Fire in the canyon

AND DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITERS

Flames reached 200 feet in a° Mescalero Reservation forest fire that was still out of control at 7 p.m. Thursday after devouring 250 acres, fire and tribal officials said.

No injuries from the fire, located about 3 1/2 miles southeast of Mescalero in Telephone Canyon, had been reported to tribal forestry offices, tribal officials said.

"And there are no homes in danger at this point," Mescalero Vice President Oliver Enjady said.

He and a tribal fire official said the blaze, which is being called the Telephone Fire, is running parallel to the 1996 Chino Well fire that consumed 11,000 acres.

The Chino Well fire — that's helping us out," said David Kirgan, a fields management fire specialist with the tribe. He explained that the burnt forest acts as a barrier to the current fire and is expected to protect homes bordering U.S. Highway 70.

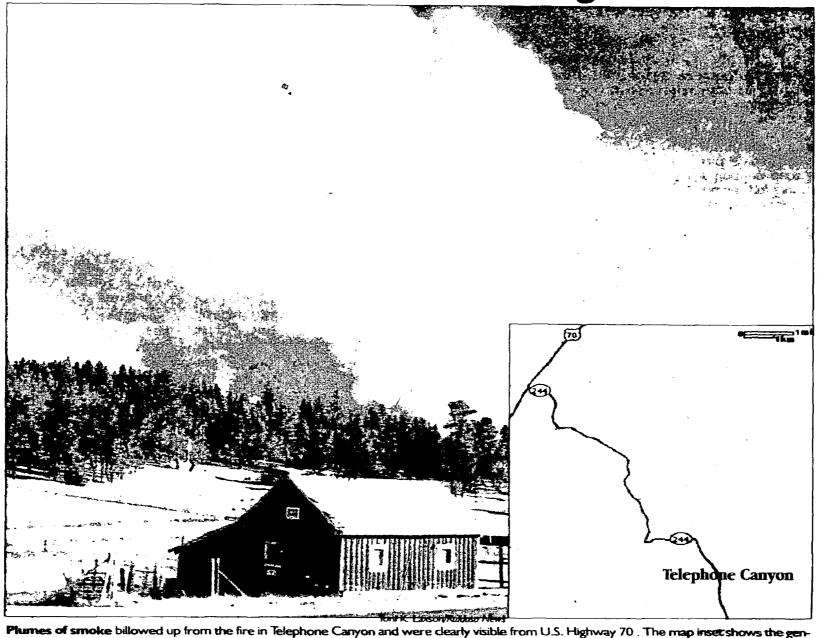

Despite no immediate danger to homes, Ruidoso fire crews were called in at about 5:30 p.m. Thursday to protect about 10 evacuated homes in the nearby Mud Canyon along State Highway 244.

The southwestern winds that whipped up the blaze and caused a 1/4 acre fire to quickly jump to 10 acres also pushed the flames in a east, northeast direction, fire and tribal officials said.

I think they had predicted gusty winds from the south/southwest, and with the dry fuel on the ground a fire can crank up pretty fast," Bill Rogge, a state fire management official, said.

Kirgan said about 200 firefighters from tribal, state, federal and local fire agencies would probably work through the night on the wildland fire. Kirgan expected the fire to be contained by this afternoon after burning a total of 300 acres.

Mescalero officials asked state fire officials to take over command of the firefighting efforts. The switch in command was to happen at midnight. Rogge said until 6:30 p.m. Thursday, all the firefighting

"Mescalero realizes with its initial and extended attack that they couldn't manage the fire and they needed the state to take over,"

The command center for the fire will be in the Mescalero Forestry offices at Apache Summit, Rogge said.

Because of the fire, state police closed U.S. Highway 70 from 6:45-7:30 p.m. for a stretch of road starting at Ruidoso village limits and ending in Mescalero. State Highway 244, which runs through Mud Canyon to Cloudcroft, was closed at fast" soon after. U.S. Highway 70.

Ruidoso bond issue vote set for Tuesday

• A "yes" vote on Tuesday's two-part bond election allows the village of Ruidoso to bond up to $5 million for water system improvements and continue a 1cent gross receipts tax past the year

BY TONI K. LAXSON RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A penny tax is the question before Ruidoso's registered voters Tuesday.

Currently raising $1.6 million dollars a year, that 1-cent gross receipts supplemental tax will be used by Ruidoso leaders to pay for $16 million in needed expansion and improvement of the village's aging water system.

The supplemental tax is not scheduled to drop off the village's total gross receipts tax of 6.9 cents until the year 2003 whether or not voters pass Tuesday's election.

With passage of Tuesday's ballot, village officials say residents will create a revenue source for funding new water lines, new water sources and increased capacity. Without the supplemental tax, Ruidoso will have to find alternate funding, such as general obligation bonds, which are paid off through property taxes, or by water rate hikes, village officials say.

For the bond election to pass, voters must approve both questions on the ballot - one to continue the tax and another to allow the village to issue bonds for up to $5 million.

However, the tax is expected to bring in far more than $5 million depending on the type of the bonds issued, and could possibly continue for 30 years or even longer, village officials said.

"I don't know that we would even consider 30 years, that's just too long,' Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson said Thursday. "I would say 20 ... and it would have to be on a bigger project." A shorter bonding period would have lower interest costs, which is how the village would rather go, Donaldson said. But a longer bonded debt keeps the tax in place and gives the village additional revenue over and above debt payments, he added.

We don't know what we are going to bond at this time," Donaldson said. "But it is important to realize that while we can bond off of this, and we

Complaints increase push to reduce elk herd numbers

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Complaints from private land owners probably are fueling a move to reduce New Mexico's elk herd.

"The state could handle many more elk," says Darrel Weybright, big game grant coordinator for the state Game and Fish Department. "We're not at all at the carrying capacity (of the land and food resources), but we may be at the social carrying capacity. It's a balance between those who want to hunt and view the elk versus owners of private land who experience problems with elks.

"I would suspect that for Unit 34 (the Sacramento Mountains south of Mescalero), the complaints are driving the push to reduce the herd."

From July 1, 1997, through June 30, 1998, 54 individual complaints were filed about damage from elk, and 25 came from the southeastern portion of the state that includes Lincoln County, said Dale Hall, land owners/sportsmen coordinator. complaints slowed this year, with 28 filed in the first three quarters. The elk herd reduction, though initially good for local outfitters and lodging owners because of increased hunting permits, eventually could harm both industries if the number of elk diminishes, especially those of trophy size, critics of the plan say.

The state Game Commission voted last month conduct a special meeting on the proposal to reduce the herd and to hear recommendations from the staff, said Bud Hettinga, who lives in Las Cruces, has a home and ranch near Ruidoso and represents this area on the game commission.

Hettinga said the only thing left is for the commission is act on a proposal from department staff on how to handle the reduction: increasing the 36,000 permits issued annually by another 4,200, selling licenses over the counter, rewarding hunters who turn in harvest information with a chance to draw another elk permit of oryx permit, or allowing two-elks per permit, have been suggested.

