Founder's gift changes 'cultural landscape' of area

The Spencer Theater for the Performing Arts presented its opening act Friday, fulfilling its founder's promise "to change the cultural landscape of Southern New Mexico."

That promise brought jazz great Dave Brubeck and violinist Nadja Solerno-Sonnenberg to a wide-open mesa dotted with junipers and pinons.

"The whole culture of Lincoln County is now changed forever," said Rand Harmon, Spencer Theater executive director. "We're inserting world-class performing arts into an already existing great quality of life."

Jackie and A.N. Spencer's $20 million theater for the performing arts opened to a sold-out hall, gushing reviews from musicians, an opulent after-concert soiree and fireworks, lots of fireworks - 400 in all.

It was a day not just of music appreciation, but architecture, art and benefactor appreciation, too. The first of a three-day gala opening weekend for the Spencer Theater.

► REVIEW

There is a new dictionary in Ruidoso.

It redefines familiar words such as exciting, innovative, beautiful, awesome, unique, astounding, one-of-a-kind, magnetic, unbelievable and this new dictionary allows us to redefine Ruidoso's position in the world and our position as citizens of this village.

This new dictionary is the Dictionary of the Spencer: A Compendium of Art, Performance and Spiritual Uplifting.

The Oct. 3 Gala Opening of the Spencer Theater for the Performing Arts was one of the most breathtaking and perfect evenings one could ever imagine.

Others will write of the Spencers, the ribbon-cutting ceremony, the artwork, the architecture, the hard work of the staff, the flowers, the desserts, the dancing, and the fireworks. But I have been given the thrill of writing the first review of the first evening's performances in one of this country's most distinguished monuments to the creative soul and spirit of human kind and I am deeply humbled by the task.

In my life I have been fortunate enough to sit and perform in some of the greatest performance halls in this country, from New York to San Francisco and I tell you straight, this is the best!

The opening piece, "Overture," performed by the New Mexico Symphony Orchestra and masterfully conducted by the dashing David Lockington, was incredible. The overture made me weep.

The acoustics in this theater are so perfect that it became an epiphany experience for me and when I closed my eyes to wipe the tears of joy from my face, I experienced what surround-sound means. I felt as though I had 25 ears, was seated dead center in the orchestra and could hear every

Capitan biker dies when he runs into truck

A 19-year-old Capitan motorcyclist was killed late Friday when he collided with a sport utility vehicle on state Road 48 and was thrown from his cycle.

Robert McCarty, 19, was not wearing a helmet and suffered massive head injuries, said Capitan Police Chief Carol Durbin.

About 8:15 p.m., McCarty turned off U.S. Highway 380 and headed south on SR 48, also called Lincoln Avenue. Denise Zamora, 26, of Capitan had just pulled out of a residence on Lincoln and was heading north in a 1978 Chevrolet Blazer, Durbin said.

McCarty accelerated rapidly as he turned onto Lincoln and was traveling well in excess of the 25 mph speed quadrupled in size and now has 29 teams and almost 400 participants, 45 percent of whom live outside Ruidoso.

"And we no longer have the resources for the number of kids involved," Hart said.

Another goal of the group is to initiate the creation of both a countywide sports league, encompassing all the local sports organizations, and a youth recreation council, said Hart and other league members.

"I'm not prejudiced for Little League baseball - I'm prejudiced for seeing recreation expand in Lincoln County. I mean, that's our economic basis as far as I'm concerned," said Paul Zagone, a Little League board member.

A group of parents will ask Lincoln County commissioners next week to help improve recreational opportunities for youth.

"The goal is to go to the county and get some funds for some much needed improvements to our fields," said Darlene Hart, board president of the Ruidoso Little League Baseball Association.

"We are one of the few communities that runs a Little League with just parents supporting it. Well, it wasn't a problem when we had 100 kids."

However, the league has

Ft. Stanton warden put on leave pending probe

By DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The warden of Fort Stanton minimum security prison for women has been placed on administrative leave, pending the outcome of an independent investigation of conditions at the corrections facility.

Michael Toms confirmed Tuesday that state Corrections Secretary Robert J. Perry removed Sandra McFadin, leaving deputy warden Lynn Baade in charge.

The investigation of alleged violations of state rules covering employee interaction with inmates and of other administrative problems may take two weeks to one month to complete, he said.

"I'm concerned," Perry said Monday. "I think what occurred at that facility regarding inappropriate staff relationships with inmates is unacceptable.

"I'm hard pressed to believe that with 30 inmates and 15 staff members, that someone in the position of a warden and a director of security could be oblivious to that. And that's really what my concern is."

In March, a 40-year-old guard from the prison was charged with having sex with an inmate. He later pleaded no contest to the charge. Four other guards also were fired by McFadin, but Perry said he's aware of no more criminal offenses that have occurred at the women's prison about 12 miles northeast of Ruidoso.

"To our knowledge, this involves one case of a staff member having an actual sexual relationship with an inmate and violating the criminal code," he said. "The other incidents are significantly less, but still are clearly in violation of the department's administrative code and practices."

McFadin was not available for comment Tuesday. McFadin has been a warden since 1993.

A department administrative investigation was launched about three weeks ago, which now will be turned over to Terry Otero with SOARS, a private investigation firm based in Albuquerque and Grants.

"After we started, it appeared clear there were a couple of different factions of employees down there embroiled in a personality and personnel conflict," Perry said. "(The investigation) revealed there is some personnel operations type problems there. We're bringing in an independent outside investigator to substantiate the facts of who that falls on and who is responsible.

"Ultimately, I've got to accept responsibility, because I'm the chief of the department. It occurred on my watch."

For a cause

Julie Boylan/Ruidoso News

Bob Adams of Grizzly's Bears of Ruidoso was busy Monday carving an eight-foot wooden bear that will be raffled off during the Festival of Trees on Dec. 5-6. The bear, with an estimated value of $1,000, was carved from a log donated by Rene Bustamante of Tree Masters and Adams donated his handiwork as well. Proceeds from the $1 raffle tickets will go toward establishing a community lighting fund. Joan Bailey, executive director of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, which is co-sponsoring the event with the Ruidoso News, said the fund will help purchase lights for community areas like parks to "create an atmosphere of the true holiday spirit."

DEATHS FUNERALS

Anne Ellis

Anne Ellis of Ruidoso died Saturday. She was 73.

She will be buried in the Evergreen East Cemetery. Graveside services will be 10 a.m. today.

Memorial contributions can be made to the Community United Methodist Church Building Fund, P.O. Box 7145, Ruidoso, 88355-7145.

Robert D. McCarty

Born in Fresno, Calif., McCarty had lived in the Capitan area all his life. He is a graduate of Carrizozo High School and was employed as a greenskeeper at the Alto Country Club.

He is survived by his parents, Yolanda and Robert McCarty of Capitan; a brother, Jonathan McCarty of Capitan; grandparents Flora Chavez of Capitan and Eustacio Chavez of Ruidoso; great-grandparents Antonio and Anita Chavez of Capitan; and numerous aunts, uncles and cousins.

limit, Durbin said. He apparently tried to avoid hitting Zamora and skidded about 124 feet, going left of the center line and striking the Blazer in the left rear wheel and fender, the chief said.

"She saw him coming too late," Durbin said. "He was thrown over the handle bars.

He was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center.

"I don't know if he was pronounced dead at the scene or at the hospital," Durbin said.

No charges have been filed. McCarty worked as a greenskeeper at Alto Golf and Country Club.

The country out from Capitan toward the Capitan Mountains is beautiful and different from Ruidoso country in many respects. Here Henry Fredrick Fritz and Maude Baily Fritz are living on their ranch and this week, Oct. 7, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Henry Fritz of Spring

Ranch, near Hondo, married Miss Maude Baily of Fort Stanton in 1897. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fritz have been in Lincoln County since childhood and theirs was a childhood romance. Maude Baily's father was the government blacksmith at Fort Stanton, and this had been her home since she was 2.

The young couple made their home at Spring Ranch for many years and all their children were born there. Every one of their "boys who were girls" live in New Mexico and all but one in Lincoln County.

the performances, which also featured the New Mexico Symphony Orchestra and the Dave Brubeck Quartet.

At the ceremony, the theater's architect, Antoine Predock, credited Jackie Spencer for bringing her vision to fruition.

"The term 'force of nature' never meant much to me until I met Jacqueline Spencer," said Predock. He then turned to Spencer and said, "Jackie, you're a force of nature."

After comments from Ruidoso Mayor Jerry Shaw and Gov. Gary Johnson, the Spencers officially opened the theater to the cheers of those in attendance.

Hugh Bancroft, the Spencer's oldest son, and his wife, Joyce, then presented to his mother a crystal vase titled, "The Leap." The vase is engraved with a dancer and the inscription: "To Jacqueline E. Spencer, the realization of her dreams brings beauty to us all."

If there was any doubt that the evening's first performer, Nadja Solerno-Sonnenberg, might be too passionate for the house, the violinist stomped away that notion with the opening movement of Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto in D Major, which drew the Spencer Theater audience to its feet — the first standing ovation of the theater.

But it was too soon. Solerno-Sonnenberg deadpanned to the audience, "I hate to tell them I'm not finished yet."

Solerno-Sonnenberg delivered her trademark "physical" interpretation of the music — her face expressing every emotion, her violin like an appendage, her body bracing itself for the next flurry of passion — all while she pulled unbelievable notes from the violin.

After her performance, Solerno-Sonnenberg described the hall's acoustics as "exquisite."

Dave Brubeck's quartet took its turn with the New Mexico Symphony Orchestra.

Brubeck treated the audience to eight songs from his repertoire, including the classics "Take Five" and "Blue Rondo ala Turk."

The appreciative audience included members of the NMSO, who couldn't help but tap their feet and nod their heads in time to the Brubeck beat.

"Dave Brubeck's band was unbelievable. Their solos were absolutely spectacular," NMSO principal cellist Joan Zicker said after the concert.

Brubeck's conductor, Russell Gloyd, commended NMSO's ability to play both Tchaikovsky and Brubeck on the same night.

With just three rehearsals, Zicker acknowledged "it was tough" to play the concerto with Solerno-Sonnenberg leading the way.

