Christmas season brings jingle of cash registers

• Local businesses for the most part are pulling through a Christmas season with flying colors despite a late snowfall and heavy road construction on Mechem, several owners say.

BY TONI K. LAXSON RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

While highway construction and a snowless Thanksgiving gave some local business owners a temporary case of financial jitters, many were back on track by the Christmas holiday, according to a sampling of 12 businesses.

"It hasn't been as bad as I had expected," Ben Wilcox, owner of the True Value Hardware store on Mechem Drive, said this week about a slight slump in business. "It's been more weather-related than road-related."

Unlike last Christmas, when 3 feet of snow fell in four days, people haven't been purchasing as many snow chains, snow shovels and other weather-related items from the store, Wilcox said, adding that his business was down by about 7 or 8 percent from last year.

Restaurants and lodging establishments — even those in the midst of road construction along Mechem Drive — seem to be doing the same booming business typical for the Christmas holiday. But the health of ski shops and hardware stores were among those initially affected by a lack of snow, which prompted Ski Apache to postpone its traditional Thanksgiving opening by a week.

Snow has been on the mountain now for about two weeks, a base of about 26 inches, and business is back to booming, local ski shop owners said this week.

"I'll tell you what, and I'm amazed, that we are running right there with last year," Ron Anderson, a co-owner of both the Ski Ruidoso Ski Shop and the Wild West Ski Shop, said this week of his business'

Victims of domestic violence call for tougher laws against their abusers

•This article is the first in a two-part series on domestic violence, which is on the rise in the court district that includes Lincoln County. The story focuses on personal stories from the victims' points of view. The second part of the series will look at the legal aspects of domestic violence.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Accepting that you're a victim of domestic violence is difficult, because it may require the courage to walk away from your home and memories.

But for some women, it becomes a matter of survival and comes only after multiple fractures and years of verbal and physical abuse.

Ruidoso resident Alice King, a welleducated and independent business woman, said she endured two decades of abuse before her final break from her second husband. King represented herself in the court of Carrizozo Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean this month, prosecuting a misdemeanor domestic battery case against her former husband and winning one out of three counts against him.

But like many other women, King, 64, saw her husband's jail sentence suspended with a warning that if he repeats the violence, he'll end up behind bars. It wasn't the first time he walked, she said. According to court records, he was convicted for an August 1987 incident in the court of then magistrate judge Jim Wheeler, and again on a February 1995 charge in Magistrate Judge William Butts' court.

But there's no teeth to the law. The police take the brunt. They always do their job, but they're helpless without (backup from the prosecution)."

The second woman, Wendy, lived with verbal abuse and anger at home, and with harassment at her work place, before her co-workers raised

Counselor announces candidacy for tribal president

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Although the ink is barely dry on the ballots asking Mescalero Apache tribal members if they think a special election should be called to name a new president, one person already has declared his candidacy.

Joseph Geronimo, a guidance counselor and court advocate, who has been active in politics much of his life, is the first to put his name in the hat. Paul Ortega, who served as vice president until long-time president Vendell Chino died last month, was sworn into office as president the day after Chino's death.

Geronimo, who's brother Harlyn Geronimo was elected to serve on the tribal council in November, previously served on the council and ran unsuccessfully against Chino for president earlier in this decade.

"With that many people signing the petition (calling for a vote on president), I'm sure the call for an election will pass and I'm declaring my candidacy," Geronimo said Wednesday. He was referring to 473 signatures on a petition submitted earlier this month, but rejected by the tribal council.

"These people have been given a chance to run the tribe, but it's falling apart," he said. "My goal is to give the tribe back to the Apache people. When I'm elected, Apache tribal members will run all of the tribal enterprises. The superintendent of schools will be an Apache and the principal of the high school will be Apache.'

Geronimo said he would disband the non-elected tribal council's three-person education committee run the school district, because they are elected.

"It's time we take care of our children. Instead of building mansions, we should build decent schools," he said. "When our children hurt, I hurt. Their cries for help fall on deaf ears. They no longer will be sent away to schools outside the Reservation or be placed in non-Indian foster homes."

Besides building a new school, he would like to help Tribe members build their own businesses, "instead of being on the government payroll," he said. "We have all of this traffic and money through going Reservation.

> "We're tired of people coming in and telling us how to run our lives,' Geronimo said. "This is our land and we will take back Apache country and the Apaches are going to enjoy the benefits.'

ABUSE: 'When he became angry, it was like looking at a stranger'

"If he's had a punching bag for 15 years and suddenly it's gone, the violence could spread to other members of the family," LaMothe said. "The first four davs after a woman leaves usually are the most dangerous."

Working with Family Crisis of Lincoln County, LaMothe also can offer some individual counseling when needed while crisis volunteers set up a place for the woman to stay temporarily.

Although alcohol often is involved in abuse, it's not the alcohol that makes men beat women, LaMothe said.

"When a batterer is sober (he or she) has inhibitors," she said. "But if he never had the thought when sober, he wouldn't do it when he was drinking."

King agrees that alcohol is no excuse.

"There's a tremendous emphasis on drinking, which I view as an excuse," she said. "Every time my ex-husband was arrested, the first question they would ask was, 'Is he drinking?' I'd say, 'No, he likes to hurt people.' It's an issue of control and

And she was hurt, according to medical reports. Her nasal passage was perforated, her ear drum was damaged and a hip had to be replaced. Yet, the criminal charges against her husband never were elevated to felonies.

"We need a law with more teeth," she said. "Maybe something where the judge can fine the batterer and give (the money) to the woman to help her start a new life. Maybe they would pay attention if it cost them.'

Unfortunately, the small fines that accompany petty misdemeanor charges also are often suspended.

This is exactly why this thing continues to go on," King said. "Everyone backs down and equivocates. The worse part is that they don't seem to understand you can trace domestic problems and many addictions to abuse in the home,"

'I'll try harder'

"The typical response of a woman is, "If only I hadn't done something, he wouldn't have reacted that way," LaMothe said. "Forget it. He'd do it any-that - like threads," LaMothe said. "The time may come when we have to move out tomorrow and leave it all. But who would want to do that?"

In King's case, she said she left in such a hurry after what she calls her hostage incident, she only had her car, but no credits cards, check book or clothing. Her husband controlled the finances, she said. Fortunately, she found temporary help through the crisis center, found a job and an apartment. But she suffered many moments of despair, shame and Like King, before Katy married she never saw the dark flip side of her husband.

"He drank, but there never was any violence," she said. When he became angry, it was like looking at a stranger. One time when Katy was pregnant and he was holding her by the neck off the ground, "I looked him in the face and those eyes were not even my husband's," she said.

Unlike many women, Katy didn't blame herself.

"I think it's always his fault if he reacts that way," she said. "I told him he's not going to play that psychological bull—— on me. You did this."

Even in his fits of anger fueled by alcohol, her husband had the presence of mind not to cause bruises where they could be seen, she said, She finally decided to leave when she became pregnant with their second child and her first was getting to be old enough to be upset about the violence.

Still, she misses the good times and stays in touch with her husband. He says he's attending Alcoholics Anonymous meetings and wants to réconcile.

"I worry about him losing out seeing his daughter," she said. "But I still get nervous when the time comes when he may call. I still get butterflies in my stomach. I don't want him to be drunk. I want him to try."

"Women tend to be loyal to their husbands, but you have to think are you bringing up your daughter or son thinking this is the way to act," LaMothe said. "Very often men will say, Til get better, or Tll stop drinking, but don't do anything, or they will go to a few meetings and stop."

Wendy, who secured a restraining order when she decided to leave her husband, said she's much more relaxed now. She looks forward to going home. Friends and co-workers We have 100 reasons like notice the difference after a dozen years of stress.

"He was so controlling," she said. "I couldn't do things, because I knew he'd be mad at me when I got home. He wanted me home. He wanted me right by his side. He used to say, No one could love you like I do, and I'd say, 'I hope not."'

She has started a new relationship, but admits, "There's always a question in the back of my mind, is he being nice until we get married?"

LaMothe encourages her clients to move slowly into new relationships.

I recommend not to get into another intimate relationship for at least one year," she said. "Many of these women have been told over and over they never could make it on their own. They need to live with themselves first so they know they can do it.'