The meeting is set for 9 a.m. Saturday, May 22, in the Hoffmantown Church, Building E, 8888 Harper in Albuquerque.

A reduction of between 35 percent to 50 percent is being considered. Weybright said. Thirty-five percent is needed to offset the up to 23 percent annual increase of the herd from calf production, he said

"So 50 percent is justifiable in some places," Weybright said. "However, when hunters hear about a 50 percent kill, they think the sky is falling and the elk herd will be wiped out."

The staff will come to the meeting with a recommendation to increase the number of elk permits by 12 percent, about 4,320 permits, Weybright said.

The 36,000 permit issues last year resulted in about 18,000 elk being harvested. About 95 percent of those obtaining permits actually hunt and the success rate is about 50 percent,

"However, we would expect that rate to go up when you can kill a cow, if you can't kill a bull," he said.

In the interim, the staff and the commission is seeking opinions.

We don't heard from those who want to hunt elk or see them," Weybright said. "We hear from the people with complaints. I know reducing the herd won't necessarily mean the complaints will be reduced. This is not a panacea."

Game Commissioner Gail Cramer, a lifelong hunter and a college instructor from Farmington, said she opposes the reduction in part for that reason. It

Police brutality alleged against Downs officer

BY TONI K. LAXSON RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

When Claire Greenwood was pulled over for speeding a few weeks ago, the local horse trainer rolled up her windows, locked the doors and called 911.

It was the second time Greenwood was stopped for speeding by Ruidoso Downs Police Office Ken Arther. The first resulted in her arrest, a reported injury and a pending lawsuit against both Arther and the village of Ruidoso Downs.

"I don't know of a woman who would not be scared of a man who separated her shoulder and threw her around," Greenwood's attorney, Gary Mitchell, alleged. "She is desperately afraid of him."

Arthur's alleged actions in last year's traffic stop are the basis of Greenwood's grievances against the officer as stated in a legal notice to the village. Arther has said Greenwood's accusations are not accurate or complete depictions of the first traffic stop.

On April 18, Greenwood's daughter was with her in the second traffic stop. Both women refused to lower their windows until other officials arrived at the scene. When the deputy arrived, Arther left without citing Greenwood.

But before then, Arther reportedly walked around the car pounding on both driver and passenger side windows, frightening Greenwood and her daughter, Mitchell said.

Arther declined to be interviewed regarding the traffic stop. However, Ruidoso Downs Police Chief David Hightower said Arther did not pound on

"According to Officer Arther, he did tap gently on the driver's windows," Hightower

Videotaped evidence should have been available to prove at least one of the claims. But the video camera in Arthur police unit apparently malfunctioned, Hightower said. "The initial approach is not on the video," he

The camera is supposed to start rolling when an officer activates his emergency lights. Hightower said the video system, purchased recently by the village to resolve disputes such as this, did not come on until after Arther returned to his unit.

About three days after the traffic stop, Arther filed a request with Judge William Butt's state magistrate court in Ruidoso. Arther wanted Greenwood arrested on charges of speeding, resisting arrest, evading an officer and failure to show proof of insurance.

Butts said he contacted the 12th Judicial District Court's district attorneys office on whether charges needed to be filed and arrest warrant issued.

Canon Stevens, assistant district attorney, said Tuesday an arrest warrant will not be issued for Greenwood, though she will probably receive a court summons on the matter.

Greenwood's first grievance against Arther stems from a traffic stop on May 7, 1998. She was on her way to care for a sick horse when Arther pulled her over. According to the legal notice Mitchell served on the village, Greenwood repeatedly asked Arther to write the ticket quickly so she could get to her horse. Arther instead took an "extraordinary" amount of time writing the ticket, Greenwood's tort claim notice said.

"... And ultimately, when Ms. Greenwood insisted on going directly to the court so she could get the matter taken care of and tend to her horse, (she) was slammed up against the car and handcuffed," the notice said.

Greenwood, after being released from the Ruidoso Downs jail, immediately went to the Lincoln County Medical Cen-

There, according Mitchell, she was diagnosed with a rotator cuff tear and trapesuius strain.

Arther, in an earlier interview, disputed Greenwood's account of the first traffic stop. He. also said she allegedly demonstrated a volatile disposition during a hearing in municipal court on the first traffic stop.

The court ruled against Greenwood, and that decision has been appealed to 12th District Court.

Mitchell questioned why Arther would pull Greenwood over considering the pending lawsuit. According to Hightower, Greenwood was going 43 mph in a 35-mph zone at the

"That is not some big deal," Mitchell said of the speeding violation. "And he had to know whose car that was ... As soon as he saw who it was, he should have called in another officer."

Hightower said Arther could not have called another officer - he was the only one on duty that Sunday morning because of staffing problems.

Besides Greenwood, Mitchell represents four other people who have named Arther in current or pending lawsuits against the village.

Another lawsuit against the village also names Arther, and an unrelated complaint filed against Arther is under investigation by an outside law enforcement agency.

Just prior to Arthur employment with the village, he was fired as a Chaves County deputy because of complaints against him.

Arther, in a previous interview, has said he treats everyone with the same courtesy and that police officers are all occasionally subject to spurious complaints.

He said past and current grievances against him are either without basis or because of inaccurate information.

Accused murderer waives right of court first appearance

BY TONI K. LAXSON RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Johnny Ray Gutierrez, the man accused of killing a Ruidoso convenience store clerk Aug. 29, has waived his first appearance in district court that was scheduled for today.

Gutierrez, who is represented by Ruidoso attorney Gary Mitchell, has pleaded not guilty of the first-degree murder, which carries a possible death penalty or life imprisonment.

Parsons will set a trial date for the case.

In late November, Ruidoso police arrested and charged Gutierrez, 39, with murder and robbery in connection with the crime. Police at a Capitan home picked up Gutierrez, who also spends time in Albuquerque.

Witnesses told police they saw a man and a woman were carrying out cases of beer in a munity that rarely sees the bru-

Though no exact project is listed with the bond election, Village Manager Alan Briley and Donaldson both said a likely candidate is the $1.5 million current work to replace water lines along Mechem Drive in conjunction with highway construction.

Because of the high interest on the state's loan for the project — 10 percent annual interest over 10 years — it makes sense to bond it at a lower interest cost, Donaldson said. Briley said this week about

Ruidoso water master plan runs for 20 years

 A $16 million master plan covers needed improvements for Ruidoso's water system over the next 20 years.

BY TONI K. LAXSON RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

While $16 million sounds like a lot, it is better than previous projections for the cost of upgrading Ruidoso's water sys-

"We were scared to death that we would see costs in the $25 (million) to $35 million range," Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson said Thursday. "We were really pretty ecstatic that it was $16 million."

The consulting firm of Wilson & Company of Albuquerque this week presented Ruidoso village councilors with a preliminary overview of a revised master water plan.

The plan is to ensure Ruidoso has adequate water supplies and delivery for the next 20 years.

Village leaders instigated a revision of the village's water master plan about a year ago, when 20-year repairs were estimated to cost $40 million. The last master water plan for the village was done in 1977.

