days a year.

"They have adequate water in place to give that for all of their subdivisions," Collins said. That amounts to about 1.2 million gallons per year for a home. An owner also could drill a domestic well for another 1 million gallons, he said.

Alto has never run out of water, he said, adding that the State Engineer required the corporation to perform a new water study when it proposed to serve the Kokopelli subdivision last year. The lots in the Eagle Creek development cannot be divided into smaller parcels; after purchase, Collins said.

The marijuana plants had a street value of $1,000 each.

Drug task force confiscates young marijuana plants

Thirteen young marijuana plants were harvested by members of the White Mountain Drug Task Force last week.

They were found growing in the wooded area around the Camelot development off U.S. 70 southwest of Ruidoso, according to task force coordinator Frank Hooper.

"Someone was just out walking around and saw them, then called us," Hooper said. "The person will collect a reward."

Found with the plants were water buckets, potting soil and tools to use for cultivation, he said.

"We think he started the plants inside and moved them out when they got to be a couple of months along," Hooper said. Each plant is valued at $1,000, based on its potential yield.

No one has been arrested in connection with the confiscated plants, he said.

the hospital. The lease with a new entity could specify that existing employees be retained, he said, adding that the staff is top-quality. It's possible that a different company might be able to operate without the special tax levy and return money to the county's coffers, he said. He also contended that the constraint of trade ruling against Presbyterian may violate a lease requirement that the company abide by all laws.

"All I'm looking for is an increase in good services for our county and we can do that through an open bid situation," Seidel said.

Commissioner Wilton Howell said Tuesday that Presbyterian has done a good job in the past and he expects the company to honor the commitment to the community to expand.

"I expect them to go ahead if they truly have that commitment, rather than waiting to see if the contract will be renewed or we go out for an RFP (request for proposals)," he said.

OUR OPINION

Controlled giving

No more begging; no more handouts. Seems as good a description as any for the planned new policy governing money raising for special projects at Ruidoso High School.

Principal Ron Hodges acknowledges that there has been a problem with fund-raising; that sometimes the people seeking community financial support for particular school projects or activities have given the impression that its programs are "destitute and homeless."

But, he says, the high school in fact is well funded. For Superintendent Mike Gladden the decibel level has been rising, particularly as the end of the school year approaches.

He has been hearing from businesses that "people are coming in and asking for money" and that it might be getting out of control. "We need to just make sure we don't alienate our businesses."

So Gladden, Hodges and Athletic Director Les Carter have come up with a discussion draft of procedures to be followed in the future for school fund-raisers. Among the key points:

- A project must be approved in writing by Hodges or Carter.

- No solicitation for money will be done except in exchange for a product or service.

- Those doing the money raising may not represent themselves as agents of the high school without written permission.

The Ruidoso school board also supports the idea of a well structured and well monitored fund-raising system. Member Susan Lutterman cited the various booster clubs, in particular, as needing some clear guidelines. Both Carter and Hodges will be talking with each club and organization next year as the budget is reviewed.

A finalized policy will be considered by the board at its next meeting on June 17.

Here is a case where the schools seem to be working effectively to get a handle on a problem before it becomes a major issue. Very nearly everybody supports the public schools, but it's also true that sometimes in a small community the volume becomes very burdensome. Nobody wants to be a bad guy and say no, but everybody, we suspect, would like some confirmation that the good work is in fact legitimate.

We have no doubt that those working on the new guidelines would be glad to have input from school patrons and the businesses who ultimately will be most involved.

A quality police force is something that everybody wants but nobody really wants to get to know too personally. As they used to say, "you only see a cop when there's trouble."

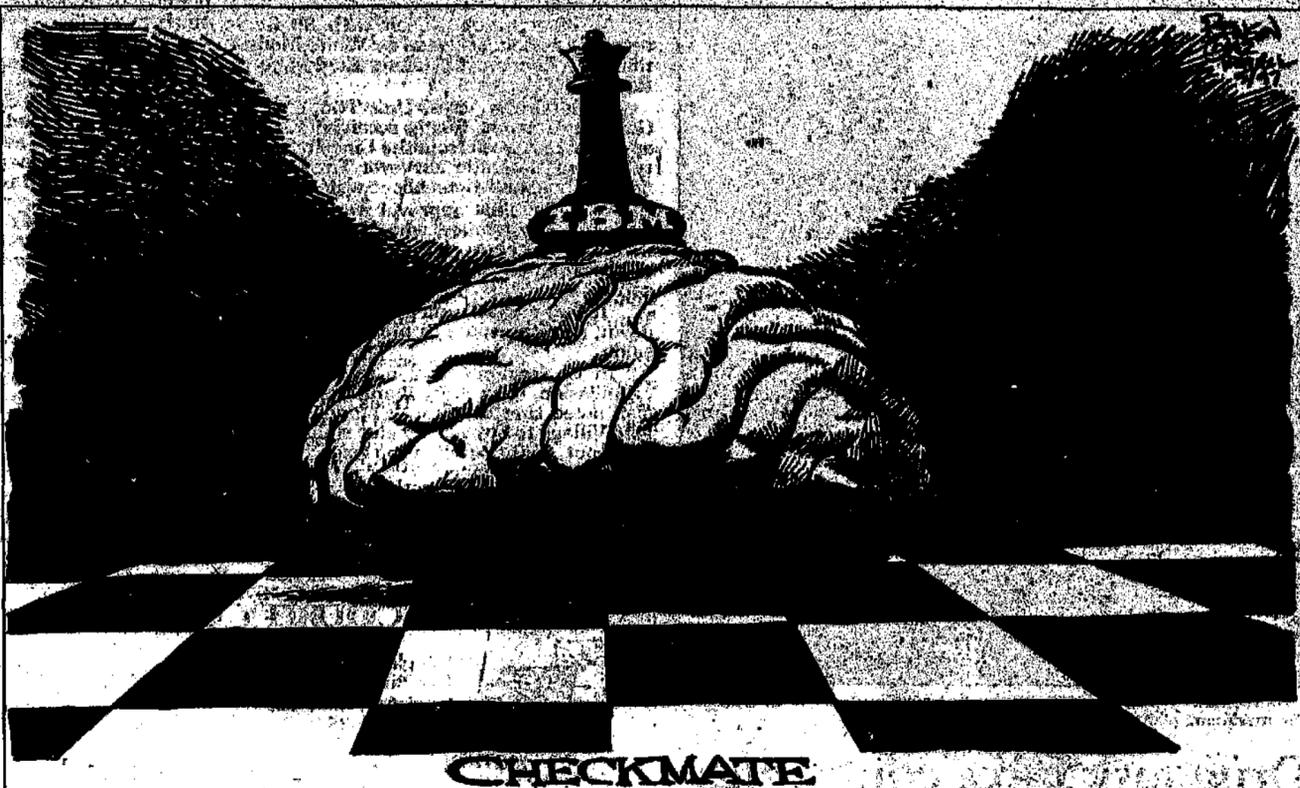

But police are the folks who are on the front lines all night, every night, to assure that the rest of us can sleep soundly.