Restraining orders

Restraining orders are a civil approach to a domestic abuse problem that also can result in criminal charges being filed in magistrate court.

Darrell Brantley hears protection order petitions in Otero County under the provisions of the state Family Violence Protection Act.

"I can order a no abuse or stay away order, or others designed to empower the victim and provide an avenue of escape," he said. "I can award temporary possession of the house and child support, but a restraining order is the first entered. It's a criminal misdemeanor to violate that order (or can be treated as a civil contempt of court) and directs the police to arrest if there is probable cause to believe a violation has occurred. It's usually heard by a district judge here, because they put a high priority on those decisions.

"The law was designed to fill a void that previously existed to get the police to intervene immediately. Previously, they had to wait for a crime to be committed, but now a victim can get protection from conduct that otherwise would not be considered criminal."

Characteristics of the batterer

Seventeen behavioral characteristics are listed by New Mexico Coalition Against Domestic Violence as indicators of a domestic batterer. The last four are almost always seen in an abusive partner.

Jealousy: Not a sign of love, rather a sign of insecurity and possessiveness. He will question the woman about who she talks to and as the jealousy progresses, he mail call frequently during the day or drop by unexpectedly. He may refuse to let her work or even check her mileage.

· Controlling behavior: At first, he will say it's for the woman's safety or to help her make good decisions. He will be angry if she is late coming back from an appointment and will question her. As the behavior worsens, he may not let the woman make personal decisions about the house, her clothing or money. He may even make her ask permission to leave the room or house.

Quick involvement: Many battered women dated or knew their abuser for less than six months before they were engaged or living together. He will tell the woman flattering things and come on like a whirlwind. He will ssure the weman to commit to him.

· Blames others for his problems: Someone always is doing him wrong or is out to get him - personally, in his job or if he is out of work. He may make mistakes and then blame the woman for upsetting him and keeping him from concentrating on what he's doing. He will tell the woman she's at fault for all that goes wrong.

Blames other for his feelings: To manipulate the woman, he will tell her, "You make me mad," "You're hurting me by not doing what I ask," and, "I can't help being angry.

• Cruelty to animals and children:

The man may punish children or ani-mals brutally, being insensitive to their pain and expecting children to be capable of doing things far beyond their abil-ity. He may tease children until they cry. He may not want children to eat at the table or he may expect them to stay in their room all evening when he is at

 Dr. Jekyil and Mr. Hyde: Many women are confused by their abuser "sudden" changes in mood. Explosiveness and mood swings are typical of men who beat their partners, and these behaviors are related to other characteristics such as hypersensitivi-ty. Explosiveness and mood swings are simply two of the control tactics used by

• Past battering: The men may say he's hit women in the past, but they made him do it. The woman may hear from relatives or ex-spouses that the man is abusive. A batterer will beat any woman he is with; situational circumstances do not make a person an

· Threat of violence: This would include any threat of physical force to control a woman such as "I'll slap your mouth off," or "I'll break your neck." Most men don't threaten their mates, but a batterer will try to excuse this behavior by saying, "Everybody talks like that.

Breaking or striking objects: This behavior is used as a punishment. but is mostly used to terrorize the woman into submission. The man may beat on tables with his fist, throw objects around or near the woman. Again, this is a very remarkable behavior. Only very immattire people beat on objects in the presence of other people to threaten them.

 Any force during an argument: This may involve a man holding a woman down, physically restraining her from leaving the room, any pushing or shoving. The man may hold the woman against a wall and say. "You're going to listen to me."

Christmas spirit in village gives a last-minute lift to Santa Cops project

BY TONI K. LAXSON RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Hundreds of presents poured into the Santa Cops Workshop Dec. 18 — the day before Christmas baskets filled with food, clothing and toys went out to about 270 indigent Lincoln County families, a coordinator of the non-profit organization said this week.

"It was just absolutely wonderful the way people responded," Ginny Dingman said. "It made the difference,"

Not one of the 368 children on the Santa Cops list went without a primary Christmas gift in addition to several smaller gifts, Dingman said. The list is created by applications from indigent families who are screened for eligibility.

Earlier, coordinators had some concern about whether or not children on the list would received the principal gifts they had requested, such as a Barbie dell for little girls or a baseball glove for boys. But donations poured in the last few days before the Christmas baskets were delivered on Dec. 19, according to Dingman.

"I mean, the spirit of the angel trees was Christmas for me," she said. For the first time, the organization used "Angel Trees" as a way to collect the larger gifts, which usually cost about $10 a piece. The gift wish of a child and a corresponding number was written on an "angel" cutout and tied to one of several Christmas trees placed in businesses about the village. People wishing to contribute would pick the angels off the trees, purchase the gifts, wrap them and return them.

As of Dec. 16, Dingman, had only received a little more than 100 of the 368 angel tree gifts back. But by Friday, 330 of the gifts had been returned, she said.

On top of which, hundreds of toys were brought in through other sources, she said. A toy-drive by Cablevision, in which the company provided free cable hook-ups during December in exchange for a toy, generated between 200 and 250 "beautiful toys," Dingman said.

That surplus and other donations more than made up for any shortfall, she said.

A significant number of additional toys came from Cynthia Hobbs and her mother Betty Fletcher, owners of the Synset Canyon Lodge. When the women read a newspaper article about Santa Cops donations being low, the two decided to take action.

Hobbs, with money donated by her mother, went to the Family Dollar Store, where the manager agreed to sell her every other toy at half price, Hobbs said. Then she went to Walgreen's, where a manager lifted a purchase limit on discounted toys, she said. The two women took the dozens of extra gifts to the Santa Cops workshop Friday.

Dingman said she and her husband Ross also "refilled" angel gift requests on trees about the village numerous times.

"Dr. Steve's (Kitchen), we filled six times," she said. Other trees, such as those at the Title Company, Ruidoso State Bank and Sierra Bank, were refilled three times each, Dingman added.

Freda McSwane, who has overseen Santa Cops for many years, said a large group of volunteers turned out the morning of Dec. 19 to deliver the gift baskets, which go to families all over the county. The group of voluntary delivery people was the largest she could recall, she said.

Business: A lack of snow hasn't dampened rentals

skiing conditions than most Colorado resorts do right now, Anderson said. He gave credit to Ski Apache's management in keeping the slopes well-maintained, which not only enhances the skiing experience, but keeps business hopping for the shops below Sierra Blanca.

"The whole town should be thankful," Anderson said. "They have done a lot to keep us in business with the snowmaking and the grooming."

Joan Zagone, executive director at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, said sunny weather below the mountain does not mean poor skiing — a perception the chamber is constantly fighting.

"In fact it's quite the contrary, because the skiing is quite good here," she said. "So, it really behooves us to be a little more educated about what is going on (at Ski Apache) ... We are a ski town, and we need to look, talk and act like a ski town."

Roy Parker, Ski Apache general manager, said Monday snow-making efforts were postponed this week because resort employees would be busy enough handling the crowds. Snow-making will resume next week, he said.

Though lift ticket sales at the resort are down slightly from last year, the previous Christmas season had an unusually high volume because of the heavy snowfall, Parker said.

d. !This past weekend, about 3,100 lift tickets were sold Saturday, 3,800 were sold Sunday and more than 5,000 were sold on Monday, Parker said. And many more lift tickets — 2,135—were sold on Christmas Day this year than is typical, he said.

"Traditionally, Christmas Day is very quiet, but there are people who are getting more sophisticated and skiing on Christmas Day because they know it's not going to be as crowded," Parker said.

Currently, ski conditions at the resort are fair to good in the upper slopes and exce'lent on the middle and lower s. .es, Parker said.

Anderson said he gauges skiing conditions by the number of skiers returning their equipment early. So far, early returns are down, he said.

Cindi Clayton, co-owner of Rocky Mountain Sports, said Monday's rental sales at her shop were at the point where they were running out of boots in some sizes.

"I think we are about the same as last year," Clayton said of rental business. "But I am curious as to what is going to happen in the next few days ... The critical days are coming up."

According to Anderson, the ski season typically booms until Jan. 4, slows down, and then picks back up near Martin Luther King Day on Jan. 15, and remains steady through the end of the season.

