

Capitan school bond issue fails by 27 votes

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

By a slim 27 vote margin that stunned school officials, Capitan voters rejected a $5.7 million bond issue Tuesday.

"This is really disappointing," said Capitan School Board President Tom Trost. "I don't understand why people didn't realize how much we needed this. Maybe we didn't get out there and explain enough.

"I guess money is just tight, despite what the president says about our economy."

Joel Crossno, who lost his bid for election to position four on the school board, said the district "was asking for too much pork" and property owners are just tired of high taxes.

"I was for part of the bond issue, but not for all of it, so I voted no," Crossno said. "We still owe $1 million on the middle school. I think everybody is for the children, but this would have put us to the maximum bonding capacity and for too long."

The final vote was 303 ar inst the bond issue and 276 for it.

In other vote totals, Grant Dean came out on top for position one on the school board with 397 votes to John McGrath's 143; incumbent James Hobbs was unopposed with 427 votes in position five; and Ervin Aldaz, a former appointed board member and past administrator of Fort Stanton Hospital, took the position four seat with 241 votes to 207 for Gary Tregembo and 76 for Crossno.

Of the 2,612 eligible voters in the Capitan district, 548 cast their ballots for a 21 percent turnout.

After hearing the results of the bond election, School Superintendent Diana Billingsley said she was "speechless."

"The only thing I'm thinking is we've got to go back out for it," she said. "We don't have any choice, because the kids of the district deserve to have a good quality education and that means we're going to have to keep on this until we have it passed.

"I think we can go back in six months."

Without voter approval of the bond issue, the district can't ask for lottery money from the state, she said.

Break in lines taps out water to subdivisions

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Helen Roberts and her neighbors on Snow Cap and Timberline roads noticed the water from their faucets slow to a trickle late Sunday. By Tuesday, she was hauling in rain water to flush toilets and buying bottled drinking water for cooking.

"Why is it taking the city so long to fix it," Roberts wants to know.

Because multiple problems occurred and because the system is old and complex, says Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson and Richard Sanchez, who heads the village water department.

Sanchez estimated about 250 homes in White Mountain Meadows and along both sides of Hull Road were affected by the water outage, which he hoped would be repaired sometime Tuesday evening. The village lost about 1 million gallons of water because of the incident, he said.

"I became aware of the situation about 7:50 a.m. Monday," Sanchez repaired by Tuesday morning, the said An employee who lives in the area water hadn't been turned back on by of the break saw water and drove to late afternoon, because crews noticed the water department's shop to get the equipment he needed to shut it down. The chain of failures apparently started with the malfunctioning of a pressure regulating valve that feeds the area. Sanchez said.

"It blew out four lines," he said. His crew shut off high pressure water to the subdivisions and then to the pressure relief valve. Leaks were repaired and they then reopened the lines to charge the system.

"That's when the valve broke," Sanchez said. "It was holding back 250 pounds of pressure and (when it failed), all that pressure disintegrated the T-intersection." The T-intersection was buried in concrete and that took time to uncover, Donaldson said.

"It was an unusual construction to begin with," he said. "Richard Sanchez estimated they had to go through six tons of concrete to get to it. This is another sign of the complexity of our water system. So they had to go to Albuquerque to replace the T-intersection."

He speculated that the pressure needed to move the water up the steep mountain grades to homes at the top, not the age of the equipment, might be the cause for the failure.

Although all the lines were seepage in a second line. "So we're chipping more concrete to see why it's dripping water," Sanchez said Tuesday. "If we don't have any more leaks, it should be on later today. But if we do, we'll stay on them."

On the day the groundhog goes to work so did about 200 Ruidoso eighthgrade students.

At jobs across the village and county, 196 Ruidoso Middle School students participated in National Groundhog Job Shadow Day Tuesday. Other students chose to ski in the school ski program, but their classmates elected to go to work.

Ruidoso Middle School teachers Diorly Stierwalt and Gordon Thompson organized the National Groundhog Job Shadow Day locally. Stierwalt and Thompson located jobs for the students.

They then matched the students with a job or career that the students wanted or one that was close to their career interests.

"We didn't pick them. They picked us," Kelly Hepner said about his day at the lumberyard, adding that he was having a lot of fun.

Other students we talked to said that they were having fun at their jobs as well.

At Lincoln County Medical Center some students observed doctors examining patients while other students rode the ambulances to emergency calls.

Steven Stroup assisted Curt Temple while he surveyed the land. Other students shadowed restaurateurs, bankers, lawyers, municipal officials, ranchers, herbalists, firefighters and judges.

Howell challenges county's proposed salary payback

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

In a verbal end run Monday, Lincoln County Commissioner Wilton Howell questioned why the county should offer a lump sum settlement to elected officials for past uncollected raises when all of them say they haven't threatened to sue the county.

He started by objecting to the board going into an executive session to discuss the situation behind closed doors. If no one has threatened to sue, how could the session be justified under the "threatened or pending litigation" exception in the state's Open Meetings Act, he asked.

"I have a problem with that, because I have trouble finding any elected official who's threatening to sue us, so I have a problem going into executive session for that part," Howell said.

County Attorney Alan Morel said he couldn't discuss specifics, but the county has received correspondence from an attorney representing an elected official or officials who have threatened to sue.

Howell then asked each of the four elected officials who hired attorney David Stevens to represent them in fighting for back raises rescinded in a five-year-long dispute over their legality, if they had threatened to sue.

Sheriff Tom Sullivan, Treasurer Joan Park, County Clerk Martha Proctor and Assessor Patsy Serna, as well as the other four commissioners one by one shook their heads and said "No.

"Then my point is, if no one is threatening to sue and we have an agreement today before us and the agreement says (elected officials) will be paid a lump sum for agreeing not to sue the county, then the county is not receiving anything in return for its money," Howell said. "It's my

Sayner, two incumbents win Ruidoso seats; mill levy passes

With the lowest turnout of five school systems in Lincoln County, voters in the Ruidoso School District Tuesday returned two incumbent school board members to their seats and approved the continuation of a special property tax levy.

'It's not as close a vote as we've had in past years," Ruidoso School Superintendent Mike Gladden said of the vote for the levy that will generate about $400,000 a year. "It's good for our kids."

The special tax that will run for four years passed with 358 votes to 248. The money can be used to maintain buildings and buy equipment, but not for staff salaries.

His only comment Tuesday evening was, "That was the result of the election."

Lutterman said she was pleased with the outcome.

"I'm ready to start four more years and I just appreciate everyone's support," she said Tuesday evening.

For position two, Frank Savner beat Mike Lynch with 348 votes to 248.

Savner was in meetings all evening and learned about his win from a friend calling on a cellular telephone.

"Obviously, I'm pleased," he said. "But I believe in my race, the public would have been well served with either Mike or myself on the board. I will try to do the very best I can." Lynch was equally complimentary of his opponent, saying Sayner "is a good man" and that he planned to call and congratulate Sayner on the win. Incumbent Ronnie Hemphill, who was unopposed for re-election, received 486 votes in position three.

Glencoe Rural Events Center suddenly has two major suitors

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

For the past year, the Lincoln County Commission couldn't even give away the Giencoe Rural Events Center, but now two groups are vying for the building, arena and land package on U.S. 70 about 14 miles east of Ruidoso.

When it became obvious that the center would not be self-supporting for years-and then only with an aggressive marketing program beyond the economic scope of the county commissioners looked for someone to take over management. They even discussed giving it away, before they found out restrictions tied to federal grants used to improve the property probably would prohibit that move.

Two months ago, the Hondo School District, represented by Superintendent Barbara Casey, stepped forward to offer to manage the center in order to expand school activities and programs there, as well as community functions and commercial events.

But as the commission prepared Monday to sign an agreement with Casey and Hondo, a new element was injected into the mix.

A group that includes Roy Cooper and Jim Millar, who owns a business in Ruidoso, and country singer George Strait, is interested in staging major rodeos and developing a National Roping Hall of Fame there.

Millar told commissioners that with the clout of Strait and Cooper, a rodeo professional who qualified 30 times as a finalist for the national rodeo, they could generate $5,000 to $6,000 a month from events and establish the hall of fame.

find money to enclose the arena, which would be easential to draw major competitions, he said.

Commissioners said they would consider the information while their attorney Alan Morel continues to negotiate the fine points of a management agreement with Hondo.

"I don't see why they couldn't work with the Hondo district as the manager," said Commissioner Wilton Howell. "Most of the activities they're talking about would be on the weekend."

"This is the best use for the facility," Millar said. "I don't know what the school would put there that would draw 100,000 people to this county. We'd like to put our proposal in front of you and if it's the best. move forward."

The type of events proposed wouldn't work at the Capitan fairground, he said, stressing that they would not negatively impact that community.

The group doesn't want to work under another entity, he said, adding, "We want to do this ourselves."

The Hall of Fame would take up the entire existing building, he said.

Commission Chairman Rex Wilson asked when the threesome first became interested in the center, a former horse sale barn, bought in 1994 with money from the state Legislature.

"When we heard it was going to be left for nothing," Millar said. "That's not the reason it's there.'

"This offer would have been better coming to us earlier in the year when we went out for requests for proposals," Wilson said.

Wilson suggested as a first They also may be able to help step the Millar group meet with the community advisory board that oversees the center. The manager's position was eliminated from the county budget in July and the center has been open only for events already booked, with little attempt to draw new functions.

The school has come forward with a proposal and the community still has strong feelings about the facility," Wilson said, referring to opposition to the Glencoe center from some Capitan, Carrizozo and Corona residents who worry about the future of the county fairground and arena in Capitan.

Casey said the Hondo district is willing to work with any groups interested in using the center, and pointed out that commissioners last month voted to enter an agreement with Hondo. That part of the equation already has been settled, she said.

OUR OPINION

When service people prove their worth

Few people living in Ruidoso will forget that mid-Tuesday wind last week. It uprooted and shattered tall trees, knocked over signs, smashed windows, lifted building roofs, ripped shingles. Power was out for hours in some areas, leaving grocery clerks and housewives scrambling to handle thawing food in suddenly useless refrigerators.

Had it happened in coastal Florida, it would have been a hurricane; in Kansas, something approaching a cyclone, if not a twister.

In Ruidoso it was close to four hours of pure, unmitigated luck.

 No deaths or serious injuries, although flying sheet metal could have decapitated someone.

• No power-failure fatalities at the hospital.

· No head-on collisions, although some vehicles were severely bent.

• No rain or lightning to add to the travail.

Some heroic performances, however, by people helping each other to survive and protect property. Lots of business for insurance agents, claims adjusters, roofers and tree specialists, of course.

In all, much for which everybody could give thanks.

And while at it, everybody should give thanks to the firefighters who kept downed power lines from starting forest fires; for the police (state and local) and sheriff's deputies who somehow kept traffic moving safely through Ruidoso's narrow corridors; to the power company, telephone and television cable crews who worked non-stop to restore service.

Now, all together: Aren't we lucky to live in Ruidoso?

AJSTEIN 199 Denver Rock

On Jan. 26...Ruidoso received a strong reminder of the consequences of not taking care of one of our major resources. The trees blown onto power lines, homes, businesses, cars and roads showed the stresses of a forest being subjected to lack of moisture, overcrowding, soil compaction, paving and construction activity. These stresses, coupled with poor judgment in forest management, led to weak, dry, diseased and dying trees that are commonly known as hazard trees.

Strong winds proved the hazards are real. Residents... dodged another bullet when numerous fires were started by downed electrical lines. These fires easily could have turned into an uncontrolled disaster. l'hanks to ground moisture from the prior week's snow and good efforts of many firefighters, a disaster was avoided.

Ruidoso News published its edi-torial, "Wildfires are real threats"; and it has been more than two years since forest professionals suggested that "Ruidoso is the most fire endangered community in the United States."

In response to a Forest Health Coalition letter to Gov. (Gary) Johnson, cabinet secretary Jennifer Salsbury responded on March 16, 1998.

The New Mexico Forestry Division...and the U.S. Forest Service have worked with the Village of Ruidoso since the early '70s to bring recognition to the potential of a catastrophic wildland fire in Ruidoso. Even though the Village of Ruidoso has been made aware of the potential for a catastrophe, not enough has been done to address issues such as urban sprawl, ingress and egress in the upper canyon, tree hazards, forest health and building standards. These issues need to be addressed to prevent Ruidoso from becoming a disaster statistic."

Feb. 6, 1998, stated: of

"The village, by law, has a duty to protect the general health, safety and welfare of the people who live here. There would be no excuses, only costly lawsuits, if lives and property were to be lost because a situation that should have been remedied was simply ignored."

So what's been done by county and village officials since these warnings to alleviate the risk of a catastrophic fire in our community? Sadly to say, not much!