So, the better the force, the better we all sleep.

It's nice to know that Ruidoso's 23 uniformed officers have specialized training considerably above the average of New Mexico's municipalities. Chief Lanny Maddox notes that by state law police officers must receive at least 40 hours of a combination of in-service and advanced training every two years.

He also notes that the Ruidoso force exceeds that minimum requirement by some three or four times.

In that context, if we do ever have to call the cops, it's nice to know that they have been trained to do their job right, all the time.

THE DREAMER

Two new friends come visiting the ranch

It is always a special day when folks who have read "The Silver Lining" and "The Dreamer" through the years tell me that they would like to come and get acquainted.

Therefore it was a happy occasion when on May 15, Bill and his wife, Ann Hays, came down from their summer home in the Upper Canyon and paid a visit to the Storm Ranch.

They arrived here in one of the nicest times of the year - the time of the new young calves, the blossoming of the lilacs and the arrival of the summer birds, including orioles, mockingbirds and mountain blue birds.

Bill and Ann said they had wanted to see Storm Mountain and the other landmarks of Storm Vale.

Storm Mountain was in its glory, shining against a blue sky, and all green with patches of oak brush. Blue Bird Meadow was like a mountain lawn, and the large apricot tree was out in full leaf. The fragrance of purple and white lilac floated on the gentle breeze.

BY DAN STORM

The second calf

It just so happened that the day before, May 14, a favorite young cow had come down from the mountain and had her first calf, a perfectly marked red and white little Hereford bull.

Early that morning he was up early drinking his milk. Then, full of the pride and joy of life, he went running and frisking across the field. His mother followed him until he reached a row of cedar bushes near a fence.

He lay down under the shade of a bush and looked out at the world with his golden brown eyes.

I gave Bill and Ann lilac blossoms to take back to Ruidoso; and after visiting an hour or so, we headed back toward the river. I wanted my new friends to see the little 2-day-old calf. There he was curled under his tree asleep.

When we drew near he opened his eyes and Bill took his picture.

I decided to call the new calf Tex in memory of the visit with Bill and Ann, who divide their time between Ruidoso and Plano, Texas.

We went by to see Bob Lambert, The Arizona Kid, where Bill and Ann met Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Bloodworth.

It seemed everything worked out just right for the arrival of Bill and Ann at the Storm Ranch; and they certainly brought a blessing to the Storm Vale.

Old Man Ruidoso

During the last several days when I look at the Ruidoso River flowing by its emerald green banks, I am reminded of two things:

First, the favorite song of the 1930s made famous by the great singer Paul Robeson: "Old Man River;"

Second, the great difference in the look of the mountain land between this year and last year at this time.

The Ruidoso, like the Mississippi in the song, "just keeps rolling along."

Last year at this time the river was low here at Storm's Crossing and very skimpy down the way, working a hardship on the orchard growers.

This year there are apples on the trees and water in the irrigation ditches.

This fits into the big picture of a golden year in the land of pinon and pine.

Let us join Mother Earth in giving thanks to the Lord for the rains and many other blessings.

YOUR OPINION

Annexing Alto...

To the editor:

I am an Alto resident who had his quiet living shattered in last Friday's paper. I had been hearing rumors of the City of Ruidoso's attempt to annex Alto.

Now it appears that the rumors may be true beginning with the shutting down of Alto's local emergency services. Alto currently has a first response team that is one of the best.

It is also unnecessary. There is a very effective community program that is sweeping the nation called FireMed. It is tailor-made for a situation such as ours. FireMed funds, added to the state and county funds that are already available, would make the contract with Ruidoso unnecessary for Alto and the outlying regions.

If you're on the Internet, a conference area has been set up on lookingglass.net to deal with the issues of Alto annexation. Contact Ric@ruidoso.org.

Foolin' around

To the editor:

Football Hall of Famer and husband of Kathy Lee Gifford (Frank Gifford) along with Air Force female bomber pilot Lt. Kelly Finn have recently been the target of a media feeding frenzy caused by their sexual piccadillos.

Too bad they didn't heed the advice of the 18th century wit Lord Chesterfield, who is quoted as saying, "Sex: The pleasure is momentary, the position ridiculous and the expense damnable."

Blood drive a success

To the editor:

A hearty thank you and congratulations to more than 100 dedicated citizens who presented themselves at our community blood drive on May 9. The six technicians drew 76 units of blood, which translates into 226 potential people you are helping. About 21 persons were temporarily unable to qualify this time, and several others either forgot to bring ID or couldn't wait because of the "before-work" rush brought on by the promise of a free T-shirt "while supplies last." Your patience with our first time experiment to make a few early appointments was appreciated. It did not work. We will use the number system hereafter.

We were greatly encouraged to have about 40 first time donors come by desiring to give. This joint community effort is terrific. Please keep in mind our next blood drive - same hours, same place, on Friday, July 11. Thanks again!

Thank you

To the editor:

A big thank to all teams playing in the three-on-three beneficiary basketball tourney Saturday, May 17. Thanks to Wal-Mart and Ruidoso Wholesale Foods for their generous donations; Brigid Herrera and Patsy Page for their fantastic assistance in time and score keeping; to Coach Carter and the school administration for the policies allowing use of school facilities (these policies show community spirit); to Dwayne Rogers for giving time and valuable advice; to Danny Gutierrez for giving up his Saturday freedom to be there. Cash prizes were returned to the Gateway Church of Christ youth group to further assist them in their mission trip to Mexico. Some of the Gatorade prizes were shortly consumed as it was a hard playing double elimination, for eight teams with the Vets arriving on top.