At Steed's Ski Sports, owner Mike Steed said business was down some from last year in rentals, but better in actual sales. Business has been especially good considering that the economies of Ruidoso's primary tourism markets of Texas and Mexico have been hit by a depressed oil dollar and a lowered peso, respectively, Steed said.

"It just seems to me that people are really more price conscious," he said. "But we are still better off than most of Colorado."

Stan Cape, owner of both the A-Frame cabin rentals and the newly renovated A-Frame Ski Shop on Mechem Drive, said his retail sales also are up this season. His renovated ski shop opened Thanksgiving and has not suffered because of the torn up road in front of the business, Cape said. Nor have his cabin rentals suffered, he added.

"We have been doing very well ... and the new facade and exterior has brought so many new customers into our place," Cape said.

Blaine Dern, owner of Log Cabin Restaurant, was not so fortunate. For several weeks his business slumped dramatically, when traffic on Mechem was shut down to one lane, he said.

"I would get (in trade) in six days in what I would do normally in one day," Dern said. "Boy, it was murder."

He had to lay off employees because of the downturn. But, when two-lane traffic resumed, business picked up, he said.

"The Christmas period this past two weeks has been great," Dern said. "I can understand (the need for the road cons uction). I didn't like it, but we at the hell are you going to do?"

What's in a day, or a date?

Don't think of this as the next-to-last day of a battered old year we call 1998.

Think of it as the day before the day that wraps up the year that is the next-to-last year of the 20th Century and of the 2nd Millennium (or second-to-last year if you're prepared to admit that the 21st Century doesn't actually, arithmetically, begin until Jan. 1, 2001, which is technically correct).

To a numbers-oriented people (and becoming more so with every personal computer manufactured), these simple numbers are pretty boggling, even without the wealth of uncertainty having to do with the Y2K, or Year 2000, problem—that problem being the price we paid early in the computer era when so many time-sensitive programs were written using two digits instead of four for dates; i. e., 88 for 1988.

Computer geeks will remember that nearly every new IBM-compatible PC built until around 1995 seemed to have been born in 1988, because 1/1/88 was what the computer clock was set to when the machine was turned on.

Nevertheless, the date on today's newspaper is Wednesday, Dec. 30, 1998, the day before the last day of the year.

It's been one bear of a year, or one bull of a year, depending on your viewpoint. But undeniably it's been exciting.

So...getting down to the nitty-gritty:

We have just one more day to wrap up all the new year's resolutions we made 364 days ago but didn't get around to implementing. Does that scare you?

Dan Storm would call out: 'hello the house'

To the editor:

...Dan Storm's passing made Christmas a bit more special this year. His passing is the passing of an era when neighbors depended on each other for moral and economic support. Dan's greetings of "hello the house" will echo in our memories... My childhood mind mirrors the scene from the "Billy the Kid Pageant" when the little girl walked up to Dan and asked "are you Buckshot Roberts?" for Dan was as much myth/non-fiction as Buckshot himself. Dan was a romantic and could build a freckle-faced teenage girl into a queen by saying, "when you see a beautiful horse, look around and you'll see a beautiful woman."

The Christmas season was official when driving up U. S. 70 you could look down the mountainside...and see the star that Dan lit to send his greeting to both neighbors and weary travelers...

Dan's passing also takes the physical part of my own Dad (he was buried in 1989) out of the valley, as often they were mistaken for each other. If anyone questioned... whether it was Dan Storm or Leo Joiner all you'd have to do is invite them to the table. Dan could put away three times the ... food that Leo could. I recall a Christmas...that Dan stopped by with his personal greeting.

As was customary...Mother brought out her home-made fruit cake, sliced off several pieces and served it with hot coffee. Dan pulled the serving plate in front of him and proceeded to eat every piece. That brought plenty of giggles and a stern...look from Mother to us kids....

Most of the readers will remember Dan for his (columns). Dan did not always present accurate names, dates and details but he presented a bit of his heart and...that has more importance...

CCNG sale wouldn't benefit 'Zozo, Capitan

To the editor:

In reference to Mr. Hamilton's ads in the Ruidoso News...that Zia Natural gas Co. has made an offer to buy out Capitan/Carrizozo Natural Gas for a fee: (He states) the customers of CCNG could receive savings annually on their gas bills. To begin with, Zia Natural Gas has a monthly rate of $8 to $38 plus the cost of MCFs used.

It is our opinion that CCNG customers will be paying for (Hamilton's) recent purchase of Jal Natural Gas Co., Hobbs Natural Gas Co., Maxwell Natural Gas Co. and the cost of a large transmission line to serve the Maxwell and Springer area. He will have to ask for a rate increase to recoup his money on these purchases. There will not be "cheaper rates" for CCNG customers.

The large sum of money for the two towns that he speaks of sounds good, but it won't solve any one problem...for Capitan. The CCNG is a great asset to Carrizozo and Capitan and we do not see a need to sell a business that has paid its way since the year of 1965 and will continue to grow and help both town utilities.

Last but not least is the consideration of the six employees of CCNG and their families that pay property taxes and support our schools, county and city government.

How are we doing as another year ends?

To the editor:

As 1998 grows to a close the pluses and minuses are being calculated to answer the question: Are we better off now?

The obvious answer depends upon—if the change in our pocket and the food in our pantry has increased, the answer is a resounding Yes; the polls tell us so. A small but restless minority don't agree. While the average income and employment has increased, qualities of life including a decline of morals, honesty, fair play and discipline blur the conception of whether, taking all into account, we are actually better off in 1998.

If we are to continue the presence of a "feel good" prosperity and not lose sight of the basics that made this a great nation, then we had better shape up and get to work. A rebirth of communication, cooperation, less bias, along with mutual understanding, is mandatory to the healing process.

Our citizens face an array of unsolved political problems. solutions are mired in continued failures to reach non-partisan answers. More interest by our citizens would be of great help. Lack of participation in regularly held meetings of those we elect is much too evident.

With this premise in mind, it is difficult to understand why the Ruidoso News is now limiting some commentaries to no more than 300 words. This is acceptable for letters to the editor which involve little more than opinions, but in the case of a commentary where in addition to opinions a lot of research is necessary, it can't be said in 300 words. Now is the time we need more participation, more well-thought-out recommendations, not less. The length of commentaries can be controlled by common sense --- proper editing for both content and length of the commentary would accomplish that end. J. A. "Al" Junge

A decisive battle at La Estancia

In 1819, Don Bartolomé
Baca, commander of a company of volunteers in Tomé, was granted a huge

FOOLS AND

tract of land by the governor of Spanish the of Province New Mexico. Baca was obviously a rich man: he asked for the grant because he had 40,000 300 sheep, mares and 900 cows for which needed grazing land.

The grant he received — over a million acres — comprised most of the Estancia Valley and the eastern slope of the Manzano Mountains. He established his headquarters by a spring at La Estancia, a place that had previously served as a Spanish mission before it was overrun by nomadic Indians.

Spain's sovereignty over this part of the world was later relinquished to the Republic of Mexico, which invested very little effort or moneys in its provincial government. On Dec. 7, 1845, Gov. Manuel Armijo granted about 350,000 acres to Don Antonio Sandoval in lieu of about $9,000 owed him by the government for services as district prefecture. This was less than a year before Governor Armijo fled New Mexico as United States forces under Gen. Stephen W. Kearny marched towards Santa Fe.

There was a big problem with this second grant: it came right out of the middle of the 1819 Baca grant. The stage was set for a confrontation, but it didn't occur for several decades.

The grant received — nio Otero of La Constancia, near present-day Belén, bought the Baca grant. In 1878, a Boston millionaire named Joel P. Whitney purchased the Sandoval grant. And in 1883, Charles L. Kusz, Jr. set the type for his first issue of The Gringo & Greaser in Manzano. Now all the players were on stage.

Whitney sent his brother, James, to see after his interests in New Mexico, and Otero sent his son, Manuel, to investigate reports that somebody was disposessing the tenant settlers on his ranch. They met at La Estancia, where Whitney had occupied the hacienda. Otero had two relatives with him and Whitney was accompanied by his brother-in-law, Alexander Hernández, and another friend.

