Work ready to start on Billy the Kid center

• The $325,000 building will be constructed next to the Museum of the Horse and is scheduled for opening in 1998.

Chances are good Bill Hirschfeld will be smiling at 3 p.m. today. One of the initial coordinators of the Billy the Kid Scenic Byways, Hirschfeld intends to be at the groundbreaking for the byways' $325,000 interpretive center next to the Museum of the Horse. The center, designed by Albuquerque architect Jorge M. De La Torre, will be built by the local firm of Sierra Blanca Construction and should be finished and open by spring, said Hirschfeld, who initiated the project in 1994. "So it (will have been) almost four years to completion," said Hirschfeld, chair of the Ruidoso Scenic Byways Committee. "And I know the committee is really happy to see this come to fruition." Hirschfeld said the federally funded, state-approved and village administered project has had numerous red-tape hurdles to jump to get to this point. "For example, the village had to throw out the first round of construction bids this summer because none meet federal standards requiring a certain percentage of disadvantaged subcontractors. The village renegotiated the terms because of a lack of disadvantaged firms in the area, and collected a second set of bids. The bid to Sierra Blanca was awarded last month. Now, actual construction will be starting "any day" on the center, Hirschfeld said Tuesday. One misconception about the center is that it will be a museum for Billy the Kid, Hirschfeld said. Instead, the center will provide tourists information about the attractions in the area as well the entire southern part of the state. "So we hope the vacationing traveler will stop there to find out about southern New Mexico and the Billy the Kid Scenic Byways," he said. Coordinators decided to name the

Rancher's body found in trailer; roommate held

Sonia Kirkwood shot in chest, police say

► ALAMO CANYON

A 40-year-old Wyoming woman was charged Friday with killing a Lincoln County rancher and then hiding the woman's body in a horse trailer for a week. Terri Payseno was charged with an open count of murder after she notified the Sheriff's Office about the shooting death nearly two weeks earlier of Sonia "Sonny" Kirkwood, 58. "The two women lived together in a little ranch about four miles up Alamo Canyon (off U.S. 70 about 25 miles east of Ruidoso)," said Sheriff Tom Sullivan. "Kirkwood owned it and had a small horse operation there."

body was so swollen and discolored. It was sent to the state medical examiner's office for autopsy." Payseno also was charged with tampering with evidence. She is being held in county jail in Carrizozo with no bond. She gave no specific reason for not reporting the death of her friend when the shooting occurred, Sullivan said. No one apparently missed Kirkwood. "She didn't know why" she didn't notify authorities, Sullivan said. "But she was trying to get her affairs together. She has a daughter. She went to Portales and rented a place."

"Her sister ... advised her to notify us."

Tom Sullivan,
Lincoln County Sheriff

Both originally were from Wyoming. Payseno arrived about three months ago, he said. Apparently, the two women argued Sept. 13 when Payseno said she was going to move to Portales, Sullivan said. She told officers that they struggled over a .357 caliber handgun and it discharged, killing Kirkwood, the sheriff said. "The victim was hit once in the chest," he said. "There may be a second wound in the head, but we couldn't tell because the

At some point, Payseno contacted her sister in Wyoming, who came down to the ranch in Alamo Canyon. "At first, she told her sister that Kirkwood was visiting her mother, but eventually, she told her what happened," Sullivan said. "Her sister works for the Cody, Wyo., Sheriff's Department and advised her to notify us, which she did about 10:45 p.m. Friday." Checking office records, Sullivan said officers had responded to domestic calls at the ranch before, but no one had been arrested.

TWO SPECIAL SECTIONS THIS FRIDAY

Cowboy Symposium

Just a week and a day away, the 8th annual Cowboy Symposium will take the boards at the Glencoe Rural Events Center. It will feature a special tribute to two of the greats of country-western music, songwriter Cindy Walker and arranger/guitarist Eldon Shamblin. Read all about it in a special section Friday, and start making your plans to attend the Oct. 9-12 event.

Spencer Theater

The $20 million theater that Jackie Spencer has built opens Friday. A special Vamonos will feature one-on-one conversations with Spencer, and with the theater's architect, Antoine Predock. What inspired Spencer to build her jewel? What spoke to Predock when he envisioned the theater for the performing arts. Plus, the theater's first season, interesting facts and the people behind the scenes.

Water lines top village's 5-year plan

• Improvements to the village's water and sewer systems top the Ruidoso Village Council's five-year plan for major projects.

BY TONI K. LAXSON
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Running through Ruidoso are 28 miles of water lines installed sometime in the 1940s. Those 2-inch lines probably should have been replaced in the 1970s, a village administrator said. "There is still a deficit out there and we are still trying to catch up," said Deputy Village Manager Alan Briley. On Tuesday night, the Ruidoso Village Council decided to continue its focus on upgrading the village's water and sewer systems in its long-term plans for overall improvements. In the next five years, the council would like to complete $3.6 million of work on Ruidoso's water system, and almost $2.2 million of work to its sewage system, according

Elderhostel group takes in Ruidoso's sights

BY JULIE BAXTER RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

For Jim and Vaun Born, retirement has meant everything but settling down.

The couple from Westbrook, Maine, have instead turned retirement into a chance for world travel and lifelong learning.

For more than 10 years now the Borns have been seeing the world as part of Elderhostel.

"As far as we're concerned, Elderhostel is one of the best travel programs," Jim Born said.

"We've been on many trips in the United States and overseas," Vaun Born added.

Now the Borns and 22 others are in Ruidoso as part of Elderhostel. Along with the Borns from Maine, there are visitors from Florida, California, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, Utah and New Mexico.

Facilitated through Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso, Elderhostel has been showing the world to senior citizens since it was founded in 1975.

"Elderhostel is an educational, college experience for senior citizens," explained local coordinator Carolyn Allen. "It's a national, independent non-profit organization providing academic experience for people over 55. Elderhostel is administered nationally in Boston, with 2,000 colleges, universities, museums, national parks ... participating as hosts."

This is the second year Allen and ENMU-Ruidoso have hosted an Elderhostel group. Last year, Allen said, 12 people came from across the United States to learn the history and landscape of Lincoln County and its surroundings. This year, the number is up to 24.

The course work for the weeklong Elderhostel program includes classes on Southwest literature, the Lincoln County War, art and Billy the Kid. The group will also take field trips to Lincoln National Forest, Lincoln and the Sunspot Observatory in Cloudcroft.

"We do a theme week," Allen said. "That way we can have anything we want that has to do with Lincoln County and Otero County."

The theme for Elderhostel week is "Ruidoso: From History

Carolyn Allen, Ruidoso Elderhostel coordinator, and Terri Trumble, ENMU-Ruidoso instructor, registered the 24 participants in this week's Elderhostel Week in the West Western Swiss Chalet on Sunday afternoon.

into the Heavens."

Allen said the academic components are regulated by guidelines set forth by the national Elderhostel program. And she said the academics are just as important as seeing new sites.

"If you keep learning, studying, you're going to keep your mind alert," she said. "I can't promise it will make you live longer, but you won't just settle into your armchair."

The Elderhostel week began in Ruidoso on Sunday when the 24 participants arrived at the Best Western Swiss Chalet to sign in. It will continue through Friday.

"You spend time and learn a great deal about the community, the people, the politics, the history ... That's what Elderhostel is all about," Jim Born said. "And it keeps you young."

Furr's plans to 'fight it out'

Furr's Supermarkets Inc. has no intention of closing its store on U.S. Highway 70 when the Wal-Mart Super Center opens on Oct. 15, an executive said Tuesday.

"There's nothing to the rumors," said Buz Doyle, Furr's president.

Reports have been circulating that Furr's would be closing the Highway 70 store, leaving only its store on Mechem Drive.

However, "We have been upgrading both of our stores," Doyle said. "We have been spending a lot of money in an effort to ... show our dedication to our customers."

"We are going to fight it out."

FOR THE RECORD

Longtime Mescalero Apache President Wendell Chino will face former tribal vice president Frederick Peao in the general election Nov. 4. A story Friday incorrectly identified Chino's challenger.

A tour of historic cemeteries scheduled by the Lincoln County Historical Society on Oct. 11 will not include the George and Frank Coe cemeteries. Other cemeteries will be visited, however.

6 kids join show choir

The Young Americans, a traveling show choir that aims to show kids the joys of music, dance and performance was in town Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A total of 206 students participated in the event and performed with the Young Americans on Saturday night in front of nearly 700 parents and others.

After the show, students auditioned for the Young Americans. Six who made the cut were Katie Lukens, Audrey Moore, Christina Mendoza, Dennis Butler and April Elwell. B.J. Williams, a 1997 graduate of RHS, was also selected.

Wednesday morning of this week the annual roundup ended and cattle shipment from the Mescalero Indian Reservation started. The stock sold well, bringing higher prices than ever before in the history of the reservation.

The annual auction was held last week and bids were opened on about 2,000 head of stock. The Jersig Co. of Clovis offered the high bid on steer calves and will pay $24.13 per 100 for the top beef.

Last year the top price for steer calves was $17.70 and at that time was an all-time high. The ranges on which this top cattle graze cover parts of the 450,000 acres of the reservation and are widely scattered.