RUIDOSO POLICE

Foot chase nets probation violator

Three Ruidoso police officers chased and caught a 19-year-old man Sunday morning just outside the Mid-Town shopping area, police reports said.

Joshua Stocks of Ruidoso reportedly ran from police after officers arrived at a home in the 100 block of Vine Road to investigate a call that Stocks had been harassing his mother and girlfriend, reports said.

Officer Michael Avilucea, in his report, said he and two other officers chased Stocks and eventually cornered him in the parking lot of Chef Lupe's restaurant, located at 1509 Sudderth Dr.

After he was cornered, Stocks put a plastic bag in his mouth. The bag, which was pulled from Stocks' mouth, contained marijuana.

Police have charged Stocks with two misdemeanors: resisting, evading or obstructing an officer and the prohibited possession of a controlled substance. As of Monday, he was being held at the Ruidoso Police Department jail. Stocks, as a potential probation violator, is not eligible for release on bail, police said. Stocks was on probation for numerous convictions in 1996 including possession of marijuana.

Eight burglaries of cars homes, businesses and

More than $300 was taken from the Ruidoso Public Library last week, police said.

Library director Nancy Osterberg told police she discovered the money missing from the library office Thursday morning. The money had reportedly been in the office Wednesday night, May 14. A money box as well as money bags had been taken from the office, which is normally locked, police said. There was no sign of a forced entry into the office. An estimated $336 was taken.

Burglars threw two large rocks through the front windows of the Panambi Gift Shop at 2415 Sudderth Dr. Sunday evening, according to police reports.

A woman walking by the store Sunday at about 5:30 p.m. noticed the smashed windows and notified police.

Burglars took numerous clothing items from the store, including Nike and Calvin Klein products, reports said. Store owner Mike Zaragoza estimated the value of the stolen items at $724.

At least $100 in cash was taken from Rust-n-Stuff at 2905 Sudderth Dr. sometime between the morning of Wednesday, May 14, and Thursday, May 15, reports said.

Burglars apparently forced open a key lockbox on the front door of the store, retrieving the front door key.

The store owner told police the store's cash register, which had been pried open, had contained $100. Another $22 was taken from a coffee can on a shelf below the register and hidden behind a wastebasket.

Burglars targeted another store last week. An $800 Fender Stratocaster guitar was taken sometime between May 13-16 from Adamson Appraisal, located at 1221 Mechem Dr., police said.

Burglars evidently entered the business from an upstairs window.

Business owner John Adamson said the guitar is dark blue in color with a rosewood neck and a black case.

Burglars ravaged the vacation home of a 40-year-old El Paso man sometime between March 2 and May 16, according to the report filed by Patrol Officer Ignacio Lopez.

Burglars entered the home, located in the 100 block of Worcester Drive, evidently by prying open a kitchen window. They then threw eggs against walls, broke pool cues, overturned furniture, smashed two television sets, slashed couch cushions, poured steak sauce on couches, hammered a stereo and stuck a large knife into a dining room table, Lopez said.

Items in the kitchen were thrown about, the telephone line was cut and the alarm dismantled.

Burglars left a rear sliding glass door open. Another El Paso man's vacation home was broken into and rummaged through sometime this winter, police said.

Burglars broke into the house, owned by a 75-year-old retired Texan, in the 100 block of Cambridge by apparently going through a kitchen window. Iron fixtures in front of the window had been ripped away. Though nothing was reported missing, burglars looked under mattresses and opened cabinet doors, closets and dresser drawers, police said.

In just minutes, a thief or thieves stole a woman's cellular telephone and sunglasses Sunday morning from her truck when it was parked in her driveway, police said.

Karen Payne, owner of Legends Casting Co., told police the items had been taken from her truck, which was parked at her home in the 100 block of Meander Drive, during a half-hour period Sunday morning, reports said. The telephone is valued at $350, and the designer sunglasses at $200.

In a series of cars broken into overnight in the parking lot of Ruidoso High School, burglars early Friday smashed out the passenger window of an Oldsmobile Bravada and took a stereo, police said.

A tire iron, left at the scene, was evidently used to smash the window. Police believe the burglar must have been cut on broken glass because of blood found on the outside of the car.

Barry Miajla, owner of the car, estimated the combined cost of the window and stereo at $800.

Computers taken from high school

Two Apple computers, valued at about $1,750, were taken from Ruidoso High School at 125 Warrior Dr. sometime between May 13 and May 15, police said.

Money bag believed stolen

A money bag containing a combined value of $2,320 in cash and Western Union vouchers apparently has been stolen from the Mail Depot, a business located at 2910 Sudderth Dr., police said.

Terri Jackson, store manager, said the bag has been missing since May 8, when the bag had been placed under a store counter.

Pottery panache

Susan West, a pottery instructor at Eastern New Mexico University, Ruidoso, shows off the intricacies of a student's work. This year's class of 13 students are showing off their best work in a show on the Ruidoso campus. The show is the first of its kind. The class covered all the basics of pottery, from throwing clay (spraying the clay into shape using a pottery wheel) to choosing the proper glaze and everything in between.

Village councilors seek garbage gauge

BY TONI K. LANSON
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso village councilors want some answers about trash.

The Council last week told Village Manager Gary Jackson to initiate a study of the village's trash—specifically to find out how much of it there is. Once the volume and type of trash is determined, the village will be in a better position to negotiate with private garbage collection services, village staff said.

Ruidoso's trash collection needs are different because of the amount of forest products, such as pine needles, that is regularly put out for pickup at dumpsters.

Jackson estimated the cost for the study at about $7,300, and said it would take about three weeks to complete.

While members of a village ad hoc committee on solid waste continue to negotiate with board members of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, the village is also exploring alternatives to the present service provided by the LCSWA.