"She played like a bat out of hell. To play the music that fast, to keep up with her was difficult," Zicker said.

"I'd love to be able to play chamber music here. It seems like the perfect venue for that," she said.

Yes, the perfect venue — to change the cultural landscape of the county, if not the state as well, for generations to come.

REVIEW: 'There truly is no bad seat in the house'

single solitary instrument and every single solitary note played by each of them. (Even with our new dictionary there are no words that can describe that experience).

The acoustics must be mentioned again and again because in the overture, the triple pianissimo played by 35 violins was a defining moment to the acoustical genius of Ron McKay. All 35 violins sounded as one.

Citizens of Ruidoso, you must attend a performance at the Spencer for this experience alone. There truly is no bad seat in the house.

After the opening, one of the greatest violinists in the world, Nadja Solerno-Sonnenberg, walked briskly onto the stage. Her critics have admonished her physicality on the stage, charging that she's too prone to distracting drama. Bah humbug! Every genius has had its detractors, which is usually motivated in jealousy and envy.

Solerno-Sonnenberg became ill two weeks before the Spencer debut and was still recovering the night she performed one of her favorites, Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto in D Major; the only concerto for violin written by Tchaikovsky. It is a physical and demanding piece and Solerno-Sonnenberg's soul filled her bow, her instrument, the notes and the audience.

The Tchaikovsky is so intense that the entire audience, filled with joy, awe at Solerno-Sonnenberg's artistry, and a desire to show its pleasure, stood and robustly applauded at the end of the first movement.

As we began sitting back down a voice spoke to us from the stage. "It isn't over yet," she said. (Forgive us Nadja, we are learning concert protocol.)

I've been a fan of Solerno-Sonnenberg since her debut many years ago. I have followed her career and take pride, as a woman, in supporting her brilliance. I now leave Nadja behind with a grateful thank you, and move on to the rest of the evening's performance.

Now 77 and somewhat bothered by the altitude, Brubeck made a hasty exit after the performance but the hour that preceded his departure was as alive and inspiring for me as the first time I ever heard his music.

I remember when the album, "Take Five," made its debut and was especially taken with "Blue Rondo ala Turk." The rhythmic shifts from measure to measure is the Brubeck I've known since those days in the 50s. Brubeck's music, his trademarks, a simpatico if you will that happens when those creative juices flow.

After the performance, I sought out some of the musicians from the orchestra. I wanted to know their take on the acoustics of the building. Big smiles. To a person the response was the same. "This building is acoustically incredible for a performer."

Joel Carothers of Ruidoso works at TrailNet as a support technician. She has a musical background, having played trumpet in the Grand Rapids, Mich., symphony, and she founded a women's chorus in Chicago, which sang in the Lincoln Center in New York.

his flute. It was amazing.

Jack Six, whose expressive face and body looked like he could have played memorable bad guys in the movies, played the bass so brilliantly that all six bassists in the New Mexico Symphony Orchestra continuously exchanged glances of incredulity at Six's creativity.

Randy Jones, Brubeck's drummer, has played with Brubeck since 1978 and, like the rest of the quartet, has affiliations with some of the greatest jazz bands and performers in the world. He and Brubeck, the heart and soul of the group, smiled those "Oh yeah!" smiles back and forth all night.

In an ensemble like the Brubeck quartet a sense of oneness takes place between the musicians and such was the case this evening. A phrase, a couple extra beats from the drummer, an ad lib measure of music would elicit a knowing smile or a nod between musicians; a simpatico if you will that happens when those creative juices flow.

After the performance, I sought out some of the musicians from the orchestra.

OUR OPINION

Count your blessings

Occasionally it's appropriate to look up from the task at hand, check the landscape for approaching hazards, and — no terrors in sight — count your blessings.

Pretty easy to do on a sunny October morning in Ruidoso:

- That gorgeous Spencer Theater on the mesa has been thoroughly inaugurated to smash reviews by critics, spectators and performers.
- Aspenfest has been happily celebrated with fancy floats, sleek cars, hand-made arts and crafts, and lots of hot chile and down-home music under the pines to boot.
- The eighth, and no doubt biggest, Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium ever is just a day away — with country-western music stars and three days of nostalgia and demonstrations showing how the west is, was or should have been. And songwriter Cindy Walker has written a new tune for the occasion titled "Ruidoso."

In all, a pretty good week for Ruidoso.

Add to that a few other goodies: Denver's football Broncos, bless 'em, are the only undefeated team left in the National Football League, and the Yankees were dumped in five by Cleveland in the baseball playoffs, much to the dismay of 9 million New Yorkers and a few other scattered baseball fans west of the Hudson.

Hey, sometimes you just have to wake up and conclude that all's right with the world, whether it is or not.

Tracking history

Among the implicit responsibilities of a community newspaper is a little item that has something in common with the doctors' Hippocratic Oath; doctors say "first, do no harm," editors must say, "first, alter no history."

That's a bit difficult sometimes, especially in a community whose whole existence almost from the beginning has been dedicated to convincing people from somewhere else to come here, spend their money, then go back home ... otherwise called the "tourism industry."

It does cast a "temporary" image on many aspects of the community, and many of Ruidoso's permanent residents — business in a small town being what it is — tend to be permanent for only a few years. That general lack of continuity sometimes is called "lack of institutional memory," and is the bugaboo of harassed newspaper people facing deadlines.

And so we back into correcting a historical error that was perpetuated last week in a special section devoted to Aspenfest '97: Yes, it was the 29th Aspenfest, but not the first celebration.

Longtime, maybe lifetime, Ruidoso resident Herb Brunell has produced a 25-year-old copy of a tourist magazine called "Ruidoso" and in it is a photograph and short item stating that:

"In the fall of 1947, 30 to 40 persons mounted horses early one morning and headed up the north fork of the Ruidoso River, across Cow Mountain and continued up to and around one side of Sierra Blanca. The mountainous area was covered with a colorful array of aspens in their full fall flourish of gold, brown, and yellow leaves. As the riders descended to a spot near Mon Jeau Lookout, they were met by approximately 100 townspeople for dinner under the pines. The horseback trip was referred to as the 'aspencade.' It was to be the beginning of an annual tradition."

There's more to the story about why the name was changed to "aspenfest," but let's note herewith that Aspenfest began as a celebration 51 years ago, with lunch in the aspens ... and just grew into a community end-of-summer celebration, in which a few visitors still look for aspens on the mountain.

THE DREAMER

A sky pageant as September departs

On the way home, at a high point near Ruidoso Downs, just about sunset on Sept. 30, you could look over to the Capitan Mountains; and there was a great black-gray cloud all high over the mountain; and all below extending down through a pale blue sky the purple streamers of distant rain were like a vast set of curtains touching down all along the mountain top, extending to El Capitan Peak.

And all in between, close by and in the distance, the rounded hills were different shades of violet, purple and lilac.

All except one hill, midway between you and the Capitan, that caught the last rays of the setting sun which transformed it into a giant green mound overcast with a round glow of green light.

Then at home in Storm Vale, the large cloud had circled around and now hovered just north, extending away to the top of the evening sky. Silver, orange and light crimson flashed, and thunder mumbled.

BY DAN STORM
Columnist

From way down beyond the eastern hill the very last rays of the sun turned the cloud into the purest pink.

Now the lightning flashes closer, its color changed to blue and green as you gazed, wondering if you were dreaming. Overhead now, you heard different kinds of thunder, following the bright flashes — some like a giant rifle shot, some like a booming cannon, and others like a giant load of boulders crashing down a steep mountain side.

September seemed to be saying "a little something to remember me by."

"I love a parade"

So goes the old favorite song. Once again I was honored to ride on the veterans' float at Aspenfest. It was put together by many willing hands at the home of Romeo and Katie Klein. And we all fondly remembered their son, Jerome Don Klein, who fell in battle in Vietnam.

Local veterans riding on the float included Romeo Klein, Dan Rivas, Victor Jaramillo, C. E. Chiavés, Ida Koehler (and Dan Storm).

From Alamogordo came Al Stoddard and Paul Beavers, representing the Zia Detachment of the Marine Corps.

Young people represented were Jerome Montes and Quincy Klein.

The pickup truck pulling the float was driven by Jason Kinnick, accompanied by Patsy Klein.

Waving by the roadside

The only thing about being in the parade is that you don't get to see it, and you remember so many who put their hearts into preparation for this high point of the year in the mountain land.

However, the trade-off is very heart-warming. You have a chance to wave at the smiling crowds of folks of all ages, including small children who wave back ... Even babes in arms watched wide-eyed in wonder, and one mother took the tiny hand of her infant child and waved at the passing parade.

In all this you feel the spirit of community pride, abounding neighborly good will and welcome to folks everywhere who journey to see this special event in the fall. ...

Fire engines

Fire engines have always been a feature of American parades, and we thank Virgil Reynolds and all the other fire chiefs and firemen for their good work in this year's parade.

Thanks, and God's blessings to those who presented the parade, and those who cheered it on its way.

Community benchmark

To the editor:

Saturday, Sept. 27, is a date that everyone in Lincoln County should mark on their calendars as a benchmark in community involvement in health care.

(More than) 150 participants lined up to run/walk the 5K route and proved their support for the fight against cancer in our county. This "Run for the B.E.A.C.H." was one event of four that were conceived by four ladies, each of which is a breast cancer survivor or has a close family member that is a survivor. Cathy, Trudy, Becky and Barbara deserve a large pat on the back for their dedication to this cause.

The July Silent Auction, the Sept. 25 Golf Tournament (a sellout), the Sept. 26 McGary party and the 5K Run were all huge successes ...

If you missed the events, they will be back in September 1998, and this will become over the next few years one of the largest ... in Ruidoso.

It is not too late to have a part this year to defray costs of mammograms and treatments for ... victims. Stop by The Village Buttery on Sudderth and pick up your "race number" by making a donation.

No service, so why pay?

To the editor:

I am a licensed counselor, and have maintained a small, part-time private practice in Ruidoso for the last year or so. While my practice has not generated a great deal of income, it has contributed minimally to the sales tax base for Lincoln County and for Ruidoso, and has provided services previously unavailable in Lincoln County.