The Mescalero herd, owned by the various families and the agency, was started in 1912 with about 2,000 head of cattle.

highway tour after Billy the Kid because of the outlaw's name recognition, both national and international, Hirschfeld said.

The byways consists of a road tour through Lincoln County with more than a dozen sites of interest. The center will provide information on the sites and state through hands-on-displays, audio visual material, interactive computers as well as printed information, Hirschfeld said.

"You will be able to get on a computer and punch up a list of things to do in Lincoln County, or in Ruidoso," he said.

People can travel the Billy the Kid Scenic Byway in about 90 minutes if they don't stop. However, since the point of the byways is to stop, travelers may want to take a day or two visiting historical, cultural and recreational sites.

The byways loop includes the artist colony of Hondo Valley, the Museum of the Horse, the Glencoe Rural Events Center, the Smokey Bear Museum, the state parks in Lincoln, the Spencer Theater for the Performing Arts and more.

Side trips along the byways include Ski Apache, Bonita Lake and the mining ghost town of White Oaks.

Byways, designed to increase an area's tourism, are cropping up about the country. Hirschfeld has said New Mexico already has eight to 10 byways, including one in nearby Cloudercroft.

Brochures outlining the tour and enumerating attractions are now available at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, Ruidoso Village Hall, the Ruidoso Convention Center and the U.S. Forestry office.

Internet users may explore the Billy the Kid Scenic Byways website at www.juge.com/ed/byways/index.htm.

What to see and do on Billy the Kid scenic tour

Information provided by the Billy the Kid Interpretive Center

1. The Billy the Kid Interpretive Center, scheduled for completion in spring of 1998, will orient visitors to the area and provide information and exhibits on the many attractions available along the Scenic Byway or within easy driving distance.

2. Ruidoso Downs offers lodging and dining facilities as well as major tourist attractions and a popular annual arts and crafts fair.

3. The Museum of the Horse houses exhibits of horse, cowboy and Indian artifacts, fine art and special exhibits. The equine sculpture, "Free Spirits at Noisy Water" by local artist Dave McGary, marks the museum's entrance.

4. Ruidoso Downs Race Track, home of the world's richest quarter horse race -- the All American Futurity, operates mid-May through Labor Day.

5. Ruidoso is a cosmopolitan village with restaurants and lodging facilities ranging from rustic to luxurious. It offers fine galleries, shops and five area golf courses. Skiing, biking, hiking, horseback riding and casino gaming are just moments away.

6. The Spencer Theater for the Performing Arts, located on a picturesque plain in Alto, opens this month and will host a year-round season of Broadway theater, dance, music and family events on both indoor and outdoor stages.

7. Capitan is home of Smokey Bear and site of the Smokey Bear Museum and State Park. The bear cub was found clinging to a burnt tree after a forest fire in the Capitan Mountains in 1950.

8. Fort Stanton was established in the 1850s and recaptured after the Civil War by Kit Carson. It was home to the renowned Buffalo Soldiers of the Ninth Cavalry. A Merchant Marine cemetery is on the site. Limited access to the historic sites is available through a walking tour that begins at the Fort Stanton Museum.

9. Lincoln, established in the 1850s, has remained virtually the same since the Lincoln County War was fought here. Now a National Historical Landmark and a state monument, the courthouse where Billy the Kid made his last escape is open to visitors. The Lincoln County Heritage Trust operates the Historical Center where visitors may enjoy exhibits featuring the Apache and Spanish cultures, the Western Black Cavalry (buffalo soldiers) and the Lincoln County War. Lincoln offers a unique opportunity to experience first-hand the many cultures that created Lincoln County and New Mexico.

10. Hondo, home of the famous Hondo Fleeta Dancers, rests at the juncture of the Rio Ruidoso and the Rio Bonita, where the Rio Hondo is formed. Apple orchards and fruit stands abound in summer and fall.

11. San Patricio was ransacked in 1878 by a posse searching for the Billy the Kid and other "Regulators," who often hid out there. More recently, renowned artists Peter Hurd and Henriette Wyeth made it their home.

12. Glencoe is the home of the Glencoe Rural Events Center, Lincoln County's equine sports facility and site of the annual Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium.

County side trips
• The Inn of the Mountain Gods on the Mescalero Apache Reservation west of Ruidoso on U.S. Highway 70. A luxury resort with casino gaming, a world-class golf course, fine dining and a host of other activities.

• Ski Apache, located six miles north of state Road 48 on Ski Run Road, is on the north ridge of the spectacular Sierra Blanca Peak. The ski area boasts of having New Mexico's largest lift capacity, more than 54 runs and some of the best warm weather skiing in the nation. Ski Apache is open Thanksgiving through Easter.

• Bonita Lake, a man-made lake, is kept stocked during fishing season and surrounded by hiking trails and camping areas. The lake is located off state Road 48, turning left onto state Road 37. When the road splits into a "Y," take a left to Bonita Dam.

• Nogal, an early New Mexico mining town that is now home to many local artisans, is also off state Road 37, off the right leg of the "Y," past the turn off to Bonita Lake.

• Carrizozo, the Lincoln County seat since 1912, is located off U.S. Highway 380, which intersects state Road 48 several miles north of Alto.

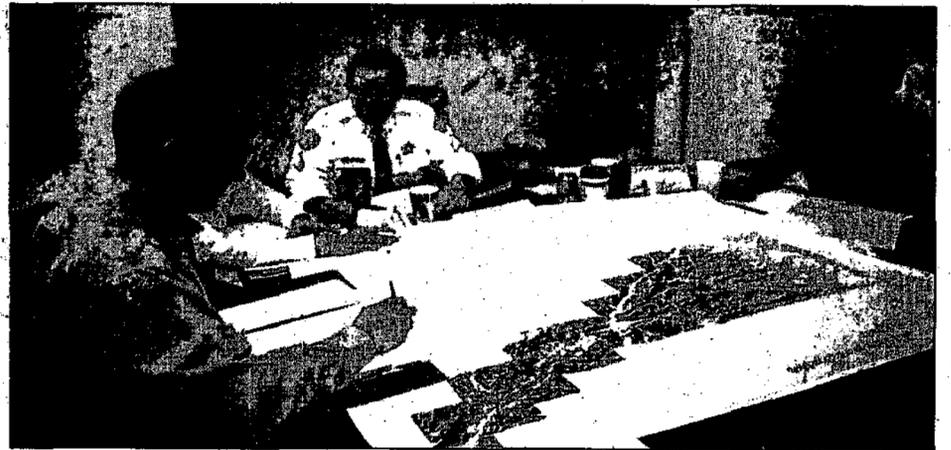

• To the west of Carrizozo is the Valley of Fire State Park, a 1,000-year-old lava flow, a fascinating geological site.

• White Oaks, once a booming mining town in the 1880s, is now part ghost town, part artist's colony. The entrance to White Oaks is located three miles north of Carrizozo on U.S. Highway 54, visitors then turn east on state Road 349 for nine miles.

• Ancho, about 19 miles north of the turnoff to White Oaks, features My House of Old Things, a museum in the town's former railroad depot.

• Corona is Lincoln County's northernmost community and a rail town surrounded by sheep and cattle ranches.

Planning for a disaster

Lincoln County Manager Frank Potter, left, confers last week with staff from the county's emergency services during a mock emergency strategy session staged by the federal Bureau of Reclamation in conjunction with the Mescalero Apache Tribe. The emergency scenarios centered on a fictional failure at the Mescalero Lake dam.

Tribe says jobless rate down to 17%

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A recent report that unemployment on the Mescalero Apache Reservation hit a low of 3 percent is wrong, because some of the raw data used to come up with the figure was inaccurate, a tribal consultant says.

Fred Heckman, who worked for the tribe for 14 years from 1962 to 1976 and now is involved in grant writing and other projects for the Mescalero, said unemployment on the reservation is closer to 12 percent to 17 percent.

"It's down, that's true," Heckman said. "It's been as high as 40 percent to 60 percent 30 years ago, but it has slowly been eroded."

The tribe adopted an economic development plan 30 years ago, he said. The initial emphasis was on developing job opportunities on the reservation. That has been accomplished, although more is planned, he said.

The next step and the current focus of tribal officials is to work on training and educating young tribal members to fill those jobs and to compete in the modern job market, Heckman said.

"For 30 years, we've been developing employment opportunities and now our job is to work with our people to be specifically educated for those jobs," he said. "We're following an Overall Economic Development Plan started in the 1960s and kept active over the years. It's taken time, but because (the Mescalero) have a stable tribal government, they've been able to pursue the goals with a certain amount of diligence."

The statistics used to come up with the unemployment figure of 3 percent and a $942 per capita distribution of Bureau of Indian Affairs money didn't reflect the actual number of tribal members, Heckman said.

"I need to get all the statistics down tight," he said. "We want to know as best we can what the true tribal statistics are."

The numbers supplied to the BIA showed a drop in tribal membership from 4,300 in 1993 to 3,500 in 1995 and a reduction in unemployment from 17 percent to 3 percent, he said.

"That just doesn't happen," he said, adding that the report to the BIA apparently was hastily assembled by persons untrained in assembling the data and they were given only a few days by the BIA.