It isn't known who fired the first shot, but nine more followed in seconds. Manuel B. Otero and Hernandez, were killed and Whitney was seriously wounded. One of Otero's men was shot in the arm.

Kusz had published only two editions of his semimonthly newspaper, but this was big news and couldn't wait for the next issue. He hastily composed an extra edition, dated Aug. 18, 1883, and luckily a copy still exists.

Kusz provided the residents of the area with coverage of the event and he also got to exercise his ample talent for histrionics:

"The Priest, Rev. L. Bourdier, was at once summoned to administer the rites of the church to the dying Otero, but he arrived too late; he was beyond human help; his lips were already sealed and the icy hand of death had already touched the lower part of his body, and as the sun was sinking behind the mountains to light up a new world, his spirit took its flight to the hands that gave it, passed the valley of the shadow of death and entered that great undiscovered bourne whence no traveler returns."

That's only one sentence; there were many. We sure don't have journalism like that anymore.

The fight over ownership of the Estancia Valley continued in the courts, where it should have started, and after many years the heirs of the claimants were given just a few acres each and the rest of the valley was declared public domain and opened to homesteaders.

I'm glad that happened, because I live about two blocks from where the hacienda once stood, in the center of the pleasant, tree-filled town that replaced it. If the gunfight hadn't occurred, the Estancia Valley might still be one big ranch.

Controlled burns behind that smoke

Two controlled fires put plumes of smoke into Ruidoso area skies Tuesday, according to fire officials.

About 1,000 acres in the Mescalero Reservation were scheduled to be burned Tuesday and possibly today as part of a forest management plan, said James Villard, dispatcher for the Lincoln National Forest.

The burned area is about. 15 miles southeast of Ruidoso and about 14 to 15 miles east of Mescalero, he said.

A second fire, in Gavilan Canyon just outside of Ruidoso village limits, was a private individual burning piles of brush, fire officials said. The brush piles are in the Homestead Acres subdivision, Villard said.

More controlled burns are scheduled for the area during the winter, especially during ideal conditions such as those presented earlier this week. Villard said.

Q. WHAT RELIABLE, OLD FRIEND LIVES IN YOUR HOME, MAKES YOU FEEL COMFORTABLE, AND NEEDS YOUR ATTENTION NOW?

A. YOUR NATURAL GAS FURNACE.

If you haven't already, now is the time to have your natural gas furnace checked before really cold weather hits the Ruldoso area. It just takes a phone call to your favorite plumber and in as little as thirty minutes your system can be operating safely and at peak, money-savings efficiency. If you call now you'll have just enough time to shop for a new furnace should your old unit need replacing.

A check-up on your natural gas furnace is just one of many ways to save energy. You can also add insulation to your attic, crawl space and water heater as well as weather-stripping and caulking around doors and windows. Replace your furnace filters once a month. Close drapes at night to keep the heat in. Turn your furnace down to 55 degrees at night or when you're away. Making your home as efficient as possible will keep your family more comfortable while your natural gas heating bills stay low.

Ruidoso honors Dan Storm

Ruidoso village leaders have honored longtime Ruidoso News columnist Dan Storm, who died Dec. 17 at age 89. He died of complications from smoke inhalation after his Glencoe home burned on Dec. 15.

Mayor Robert Donaldson, describing Storm as an area treasure, issued a proclamation in memory of Storm at the Ruidoso Village Council's Dec. 22 meeting:

Whereas, Dan Storm has been an icon in our community for more than 70 years and a history/story teller of Lincoln County for more than 50 years;

Whereas, the village of Ruidoso has thrived from his love of the valley, the mountains and the people of the community; and,

Whereas, our love for Dan Storm will be remembered every time we hear the bluebirds sing or see the blossoms of spring for which he was so fond of writing; and, Whereas, we will miss Dan Storm and his words of lore and thoughts on events throughout the valley.

"Now, therefore, I, Robert P. Donaldson, mayor of the village of Ruidoso, do hereby proclaim that all citizens of Ruidoso remember with honor and respect Dan Storm for his contributions to us and our community which will always remind us of our thankfulness for God, nature and our friends and neighbors."

Present for the reading of the proclamation were Storm's two surviving brothers, Lynn of Dripping Springs, Texas, and Mark of Houston, Texas.

Funeral and memorial services for Storm were on Monday, Dec. 21. He was buried at the family plot on the Storm ranch, which is owned by the brothers.

Ruidoso's deadliest duo on offense hooked up to score again, this time for a pair of postseason football honors.

Warrior quarterback Corey Saenz and senior teammate Josh Varnadore, wide receiver, were both named Monday to the Class AAA All-State Football First Team.

Saenz led Ruidoso to an 11-3 overall mark and the Class AAA State Championship game. He ran and passed for more than 2,000 yards combined. Often, Saenz's favorite target was Varnadore, who finished with nearly 900 yards in receptions on 40 catches.

Four more Warriors off Ruidoso's state runner-up team earned all-state second team accolades. Another four of Les Carter's Warriors made honorable mention.

On the second team for Ruidoso were senior defensive linemen Garvin Grant and Jason Leadingham, senior offensive running back Brett Meyer and senior offensive lineman Reny Reidhead.

Named honorable mention were senior offensive lineman Adam Graham, Reidhead at defensive line, Meyer at linebacker and junior Frizzell Frizzell at defensive back.

State champion Artesia finished with six named to first team positions. They were receiver Charles Maupin, offensive lineman Jose Martinez, defensive end Marc West, running back J.P. Barta, defensive back and punter Clinton Greathouse.

BY LAURA CLYMER RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Hondo Valley boys basketball coach Michael Booty hopes the third time will be the charm for his Eagles, who play Mescalero in the quarterfinals of the Class A/Class AAA Junior Varsity bracket of the High Country Shootout. The Hondo Eagles (4-3 overall) and the Mescalero Chiefs advanced to the quarterfinals with first-round victories Tuesday at Ruidoso High School. Twice already this season, the Chiefs have come out on top of Booty's Eagles.

"You have to stop them all," Booty said of the Chiefs. "We've just got to play good defense and control the ball on offense."

The roads they took to get today's 1:30 p.m. quarterfinal matchup were drastically different, however.

All the Chiefs had to do Tuesday morning is show up. Their game with Camp Sierra Blanca goes in the books as a forfeit because Camp Sierra Blanca was unable to line up the personnel to supervise its players. Camp Sierra Blanca is a detention facility for juvenile offendèrs.

Ruidoso boys basketball coach Billy Page said a Camp Sierra Blanca official called him Monday night to explain the problem. The Camp's team intends to play its remaining two games in the tournament. Camp Sierra Blanca's next game was at 8:30 a.m. today against the Artesia Junior Varsity.

Hondo, however, had to dispose of the pesky Artesia JV team, 44-41, to set up another showdown with Mescalero.

After a sluggish first quarter, the Eagles picked up the tempo in the second period. Sophomores Armando Ontiveros and Manny Lopez and senior Josh Candeleria combined to score 13 of Hondo's 15 second-quarter points. The Eagles outran the Bulldogs for a 24-19 halftime

Laura Clymer/Ruidoso News

The senior leadership of Eagle Josh Candeleria pushed Hondo past the 'Dogs.

The Eagles extended their margin to 35-25 in the third quarter, thanks to a cold streak of Artesia shooting from the outside.

Hondo, which usually alternates between man-toman and zone defenses evenly, played more zone than usual.

"They were sucking air, sucking air real bad," Booty said of his players. "With Christmas vacation, and we haven't practiced a whole lot

The Bulldogs fought their way back into the game in the final eight minutes with a halfcourt press that finally started to wear on the Eagles. That created turnovers for Artesia that whittled the Hondo lead from 43-33 with 2:23 to play to 43-38 and 55 seconds remaining. Despite hitting only one of five free throws in the final minute, the Eagles managed to hang on for the win.

Booty's only senior on the floor, Josh Candeleria, proved what experience can mean in a game. The Eagles' point guard seemed to always come up with the big bucket or key pass. Candeleria finished with 17 points to lead all scorers.

"He has to play with a bunch of young kids, and he's doing a good job of leading by example," Booty said of Candeleria. Candeleria and his teammates will have a bigger mountain to climb today with Mescalero. As it was against the Artesia JV, Hondo will be without two of its top six players who are visiting family in Mexico for the holidays.