In early June, the Ruidoso Village Council is expected to decide whether or not to continue garbage collection services with the LCSWA. Councilors have said they will continue using the Otero/Lincoln County Landfill through the village's membership in the LCSWA.

The committee, composed of Ruidoso's representatives on the LCSWA, is trying to acquire the unanimous support of other members on the LCSWA board for several changes to the 6-year-old organization.

The primary change requested is that the board unanimously support, at least in concept, re-organizing the LCSWA as a rate-making authority. Presently, the separate entities within the organization set collection rates for their own areas.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Deputies identify burned body

A badly burned body found in the charred hull of a car in the forest east of Ruidoso Downs has been positively identified as Mary Ann Bundy, 41, of Ruidoso.

Lincoln County undersheriff Cliff Macasas confirmed the identification Monday.

"Initial reports show that she had 80% carbon monoxide in her lungs," Macasas said. "Twenty-five percent would cause unconsciousness. At this point, everything we've got points to suicide. She died from inhaling the carbon monoxide, not from the fire, we believe. We could find no evidence of trauma (blows or gun shot wounds)."

Autopsy results from the state medical examiner in Albuquerque will not be ready for another three weeks, he said.

Bundy was married to local contractor James Bundy, he said. Jewelry found at the scene belonged to the woman.

Arts and Film Board to meet Thursday

Ruidoso's village Arts and Film Board will announce its goals and maybe change its name in a special meeting 4 p.m. Thursday.

The meeting will be held at Ruidoso Village Hall, 313 Cree Meadows Drive.

Last weekend, the board met in a two-day workshop for the purpose of defining its mission statement.

On Thursday, board members are expected to announce the results of the eight-hour workshop, including a recommendation to for the board's name, size and scope.

Board members also are expected to define which cultural items are included under its umbrella for assistance.

Commissioners seek tax funds for 4-H

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Recognizing the positive impact a strong 4-H program could have on Lincoln County children, county commissioners may dedicate a 2-cent cigarette tax to help pay for a part-time program coordinator.

Commissioner Rex Wilson proposed earmarking the $4,200 generated annually by the tax for a coordinator, among other things, to monitor students preparing exhibits for the annual county and state fairs.

"Nothing is binding until we get down to approving the final budget," Wilson said. "It was one of the top three issues I heard about when campaigning for office in this district and I got a lot of input from other parts of the county."

During a commission meeting last week, Dan Liesner, the southwest district extension service director, told commissioners they can influence how much time the county extension agent and home economics agent devote to youth and adult programs. Right now, the time of the two employees is supposed to be split equally between programs for youth (including 4-H) and for adults, he said.

Commissioners can serve on a community advisory board and push for more time used for 4-H, Liesner said. "I think it's almost mandatory that commissioners serve on it when $45,000 is coming from the county," Commissioner Chairman Monroy Montes said.

But even if commissioners allocated more money for the program, at this point no more state or federal two-for-one matching money is available, Liesner said. However, the match will apply to the local extension service's requested budget of $45,699 for 1997-98.

That's one-third of what we have for the total local budget," Liesner said. "We bring $2 in for every $1 the county earmarks." A memorandum of understanding between the extension service and county was approved by commissioners and includes a requirement for a twice-a-year verbal report to the county. The 4-H program in the county is good, but limited, because it depends totally on volunteers and not every community has its own program, Wilson said. Students from Ruidoso must go to Capitan to participate.

About six years ago, a full-time 4-H coordinator was employed and participants regularly traveled to competitions and conferences. But when he left and was not immediately replaced, the federal government dropped its match (for a coordinator), Wilson said.

"There's a tremendous opportunity out there for non-traditional 4-H kids to be involved," Wilson said. But all of the cigarette tax money can't be directed just to one community such as to Ruidoso where Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said he wants to see a 4-H club started.

"What we need to see there first is a volunteer," Wilson said.

The state Legislature cut the extension service's statewide budget by 3% this year and if parents want a full-time 4-H coordinator again, they may have to go directly to legislators and the governor to get enough money, he said.

"But if we can get help in the summer, it will be a good start," Wilson said.

Wilson said he first looked at using a cigarette tax designated for recreation, but the wording didn't fit 4-H. Then while looking through the county's annual budget, he discovered a second cigarette tax with no such restrictions that seemed perfect.

PROJECT UPDATES

Mid-Town restrooms near completion

Public restrooms in the center of Ruidoso's Mid-Town are almost finished, a village official said last week. The restrooms, located on the west side of Sudderth Drive, should be open to the public sometime this week, barring inclement weather or other obstacles, said Village Deputy Manager Alan Briley.

Ballpark restrooms and concession stand two weeks from completion

Construction on the restrooms, concession stand and storage room at the White Mountain Recreation Complex is virtually finished, Briley said. Work on the buildings as well as the landscaping and drainage is expected to take about two more weeks, Briley said.

Construction on the ballpark, which has been funded by a $1 million 1995 bond issue, began in December. The project has been a joint effort of school, county and village officials. The park, which had its first game in April, sits on a 17-acre site at Hull Road and White Mountain Drive. The site is owned by the school. Besides a ballpark, the complex includes two soccer fields and a smaller, multipurpose field.

Expansion of new library, village hall

Work on the new library, to be located near Ruidoso Village Hall, is about 13% complete, Briley said. Improvements and expansion work at village hall itself, located at 313 Cree Meadows Dr., is 18% complete.

Both projects are funded by the 1995 bond issue - $1.6 million for the library and $350,000 for expansion of village hall. The new library will be 14,000 square feet as opposed to the 6,000 square feet at the present library, located on Sudderth Drive. Village hall is to be expanded by 1,800 square feet. It is to include additional office space and handicapped bathroom facilities.

Water line repair work 20% complete

Since April, work crews have been busy replacing small water lines in the Country Club Estates area with larger pipes capable of greater capacity, Briley said. The work, estimated at $829,000, should be finished in September, he added. This project also was approved by the 1995 bond vote.

Sewer improvements

The following sewer line improvements are funded in part or in whole by $1.5 million in bond money, approved by voters in 1995.

PHASE I - Crews recently replaced sewerage lines along the Ruidoso River as it runs from Meander Drive to Sudderth Drive to Carrizo Canyon Road to Evergreen, Briley said. Clean-up work and some street striping duties are ongoing. The total cost of the project, $555,000, and is partially paid for with state funding and the village's sewer fund. Work on the project began in September.