OUR OPINION

Don't hold your breath

Granted, Ruidoso is different.

It has many more ups and downs than lefts and rights, for one thing. It has million-dollar showplaces standing next to 40-year-old knocked-together cabins, no specific laws against keeping pigs or other livestock in the village limits, and well over half its houses are hooked to septic tanks, including a few of the mansions.

What? The state's Environmental Department man in Ruidoso, Carl Stubbs, says 50 to 75 percent of the homes and businesses in Ruidoso are on septic tanks rather than sewer lines. Fortunately, most of the village gets municipal water; think what the public health picture would be if every house had its private well, too.

Nevertheless...

That septic tank fact wouldn't be as widely known this week if the village's annexation board hadn't started at looking at what might happen if pressure came to provide sewer lines to new areas.

The village is concerned enough to get some legal questions resolved. The critical one, it appears, is: Can the village be forced to extend sewer lines to unincorporated areas, or, put another way, can it be forced to annex a subdivision and provide services?

Environmentalist Stubbs says he knows of no state or federal law mandating sewer line extension, but the village's Planning and Zoning Department manager, Cletus Richards, would like that in writing, if you please.

At first blush, that seems to be stretching the rule of reason: Why should any incorporated community be required to extend municipal services beyond its boundaries? Doesn't make much sense.

But Richards might just have a point; after all, the federal government has forced local governments to haul away everybody's solid waste for the past decade, all in the name of protecting grungy humanity against itself.

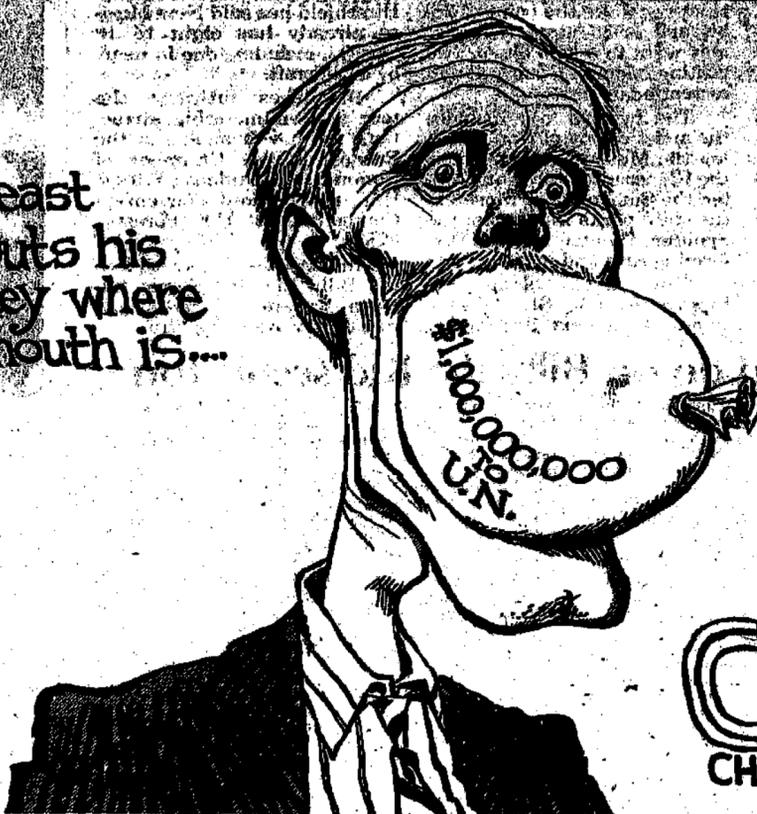

Whatever the rationale, the very fact of all those septic tanks is enough to give a public health professional pause. And the multi-millions of dollars required to connect all Ruidoso residences to sewer lines would give an economic planner nightmares.

That's a side of the "growth" equation not many go-go boosters have considered closely.

Of course, Ruidoso's history is one of entrepreneurial development. Who in the past has spent a whole lot of time making sure it was legal or up to sanitary standards? They just did it...and usually got away with it, as witness all those septic tanks.

Infrastructure (meaning water and sewer lines to every home and business) right here along the Rio Ruidoso is far from complete. Therefore, even talking seriously about extending boundaries or annexing subdivisions without water and sewer lines already installed by the developer should get the great big horse-laugh it deserves.

THE DREAMER

A day for tribute

BY DAN STORM
COLUMNIST

Close to 1,000 folks attended the 50th anniversary celebration of the village of Ruidoso Downs at the village's Senior Citizen Center on Saturday, Sept. 28.

The festivities began with a parade in which Ruidoso helped in the celebration of Ruidoso Downs.

Featured in the parade were Ruidoso High School and Middle School bands, and horseback groups, including the Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse.

Then at the Old-Timers Reunion, longtime friends shared memories and admired the many photographs put together by Delbert and Judy Posey. At noon a luncheon was served, where the meeting of new and old friends continued.

State Rep. Dub Williams introduced Lt. Gov. Walter Bradley and his wife, Debbie, and their children Nicole and Kristy.

The lieutenant governor said he had something in common with the day's celebration, in that he also was 50 years old. He further stated that his family was a "family values" unit bound by love and devotion.

He went on to praise the village for the progress it has made in the short span of 50 years. In tracing the aims of the present state administration, Bradley mentioned tax reduction, highway improvement and education.

Tribute to former mayors

Rep. Williams extended thanks to those who worked faithfully toward the success of the celebration, including Delbert and Judy Posey, Village Clerk Leann Weibrecht and Mayor Joe Hayhurst.

In enumerating the mayors, Dub mentioned that he had children of most of them as his pupils during his career as teacher and coach.

Former mayors are as follows:

Harley Parnell, Alton Gray, Jack Shriver, A. Gray, W. S. Bunt, E. E. Miller, O. O. Barnes, Zeke Scott, J. J. DiPaolo, Clovis Perry, J. C. Harris, J. J. DiPaolo, Norman Wheeler, J. C. Day, J. C. Harris, C. L. (Bones) Wright, Lavonne Addy and the present mayor.

Among the many old friends present at the gathering, I was glad to see Clovis Perry, Edward Payton, Eudocia Ambriz, the Rev. Wayne Joyce and Frank Hale.

I was especially pleased to make the acquaintance of Bob and Anne Hart of Lindale, Texas, who were among the many visitors who attended the celebration.

Ben Sanchez get award

At the services Sept. 28 at Saint Anne's Chapel, Glencoe, the Rev. Canon John W. Penn led the congregation in a round of applause and congratulations for Benjamin "Coe" Sanchez for receiving his first rodeo belt buckle, presented to him by the Lincoln County Rodeo Club for championship performance.

Ben and his sister, Jo Marie, are acolytes in the Episcopal Church.

The Van Winkle reunion

Once again I was glad to be present at the annual reunion of the Van Winkle kin, held every year at the Circle B RV Park on Highway 70 west.

The gathering is sponsored by Pete Van Winkle and his cousin, John Van Winkle, owner of the RV park.

On Friday I will tell more about this gathering of a clan that originated in Holland.

Time to find something else besides motorcycles

To the editor:

Tom Laxson's article about the police gearing up for the arrival of 18,000 bikers, necessitating bringing in a brigade of police from around the state, plus a military helicopter, makes me wonder if we're dancing with the devil.

What can our city leaders be thinking, to put the local population into potential harm's way by authorizing an event needing that kind of surveillance/reaction force?

Most prison riots are put down with less force than that. I someone expecting a bigger problem than that? Who? Or is this a case of police over-reaction, likely to show too much force and exacerbate a small incident into a major event?

A few years ago when I had a minor role in police policies and practices, we found that a large police presence intimidated and instigated. Apparently, city hall is either callously disregarding general public safety, has been misinformed or chooses to exercise no control over the actions of its police force.

Be that as it may, in talking with local business owners and residents, the annual biker event doesn't really make much difference business-wise anyway. What money the bikers bring in is more than offset by the local and tourist business that goes out of town during the week they're here. I think for all of the above reasons it's time to end the annual bike rally and attract another, less potentially hazardous event.

While we're on the subject of motorcycles, can anyone explain to me what the difference is in safety laws that requires everyone (and our passengers) to use seat belts in automobiles and trucks, but doesn't require bikers to wear safety helmets?

In some states, even bicyclists are required to wear protective headgear. I have seen too many accidents where bikers become mental vegetables (usually supported for the rest of their lives at public cost) because of not using a brain bucket. (I was a motorcycle cop for a number of years and have over 100,000 miles on two wheels - mostly on Harley-Davidsons).

Just for the record, the answer to the question above is that federal highway dollars have seat belt laws and usage strings attached, but not motorcycle helmet usage. Our state legislators will do no more than what they are forced to. Pity!

YOUR OPINION

Praising police action

To the editor:

My question is, why does the city even allow some 22,000 troublemakers to congregate each year at all. I think we citizens and residents owe more than we know to Chief Maddox and his police force, and to those police officers from the surrounding areas, for protecting us from those outlaws.

I agree with the police chief: If all those law enforcement officers had not been here, it is certain that our communities, our homes and our families would have been ravaged by those hordes of unsavory bikers. Bedlam would have ensued. Murder, rape and pillage would certainly have been the order of the day, and our valley would now be nothing more than a smoldering ruin littered with the carcasses of our families, friends and neighbors.