Undermanned Grizzlies fall short

BY LAURA CLYMER RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

With his top gun guard still sidelined and his big man visiting relatives over the holiday, Carrizozo boys basketball coach Rick Beserra knows now is the time to play his younger Grizzlies.

"Down the road the younger kids are going to help us out," Beserra said after the Grizzlies dropped a 53-32 decision to the Canutillo junior varsity in first-round action of High Country Shootout.

Carrizozo fell to 1-6 overall with the loss and plays Raton's JV at 10 a.m. today in the consolation bracket of the small school division.

The Grizzlies played without junior guard Ryan Roper who is still on the bench nursing a strained knee. Roper has practiced with his team for the last three days, but he didn't suit up for Tuesday's game.

Beserra would like to play Roper, but he also wants to have his sharpshooter healthy when districts roll around.

"We're trying to get prepared for the ones that really count - that's the district games," Beserra said.

Also missing in action for Carrizozo is junior Jason Verdugo, the Grizzlies' tallest player at 6-foot, 4-inches. Verduga will miss the rest of the tournament while he visits relatives.

But despite those odds, the Grizzlies put it all on the line against the Canutillo JV, led by the efforts of Josh Vega.

Carrizozo started slow and trailed 25-16 at the half, but it cut that lead to 36-30 after three quarters. Heading into the fourth quarter, the Canutillo JV opened up a 39-30 lead before the Grizzlies came storming back.

Vega triggered the rally with two three-pointers. The first cut the Eagles' lead to 4138 with 4:55 remaining. Vega then tied it at 41 when he sank three consecutive free throws after being fouled on a threepoint attempt.

Vega's second three-pointer gave the Grizzlies their first lead of the game since early in the first half at 44-43. That ignited the Carrizozo crowd and the Grizzlies' hopes.

Not more than two points separated the teams until the final minute. Canutillo's press forced a turnover which the Eagles promptly converted into a basket by Levi Soto for a 52-49 lead.

Carrizozo had another chance when Carlos Garcia hit a three-pointer to cut the lead to 53-52 with 10 seconds to go. But the Grizzlies couldn't foul in time to stop the clock and get a last-second shot.

"When you have six rebounds and 15 turnovers in the first half, you're not going to win," Beserra said.

She's been there and done that

83-year-old relires after 19 years with the state Monument Division in Lincoln and life full of challenges

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

inor "Mickey" Thomas officially retired Nov. 30 after 19 years with the state Monument Division in Lincoln

But she didn't act hastily. She waited until she was 83, probably the oldest state employee on record. But then, Thomas isn't someone to be daunted by age or challenge. She didn't even start working for the division of the New Mexico State Museum until she was 64.

She's used to switching gears at a time when many people are putting on the brakes.

After helping on the family ranch, running a fruit stand and raising five children, Thomas began nursing again when she was 52 and started working in the state museum when she was 60, under the now-defunct state Lincoln County Memorial Commis-

She initially helped out in a wool shop in the settlement, but her friend, Pat Ward, who headed the Commission, wanted her to work for the state.

'She said I'd have to take a test and I told her it'd been 50 years since I went to school. I never was good in math, but I studied an old English book and I scored 97 out of 110 questions, the highest of the 20 who were referred to her for interviews." Thomas said.

When one of the commission members had a falling out with the governor, the group was stripped of its administrative powers and the property in Lincoln was leased to the Lincoln County Heritage Trust for about 15 months. The Monuments division took back the property and Thomas was moved into a job first as a ranger and than as a clerk/receptionist in June 1975.

But receptionist didn't mean sitting at a desk. Besides cleaning duties, she filed and cataloged all of the photographs in the monuments museum.

"That kept us busy in the win-

Thomas spent many years at this desk in Line

ter," she said. "I was told to read books so I could answer questions and interpret the history for people, and I read until I had mental indigestion."

That kind of enthusiasm is typical for Thomas, says DeAnn S. Kessler, Monument Manager in

She's worked with Thomas for 14 years in Lincoln, which lies between Capitan and Hondo on She's greeted hundreds of thousands of visitors and shared her logical wisdom consistently." Kessler said. "This lady is a walking encyclopedia. At 83 years of age, 64 years of marriage, raising five children, working as a hospital nurse, farming apple orchards, cattle ranching and working as a state employee for more than two decades, there's not a crossword puzzle she can't work.

"Mick's been an excellent rker and a close ne to Lincoln State Monument employees. I'm proud to have worked with her and will miss her immensely."

Growing up

Thomas grew up in El Paso, attended Austin High and Texas Western University, where she studied nursing and lived the single life. Back then nursing students weren't allowed to marry.

"The ones who tried were found out and kicked out," she said. Her mother sent her to a dude ranch in Silver City one summer. To avoid having each girl at the ranch pay $2.50 for grandstand seats at a local rodeo, an arrangement was struck with several of the single cowboys to get the girls admitted as their wives.

"John Thomas was my 'husband,' but he was the only cowboy who didn't ask out their 'wives' that night to a dance," she said. "He was an athlete and didn't go to dances before an event. At the end, though, he treated me royally."

That was July 4, 1934. She went back home. They corresponded for the next month and married Aug.

They lived near Lincoln, now a historical landmark community, but then still a sleepy little settlement that progress and time had bypassed. Eighteen months later, she was running a fruit stand and living in the back of the building transported from Fort Stanton. More moves followed in the same general area of Picacho and Hondo, before the couple settled in San Patricio for 29 years.

"The owner wanted $500 for the house, an L-shaped, three-room adobe," she said. "My husband asked if he could wait until after July 4. I stayed home with our two little girls and we sold $20 from the fruit stand. My husband rode in a rodeo in the morning in Ruidoso and in the evening at Fort Sumner and won $244 each. With my money added, we got the place."

They moved the house twice as they changed locations.

Dad said we were the only people he knew who moved their house with them," she said.

A 1965 flood caused extensive damage, but the Thomases borrowed money and began repairing the house about the same time they were buying the ranch they now live on about a mile west of Lincoln.

"I told my husband, we can't afford both and he said he'd rather live on the ranch," she said. By that time, the house had grown to 12 rooms full of furniture. After selling it, the Thomases stored their furniture in a barn and lived in a trailer. What was to be a temporary arrangement last 12 years.

"I hated it," she said. "One of my daughters suggested I buy a bigger mobile home, but I said it would still shake in the wind.

She was determined to move into a solid structure, so her sons built an apartment for their parents above the well house on the ranch. They still live there today, sharing the sunny deck with two mongrels, Tobie and Spot, they took in and neutered.

Thomas was used to working. "You didn't live around my husband and not work," she said. "I baled hay, picked apples and ran the stand."

At the museum, she worked with other employees to create a household display, she sewed curtains and she compiled detailed information on inventory and exactly where every item was displayed or stored.

She even took apart every gun in the display, cleaned and reassembled it

"Father was a police officer and he demanded that all of his children know how to take apart and clean guns and put them back together," Thomas said. "That was our only recreation. Dad and the family went out to the shooting range.

When she joined the Monuments division, it was the first time she ever paid into a retirement fund.

"I wanted to work there 25 years, but my body gave out and I felt I wasn't carrying my weight," Thomas said.

Her ability to scrub anything shining clean and keep it that way was legend at the division and before, when she worked at the hospital in Ruidoso 22 years

The mutual admiration society goes both ways. Thomas said.

"We had the best team in the ld with Jack (Rigney, former Monuments manager, who also retired recently) and Dee,' Thomas said. She's happy to see Kessler succeed Rigney as manager, she said.

Thomas said with her new free time, she's looking forward to spending more days at her home on the 10-section ranch and visiting with her family, including her five children: Catherine, 62, Virginia 60, Frances, 57, Jack, 56 and Stanley, 54; nine grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

BRIDGE TACTICS

BIDDING QUIZ

Partner bids One Heart and the next player passes, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following four hands?