PHASE II - Village crews are re-lining sewer pipes in the Upper Canyon along the river. The work, estimated to cost $500,000, will be paid for through the 1995 bond issue. Construction began in April on the project.

PHASE II-A - More sewer pipes will be re-lined along Paradise Canyon Road from Meander Drive to Hull Road. Construction contracts have been awarded and work is to start in the next month, Briley said. The cost of this phase is expected to be $250,000.

RUIDOSO COUNCIL

The Ruidoso Village Council took the following unanimous actions last week:

- APPROVED - Following a discussion with the Solid Waste Ad Hoc Committee, the Council approved a motion authorizing Village Manager Gary Jackson to initiate steps to determine how much trash Ruidoso produces.
- Jackson will negotiate with consultants for a study of Ruidoso's trash flow - how much is produced and what portion is forest waste. The village has been investigating alternatives to the service provided by the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority.
- APPROVED - The scheduling of a public hearing and possible action July 24 on an amended sign ordinance. The Council decided against holding the hearing June 10 to allow village legal staff additional time to research parts of the proposed ordinance.
- APPROVED - Authorization for Jackson and Deputy Village Manager Alan Briley to add amenities as allowed by the budget in the construction of the - new library and expansion of village hall.

- APPROVED - A request for a restaurant beer and wine license at Chileo's, located at 135 West Highway 7.
- APPROVED - A request for a stay of action on an off-premise directional sign for the Crown Point lodgings. The request was granted with the understanding that the sign would be replaced by a standardized directional sign that would list other lodgings as well.
- APPROVED - Two motions to produce standardized directional signs. One motion asked staff to produce signs indicating the locations of back-road lodgings, and another motion asked for signs that indicate fire escape routes.
- APPROVED - A request for an extension of bond period from the owner, Pamela Crocker Davis, of a 14-acre Country Club Village subdivision. An agent for Davis agreed to make several improvements to the property in exchange for the Oct. 30 extension. The extension also depends on approval from the insurance company issuing

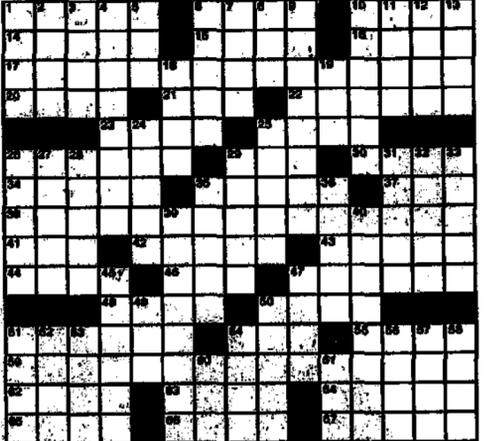

- the bond. Davis recently gained control of the property from a developer after the development project was foreclosed on. Two "Siamese" buildings will be removed from the site, grass and weeds will be cut, and a pile of dirt leveled.
- APPROVED - A request for vacation of public right-of-way along Grove Drive adjoining a lot in the Young Heights subdivision.
- APPROVED - A request for preliminary and final plat approval on a lot in the Cree Meadows Heights subdivision.
- APPROVED - A request for preliminary and final plat approval for a lot in the Skyland subdivision.
- APPROVED - The scheduling of a public hearing June 10 on a planning commission denial of application for an off-premise sign.
- REMOVED FROM AGENDA - A request by Dan Dee Cabins for use of public right-of-way at 310 Main Road for construction of a fence.
- APPROVED - Expenditure of $600 in lodgers tax revenues for a half-page advertisement in the magazine, A Guide to the Wild West.

Racetrack prepares for opening day

• More trainers and increased nominations have buoyed the hopes of Ruidoso Downs Race Track officials.

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Video gambling is more than eight months away, but Ruidoso Downs Race Track is feeling the effects of the impending legislation already, track officials say.

The anticipation for next year is already showing. We've got approximately 300 more horses in the barn area," Ruidoso Downs general manager Rick Baugh said. "Trainers and owners that we haven't seen in three to four years are back, re-establishing their ties to the track."

Baugh's immediate focus is the start of the 1997 race meet, which is two days away, however, he does have his eyes on the future. The future means video slot machines for the state's four racetracks located in Ruidoso, Santa Fe, Sunland Park and Albuquerque.

The State Legislature approved video gambling for tracks in its 1997 session. The approved bill goes before Department of Interior Secretary Bruce E. Babbitt for his signature June 20. Babbitt has 45 days to either sign it or not sign it. If Babbitt signs the bill, the compact becomes legal, and the state can begin forming a state gaming commission. If Babbitt doesn't sign the bill, it is, in effect, a pocket veto.

Either way, the bill becomes law, and the tracks should have video slots on the premises by early 1998, Baugh said.

The legislation would allow the tracks to operate no more than 300 machines, 12 hours a day for 360 days.

Ruidoso Downs hasn't purchased any video slot machines yet, Baugh said.

"We've learned over the years to move cautiously," he said.

Until then, Baugh and the track's staff have been busy with final preparations for the start of the season.

The track's 51st season begins with a bang. Ten to 12 trials are on tap for the Ruidoso Quarter Horse Futurity Sales trials beginning Friday. The RQH's Derby trials will run Saturday along with the Clovis Class Futurity Trials. Sunday concludes the opening weekend with the running of the Roadrunner Handicap for thoroughbreds. Post time all three days is 1 p.m.

"Ruidoso Downs will be ready, set, go for the upcoming season," Baugh said.

The early morning traffic jam as horses and trainers prepare for 1997 meet.

Warrior brings home the gold from state track meet

• Hull's performance highlights Ruidoso's showing in the Class AAA's State Track Championships.

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Officially, Ruidoso thrower Caleb Hull is Class AAA's best in the shot put.

Unofficially, he's the best in Class AAAA as well.

The Warrior senior ripped a throw of 52-feet, 10 3/4 inches in his first effort at the Class AAA State Track Meet in Albuquerque Saturday — good enough to intimidate and to beat the rest of the competitors, even the big boys from the AAAA-level.