The revision and a computerized model of the village's water system cost Ruidoso $80,000, Village Manager Alan Briley said. Most of the $80,000 pays for the model, will show where upgrades are needed as well as isolate the source of problems, Briley said.

The revised plan, which goes to the year 2018, took almost a year to complete because Ruidoso water system's is complicated, he and a consultant said.

"Everyone has said it - Ruidoso's water system is arguably . the most complex in the state," Dennis D. Brand, a senior environmental engineer with Wilson & Company, said.

In fact, he said, his compa-imillion, is dedicated to the ny's computer models of the replacement of deteriorating system initially showed that water lines in the village.

not function based on its current design.

On Tuesday, registered voters are to decide on an issue that will have a significant impact on how the village pays for water system improvements in the plan.

A bond election of up to $5 million would be paid for through a 1-cent gross receipts tax. Whether or not the bond election passes, the penny tax will remain on Ruidoso's total gross receipts tax of 6.9 cents until the year 2003.

Brand recommended the supplemental tax as a preferred avenue for funding the master water plan. Currently, the tax raises $1.6 million in annual revenue.

In his presentation, Brand said the tax shares the system's costs with part-time residents and tourists rather than affecting property taxes and water rates.

"It has all of the advantages and not as many of the disadvantages of other taxing structures," Donaldson said, echoing Brand.

Based on the plan, Ruidoso needs to spend up to $2.2 million on water rights, $3.9 million upgrading water treatment plants, $2.3 million on additional water storage and another $1.6 for other needs.

But the largest chunk, $6 are the "primary suspects" why Ruidoso/has higher than acceptable water losses. Currently, the system loses/more than 30 percent of treated

"But a normal total (water loss) that we need to aim for is 15 percent," Brand said.

Because of the water system's complexity and surge in water needs during peak tourism times, it is the equivalent of a system serving 25,000 people rather than Ruidoso's actual year-round population of 7,000, Brand said.

The water master plan addresses seven basic questions starting with why it is needed at all.

Besides the need to update Ruidoso's 22-year-old plan, the village has recently seen a significant increase in it water system operational costs as well as significant changes in national regulations and laws. he said.

The remaining six areas addressed in plan are:

 The status of the water system Projected water needs

Projections in the plan are based on the amount of land that can be developed as well as on the village continuing to reduce leakage from the water system by replacing deteriorating water lines, Brand said.

It is not perfect. It is a projection," he said.

The consultant's projections of water use are higher than Donaldson's previous estimates for water needs in 20

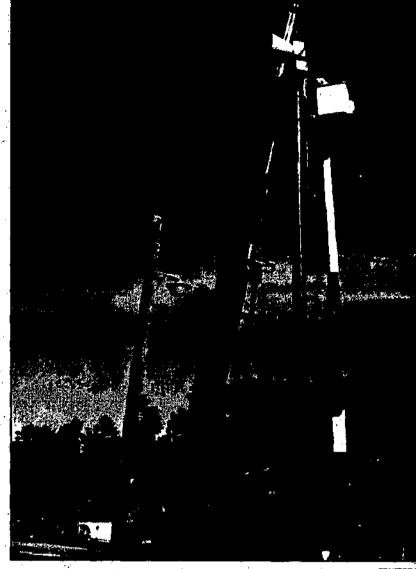

Donaldson's projections, based on 2,000 more homes and 100 more businesses in the village, said the average daily demand would increase to 2.6 million gallons.

Wilson & Company estimated summertime water use in the year 2018 at a daily average of 3.54 million gallons.

Ruidoso village councilors will hold public hearings on the revised master water plan before adopting it.

Remembering the county peace officers

In valor there is hope."

So is the inscription on the National Lay Enforcement Officers Memorial in Washington, D.C.

National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Week was observed this week. It has become a national tradition to remember peace officers who have given their lives in the line of duty.

According to the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Fund, on average, one law enforcement officer is killed somewhere in America nearly every other day. The first known officer killed on duty occurred in 1794, when U.S. Marshal Robert Forsyth was shot and killed.

Since then, the memorial fund reports, more than 14,000 officers have died while performing their duties. New York City has lost more officers than any other department with more than 500 deaths. The state with the highest number of police deaths is California with more than 1,200.

This compares to Vermont, which has had only 15 officers killed.

New Mexico has had 102 officers killed in the line of duty.

Lincoln County certainly has had its share of those officers who have made the ultimate sacrifice protecting the residents who live here.

According to a book put out by the New Mexico Department of Public Safety, "New Mexico's Finest," Lincoln County has lost 11 officers in its history.

We provide the following list, taken from that book, to commemorate National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Week.

A word of thanks to opposition legislators

To the editor:

I would like to publicly thank the 15 Republican legislators who overcame ideological differences and united with Democrats to pass a budget that includes adequate funding for public education. By contrast, Gov. (Gary) Johnson's vetoes of previously submitted budgets and insistence on vouchers forced a special session at a cost of almost $700,000 to the taxpayers. Rep Dub Williams, himself a dedicated former public educator, regrettably agreed with the governor rather than the schools on this.

Whatever the merits of vouchers elsewhere, it is clear that the people and educators of New Mexico and Lincoln County are not in favor of depleting public education resources in favor of private schools. Indeed, the governor's proposal would have cost the already strapped public schools over $100 million, while providing no benefit to communities such as ours, which rely entirely on public education.

Although the current bipartisan budget can withstand a veto, it is hoped that Governor Johnson will nevertheless sign it and show his support for the men, women and children who depend on public education. Thank you to those legislators who have already shown that support

Politicians, growth, and why it continues

To the editor:

County

It seems that we live in a village whose politicians, planning and zoning committee, the mayor, council and chamber of commerce are so consumed with "growth" that they are willing to do anything to try to accomplish that objective....

They ... entered into a deal which they traded the airport for a golf course that has yet to make any financial contribution... Yes, the old airport was dangerous and needed to be relocated. ... No major air-line came to take advantage of the white elephant built on For Stanton Mesa at a cost of tens of millions of dollars. So the politicians decided, at taxpayers cost, to subsidize small regional airlines. After the subsidies expired these ... airlines immediately dropped Ruidoso...

Now comes the new hotel. The mayor and council, in defiance of innkeepers who have invested their own money without subsidies, say that this new hotel will contribute to growth." Therefore, a sweetheart deal with long-term tax relief, other subsidies, and taxpayer, support...is justified... Worse, innkeepers will be forced to subsidize a large competitor...

The drive for growth at all costs was very apparent to me when P&Z and council approved all requested variances in a Hubbard development in the White Mountain area...despite certain legal objections and a signature petition from all of the home owners in the affected area...

...They are asking (us) to approve a continuation of the supplemental gross receipts tax to fund a new bond issue for water infrastructure. Yes, we do need to approve this request... However, it does seem incredible that (with these water problems) our village leaders continue to be obsessed with "growth."