Forest professionals have documented that we are in the midst of losing our forest to disease, insects and parasite infestations caused by overcrowding of trees and lack of forest management. A fire driven by strong winds would certainly hasten this process. Unless an intelligent, tough, common-sense approach to properly care for our great resource is initiated immediately, Ruidoso may not have the forest we depend upon to attract visitors to our commu-

> Local leaders have been told by forest experts on many occasions that they need to address concerns, including hazard trees and escape routes for canyon residents. Those entrusted with the authority to govern must set aside their egos, misconceptions and pressures from certain segments of the business community and initiate the important actions necessary to protect the health, safety and welfare of the citizens and communities they represent. To continue to do nothing invites a fire to visit our communities, leaving only the hope and prayer that something will be left.

> The Ruidoso News has agreed to publish a series of articles that will provide for homeowners and elected officials steps that must be initiated if we are to avoid a catastrophe. These actions should have been initiated years ago. At some point luck will run out.

smiling, but it's hard to tell because his mouth was all but concealed by a large, bushy mustache. In a portrait taken in 1904 at the St. Louis Fair, when he was about 46, his chin is so close to the mustache it looks as if he had no teeth: If that was the case, it was certainly not uncommon in those days.

He was an avid reader among people who were mostly illiterate. He read the novels of Mark Twain and Dickens and Conan Doyle as well as the archeological publications of the time. He even subscribed to Scientific American.

He was an excellent horseman and a crack shot with a rifle, and he had no use for maps. "Maps were for people who how to get didn't know how to get around," his wife Marietta said years after his death. "If Mr. Wetherill went one hundred miles out of his way it didn't matter to him. He would just see something new of interest." Marietta Wetherill was also a Quaker, and she always referred to and addressed her husband as "Mr. Wetherill." This was considered proper among Quakers, and indicated no lack of affection. He was apparently a good husband and father to their five children.

Richard Wetherill's success in exploring the ruins of Mesa Verde in his youth was dependent in part on his ability to get along with the Ute Indians who lived in the area. When he shifted his focus to Chaco Canyon, he enjoyed a similar relationship with the Navajos. He employed them to work in his excavations and later helped them develop their trade with the rest of the world.

But not all his acquaintances were friends. To those who knew him well, he was considered a careful scientist and a fair trader. To some. though, he was a pillager and a thief.

In 1903, a man named William T. Shelton was appointed to serve as superintendent of the Navajo agency in Shiprock. His jurisdiction didn't include Chaco Canyon at first, but he soon became aware of Wetherill and seems to have disliked him from the first truly thought him to be mistreating them, he began to work against him. He sent reports to his superiors alleging all kinds of misdeeds on Wetherill's part, most of which had no basis in fact.

Whether Shelton was jealous of Wetherill's intimate relationship with the Navajos or

"(H)e has robbed them of thousands of dollars worth of property," Shelton reported. "He has not hesitated to assault and abuse them when they displeased him. He has had, for some time, some thirty families of Indians herding sheep for him on the shares, and the Indians claim that when the time comes to divide the wool and the increases in the sheep, that Mr. Wetherill gets all, always claiming that they are indebted to him.

In 1908, with Shelton's approval, a man named Samuel Stacher was appointed superintendent of a new Navajo ju-risdiction. He established his headquarters at Chaco Canyon, in a house he rented from Wetherill. The two men seem to have gotten along with each other at first, but that didn't last. Stacher and his family moved early in 1910 to a place he named Crownpoint, where he wished to establish a school for Navajo children. By that time Stacher was openly hostile to Wetherill.

Most of the Navajos who traded with Wetherill, and with all the trading post owners, made purchases on credit. One of them, a man about 40 years old named Chis-chillingbegay, had marked up a rather large account with Wetherill, and took offense when he was asked to make partial payment.

Stacher and his employees have been accused of planting the idea in the minds of the Chaco Navajos that if Wetherill were forced to leave, all their debts to him would be gone as well. Whether they did or not, Chis-chilling-begay developed a resentment against the trading post owner.

In June, 1910, one of Wetherill's hired hands, Bill Finn, had pursued a Navajo man who had stolen Wetherill's daughter's horse and ridden it almost to death. Finn beat the man when he caught him and returned to the ranch with the horse, which died on the way.

Later that day, Wetherill and Finn were herding cattle when they met a group of Navajos. Chis-chilling-begay was one of them, and he was holding an old rifle. When he waved the rifle threateningly at Wetherill, Wetherill grabbed it and beat it to pieces against a post. He and Finn went riding off, Richard still holding what was left of the barrel. It was the only weapon either man carried.

A few hours later, at a turn in the canyon, a shot rang out. The bullet, aimed at Finn, missed. The next one hit Wetherill. He fell dead from his horse.

Next week: Aftermath.

Upgraded county jail wins reprieve

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Lincoln County's jail passed six more hurdles in the county commission's effort to keep the 30-year-old structure open while a new detention center is built in Carrizozo.

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley, who was commission chairman when the State Fire Marshall threatened to close the jail if changes and improvements weren't completed, said he's elated to see the good review

The jail had been inspected earlier that month and Linville stated it was in full compliance with a life safety written agreement signed by the state and county on Sept. 11, 1998. The jail also is in compliance with fire hazard requirements, fuel control, occupant protection. detection and suppression. activities and planning and training,

Linville, however, recommended that the county should:

 Install two additional emergency lights in the "bull pen" (or common gathering area). •Remove the wire from the portable fire extinguishers as a security issue. •Maintain monthly inspection reports of the fire extinguishers in the administration area.

•Enter all fire drills into a daily log.

•Conduct an evacuation drill including all emergency response agencies sometime within the next few months.

"The Détention Center staff has done an outstanding job in the areas of fire prevention practices and life safety requirements," Linville wrote Nunley.

To keep the jail open, the commission had to reduce its population, because space requirements for inmates have changed over the last three decades. The jail is managed for the county by Correctional Systems Inc. The county is scheduled to seek requests for proposals to build and possibly manage a new jail by March.

Arabela is on its way to becoming a full-fledged fire district.

The Lincoln County Monday Commission approved an "agreement negotiated by new Commissioner Rick Simpson with Fernando Montoya, who owns the land where the county previously built a fire station.

Members of the Montoya family signed a quit claim deed with a reverter clause that if the land ceases to be used for a fire station, it will come back to the family.

If that termination occurs within 18 months because the district can't secure state funding, the land will go to the Montoyas, but the building will have to be removed by the county. However, if the county abandons the fire station sometime after a year has passed, both the structure and the land will go to the Montoyas, Simpson said.

The county through the Hondo Fire District erred wo years ago by building the structure to be used as a substation for Hondo on the Montoya land without first obtaining a deed or lease.

Arabela gets a fire house

A disagreement over the way the substation should be equipped prompted Montoya to refuse to execute either a lease or deed. In September, a group of firefighters from Arabela, about 18 miles north of Hondo and U.S. 70, formally left the Hondo District to try to set up their own community operation with Montoya as chief. Having a fire station is a major step in that direction. The state and county also must approve district lines for the new group.

Ŵilton Commissioner Howell commended Simpson on being able to cut through past disputes and personality conflicts to work out an agreement on the land. County Attorney Alan Morel said he drafted the agreement and it would be filed with the fleed for future reference.

The interim administrator of Lincoln ately, she said.

This year, the state lifted the cap on what a sole provider such as Lincoln County Medical Center - the only hospital in the county - can request.

Hospital asks state reimbursement for indigent patients

The hospital is asking for $829,306 in reimbursement, a sharp increase from the $356,202 it received last year. The center gives away more than $1 million in unpaid medical care each year, according to former administrator Valerie Miller, who retired last year.

"You don't get it if you don't ask," Sterchi said. "Other hospitals in the state traditionally requested as much or three times that. The worse they can say is 'no.' In any case, we may get $20,000 more (than the $300,000 figure)."

The hospital uses some of the proceeds from a special property tax levy designated for its operation, to pay the county's required contribution to the state's indigent fund.

However, commissioners are considering establishing a separate indigent fund. because hospital officials say they can't continue that financial burden.

Wrestlers must get fit for 3AAA

by Laura Clymer RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Warrior coach Jerrett Perry could see it in the heaving stomachs of his wrestlers at Saturday's Ruidoso Invitational.

The Warriors need to spend some time conditioning - lots of time.

Ruidoso's focus in practice the next two weeks won't be on beating Cobre. Rather, they will spend their time getting in tip-top shape so they can finish ahead of Silver.

"We have two things we have to work on," Perry said. "We have got to be more mentally prepared. We have to be able to go three periods; we can't just pin someone in the first.

"Two, we have to be in better physical shape."

That lack of cardiovascular efficiency might explain Rui-doso's fifth-place team finish Saturday.

"I really feel like we should have been up there with West Las Vegas," Perry said. "We had some breakdowns in the second and third rounds."

"The snow kind of put a damper on our tournament." Perry said. "The people we're going to have to beat at state were there."

Perry still believes his team can finish in the top five in Class AAA. Ruidoso last best finish was ninth in 1985.

"Pound for pound we're probably the strongest team in the state, but what we don't have at this point is the cardiovascular part," Perry said.

The Warriors will have to adopt a split personality when it takes on its next two oppo-... nents: the Silver Colts Friday ... and Cobre's Indians Saturday.

The Colts, led by UTEP-bound Drew Price, prefer an up-tempo game.

Their next door neighbors, the Indians, like to play at a more controlled pace.

Ruidoso must control the rebounds and contain Price.

Rumors about just who the Colts will bring to play continued to float at Ruidoso. Page couldn't confirm any rumors he's heard about eligibility problems at Silver.

Coach becomes history teacher for a day

BY LAURA CLYMER

NUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Before his girls basketball team could gloat about its 20-point win over Tularosa Jan. 26, Capitan coach Bryan Massé delivered a brief history lesson to his team.

The Tigers took note and passed their exam - a game with rival Cloudcroft - with straight A's.

Capitan took its time to pull away from the Bears, but pull away it did, posting a 59-38 win Friday. The victory improved the Tigers to 9-8 overall and 2-0 in District 6AA.

When the Tigers coasted to victory last Tuesday over the Wildcats, Massé reminded his team what happened a year ago at this juncture of the season.

In 1998, the Tigers opened the dis-trict campaign with a thrilling, comefrom-behind win over Tularosa. Three days later, Cloudcroft shocked the high flying Tigers, sending them on a fourgame tailspin.

history repeat itself, and so were the Tigers.

"I told them, "this ain't last year," Massé said of his post-game talk with his Tigers Jan. 26.

Capitan responded with a steady performance against Cloudcroft. The Tigers outscored the Bears in three of four quarters, including an 18-6 advantage in the fourth.

Sophomore Lindsey Bush scored 18 points and collected 11 rebounds for the Tigers, despite the stomach flu. Brooke Holland complemented Bush's inside play with 12 points and eight boards.

Junior point guard Alicia Garcia kept the Bears honest on the outside with 13 on four-of-nine shooting.

The Tigers' press eventually wore down the Bears. Garcia and Krystal Roybal picked the Bears' pockets five times each, and Capitan rolled to victory despite its poor outside shooting.

'We were missing some shots early.

Massé was determined not to let Then we started playing defense and bory repeat itself, and so were the our press started working," Massé said. Future defensive efforts like Friday's will push the Tigers over the hump if they are struggling offensively, Massé said.

"If we can play good enough defense the rest of the year, then we should be all right," he said.

The Tigers still have more tests to Dass

"It's a good start but you can't get complacent. You can't start patting yourself on the back." Massé said. "If we're not prepared we could just as easily lose the next two or three.

"Our goal is to win this district outright, and that's what we're looking at.'

Capitan completed its first go-round of district opponents Tuesday. The Tigers traveled to Dexter for a game with the Demons.

Second-round District 6AA play beings Friday when Capitan hosts Tularosa at 7:30 p.m.

Knights crown free-throw champions

The Knights of Columbus Council No. 6597 held its annual free-throw championship for girls and boys, ages 10-14, on Jan. 17 at the Ruidoso Middle School gymnasium.

The girls' winners in their respective age categories were Ashley Serna, Samantha Serna, Katie Ann Coronado and Timea Eckerdt.

The boys' winners were Zane Eckerdt, Dudley Dolan, Nick Stevenson and John Ordorica.

The winners are eligible to compete in the Knights of Columbus district free-throw championship.

Two arrested on drug counts

BY SANDY SUGGETT RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Police arrested two men on Main Road in Upper Canyon Tuesday on drug-related charges.

Frank Hooper of the Lincoln County Narcotics Unit said Randall Stiles, about 37, of Chaparral was charged with distribution of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

James C. Sublette Jr., about 49, of Ruidoso, was charged with possession of cocaine, possession of drug paraphernalia, manufacturing drug paraphernalia, and possession of marijuana.