"I think it did kind of psyche everybody else out," Ruidoso track coach Ronny Maskew said of Hull's first throw.

Hull's effort was the highlight in an otherwise slightly dim showing for Ruidoso at the state meet. The Warriors finished tied for 10th in the team standings. The Ruidoso girls failed to score.

Fellow senior Guadalupe Garcia was second-best in the 110-meter hurdles.

"Guadalupe has probably been one of the hardest working people we've had," Maskew said.

It paid off with silver for the senior hurdler.

B.J. Williams was sixth in the discus with a personal-best throw of 136-11, but it was Hull who had the crowd cheering for him.

"Caleb had a great day, and beat a lot people who thought they should have beaten him," Maskew said.

The No. 1-seeded Bloomfield thrower might have been one of Hull's victims.

"After I threw my first one, he never really had his head in it," Hull said of the Bloomfield entry.

Hull isn't the biggest of throwers, standing 6-1 and weighing 280, but its his oversized work ethic that made the difference, said Hull's shot put coach Art Howard.

The polite and modest Hull, however, credits Howard.

"I had a great coach who taught me the correct form. He kept me relaxed during the meet, and everyone else choked," Hull said.

Hull has thrown for just two years. His first effort for Howard, who joined the Warrior coaching staff this year, was in the low 40s.

In a season, Hull has added 10 feet to his throws.

And it all came together at Saturday's state meet.

"I had been able to throw 50 (feet) in practice. I just couldn't put it together in the meet," said Hull, whose personal best was 49-3 1/2.

Hull's improved form plus dedication in the weight room separated him from the competition at the Class AAA State Track Championships in Albuquerque last Saturday.

The secret Saturday was laying low and in the shade.

"They didn't really know me," said Hull, who will attend New Mexico State University in the fall and try out for the Aggie football and track teams.

"The key was to stay in the shade. Everybody else was in the sun."

No one was within five feet of Hull's first throw. He had five more attempts to better that mark and to go after the Ruidoso school record of 54-8 1/2 set by Shane Eidson. That record eluded Hull.

"I'm really happy with where I'm at, but I might have had the record if I had come out (for track) earlier," Hull said. "But that's OK. I'll take a state championship any day."

Warriors must improve Inexperience and ill-timed sickness hampered the Warriors' efforts as a team.

"We weren't pleased with the way we finished as a team," coach Maskew said. "We've just got to do a better job. I think having quite a few young people at state — maybe that experience — will help next year."

The Warrior relays simply didn't run their best in the preliminaries. No relay team qualified for the finals.

Ruidoso's girls missed Lisa Lopez, who was sick. Lopez runs key legs in the Warrior girls' short relays. Her absence resulted in a mad scramble for Maskew.

"I think the girls did run well considering we threw these relays together for a week," Maskew said.

RHS returns three of four relay legs next year.

Bronze for Ruidoso's Romero

• The Warrior girls tie for fourth place in the team standings at the Class A-AAA State Tennis Tournament in Albuquerque.

Myra Romero's road to the state singles championship was blocked by nationally ranked tennis player Nicoleta Spilca in the semifinals of the Class A-AAA State Tennis Tournament Saturday in Albuquerque. But the Ruidoso junior rallied to claim third place, defeating Santa Fe Prep's Lee Collenberg, 6-3, 6-0, later in the day.

Spilca, who finished second to her Albuquerque Academy teammate Andrea Goldberg, overpowered Romero, 6-0, 6-1, in the semis.

"I think she was a little bit overwhelmed by Spilca," Ruidoso tennis coach Dave Anderson said. "Spilca hits harder than most girls. She can hit on a dime, and so can Goldberg."

Spilca's coaching entourage can be a bit intimidating as well. Both Spilca and Goldberg have year-round individual instructors. Both are nationally ranked, and neither will take much of a break before starting summer tournament tours.

Romero, the District 4A-AAA champ, had little trouble advancing to the semifinals. She swept past St. Michael's Cara Luff 6-2, 6-2, and then blanked Elizabeth Kelsey of St. Pius X, 6-0, 6-0.

The Warrior junior played well, Anderson said. She just ran into better players.

Three other Warriors participated in the two-day tournament. Ruidoso boys singles entry Jack Roddy was eliminated in the first round, losing to Las Vegas Robertson's Juan Carlos Fuenziga, 6-1, 6-0.

In girls' doubles action, Desirae Maldonado and Melissa Lucero fell to Hawkins and Benjamin of Los Alamos, 6-0, 6-0.

Roddy and Maldonado closed out their tennis careers with their state appearances. Both seniors graduate Saturday.

Anderson also loses Rachel Beddoe, who is transferring to New Mexico Military Institute.

The Warrior girls return Romero, Lucero, Amanda Sisson and DeAnn Shade — four of the girls' top players. A young Warrior boys team returns most of its players as well, Anderson said.

But for Ruidoso to improve its showing at state, the Warriors must start playing year-round like the Albuquerque players, Anderson added.

Anderson praised the Ruidoso parks and rec department, which has done all it can to provide court time. But the Warriors need more financial support, the Warrior coach said.

Mescalero grads urged to embrace future, treasure past

• Mescalero Apache High School celebrated the graduation of 15 students in Saturday ceremony.

BY JULIE BAXTER
RUIDOSO NEWS EDUCATION WRITER

With the weather echoing the sunny mood of the day, 15 graduates of Mescalero Apache High School took their first steps toward a bright future Saturday.

The high school marked its second year with a morning commencement ceremony held in front of family, friends and community members. The predominant theme was graduates looking forward to things to come without forgetting where they came from.

"I encourage every one of you (graduates) to become history conscious," said Mescalero Tribal Council member Berle Kanseah. "We must know who we are and where we came from...."

He reminded graduates that their history is an important part of their future and only by speaking the language and cherishing their heritage can they hope to carry their cultural past into the future.

Guest speaker Bruce Klinekole III, a local chiropractor, also emphasized the importance of remembering lessons learned and learning to use that knowledge throughout the course of their lives.