My complaint is that I received a rather stiff bill from the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority for "sanitation charges." Now, first of all, I do not generate any "solid waste" of any kind. I have a 10x10-foot rented office, and I don't even own a trash can, so, naturally, I called the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority to find out why I was being assessed a "sanitation charge." I was told that the charge was to maintain a dumpster for the building where I rent this small room. Unfortunately, I have never seen this dumpster, certainly have never used it, and the "Waste Authority" was unable to tell me where it was located.

They were very kind, though, and sent me a copy of the law which gives them the right to charge me for services I have never, and will never, use. They even went out of their way to explain that residents who are here part-time pay for trash removal during times when they are not here (which I can understand, because those part-time residents do utilize the trash removal when they are here), but I do not utilize the service at all, and I had a hard time understanding how they thought that applied to me.

I suppose my basic complaint is that there is obviously no parity in the system. It seems only fair to me that services of any kind should somehow be based on usage, but obviously that is not the case with the "Waste Authority." I have been told in no uncertain terms that they have every right to charge me for nothing.

Regrettably, the amount of the monthly bill for removing absolutely nothing from my office increases my business overhead by 9.45 percent, and reduces my monthly net income by 15.75 percent, a pretty heavy hit for services I am not receiving ($90 a month seems a bit excessive for maintaining a single Dumpster anyway), so I have closed my practice before I start getting water and sewer bills for the sink and toilet I don't have. What a "waste," but then, they are the "Waste Authority."

When the motorcycles arrive in droves, multiple opinions come to light

Defending the bikers

To the editor:
I buy the paper two times weekly to find out what's happening in our community. But as I read I find a lot of complaining going on — like the ruckus over Candyce Garrett's art and now the bike rally.

Directing this at Jim Alston's "Time to find something else besides motorcycles" (Oct. 1) and to anyone who might feel the same as he...

Just to let you know my opinion since everything seems one-sided. I don't complain about the racetrackers or skiers or those of you who come to enjoy the Inn of the Mountain Gods. Why? Because everyone is entitled to be here, including the bikers who come one weekend (two days out of 365 a year). After all, it's the "year around playground."

Mr. Alston's statement, "The annual biker event doesn't really make much difference business-wise anyway," floored me.

Is it all about money to you that the bikers need not come 'cause they spend no money here ... Oh, but the skiers and racetrackers are more than welcome for their money spent. I don't get it. Believe me, if I had the money I'd own a Harley too, rather than include myself with those of you who "have your cake and eat it too."

Besides, are you aware of the good things bikers do? Like "Riding for Christ" and other biker organizations who ride their bikes miles and miles across the U. S. with toys for tots. Just because our leather jackets and long hair don't go with your suits and ties, forgive us. Our hearts beat the same as yours, only with less criticism.

A relaxed moment during the 1997 Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally.

Julie Baxter/Ruidoso News

When was the last time you drove across the U.S. with stuffed toys falling out of your car for other children? You don't have to be a biker to do that, or do you?

My dad and brother-in-law are bikers and I am more than proud of them.

Just one weekend out of the year and you have to complain about that...

Shadow Tate
Ruidoso

P.S. — And to Candyce Garrett, best of luck with the statue you're working on now. It's going to be beautiful for all the open-minded out there.

Responding to critic

To the editor:
I am responding to the letter from the gentleman who thinks we are all lucky to have survived the motorcycle rally with the skin still on our backs.

I have been fortunate enough to work at the Civic (Events) Center during the rally for the last five years.

I might have had a different opinion (although never as hard-nosed as Mr. Powers) if I was only judging a book by its cover.

I am a member of the auxiliary that raises money for the Ruidoso Care Center. With this money we buy the residents Christmas presents and meet their needs throughout the year. The rally is our only fund-raiser and without the support of the vendors and the bikers we could not provide such an important service.

Let me assure you we have met and made friends with many of these people and they are the nicest group.

We have a member who is no longer able to help at our food booth. A vendor who is at the rally every year asked where his little friend was, and we said she was sick and couldn't come.

He made sure he went to her house and checked on her and gave her his love. This year I made friends with a lady who told me her sister (who is blind) is getting married in a few weeks. She asked me to send her some recipes so she could type them in braille as a present from "Ruidoso" for her sister.

I would like to ask Mr. Powers to come work with us at the food booth next year and maybe his opinion might change just a little.

Lynne Brusyere

A senior perspective

To the editor:

We own a business here in Ruidoso and feel extremely saddened by the letters ... that blast the motorcycle rally. I hope that the bikers do not get the newspaper and form an unfavorable impression of most of the wonderful people in Ruidoso.

Personally, we are grandparents, we met many bikers of our age, professionals that enjoy and can afford the expensive hobby of biking — in my opinion, not burglars, rapists or bad, sick people. ...

As for the police department adding the helicopter and additional volunteers, we praise them because any time you have an event — any event — you could get a small percent of trouble; i.e., because "the classic car gang" is coming for the Aspenfest and "those cowboys" are coming for the Symposium, and the Spencer Theater opening might bring "unfavorables" to our town.

So does this mean that Ruidoso stops all events and stagnates because of a few narrow-minded individuals.

Our business does not benefit a lot from the bike rally, but we hope that most of the bikers will go home and tell their relatives and friends what a beautiful, friendly community the Village of Ruidoso is. ...

Satire deluxe

To the letter:

I am writing in reference to the letter to the editor by Mr. David Powers (Wednesday, Oct. 1). As chairman of the Lincoln County chapter of the Libertarian Party, I am always looking for a different way to reach people with our important message.

I wish I had the gift of satire and sarcasm that Mr. Powers possesses. The fondest part to me is picturing those local residents who thought he was serious. His message shows us the kind of bear trap unconstitutional thinking can be.

I look forward to more of this type of ingenious and independent insight in the Ruidoso News.

Brilliant fiction

To the editor:

Dear Mr. Powers: I would like to congratulate you (for) the most brilliant fictional story ever written regarding the bike rally.

The vivid images you placed in my mind made me go back into the dark ages when Vikings stripped the land of all that was good while slashing their way through towns and villages, stealing and murdering.

Then I realized I was reading an ignorant, shallow-minded opinion, categorizing all bikers as rebels, murderers and rapists.

If you would have stepped out of hiding and actually socialized with some of those bikers, you would have found that the most recognizable colors were that of the CMA (Christian Motorcycle Association). Even as you have insulted my family, I wish you all the luck in your writing career. Watch out, Stephen King! God bless you

POLICE BRIEFS

5th Evans Street home reported burglarized

Thieves burglarized a home in the 100 block of Evans Road sometime between March and October, Ruidoso police said.

The burglary is the fifth reported on Evans Road in the past few weeks.

Homeowner Robbie Davis, an Abilene man, told police that thieves had taken two television sets, a VCR and a microwave oven. Discovered by the front door of the home were two Indian dolls, a painting and a pottery bowl, police said.

The burglar broke in through a kitchen window, moved furniture around and cut the telephone cord, police said.

Car stereo stolen from pickup truck

A cassette radio was pulled from a pickup truck parked last week in the 100 block of Rio Street, Ruidoso police said.

Etienne Turner told police the stereo had been pried out of his pickup's console sometime between 11 p.m. Oct. 1 and 7 a.m. the next day.

The stereo is valued at $250.

Boyfriend jailed 90 days for beating girlfriend

A 30-year-old local man received 90 days in jail for punching and kicking his girlfriend, Ruidoso police said.

Travis Ortega started hitting his 24-year-old girlfriend one night last week during an argument at their mobile home in the 100 block of Drooping Juniper Drive. Besides punching her about the face and splitting her lip, Ortega kicked her in the back with his boot, police said.

Lincoln County Magistrate Judge William Butts sentenced Ortega.

Tools, lawnmower stolen from storage sheds

Tools and a lawnmower were taken from two homes' storage sheds in the 100 block of Sleepy Hollow Drive sometime in September or early this month, Ruidoso police said.

Gordon Williams told police Saturday almost $300 worth of tools had been removed from his storage shed and a lawnmower had been taken from his neighbor's shed.

The burglaries occurred sometime between Sept. 21 and Saturday, police said.

Man accused of threat to witness in his trial

A Ruidoso man is accused of threatening a former girlfriend last week to keep her from testifying against him in court, Ruidoso police said.

Marco Lopez, 35, reportedly came to Wal-Mart, where his former girlfriend works, threatened her and to told her to "watch herself on the way home," police said.

The 26-year-old woman was to testify last week against Lopez in Lincoln County Magistrate Court regarding battery charges filed against him in early May, police said.

Lopez has been charged with trying to intimidate a witness, a felony. Judge William Butts last week set bond on Lopez at $25,000 in connection with the new charge.

Man accused of beating pregnant girlfriend

A Ruidoso man reportedly threw his 22-year-old girlfriend off a porch and jumped on top of her after she told him she was pregnant, Ruidoso police said.

John Mark Stambough, 23, also reportedly struck his girlfriend and began to choke her, police said.

The woman, who was almost five weeks pregnant, was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center. She had swollen eyes, a split lip, cuts and scratches and bruises on the abdomen.

Stambough, arrested this week by police, is being held without bond at the Lincoln County Detention Center in Carrizozo, officials said. Bond was not set for Stambough because he was on probation at the time of the incident, a prison official said.

Student suspended for taking knife to school

A 15-year-old Ruidoso High School student was suspended last week for bringing a pocket knife to school, according to Ruidoso police reports.

Principal Ronald Hodges told police he took the knife from the boy after another student reported seeing it.

Police did not arrest the student, whose parents were told to pick him up.

Police officer's trial delayed third time

The battery trial of Pete Esquibel, a Ruidoso police officer, was postponed a third time this week at the request of his attorney, a court official said.

Lincoln County Magistrate Judge William Butts said the trial was postponed because Esquibel's Albuquerque attorney, Lorenzo Tapia, has asked to withdraw from the case.

Butts said Monday he refused to release Tapia because the trial had been postponed twice previously at Tapia's request. Butts said he will allow no more delays.

Esquibel, who has not been on active duty with the department since Feb. 19, pleaded not guilty in April to accusations that he accosted a 29-year-old woman at a Ruidoso restaurant and bar.

No new trial date has been set.