Police seized a little more than 16 pounds of marijuana, Hooper said, with a street value of about $16,000. They also seized a vehicle and $300 in cash.

District Court Judge William Butts posted bond at $20,000 for each suspect.

Stiles had rented a cabin in Ruidoso for the last couple of months, Hooper said. "He would just pop in. He didn't live there. His main res-idence is Chaparral," he said. Four members of the Lincoln County Narcotics Unit and deputies from the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, the New Mexico State Police. and the Criminal Investigation Division of the Ruidoso Police Department participated.

Hooper said the bust started at about 8 a.m. Tuesday by getting a warrant and doing surveillance on the cabin to make sure there would be somebody home. Once they had the search warrant, it took three to four hours to search the house and tag everything. The arrests were made at 12:30 p.m.

Chilean exchange student makes the adjustment to 'small-town' America

STORY AND PHOTOS BY SANDY SUGGITT RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

This 16-year-old goes to discotheques and parties and stays out until four in the morning on weekends.

"And that's early, because at my age people stay out a lot longer," said Anamaría Gutierrez, an exchange student from Santiago, Chile.

Older people go out every night of the week, she said, and the discos have four different kinds of music to appeal to every age and taste. Anamaría has been in Ruidoso for only two weeks. And adjusting to small-town culture is more radical for her than adjusting to North American culture. Santiago, the capital of Chile, has more people than the entire state of New Mexico.

"In Chile, I'm always doing something different," she said. "Here" there are not so many parts you can go. There is only one theater -"

'-- Which is more than there was when I moved here six years ago," interjected Betty Wilcox, her American mother.

Betty and Ben Wilcox are experienced "foreign parents." They have hosted four other exchange students before Anamaría, one each from Germany, Australia, Uruguay and Ecuador, through Youth for Understanding (YFU).

They all come scared and anxious and it usually takes about a couple of months to fit in," Betty said, "but the worst thing is when they go nome, peca its me iosmi one of your kids.". Anamaría said she decided to be an exchange student "to have a new experience, to learn English and to live in another culture, and to be more independent of my family." She has four sisters and one brother back home and she's already called her family four times, but Wilcox's son, Waylon, is going to teach her to send them e-mail. The Wilcoxes raised three children of their own, and treat their exchange children in the same way. Anamaría appreciates their warmth and respect. "I think they give me my space," she said. "I feel very comfortable."

said, but this doesn't seem to bother Anamaría. What's harder to get used to, she said, is the meal times.

"We eat hunch between 2:30 and '3 o'clock," she said, "and we eat supper at 8 or 9."

Fast-foods and frozen dinners have made their way to South America, so she doesn't find them strange, although she said many people do their own cooking from scratch in Chile. "One thing she doesn't like," said Ben, "is potato salad. I made some especially for her and she wouldn't eat it.'

The natural beauty of the forests and mountains in the Ruidoso area impresses her the most here, and, as an apartment dweller, she's amazed to see deer and other animals.

of what the teachers said, but in most classes the teachers talk to students individually, rather than lecture-style, which she finds easier to understand.

"In English, there are many ds I don't understand." Anamaría

English class could meet first period Monday and sixth period Tuesday and not (at all) on Wednesday."

Anamaría likes dressing casually for school here. At school in Chile she has to wear a uniform-skirt, hive hlaves and the

Anamaria's host parents, Betty and Ben Wilcox, opened their home to four exchange students prior to Anamaria's arrival. "They all come scared and anxious and it usually takes about a couple of months to fit in," Betty said, "but the worst thing is when they go home, because it's like losing one of your kids."

The Dreamer (By Dannie Storm)

This is being written to you on Feb. 2, Ground Hog's Day. The great little month of February opened bright and clear with a western wind blowing down the vale. And then this morning, Ground Hog's Day, all the mountain land was covered with a blanket of snow.

So, if the little ground hog got up early, he had a good look at his shadow because the sun was shining brightly in the blue sky. However, it is possible that if the little ground hog awakened a little later than usual, and if this is true, he might have gotten a look at a cloudy world.

Mother Nature batters Ruidoso area with wind, fire and snow

High winds Saturday contributed to a rash of grass fires in the area that started when a tree fell on a Texas-New Mexico Power Company power station at the Mescalero line.

Wind and fire gave way to snow by Sunday evening and the Ruidoso area got a dose of ice and snow that prompted school closings and shortened schedules throughout the county.

As firefighters from Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, the United State Forest Service, Mescalero and Bonito battled the blazes that raged down both sides of U.S. Highway 70 Saturday, area residents were evacuated from the Camelot area and mobile home parks located near the fast-moving fire.

Betty and Ben own the True Value Hardware store, so meals are often thrown-together affairs, Betty

She skis Tuesday afternoons with other students, but that's not too unusual. She skis in Chile.

Anamaría is in her last year at school in Chile. School is organized in three-month terms, so she'll only miss the March through July term, and in November will leave school to study for college entrance exams.

She hopes to qualify for one of the two traditional universities in Santiago where she will study architecture, she said.

At Ruidoso High School, she is taking "fun" classes: drama, culinary skills, marketing, art, U.S. history, humanities and drafting.

She said the first classes she attended she understood less than half said, "and people speak too fast."

But she has almost as much difficulty with the Spanish spoken here as she does with English because of the abundant, but different, slang words. "There are many words that aren't in a dictionary," she said, "so I have to speak very correctly, and no 'slang words."

One difference she noticed between school in Ruidoso and school in Santiago is that teachers have more books in their classrooms. while in Chile most reference books are in the library. Another difference is the frequency and timing of classes.

"You have all the same classes, all the days," she said. "(In Chile) we have different classes on different days, and it changes what time of day we have a class. For example, an Greeting styles tend to throw her, though. "(In Chile) when you say hi you kiss the person and here you say hi but you don't get close to anybody.'

Anamaría didn't notice many differences in television shows - since many of them are the same as those made and shown here, but with Spanish subtitles – and she and the Wilcoxes often spend evenings watching television together.

They haven't had time yet to do much sightseeing, but Ben is determined to take her camping (something she hasn't done). In addition, YFU offers trips to Carlsbad at the end of February and to the Grand Canyon during Memorial Day weekend.

Art & June Waltrip

WEDDINGS ANNIVERSARIES

Friends and family of Art "Chick" and June (McNatt) Waltrip of Roswell are invited to the couple's 50th wedding anniversary celebration from 4-7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 13, in the Ruidoso Elks Lodge.

The couple was married on Feb. 11, 1949, in Roswell.

Their children Kathy O'Rear of DeRidder, La., Rick Waltrip of Roswell, and Denice Hutchinson of Borger, Texas will host the party.

The couple also has seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Art Waltrip's parents, G.B. and Eva Waltrip, both deceased, were longtime Ruidoso residents and business owners. His brother, Derald Waltrip, is also a Ruidoso resident. His sister, Cloria Cummins.

lives in Capitan. June Waltrip's mother, Margaret Whiteley, and her sisters Dixie Sigler and Peggy McClellan are all longtime residents of Ruidoso.

Happy February to everyone. Where has the month of January gone?

The main topic of conversation the past week has been the wind. I was in Ruidoso when the wind was blowing Tuesday and it was terrible. And Bill Thorp was a hero for sure, saving two pregnant mares I do want to ask one question. How in the world did you lasso the roof in the high wind? You and Scott have to be excellent ropers. I disagree with the

Trivia 101 answer about Fort Stanton and the prisoners of war. The Germans were war internees, not prisoners. The United States was not at war at the time. The German captain scuttled his ship, the Columbus, near New York Harbor to keep it out of the hands of the British Navy, either by capture or sinking. The captain had his choice of where they would be housed and he picked Fort Stanton.

Their story is depicted at the Lincoln Heritage Trust/Hubbard Museum of the American West. Several of the crew members and the captain's daughter and her husband have visited Lincoln several times

Linda Fox and Cele Dickenson kept our post office open during Cheri Hobbs' absence.

Cheri was home this past weekend. taking care of the monthly reports and catching up on post office business. She reported that Lloyd is now on crutches. When you see the X-ray of his back you realize how lucky this young man is able to walk.

The Lincoln County Republican Women held its meeting at the Cree Meadows last Tuesday during that wind storm.

In spite of the weather, 36 members and guests were present.

Jim Manat of Roswell spoke to the group. He had trivia questions for the audience to answer. It is surprising how easily you forget dates and names. It brought back a lot of memories for many. Those that could answer the questions received a Nixon button.

Manat, who was a nominee for one of the New Mexico State University regents, spoke of his concerns about educators' salaries, both statewide and at the university.

The Republican Women will donate a book to the Hondo Schools under the MELP program (Mamie Eisenhower Library Program). Lois Aldrich is in charge of this activity.

After the wind storm on Tuesday, we had snow Thursday night. It left Lincoln in a gap with good snow on either side of us. I understand they had more than nine inches of snow north of Capitan and more than five inches in the Hondo Valley. Lincoln received about 1 1/2 inches. The Capitan schools were closed for the day. By the the weekend, we had beautiful weather.

Because of the snow, the Americorps group was unable to start work on the steps to the Lincoln Community Church. Reg Ritchie of the Preservation Board and also an architect, met with the group. Plans were made for the material needed, style and construction techniques. One of the first steps to take is to get the family of skunks out from under the building.

The Americorps group is busy also at the Hondo Schools.

Upcoming events of interest are: the Republican Women meet in Santa Fe, Feb. 19 and 20; Ag Fest is Feb. 23, and the State FGE (a.k.a. extension) will meet for its legislative days Feb. 24-26 in Glorietta.

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Mescalero student wins college scholarship

Erica Bradley, from the Mescalero Apache Tribe, and Homer Marks Sr., a member of the Tohono O'odham Nation in Sells, Ariz., received $1,000 Dr. Roe B. Lewis Scholarships from the Southwest Indian Agricultural Association (SWIAA).

The awards were announced at the 11th annual SWIAA Conference in Laughlin, Nev. in January.

Bradley is a student at Northern Arizona University School of Forestry in Flagstaff, Ariz. She has worked with the Bureau of Indian Affairs cooperative/internship program for three years.

"I know the importance of my education, and I want it to be known that other Indians can go on to college, succeed and make a difference for their tribes," Bradley said.

Marks is a student at Central Arizona College in Coolidge, Ariz. He works as a range technician for the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

"In order to promote agriculture, I have to be educated in it and understand its principles. Farming is prospering on Indian lands, but we need managers and trained employees."

Ruidoso grad makes college dean's list

Cory Hood of Ruidoso made the Honors List at Culver-Stockton College in Canton, Mo. for the 1998 fall semester.

Honor Roll students earned between 3.2 and 3.49 grade point averages and were enrolled in at least 12 hours with no grade lower than a C.

Culver-Stockton College is a liberal arts college. Hood's parents are Dean and Patsy Hood of Ruidoso.

Local students achieve \ NMSU dean's list honor

Students from Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and Alto were they carried a minimum.of 12 hours.

From Ruidoso: Kari Adene Barnett, a psychology major; Angela Denise Coleman, an elementary education major; Stacey Dickerson, a pre-business major; Frank G. Harper, an elementary education major; Molly Anne Long, a nursing major; Alleyene Elizabeth Medina, an elementary education major; and Lindie Ann Reynolds, a hotel, restaurant and tourism management major.

From Ruidoso Downs: Roberta Rowena Roser, an elementary education major.

From Alto: Donna Marie Coleman, an elementary education major; and Rachel Dawn Hall, a finance major.

Former RHS student honored at Andover

Emily Ruch, daughter of Susan Ruch and Michael Ruch of Ruidoso was named to Phillips Academy Honor Roll in Andover, Mass.

To be named to the honor roll, students must maintain at least a 5-point grade average on a 6-point scale.

Student teachers must attend planning meeting

All Ruidoso and Roswell area students planning to student teach during the fall 1999 semester must attend a preapplication meeting to receive the required information concerning application procedures.

The session is at 10 a.m. Feb. 15 at Washington Avenue Elementary School in Roswell. During the session students will fill out a preapplication form indicating an intent to student teach during the fall 1999 semester. Attendance is mandatory.

BY SANDY SUGGITT RUDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

High school students swapped reading, writing and arithmetic for "bugs, crud and other stuff" at a State Forestry workshop hosted by Ruidoso High School on Jan. 26.

More than 200 students from all over the state spent the day and attended workshops sponsored by the New Mexico Department of Forestry in Capitan and by the U.S. Forest Service. The forest practicum was designed to give students an opportunity to learn forestry skills, said Mike Gaines, RHS agriculture and metals teacher.

The skills will enable them to compete in district, regional and statewide FFA competitions in forestry.

The turnout exceeded Gaines's expectations. Similar events in recent years resulted in lower-than-expected participation.