We all need to recognize that these 22,000 visitors, here dressed in their colors and riding their "haws" are BAD - and the only thing that saved us from them was our ever-diligent police force. It was truly awesome to see them at work. During these perilous days, our public servants often assumed God-like proportions, fulfilling that most comforting promise ... that "wherever two or more are gathered, there will I be in the midst of them." Police Chief Maddox, I thank you. My family thanks you. My friends and neighbors thank you. We all owe our lives to you.

And to the critics ... I would say this: Stop whining. It should be obvious, to you, as it is to me, that our safety and security is much more important than the safeguarding of the constitutionally guaranteed rights of assembly and self-expression of the likes of those horrid bikers.

I mean, is it really such a big deal that the rights of a few "questionably innocent" individuals were trampled on? As I see it, this is clearly a question of "the greater good."

I overheard one biker, on his way out of town, telling some folks how much he resented the heavy-handed police presence during the rally, and how, though he'd enjoyed coming here for the last 10 years, he wouldn't be back. I for one am glad of it.

I respect Chief Maddox for his ability to take his criticism and hope he is able to take my praise as well.

Waste problem has no easy (or tax) solution

A recent editorial (Ruidoso News, Sept. 24) on the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA) talked about the proposal of using property taxes instead of rates as a method of financing the operation.

COMMENT

BY ROBERT DONALDSON

On the surface, it appears to be a simple solution to a very complex problem. However, as with most simple solutions, more problems are created than solved. Simply, it bases citizens' payments on the value of their property instead of on the waste stream they create or the actual services they use.

For example, two commercial properties with the same value, one a small office and the other a food operation, would pay the same amount but would have vastly different waste streams. If a home with one family and a quadruplex with four families are valued the same, then they would pay the same amount for service.

The only clear advantage I can find to this proposal is that LCSWA would have a way to make county residents who refuse to pay their garbage bills pay something (taxes) into the system.

What wasn't mentioned about the proposal was that the tax rates discussed to fund the whole operation were more than we pay in property taxes for city or county operations. The proposal would raise the property taxes in Ruidoso by approximately 30 percent. A $100,000 house in Ruidoso that now is charged $90 a year for garbage service would pay $300. Yes, LCSWA needs more money, but is this the most legitimate and equitable way for Ruidoso's citizens to pay for garbage service? Personally, I do not think so.

The editorial made references to the fact that the elected officials were worried more about their re-election status or higher elected offices than solving the problem. It suggested that if we would only raise taxes and give more money to LCSWA, then that would solve all its problems.

I was quoted as saying, and in fact did say, that I was very uncomfortable with raising your taxes for this purpose. You can bet that I am! I would only hope that every elected official would feel uncomfortable with raising your taxes anytime, even if they knew it was the right thing to do and had to do so.

There is a fundamental reason why the Solid Waste Authority never seems to be able to make headway in solving the collection problems. The organization is flawed and maybe fatally flawed. It was set up where it could not succeed from the beginning. From the outset, it could not set rates. It could not borrow money. It had no unified rate structure based on service provided or costs incurred. It never built capital equipment replacement costs into the rate structure. It is in fact an authority without authority.

Legal information now is emerging that LCSWA may have been improperly set up. If true, this may prevent us from having a legal way to correct these problems.

Can LCSWA be fixed? While cooperation among the communities in Lincoln County is desirable, is saving LCSWA at any cost in the best interest of the citizens of Ruidoso? If not LCSWA then what do we replace it with? These are the issues that Ruidoso officials have been investigating.

Two fundamental questions can be developed from Ruidoso's investigations. First, can permanent rate-making authority or taxing authority be given to LCSWA; and, if so, will every entity be willing to give up its authority in a way that will give long-term stability to the revenues needed? Second, will the additional revenue be enough to make LCSWA function properly or are there other fundamental flaws that will prevent it from succeeding? Each day brings new legal findings that do not bode well for giving LCSWA the powers it needs to succeed in the long run. As to the second question, it is simple. More money is rarely the only thing needed for a real solution to major problems.

What has worked is the joint powers agreement between the different municipal and county governments in Lincoln and Otero counties for the development and operation of a landfill. Contrary to the belief of some, LCSWA is not a party to this agreement; only the individual political entities are. Because of this, Ruidoso's use of the landfill will be unaffected by whatever decision Ruidoso makes concerning collections.

In Otero County, the Solid Waste Authority was set up only for the landfill, not collections. In hindsight, their model has worked and ours has not.

As the saying goes, "Only fools rush in..." The elected officials and management of Ruidoso are systematically and methodically working through each potential solution and the potential problems that may surface. The decision we will make in the very near term will set the direction that we will have to follow far into our future. The interest of our citizens is forwarded when, even in the face of an outcry to act immediately, the essential time is taken to provide genuine long-term solutions and not short-term "feel good" actions.

Whether Ruidoso stays in the LCSWA collection system or establishes its own collection system, we will almost certainly receive criticism from some quarters. However, as long as our focus is on what is in the best interest of the citizens of Ruidoso, then we will have done the job we were elected to do.

I do believe that when a determination comes forth, it will be in the best interest of Ruidoso's citizens. That determination will have been well thought out and it will get the job done.

Our only failure will be if, in the end, we do nothing.

OTHER VIEWS

A little pick-up would help us clean up

To the editor:

On Saturday morning, Sept. 13, the Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department sponsored a citywide litter pickup in association with the "Trek for Trash" event.

Approximately 75 people showed up, and picked up 120 bags of trash and litter off the main streets and roads in our town.

Unfortunately, there is a large number of people who continue to throw litter out of their vehicles, and a small number of people who think enough of our beautiful area to come out and pick it up.

We will probably never be able to curtail the litter bugs who have no respect for our visual environment, but if every person who owns a home or business would take it upon themselves to periodically pick up their little corner of the world we could have a much more beautiful Ruidoso.

What about it folks? Will you do it? Will you encourage your neighbor to do the same?

Comments up and down the parade route Saturday were remarkably similar to those of Pauline Randolph. "It's about time they did something for the Downs," said Randolph, a resident of Ruidoso Downs for 31 years. Randolph was one of hundreds who turned out Saturday morning to watch the village's first parade in decades. Ruidoso Downs celebrated its 50th anniversary of incorporation Saturday with a parade down U.S. Highway 70, a free barbecue luncheon, a fiddling contest, a bullriding contest, athletic events and more.

Ruidoso Downs Mayor Joe Hayhurst on Saturday called the celebration a success. Village Clerk/Treasurer Leann Weihbrecht said about 800 people came to the free luncheon at the Senior Citizens Center at the All American Park.

"And there were quite a few people at the dance later," she said.

Parades, fiddling, food, music and bullriding were just some of the fun going on in Ruidoso Downs on Saturday to celebrate the village's 50th anniversary. Top, riding in the float by Fox Cave restaurant, "Zeus" and Heather Lee acknowledge the crowd along U.S. Highway 70. Above, Kyla Herrera, 3, surrounded by members of the Porto family, leans out for a better view of the coming parade. Below, members of the Ruidoso High School's "24-Carat Gold Band" perform in the parade. Right, a patriotic horseman leads the parade, which began a little after 20 a.m. Saturday. ## Lawsuit filed against maker of diet pill

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF

A Roswell attorney has filed the first class action suit in New Mexico against the manufacturers of a popular diet pill now suspected to cause heart damage in users. Kent Buckingham of Trenchard and Buckingham said he filed Tuesday in District Court in Roswell in connection with the diet pill popularly called Fen Phen.

He was contacted by a pill user after a recall of two products, because physicians warned that cardiac evaluations should be performed on people who have used the diet aid, Buckingham said.

"That could cost $600 to $1,000 per person and we think the manufacturers should set up a fund to pay for these evaluations to see if users have been harmed," Buckingham said.

Named as defendants are Wyeth-Ayerst Laboratories Co. in Philadelphia, Pa., and A.H. Robbins Co. Inc. in Richmond, Va.

Fen Phen is a combination of two drugs, fenfluramine and phentermine. The two products recalled are marketed under the names of Pondimin and Redux, the latter with the chemical name of dexfenfluramine, according to a local pharmacist.

"We need to find out how many others are out there who took this pill and may need evaluation," Buckingham said. The firm's toll free number is 1 (800) 831-9602.

Fort Stanton investigated

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF

An independent investigator on contract with the state Department of Corrections is looking into allegations of violations of administration guidelines at Fort Stanton prison.

Mike Toms, public information officer for the department, said the investigator arrived at the minimum security prison for women last week and should wind up his work by the end of this week.

"There have been allegations made and the secretary wanted to get to the bottom of the situation and make sure nothing is wrong," Toms said. "It's nothing that major. It's more something between management and workers; one employee against the other against the warden. I don't think anything involves possible criminal actions."

Toms said he was unable to be specific while the investigation is in progress.

Warden Sandra McFadin has headed the fort prison 12 miles northeast of Ruidoso since it accepted its first women prisoners in December. She previously was in charge of Camp Sierra Blanca, first as a minimum security prison for men and then for women. The camp, about one mile from the fort, now is a juvenile offender rehabilitation center and is operated by a private Florida-based company.