Ortega, Kaydahzinne to square off for VP

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Mesalero Apache tribal council member and the head of tribal housing will face off in the November general election for the position of vice president of the tribe.

Fred Kaydahzinne, who is on leave as housing director during the campaign, took the most votes in the Sept. 30 primary out of the five people vying for the elected position.

He will be opposed by Paul Ortega, who received the second highest number with 182 votes.

Ballots were cast by 729 tribal voters and 27 ballots were declared invalid, a Mesalero spokesman said. No absentee ballots were cast. About 1,500 members of the tribe are eligible to vote.

Incumbent Vice President Keith Miller did not seek reelection. Silas Cochise Sr., former manager of the tribe's nuclear waste storage project, failed to make the cut with 102 votes, as did activist and juvenile counselor Joe Geronimo, 149 votes, and Carleton Palmer, a previously unsuccessful candidate for president, 61 votes.

The big race in the general election Tuesday, Nov. 4, will be between Tribal President Wendell Chino, 72, who has headed the tribe for 40 years, and his former vice president, Fred Peso, who lost his first bid for the post two years ago. They faced no opposition in the primary.

Eight candidates, who took the most primary votes out of a field of 12, will face off in the general election for four seats open on the tribal council.

The eight are:

- Former council member Larry Pebeashy, 322 votes.
- Incumbent Fred Chino Sr., 310 votes.
- Incumbent Oliver Enjady, an artist, 307 votes.
- Former vice presidential candidate Harlyn Geronimo, 273 votes.
- Incumbent councillor Raymond Kirgan, who works as a forestry fire management officer for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, 264 votes.
- BIA road department employee Christie La Paz Jr., 223 votes.
- Lillian Blake Lester of BIA social services, 216 votes.
- And incumbent Beryl Karseah of the BIA forestry branch, 193 votes.

Failing to qualify for the general election for council positions were Mason Guydelkor of the BIA forestry, 166 votes; Alan J. Duffy Sr., 88 votes; Cornel Cervantes, 137 votes; and Lola Ahidley of BIA social services, 136 votes.

Wake-up call

BY BRITON GOAD
CARRIZOZO HIGH SCHOOL

Carrizozo students are uncovering the past. For two weeks Carrizozo High School history students have been bringing to life famous early colonists of America.

Their teacher, Jana Wooley, came up with the idea. She decided that her students needed a real feel for early American life. This gives students an inside look at what made these people tick.

A warning to history teachers: students might actually stay awake during class.

Quilts! Beautiful quilts! - The September meeting of the Carrizozo Family and Community Education (FCE) Roadrunners was highlighted with a slide presentation on quilts by Carole Stromberg. Carole, a new member, and her husband Chris own and operate Trading Post Antiques in Carrizozo.

The colorful and intricately patterned quilts were photographed at the 1997 New Mexico State Fair and at quilt shows in Kingwood and Houston, Texas in past years.

The FCE is making preliminary plans for a June 6 quilt show in the Carrizozo Schools' old gymnasium. Carole Stromberg and Larue W. Griswold are co-chairmen for this event.

The business meeting included electing Vice-president Phyllis Schlegel as president to fill the unexpired term of Helen M. Lock who has resigned. Virginia Burd was elected to fill the vice-presidency.

Ammel Beville and Virginia Burd will be voting delegates to the state meeting of New Mexico Association of Family & Community Education (NMAFCE) at Silver City on Oct. 26-28.

Interested persons are welcome to the local FCE October meeting when a program by our Extension Home Economist Betty McCreight will be "Low Fat Cooking for the Holidays." The time is 1 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 22, at the R.E.A. Building on 12th Street.

Scholarship Winner - The 1997 New Horizons Developmental Center Scholarship of $500 has been awarded to Erica Copeland of San Patricio.

Copeland has a 3.31 GPA and is a physical therapy major at the University of New Mexico. Applicants for this scholarship must be at least a sophomore in a health care field, and a resident of Lincoln County.

New Horizons reserves the right not to award the scholarship should a suitable applicant not apply.

Long-Time Residents Move - After living in Carrizozo 88 years, Leon and Helen Lock have purchased a home and moved to Roswell.

Contemplating the move for sometime to be near needed medical care and their son Shawn and family, "we finally found a house we both like," says Helen.

Carrizozo friends and neighbors will miss them, but wish them well. Leon retired from WSMR several years ago, and Helen was a retired administrative assistant of Carrizozo Schools.

Carrizozo School Library reports an outstanding Scholastic Book Fair; school and community response was great and the volunteer help was rated "unbelievable."

The Book Fair began on Sept. 17 and continued through Sept. 23.

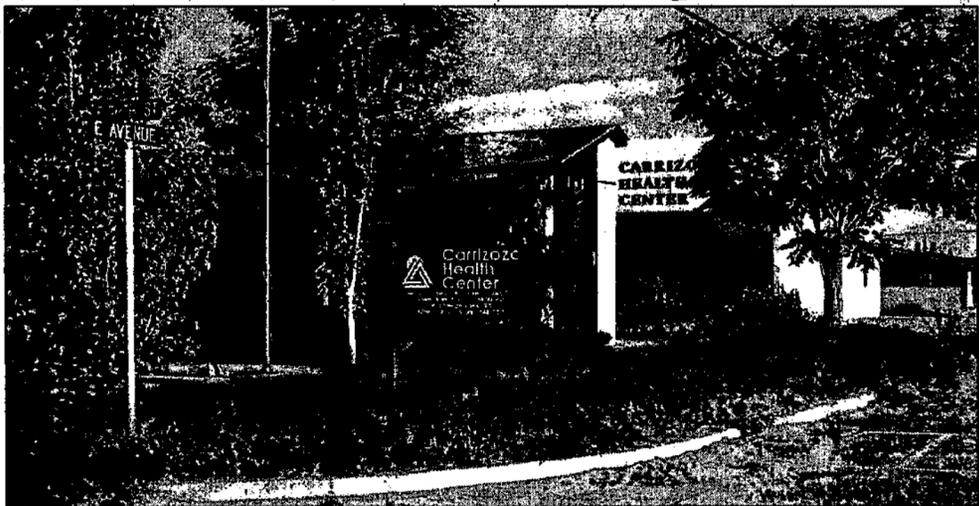

On Monday night, Sept. 22, the Library sponsored a "Parent's Night" for parents and other community members to view and purchase books.

In keeping with the "I Spy" theme, several guessing games were provided with free books as prizes. Drawing winners included Christanda Zamora, Stella Brewer, Stephanie Brewer, Bernice Sambrano and Timmy Barela.

With the profits from the Book Fair, the library is planning to purchase new equipment as well as books for the school.

Rehearsals for the Carrizozo Community Christmas Choir will be on Thursdays at 8:30 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church, 1000 Avenue D.

The first rehearsal on Oct. 9 will provide more details and information. New singers are invited and encouraged to attend.

Phyllis Schlegel, director, has set Sunday afternoon, Dec. 14, for the presentation. Jane Shafer will be accompanist for this program.

First Baptist Church members and friends enjoyed another 4th Sunday picnic in Nogal Canyon, possibly the last for this season. From the sound of the menu, in addition to hamburgers and hot dogs grilled at the site, no one went away hungry!

Zucchini brownies for dessert? Yes. Hikes by some folks followed this spread of food, then praise and singing around the campfire before the group returned to Carrizozo.

A program called AWANA is coming to Carrizozo. This Bible-based program for children and youth will soon be starting at the First Baptist Church.

On Sunday, Oct. 12 from 4 - 8 p.m., Dave Tubbs of Roswell will be training workers for the program. AWANA stands for "Approved Workmen Are Not Ashamed." During this ongoing program which will be held on Wednesday evenings, kids play games, have group times and memorize Bible verses.

Also at First Baptist on Sunday, Oct. 19 at 7 p.m., the movie "Repeat Performance" will be shown. Filmed in New Zealand and distributed by World Wide Pictures, a part of the Billy Graham Ministry, this film deals with the power of forgiveness.

CHS Alumni tracked

BY CHICKIE WIGGINS MAHLER
CARRIZOZO NEWSLETTER STAFF

Hello from Tome! In my last newsletter I told you I would be making a list of names of Alumni who have moved and need to be located. They are: Edith Ridgel Mitchell, '35; Jacqueline Dixon Willingham, '42; Mary Alice Shrum Morgan, '49; Margaret Shrum Stamps, '50; Tommy Zumwalt, '45; and Patty Stephenson Zumwalt, '50; Warren B. Harkey, '55; Lester Chapman, '55; Bill Means, '56; Patrick Jones, '57; Katherine Leann Ladd Fowler, '63; Steven Chavez, '67; Raymond Reed, '68; Sandy Payne Lightfoot, '68; Elaina Cantrell Jarpe, '81; and Viola Vega Fenter, '52.

I learned from Louise Shelton Korges '35, that her classmate Helen Strass Orndolf had passed away in 1995 or 1996. Ruth Brickley Bishop sent me Mary Jane Lucas Stiles' obit. Jane had moved to Amarillo, and passed away August 26. She was buried in Lordsburg by her husband, Bryon Burke Stiles, who taught in CHS in 1939-1940.

Does anyone know the current address of William N. Litell?

Harry and Catherine Kelt called to let me know they had been to Salt Lake and Denver and after getting home went to Lubbock to visit Willie, his sister. It was such good news to hear that she seemed to be better that day and had eaten everything on her plate which she seldom does. She was shown a card I had sent her with an ugly little dog on it and she laughed. I will do anything to bring a smile to her face.

I also spoke to Harold Hoffman, '39 recently. He wanted to attend the last reunion but could not make it. He is leaving for Russia soon and will contact me when he returns.

I have been doing a lot of canning and have not had the time to call people in this area but I hope to find time soon. Until next time ...

SPORTS: Parents want county to help fund sports recreation facilities, youth council

Zagone said he would like to see a regional youth recreational center as well as an indoor swimming pool. He also would like local government support of programs such as a youth ski program.

It was toward those goals Zagone and others asked for a meeting last week of the Joint Powers Committee, composed of the Ruidoso Village Council and the Ruidoso School Board. Also invited to the meeting were several Rio Rancho city leaders. Rio Rancho recently built a regional soccer complex using community labor and only a minimal amount of funds for materials.