"We were expecting about 60 and 200 signed up," Gaines said.

The six ongoing workshops started at 8 a.m. and concluded at 3 p.m. so students could attend each one. Other workshops included "Bored Feet (Tree Measurement)," "Lost in the Woods (Compass and Pacing)," and "To Cut or Not To Cut (Silviculture)."

Students came from as far away as Raton and Kirtland, said Lynn Hutchison of New Mexico State Forestry, who coordinated the event.

But it wasn't just the students who came to learn about the forest ecosystem. Teachers who attended the event were in the learning mode, too, Gaines said. "Lots of us didn't have forestry preparation in college when we were getting ready to teach agriculture."

Forestry workshop lights students' fire

Dick Edwards, a forester with the United States Department of Agriculture Forest Service, demonstrates how to measure a tree while Anessa Scott and Taryan Crook of Artesia observe.

Agriculture teacher Alice Velasquez brought 13 students from Santa Rosa, where the state's northeast plains begin to dominate the landscape. She wanted them to learn about the forestry industry and careers in forestry wildlife.

"We want them to develop a few marketable skills so even if they don't go to a four-year college, they'll learn skills here," Velasquez said. "It's basically a starting point. We teach it in class and

"It's basically a starting point. We teach it in class and compete in local, state and district levels, but the main thing is as a career focus."

Velasquez said the advantage of workshops like this is that teachers and students can talk to other chapters and exchange ideas. Justin O'Bryant, a student from Truth or Consequences, said his favorite workshop was "Name that Tree," or tree identification. He plans to work for the Forest Service this summer in the Gila area.

Steven Bair of Kirtland didn't know what forestry was about, so he came to find out. Because he's interested in machinery, he found "Parts is Parts, Chainsaw Anatomy" the most interesting most interesting. The State Department of Education organized the state forestry clinics to encourage high school students to consider forestry and agriculture as career choices. Vocational and agricultural students can go on to compete in statewide contest hosted by New Mexico State University in Las Cruces. This year's contest will be March 24.

"There may be several schools 'that'll host other contests between now and then so the teams can practice," Gaines said.

At the final competition the students will solve problems based on what they learned in Ruidoso and at other forestry clinics.

Teacher Pam Valdes brought seven students from Santa Fe. She hoped the experience would give her students an edge up on the competition at state.

"We've competed in all the forestry competitions with a little bit of knowledge," she said. "Now we'll do it with more."

PET CORNER

These pets are currently up for adoption at Lincoln County Humane Society Call 257-9841

Gypsy is a pointer/Australian shepherd mix, who's about eight months old. She has a sweet personality and is extremely intelligent. This one should take to training quickly and become a valued family member.

> WINTER HOURS Tuesday - Saturday Noon - 4 p.m.

Popcorn is a Dalmatian/heeler mix, who's about three to four years old. She had been used to have many litters and now is looking forward to retiring and receiving the personal care and attention she deserves.

POOP SCOOP

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Two new drugs on the market for dogs who appear to be suffering from separation anxiety or canine cognitive dysfunction aren't cure-alls, warns the Humane Society of the United States.

Although approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, they won't provide a "quick fix" for behavioral problems in dogs, said Dr. Leslie Sinclair, director of veterinary issues for companion animals at the HSUS.

The drugs, called Clomicalm and Anipryl, will provide relief for some dogs, but not every dog who exhibits the symptoms of those two disorders actually is suffering from them, Sinclair said.

The problems may be rooted in lack of care,

"True medical disorders also may be the underlying cause of 'misbehavior' in dogs," Sinclair said. "An elderly dog who has lost her housetraining behavior for example, actually may be suffering from a bladder infection or a hormonal condition causing her to lose control of her bladder. A dog who is not getting enough exercise, training and care will exhibit behaviors common in both separation anxiety and canine cognitive dysfunction."

That behavior may include excessive barking, howling and destruction of the home.

"But this alone doesn't mean the dog has a disorder or will be helped by this drug," Sinclair said. The HSUS encourages dog owners to find a professional with background in behavior therapy for their dog's undesirable behaviors, but to expect to play an integral role in resolving those behaviors.

A complete physical examination and thorough history of the dog help in diagnosing the cause and the formulating a treatment plan.

"Millions of dogs are relinquished by their owners annually in the U.S., too often due to behavioral problems," said Martha Armstrong, HSUS vice president for companion animals and equine protection. "The best remedy of all is an owner who is committed to providing the time, exercise, training, love and attention that every dog needs."

"Drug therapy alone, without the other components of a treatment plan, is rarely effective and never appropriate," Sinclair said.

Gregory Harrison and Melissa Gilbert star in the tense mystery drama Murder at 75 Birch, airing Tuesday, Feb. 9, on CBS.

Gwen Todson's (Gilbert) husband receives a late-night phone call from his brother Rick (Harrison) saying that his wife is dead. Rick tells police a burglar is responsible but becomes the prime suspect.

When Gwen's husband dies in a car accident on the way to the police station, she starts her own investigation and uncovers the horrible truth.

Sunday on Fox, FBI agents Mulder and Scully (David Duchovney, Gillian Anderson) fight the system that employs them while striving to uncover the truth in The X-Files.

The actions of a rescue helicopter pilot (Meg Ryan) are investigated when she is considered for a posthumous Medal of Honor in Courage Under Fire, airing Monday on ABC.

Dennis Franz made his amateur debut in a high-school production of The Crucible. The role cost him his girlfriend, who auditioned but wasn't cast.

Most famous as Miss Kitty in TV's Gunsmoke, Amanda Blake had film credits that included Duchess of Idaho, Sabre Jet and High Society.

TRIVIA

For writing brilliant operettas, Queen Victoria knighted composer Arthur Sullivan but slighted lyricist W. S. Gilbert for wounding her with words.

TRIVIA

The first modern long-distance carrier to rival Bell was MCI, which established St. Louis-to-Chicago microwave service in 1963.

Windsor, third son and youngest child of Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh, focuses on some of the world's most famous architectural icons, including Buckingham Palace, the Houses of Parliament (also known as the Palace of Westminster), Big Ben, Westminster Abbey, and well-known sites along the River Thames, including Greenwich Palace, the Tower of London, the Isle of Dogs, and Tower Bridge.

As a member of England's Royal Family, Windsor brings to Crown & Country II an insider's perspective. This distinctive vantage point, combined with fascinating facts and little known tales, offers an engaging, in-depth exploration of English history Crown & Country II will be broadcast Sundays at 10:00 p.m. beginning February 7th.

NEW OPTIONS IN CONTACT LENSES

today's contact lenses are more colorful and more comfortable than ever. There are many more choices to meet your prescription needs too. Even if you weren't happy with contacts years ago, you deserve a second chance at success. Ask us about:

- Improved disposables and planned replacement lenses. These new soft lenses fit better than ever and are available for sphere and astigmatic correction. Two week, one month or three month lenses can be selected to suit your lifestyle. Some are even available in colors. They're ideal for someone who is allergic to cleaning solutions.
- Gas-permeable lenses. Far more comfortable than the "old hard lenses", these lenses can be used to correct astigmatism and help maintain the shape of the eye to reduce vision deterioration in some patients.
- Daily sphere lenses. These extremely comfortable soft lenses can correct for either farsightedness or nearsightedness. Available in clear or with visibility tint. Also available with a wide variety of color enhancing and opaque, color changing, options. We even offer WILD EYES cosmetic/theatrical lenses in many prescriptions.
- Toric lenses. Soft lenses that correct astigmatism. These lenses are also available in a variety of colors.
- Monovision and bifocal lenses. For patients who need correction for hoth near and distance vision, there is now a wide variety of multifocal options. Check with Dr.'s Sonnenmoser and Gutowski.

Ouestions concerning the wide variety of both corrective and cosmetic contact lenses available can be answered at Family Vision Center, 159 Mescalero Tr., Ruidoso, NM.

Q: Why does the Disney Channel insert commercials in all its programming and movies not in prime time? They are listed as a premium channel, and they charge like one. -Bill T. via e-mail.

A: While the Disney Channel still has about 4 million paid subcribers, eight years ago the channel began offering itself to cable operators as either a basic or pay service. In most markets, it no longer is a premium service.

The channel still runs its Magical World of Disney movies uninterrupted, says Rich Ross, senior vice president of programming and production, but "we break all our other series because we heard ... that people need a break. And ... every (off-network) series is created with breaks.

"In the past, (the shows) often were sealed up so pacing really looked very weird. So now we break everything outside of our prime-time movie."

She once horrified audiences as the wicked nanny in The Hand That Rocks the Cradle. But now, actress Rebecca De Mornay is taking on a more sympathetic maternal role.

As Nora Mahler, De Mornay portrays a mother who loses a child in an accident in Night Ride Home, a film based on the novel by Barbara Esstman.

Airing Sunday, Feb. 7, on CBS, the story of love, loss and survival was filmed on location near Portland, Ore., and teams De Mornay with Academy Award winners Keith Carradine and Ellen Burstyn.

Love Is in the Air for PBS and Cincinnati Pops

Chocolates, roses and mushy cards are still a few days off. The time before Valentine's Day usually holds about as much romance and fun as any other bleak February day.

But PBS offers a timely confection. Cincinnati Pops Holiday: Love Is in the Air. The hourlong salute to amour airs Wednesday, Feb. 10 (check local listings). This is the latest in a series of holiday concerts by Erich Kunzel, conductor of the Cincinnati Pops Orchestra.

Having done a big-band New Year's, a "spooktacular" for Halloween and a Christmas show, Kunzel is already gearing up for the next concert, though he's mum on which holiday it will be. However, he has much to say from a hotel room in Toronto on the imporPBS is the last bastion of presenting in all its forms in television."

Kunzel squeezes many of tho into this show. Besides his on there's soprano Harolyn Blacky singer Peabo Bryson, aerialist der Streltsov, ballet dancer Reznik and Alexei Kremnev, ensemble VocalEase.

Both De Mornay and Carradine, who plays Nora's husband, Neal, say that in order to relate to their characters, they borrowed from their own family experiences, but the emotional journey they travel is especially intense because of the difficult subject matter of losing a son.

"I was just blown away with how incredibly heavy this movie is," says De Mornay, who committed to the role several months after giving birth to her first child.

In this 200th Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation, audiences get to see the motherly side of De Mornay, whose roles usually have edgier elements to them. Future films, for example, include two black comedies; in one, she portrays an ex-stripper.

"I wouldn't have been able to play Nora had I not given birth to my daughter," the 37-year-old actress says. "It's a whole different world once you have a child, but being a mother made the role incredibly torturous because losing a child is every mother's worst nightmare."

The film also explores the strained relationship between Nora and Neal, who have been married for nearly 20 years.

"Nora has been in a marriage in which she's had an equal part in letting it fall apart," De Mornay says. "Somehow she's fallen out of love with him." The film also illustrates the healing of a family stricken with grief. Carra"He allows himself to be dominated through his marriage," he says. "He comes to the point where he has to reclaim himself, and that's certainly different than any character I've played before."

As a parent of three children and someone who has had difficult moments in relationships, Carradine, 49, says his role paralleled his life to some degree.

"I'm a parent, and I had a marriage that didn't work," says the actor, who's currently going through a divorce after 12 years of marriage. "All of those issues in the movie were very close to me. I wasn't trying to create an elaborate group of memories."

Although Carradine's character has passive traits, he gradually becomes stronger in order to help his family survive the loss.

"It's a family in deep crises," he says. "But one is left with a sense of hope, not resolution. Everyone has to go through hardships, but the strength of the human spirit must go on and heal."

In the end, the film's message is that hope can survive the very difficult experience of losing a family member.

"Everyone of us has to experience the loss of a loved one," De Mornay concludes. "Hopefully not of a child, but there's a way through it even though your life is never the same." tance of such shows.

"With the NEA (National Endowment for the Arts) almost a nonexistent entity, TV is not artistic-minded," Kunzel says. "If it isn't sitcoms, it's a sports event. The arts have suffered greatly. All those wonderful programs are gone.

Rinna ready to return; dark Days needs light

By Candace Havens OTVData Features Syndicate

Former Days of Our Lives and Melrose Place star Lisa Rinna is ready to get back to work.

The incredibly svelte actress says she has been enjoying spending time with her new baby daughter but that it's time to put her nose to the grindstone.

Would she consider coming back to daytime?

"I'm not ready to return right now, but I'll never say never. That was a good time for me," she says.

Rinna's husband, Harry Hamlin, is in the new WB Network comedy Movie Stars.

"My best friend, Jennifer (Grant), plays his wife on the show," Rinna says, "so it really feels like we are keeping it all in the family."

Dear Candace: My wife and I have watched Days for years. Our only complaint is that Stefano (Joseph Mascolo) gets away with everything. We are sick and tired of his character.