1. 4 J763 ♥ 8 ◆ 10943 ◆ AQ85 2. ◆ KQ ♥ K92 ◆ AQ6 ◆ KQ1043 3. ♦ KQ875 ♥ J653 ♦ J4 ♣ 82 4. 🛨 K974 ♥ J6 ♦ KJ954 🛖 74

I. One spade.

Since you must respond with six or more points, the only problem is whether to bid a spade or a notrump. The spade response is best, largely because partner may have three or four spades headed by one or two honors and you might miss a spade contract altogether if you bypassed a chance to show the suit.

Note that the spade response does not indicate any more values than a response of one notrump. Both are based on six or more points; the big difference is that the spade terms of points, while the normal limit for a notrump response is ten points.

2. Three clubs.

With 19 high-card points facing an opening bid, you are automatically in the slam zone. The customary way of showing this is by a jump-shift. True, your clubs are not robust, but this is a small consideration compared to the value of alerting partner to a potential slam. The immediate jump shift may also alleviate a potential bidding problem at your next turn.

Your values are altogether too good for a jump to three notrump. This would portray your distribution fairly accurately, but would understate the high-card values by two or three points.

3. Two hearts.

There is a temptation to respond one spade, but that would be the wrong bid. The hand fits the requirements for a raise to two hearts, which response has no upper limit in indicates adequate trump support and six to ten points in distribution and high cards.

A spade response could create a later bidding problem if partner were to rebid two hearts. In that case, the question of whether to bid again would arise. To pass would conceal your excellent heart support, while to raise to the three level would be bidding twice on a hand worth only one bid. The easiest way of avoiding such problems is by raising partner immediately.

4. One spade.

Here the choice lies between a spade, a notrump and two diamonds, but the spade response is clearly best. One spade leaves room for a low-level notrump contract and explores the possibility of a major suit fit, while a notrump response bypasses the opportunity to find a spade fit if it exists.

A two diamond response must be ruled out because it would show ten or more points, which you don't have.

changed its definition of a drop-educations by getting a GED or going directly to college are no longer considered drop-outs.

"You're going to see the drop-out rate drop in all school districts," Billingsley said, but, she added, the drop-out rate in last year - and that's a first, said superintendent of schools Diana The second goal board members were looking at was retain-One of the reasons for this, ing quality teachers.

We were losing some of our teachers due to our salary schedule being so low, so we've been working on ... building it up," she said.

Last year they hired seven new teachers, and this year they only had to hire three new teachers, two for electives and one for regular content classes.

The third goal will soon be the topic of the bond election Feb. 2: to ensure that "students receive quality education in a safe, healthy environment that has the necessary physical resources to support learning."

Last year the school facilities and projected growth of the student population were assessed. In the fall an architect began designing changes in the facilities to accommodate existing and future students.

In February, voters will decide whether to support a $5,750,000 bond issue for new buildings and additions and other site changes.

"It started last year with assessing what we needed, and this year trying to get the money for it," Billingsley said. "Next year we'll start to build it." Part of the school's report card - the first 10 questions of which are mandated by the State Department of Education is a "quality of education" survey for parents to fill out.

The second item, "My child's school building is in good repair and has sufficient space to support quality education," was affirmed by 74 percent of the parents, while 21 percent disagreed or strongly disagreed, and 5 percent didn't know.

The Capitan School Board added four questions to the survey to get an idea about parental support for the bond issue: "I am aware of the need for additional classrooms at the elementary and high school."

Eighty-three percent agreed or strongly agreed with this statement, no one disagreed, and 17 percent didn't know.

Eighty-seven percent said they'd support passage of a bond issue for the construction of a new high school - the plan before the architect recommended additions to the facilities instead, said Billingsley.

"It was going to cost more than all the additions to the facilities and more than we could bond for," she said.

Joe Burchett of Hondo and Debbie Bond of Carrizozo were two of nine New Mexico FFA members who received their American FFA Degrees at the 71st National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

State Forestry offers spring seedlings

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Although it may seem like winter has just begun, applications are available to order seedlings from the New Mexico Forestry Division for the spring.

Eleven new containerized species have been added to the list as part of the nonprofit, cooperative effort between the division and New Mexico State University.

The university grows the containerized stock at research centers in Las Cruces and Mora while the forestry division distributes the seedlings along with other acquired bareroot stock. All proceeds are reinvested into the long-running program.

The trees and shrubs are delivered during March and April.

All you need to participate besides an order form is to own a minimum of one acre of land, and the trees must be devoted to conservation practices. Approved uses are windbreaks, erosion control, reforestation, conservation education, Christmas tree plantation and wildlife plantings.

Last year's participants automatically will receive a 1999 order form. If the forms haven't arrived by January, they should contact their nearest forestry division office. In Lincoln County, that office is in Capitan at (505) 354-2231.

Prices vary according to size and preparation. They are: • Bareroot seedling, $26 for 50 of one species. After the initial order of 50 trees, additional seedlings may be purchased in blocks of 25 at $13.

The maximum order is 2,500. One-year growth, 10cubic inch, containerized stock or riparian stock, $42 per minimum block of 49 of one species ordered. The maximum order is 2,499 seedlings. • Two-year growth, 40cubic inch, containerized sell for $42 per minimum order of 20 trees of one species. The maximum order is 200. Supplies are limited and tree planters who are interested should call the forestry division to see if what they want is available.

The 11 new containerized species added to the program this year are black willow, Scouler willow, coyote willow, peachleaf willow, Rio Grande cottonwood, Arizona sycamore, Redosier dogwood, false indigo bush, snowberry, fernbush and little leaf sumac.

Gambel oak will be available in limited quantities in both 1-year-old and 2-year-old forms. Douglas fir, Eastern redcedar, four-wing saltbush, narrowleaf cottonwood, ponderosa pine and white fir will black locust, chokecherry, gold- Edited by Will Shortz only be available in the smaller 10-cubic-inch version this year.

Noreaster cottonwood (Populus deltoides X nigra) has been replaced by a more broad hybrid cottonwood (Populus deltoides x). Southwestern white pine also will be available in a 40-cubic inch form in

First year growth seedlings in 10-cubic inch tubes offered this season include Afghanistan pine, Apache plume, Arizona cypress, aspen, Austrian pine, blue spruce, chamisa (rubber rabbitbrush), desertwillow, Douglas-fir, Eastern redcedar, fernbush, four-wing saltbush, Gambel oak (in limited quantities), little leaf sumac, New Mexico locust, piñon pine, Rocky Mountain juniper, Scots pine, Southwestern white pine, white fir and winterfat.

An additional category of small containerized stock added this year are riparian or stream side species. They include Rio Grande cottonwood, Arizona sycamore, narrowleaf cottonwood, coyote willow black willow, Scouler willow, peach-leaf willow and false indigo bush.

Seedling stock available in 40-cubic inch containers include Arizona cypress, Austrian pine, blue spruce, Gambel oak, piñon pine, Scots pine, southwestern white pine and Redosier dogwood.

The 40-cubic inch containers seedling are surplus smallcontainer trees from last year's program. Instead of destroying the trees, they are repotted into the larger containers. They have a more developed root system and may have a better chance of surviving in harsh planting environments. Successful root establishment is a critical factor in tree and shrub survival.

The forestry division delivers all containerized seedlings by semi-truck once a year to 22 drop points around the state.

For Lincoln County, the closest delivery points are in Roswell in the afternoon on March 16, Alamogordo in the afternoon on March 18, in the morning at Las Cruces on March 10 and in the afternoon at Socorro on March 9. Orders also may be picked up by buyers at the Treehouse in Santa Fe on Thursday and Friday starting March 11 and ending April 23. The buyer must specify the date of pickup.

Participants interested in bareroot seedlings must purchase a minimum of 50 trees. Each individual bareroot species only can be sold in groups of 25.

Bareroot species available this season include Arizona ash (also known as velvet ash),

PET CORNER

These pets are currently up for adoption at Lincoln County Humane Society

Call 257-9841

Canyon is a neutered Rhodesian ridgeback, who's about three years old. He's big, strong and lovable. He needs room to be himself.

Reba is a 2-year-old good-looking red heeler. She's compact in body and very intelligent. She'd be a wonderful companion and quick to learn.

POOP SCOOP

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Diana Massengale can testify that sometimes shy dogs make the very best pets. Here's her story about meeting Spunky, who appears to be a terrier something.