Rio Rancho Mayor Thomas Swisstack suggested the creation of a sports league and a youth recreational council as a means of adding political power to the initiative.

Zagone said the joint powers meeting was to share information with Rio Rancho leaders as well as to establish communication between his group, the village and school.

"And then go to the county and get some kind of funds up there," he said.

In late August, Lincoln County commissioners publicly announced a budget surfeit of $1.7 million, and proposed giving it back to taxpayers.

Zagone and others said they would like to see money spent building and maintaining sports fields. The league parent group will speak to the Lincoln County commissioners at 9 a.m. Oct. 17 in Carrizozo.

County commissioners were criticized several times at the Friday meeting for not being receptive to either governmental partnership or in recreational projects. No county commissioners attended the meeting. Zagone said later he called two commissioners the night before the meeting.

"The response that I got was that they have never really been approached (about helping to provide recreational facilities)," Zagone said.

Martha Guevara, assistant county manager, said Lincoln County gives $2,500 from its budget to the town of Carrizozo for recreational programs. And, "We receive approximately $4,200 from the cigarette tax (revenues)," she said. "That $4,200 is being used for the 4-H program."

Swisstack said it will take a grass-roots effort to build recreational facilities and programs.

The Ruidoso Little League needs assistance with both, said Zagone and Hart.

"We are going to build a mini field next to our big field for the little kids, because we just do not have enough room for the games let alone for the practices," Zagone said of the baseball fields off Grindstone Canyon Road.

$35 for 150 minutes is a great deal.

(but don't take our word for it)

If you're shopping for a wireless phone, you may find you're more skeptical than usual. We understand.

After clipping and comparing every phone ad in this paper, your head's probably throbbing. And if you're not a lawyer or an accountant, you may have called one for help.

Here's what we think you've been looking for all along: a simple, good deal.

150 minutes for $35.

No peak-time restrictions. No weird limitations. No complicated jargon. Just 150 minutes of local calls at any hour of the day or night. That's two and a half hours a month that you can actually use your wireless phone, whenever.

All that our lawyers ask from you is a one-year service agreement with credit approval; oh, and taxes, assessments, roaming, directory assistance and long distance are additional.

This simple deal means one simple thing: when your bill arrives you needn't panic, because with 150 minutes for $35, you'll know what to expect.

Which makes it pretty easy to compare with all those other deals you've clipped. This one's obviously really great.

Oh yeah. Like all good things, this offer won't be around forever, so call or stop by before 10/11/97.

Coach hopes new strategy will pay off.

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Hobbled by injuries, shackled by suspensions, the Ruidoso Warrior soccer team made the most of its three contests last week.

The Warriors lost two of three matches, but emerged a better team for it, said Ruidoso coach Dave Anderson.

Ruidoso lost to Artesia last Tuesday, 4-1, and then fell to Socorro two days later by the same score. The Warriors were without five starters vs. the Bulldogs — two injuries and three red card suspensions — and without three starters against Socorro because of injuries. The depleted numbers meant Anderson had to play his younger, less experienced players.

But that didn't get the Warriors down. "Losing didn't hurt us much; getting those guys playing time helped us," Anderson said.

Healthy and at full strength, the Warriors bounced back Saturday to bounce Artesia, 4-1, snapping a six-game losing streak. Senior Scott Sebastian scored three times and Orus Cisneros added another for the Warriors in the win.

Ruidoso is 3-10 overall and 0-1 in District 3A-AAA play.

"They really jelled for the first time all season," Anderson said of the Warriors'

Saturday performance. "All of the sudden, they moved to a higher level (of play)."

Freshman starter Solomon Barnett noticed a difference in his teammates' play.

"Everybody hustled a lot more and everyone was passing well," Barnett said.

Anderson also attributed his team's improved play to a shift in practice management and game strategy.

Now in practice, Anderson and assistant coach Sigurd Schmitz divide practice into three sections. "Coach Schmitz has been devoting the first 20 to 30 minutes to ball control drills," Anderson said.

Then, Anderson works the Warriors on their goal shooting. The last 45 minutes of practice emphasizes game situations such as controlled scrimmages.

Anderson believes it has made a major difference in the Warriors' play.

And then when it comes to games, Ruidoso is more patient. Anderson is employing a "Genghis Khan" type strategy.

The Warriors focused on defense at the beginning of the match, pulling the other team's offense to their side of the field.

"We draw the offense to us and then charge," Anderson explained. "The patience has really paid off."

Showdown on Saturday

The Warriors' last 2 1/2 weeks comes full circle Saturday when they host Santa Teresa. The Desert Warriors shut out visiting Ruidoso, 5-0, Sept. 23. In the Santa Teresa match, three Warriors were red-carded by the lead official — the same official whom the Warriors had in their semifinal match at state last year where about the same number of Warriors were red-carded. Those red-carded Warriors had to sit out the next match, Artesia.

After the heated match, Anderson loaded up his Warriors, without so much as a handshake for Santa Teresa, because he said his players were threatened and baited by the Desert Warriors.

The two teams meet again Saturday, and Barnett said he and his teammates now know what it takes.

"They're good actors. They just fall down (to draw a foul). So, we're going to fall down too," he said.

Not only will home field be an advantage, but the condition of the field will benefit the Warriors, Barnett said.

The Santa Teresa field is rough, and the dimensions and goals weren't regulation size, Anderson said.

Added Barnett, "We didn't really have a chance because of the field. Field conditions play a big part."

Just how big a part the Warriors will find out Saturday. Game time is 2 p.m. at Horton Stadium.

Scott Sebastian scored three goals in the Warriors' win over Artesia Saturday. Laura Clymer/Ruidoso News

Dexter bombs Tigers

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The Tiger football team will line up against its third Class AA opponent in as many weeks when it travels to Hatch on Friday.

Capitan, a Class A school, is riding a three-game losing streak after a 42-8 loss to Dexter last Friday.

Demon quarterback Arturo Duran exploited the Tiger defensive secondary for six touchdown passes, while the Dexter defense recovered two Capitan fumbles deep in Tiger territory.

The loss dropped Capitan to 2-4 overall. Hatch's Bears are 3-2 overall.

Tiger football coach Ed Davis expects the Bears to run, but he wouldn't be surprised if they try the long pass against Capitan.

"They mainly like to run the football. Of course we may have changed that Friday night. They may come out in a shotgun (formation) for all I know," Davis said. "I expect them to test our secondary just to see if we've made adjustments."

Like Capitan, the Bears run the ball out of the wing-T formation. Hatch has a quick running back, a big fullback and good size along the offensive line, Davis said. When Hatch throws, it prefers the long pass to its split end and tight end, which doesn't bode well for the Tigers.

"Our No. 1 goal is to come out and play good football on both sides of the ball," he said. "We're focused on Hatch right now. We've been trying to use this as a pre-season, but we've stumped our toe. We know we have to get back on track in time for district."

It's been a tough "pre-season" for Tigers. Two weeks ago, they lost to AA-ranked Animas, 13-6. They also lost leading rusher Raymond Harris, who suffered a concussion, for the Dexter game.

Davis remains confident.

"We should have beat Animas, and it may sound stupid but I would take these same kids and play Dexter again," he said.

► VOLLEYBALL ROUNDUP

Wholesale lineup changes in order for Ruidoso spikers

Thinking that she's has no other option, Ruidoso volleyball coach Fran Webb will try some wholesale changes in her starting lineup this week.

As many as five new faces, mostly underclassmen, could be in the Warriors' starting six, when they take the floor Saturday against district rival Silver.

"I'm hoping it's going to be motivational for the seniors," Webb said. "They've got to show me something. They've got to work in a game."

Webb made her decision after the Warriors dropped two matches in Albuquerque over the weekend. St. Pius dispatched the Warriors in three games, 15-5, 15-12, 15-11 on Friday, then Albuquerque Academy swept the visitors, 15-7, 15-1, 15-5.

"This is the only thing I haven't done," said the first-year coach.

The benched starters probably will play, just not start the match, Webb said.

"I'm more concerned with what happens when you walk off the court and the final results," she added.

Joining senior setter Jana Morris could be junior Amy Hemphill, sophomore Julie Miller, and juniors Ashley Scott, Jayme Paxton, Karra Lutterman and Brynn Hatcher.

Morris returns after missing most of Saturday's match against Academy. She bruised her hand after diving for an errant pass and sliding into the bleachers.

In both the St. Pius and Academy matches, poor passing hurt the Warriors.

"We just didn't execute well at all. It started with passing," Webb said. Webb hopes to change all of that with her decision.

"Nothing is written in stone as far as their positions," Webb said.

Tigers brace for tough week physically and emotionally

The Capitan volleyball team will have more than its opponents to overcome this week. The Tigers have to deal with the death of 19-year-old Capitan resident Robert McCarty and the loss of two players to disciplinary action for the season.

"If we can rise above the emotional letdowns that we've had in the last week and play good, it will surely be a plus in our pockets," Tiger coach Bryan Massé said.

Tuesday, the Tigers hosted district rival Dexter in the first major GAA match-up of the season. Capitan entered the match 8-4 overall and 1-0 in District 6AA play. (Results will be in Friday's paper.)

Capitan travels to Tularosa on Thursday for another district test, then visits Class A power Fort Sumner in its house Saturday.

The Tigers turned away a feisty Cloudcroft club Oct. 2 in Cloudcroft. After trailing 11-4 early on, Capitan rallied to win the first game and then went to take the match. Final game scores were 15-11, 15-12, 15-8.

"We made the big plays when we needed too — that's what we've been learning," Massé said.

Grizzlies backed against a corner

The Carrizozo volleyball team slipped to 1-2 in district play after losing to Fort Sumner, 15-12, 15-11 and 15-5 Saturday.

The Grizzlies are 3-10 overall. Despite the setback, Carrizozo coach Joseph Sanchez had praise for his team.

"We were real excited because we know we can play with them," Sanchez said.

Middle hitter Cortney Maynard paced the Grizzlies in the losing effort. "She hit real well. She hit real smart.

She blocked well," Sanchez said.

The Grizzlies host district foe Vaughn Thursday in their last regular-season home match. Carrizozo has yet to play the Eagles, but Sanchez saw them in the Santa Rosa Tournament several weeks ago.