Just when we think Bo and Hope (Peter Reckell, Kristian Alfonso) are going to get together again, Stefano gets in the way.

We'd like the stories to get back to the good old days when Tom Horton (Macdonald Carey) was around. None of the characters on the show have any kind of respect for anyone.

It's not good for the general public to see so much hate on a show. It's time for us to see something positive for a change. - Aubrey Lyons, Duncan, Okla.

Dear Reader: Days is one of those shows that can get away with outlandish story lines.

Capitan school bond issue fails by 27 votes

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

By a slim 27 vote margin that stunned school officials, Capitan voters rejected a $5.7 million bond issue Tuesday.

"This is really disappointing," said Capitan School Board President Tom Trost. "I don't understand why people didn't realize how much we needed this. Maybe we didn't get out there and explain enough.

"I guess money is just tight, despite what the president says about our economy."

Joel Crossno, who lost his bid for election to position four on the school board, said the district "was asking for too much pork" and property owners are just tired of high taxes.

"I was for part of the bond issue, but not for all of it, so I voted no," Crossno said. "We still owe $1 million on the middle school. I think everybody is for the children, but this would have put us to the maximum bonding capacity and for too long."

The final vote was 303 ar inst the bond issue and 276 for it.

In other vote totals, Grant Dean came out on top for position one on the school board with 397 votes to John McGrath's 143; incumbent James Hobbs was unopposed with 427 votes in position five; and Ervin Aldaz, a former appointed board member and past administrator of Fort Stanton Hospital, took the position four seat with 241 votes to 207 for Gary Tregembo and 76 for Crossno.

Of the 2,612 eligible voters in the Capitan district, 548 cast their ballots for a 21 percent turnout.

After hearing the results of the bond election, School Superintendent Diana Billingsley said she was "speechless."

"The only thing I'm thinking is we've got to go back out for it," she said. "We don't have any choice, because the kids of the district deserve to have a good quality education and that means we're going to have to keep on this until we have it passed.

"I think we can go back in six months."

Break in lines taps out water to subdivisions

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Helen Roberts and her neighbors on Snow Cap and Timberline roads noticed the water from their faucets slow to a trickle late Sunday. By Tuesday, she was hauling in rain water to flush toilets and buying bottled drinking water for cooking.

"Why is it taking the city so long to fix it," Roberts wants to know.

Because multiple problems occurred and because the system is old and complex, says Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson and Richard Sanchez, who heads the village water department.

Sanchez estimated about 250 homes in White Mountain Meadows and along both sides of Hull Road were affected by the water outage, which he hoped would be repaired sometime Tuesday evening. The village lost about 1 million gallons of water because of the incident, he said.

"I became aware of the situation about 7:50 a.m. Monday," Sanchez repaired by Tuesday morning, the said An employee who lives in the area water hadn't been turned back on by of the break saw water and drove to late afternoon, because crews noticed the water department's shop to get the equipment he needed to shut it down. The chain of failures apparently started with the malfunctioning of a pressure regulating valve that feeds the area. Sanchez said.

"It blew out four lines," he said. His crew shut off high pressure water to the subdivisions and then to the pressure relief valve. Leaks were repaired and they then reopened the lines to charge the system.

"That's when the valve broke," Sanchez said. "It was holding back 250 pounds of pressure and (when it failed), all that pressure disintegrated the T-intersection." The T-intersection was buried in concrete and that took time to uncover, Donaldson said.

"It was an unusual construction to begin with," he said. "Richard Sanchez estimated they had to go through six tons of concrete to get to it. This is another sign of the complexity of our water system. So they had to go to Albuquerque to replace the T-intersection."

He speculated that the pressure needed to move the water up the steep mountain grades to homes at the top, not the age of the equipment, might be the cause for the failure.

Although all the lines were seepage in a second line. "So we're chipping more concrete to see why it's dripping water," Sanchez said Tuesday. "If we don't have any more leaks, it should be on later today. But if we do, we'll stay on them."

On the day the groundhog goes to work so did about 200 Ruidoso eighthgrade students.

At jobs across the village and county, 196 Ruidoso Middle School students participated in National Groundhog Job Shadow Day Tuesday. Other students chose to ski in the school ski program, but their classmates elected to go to work.

Ruidoso Middle School teachers Diorly Stierwalt and Gordon Thompson organized the National Groundhog Job Shadow Day locally. Stierwalt and Thompson located jobs for the students.

They then matched the students with a job or career that the students wanted or one that was close to their career interests.

"We didn't pick them. They picked us," Kelly Hepner said about his day at the lumberyard, adding that he was having a lot of fun.

Other students we talked to said that they were having fun at their jobs as well.

At Lincoln County Medical Center some students observed doctors examining patients while other students rode the ambulances to emergency calls.

Steven Stroup assisted Curt Temple while he surveyed the land. Other students shadowed restaurateurs, bankers, lawyers, municipal officials, ranchers, herbalists, firefighters and judges.

Howell challenges county's proposed salary payback

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

In a verbal end run Monday, Lincoln County Commissioner Wilton Howell questioned why the county should offer a lump sum settlement to elected officials for past uncollected raises when all of them say they haven't threatened to sue the county.

He started by objecting to the board going into an executive session to discuss the situation behind closed doors. If no one has threatened to sue, how could the session be justified under the "threatened or pending litigation" exception in the state's Open Meetings Act, he asked.

"I have a problem with that, because I have trouble finding any elected official who's threatening to sue us, so I have a problem going into executive session for that part," Howell said.

County Attorney Alan Morel said he couldn't discuss specifics, but the county has received correspondence from an attorney representing an elected official or officials who have threatened to sue.

Howell then asked each of the four elected officials who hired attorney David Stevens to represent them in fighting for back raises rescinded in a five-year-long dispute over their legality, if they had threatened to sue.

Sheriff Tom Sullivan, Treasurer Joan Park, County Clerk Martha Proctor and Assessor Patsy Serna, as well as the other four commissioners one by one shook their heads and said "No.

"Then my point is, if no one is threatening to sue and we have an agreement today before us and the agreement says (elected officials) will be paid a lump sum for agreeing not to sue the county, then the county is not receiving anything in return for its money," Howell said. "It's my

Sayner, two incumbents win Ruidoso seats; mill levy passes

With the lowest turnout of five school systems in Lincoln County, voters in the Ruidoso School District Tuesday returned two incumbent school board members to their seats and approved the continuation of a special property tax levy.

'It's not as close a vote as we've had in past years," Ruidoso School Superintendent Mike Gladden said of the vote for the levy that will generate about $400,000 a year. "It's good for our kids."

The special tax that will run for four years passed with 358 votes to 248. The money can be used to maintain buildings and buy equipment, but not for staff salaries.

His only comment Tuesday evening was, "That was the result of the election."

Lutterman said she was pleased with the outcome.

"I'm ready to start four more years and I just appreciate everyone's support," she said Tuesday evening.

For position two, Frank Savner beat Mike Lynch with 348 votes to 248.

Savner was in meetings all evening and learned about his win from a friend calling on a cellular telephone.

"Obviously, I'm pleased," he said. "But I believe in my race, the public would have been well served with either Mike or myself on the board. I will try to do the very best I can." Lynch was equally complimentary of his opponent, saying Sayner "is a good man" and that he planned to call and congratulate Sayner on the win. Incumbent Ronnie Hemphill, who was unopposed for re-election, received 486 votes in position three.

Glencoe Rural Events Center suddenly has two major suitors

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

For the past year, the Lincoln County Commission couldn't even give away the Giencoe Rural Events Center, but now two groups are vying for the building, arena and land package on U.S. 70 about 14 miles east of Ruidoso.

When it became obvious that the center would not be self-supporting for years-and then only with an aggressive marketing program beyond the economic scope of the county commissioners looked for someone to take over management. They even discussed giving it away, before they found out restrictions tied to federal grants used to improve the property probably would prohibit that move.

Two months ago, the Hondo School District, represented by Superintendent Barbara Casey, stepped forward to offer to manage the center in order to expand school activities and programs there, as well as community functions and commercial events.

But as the commission prepared Monday to sign an agreement with Casey and Hondo, a new element was injected into the mix.

A group that includes Roy Cooper and Jim Millar, who owns a business in Ruidoso, and country singer George Strait, is interested in staging major rodeos and developing a National Roping Hall of Fame there.

Millar told commissioners that with the clout of Strait and Cooper, a rodeo professional who qualified 30 times as a finalist for the national rodeo, they could generate $5,000 to $6,000 a month from events and establish the hall of fame.

find money to enclose the arena, which would be easential to draw major competitions, he said.

Commissioners said they would consider the information while their attorney Alan Morel continues to negotiate the fine points of a management agreement with Hondo.

"I don't see why they couldn't work with the Hondo district as the manager," said Commissioner Wilton Howell. "Most of the activities they're talking about would be on the weekend."

"This is the best use for the facility," Millar said. "I don't know what the school would put there that would draw 100,000 people to this county. We'd like to put our proposal in front of you and if it's the best. move forward."

The type of events proposed wouldn't work at the Capitan fairground, he said, stressing that they would not negatively impact that community.

The group doesn't want to work under another entity, he said, adding, "We want to do this ourselves."

The Hall of Fame would take up the entire existing building, he said.

Commission Chairman Rex Wilson asked when the threesome first became interested in the center, a former horse sale barn, bought in 1994 with money from the state Legislature.

"When we heard it was going to be left for nothing," Millar said. "That's not the reason it's there.'

"This offer would have been better coming to us earlier in the year when we went out for requests for proposals," Wilson said.

Wilson suggested as a first They also may be able to help step the Millar group meet with the community advisory board that oversees the center. The manager's position was eliminated from the county budget in July and the center has been open only for events already booked, with little attempt to draw new functions.

The school has come forward with a proposal and the community still has strong feelings about the facility," Wilson said, referring to opposition to the Glencoe center from some Capitan, Carrizozo and Corona residents who worry about the future of the county fairground and arena in Capitan.

Casey said the Hondo district is willing to work with any groups interested in using the center, and pointed out that commissioners last month voted to enter an agreement with Hondo. That part of the equation already has been settled, she said.

OUR OPINION

When service people prove their worth

Few people living in Ruidoso will forget that mid-Tuesday wind last week. It uprooted and shattered tall trees, knocked over signs, smashed windows, lifted building roofs, ripped shingles. Power was out for hours in some areas, leaving grocery clerks and housewives scrambling to handle thawing food in suddenly useless refrigerators.

Had it happened in coastal Florida, it would have been a hurricane; in Kansas, something approaching a cyclone, if not a twister.

In Ruidoso it was close to four hours of pure, unmitigated luck.

 No deaths or serious injuries, although flying sheet metal could have decapitated someone.

• No power-failure fatalities at the hospital.

· No head-on collisions, although some vehicles were severely bent.

• No rain or lightning to add to the travail.

Some heroic performances, however, by people helping each other to survive and protect property. Lots of business for insurance agents, claims adjusters, roofers and tree specialists, of course.

In all, much for which everybody could give thanks.

And while at it, everybody should give thanks to the firefighters who kept downed power lines from starting forest fires; for the police (state and local) and sheriff's deputies who somehow kept traffic moving safely through Ruidoso's narrow corridors; to the power company, telephone and television cable crews who worked non-stop to restore service.

Now, all together: Aren't we lucky to live in Ruidoso?

AJSTEIN 199 Denver Rock

On Jan. 26...Ruidoso received a strong reminder of the consequences of not taking care of one of our major resources. The trees blown onto power lines, homes, businesses, cars and roads showed the stresses of a forest being subjected to lack of moisture, overcrowding, soil compaction, paving and construction activity. These stresses, coupled with poor judgment in forest management, led to weak, dry, diseased and dying trees that are commonly known as hazard trees.

Strong winds proved the hazards are real. Residents... dodged another bullet when numerous fires were started by downed electrical lines. These fires easily could have turned into an uncontrolled disaster. l'hanks to ground moisture from the prior week's snow and good efforts of many firefighters, a disaster was avoided.

Ruidoso News published its edi-torial, "Wildfires are real threats"; and it has been more than two years since forest professionals suggested that "Ruidoso is the most fire endangered community in the United States."

In response to a Forest Health Coalition letter to Gov. (Gary) Johnson, cabinet secretary Jennifer Salsbury responded on March 16, 1998.

The New Mexico Forestry Division...and the U.S. Forest Service have worked with the Village of Ruidoso since the early '70s to bring recognition to the potential of a catastrophic wildland fire in Ruidoso. Even though the Village of Ruidoso has been made aware of the potential for a catastrophe, not enough has been done to address issues such as urban sprawl, ingress and egress in the upper canyon, tree hazards, forest health and building standards. These issues need to be addressed to prevent Ruidoso from becoming a disaster statistic."