While visiting the animal shelter in Las Cruces, her mother headed straight for a bedraggled, scruffy dog curled up in a ball, hiding its face under its paws.

The female had been picked up only a few hours earlier and wasn't available for adoption, which gave her mother time to decide. The next day, Massengale took her husband to see the dog, which still was hiding in the back of her cage.

However, when an attendant placed the dog in her arms and it licked Massengale, the fix was in.

Because her mother didn't have a fenced yard, Massengale and her husband Tom, agreed to keep the dog until the yard was ready.

Spunky weighed only 7 1/2 pounds "and you could feel every bond in her body," Massengale wrote. "She weighs almost 13 pounds now, but has always been slender. On the way home she gripped Tom's arm like she was hanging onto a life preserver. She can wrap her paws around your arms like a cat does."

For the next few days they fed her frequent, small amounts of baby food. "When we put her down in the yard, she staggered because she was so weak," Massengale wrote. "We think she must have been on her own for quite a while and that being picked up by animal control literally saved her life."

They later discovered that at some point she suffered a badly broken pelvis, which healed incorrectly. To prevent problems with her elimination, they must give her Metamucil mixed with her food every few days.

Yes, you guessed right. Spunky stayed with the Massengales.

"She became attached to us and made friends with the other dog and was miserable when we took her to my mom's," she wrote. "After a couple of days, by mutual consent, we took Spunky back and she has been a dear member of our family ever since."

That was 12 years ago. The Massengales think Spunky was about one year old then.

She's still skittish about going in the car. "Once we took her to Albuquerque to a veterinary orthopedic specialist and we stopped halfway there at a rest stop to let her out," Massengale wrote. "She fought to stay in the car. When we leashed her and walked her and then put her back in the car, she was fine for the rest for the trip. We think she thought we had brought her out in the country to dump her."

Public Television GREAT PERFORMANCES "From Vienna:

The New Year's Celebration (1999)"

The beloved "Blue Danube Waltz" sends elegant couples swirling through the former winter palace of Prince Eugene. This beautiful image, and more, highlight Great Performances "From Vienna: The New Year's Celebration (1999)," hosted by the venerable Walter Cronkite. Two of Vienna's most famous personages, both of whom died 100 years ago, are celebrated: Empress Elizabeth and Johann Strauss, Jr.

"Is any city more romantic than Vienna?" asks Cronkite. "Empress Elizabeth, or Sisi, as she was known here, was adored by the Viennese. She was young and beautiful when, in 1854 at 16, she married her cousin, Emperor Franz Joseph. She was felled by an Italian assassin's bullet in 1898 and the entire city went into mourning."

"Then just nine months later," Cronkite continues, "Vienna's favorite son, Johann Strauss Jr., died. He was survived by his composing and performing brothers, but he, and he alone, was dubbed 'The Waltz King.'"

Great Performances "From Vienna: The New Year's Celebration (1999)" airs Friday, January 1st at 9:00 p.m. with a stereo simulcast on KENW/KMTH-FM. The special repeats Sunday, January 3rd at 3:00 p.m.

> "Charles Dickens' Our Mutual Friend'

In January, Masterpiece Theatre presents a meticulous 6-hour adaptation of Charles Dickens' last completed novel; which many regard as his greatest.

As with all of Dickens' works, Our Mutual Friend builds a vivid world with characters who are as singular as their names are evocative: Bella Wilfer (Anna Friel), a selfish coquette who is courted by the mysterious John Rokesmith (Steven Mackintosh); Eugene Wrayburn (Paul McGann), a dissolute barrister who is courting Lizzie Hexam (Keeley Hawes), the lovely daughter of a corpse robber; and Bradley Headstone (David Morrissey), a homicidal schoolmaster who also seeks Lizzie.

Our Mutual Friend was completed in 1865, five years before Dickens' sudden death from a stroke. He was in failing health at the time and was nearly killed in a notorious railway accident part way through writing the book. Complicating his life was a scandal-defying affair with actress Ellen Ternan, which could easily have ruined his career. But these distractions did little to impede his fertile imagination, which succeeded in producing a work pervaded with strange imagery of water, death, sterility. dehumanization, and a bizarre urban landscape.

"Charles Dickens' Our Mutural Friend" on Masterpiece Theatre will be broadcast over three consecutive evenings, Sunday through Tuesday, January 3rd – 5th at 8:00 p.m.

Fiesta Bowl marks last call for sportscasting legend

By Jim Baker

CTVData Features Syndicate

True to form, Keith Jackson has tried to suggest that his final game as America's voice of college football is a non-story. The legendary announcer's last call will be ABC's College Football Fiesta Bowl – Florida State vs. Tennessee on Monday, Jan. 4, the first national title collision of the controversial Bowl Championship Series.

The resounding refrain of "Whoa, Nellie!" and other familiar Jacksonisms marks an outstanding 40-year broadcast career, 32 of those years as ABC's college gridiron voice.

Jackson, teaming with former Miami Dolphins star Bob Griese for the last time in their smooth dozen-year partnership, will make the Tennessee-Florida State duel for No. 1 a significant last hurrah.

"When it's over, I'll hold the door for my wife of 46 years, Turi Ann, and say 'See you. Goodbye. It's been nice to be around college football,' " he says.

Griese says that lack of ego isn't unusual. "At our first game," he recalls, "Keith said to me, 'All right, what do you want to do?' I said, 'You're the guy who's Mr. College Football.'

Others in the field are quick to acknowledge Jackson's place. CBS' Sean McDonough says his own brother told him he's only the second-best announcer in college football. Sportscaster Jim Nantz says he's never met Jackson, but "when that Saturday night rolled around with the big Tennessee-Mississippi State game (for the Southeastern Conference title), I watched with great reverence."

Billy Packer, CBS' veteran college basketball analyst, has known Jackson a long time and knows why he's No. 1. "Keith has tremendous passion for the game and néver thought he was bigger than the game," Packer explains. "He never said, 'I am the show!' That's why he's so great. He loves what he does and calls it like he sees it. Anyone who ever heard or knows him will tell you he's a first-class guy."

Jackson is known for being direct and never masking how he feels. He'll tell you this Bowl Championship Series is not the best idea, though ABC is airing all the BCS bowls. "I've long believed there should be four teams in a championship playoff," he adds.

Developments before, during and after ABC's Dec. 5 "Championship Saturday" illustrate his point. When Tennessee staged a fourth-quarter rally to overcome Mississippi State, Miami shocked UCLA, and Texas A&M upset Kansas State, some thought Ohio State or UCLA should play Tennessee for the national title – not Florida State.

Tennessee boasts a tremendous combination in quarterback Tee Martin and receiver Peerless Price. Martin hit Price with a 41-yard scoring aerial down the left sideline to cinch the SEC prime-time climax against Mississippi State.

Jackson's take on Tennessee's title hopes: "Scoring with Tennessee playing Florida State will be like pulling a nail out of hard oak!"

ABC is dressing for the occasion in Tempe, Ariz., with John Saunders and Todd Blackledge manning the on-site Fiesta Bowl studio and Lynn Swann roaming the sidelines as usual. But Jackson is the man who'll be missed after Monday.

Timing is crucial for athletes – and announcers, it appears. "You want to go when it's time," Jackson says in that distinctive tone. "You're better off if you go a little early. It's the perfect time."

The willful Bella Wilfer (Anna Friel) is courted by dust-heap heir John Harmon (Steven Mackintosh) in the PBS adaptation of Charles Dickens' Our Mutual Friend. Part 1 airs Sunday (check local listings).

Dickens' Mutual Friend spins gold from dust

By John Crook CTVData Features Syndicate

Four seasons after presenting acclaimed adaptations of Charles Dickens' Martin Chuzzlewit and Hard Times, PBS' Masterpiece Theatre returns to the author's imposing body of work for a story of love, greed and "dust" with an adaptation of Our Mutual Friend, the last novel Dickens completed before his death.

The six-hour story unfolds in three parts, Sunday, Jan. 3, through Tuesday, Jan. 5, and demands the undivided attention of Masterpiece Theatre viewers.

While many literary critics consider this vast work to be Dickens' true masterpiece - producer Catherine Wearing calls it "his Greek tragedy" - it is probably among the author's lesserknown works in the United States.