...It is my hope that the other residents share my feelings and will also make their voices heard on this important for all the paradistacal reasons. But ladies and gentlemen, there is a mean little problem in our pine-covered paradise, and it has nothing to do with people or even politicians. It's called "dwarf mistletoe."

It's an integral part of nature, of course. But that dwarf mistletőe is miserable stuff that pops out of ponderosa pine limbs and trunks for all the world like some excrescence from a botanical hell.

It attacks our majestic trees with glee; it spits its seed for yards and infects other ponderosas, large and small. It weakens the trees like the HIV virus weakens human beings and likewise, as best we can tell, has as little redeeming virtue.

You've seen the stuff, certainly. It makes gross masses on the crowns of trees that have withstood wind and fire for hundreds of years. It imbeds itself in tender young seedlings and those skinny teen-age trees trying to find light and air in our over-crowded forest.

Winds sweep the seeds far from home-base and they delight in attacking new neigh/ borhoods. Nobody has figured out how to kill it.

Beware the dwarf mistletoe, undoubtedly the ugliest of vipers in our forest.

But remember, it attacks only the ponderosa. And therein is our salvation. It doesn't attack fir or juniper, and leaves deciduous trees strictly alone.

Does anybody know any mistletoe vigilantes?

GUEST COMMENTARY

The bond issue: It all boils down to water

ROBERT P. DONALDSON RUIDOSO MAYOR

Some are asking why do we need to vote to continue the one percent gross receipt tax when we just raised water rates? The answer is operational costs versus capital improvement costs. The recent increase in water rates, the first in 18 years, brought our revenues for the operation of the water system in balance with the costs of running the department. It, however, does not cover the costs of the improvements and replacements our system needs. The water rates we pay now produce $1.7 million. Our cost of operations has risen from $1,659,159 1994 in $3,503,680, in 1998. The supplemental gross receipt tax we are voting on makes up the difference. Some of the increase in costs are due to the increase in line replacements we are doing within the operation budget (average: $500,00 a year). Most is due to the increases in federal clean water standards being imposed on our communities.

There are new standards coming again in the summer of 2000 that will cause us to have to spend approximately $4 million over the next five years to upgrade our water treatment plants to meet those new standards. Most of this is in our Alto Crest water treatment lion. That was spent on buildplant, which is now 20 years old. We need to replace an additional 59 miles of 2-inch water lines, which include 30 miles of 2-inch lines that are 25 years old or older. We are proposing to spend over $300,000 a year for the next 20 years just for this improvement. This replacement is the most important as it has been determined that this is the area of greatest leakage within our system as well as the most important to provide adequate fire protection.

We have used five bonds in the past, paid from various revenue sources, to fund improvements to our system. In 1969, we floated a joint water and sewer revenue bond for $450,000 and $2,850,000 for the construction of Grindstone Lake and the dam. These bonds are paid with the tax we are voting to extend. They payoff in 2003 and 2002 respectively. In 1987, we did another utility revenue bond that we refunded with a 1995 utility revenue bond for $1,270,000. This was primarily for the development of the water rights and well field in the North Fork of Eagle Creek. This bond pays off in 2009. The last bond we did for water was a 1995 general obligation bond (paid with property taxes) for $2 miling the Grindstone Treatment Plant ($587,915), the Grindstone decant basins ($337,906), the Grindstone water main ($154,670) and approximately six mile of 2-inch water line replacements (over $1 million).

Over the next 20 years our water master plan is proposing expenditures of $200,000 to reorganize and improve our water rights. Depending upon the success of this, up to $2 million for the purchase of water rights on the Ruidoso River System may be needed. We need to spend $6 million for 2-inch waterline replacement, as stated before, $4 million for water treatment plant upgrades and $2,300,000 for additional treated water storage around town. Las is on miscellaneous items such as backup systems, new lines to connect different parts on town, etc. This is proposed at $1.5 million. The 20-year need of our system is projected today at $16 million. The master plan details the specific improvements and when they should be done to best meet our communities needs.

These needs are "REAL," The costs are "REAL." Some may feel that we are threaten-

Voting 'No' to the bonds

To the Editor:

The Village Administration's recent mailing to Ruidoso voters asking that a 5 million dollar-water bond election was severely damaged by a threat "to increase water rates if the bond election fails." We taxpayers don't appreciate threats.

The bond issue involved is the Grindstone bonds of 1983 where, after fully informing the public as to just how and why the bond money would be spent, the bond issue passed. it was intimated that the tax would be removed after 20 years. Now, in 2003 the bond expires and we could reduce the sales tax involved. It would make sense to continue the tem if the administration would furnish a defailed plan of just how the bond money will be spent. To say "for water improvements" is not enough. The state is made that Ruidoso's water leakage (loss) is 25 percent to 30 percent. This is interesting since a few years ago the leakage had been reduced to 12 percent to 15 percent. Since most of the council have been aboard for more than four years is this increase in leakage been neglected by the present Council?

Starting with the last Council election it is difficult to find any Village service where rates have not increased. Water, trash, sewer, impact, standby permits — all have been considered, implemented, improvement in service. Current water bills bring in more than one million additional dollars each year and the Mayor and Council have done little to explain where this additional money has gone. Communication is lacking and locks on the Village Hall with new rules limiting attendance at Council meetings is not helpful.

I will vote "No" in the May 18th bond election. Until I know more about how my taxes are being spent'I have no other choice.

J.A. "Al" Junge E & O.E. Ruidoso

ing to raise water rates just to get people to vote for the tax and bonds. Unfortunately, this is not a threat but a reality. The money our system needs will have to be raised somewhere. Personally, I believe our 1 percent gross receipt tax for water system improvements, is the fairest method, as our visitors participate in the funding for their use of our system during their time in ruidoso. I do not believe it is prudent to raise our base rate by approximately $20 a month or to use property tax raises annually. While the tax will cover most of our capital costs, I honestly cannot tell you that water rates will not go up some over the years. As the federal government keeps raising the amount of tests that we must do, costs of operation will rise. We should be able to keep those increases to a bare minimum though. When we raised water rates in 1998, we did place an inflation adjustment on the base rate which should deal with future inflationary pressures.

This is "OUR" water system. We have allowed our officials over the years to spend water money on many things. We even probably wanted the things that they used it on. We will never allow that to happen again. By law now, we have set it up that water collections can only be used for water, just as by state statute, the supplemental grose receipt tax can only be spent on the capital improvement of our water system, period. You have the choice in how we, as Ruidoso residents, are going to pay for these needed improvements. I ask you to vote "YES" to both questions on Tuesday, May 18. Vote "YES" for the commitment to our first long-term plan for the development and improvement of "OUR" water system.

Sincerely, Robert P. Donaldson Mayor, Ruidoso

Proposed Upper Canyon Fire Station downsized

Plans for a new fire station in the Upper Canyon are being scaled back after construction bids came in at $30,000 or more above available funding, Village Manager Alan Briley said.

The village will again to go out for bids on the station, delaying its construction schedule of a late July or early August completion.

Briley said the village could possibly award a construction bid by late June. Based on the time scheduled previously for the construction, are needed to build the station the fire station would be find ished in late September or early October.