Thursday, the junior high teams meet at 5 p.m. followed by the varsity contest.

Carrizozo must win its remaining district games to finish second, a goal Sanchez has set.

"It's an uphill battle for us now because we have to go into Mountainair and win it in three," Sanchez said.

The Grizzlies travel to Quemado for a non-district match Saturday.

Carrizozo found some success last Saturday with its enchilada dinner. The dinner raised enough money from sales to pay for shoes and part of video camera, said Sanchez, who thanked everyone who helped with the dinner.

All Ruidoso eyes on Desert Warriors

Warriors shrug off loss to Cavemen

BY STEVE BENNETT
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

The Ruidoso Warrior football team lost a heartbreaker last Friday to the Carlsbad Cavemen, 33-21 before a hometown crowd at Horton Stadium.

Despite outstanding performances from Josh Varnadore, who grabbed eight passes for 179 yards and two touchdowns, and Corey Saenz, who rushed for 134 yards and one TD, and despite the Warriors dominating the Cavemen offensively (460 yards to 250), Ruidoso came up short.

So how did it happen?

Carlsbad stayed in the game with the strong leg of kicker Adam Walterscheid, who hit two first half field goals of 40 and 42 yards. Costly Warrior miscues enabled the Cavemen to score two touchdowns and keep Ruidoso from scoring another. A muffed punt reception and an interception set up two Carlsbad TDs.

But perhaps the turning point came when Saenz's 34-yard TD run was nullified on a not-so-obvious clipping penalty. On the next play the Warriors were flagged again for clipping and stood looking at a first-and-62-yard rather than six points on the scoreboard.

When head coach Les Carter was asked to comment on the officiating last Friday he was emphatic: "No. On Friday night after the ballgame, the kids were disappointed, even angry. We've got to take care of the little things. But this week morale is good . . . and we're still going to use the same punt returner. He's a good kid."

With his last non-district game behind him, Carter is able to ignore his team's 2-4 record and look to a new season — district play.

This week the Warriors will travel south to play District 3AAA opponent Santa Teresa. The Desert Warriors — currently in their fifth year — are the district's newest addition. Though head coach Celso Trujillo's troops sport a 1-4 record, Carter is clearly worried about their passing game and star running back.

"They're a one-back team," Carter said. "This kid is an explosive back, really quick. He's one of the best backs in our district. Santa Teresa also likes to throw the ball.

Will coach Catten give a prediction? He only smiles.
"We're going to continue to do what we've been doing except without any mistakes."

Game recap
Ruidoso drew first blood in the first period with a 53-yard Corey Saenz TD pass to receiver Josh Varnadore. Brett Meyer's PAT kick was good, putting the Warriors out in front 7-0.
After the Warriors stopped two Carlsbad drives, kicker Adam Walterscheid put the Cavemen on the scoreboard with two field goals of 42 and 40 yards, respectively. The Cavemen narrowed the gap 7-6.

The big play of the first half was Varnadore's leaping 34-yard touchdown reception of a Saenz pass with 17 seconds left in the first half. The PAT kick was no good and the Warriors led at halftime, 13-6.
After the half, Carlsbad mounted its first drive capped by QB Scott Burns' 4-yard TD run. Adam Walterscheid's PAT kick tied the score, 13-13.
Then the Cavemen got their first break. After recovering a muffed Ruidoso punt on the Warrior 15-yard line, Burns passed to end Jared Beasley on the first play putting Carlsbad out in front 19-13. Carlsbad failed to convert the PAT because a bad snap from center.

In the fourth quarter, the Cavemen scored again on a 7-yard Walterscheid run. With Troy Williams' PAT run, Carlsbad went ahead, 27-13.
Ruidoso struck right back with Corey Saenz's 72-yard run. On the PAT, Saenz threw to fullback Adrian Herrera for the 2-point conversion. The Warriors now trailed, 27-21.
Carlsbad's final score came with 1:48 left in the game with Burns' 37-yard run. The point after touchdown failed, and the Cavemen held on, 33-21, for their second win of the season.

CAPTAN: Tigers must defuse the bomb in Hatch

With 2:32 left in the first half of the Dexter game, the Tigers were in it, trailing 14-8.
But consecutive fumbles deep in their own territory gave the Demons the ball, and Dexter converted both into touchdowns for three touchdown halftime lead.
"If we don't stop the turnovers then we will never be a good ballclub," said Davis, noting turnovers are "the mental aspect of the game."
"It's that simple and the kids know this."
Davis had plenty of praise for Dexter's Duran, describing the senior Demon as one of the "best quarterbacks I've seen in high school football in a long time."

But it didn't help that the Tiger secondary "collapsed" either. All six Dexter touchdown passes were 30 yards or more, Davis noted.
What adjustments will Davis make in the defensive secondary?
"What can you do? You go back to the basics," he said.
TIGER TRACKS: After missing parts of the last two games, running back Josh Long played the whole game versus Dexter and gained 75 yards rushing... James Tacey led the Tigers with 168 rushing, including a 68-yard TD run in the first quarter against Dexter... Capitan won last year's meeting with Hatch, 20-6.

Woodsy, a Tree and Me

What a tree does for me

Trees help us in many ways. They:

- make the world prettier.
- block out traffic noise.
- are homes to animals and birds.
- help keep soil from washing away.
- help protect houses and farmland from strong winds.
- give off oxygen and make our air breathable.
- have blossoms that smell good.
- can be fun to play in and around.
- offer shade.
- are used for building materials.
- are used as fuel.
- are used to make products such as paper and turpentine.
- give us food such as fruit and nuts.

A tree is a friend. Like a friend, a tree needs tender love and care. For many years, our old friend Woodsy Owl has been showing kids how to care for trees and the great outdoors.

TLC for a tree

We can help trees in many ways. People can:

- clean up the environment. Poisons in the air, water and soil hurt trees.
- Recycle paper, so we won't need to cut down so many trees.
- Be careful at campsites.
- Plant trees.

Woodsy Owl

Woodsy's famous motto, "Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute," is still good. However, now he has added, "Lend a Hand — Care for the Land." He is also encouraging kids to "renew, reuse and recycle."

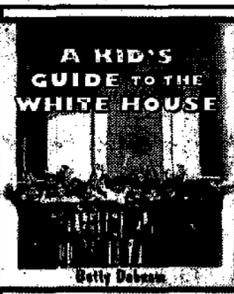

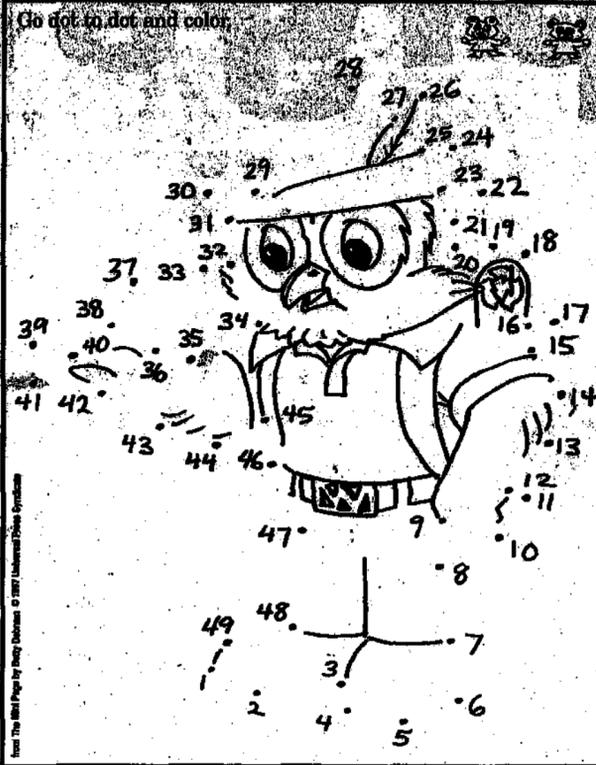

Woodsy has a new look for the '90s. He is trimmer than the Woodsy first created 26 years ago. He now has a backpack and hiking shoes and is dressed just right to explore the great outdoors.

ENMU-Ruidoso's summer science camp gets $25,000 boost from NASA

A $25,000 grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will allow Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso to launch a summer science camp for local students.

BY JULIE BAXTER
RUIDOSO NEWS EDUCATION WRITER

With help from NASA, a science camp will lift off in Ruidoso this summer.

Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso will sponsor the four-week camp aimed at igniting student passion for science, engineering and careers in those fields. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has boosted the program with a $25,000 grant.

Carla Burns, lead teacher for the summer science camp and a science teacher at Ruidoso Middle School, said the program was started a couple of years ago with grant money from the Department of Energy. But the DOE canceled its funding for educational outreach, leaving the program with an academic purpose, but no money to support it. Burns said she and Jim Miller, director of ENMU-Ruidoso and of the summer program, went in search of other money sources and eventually landed on NASA.

Through her work with Math, Engineering and Science Achievement, Burns said she knew NASA has money available for educational programs. So she and Miller sat down and tailored the program to meet NASA's parameters and wrote a grant seeking financial support from the national space giant. The changes to meet NASA's guidelines weren't that big, Burns said. Instead they simply incorporated more astronomy and space and future careers.

"The program is also going to be aimed at minorities and girls," she said. "They are traditionally under-represented in those areas."

The grant from NASA will allow ENMU-Ruidoso to offer camp activities at no cost to about 50 area middle school students.

"All the kids will have to do is bring their lunch," Burns said. "Everything else is paid for."

Everything else includes classroom lessons and field trips to places like New Mexico Tech, Sunspot Laboratories, and other places and schools with a focus on science and engineering.

"On field trips (students) get to see science in action," Burns said.

The camp will be open to students in seventh, eighth and ninth grade in all of the schools in the Region IX Education Cooperative - Ruidoso, Capitan, Carrizozo, Hondo, Corona, Cloudcroft and Tularosa. Burns said spots may also be available for sixth-graders, depending on enrollment.

Receiving the money from NASA has Burns excited.

"It's very impressive to me that they would want to work with us," she said. "I would think they're very picky about the programs they chose. Overall, I'm just thrilled that NASA agreed to do it."

Burns said NASA agreed to continue funding in the future if the program works.