Feb. 6, 1998, stated: of

"The village, by law, has a duty to protect the general health, safety and welfare of the people who live here. There would be no excuses, only costly lawsuits, if lives and property were to be lost because a situation that should have been remedied was simply ignored."

So what's been done by county and village officials since these warnings to alleviate the risk of a catastrophic fire in our community? Sadly to say, not much!

Forest professionals have documented that we are in the midst of losing our forest to disease, insects and parasite infestations caused by overcrowding of trees and lack of forest management. A fire driven by strong winds would certainly hasten this process. Unless an intelligent, tough, common-sense approach to properly care for our great resource is initiated immediately, Ruidoso may not have the forest we depend upon to attract visitors to our commu-

> Local leaders have been told by forest experts on many occasions that they need to address concerns, including hazard trees and escape routes for canyon residents. Those entrusted with the authority to govern must set aside their egos, misconceptions and pressures from certain segments of the business community and initiate the important actions necessary to protect the health, safety and welfare of the citizens and communities they represent. To continue to do nothing invites a fire to visit our communities, leaving only the hope and prayer that something will be left.

> The Ruidoso News has agreed to publish a series of articles that will provide for homeowners and elected officials steps that must be initiated if we are to avoid a catastrophe. These actions should have been initiated years ago. At some point luck will run out.

smiling, but it's hard to tell because his mouth was all but concealed by a large, bushy mustache. In a portrait taken in 1904 at the St. Louis Fair, when he was about 46, his chin is so close to the mustache it looks as if he had no teeth: If that was the case, it was certainly not uncommon in those days.

He was an avid reader among people who were mostly illiterate. He read the novels of Mark Twain and Dickens and Conan Doyle as well as the archeological publications of the time. He even subscribed to Scientific American.

He was an excellent horseman and a crack shot with a rifle, and he had no use for

maps. "Maps were for people who how to get didn't know how to get around," his wife Marietta said

years after his death. "If Mr. Wetherill went one hundred miles out of his way it didn't matter to him. He would just see something new of interest." Marietta Wetherill was also a Quaker, and she always referred to and addressed her husband as "Mr. Wetherill." This was considered proper among Quakers, and indicated no lack of affection. He was apparently a good husband and father to their five children.

Richard Wetherill's success in exploring the ruins of Mesa Verde in his youth was dependent in part on his ability to get along with the Ute Indians who lived in the area. When he shifted his focus to Chaco Canyon, he enjoyed a similar relationship with the Navajos. He employed them to work in his excavations and later helped them develop their trade with the rest of the world.

But not all his acquaintances were friends. To those who knew him well, he was considered a careful scientist and a fair trader. To some. though, he was a pillager and a thief.

In 1903, a man named William T. Shelton was appointed to serve as superintendent of the Navajo agency in Shiprock. His jurisdiction didn't include Chaco Canyon at first, but he soon became aware of Wetherill and seems to have disliked him from the first truly thought him to be mistreating them, he began to work against him. He sent reports to his superiors alleging all kinds of misdeeds on Wetherill's part, most of which had no basis in fact.

"(H)e has robbed them of thousands of dollars worth of property," Shelton reported. "He has not hesitated to assault and abuse them when they displeased him. He has had, for some time, some thirty families of Indians herding sheep for him on the shares, and the Indians claim that when the time comes to divide the wool and the increases in the sheep, that Mr. Wetherill gets all, always claiming that they are indebted to him.

In 1908, with Shelton's approval, a man named Samuel Stacher was appointed superintendent of a new Navajo ju-risdiction. He established his headquarters at Chaco Canyon, in a house he rented from Wetherill. The two men seem to have gotten along with each other at first, but that didn't last. Stacher and his family moved early in 1910 to a place he named Crownpoint, where he wished to establish a school for Navajo children. By that time Stacher was openly hostile to Wetherill.

Most of the Navajos who traded with Wetherill, and with all the trading post owners, made purchases on credit. One of them, a man about 40 years old named Chis-chillingbegay, had marked up a rather large account with Wetherill, and took offense when he was asked to make partial payment.

Stacher and his employees have been accused of planting the idea in the minds of the Chaco Navajos that if Wetherill were forced to leave, all their debts to him would be gone as well. Whether they did or not, Chis-chilling-begay developed a resentment against the trading post owner.

In June, 1910, one of Wetherill's hired hands, Bill Finn, had pursued a Navajo man who had stolen Wetherill's daughter's horse and ridden it almost to death. Finn beat the man when he caught him and returned to the ranch with the horse, which died on the way.

Later that day, Wetherill and Finn were herding cattle when they met a group of Navajos. Chis-chilling-begay was one of them, and he was holding an old rifle. When he waved the rifle threateningly at Wetherill, Wetherill grabbed it and beat it to pieces against a post. He and Finn went riding off, Richard still holding what was left of the barrel. It was the only weapon either man carried.

A few hours later, at a turn in the canyon, a shot rang out. The bullet, aimed at Finn, missed. The next one hit Wetherill. He fell dead from his horse.

Next week: Aftermath.

Upgraded county jail wins reprieve

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Lincoln County's jail passed six more hurdles in the county commission's effort to keep the 30-year-old structure open while a new detention center is built in Carrizozo.

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley, who was commission chairman when the State Fire Marshall threatened to close the jail if changes and improvements weren't completed, said he's elated to see the good review

The jail had been inspected earlier that month and Linville stated it was in full compliance with a life safety written agreement signed by the state and county on Sept. 11, 1998. The jail also is in compliance with fire hazard requirements, fuel control, occupant protection. detection and suppression. activities and planning and training,

Linville, however, recommended that the county should:

 Install two additional emergency lights in the "bull pen" (or common gathering area). • Remove the wire from the

portable fire extinguishers as a security issue. •Maintain monthly inspection reports of the fire extinguishers in the administration area.

•Enter all fire drills into a daily log.

•Conduct an evacuation drill including all emergency response agencies sometime within the next few months.

"The Détention Center staff has done an outstanding job in the areas of fire prevention practices and life safety requirements," Linville wrote Nunley.

To keep the jail open, the commission had to reduce its population, because space requirements for inmates have changed over the last three decades. The jail is managed for the county by Correctional Systems Inc. The county is scheduled to seek requests for proposals to build and possibly manage a new jail by March.

Arabela is on its way to becoming a full-fledged fire district.

The Lincoln County Monday Commission approved an "agreement negotiated by new Commissioner Rick Simpson with Fernando Montoya, who owns the land where the county previously built a fire station.

Members of the Montoya family signed a quit claim deed with a reverter clause that if the land ceases to be used for a fire station, it will come back to the family.

If that termination occurs within 18 months because the district can't secure state funding, the land will go to the Montoyas, but the building will have to be removed by the county. However, if the county abandons the fire station sometime after a year has passed, both the structure and the land will go to the Montoyas, Simpson said.

The county through the Hondo Fire District erred wo years ago by building the structure to be used as a substation for Hondo on the Montoya land without first obtaining a deed or lease.

Arabela gets a fire house

A disagreement over the way the substation should be equipped prompted Montoya to refuse to execute either a lease or deed. In September, a group of firefighters from Arabela, about 18 miles north of Hondo and U.S. 70, formally left the Hondo District to try to set up their own community operation with Montoya as chief. Having a fire station is a major step in that direction. The state and county also must approve district lines for the new group.

Ŵilton Commissioner Howell commended Simpson on being able to cut through past disputes and personality conflicts to work out an agreement on the land. County Attorney Alan Morel said he drafted the agreement and it would be filed with the fleed for future reference.

The interim administrator of Lincoln ately, she said.

This year, the state lifted the cap on what a sole provider such as Lincoln County Medical Center - the only hospital in the county - can request.

Hospital asks state reimbursement for indigent patients

The hospital is asking for $829,306 in reimbursement, a sharp increase from the $356,202 it received last year. The center gives away more than $1 million in unpaid medical care each year, according to former administrator Valerie Miller, who retired last year.

"You don't get it if you don't ask," Sterchi said. "Other hospitals in the state traditionally requested as much or three times that. The worse they can say is 'no.' In any case, we may get $20,000 more (than the $300,000 figure)."

The hospital uses some of the proceeds from a special property tax levy designated for its operation, to pay the county's required contribution to the state's indigent fund.

However, commissioners are considering establishing a separate indigent fund. because hospital officials say they can't continue that financial burden.

Wrestlers must get fit for 3AAA

by Laura Clymer RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Warrior coach Jerrett Perry could see it in the heaving stomachs of his wrestlers at Saturday's Ruidoso Invitational.

The Warriors need to spend some time conditioning - lots of time.

Ruidoso's focus in practice the next two weeks won't be on beating Cobre. Rather, they will spend their time getting in tip-top shape so they can finish ahead of Silver.

"We have two things we have to work on," Perry said. "We have got to be more mentally prepared. We have to be able to go three periods; we can't just pin someone in the first.

"Two, we have to be in better physical shape."

That lack of cardiovascular efficiency might explain Rui-doso's fifth-place team finish Saturday.

"I really feel like we should have been up there with West Las Vegas," Perry said. "We had some breakdowns in the second and third rounds."

"The snow kind of put a damper on our tournament." Perry said. "The people we're going to have to beat at state were there."

Perry still believes his team can finish in the top five in Class AAA. Ruidoso last best finish was ninth in 1985.

"Pound for pound we're probably the strongest team in the state, but what we don't have at this point is the cardiovascular part," Perry said.

The Warriors will have to adopt a split personality when it takes on its next two oppo-... nents: the Silver Colts Friday ... and Cobre's Indians Saturday.

The Colts, led by UTEP-bound Drew Price, prefer an up-tempo game.

Their next door neighbors, the Indians, like to play at a more controlled pace.

Ruidoso must control the rebounds and contain Price.

Rumors about just who the Colts will bring to play continued to float at Ruidoso. Page couldn't confirm any rumors he's heard about eligibility problems at Silver.

Coach becomes history teacher for a day

BY LAURA CLYMER

NUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Before his girls basketball team could gloat about its 20-point win over Tularosa Jan. 26, Capitan coach Bryan Massé delivered a brief history lesson to his team.

The Tigers took note and passed their exam - a game with rival Cloudcroft - with straight A's.

Capitan took its time to pull away from the Bears, but pull away it did, posting a 59-38 win Friday. The victory improved the Tigers to 9-8 overall and 2-0 in District 6AA.

When the Tigers coasted to victory last Tuesday over the Wildcats, Massé reminded his team what happened a year ago at this juncture of the season.

In 1998, the Tigers opened the dis-trict campaign with a thrilling, comefrom-behind win over Tularosa. Three days later, Cloudcroft shocked the high flying Tigers, sending them on a fourgame tailspin.

history repeat itself, and so were the Tigers.

"I told them, "this ain't last year," Massé said of his post-game talk with his Tigers Jan. 26.

Capitan responded with a steady performance against Cloudcroft. The Tigers outscored the Bears in three of four quarters, including an 18-6 advantage in the fourth.

Sophomore Lindsey Bush scored 18 points and collected 11 rebounds for the Tigers, despite the stomach flu. Brooke Holland complemented Bush's inside play with 12 points and eight boards.

Junior point guard Alicia Garcia kept the Bears honest on the outside with 13 on four-of-nine shooting.

The Tigers' press eventually wore down the Bears. Garcia and Krystal Roybal picked the Bears' pockets five times each, and Capitan rolled to victory despite its poor outside shooting.

'We were missing some shots early.

Massé was determined not to let Then we started playing defense and bory repeat itself, and so were the our press started working," Massé said. Future defensive efforts like Friday's will push the Tigers over the hump if they are struggling offensively, Massé said.

"If we can play good enough defense the rest of the year, then we should be all right," he said.

The Tigers still have more tests to Dass

"It's a good start but you can't get complacent. You can't start patting yourself on the back." Massé said. "If we're not prepared we could just as easily lose the next two or three.

"Our goal is to win this district outright, and that's what we're looking at.'

Capitan completed its first go-round of district opponents Tuesday. The Tigers traveled to Dexter for a game with the Demons.

Second-round District 6AA play beings Friday when Capitan hosts Tularosa at 7:30 p.m.

Knights crown free-throw champions

The Knights of Columbus Council No. 6597 held its annual free-throw championship for girls and boys, ages 10-14, on Jan. 17 at the Ruidoso Middle School gymnasium.

The girls' winners in their respective age categories were Ashley Serna, Samantha Serna, Katie Ann Coronado and Timea Eckerdt.

The boys' winners were Zane Eckerdt, Dudley Dolan, Nick Stevenson and John Ordorica.

The winners are eligible to compete in the Knights of Columbus district free-throw championship.

Two arrested on drug counts

BY SANDY SUGGETT RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Police arrested two men on Main Road in Upper Canyon Tuesday on drug-related charges.