Briley said architects are reducing the project to $130,000, part of a $160,000 state grant last year for the station. About $30,000 was spent acquiring land for the fire station.

Architects had prepared two pages of possible cost reductions for a total of $17,000, Briley said. But more reductions within budget, he said.

Councilor Bob Sterchi, in this week's council session, asked Briley why the village did not receive more than five construction bids for the project. Briley said construction companies gave several reasons for not wanting to bid, including they are too busy or they did not want to meet the village's réquirements for bonding, insurance or employee wage rates.

VIIIAGE NEWS

Memorial Day services

Both the villages of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs have proclaimed next week Veterans Appreciation Week.

On May 29, State Rep. Dub Williams, R-Glencoe, will speak at Memorial Day services at 10:30 a.m. in the Merchant Marine and Military Cemetery in Fort Stanton. The cemetery's centennial is this year, said Victor Schearer, a coordinator of the services.

The main speaker scheduled will be Tom Stewart, Lincoln County manager and a former colonel in the U.S. military. A Ruidoso High School student, Katie Armstrong, is to play the National Anthem. Local cub scout groups are expected to place American flags on graves at the cemetery.

Water conservation plan

Ruidoso Village Manager Alan Briley said this week the village is still in phase one of its water conservation plan/Under this phase, the least restrictive in the plan, outdoor watering is prohibited between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Briley said village officials are not patrolling to ensure people do not water during the day. But blatant violators, such as those who run water until it flows down the road, will be issued a warning, Briley said.

Yard waste pickup

More Ruidoso village employees as well as four village paid contractors are at work collecting a backlog of pine needles piled in front of homes, Village Manager Alan Briley said.

Briley asked residents not tobag pine needles or other yard waste. Crews have to empty the bags, which slows down the collection process, he said.

Zoning dispute postponed

A zoning dispute regarding a day care center for developmentally disabled adults was postponed Tuesday at the request of attorneys involved, village officials said.

Casa Alegre's application to operate the center in a residentially zoned neighborhood was rescheduled for the May 25 session of the Ruidoso Village Council.

Neighbors are opposing the center, saying it violates both zoning regulations and restricted covenants. Proponents of the center say the opposition is based on prejudice of the center's clients.

Repeal of collective bargaining ordinance

Ruidoso village councilors scheduled June 8 for a possible repeal of an ordinance allowing collective bargaining with union employees.

The ordinance corresponds with a legislative action that allows collective bargaining but sunsets June 30. If it is not revived during the legislative special session, then Ruidoso's ordi-nance would be repealed.

DOWNS MEETING

Ruidoso Downs village trustees will hold their final workshop on the village's preliminary $3.5 million 1999-2000 fiscal year budget at 5:30 p.m. Monday. The workshop is open to the public.

The $3.5 million expenditure budget, which starts July 1, includes federal and state brecht said.

grants the village is to receive in the 1999-2000 fiscal year, Village Clerk/Treasurer Leann Weihbrecht said.

Total projected 1999-2000 revenues for the village are $2.9 million, but the village will start the year with a cash balance of $2.3 million, Weih-

The budget is about $250,000 more than the final 1998-1999 budget approved by the council last year. That budget increased by about 30 percent from the 1997-1998 budget of about $2.2 million, largely be cause of increased revenues from gross receipts taxes collected by the Wal-Mart Super Center.

This is the third glass door owner Dennis Johnston has had to replace within the last month, he said. The doors cost $150 each and New Mexico Glass is making a fortune off us," Johnston said.

The first time, unknown suspects shot a glass door with a pellet gun or a BB gun; the second time, unknown suspects cut the phone wires and a glass door was broken.

We haven't had a detective down here talking to us yet," Johnston said. "He hasn't even called us or come down to see what happened ... and he didn't take fingerprints."
Ruidoso Police Lt. Wolf

Born said the patrol officer took the report and there was nothing to go on, but the case is still open. He said there were no suspects because Johnston did not offer names of possible former employees who might have been disgruntled.

Financial records taken

Financial records from three local businesses were reported taken between 8 a.m. April 29 and 5 p.m. May 6, police report.

Eight months of financial records of Ruidoso T-shirt Outlet, 2607 Sudderth Drive, and financial records from T-shirt Outlet, 2508 Sudderth Drive, and Mountain Sun T-shirt Shop, 2404 Sudderth Drive were missing.

Murial Apodaca, according to police records, owns the T shirt shop. Apodaca reported to police that a former employee may have taken the records but refused to give the name of the employee.

DWI arrest

Steven Messmore, 35, of Ruidoso was arrested May 13 and charged with aggravated DWI and resisting, evading or obstructing an officer. Messmore did not have a license and told police he was driving his girlfriend home. The passenger, Valerie Pena, 29, of Ruidoso, was also arrested and charged with resisting and obstructing an officer.

Vehicle stolen and found

New Mexico State Police and Ruidoso police recovered a stolen vehicle minutes after it was reported stolen, according to State Police Officer Jose Salazar. The call came in at 9:41 p.m. May 12 that a car had been stolen, and police found it about 10 p.m.

The vehicle, a 1990 Pontiac Bonneville, had been unlocked with the keys left in the ignition at the time it was stolen, according to police reports. State police officers located the vehicle at Johnson's Store in Alto several miles north of Ruidoso's jurisdiction on Highway 48, and called Ruidoso police in. The officers saw the vehicle and the juvenile suspect, who fled into the wood. He was not found after an extensive search, the report states.

Police dusted the vehicle for prints and towed it to the Ruidoso Police Department for further observation. A backpack was found in the vehicle that did not belong to the owner of the car, and inside was a certificate of academic achievement from Ruidoso Middle School and a copy of "The Anarchist's Cookbook." The suspect had been reported missing by a guardian earlier that day.

Service provides visitors tips on how to prevent forest fires

The Lincoln National Forest is asking those who plan to visit the forest this summer to take extra precautions to prevent wildfires.

Each year, according to the forest service, hikers, mountain bikers, backpackers, campers, anglers, off-road vehicle riders, and others start wildfires in the southwest that. bun thousands of acres and cost millions of taxpayer dollars to suppress.

These blazes hurt both the environment and the economy as they burn important wildlife habitat, prime recreation facilities, and valuable natural resources. The impacts of major person-caused wildfires for years, even decades and can permanently change the way the National Forest System land is managed for future public use.

Lincoln National Forest fire prevention experts encourage people to take a few simple precautions to prevent wild-

Ruidoso board adopts school calendar

Eighth-grade 'Knowledge Masters' recognized in internation competition

BY DIANNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Ruidoso students will start Christmas vacation at mid-day Dec., 17, under a school year calendar approved by the Ruidoso School Board.

A calendar committee recommended moving the vacation back a half week to Dec, 23 to provide time off in January in case computers crash and the school district shuts down because of any Y2K problems.

But board members rejected the suggestion Tues-

Committee members already readjusted the calendar based on remarks from school board members last month.