And just as Burns is excited about NASA's contribution, the program is geared at generating excitement in students.

Burns said science curriculum and time restraints don't often allow teachers to delve into detail about what careers are available in the field. And often those classroom lessons can be intimidating for students who grapple with complicated formulas and scientific experiments.

"They have to discover a passion," Burns said of motivating students toward careers in science and engineering. "We want them to see more exciting perspectives on it. Get them pointed in the right direction."

Carla Burns,
lead teacher,
summer science camp

By pointing students in the right direction in middle school, Burns said, students can take the right courses in high school to be ready for college.

"What we've found in research is if you can get them hooked during those years, they take the right courses in high school and prepare for college," she said.

Burns added that students who arrive at college with out the right groundwork are either forced to spend a year preparing for a science or engineering major or simply get frustrated and chose another field. But as technology continues to expand and evolve, and as the job market grows increasingly competitive, it is important for American students to keep in step with science, she said.

"We're trying to increase participation in those fields," Burns said.

Programs like the summer camp and MESA make a difference in her opinion.

"We've had three summer science camps before and some of those kids have gone on to college," she said. "We know we've made a difference in a couple of lives. Kids don't know what opportunities are available."

Burns said past participants have raved about the camp, with some wanting to attend again, if not as a student then maybe as a student aide.

"I thought it was really fun," said eighth-grader Jessica Garcia, who attended camp two summers ago. "Before the camp I thought science was OK; I like spelling better. But now science is pretty much my favorite subject."

Garcia said her peers asked her how she could spend a summer away from school learning about science, but she said the camp wasn't like school at all.

"It wasn't like school," she said. "It was just more fun."

Chelsea Baca, an eighth-grader who also spent a summer in camp, shared Garcia's viewpoint.

"I really liked it," Baca said. "It was a good learning experience and it was fun and entertaining."

Burns also shared Garcia and Baca's enthusiasm for the program.

"I think the kids enjoy it. I know I enjoy it. It's not like work," she said. "It's like teaching science without the homework."

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Two local students elected to WBU offices

Jennifer Jones of Capitan and Clarissa Campbell of Ruidoso were among the winners of the recent Wayland Baptist University student elections. Jones will serve as a junior class senator for the current school year. Campbell will serve as a freshman class senator.

Alto resident receives ENMU Alumni Award

Frances Richardson of Alto was among five people to receive 1997 Alumni Awards during Eastern New Mexico University-Portales homecoming events Oct. 4.

Richardson served the university in a number of capacities during her 24-year career. She was instrumental in establishing the Friends of Eastern Foundation and in laying groundwork for the foundation as it exists today. A 1958 ENMU graduate, she was appointed to the board of regents in 1991 and served as secretary/treasurer, vice president and president.

Hondo schools receive Sandia Labs computers

The Hondo Valley Public School District is a little richer in technology thanks to a gift from Sandia National Laboratories.

Through the Sandia National Laboratories K-12 Gift Program, the Hondo Schools have received computers and other equipment valued at $72,683. The equipment includes eight printers, two plotters, eight personal computers, three scanners, two copy machines and several keyboards and monitors.

The computers will be used in the new addition to the schools' library that is currently under construction. One computer will be used specifically to enhance Computer Assisted mathematics Instruction already taking place in the district's Phillip's Laboratory at the high school.

The Sandia National Laboratories provide school districts throughout the state with used equipment that is still in good working condition and has years of use left. Barbara Casey, Hondo superintendent, said she was surprised by the size of the gift.

"I'm so pleased that the National Lab takes an active role in New Mexico education by donating much needed equipment to the public schools," she said.

Casey added that the equipment will be an asset to the educational program already offered in Hondo and will directly benefit the students.

ENMU-Portales seeking support for science fair

Eastern New Mexico University-Portales will sponsor the Southeastern New Mexico Regional Science and Engineering Fair on March 14, 1998.

The event attracts about 250 students from the southeast section of the state to compete for prizes and recognition of their academic achievements. Donations from businesses are being sought to sponsor awards. For a donation, either prize or money, the businesses will not only be helping the youths with their educational goals, but may also promote their business.

For more information call Rosemary Mathews at (505) 562-2309.

Hondo woman faces murder trial in slaying of ranching partner

Terry Payseno accused of hiding body in trailer

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The murder case of a Hondo woman accused of killing her companion and ranching partner was sent to Lincoln County District Court on Monday for trial.

After reviewing evidence presented by a state prosecutor, Carrizozo Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean determined there was probable cause to charge Terri Payseno with an open count of murder, tampering with evidence and a felon in possession of a firearm in connection with the Sept. 13 death of Sonia "Sonny" Kirkwood, 58.

Payseno, 40, was arrested Sept. 25 at the couple's ranch about five miles southeast of Hondo after she notified the Sheriff's Office about the death.

Kirkwood's body was found inside a locked horse trailer in a badly decomposed condition. It was sent to the state medical examiner's office in Albuquerque for autopsy. Results may not be available for a month or more, Sheriff Tom Sullivan said.

Sullivan said Kirkwood appeared to have been shot in the chest, although there may be more wounds.

Payseno is in county jail in Carrizozo without bail.

Her attorney, Gary Mitchell, could not be reached for comment Tuesday, but has indicated he will be claiming self-defense on his client's behalf.

The sheriff said Payseno told deputies that she quarreled with Kirkwood about leaving the ranch. The two struggled and a .357 caliber Magnum pistol discharged, killing the older woman, according to her statement, Sullivan said. She offered no explanation for her decision to lock the body in one of the stalls of a two-horse trailer, he said. The gun was recovered by deputies in brush about a quarter mile from the ranch house.

Payseno's 6-year-old daughter, who was living at the ranch, was taken to her father in Wyoming, Sullivan said.

The firearm possession charge was added after officers learned that Payseno was convicted and sentenced to 18 months in a federal prison in Kansas for interstate transportation of stolen property, Sullivan said.

The women arrived in Lincoln County about two years ago from Wyoming and operated a small horse breeding business.

Picture this: Album workshop

The weather is finally becoming fallish with cool mornings and warm days.

I spent the weekend at the Fort Lone Tree with a photo album workshop. It was sponsored by Creative Memories consultant, Carol Wilson of Ancho.

The weather was great and everyone had a great time putting their albums together and enjoying the fellowship with each other.

The albums ranged from old black and white family photos, family gatherings, weddings — some of which were the most beautiful albums put together — and various other categories.

LINCOLN TRAILS

BY ROSALIE DUNLAP

There were 28 in attendance, including six consultants.

The most pages done was 71 pages by one participant. The group did a total of 516 album pages. Several stayed up until the wee hours in the morning to get their albums done. I'm afraid I wasn't one of them.

They came from Crownpoint, who had decorated the neatest T-shirts with their names on them along with decorations, Las Cruces, Ramon, Corona, Lincoln, Ancho, Carrizozo, Capitan and Des Moines/Grenville.

The consultants gave an album and supplies to the fort for their great hospitality. Thanks to manager David Jacques, his staff and the wonderful meals prepared by Shelley.

Everyone is looking forward to the next one, which will be held Feb. 6-8 at the Fort Lone Tree. More information can be had by calling Carol Wilson at Carrizozo.

One of the participants, Allison Tcherneahoff, celebrated her birthday the first day.

The stitchers had a surprise birthday party for Kacie Sweetman last week. She is slowly recuperating from her broken ankle. Everyone had a great time. These gals usually do.

John McGrath is home and doing fine. He will be doing physical therapy for a while, but is on the road to recovery. Glad to have you back, John.

Gary and Dee Miller are busy doing maintenance work on their house. It seems we all keep busy doing something to our properties. It is a never-ending task and we in Lincoln have the extra push, being a historical town to do extra work.

NEXT WEEK

Here comes winter so get ready

Protect your Ruidoso home from excessive electrical bills and maintenance problems this winter — whether you're home or not.

Next week's Home & Family feature story will focus on the steps summer residents should follow to safely close up their home, as well as what year-round residents can do to prepare for the winter.

Bill Chance, with the Otero County Electrical Cooperative, explains some of the ways full- and part-time residents may reduce their winter electric bills, prevent their pipes from freezing and other winter protection advice.

He's the bearded ranger who oversees the Smokey Bear Ranger District

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

He looks the part. With a full beard and mustache, casual shirt and slacks and a heavy pair of boots, Sam Tobias looks like he belongs in the forest, out on a trail somewhere.

But its his manner that tells you Tobias loves his job as head of lands and recreation for the Smokey Bear Ranger District of the Lincoln National Forest.

He's usually smiling. At his Ruidoso post for nine years, Tobias knows the every corner and cave of the forest and has a good grasp of the problems that lie ahead to protect and nurture the resource while still offering more recreational opportunities for the public.

Tobias, 45, grew up in southwestern Pennsylvania and earned his degree in forest management from Penn State. He had no doubts about his career. He camped and hunted with his father while growing up and knew he wanted to work outside.

"Of course when I thought about it as a career, I didn't understand the complexity of outdoor management," Tobias said.

When he graduated in 1974, Tobias sent applications all over the nation for a temporary seasonal position with the Forest Service. He was hired in April 1975 for a fire prevention technician in Roosevelt, Ariz., and worked fire suppression.

"I was dealing with a lot of people in a high-use water recreation area about 90 miles northeast of Phoenix," Tobias said.

By 1978, he was working full time in recreation and lands. He spent 13 years in that district, changing posts as he received promotions. In 1988, he was transferred to Ruidoso.

"From a personal standpoint, it was refreshing," Tobias said. "I came from a desert climate to cool air and trees. It was snowing when I arrived."

Tobias' mark can be found on many of the decisions regarding use of forest land. He oversees undeveloped recreational land, specific use permits for power lines and roads, handles land exchanges, water use and mineral management.

"It's kind of a hodgepodge of different things," he said, adding fire management to the list. "I like it because there's variety and I meet all kinds of people."

Ruidoso's mix of housing with federal forest also is different than the situation in most national forests.

"Here we have an urban interface," with homes built up to the forest in a maze of boundary lines throughout the village. In some cases, small clusters of houses have been built in the forest as a result of agreements set up decades ago.

Since he took over in Ruidoso 10 years ago, Tobias has seen the interest in and use of the forest increase dramatically.