WATER: Midtown sidewalks, fire station also in village's 5-year plan

to the village's capital improvement plan.

Briley said the council has emphasized water and sewer projects for the past 3 1/2 years, including the 1995 bond election in which $2 million was approved for water and $1.5 million for sewer.

"We are making a dent in these things," he said.

The five-year plan is not a definite commitment to action, only an outline of infrastructure and capital improvement needs, Briley said.

Obviously, Ruidoso would have to find a way to finance the projects, first, he said.

Village department heads and councilors use the plan as a tool when considering budgets or in weighing priorities, he added.

Other items in the plan include:

- Using $1 million, a possible combination of state and village money, to extend midtown's sidewalks.

"We are making a dent in these things,"

Alan Briley,
deputy village manager

- Construction of a fire station in the Upper Canyon at a cost of $100,000.

- Construction of a $3.5 million recreation center.

Another major item on the village's infrastructure capital improvement plan are improvements to the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

About $7 million is scheduled to be spent on the airport in the next five years, mostly for the construction of a new runway.

A federal grant, through the Federal Aviation Administration, pays for 90 percent of the runway with the state and Ruidoso each chipping in 5 percent.

Briley said the village first began creating five-year capital improvements plans five years ago, when he joined the staff.

This year, for the first time, major purchases such as vehicles and equipment have been pulled from the infrastructure plan and are included in a separate plan for capital expenditures, Briley said.

Hotel patrons almost catch intruders

A Lubbock couple staying at the Best Western Swiss Chalet on Saturday night walked past two teen-age boys going the other way before they realized the boys had come out of their room, Ruidoso police said.

Kara Sue Melton told police her husband chased the boys, but lost sight of them in the woods behind the hotel.

The couple had been away from their room for about two hours, returning about 10:30 p.m.

Though nothing appeared to be missing from their room, the couple's belongings had been gone through, police said.

The boys apparently entered the couple's room by prying open a front window.

Bomb threat made

Customers and employees of the Circle "J" Bar-B-Que restaurant at 1825 Sudderth Drive were quickly evacuated to a nearby parking lot Friday night after a caller implied a bomb would go off in five minutes, Ruidoso police said.

Betty Beaver, restaurant owner, was sitting at her desk in the restaurant's office about 8:15 p.m. Friday when the telephone rang and a deep voice told her, "You have five minutes. You have five minutes," police said.

She called police and, by the time officers had arrived a few minutes later, had everyone in the restaurant evacuated to the parking lot of the Diamond Shamrock gas station next door.

Officers Arthur Nelson and Michael Avilucea waited five minutes after the bomb was to have detonated before searching the restaurant, police said. Restaurant manager Lisa Putz searched for a bomb both inside and outside the building with the officers.

No bomb was found. Police have several suspects.

Condo window smashed

Someone entered a condominium in the 100 block of Mets Drive earlier this month by breaking out a front window, Ruidoso police said.

Ann Hearn, property manager, told police the condominium, a time-share, had been broken into sometime between Sept. 20 and 23. Because of the difficulty in reaching owners of the condo, police do not know what has been stolen, if anything, from the apartment.

Storage unit broken into Burglars cut the lock to a storage unit in the 200 block of Carrizo Canyon Road and took almost $2,000 worth of items, including two satellite dishes, Ruidoso police said.

Steve Seiber of Mescalero told police a saddle and a set of dishes had been taken from his storage unit.

The burglary happened sometime between Sept. 19 and 26, police said.

A manager at the storage rental facility apparently told Seiber the unit next to his had also been burglarized, police said.

Car wash damaged

After breaking into the Dollar Car Wash at 140 Sudderth Drive, someone pried open the change machine and other machines looking for money, police said.

Michael Dollar, manager of the car wash, told police he had emptied the change machine earlier.

The burglar took keys to the time wash machines, opened them, but was still unable to remove money from the machines, police said.

Many of the machines were damaged during the burglary.

Sheriff returns from national meeting

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF

After a two-week seminar in Longmont, Colo., Jim Sullivan said he has returned home a better sheriff.

The National Sheriff's Institute, held the second and third week of September, was sponsored by the National Sheriffs Association as an executive development program.

Thirty sheriffs from all over the country attended, Sullivan said. They were from as far away as Florida, Georgia, Wisconsin and Oregon.

The institute focused on management training for sheriffs.

The theme of the whole school was do the right thing, Sullivan said. By doing it right in the first place, lawsuits, employee discontent and other problems can be avoided, he said.

Besides reviewing civil liability cases, civil rights violations and leadership style, the institute among other topics covered cultural diversity, budgeting, negotiation, developing a good place to work, effective communication and decision making.

2 arrested in Kansas; 312 pounds of pot seized

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF

A Ruidoso woman and a Tularosa man were arrested earlier this month in Topeka, Kan., when officers discovered 312 pounds of marijuana, worth $624,000, in the trunk of their car, officials said.

Gary W. Casper, 30, was charged with intending to sell the marijuana.

The woman was not charged and was released later by officers, Kansas Trooper John A. Eichkorn said Tuesday.

Because she was not charged, the agency is not releasing her name, he said. She was reportedly unaware of the marijuana stowed in the trunk of the rented 1997 Dodge Intrepid they were driving, Eichkorn said.

Troopers began pursuing the couple the afternoon of Sept. 19 when Casper drove off after being stopped for a traffic violation, Eichkorn said.

Casper eluded troopers in a car chase down a turnpike and abandoned the car in a parking lot.

Troopers, with the help of other law enforcement agencies, found the car as well as the 312 pounds of marijuana in the trunk. People near the parking lot gave officers information leading them to Casper and the woman.

Kansas troopers and officials with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency used the marijuana shipment to catch the intended purchaser in Kansas City, Kan., Eichkorn said.

Casper is being held at the Shawnee County Jail on a $25,000 bond.

Warriors keep Rams hapless

The drought is over for Ruidoso. The Warriors down Portales for the first time in 11 years.

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

A balanced attack in all ways, shapes and forms, offensively and defensively, resulted in a Ruidoso football victory Friday. The Warriors held off the visiting Portales for a 27-14 win, the first win over the Rams in 11 years.

Ruidoso improved to 2-3 overall while the Rams fell to 0-5.

"This is probably the best balanced game we've played all year," said Ruidoso head coach Les Carter, citing statistics to prove it - 222 yards rushing, 218 yards passing for 440 yards total offense.

Defensively, the Warriors yielded just 93 yards rushing to the Rams, forcing Portales to put the ball in the air. A couple of Portales passes hurt the Warriors, but for the most part Ruidoso's defense held the Rams in check.

It was the balance of quarterback Corey Saenz that put away the Rams for good midway through the fourth quarter. With the Warriors leading 21-14, the Ruidoso junior QB broke outside the Portales defensive containment and outran the Rams for 75-yard touchdown run.

The play, a 36 year, called by Ruidoso offensive coordinator John Roberts, sucked in the Rams.

"We had been running the ball inside. So in turn they started to reacting to that," Carter explained. "It was a good read by Corey's part and good execution by everybody else."

When the Rams' defensive end bit and went after the Warriors' fullback, Saenz kept the ball instead of handing off.

But who could blame the Portales ends for biting? Fullbacks Adrian Herrera and Brett Meyer had punished the Rams inside, combining for more than 120 yards rushing.

Meyer's slashing, hashing inside running seemed to spark the Warriors. The junior running back was more involved in the Ruidoso offensive attack. The Ruidoso coaching staff had used Meyer in the slotback position because of catching ability, but moved him back to fullback for the Portales game.

The reason? Carter wanted to keep receivers Josh Varnadore and Garvin Grant in the game for almost every offensive down. Instead of sending in the plays via wide receiver, the fullbacks delivered the offensive calls from Roberts. It's a communication system the Warriors will stick with.

All eyes are on Ruidoso receiver Josh Varnadore (#80) as he prepares to catch a Corey Saenz pass. The junior-to-junior combo hooked up on seven passes for 144 yards and one touchdown in the Warriors' victory.

"We need to have a strong inside running game," Carter said. "If it's one of them or both of them, we'll use whatever it takes."

Complementing the Ruidoso running attack was an equally successful passing attack. Saenz exploited the Rams most of night with the quick slant pass. His favorite target was Varnadore who hauled in seven passes for 144 yards and one TD.

Ruidoso jumped out to a 14-0 lead before the Rams came charging back. James Elms' kickoff return to the Ruidoso 1-yard line set up the first Portales score, a 9-yard TD pass from Kevin Crane to Michael Doerr.

The Rams tied the game just before the half when Crane tossed his second TD pass of the night, this one a 6-yard strike to Joey Looney. It capped off a seven-play, 89-yard drive for the Rams.

During that drive, the Rams found some success passing.

Did the Rams' passing proficiency surprise Warrior coach Carter?

"No, not really. Our secondary came off coverage," said Carter.

The third quarter presented some tension-filled moments for Carter and the Warriors. The Rams dug themselves out of a deep hole, driving from their own 1-yard line to the Ruidoso 41. They were aided by two, 15-yard Ruidoso penalties. After the second Ruidoso personal foul, Carter "chatted" with the Warrior defense.