Frank Hooper of the Lincoln County Narcotics Unit said Randall Stiles, about 37, of Chaparral was charged with distribution of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

James C. Sublette Jr., about 49, of Ruidoso, was charged with possession of cocaine, possession of drug paraphernalia, manufacturing drug paraphernalia, and possession of marijuana.

Police seized a little more than 16 pounds of marijuana, Hooper said, with a street value of about $16,000. They also seized a vehicle and $300 in cash.

District Court Judge William Butts posted bond at $20,000 for each suspect.

Stiles had rented a cabin in Ruidoso for the last couple of months, Hooper said. "He would just pop in. He didn't live there. His main res-idence is Chaparral," he said. Four members of the Lincoln County Narcotics Unit and deputies from the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, the New Mexico State Police. and the Criminal Investigation Division of the Ruidoso Police Department participated.

Hooper said the bust started at about 8 a.m. Tuesday by getting a warrant and doing surveillance on the cabin to make sure there would be somebody home. Once they had the search warrant, it took three to four hours to search the house and tag everything. The arrests were made at 12:30 p.m.

Chilean exchange student makes the adjustment to 'small-town' America

STORY AND PHOTOS BY SANDY SUGGITT RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

This 16-year-old goes to discotheques and parties and stays out until four in the morning on weekends.

"And that's early, because at my age people stay out a lot longer," said Anamaría Gutierrez, an exchange student from Santiago, Chile.

Older people go out every night of the week, she said, and the discos have four different kinds of music to appeal to every age and taste. Anamaría has been in Ruidoso for only two weeks. And adjusting to small-town culture is more radical for her than adjusting to North American culture. Santiago, the capital of Chile, has more people than the entire state of New Mexico.

"In Chile, I'm always doing something different," she said. "Here" there are not so many parts you can go. There is only one theater -"

'-- Which is more than there was when I moved here six years ago," interjected Betty Wilcox, her American mother.

Betty and Ben Wilcox are experienced "foreign parents." They have hosted four other exchange students before Anamaría, one each from Germany, Australia, Uruguay and Ecuador, through Youth for Understanding (YFU).

They all come scared and anxious and it usually takes about a couple of months to fit in," Betty said, "but the worst thing is when they go nome, peca its me iosmi one of your kids.". Anamaría said she decided to be an exchange student "to have a new experience, to learn English and to live in another culture, and to be more independent of my family." She has four sisters and one brother back home and she's already called her family four times, but Wilcox's son, Waylon, is going to teach her to send them e-mail. The Wilcoxes raised three children of their own, and treat their exchange children in the same way. Anamaría appreciates their warmth and respect. "I think they give me my space," she said. "I feel very comfortable."

said, but this doesn't seem to bother Anamaría. What's harder to get used to, she said, is the meal times.

"We eat hunch between 2:30 and '3 o'clock," she said, "and we eat supper at 8 or 9."

Fast-foods and frozen dinners have made their way to South America, so she doesn't find them strange, although she said many people do their own cooking from scratch in Chile. "One thing she doesn't like," said Ben, "is potato salad. I made some especially for her and she wouldn't eat it.'

The natural beauty of the forests and mountains in the Ruidoso area impresses her the most here, and, as an apartment dweller, she's amazed to see deer and other animals.

of what the teachers said, but in most classes the teachers talk to students individually, rather than lecture-style, which she finds easier to understand.

"In English, there are many ds I don't understand." Anamaría

English class could meet first period Monday and sixth period Tuesday and not (at all) on Wednesday."

Anamaría likes dressing casually for school here. At school in Chile she has to wear a uniform-skirt, hive hlaves and the

Anamaria's host parents, Betty and Ben Wilcox, opened their home to four exchange students prior to Anamaria's arrival. "They all come scared and anxious and it usually takes about a couple of months to fit in," Betty said, "but the worst thing is when they go home, because it's like losing one of your kids."

The Dreamer (By Dannie Storm)

This is being written to you on Feb. 2, Ground Hog's Day. The great little month of February opened bright and clear with a western wind blowing down the vale. And then this morning, Ground Hog's Day, all the mountain land was covered with a blanket of snow.

So, if the little ground hog got up early, he had a good look at his shadow because the sun was shining brightly in the blue sky. However, it is possible that if the little ground hog awakened a little later than usual, and if this is true, he might have gotten a look at a cloudy world.

Mother Nature batters Ruidoso area with wind, fire and snow

High winds Saturday contributed to a rash of grass fires in the area that started when a tree fell on a Texas-New Mexico Power Company power station at the Mescalero line.

Wind and fire gave way to snow by Sunday evening and the Ruidoso area got a dose of ice and snow that prompted school closings and shortened schedules throughout the county.

As firefighters from Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, the United State Forest Service, Mescalero and Bonito battled the blazes that raged down both sides of U.S. Highway 70 Saturday, area residents were evacuated from the Camelot area and mobile home parks located near the fast-moving fire.

Betty and Ben own the True Value Hardware store, so meals are often thrown-together affairs, Betty

She skis Tuesday afternoons with other students, but that's not too unusual. She skis in Chile.

Anamaría is in her last year at school in Chile. School is organized in three-month terms, so she'll only miss the March through July term, and in November will leave school to study for college entrance exams.

She hopes to qualify for one of the two traditional universities in Santiago where she will study architecture, she said.

At Ruidoso High School, she is taking "fun" classes: drama, culinary skills, marketing, art, U.S. history, humanities and drafting.

She said the first classes she attended she understood less than half said, "and people speak too fast."

But she has almost as much difficulty with the Spanish spoken here as she does with English because of the abundant, but different, slang words. "There are many words that aren't in a dictionary," she said, "so I have to speak very correctly, and no 'slang words."

One difference she noticed between school in Ruidoso and school in Santiago is that teachers have more books in their classrooms. while in Chile most reference books are in the library. Another difference is the frequency and timing of classes.

"You have all the same classes, all the days," she said. "(In Chile) we have different classes on different days, and it changes what time of day we have a class. For example, an Greeting styles tend to throw her, though. "(In Chile) when you say hi you kiss the person and here you say hi but you don't get close to anybody.'

Anamaría didn't notice many differences in television shows - since many of them are the same as those made and shown here, but with Spanish subtitles – and she and the Wilcoxes often spend evenings watching television together.

They haven't had time yet to do much sightseeing, but Ben is determined to take her camping (something she hasn't done). In addition, YFU offers trips to Carlsbad at the end of February and to the Grand Canyon during Memorial Day weekend.

Art & June Waltrip

WEDDINGS ANNIVERSARIES

Friends and family of Art "Chick" and June (McNatt) Waltrip of Roswell are invited to the couple's 50th wedding anniversary celebration from 4-7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 13, in the Ruidoso Elks Lodge.

The couple was married on Feb. 11, 1949, in Roswell.

Their children Kathy O'Rear of DeRidder, La., Rick Waltrip of Roswell, and Denice Hutchinson of Borger, Texas will host the party.

The couple also has seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Art Waltrip's parents, G.B. and Eva Waltrip, both deceased, were longtime Ruidoso residents and business owners. His brother, Derald Waltrip, is also a Ruidoso resident. His sister, Cloria Cummins.

lives in Capitan. June Waltrip's mother, Margaret Whiteley, and her sisters Dixie Sigler and Peggy McClellan are all longtime residents of Ruidoso.

Happy February to everyone. Where has the month of January gone?

The main topic of conversation the past week has been the wind. I was in Ruidoso when the wind was blowing Tuesday and it was terrible. And Bill Thorp was a hero for sure, saving two pregnant mares I do want to ask one question. How in the world did you lasso the roof in the high wind? You and Scott have to be excellent ropers. I disagree with the

Trivia 101 answer about Fort Stanton and the prisoners of war. The Germans were war internees, not prisoners. The United States was not at war at the time. The German captain scuttled his ship, the Columbus, near New York Harbor to keep it out of the hands of the British Navy, either by capture or sinking. The captain had his choice of where they would be housed and he picked Fort Stanton.

Their story is depicted at the Lincoln Heritage Trust/Hubbard Museum of the American West. Several of the crew members and the captain's daughter and her husband have visited Lincoln several times

Linda Fox and Cele Dickenson kept our post office open during Cheri Hobbs' absence.

Cheri was home this past weekend. taking care of the monthly reports and catching up on post office business. She reported that Lloyd is now on crutches. When you see the X-ray of his back you realize how lucky this young man is able to walk.

The Lincoln County Republican Women held its meeting at the Cree Meadows last Tuesday during that wind storm.

In spite of the weather, 36 members and guests were present.

Jim Manat of Roswell spoke to the group. He had trivia questions for the audience to answer. It is surprising how easily you forget dates and names. It brought back a lot of memories for many. Those that could answer the questions received a Nixon button.

Manat, who was a nominee for one of the New Mexico State University regents, spoke of his concerns about educators' salaries, both statewide and at the university.

The Republican Women will donate a book to the Hondo Schools under the MELP program (Mamie Eisenhower Library Program). Lois Aldrich is in charge of this activity.

After the wind storm on Tuesday, we had snow Thursday night. It left Lincoln in a gap with good snow on either side of us. I understand they had more than nine inches of snow north of Capitan and more than five inches in the Hondo Valley. Lincoln received about 1 1/2 inches. The Capitan schools were closed for the day. By the the weekend, we had beautiful weather.

Because of the snow, the Americorps group was unable to start work on the steps to the Lincoln Community Church. Reg Ritchie of the Preservation Board and also an architect, met with the group. Plans were made for the material needed, style and construction techniques. One of the first steps to take is to get the family of skunks out from under the building.

The Americorps group is busy also at the Hondo Schools.

Upcoming events of interest are: the Republican Women meet in Santa Fe, Feb. 19 and 20; Ag Fest is Feb. 23, and the State FGE (a.k.a. extension) will meet for its legislative days Feb. 24-26 in Glorietta.

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Mescalero student wins college scholarship

Erica Bradley, from the Mescalero Apache Tribe, and Homer Marks Sr., a member of the Tohono O'odham Nation in Sells, Ariz., received $1,000 Dr. Roe B. Lewis Scholarships from the Southwest Indian Agricultural Association (SWIAA).

The awards were announced at the 11th annual SWIAA Conference in Laughlin, Nev. in January.

Bradley is a student at Northern Arizona University School of Forestry in Flagstaff, Ariz. She has worked with the Bureau of Indian Affairs cooperative/internship program for three years.

"I know the importance of my education, and I want it to be known that other Indians can go on to college, succeed and make a difference for their tribes," Bradley said.

Marks is a student at Central Arizona College in Coolidge, Ariz. He works as a range technician for the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

"In order to promote agriculture, I have to be educated in it and understand its principles. Farming is prospering on Indian lands, but we need managers and trained employees."

Ruidoso grad makes college dean's list

Cory Hood of Ruidoso made the Honors List at Culver-Stockton College in Canton, Mo. for the 1998 fall semester.

Honor Roll students earned between 3.2 and 3.49 grade point averages and were enrolled in at least 12 hours with no grade lower than a C.

Culver-Stockton College is a liberal arts college. Hood's parents are Dean and Patsy Hood of Ruidoso.

Local students achieve \ NMSU dean's list honor

Students from Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and Alto were they carried a minimum.of 12 hours.

From Ruidoso: Kari Adene Barnett, a psychology major; Angela Denise Coleman, an elementary education major; Stacey Dickerson, a pre-business major; Frank G. Harper, an elementary education major; Molly Anne Long, a nursing major; Alleyene Elizabeth Medina, an elementary education major; and Lindie Ann Reynolds, a hotel, restaurant and tourism management major.

From Ruidoso Downs: Roberta Rowena Roser, an elementary education major.

From Alto: Donna Marie Coleman, an elementary education major; and Rachel Dawn Hall, a finance major.

Former RHS student honored at Andover

Emily Ruch, daughter of Susan Ruch and Michael Ruch of Ruidoso was named to Phillips Academy Honor Roll in Andover, Mass.

To be named to the honor roll, students must maintain at least a 5-point grade average on a 6-point scale.

Student teachers must attend planning meeting

All Ruidoso and Roswell area students planning to student teach during the fall 1999 semester must attend a preapplication meeting to receive the required information concerning application procedures.

The session is at 10 a.m. Feb. 15 at Washington Avenue Elementary School in Roswell. During the session students will fill out a preapplication form indicating an intent to student teach during the fall 1999 semester. Attendance is mandatory.

BY SANDY SUGGITT RUDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

High school students swapped reading, writing and arithmetic for "bugs, crud and other stuff" at a State Forestry workshop hosted by Ruidoso High School on Jan. 26.

More than 200 students from all over the state spent the day and attended workshops sponsored by the New Mexico Department of Forestry in Capitan and by the U.S. Forest Service. The forest practicum was designed to give students an opportunity to learn forestry skills, said Mike Gaines, RHS agriculture and metals teacher.