"Having been in your shoes about nine years ago, I know each and every one of you has taken the time to think about what will happen in your future," Klinekole told the graduates. "It is time for a new beginning... but you must take what you have learned and use it. Everything you've been taught occasionally falls off the wagon as you travel down the path toward your goals."

But Klinekole urged the graduates not to be discouraged, because people, places or events will trigger those memories, which in turn will help them tackle the challenges they face in the future. And he also cautioned that the path of the future may be full of pitfalls and road blocks, but it shouldn't stand in the way of achieving goals.

"You have to put your foot in the door, even if it is closing. Then you work your way through that door and then, before you know it, you're on the other side of that door.... Sometimes that door closes hard and your foot gets smashed," Klinekole said of the challenges life may hold in store for the graduates. "If you slip a little or fall and hit the dirt, you have to pick yourself up, dust yourself off and go...."

Regardless, he urged class members to never let go of their dreams and never let anyone or anything discourage them from making those dreams reality. He told a story of his disappointing American College Testing scores, but how he didn't let those low numbers keep him from becoming a doctor. "I was not a failure. I packed my bags and I went to college," Klinekole said. "That test didn't do a darn thing for me...."

Part of overcoming those early shortcomings was his heritage. "I survived the last nine years because I was, and still am, proud of who I am and where I came from," Klinekole said. "No number on some national standardized test was going to keep me from being what I wanted to be...."

Klinekole also urged the graduates to be true to themselves. "Listen to those inner voices, they will tell you what you want to do. Listen to your heart... you must be who you are."

Staying in touch with friends, family and the community was high on Klinekole's list of advice. "Life is a cycle and our tribal future requires new leaders and new ideas," he said. "We must take care of what we have... it's all we have left."

"I want all of you to succeed. Things may fall out of your wagon, the road may be bumpy and that door may close hard... but don't give up."

Salutatorian Tanya Keene also urged her fellow graduates to meet the challenges of the future. She spoke of the importance of education and communication and told her classmates to "stand strong through your hardships and build yourself a strong foundation in these two areas and you will succeed."

Mescalero Apache High School graduate Josephine Duffy shakes hands with Bruce Klinekole III after receiving her diploma in Saturday's commencement ceremony. Duffy and 15 of her classmates celebrated the school's second year in the graduation exercise.

'On the Job Day' provides real work experience.

BY LEAH MILLER AND KC GIBSON
ON THE JOB DAY RUIDOSO NEWS WRITERS

On Wednesday, May 14, all the eighth grade students at Ruidoso Middle School had the opportunity to work at businesses in and around the Ruidoso area. Approximately 200 eighth graders participated. During the day students worked jobs ranging from hair-stylists to journalists. As journalists for a day, we went to businesses around town and interviewed classmates while they were working.

Daniella Robles and Todd Schrader were found working as disc jockeys at KWES radio station. They enjoyed doing this kind of work for a day, but don't think that they would like to do it when they get older, they said. The reason for this, of course, is the money, but they did have a lot of fun. Included in their fun was hanging out with Jay, Tracy, Tina and Jonenne.

We visited Rachel Tsenokhis working at Schlotzsky's Deli and TCBY. She learned how to make ice cream cones and decided that she might want to make this occupation her living. She thought this job was a lot of fun.

Summer Clifford worked at J. Roberts, which she thought would be boring, but ended up being really fun. She wasn't sure if she would like to be in this line of work when she's older. However, she did have a blast putting the price tags on the clothing in this store. Her personal comment was, "They have really cool clothes in this store, especially Calvin Klein."

Cade Hall had an interesting experience working at the airport. He learned how to send information back and forth between airports. He also got to better understand the way that airplane engines differ from the vehicles that he has seen in the past.

We enjoyed interviewing these five students. Working as a journalist was harder than we thought. At first it was quite boring, but once we were able to go around and interview with Julie Baxter it was a lot more interesting. We got a free lunch out of this job, and we also interviewed Paul Wirth and Becky Nichols. This fun-filled day began at 8 a.m. and ended at 5 p.m.

VIPS praised for being very important people

A special luncheon was held last week to honor volunteers.

BY JULIE BAXTER
RUIDOSO NEWS EDUCATION WRITER

School administrators and community members gathered in Ruidoso High School's Teepee Lounge Wednesday to pay tribute to some VIPS.

The very important people were participants in the school district's Volunteers In Public Schools (VIPS) program. Close to 100 volunteers devoted more than 2,000 hours toward helping Ruidoso schools, said VIPS Coordinator Becky Nichols.

The program, which marked its first year of volunteerism at Wednesday's celebration, is aimed at encouraging parents and community volunteers to become partners with schools. Areas where volunteers lend a hand include giving individual help to children, assisting teachers and staff and bringing additional resources to the schools with an emphasis on fine arts.

Volunteers are paired with schools and staff members based on need, Nichols said. She explained that staff members are asked what their biggest needs are and then volunteers with similar interests are paired with those coinciding needs.

The formula seems to be paying off, according to Nichols and Paul Wirth, director of instructional support for the district. Both said the number of volunteers involved in VIPS' first year was terrific and they are looking forward to greater involvement and success in the future.

In his address to the crowd, Superintendent Mike Gladden thanked the volunteers for their selflessness and the number of hours they shared. "You haven't contributed those (hours) to us, you've given them to our students. Thank you for all the work you've done. It's been absolutely wonderful," he said, "and we're going to reach even greater heights (in the future)."

Awards were next on the menu, with Nichols paying special tribute to Wirth for all his efforts in making VIPS a success. School principals from across the district gave special thanks to all the parents and community members who have helped them make education work.

Emcee Joan Bailey, Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce executive director, wrapped up the afternoon with verse from a poem by Michael D. Arvitt, which she said expressed the importance of VIPS and the missions it accomplishes.

"In this manner,
We build.
From one person,
And another,
And, yet, another,
An order.
Where before was human chaos.
We work together,
Toward a common goal.
Joining hands.
One with another,
and then another.
In this manner,
A couple is formed,
And then a group,
And then a community.
We must not fear,
To depend on one another.
Be strong enough,
To let others depend on us.
Together we can soar,
Like the mighty Eagle.
Apart, we drift in chaos,
Like feathers,
Tossed in the raging wind."