It worked. Johnny Adams sacked Portales QB Crane, ending the Rams' threat and forcing a punt.

On their ensuing possession, the Warriors drove 69 yards for the go-ahead TD, an 11-yard pass from Saenz to Varnadore.

The Warriors' defense thwarted another Ram effort midway through the fourth quarter. On fourth-and-13 from the Ruidoso 21-yard line, Warrior Jason Leadingham knocked down a Crane pass, giving possession to Ruidoso.

Three plays later, Saenz broke free for his game-sealing TD run, and the Warriors recorded their second win.

Warrior linebacker Arthur Miller (#17) recovered this Portales fumble.

Tigers on a roll

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

It's hard for Capitan coach Bryan Massé to imagine a better position for his Tiger volleyball team as it opens District 6AA play in Cloudfcroft on Thursday.

The Tigers have been invincible of late, winning six straight in a 10-day span, including their own Capitan Classic Tournament on Saturday. Capitan is now 7-4 overall.

"We're playing well," Massé said Tuesday, after his team's latest triumph, a five-game victory over Hagerman on Monday. "I'm really pleased with what we're doing."

"They're being aggressive. They're playing smart. They're sacrificing themselves," Massé said. "They've got bruises all over their bodies. It's a good time to be playing well, going into districts."

Capitan doesn't have much time to savor its recent victories. The Tigers travel to Cloudfcroft on Thursday for the 6AA opener. Even though the Lincoln County girls have defeated the Bears twice this season, Massé expects a challenge from Capitan's rival.

"They are very capable. They are scrappy and they don't make a whole lot of mistakes," he said.

That was evident last Fri-

They're great!!!

The Tigers have won six straight matches in the last 10 days, including some big wins such as:

- Rival Cloudfcroft twice, Sept. 20 and Saturday.
- Defending Class A champ Fort Sumner Saturday.
- Hagerman in five-game thriller Monday. Game scores were 5-15, 9-15, 15-9, 16-14 and 17-15.

day in the Classic. After sweeping its pool with a perfect 6-0 record, the Tigers faced Cloudfcroft in the first of the tournament's bracket play. The Bears surprised the Tigers with a 15-13 win in the first game. Capitan responded with 15-2 triumph in game 2, and then claimed the match, 15-11 and 15-4.

After getting past Cloudfcroft, the Tigers turned in their best performance of the year in the semifinals against Class A State Champion Fort Sumner. Capitan downed the Foxes in four games.

Grizzlies still learning the game

Seasoned 'Stangs rout Carrizozo gridders

BY STEVE BENNETT
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

The Carrizozo High School football team lost to Ramah High 47-18 Friday, dropping their season record to 2-2.

But first-year head coach Rick Beserra is optimistic of his young team's ability compete the wild and woolly world of six-man football.

This is Carrizozo's second year of competition in six-man football and Beserra is finding six-man, to say the least, challenging.

"I've spent eight years in coaching and this is really different than 11-man ball," said the Grizzlies' coach.

The game differs from 11-man football in several ways. The field size - 80 by 40 yards - is a condensed version of the regular 100 by 53 yard field. The offense must move the ball 15 yards, rather than 10, to make a first down.

All offensive players are eligible to take a handoff or receive a pass and the quarterback, or whoever takes the snap, must hand off before advancing the ball. Games are played with the usual four quarters except each quarter lasts 10, rather than 12, minutes. And the games are generally high scoring affairs with final tallies in the 50s and 60s.

It has resulted in a "helter-skelter" Carrizozo offense, Beserra said. "Anything goes (offensively). Defensively, we generally go man-to-man," he said.

Experience prevailed Friday in the District 1-opener for Carrizozo's Ryan Roper looks for open teammates down the field.

Ramah and Carrizozo.

"Our youth showed up against Ramah," Beserra said. "Their kids are seasoned with many years of six-man football behind them. We didn't execute well Friday, but as we mature that should improve."

"But our kids played hard against Ramah. I was encouraged that we held them to only six points in the first half, Ramah normally scores about 60 points a game."

Despite their youth, the Grizzlies are getting quality play from several players.

"John Paul Ortiz has been a real pleasant surprise as well as Josh Thorton. Josh is a senior and has developed into a good leader on the field. He has a great work ethic and I believe

Slumping Ruidoso spikers search for solutions to mental blocks

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The Warrior volleyball team dug itself a hole, dropping a pair of District 3AAA matches Friday and Saturday.

Coach Fran Webb's team slipped to 3-6 overall and 0-2 in District 3AAA play with losses to Silver, 4-15, 15-12, 15-8 and 15-10, and Cobre, 15-13, 10-15, 15-12, and 15-9.

The Warriors played well against the usually strong

Colts on Friday in Silver City, Webb said. Her team frustrated Silver's star hitter Julie Whetton with its play at the net, and took advantage of Whetton when she was in the back row. But the other Colts stepped up and the Warriors simply were beat by a better team that night.

The long road trip to the far reaches of western New Mexico was made even longer by a scrappy Cobre team. The Indians, recharged by new coach Dominic Romero, surprised the Warriors.

Ruidoso struggled hitting the ball against Cobre. When the Warrior front line couldn't put down a kill, the Warriors tried dinking over the Cobre blocks. In a sense, that played into the Indians' hand. Cobre is quick to the ball and not much hit the floor, frustrating the Warriors even further.

"They definitely know what's going on," Webb said of the Indians. "They're a seasoned team. They've had their rears kicked around, and I'm sure they're tired of that."

Cobre proved just that with a four-game victory, shocking Webb and her Warriors.

"Cobre is definitely beatable. There is just no excuse to lose to them" said the Warrior coach.

Blocking has been a problem for the Warriors - not the physical blocking of the opponent's front line - the mental kind.

"We just need to get our heads straight," said senior middle hitter Amanda Kakuska. "We're physically there. We just have this mental block."

The Warriors and their coach are scratching their heads, searching for a solution.

That solution could come with a victory this weekend resulting in a restoration of the Warriors' confidence.

watch them," Massé said of his team. "It was really neat. They were yelling. They were picking up everything off the floor. They were just clicking. I was really just gloating over there (from the bench)."

In the finals, Capitan had to rally from a 2-1 game deficit to beat Grady. The Tigers squandered a 12-4 lead in the third game and lost 16-14.

"Rather than fold it up ... we came out in the fourth game and just played really well," Massé said.

Capitan coasted in the next two, 15-2 and 15-5, to take the tourney.

Massé credited the play and leadership of seniors Michelle Wilson, Monica Johnson and Ann Holt with the Tigers' success of late.

"They are doing such a good job on the court. All three of those seniors are getting the most out of their athletic ability. I'm so proud of them," Massé said.

'Seventh' player sparks CHS

Capitan nearly suffered a letdown against Hagerman on Monday. Massé expected the Tigers to be flat, but he didn't expect the Tigers' "seventh" player to rally the troops.

The visiting Bobcats won the first two games 15-5 and 15-9 - that was before Tiger fan club was in full force. A number of Capitan male students, some of them fresh out of practice, arrived midway through the third game.

"They started yelling and screaming and it got us fired up," Massé said.

The Tigers, with their fans raising the gym roof, won the next three games, 15-9, 16-14 and 17-15, for the victory.

"We're blending. We're meshing. And we're learning how to win, too," Massé said. "The kids wanted to prove something and our support was tremendous. It was a total team victory, a total school victory."

No, not a bad time to start district play.

VOLLEYBALL: Warriors seek return to winning ways

Ruidoso takes to the road again for back-to-back matches in Albuquerque. The Warriors face St. Pius on Friday and the Albuquerque Academy on Saturday.

"We need to take those games just to build our confidence back up," Kakuska said.

The Warriors are familiar with St. Pius. The two teams met up at the University of New Mexico Lobos Team Volleyball Camp this summer.

"We'll just get to see how they've progressed. It's going to definitely test us physically and mentally," Webb said.

District 3AAA race

It's early, but the district race is shaping up to be a battle for second place. Webb doesn't think anyone will challenge Silver for the title.

"Silver just has this edge over everybody, whether they have the talent or not," Webb said. "People just go in thinking they are already beat."

Ruidoso's challenge for runner-up will come from Coble, Webb said. With Saturday's loss, Ruidoso already has its back up against the proverbial wall.

"We can't lose any more district games," Webb said.

The Warriors have to be perfect against Santa Teresa and an unusually down Hot Springs team, then defend its homecourt against Coble when the Indians come to visit.

Kakuska believes more hard work is in order for the Warriors - and a little immediacy.

"We need to work a lot harder than we have been," she said.

"We just need to get our heads straight and realize that this is our last chance (as seniors) to take state," the senior added.

his attitude will rub off on the younger players," said Beserra, who also had good words for Simon Beltran, Jim Vermillion and Ryan Roper.

Game recap

After slugging it out for most of the first half, Ramah end Preston Lewis hauled in a 35-yard touchdown pass with 18 seconds to go. The Mustang PAT kick failed and Ramah went to the lockerroom with a 6-0 lead.

After the half, Carrizozo surged back with a gutsy 39-yard TD run by John Paul Ortiz.