They upped the starting date for the school year from Aug. 17 to Aug. 16 for teachers and from Aug. 18 to Aug. 17, a Tuesday, for students.

They eliminated a holiday on Columbus Day. But they left the extra days off in January as leeway.

School Board Member Jackie Branum brought up the days before Christmas and was backed by Member Frank Sayner.

"Two days wouldn't make that much differénce," Branum said.

Two teachers stood up to add input, saying their students mentally aren't in class the week before Christmas anyway.

They pushed for the days off to be switched to before Christmas, starting with a half day, Friday, Dec. 17. and students returning Tuesday, Jan. 4.

Sayner made the mo-Hemphill abstained, saying he had no opinion.

"You can't abstain," board member Susan Lutterman said. "Good gosh."

But when the board realized the motion started the vacation with Monday, Dec. 20, Hemphill jumped in with another motion for the half day off on Dec. 17, which passed unanimously.

He added that even though board members didn't follow the calendar committee's recommendations, they appreciated the time and work of the committee, which contacted teachers at district schools for input.

Other dates of note on the calendar include two days off for Easter, April 21 and 24, spring break the week of March 20-24, and the last day of school, a half day on May 26.

In other action, the school board:

· Recommended rehiring, but delayed action until funding is verified, for Hightower, Lisa Steve Porter, Sharni Durham ad Andrea Nieto.

 Accepted the resignations of Ruidoso Middle School teacher Jeanne Jackson, whose husband is being transferred to Neva-

The board also accepted Member / Rona Athe resignation of Nob Hill instructional assistant Monica Diaz and Gavilan Canyon School instruction assistant J.B. White.

Approved the retirements of White Mountain Elementary teacher Cindy Morgan after more than 15 years with the district and the retirement of instructional assistants Viola Montes after 20 years at White Mountain intermediate and Libby Sears at White Mountain Elemen-

Recognized the accomplishments of the threemember Knowledge Master's Open team that took first place in the state. beating out 12 other school teams.

The eighth graders are Collin Leslie, Adrian Salas and Adriana Robledo and they attend Ruidoso Middle School. The team scored 1,334 of 2,000 possible points.

"We've always been neck-and-neck with Hoover Middle school from Albuquerque," said academic coach Diorly Stierwalt, who also was named Teacher of the Year locally. "In the fall, Hoover took first place with a score of 1,405, but this competition, we beat them by two points."

Recognized teacher Carla Burns for being selected to receive the 1998 Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics Science Teaching, and which includes a $7,500 grant to be used for the classroom.

 Heard that Lisa Vasquez received a $3,000 Dream Team Fund Grant from the Center for Teaching Excellence.

This is Vasquez' fifth action research grant for a total of about $14,000.

Capitan prepares to build

The Capitan School Board officially approved the passage of the $2 million bond issue and the notice of bond sale Thursday at their first meeting after the Tuesday public vote.

The bond company, George K. Baum Investment Bankers, will advertise to investors that Capitan Municipal School District has $2 million of bonds to sell June 10, said Superintendent of Schools Diana Billingsley.

Voters approved the bond issue 365 to 207 Tuesday. The district will use the bond to build six additional classrooms, an elementary library, a music room, and address safety problems on campus, including relocating the traffic and bus drop-off lane to the exterior of the campus.

Billingsley called the architect, Greg Hicks and Associates of Albuquerque immediately after the votes were counted and he started the preliminary drawings, she said. The drawings will be done in "several weeks," she said, then the board can send out the requests for proposals for contractors and construction companies.

"Ground work should start July 1 on the bys lane and new parking areas with projected completion mid-August to the end of August," Billingsley said. The plans for the buildings will take longer, but she said it is hoped that the building construction will begin in August and be complete by August of 2000.

'Top' students shine on TV

Top seniors from around the state will be on television this summer as a salute to "all the good kids out there," said a television spokesperson.

The Albuquerque Eyewitness News 4 "Top of the Class" program treated top students to a day at the Rio Grande Zoo May 6 and filmed them in groups with the animals and anchors, said Becky Jakus, public affairs director for the station.

"We're trying to highlight positive kids and positives in our society," Jakus said. "We haven't done it in five years and it seems like there's such a need of showing the positive side of kids."

Promotional spots of 15 to 30 seconds of the students will run from June 1 until school starts in the fall, she said. The television station sent letters out to all the high schools in New Mexico, and 75 high schools sent their top seniors.

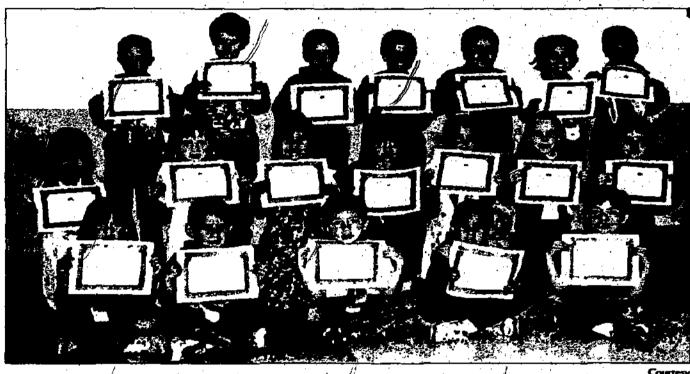

Students who participated also received a certificate declaring them "Top of the Class," a T-shirt and coupons.

"They ask for the school to send one person they consider 'top of the class," said Ruidoso High School Counselor Linda Hawthorne. She said the students were chosen by school staffs because they were invested in community and school affairs, not only academics but also service."

The following students were "Top of the Class" and can be seen on Channel 4:

Erica Oxford, Ruidoso High School; Amanda Bird, Capitan High School; Amanda Peso, Mescalero High School.

Blessed with a week of perfect practice weather and filled with great expectations, the Ruidoso track teams headed to Albuquerque Thursday for the two-day Class AAA State Track Chamminishins.

Three field events finals and mostly preliminary running events start at 11 a.m. today at the University of New Mexico Track and Field Stadium. The state meet concludes Saturday with competition beginning that day at 8:30 a.m.

"We had a good week of work," Ruidoso coach Ronny Maskew said while he was loading up the team's equipment Thursday morning. "I think we'll run well and jump well. The kids are ready to go."

Nine Warrior girls will represent Ruidoso in 12 events and eight Warrior boys will represent Ruidoso in 12 events.

Leading Ruidoso girls is junior Amber Green, who will try to defend her triple jump title and repeat as high point girl for Class AAA. Maskew said Green "has a good to repeat" as the girls leading point getter. She's entered in four events: the 200- and 400-meter dashes and the long and triple jumps.

All four of the Warrior girl relay teams made it to the state meet. Ruidoso's best chance appears to be the 1600-meter relay of Monica Maldonado, Jayme Paxton, Leah Miller and Green. The Warriors have the sixth-fastest time of 4 minutes, 10.71 seconds in the state. They'll be in the fastest of two preliminary heats today, trying to qualify for Saturday's finals.

plans set for his 1999 State Champiplans set for his 1999 State Champitonship boys golf team. In June, the Warriors begin the defense of their title with a trip to Farmington where they'll play the course that will host next year's state championship.