"From a recreation standpoint, the usage is really intense," he said. "But it also presents a special opportunity. We have good turnouts for volunteer projects."

Unfortunately, the U.S. Forest Service's annual budgets have not kept pace with the growth in forest use, he said.

"We need to be proactively involved with the village to plan for the needs of the future," he said. "That may include more biking trails. That's one area when we haven't kept up."

But Tobias said in his personal view, creation of a network of trails close to town, should be one of the major goals pursued by the service with the village.

"We have great trails in the White Mountain Wilderness, but many people don't want to have to drive out to Bonito Lake to go hiking. We have fragments of trails closer in, but it will take some right-of-way acquisition to tie them together," he said.

"I would hope in the next 10 years we would have them intact. I hope the planning process the village is going through now will help set the stage for that."

He'd also like to see several recreation areas improved and more work on the existing trail

Western swing music to keynote a special Cowboy Symposium

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF

Storied songwriter Cindy Walker, whose award won the only standing ovation last month when she became a member of the Country Music Association Hall of Fame, will add something to Ruidoso's luster Thursday night when she presents a new song titled "Ruidoso" to Mayor Jerry Shaw.

Another 4,999 copies of the sheet music will be distributed during the following three days at the Glencoe Rural Events Center during the 8th annual Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium.

The cowboy poets, cooks, riders and dozens more musicians will take the stage Friday through Sunday, but Thursday is devoted to honoring Walker and another musician who has added hugely to the appeal of western and country music — arranger and rhythm guitarist Eldon Shamblin.

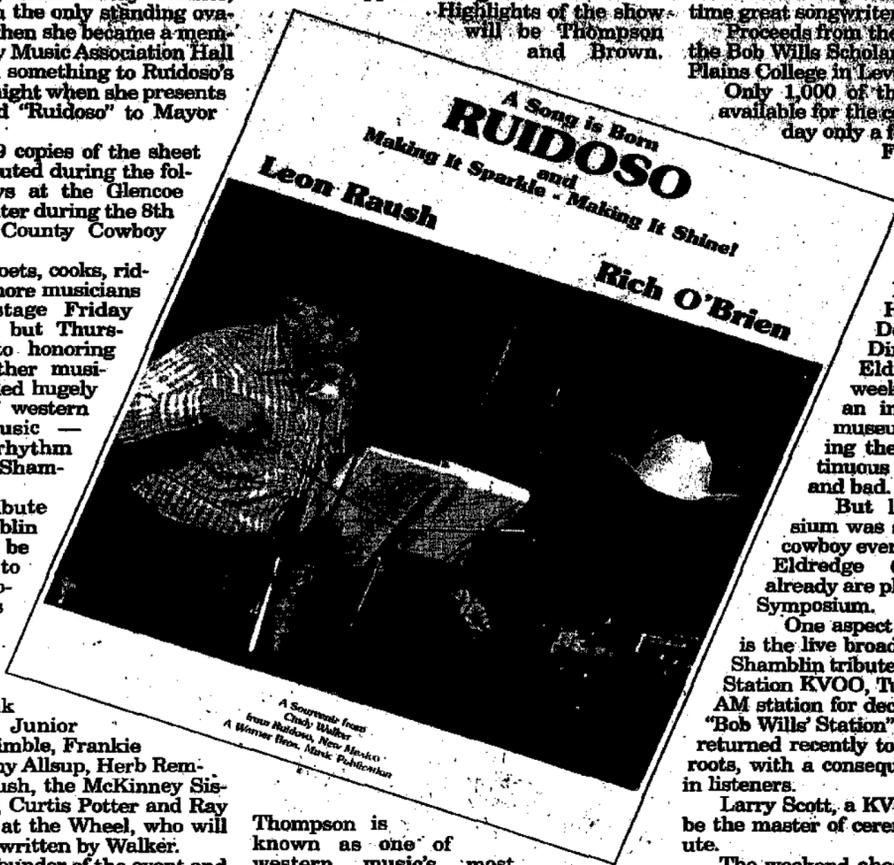

A special tribute concert to Shamblin and Walker will be held at 8 p.m. to kick off the Symposium. Performers scheduled to sing and play in honor of Shamblin and Walker are Hank Thompson, Junior Brown, Johnny Gimble, Frankie McWhorter, Tommy Allsup, Herb Remington, Johnny Bush, the McKinney Sisters, Billy Walker, Curtis Potter and Ray Benson of Asleep at the Wheel, who will all perform songs written by Walker.

Ray Reed, co-founder of the event and one of Western Swing music's most beloved performers, said "these are the legends of western music coming together to honor two old friends who are absolute geniuses. Eldon Shamblin's sound helped Bob Wills turn the corner and make it to the top. And when Bob Wills met 17-year-old Cindy Walker and heard her songs, he hired her to write the music for eight motion pictures, and Cindy hasn't stopped writing since."

Highlights of the show will be Thompson and Brown.

Thompson is known as one of western music's most enduring legends and Brown is billed as one of the hottest contemporary artists.

"I wouldn't pass up the chance to come to Ruidoso to pay my respects to two of the greatest people in the music business," said Thompson, whose honky tonk western music has entertained millions of fans since the 1950s. "Eldon Shamblin's guitar work helped define Western Swing music and Cindy Walker is one of the all-time great songwriters."

Proceeds from the concert will benefit the Bob Wills Scholarship Fund at South Plains College in Levelland, Texas.

Only 1,000 of the $25 tickets were available for the concert, and on Tuesday only a few were left.

For ticket information call 1-800-263-5929.

The Symposium this year is under the sponsorship of the Museum of the Horse in Ruidoso Downs. Museum Director Bruce Eldredge noted this week that it has become an integral part of the museum program, offering the advantage of continuous support, good year and bad.

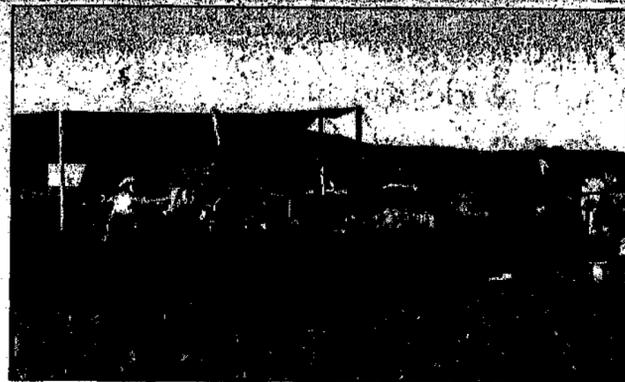

But last year's symposium was selected as the best cowboy event in the nation, and Eldredge (and Ray Reed) already are planning for the 1998 Symposium.

One aspect of this year's event is the live broadcast of the Walker-Shamblin tribute Thursday on Radio Station KVOO, Tulsa, Okla. That top AM station for decades was known as "Bob Wills' Station" and reportedly has returned recently to its Western Swing roots, with a consequent major increase in listeners.

Larry Scott, a KVOO disc jockey, will be the master of ceremonies for the tribute.

The weekend ahead also will feature cowboy skills, horsemanship demonstrations, and one of the most popular events of the weekend — the richest chuckwagon cook-off in the country.

At least 30 chuckwagons will be circled on the slope behind the Rural Events center...and any one attending can dine after the judging at $10 each.

One of more than two dozen chuckwagons in the weekend cook-off at Glencoe. Dinner tickets will be available for the Saturday event.

Living Proof, a Christian group from Lubbock, Texas, will be an added attraction for Sunday's presentation on the main stage.

TOBIAS: 'Leave no trace, use common sense and take practical safety steps ...

system. Two campgrounds recently reconstructed are Three Rivers on the western slope of the Sacramento Mountains south of Carrizozo on U.S. Highway 54 and South Fork near Bonito Lake. A few years ago, two group campgrounds also were built in Cedar Creek.

Trail work is one area where volunteers are essential, he said.

"I can't do much by myself," Tobias said. "And I can't depend on the budget. But this is a good organization here. We all work together and its incredible how much you can accomplish. But it's disappointing when you don't accomplish all of it."

No surprise to hear Tobias spends his spare time hiking, hunting and fishing.

It was while he and his wife, Jackie, were hunting elk in Arizona that Tobias learned first hand what happens when he doesn't take his own advice.

The twosome left their truck to hike just a few hundred yards, but became disoriented in heavy fog and snow.

Unfortunately, it was one of the rare times Tobias didn't pack his compass. He left it in the truck.

"It took us seven hours to find our way out," he said. "It wasn't life threatening, but it could have been. I really felt foolish after the years and years I've spent hiking in the back country."

And after the years and years he's been telling everyone else to take along a compass.

"I learned a lesson that day that I thought I had already learned," Tobias said.

The couple recently began building their own home in Ranches of Sonterra. Tobias always has enjoyed building projects as a hobby, but this one may satisfy him for years to come, he said.

Tobias and his wife, a teacher in the Ruidoso school district, both like to garden and raise golden retrievers and Labradors. Their current retriever is named Shelby. They're hoping to stay in the area, but realize the Forest Service could reassign Tobias at some point.

If that happens, he'd like to keep the house off Sierra Blanca Airport Road and retire in Lincoln County, Tobias said.

Meanwhile, Tobias said he has plenty of challenges ahead.

"The biggest issue is trying to meet the demand in the Bonito Lake area in conjunction with the city of Alamogordo (which owns the lake)," Tobias said. "It's a small, unique jewel and very popular. But it's difficult with the different ownerships in the area and issues, even with the good relationship we have."

One of the issues may be to put a capacity cap on the area on holiday weekends, he said. The staff can't possibly stay on top of every thing in those heavy-use times, he said.

The 225 miles of trails in the forest and wilderness also need reconstruction and maintenance work, he said.

"We're trying to get the wilderness management up to par, but with a fluctuating budget that's hard to do," he said.

He'd also like to see more proactive wilderness education programs and to that end two wilderness rangers were added to the staff to take issues and hiking and camping etiquette into the classroom.

After all of his years working with the public, the same message needs to be stressed, he said.

"Leave no trace, use common sense and take practical safety steps, like taking along maps, compass, water," he said. "Let someone know where you're going and when you expect to be back."