It wasn't knotted for long. Ramah scored on twice in the third quarter on Preston Lewis' 40-yard TD reception and on Lance Blea's fourth-down TD run which padded Ramah's lead, 21-6.

Early in the fourth period, Lewis scored again on a 52-yard scoring pass and Ramah upped its lead to 27-6.

With 5:01 remaining in the game, Carrizozo end Josh Thorton held on to a Ryan Roper pass for the third Grizzlie touchdown, cutting the Ramah lead to 27-12.

The Mustangs squelched any hopes of a Carrizozo comeback with three more scores.

Program teaches in English, Spanish

BY JULIE BAXTER
RUIDOSO NEWS EDUCATION WRITER

Down a corridor at Sierra Vista Primary School, two rooms sit side by side. Over one door the sign reads "Bienvenidos" and over the other "Welcome."

Inside those two rooms, small voices can be heard reciting lessons in litting Spanish or in English - it all depends on the day of the week.

For 44 students at Sierra Vista Primary School, learning isn't limited to just one language. Instead, first- and second-graders in the dual language program study reading, writing and arithmetic in both Spanish and English.

Taught by Irene Sutton and Iva Gutierrez, the Sierra Vista program is a new model in bilingual education. Sutton teaches the second-grade class, which she also taught last year as first-graders, and Gutierrez teaches first grade.

Principal Danny Flores said the dual language model is more inclusive than past methods of bilingual education. He said in the past that bilingual instruction often isolated Spanish-speaking students from the rest of the school population.

"Sometimes when you think of bilingual education, you think those are the kids that lack the skills of speaking English and you stick them all in one classroom," Flores said. "This model takes limited English proficiency (LEP) kids and combines them with students who want to learn Spanish."

The thrust is to put proficient English speakers and proficient Spanish speakers, along with bilingual speakers of varying degrees, in the same classroom and allow them to learn from each other. On alternate days only English is spoken in the classroom and then only Spanish, forcing students to complete all their lessons in either their "home" language or the foreign one.

Sutton, who started a dual language pilot program at Longfellow Elementary School in Albuquerque before coming to Ruidoso, said the dual language lessons allow students to learn from each other and enhance self-esteem.

"On the day it is not their language, the (proficient speakers) become leaders," she said. "They're able to help each other out."

Gutierrez said many times children in bilingual programs are not given opportunities to be leaders among their peers.

Sutton said a negative stereotype is often affixed to bilingual programs, too; stereotypes she thinks the dual language program can remove.

"I'd like the stigma of a bilingual program to be taken away," she said. "It is not a remedial program. It can be a gifted program."

Flores agreed that previous models for bilingual education may conjure up negative images.

"It's kind of like the model for special ed," he said. "Just take those learning deficit kids and lock them into a room. I'm not sure we were incorporating those kids. The model now is classroom inclusion. I think the expectations rise."

Flores said including children of all learning levels and native languages sets standards and provides role models. Isolating some students, he said, may not provide such positive influences. With inclusion, Flores said, students can look to each other for inspiration and good examples.

Sutton said the dual language approach also leads to more successes. Often, she said, children in bilingual programs are just expected to learn and do lessons in English, but if the comprehension of concepts and meanings behind words isn't there the lessons are empty and soon forgotten.

"The philosophy is to teach in their home language. Once they learn to read in their home language, it's so much easier to transfer to another language," she said.

Q What is Rolfing?

Rolfing is a methodical system of postural realignment that treats the body as a unified whole, not just parts. Through direct manipulation of the soft tissue - muscles, tendons, ligaments, and the web of fascia that contains and connects them - the Rolfer can help the client to release old patterns of strain and tension. This allows the client's body to align itself in the most efficient, comfortable, healthy pattern possible. The changes from Rolfing are lasting, and progressive. Clients report feeling and looking better and better for several months after their last session. Rolfing can restructure the body to work with gravity and not against it, thus improving whole body function.

Data on Getting Online A Kid's Internet Guide

To find out about the Internet, The Mini Page talked with experts at the Fairfax County Public Schools in Virginia, and The Mini Page Webmaster.

What is the Internet?

It is millions of computers all connected to each other through networks. Your one little computer can be connected to other people's computers all around the world.

History

The Internet was started by the U.S. Department of Defense in the 1960s. Later, colleges and science agencies were linked through this network. The Net was made available to the general public in 1984.

At first it was very hard to use. Then, in 1991 the World Wide Web, or WWW, was invented. The WWW arranged things by subject matter. This made Internet use much easier.

Today millions of people all over the world are connected through the Internet.

What is the World Wide Web?

The WWW lists sources. It stores information within the Internet. It enables users to find what they want to get within seconds - pictures, sounds, words, information and even movies.

Kids at Aldrin Elementary School in Fairfax County, Va., log on, or find the NASA site to get the latest data on Sojourner's discoveries on Mars. The site is: <http://ranger.hq.nasa.gov/telebotanics.html>

What do you need to get on the Internet?

- a computer.
- something that allows one computer to talk to other computers. (Usually this would be a modem, which hooks up the computer to the phone lines.)
- software that lets all of these computers talk to each other (often called a browser).
- telephone lines or special lines to carry the signals.

How do most people get connected?

1. Your parents or school can call an Internet Service Provider (ISP) to give you the software and help you hook up. These companies' main job is to connect you to the Internet.
2. Call up a Commercial Service Provider such as America Online, Prodigy, Microsoft or Compuserve to hook you up, plus give you extra services. All of these providers will charge a monthly fee.

A Kid's Internet Guide

What can kids do on the Net?

- Search for information: There are thousands of sites on the WWW. Many sites have links that connect the site to other sites. Users can "click on a link" without having to type in an address. Linking from site to site is called surfing.
- Send e-mail, or electronic mail: This type of mail leaves messages.
- Chat: to send and receive messages while online. Chatting is in "real time." Each person at a certain computer site or chat room can read the message on the screen right away.
- Download: to transfer data from one computer to your own.

What is a home page?

The first page of a Web site. The home page and the other pages make up a Web site. Think of the home page as a door to a friend's house. When you type in the address, you are knocking on that door.

How do people make or build a home page?

They use a special code called HTML (Hypertext Markup Language). People can put the code in themselves or they can use special software. They also have to add pictures.

In 1996, 65 percent of U.S. public schools were hooked up to the Internet. Only 14 percent of public school classrooms were connected.

What is Netiquette?

- It is Internet etiquette, or how to act on the Net.
- Always remember there is a person at the computer on the other end.
- The Internet is not truly private. Don't type anything unless you would show it to your grandmother or your principal.
- DONT USE ALL CAPS BECAUSE THAT IS CONSIDERED SHOUTING.
- Keep to the subject. Don't ramble on.
- Never write any put-downs. Respect other people's viewpoints.
- Be careful with humor. People might not know you are kidding. You might use a "smiley" if you are only kidding.

The Mini Page thanks Joyce Giuliani, Markham Elementary, Fairfax, Va.; Anne Savage, Terraset Elementary, Fairfax, Va.; Dr. Terence Woolsey, coordinator, Information Technology, Fairfax County Public Schools, Va.; and Chris Pizey, Mini Page Webmaster.

How does the Internet help in classrooms?

Using e-mail encourages kids to read, write and communicate. Doing research encourages kids to think about their sources. There is so much information they must consider how accurate it really is. The Internet is of great use to teachers doing research and exchanging lesson plan ideas.

Safety

- Never give your home address, phone number or anybody else's name and numbers. Don't give this out on surveys, e-mail or chat rooms. Check with your parents or teacher before answering anybody's questions.
- Get approval from your teacher, parent or librarian before visiting a site. Follow their computer-use rules.
- If you see something that makes you feel uncomfortable, let your parents or teacher know.

Advertising

The Internet, like television, carries advertising. When you are surfing, you should be aware that often somebody is trying to sell you something. Some advertising runs in a bar across the top of the page. Some companies have their very own sites. They try to attract customers by offering entertaining information and games. Be smart. Think about the source of any information.

Next week The Mini Page celebrates fall with a look at trees.

$35 for 150 minutes.

Any minutes.

Any time.

Any questions?

● Sure, it may look simple. But convincing our bean counters to offer a great wireless deal this straightforward wasn't easy, believe us.

Still, don't take our word for it: cut out all the other wireless deals you find in this paper, then compare. Read all the fine print and legal stipulations in the other ads (if you need help, call your lawyer or accountant).

Pretty soon you'll realize that their deals, at first, aren't all they seem to be, and that ours is. A simply great deal.

For $35 a month, you get 150 local minutes (that's 2½ hours a month). Plus, there are no "on" and "off-peak" times to worry about, so you can actually use your wireless phone, whenever.

All our lawyers ask from you is a one-year service agreement with credit approval; oh, and taxes, assessments, roaming, directory assistance and long distance are additional.

Oh yeah. Like all good things, this offer won't be around forever, so call or stop by before 10/11/97.

Don't discard old cookbooks

Older cookbooks are rising in value.

Collectors can search for rare old books such as "The Boston Cooking School Cook Book," by Fannie Farmer, first issued in 1876, over 100 years ago.

Many collectors save the advertising recipe leaflets and books that are offered by food companies. The items usually are offered in exchange for a few labels and a modest price.