"We're going to go up and play Farmington a time or two," Wall said.

Wail has another reason to be concerned with the Farmington course. It's the home course of Piedra Vista, the early favorite to give Ruidoso a run for its money next year.

Like the Warriors, Piedra Vista returns most of its top golfers.

Ruidoso will welcome back five of its top six linksters, losing only Swiss exchange student Andy Ahlm.

Two days after his team won its state championship this decade, Wall still was raving about the Warriors' team play.

"Last year we had to depend on Ben (Andrews) to shoot in the low 70s or high 60s to be competitive, but this year were more solid from top to bottom." Wall said.

One Capitan Tiger track performed at the May Class AA State Track Championships. The other, well, fumbled away any hopes to bring home a trophy.

The Capitan girls turned in some of their best efforts of the year en route to an 11th-place team finish.

and then we just crumbled," Capitan coach Ed Davis said. "It affected us the rest of the day."

The bobbled exchanges, both on the far turn, happened to a relay team that entered the state meet with the fastest time in Class AA.

But that relay didn't even make it to the finals.

"I'm not going to make any excuses. We didn't perform. We made a major boo-boo and it hurt us." Davis said.

"I use the saying, Grab a (tree) root and growl, and we didn't."

Davis' team, which he had expected to score in 20s, managed only eight points for an 18th-place team finish.

James Tacey returned with Capitan's highest finish, a third-place in the 200-meter dash. Tacey touched the tape in 22.9 seconds, his fastest time of the spring.

The Capitan girls, however, performed well enough to garner the praise of their coach Bryan Massé.

"I was real pleased with the medley and mile relays and Jessica Castaneda's half mile and mile runs because those were our best times of the year," Massé said. "It was real satisfying that we ran better on

Helpful hints on how to take care of your lawn and garden

Yard & Garden is a column from the Plant Science Department of NMSU's Cooperative Extension Service that answers questions about how to care for your garden and landscape. It is written by Curtis W. Smith, Extension horticulture specialist.

Dying spruce needles

Question: The tips of my spruces are dead and shriveled - not drastically, but each tree shows some sign. What causes this and how can I treat it?

Answer: There are a number of things that could cause this problem. One is the presence of the spruce bud worm, but you should see some webbing and frass, perhaps even the worm. There are products labeled for use in control of this

This year I have seen a lot of dried, bronzed or brown needles at the tips and interior needles of spruce trees. Factors causing a lot of this include the rather dry winter.

In addition to being dry for a good part of the winter in many places, it was rather warm as well. If there is little moisture in the soil ander these conditions, needles will be damaged.

The places where the needle damage is the worst, however, are where de-icing salt was used during the infrequent snow and ice periods. As the salt melted the ice, the salt and ice mixture permeated the soil and entered the spruce root zone. De-icing salts, especially those containing sodium chloride, are damaging to spruce trees.

It may be possible to leach the salts from the root zone by slow, deep watering to dissolve the salts and wash them below the majority of the absorbing roots of the spruce. This should be done infrequently so that the root zone doesn't remain waterlogged. When watering, water very deeply, allowing the water to slowly soak into the soil, then let it dry between irrigations.

Transplant forsythia

Question: I have a forsythia that was planted too close to our walkway. I have to radically cut it back each year so it doesn't block the entrance to our front door.

Can it be transplanted to an area of the yard where it can display its full beauty?

Answer: Now is not a good time to transplant forsythia in all but northern most New Mexico and high elevations. Once the buds have begun swelling, delay transplanting until late next fall or in the winter when the plant is dormant.

In anticipation of such a move, you can root prune the shrub this year by digging a narrow trench a couple of feet from the base of the plant. This cuts the roots.

Then refill the trench with a good compost and soil mixture. This provides a good medium for growth of new roots from the cut roots. When you transplant the shrub, dig it just outside this area of improved soil so that you have new, young, vigorous roots with the transplanted shrub.

Finally, to be practical, if it is essential to move the shrub now because it is in the way, you can

There will be greater transplant shock. With greater transplant shock, the shrub will be slower to establish in a new location and take longer to become the beautiful shrub that it is capable of becoming in a large enough area.

Greater transplant shock increases the chance that the shrub will die. If it is necessary to move it now, use good planting techniques and be sure to provide adequate water with a brief drying period between irrigations.

Injured tomatoes

Question: I planted some tomatoes early and on cold nights I covered them with clear plastic. One day I noticed that the leaves at the op of the plant had turned black. What happened? The rest of the plant looked okay.

Answer: It is very likely that it got cold enough to damage the plants only where the leaves touched the plastic.

The plastic works by forming a film of water on its under surface. This film of water reflects the infrared (heat) energy being radiated from the soil so it is not lost to the atmos-

Those leaves touching the plastic were less protected and were exposed to the temperatures experienced by the upper surface of the plastic, which probably fell below freeing.

The lower parts of the plants were in the air kept warmer by the heat retained by the film of water.

The plant should not be severely injured by this. If the tip of the plant (the growing point) was injured, then new growth will need to develop from a bud lower on the plant. That will slow growth a little but should not result in permanent injury to the plant.

Try to use some material to keep the upper leaves from being in contact with the plastic, especially on cold nights.

Another possibility is that you removed the plastic a little too late one morning and the leaves were sunburned. However, it is more likely in that situation that the heat would accumulate under the plastic and the whole plant would be injured.

Removing ivy

Question: I was wondering if you could tell me the best way to get rid of ivy. I'd like to re-do the landscaping in my back yard but I am afraid that the ivy will grow

Answer: There are two types of ivy - deciduous ivy and evergreen ivy, and you didn't indicate which type/you are describing. This will have some effect on/your options.

If you prefer not to use chemicals (herbicides), you can dig the ivy to remove it. It does n't matter which type of ivy in this case. It is a good idea to dig and screen the soil through a one-half or three-quarter-inch hardware cloth mesh to remove stems so that you do not get regrowth.

If you prefer to use the chemicals rather than the digging, you can use any of several of the broad-leaf herbicides that translocate through the plant. Be certain to choose which is labeled for the plant you are trying to remove. However, these may have residual soil activity and will require that you wait for a while before you can plant in the soil again. Glyphosatebased herbicide is also translocated and not specific to only broad-leafed plants. It does not have soil activity (it must be absorbed through the leaves to be effective), and you may plant again 10 days or so after treatment. If you choose to use herbicides, be sure to read and follow all directions. The waxy leaf surface of older leaves on some ivy may prevent absorption of the chemical, so plants with new tender growth are more likely to be affected. If the ivy you are trying to remove is Virginia Creeper or another deciduous ivy, you will need to wait until it has formed leaves.

Following use of the herbicide, it is a good idea to dig up much of what remains just to get it out of the way. Then water well and see if there is any regrowth. If there is regrowth, dig it or reapply the herbicide.