First financial steps: Ruidoso School District starts budget process rolling

BY JULIE BAXTER
RUIDOSO NEWS EDUCATION WRITER

With a new state funding formula and higher student counts to plug into it, the Ruidoso School District is charging up its adding machines to shape the budget for the coming school year.

Although the budget process is still in its preliminary stages and the numbers are no where near tallied, a few steps have been taken to firm up a final financial figure for the 1997-98 fiscal year. Estimating the state's contribution to the education of Ruidoso students and the dollar requests from each school site has given district administrators plenty of food for thought to chew on when they draft the budget.

A change in state equalization funding is expected to contribute more to the district coffers. At a budget workshop held last week, District Business Manager Caron Snow said the new configuration should bring in an estimated $10.5 million dollars. A projection Snow said is about $341,000 higher than last year's state funding.

The revamped funding formula approved this year by the State Legislature eliminated a density factor, which was beneficial to larger school districts, and replaced it with an at-risk factor, which Ruidoso administrators feel will distribute money more equitably.

With the at-risk factor included in equalization funding, district mobility rates, dropout rates, and the number of students with limited English proficiency and disabilities will be considered when state dollars are divided up.

"What this does is provide an opportunity to close the gap between instructional and educational reforms and traditional school financing methodology," Snow said. "The needs we're experiencing now aren't the same needs we were experiencing in 1974 when the (original) funding formula was initiated."

With that added budget boost in mind, district administrators are hoping to enhance the educational opportunities in Ruidoso. The first steps in gauging what will help students, were visits with site committees to determine the wants and needs at each school.

The advantages of all-day kindergarten

At Nob Hill Early Childhood Center additional staff was at the top of the request list in hopes of creating all-day kindergarten next year. Nob Hill asked for three more full-time equivalent teachers and two or three aides to make the all-day kindergarten work.

Nob Hill Principal Roger Sowder said establishing the full-day kindergarten program would help address some of the at-risk factors involved in the new state funding formula. He said the switch to all day would give students more time in the classroom, more time to work on music, physical education and art, as well as making more time in the day for trips to the library and the computer lab. In addition to the developmental boost for children, all-day kindergarten would provide quality childcare for parents, Sowder continued.

Parents, teachers and administrators from other schools also expressed their support for a full-day kindergarten program.

"Right now with the two-and-a-half-hour program, the actual teacher-student time is like an hour and 10 minutes," said Superintendent Mike Gladden. "The (added) time would really enhance what we're able to do. We would have kids ready to roll and the tools to roll with by the time they hit first grade."

Sowder did caution that all-day kindergarten won't solve every problem for every student, but it will certainly help them start a successful educational career. "It's not a cure-all or a solution to all problems ... but I feel it can impact the entire district."

A helping hand for troubled students

On the other end of the spectrum, many who attended the workshop believe the Gavilan Canyon School can address some of the at-risk factors for older students. The school is a transitional step for students who would otherwise face suspension or expulsion.

Paul Wirth, director of Instructional Support for the district, proposed three options for next year's Gavilan Canyon School program to those at the workshop. The first option was to maintain the existing staff and current enrollment of 15 students while continuing at its current site. The second option was to expand the staff by an additional teacher, expand enrollment to 20 students and to stay in the current building, but to separate students into two grade levels - fifth through seventh and eighth through 12th. Option three was to expand the staff by two teachers and an instructional assistant, expand enrollment to 30 and to create three programs in the school - second through fifth, fifth through eighth and eighth through 12th. The school's current site could not accommodate the larger enrollment, though, and a second site would be needed.

Those in attendance expressed support for the second option, adding that the program is an excellent resource for principals and teachers throughout the district.

"The kids get needier each year," said White Mountain Intermediate Principal Helene Kobelnyk. "(The school) gives me as a principal one other resource ... it not only helps that child, but helps classroom teachers by not having to handle the discipline problems."

Looking at the whole

District-wide wants and needs also were ranked with salaries and benefits emerging at the top. Snow said employee compensation makes up 85% of the district's budget and as soon as it is determined, the rest of the budget can fall into place. Salaries and benefits will be discussed in May 19-30 collective bargaining sessions with the Ruidoso Education Association.

Other items atop the wish list for the district included establishing an emergency account which would cost approximately $212,000, the all-day kindergarten at Nob Hill, a full-time district computer/technology technician, an additional maintenance person who would do landscaping in the summer and maintenance during the school year, new grounds maintenance equipment, new library books, additional nursing services and a full-time fine arts/music teacher for the elementary level.

District administrators will now start hammering out the numbers and submit the budget to the school board for approval. The final document must be ready by June 9, when it will be submitted to the State Department of Education. The State Department will then review the district's budget at 10:30 a.m. June 18.

RHS graduates asked to 'Come Home Again'

A core group of early alumni from Ruidoso High School are making plans for the second First-15 "Come Home Again" reunion June 27-28.

The reunion also will celebrate the 50th anniversary of RHS, built during spring and summer 1947. The original high school is now part of Ruidoso Middle School on Horton Drive.

Although the reunion is specifically for anyone who attended RHS during its first 15 years, all alumni, the public school personnel, and village and county officials are also invited. Activities will start at 5:30 p.m. June 27 in the high school cafeteria with registration and a reception. The events will continue throughout the weekend, concluding with an evening at the Flying J on June 28.

Registration forms have been sent to alumni whose whereabouts are known; however the planning committee has not been able to locate many former students. If anyone knows the location or status of anyone who attended RHS in the early days, please contact Vera Cooper Wood at 258-9218, Genevieve Hensley Venter at 338-4286, Jeannette Thompson Hatch at 258-5717, Helen Barajas Kilgore Woodfin at 258-5689 or Theresa Barajas Trotter at 258-4615.

How much for how many

Snow explained the funding formula is applied by determining the number of students per grade and per program, then that student count is multiplied by factors to determine the number of "units," and then each "unit" is funded with a standard unit value. For example, 10 students would be multiplied by the factor value of 1.25 to equal 12.5 units, which is then multiplied by the unit value of $2,220 for total state funding of $27,550.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) - A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new easy applicator liquid form. Arthur Itis, is guaranteed to work or your money back.