As host Russell Baker points out, the expansive canvas of the story is dominated by two love stories. In the first, beautiful but callow Bella Wilfer (Anna Friel, The Land Girls) is tentatively courted by the mysterious John Rokesmith (Steven Mackintosh, Prime Suspect 5: Errors of Judgment), who really is - follow this carefully, now -John Harmon, the heir to an immense dust (rubbish recycling) business who mistakenly is believed dead. John takes advantage of this to make sure Bella loves him and not his fortune.

In the second love story, which grows in precedence as the plot unfolds, Lizzie Hexam (Keeley Hawes), the enchanting but poor daughter of a corpse robber, is pursued by both arrogant barrister Eugene Wrayburn (Paul McGann) and schoolmaster Bradley Headstone (David Morrissey), whose name hints at the secrets he conceals.

Wearing unblushingly calls Our Mutual Friend "the greatest novel by the greatest novelist" and reminds viewers that in his time Dickens enjoyed celebrity like today's pop stars.

"Thousands of people came to hear him read," she says. "I think of him as the equivalent of Madonna."

Well, the 19th-century author might agree with the modern pop diva that "we are living in a material world," but Dickens could spin gold from rubbish – or in this case, dust.

MANAGED CARE AND VISION BENEFITS

Over 148 million Americans are currently enrolled in managed care plans. Understanding such terms as HMO, PPO, Point of Service, self co-ordinated, in-plan and out of area can make a significant difference in your financial responsibility for the services you receive. Understanding how your plan works plays an important roll in ensuring that you get the care you need and the coverage to which you are entitled.

To find out exactly what your plan covers, read your benefit manual carefully. Your plan's Member Services Department should be available to help you understand all areas of your coverage. Routine vision benefits are not covered by all plans. Preventative eyecare is usually covered only every 12 or 24 months. Do you need authorization before seeing an eyecare professional? Some plans cover a percentage of your services and materials while others pay a flat allowance on exam, frame, lenses or contact lenses. Co-payments, deductibles and other patient responsibilities should be fully explained in your manual or by your plan's representative. It it also very important to make sure that your eyecare professional is participating in the plan you wish to select.

Maximizing the value of your vision benefits will make quality eyecare affordable and accessible. We invite you to stop by FAMILY VISION CENTER, 159 Mescalero Trail. By educating patients we can help balance your managed care benefits and provide greater flexibility in making choices. Talk to our friendly, well-trained staff about optical needs for your lifestyle. Take care of your eyes, they're the only ones you'll ever have.

Michael Zaslow leaves a legacy of love

By Candace Havens oTVData Features Syndicate

Actor Michael Zaslow (David Renaldi, OLTL) died Dec. 6 after losing his battle with amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (Lou Gehrig's disease). But he has left a wonderful legacy.

With the participation and support of his family and friends, Zaslow formed ZazAngels, an organization that helps raise money for ALS research. In lieu of flowers, his family asks that fans send donations to ZazAngels, 40 Wall St., Suite 428, New York, NY 10005.

A public memorial service is scheduled for Jan. 25 at New York's Royale Theater on Broadway. The event is sponsored by ZazAngels and includes a reading of A.R. Gurney's Love Letters with Alec Baldwin and a celebration of Zaslow's life.

In other news: Just in time for February sweeps, Mark Derwin is joining One Life to Live in the role of Ben Davidson.

Derwin is best known for portraying A.C. on Guiding Light from 1990-1993. Since leaving GL, he has done a movie and made several guest appearances on prime-time shows.

Also of note, Walt Willey (Jack, All My Children) is celebrating a new addition to his family. Merit Aisling Willey was born on Nov. 25.

Dear Candace: Sunset Beach needs new writers desperately. Virginia (Dominique Jennings) impregnating Vanessa (Sherri Saum) with a turkey baster is ridiculous.

They need to create better material for the whole show. The stories during the earthquake were some of the best. Other than that, it's too slow. -Faye Gardner, Stoystown, Pa.

Dear Reader: It is sometimes difficult for a fledgling soap opera to get on its feet. A lot of it is trial and error. Unfortunately for Sunset Beach, the writers don't always stick with what works.

The most important thing is to create characters and story lines that draw in the viewers. The earthquake story worked because it involved the characters we care about in life-and-death situations. Mother Nature is something to which we can all relate.

Three boys spend their summer getting in and out of mischlef in Ed, Edd n Eddy, a new cartoon with simple story lines reminiscent of Looney Tunes' golden age. It premieres Monday on the Cartoon Network.

Ed, Edd n Eddy recalls delight of earlier cartoon era

By Cynthia Werthamer CTVData Features Syndicate

In times of old (that's 30 years or so in TV time), cartoon characters had eyes that bugged out when they drank something unpleasant, legs that became whirling circles when they ran and bodies that flattened into pancakes when they crashed into slammed doors.

Well, boys and girls, they're ba-a-a-ck.

The Cartoon Network's latest original cartoon, Ed, Edd n Eddy, premieres Monday, Jan. 4. The Eds, three pre-adolescent best friends, are in the midst of summer vacation, filling their time with crazy schemes while trying to fit in.

Each half-hour program consists of two 11-minute cartoons. Like the fabled Seinfeld, they are stories about nothing — which is what makes them different from more episodic, plot-driven animated prime-time shows such as The Simpsons and King of the Hill.

Eddy, the "brains" of the toon triumvirate and the source of much of its mischief, is brought to life by the voice of Tony Sampson. Edd (voice of Samuel Vincent), called "Double D," is smart, quiet and well-spoken. Ed (voice of Matt Hill) is the brawn with very little brain who doesn't wash very often and dives into whatever Eddy has dreamed up. Ed's sister Sarah, her best friend, Jimmy, and older kids Nazz (the girl all three Eds covet) and Kevin round out the not-so-wellrounded cast.

Ed, Edd n Eddy is a brilliantly drawn series reminiscent of the golden age of Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck and even Betty Boop, but with a kids-of-the-190s sensibility and terrific blues and jazz accompaniments. Whoever loved those nonsensical, zany adventures is likely to love the Eds.

The show is created, written and produced by Danny Antonucci, president of Canada's a.k.a. CARTOON inc. Antonucci, director of The Brothers Grunt (MTV), says he drew on recollections of his own childhood and his love of old cartoons for the show's style.

"I'm bringing back a basis of pure entertainment," he explains. "You'll find there's no beginning, middle, end - well, there is an end - the Eds creating their own hell and learning nothing. The situations are overblown to absurdity."

The Eds will draw an audience of kids and adults alike, Antonucci says, not only because of the show's primetime viewing slot, but because it taps into both kids' current experience and adults' past adventures. "It will appeal on entertainment value alone, or on (adults) reflecting, 'Oh yeah, I was that stupid,' "he explains.

Part of that entertainment value comes from the animators' imaginative artistic perspectives. The characters are seen from ingenious angles such as down Edd's wide-open mouth, or from below as Eddy is about to make what he calls the daring "double-gangle, half-twist, hold-the-onions, change-for-a-buck Sprinkler Leap."

Rob Sorcher, Cartoon's U.S. executive vice president, says artistic control from start to finish is what separates the quality of such shows as Ed, Edd n Eddy from other networks' cartoons. "It's about retaining control of more of the animation process with the creators before it gets shipped out," he says.

The absence of girls in central roles on Ed, Edd n Eddy may make some wonder if the show will appeal to the Edwinas out there. Sorcher uses a reverse example, pointing to the success of The Powerpuff Girls, Cartoon's preschool superheroines. The young ladies draw twice as many boy viewers as girls, he says.

While the core audience of Cartoon is 6- to 11-year-olds, Sorcher says about a third of the audience is adult baby boomers who grew up watching cartoons – including Sorcher and his colleagues. "We program stuff to amuse ourselves," he says.

"There's definitely a surge in primetime animation, but the ground is littered with the failures," he adds. "The Simpsons is a brilliantly written show, but we're not going for the same thing."

Antonucci says the creative license given him by Cartoon has paid off. The manner in which his characters relate, their particular quirks – and child-isn honesty – allow him to find new ways to reach people "without redoing the same old same old," he concludes. "There is no other cartoon like this."