Search kitchens at house sales for the old cookbooks and recipes.

Speedee memorabilia is quite valuable.

Once upon a time ...
it was called storytelling

Ingrid Schmitz has three file drawers filled with lesson plans that she rotates for Story Time, which is offered free to children 3 to 6 years old twice a week — 2 to 3 p.m. Wednesdays and 10 to 11 a.m. Thursdays.

Hilda Ortega watches as her daughter Jackie tackles a coloring assignment.

Ingrid Schmitz keeps 'em moving.

"It stays constant because their attention span demands that," Schmitz said last week as she herded a group of 3- and 4-year-olds through a series of activities focusing on the numbers one through 10.

Story Time at the Ruidoso Public Library is an hour of kinetic learning.

From a song about numbers, to a coloring assignment, to a story about a "Big Fat Hen," to another song, Schmitz never lets down the pace.

"What's this number?" she asked the bubbling mass of post-toddlers.

"BLUE," they responded.

Part-teacher and part-entertainer, Schmitz has coordinated the library's Story Time since 1979. Before that, she was a kindergarten instructor, trained in her native country of Germany.

She has three file drawers filled with lesson plans that she rotates for Story Time, which is offered free to children 3 to 6 years old twice a week — at 2 to 3 p.m. Wednesdays and 10 to 11 a.m. Thursdays.

"What number is this," Schmitz asked the rapt group at one point. "Three," responded the chorus.

"Three. Very good. Kari (Bumgarner), can you come on over here and trace the 3?"

Lauren Davis connects the dots at Story Time.

After almost 20 years of leading Story Time, Schmitz said she has seen a lot of Ruidosans wriggling, jumping and otherwise squirming through her doors at the public library's children section.

"Of course, I have seen my kids grow up and bring their own kids," Schmitz said with her slight German accent. That broaches another aspect of Story Time — parents are always invited to attend. They may even help out with the tougher subjects, such as a connect-the-dot drawing of a shoe (as in one, two, buckle my ...). Other connect-the-dot projects included a door (three, four), some sticks (five, six) and a gate (seven, eight).

"Boy, this is going to be hard, but I think you can help each other," Schmitz said, encouraging her pupils. Joann Cattedra goes over to help her 4-year-old daughter, Corey Jo, only one time during Wednesday's session.

"A lot of times I help and a lot of times I sit back and let her do it herself. She's very independent," Cattedra said.

She's been bringing her daughter to Story Time for more than a year, and it's become an anticipated event in Corey Jo's life, Cattedra

If beauty is only skin deep, the onion has layers of history and lore

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

It can be grown in your garden or be purchased at any supermarket, but the potent onion is used for more than just flavoring.

Folklore attributes hair regeneration to the odoriferous vegetable and legend credits the bulb with the ability to forecast the weather and a future spouse.

And local health food store operators say the much maligned onion is loaded with vitamin C and other beneficial properties.

"I have used an onion poultice on someone's chest who caught a cold," said Elizabeth Byers of the Wild Herb health food store in Ruidoso. "Just grind up the onion in a blender and put it on warm, but don't cook it or it will lose some of its properties."

She also has read about using the thin membrane found between an onion's outer skin and its thick inner layers as a wrap around cuts and scratches to promote quick healing, Byers said.

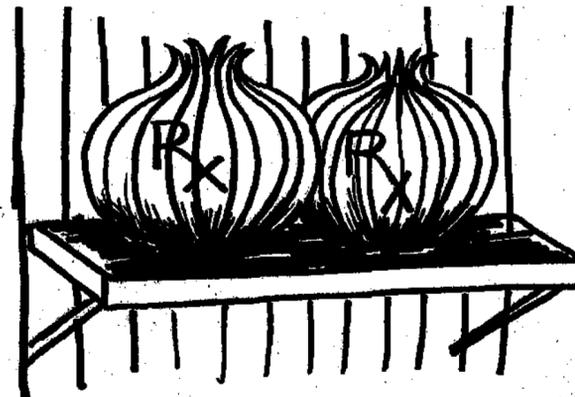

But when it comes to health food products, most manufacturers turn to garlic, a cousin of the onion, as an ingredient, she said. One exception is Ultra Juice, a mixture of vegetable and fruit juices she has in stock.

One of the most intriguing legends about the onion sprang from the British Isles 200 years ago, when young girls were advised to use the vegetable to find their ideal mates.

A maiden would scratch the names of her suitors on each of four onions and put them in the dark. The first to sprout bore the name of the man she should marry.

Other legends contend that if an onion was placed under a girl's bed, it would attract a sweetheart and ward off those who would be jealous of their happiness. A maiden might dream of her future spouse, if she tucked an onion under her pillow on St. Thomas Eve.

The onion's prognostication power apparently isn't limited to romance. Farmers checked the thickness of their onions' skin to see how the winter would go. A thick, tough skin meant the winter would said. Not only did she meet her two best friends (Maggie Lancaster and Lauren Davis) at Story Time, Corey Jo also has a collection of her crafts on the family refrigerator, thanks to Schmitz and Story Time.

"She learns a lot and she enjoys interacting with the other children," Cattedra said. "And she learns to take turns." The program is funded by the village of Ruidoso, and Schmitz is often assisted by volunteers such as Evelyn Westbrook Jenkins, herself a retired elementary school teacher.

Though only eight kids were in last Wednesday's session, they crowd into Story Time when school is out, Cattedra said.

"During the summertime, we have had to turn them away," Schmitz confirmed with regret.

Class subjects range from basic numbers and letters to more arcane topics such as snails — the lesson two weeks ago.

"And next week we will talk about time," Schmitz said. "I know it's a hard subject, but I make it easy."

Darden and Byerly

Darden, Byerly will wed Oct. 18

Brandy Kaylynn Byerly and Tim Darden, both of Las Cruces, have announced their engagement.

Darden, son of Jeff and Doris Darden of Las Cruces, formerly of Ruidoso, is a Ruidoso High School and New Mexico State University graduate. He is employed by the University of Nevada-Reno.

Byerly, daughter of Dudley and Brenda Byerly of Las Cruces and Sydney Jacobsen of Long Island, N.Y., is also a NMSU graduate. She works at NMSU.

The two will be wed in an Oct. 18 ceremony.

ONIONS: Vegetable's curative power touted for centuries

be cold and rough. Egyptian physicians in the 12th century recommended rubbing the onion on strategic sites of the man's body as a contraceptive. The odor alone might have prevented some liaisons.

But if this didn't work, birth supposedly was easier for Polish peasant women if they sat over a pail of onions while in labor.

Some residents of Georgia's Okefenokee Swamp believe that onion juice rubbed on the scalp will make hair grow.

The onion's curative power have been touted for centuries. Some early Europeans believed that onions left on the shelves of a sick person's room would absorb the cause of the illness.

Shinnecock Indians on Long Island would take an onion into a sick room to draw out fever. They believed they had succeeded if the onion turned black.

To prevent harmful vapors from entering the house, New England women would cut onions in half and hang them on a string by the door to overpower the diseases — or anyone who might be carrying them.

In South Carolina homes, a necklace of small crushed onions would be hung around the neck of a child suffering from diphtheria. For open sores, mothers were advised to cook an onion for 35 minutes and then rub it on the wound. But they had to be sure to throw the used onions to the pigs, or the remedy wouldn't work.

Some folks believed that dripping the juice from an onion roasted on coals into your ear would cure an earache.

A special Georgia elixir is an onion syrup used to treat colds and to cut phlegm. Cook sliced onions in a teakettle. The result can be mixed with a plain corn syrup or taken straight a teaspoon at a time.

To chase away warts, folks have been advised to rub half an onion on the offending bump, then to tie the onion together again and bury it.

As it decays, so will the wart.

In New Mexico, onions are a minor crop, growing mostly in Doña Ana, Luna and Sierra counties. In 1995, 9,100 acres were devoted to onions.

In the mountains of Ruidoso, gardeners can produce a backyard crop, but the growing season is too short for commercial ventures, says Lincoln County extension agent Barry Herd.

Some organic gardeners swear by onions and garlic for pest control.

To fight off cutworms, they tie the stems of wild onions to the vulnerable plants, or they plant garlic between the rows.

A recipe for fighting aphids on rose or tomato bushes consists of mixing shallots with water in a blender, straining the mixture through a cheese cloth and then spraying the endangered plants with the fluid.

It's hard to say from where the onion draws its power.

Its genealogy is relatively tame.

A member of the lily family, onions can be biennial or perennial. The family includes garlic, chives, leeks, shallots and the bulb onion most familiar to supermarket shoppers. Green onions or scallions are young onions pulled before the bulb fully develops.

An average onion has about 40 calories and is high in carbohydrates. It is native to Asia and apparently was one of the first cultivated foods. In ancient Egypt, bread, beer and onions constituted the basic diet of peasants. As early as 2500 B.C., onions baked in their jackets were sold as snacks by vendors.

Generally, the mildest onions are the Spanish with a brown skin, the Priprieta, which is darker, the Red Italian and the Bermuda, which is flat with red, yellow or white skin.

Whatever the preference, in view of their history, onions seem to deserve a bit of extra respect whether they're being sliced into a salad or applied to the top of hamburger.