The skills will enable them to compete in district, regional and statewide FFA competitions in forestry.

The turnout exceeded Gaines's expectations. Similar events in recent years resulted in lower-than-expected participation.

"We were expecting about 60 and 200 signed up," Gaines said.

The six ongoing workshops started at 8 a.m. and concluded at 3 p.m. so students could attend each one. Other workshops included "Bored Feet (Tree Measurement)," "Lost in the Woods (Compass and Pacing)," and "To Cut or Not To Cut (Silviculture)."

Students came from as far away as Raton and Kirtland, said Lynn Hutchison of New Mexico State Forestry, who coordinated the event.

But it wasn't just the students who came to learn about the forest ecosystem. Teachers who attended the event were in the learning mode, too, Gaines said. "Lots of us didn't have forestry preparation in college when we were getting ready to teach agriculture."

Forestry workshop lights students' fire

Dick Edwards, a forester with the United States Department of Agriculture Forest Service, demonstrates how to measure a tree while Anessa Scott and Taryan Crook of Artesia observe.

Agriculture teacher Alice Velasquez brought 13 students from Santa Rosa, where the state's northeast plains begin to dominate the landscape. She wanted them to learn about the forestry industry and careers in forestry wildlife.

"We want them to develop a few marketable skills so even if they don't go to a four-year college, they'll learn skills here," Velasquez said. "It's basically a starting point. We teach it in class and

"It's basically a starting point. We teach it in class and compete in local, state and district levels, but the main thing is as a career focus."

Velasquez said the advantage of workshops like this is that teachers and students can talk to other chapters and exchange ideas. Justin O'Bryant, a student from Truth or Consequences, said his favorite workshop was "Name that Tree," or tree identification. He plans to work for the Forest Service this summer in the Gila area.

Steven Bair of Kirtland didn't know what forestry was about, so he came to find out. Because he's interested in machinery, he found "Parts is Parts, Chainsaw Anatomy" the most interesting most interesting. The State Department of Education organized the state forestry clinics to encourage high school students to consider forestry and agriculture as career choices. Vocational and agricultural students can go on to compete in statewide contest hosted by New Mexico State University in Las Cruces. This year's contest will be March 24.

"There may be several schools 'that'll host other contests between now and then so the teams can practice," Gaines said.

At the final competition the students will solve problems based on what they learned in Ruidoso and at other forestry clinics.

Teacher Pam Valdes brought seven students from Santa Fe. She hoped the experience would give her students an edge up on the competition at state.

"We've competed in all the forestry competitions with a little bit of knowledge," she said. "Now we'll do it with more."

Two new drugs on the market for dogs who appear to be suffering from separation anxiety or canine cognitive dysfunction aren't cure-alls, warns the Humane Society of the United States.

Although approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, they won't provide a "quick fix" for behavioral problems in dogs, said Dr. Leslie Sinclair, director of veterinary issues for companion animals at the HSUS.

The drugs, called Clomicalm and Anipryl, will provide relief for some dogs, but not every dog who exhibits the symptoms of those two disorders actually is suffering from them, Sinclair said.

The problems may be rooted in lack of care,

"True medical disorders also may be the underlying cause of 'misbehavior' in dogs," Sinclair said. "An elderly dog who has lost her housetraining behavior for example, actually may be suffering from a bladder infection or a hormonal condition causing her to lose control of her bladder. A dog who is not getting enough exercise, training and care will exhibit behaviors common in both separation anxiety and canine cognitive dysfunction."

That behavior may include excessive barking, howling and destruction of the home.

"But this alone doesn't mean the dog has a disorder or will be helped by this drug," Sinclair said. The HSUS encourages dog owners to find a professional with background in behavior therapy for their dog's undesirable behaviors, but to expect to play an integral role in resolving those behaviors.

A complete physical examination and thorough history of the dog help in diagnosing the cause and the formulating a treatment plan.

"Millions of dogs are relinquished by their owners annually in the U.S., too often due to behavioral problems," said Martha Armstrong, HSUS vice president for companion animals and equine protection. "The best remedy of all is an owner who is committed to providing the time, exercise, training, love and attention that every dog needs."

"Drug therapy alone, without the other components of a treatment plan, is rarely effective and never appropriate," Sinclair said.

Gregory Harrison and Melissa Gilbert star in the tense mystery drama Murder at 75 Birch, airing Tuesday, Feb. 9, on CBS.

Gwen Todson's (Gilbert) husband receives a late-night phone call from his brother Rick (Harrison) saying that his wife is dead. Rick tells police a burglar is responsible but becomes the prime suspect.

When Gwen's husband dies in a car accident on the way to the police station, she starts her own investigation and uncovers the horrible truth.

Sunday on Fox, FBI agents Mulder and Scully (David Duchovney, Gillian Anderson) fight the system that employs them while striving to uncover the truth in The X-Files.

The actions of a rescue helicopter pilot (Meg Ryan) are investigated when she is considered for a posthumous Medal of Honor in Courage Under Fire, airing Monday on ABC.

NEW OPTIONS IN CONTACT LENSES

today's contact lenses are more colorful and more comfortable than ever. There are many more choices to meet your prescription needs too. Even if you weren't happy with contacts years ago, you deserve a second chance at success. Ask us about:

- Improved disposables and planned replacement lenses. These new soft lenses fit better than ever and are available for sphere and astigmatic correction. Two week, one month or three month lenses can be selected to suit your lifestyle. Some are even available in colors. They're ideal for someone who is allergic to cleaning solutions.
- Gas-permeable lenses. Far more comfortable than the "old hard lenses", these lenses can be used to correct astigmatism and help maintain the shape of the eye to reduce vision deterioration in some patients.
- Daily sphere lenses. These extremely comfortable soft lenses can correct for either farsightedness or nearsightedness. Available in clear or with visibility tint. Also available with a wide variety of color enhancing and opaque, color changing, options. We even offer WILD EYES cosmetic/theatrical lenses in many prescriptions.
- Toric lenses. Soft lenses that correct astigmatism. These lenses are also available in a variety of colors.
- Monovision and bifocal lenses. For patients who need correction for hoth near and distance vision, there is now a wide variety of multifocal options. Check with Dr.'s Sonnenmoser and Gutowski.

Ouestions concerning the wide variety of both corrective and cosmetic contact lenses available can be answered at Family Vision Center, 159 Mescalero Tr., Ruidoso, NM.

Q: Can you tell me anything about Broadside and Valentine Farrell, two shows that aired in the mid-'60s? -C.S., Riverside, Vt.

A Kathy Nolan, Edward Andrews and Dick Sargent starred in Broadside, a 1964-65 ABC sitcom about a group of U.S. Navy WAVES assigned to an otherwise largely male occupied South Pacific island during World War II.

Also on ABC that season, Tony Franciosa played New York publisher Valentine Farrow (not Farrell) in Valentine's Day, a sitcom that mainly followed its title character's amorous adventures.

Jack Soo and Janet Waldo co-starred as, respectively, Valentine's valet and sectetary. Former opera great Helen Traubel guest starred as his mother, Muriel.

Qi Did Jamie Luner (Melrose Place) once play one of the children on Just the Ten of Us years ago? -Kelly Vamis, Berkeley, Calif. A: Nice catch, Kelly! Yes, Luner played space case Cindy Lubbock in the 1988-90 ABC sitcom.

Q: Why does the Disney Channel insert commercials in all its programming and movies not in prime time? They are listed as a premium channel, and they charge like one. -Bill T. via e-mail.

A: While the Disney Channel still has about 4 million paid subcribers, eight years ago the channel began offering itself to cable operators as either a basic or pay service. In most markets, it no longer is a premium service.

The channel still runs its Magical World of Disney movies uninterrupted, says Rich Ross, senior vice president of programming and production, but "we break all our other series because we heard ... that people need a break. And ... every (off-network) series is created with breaks.

"In the past, (the shows) often were sealed up so pacing really looked very weird. So now we break everything outside of our prime-time movie."

She once horrified audiences as the wicked nanny in The Hand That Rocks the Cradle. But now, actress Rebecca De Mornay is taking on a more sympathetic maternal role.

As Nora Mahler, De Mornay portrays a mother who loses a child in an accident in Night Ride Home, a film based on the novel by Barbara Esstman.

Airing Sunday, Feb. 7, on CBS, the story of love, loss and survival was filmed on location near Portland, Ore., and teams De Mornay with Academy Award winners Keith Carradine and Ellen Burstyn.

Chocolates, roses and mushy cards are still a few days off. The time before Valentine's Day usually holds about as much romance and fun as any other bleak February day.

But PBS offers a timely confection. Cincinnati Pops Holiday: Love Is in the Air. The hourlong salute to amour airs Wednesday, Feb. 10 (check local listings). This is the latest in a series of holiday concerts by Erich Kunzel, conductor of the Cincinnati Pops Orchestra.

Having done a big-band New Year's, a "spooktacular" for Halloween and a Christmas show, Kunzel is already gearing up for the next concert, though he's mum on which holiday it will be. However, he has much to say from a hotel room in Toronto on the imporPBS is the last bastion of presenting in all its forms in television."

Both De Mornay and Carradine, who plays Nora's husband, Neal, say that in order to relate to their characters, they borrowed from their own family experiences, but the emotional journey they travel is especially intense because of the difficult subject matter of losing a son.

"I was just blown away with how incredibly heavy this movie is," says De Mornay, who committed to the role several months after giving birth to her first child.

In this 200th Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation, audiences get to see the motherly side of De Mornay, whose roles usually have edgier elements to them. Future films, for example, include two black comedies; in one, she portrays an ex-stripper.

"I wouldn't have been able to play Nora had I not given birth to my daughter," the 37-year-old actress says. "It's a whole different world once you have a child, but being a mother made the role incredibly torturous because losing a child is every mother's worst nightmare."

The film also explores the strained relationship between Nora and Neal, who have been married for nearly 20 years.

"Nora has been in a marriage in which she's had an equal part in letting it fall apart," De Mornay says. "Somehow she's fallen out of love with him." The film also illustrates the healing of a family stricken with grief. Carra"He allows himself to be dominated through his marriage," he says. "He comes to the point where he has to reclaim himself, and that's certainly different than any character I've played before."

As a parent of three children and someone who has had difficult moments in relationships, Carradine, 49, says his role paralleled his life to some degree.

"I'm a parent, and I had a marriage that didn't work," says the actor, who's currently going through a divorce after 12 years of marriage. "All of those issues in the movie were very close to me. I wasn't trying to create an elaborate group of memories."

Although Carradine's character has passive traits, he gradually becomes stronger in order to help his family survive the loss.

"It's a family in deep crises," he says. "But one is left with a sense of hope, not resolution. Everyone has to go through hardships, but the strength of the human spirit must go on and heal."

In the end, the film's message is that hope can survive the very difficult experience of losing a family member.

"Everyone of us has to experience the loss of a loved one," De Mornay concludes. "Hopefully not of a child, but there's a way through it even though your life is never the same." tance of such shows.

"With the NEA (National Endowment for the Arts) almost a nonexistent entity, TV is not artistic-minded," Kunzel says. "If it isn't sitcoms, it's a sports event. The arts have suffered greatly. All those wonderful programs are gone.

Rinna ready to return; dark Days needs light

By Candace Havens OTVData Features Syndicate

Former Days of Our Lives and Melrose Place star Lisa Rinna is ready to get back to work.

The incredibly svelte actress says she has been enjoying spending time with her new baby daughter but that it's time to put her nose to the grindstone.

Would she consider coming back to daytime?

"I'm not ready to return right now, but I'll never say never. That was a good time for me," she says.

Rinna's husband, Harry Hamlin, is in the new WB Network comedy Movie Stars.

"My best friend, Jennifer (Grant), plays his wife on the show," Rinna says, "so it really feels like we are keeping it all in the family."

Dear Candace: My wife and I have watched Days for years. Our only complaint is that Stefano (Joseph Mascolo) gets away with everything. We are sick and tired of his character.

Just when we think Bo and Hope (Peter Reckell, Kristian Alfonso) are going to get together again, Stefano gets in the way.

We'd like the stories to get back to the good old days when Tom Horton (Macdonald Carey) was around. None of the characters on the show have any kind of respect for anyone.

It's not good for the general public to see so much hate on a show. It's time for us to see something positive for a change. - Aubrey Lyons, Duncan, Okla.

Dear Reader: Days is one of those shows that can get away with outlandish story lines.

the writers take things too far. As long as Stefano is around, there is going to be some kind of craziness going on. The bad guys almost always get away on this show.

There has been a big push from fans for Days to concentrate more on the families in Salem and less on the wild tales.

Only time will tell if the writers are listening.