Devin Marshall

has been selling real estate since 1984 and owned her own company prior to moving to Ruidoso. This UNM graduate has four children. Her husband is pastor of the Calvary Chapel. They enjoy people and travel. Devin considers herself a problem solver rather than a sales person.

"I meet each customer or client on a personal level and together we accomplish their specific goals. I try to find out what their heart's desire is."

Charlotta Stewart

Though new to CENTURY 21 Aspen Real Estate, she is not a newcomer to Ruidoso. The New Mexico native moved to Ruidoso in 1975 with husband Greq and their son. Charlotta is a licenced building contractor.

" I can relate to the emotions of moving and feel that as a REALTOR I can help make the transition a little easier. I also understand the thrill of moving here and finding just the right house that reflects the character and personalities of those living here."

Ruidoso News

It's a peaceful landscape at the Carrizozo Municipal Airport. But that's one of the attractions for manager Bill Hayes, who likes it that way.

The sign marking the county seat's airport says from there you can make "connections to all world points." But the airport's manager (and total staff) has found a different kind of connection: First-name friendship with a whole community.

Sign in the lobby of the Carrizozo Municipal Airport:

When I grow up I want to be a pilot because it's a fun job and easy to do. That's why there are so many pilots flying around these days. Pilots don't need much school, they just have to learn to read numbers so they can read their instruments. I guess they should be able to read road maps, too, so they can find their way if they get lost. Pilots should be brave so won't get scared if it's foggy and they can't see or if a wing or motor falls off they should stay calm so they'll know what to do. Pilots have to clouds and they can't be afraid of thunder and lightning because they are so much closer to them than we are. The salary pilots make is another thing I like. They make more money/than they know what to do with. That is because most people think that plane flying is dangerous except pilots don't because they know how easy it is."

Why I Want to Be a Pilot, formmy Tyler, 5th grade, South Carolina BY MARTY RACINE RUIDOSO NEWS CORRESPONDENT

ARRIZOZO — The lobby is a beehive of inactivity: a row of empty seats, no one behind the counter. Behind it is a charcoal grill and a bird feeder and an overturned bicycle.

Before they moved away, a couple used the runway to walk their dogs, and rattlesnakes have been known to sun themselves out there. A Rottweiler has taken up residence and the manager's duties include mowing the lawn.

Other than that, Carrizozo Municipal is just your typical airport.

Maintaining this airstrip, built in the 1970s, is real living for a man who loves airplanes and dislikes crowds. Such a man is Bill Hayes.

"T've had worse jobs," he says.

The low-key Hayes arrived two years ago after answering an ad. The airport needed a manager. He'd have to pump gas and read the weather and keep the windows clean and answer the phone, maybe chat with the tourists who drop by, that sort of stuff. In addition, says Hayes, "I'm not afraid to drive the tractor and drag the mower around."

Oh, and another thing: A pilot and a mechanic with a statewide reputation. "I was the only one who applied that knew anything about airplanes."

The contract provides a rent-free house behind the lobby, where the manager tends to his birds.

"It's kinda neat when they're migrating. The hummingbirds are now coming. They keep the flies and bugs

Hayes grew up in California's Silicon Valley and was mechanical from the time he can remember. "I had greasy fingernails in diapers," he says.

In 1980 he left a job in California making "big money" as an airplane mechanic and came to Santa Fe, where he worked at the airport for 16 years. He thus met a number of Hollywood

They'd charter their own planes. Elizabeth Taylor, I helped her load her baggage. She seemed like a normal person, I never bugged them or asked them for autographs."

It's just a tad different in this desert oasis known more for its railroad. Living alone, Hayes has the airport to himself - the dream of any kid who ever assembled/a model airplane – along with the covotes and foxes and jackrabbits. Apart from a train whistle or the stray German Tornado jet fighter, the only soundtrack (if it's not windy) comes courtesy of the trucks grinding down Highway 54.

And within two weeks of his arrival everybody in town knew who he was.

"I was on a first-name basis with the mayor and council. I didn't have that in Santa Fe,"

The airport is private, available to any licensed pilot. About eight people, most from around the county, keep their planes here.

"If somebody plans to use the airport, usually I'll hear 'em on the radio, on the aviation band," Hayes says. "It's an uncontrolled airport so they don't even have to do that." Upon take-off, Hayes will relay a traffic report and weather particulars, primarily wind speed and direction, if the pilot so requests. "Clearance for takeoff is up to the pilot. I can't order them around; I talk to them strictly as an advisory."

Kecently a large black dog wandered into the airport. The dog had a red collar with a rope attached and he liked to chase things and lick people. The manager called the pound.

"I knew he belonged to somebody, so I let the dog-catcher pick him up. The dog-catcher tried to wrestle him into the cage. I said just open the back door and let him in. He jumped right in. Friendly

"Took him to the pound. No one claimed him. After a week they called me, 'Still want the dog?' "

His name is A.D., which stands for Airport Dog. At the moment, Airport Dog is chewing a piece of PVC pipe that he assumes is a bone as Hayes rolls under a 1960-something Bellanca to inspect its wings. The wood construction causes them to contract in the dry climate and, says the mechanic, "a lot of stuff that's bolted to it starts to get loose. So I'm going around tightening it Airport Dog (A. P. for short) has become Hayes' companion and helper since arriving recently.

In order to access a particular bolt or peer inside the wing with an inspection mirror he does "surgery" on the outer fabric, making an incision with a razor blade.

It's pretty much hollow (inside). It's all glued, what I'm looking for is cracks in the glue joints."

Such an operation is not necessarily vital to a safe aircraft, says Hayes. Rather, it's mechanic's pride. "It's a matter of what makes me happy."

Happiness unto contentment is apparent as Haves shuffles about the hangar smoking a cigar, selecting tools and tossing a tennis ball for A.D.

"I'm not making a killing," he says. "I'm making payments. If I wanted to be making a lot of money I'd be working for American or United. Working wherever the hell they put you. Like Minneapolis.

"I like it here. You can see 50, 60 miles. I don't have to dress up, I don't have a dozen employees I worry about feeding."

No, just the birds.

A mechanic's pride helps keep this 30-something-year-old airplane flying. Hayes' skills are in demand around the state. He's met something-year-old airplane flying. Hayes' skills are in demand around the state. He's met something-year-old airplane flying.

The seminars are to provide information and strategies that are commonly used to achieve specific objectives. The intent of the seminars is to promote the process of planning, according to David Iverson with Northwestern Mutual Life.

Presenters include Iverson: Marion Ledford, a certified public accountant of Alamogordo; Lyle Wood, a Las Cruces attorney specializing in estate tax planning; and Don Van Winkle, president and owner of Van Winkle's IGA in Alamogordo.

Disaster loans available

Businesses in Lincoln County have until May 24 to file applications for low-interest disaster loans from the. U.S. Small Business Administration.

The loans are available for businesses dependent on farmers and ranchers sustaining crop losses due to the drought between Jan. 1 and Aug. 5, 1998. Farmers and ranchers are not eligible for these SBA loans; however, nurseries that are victims of drought disasters can apply. For applica-tions and more information, call the SBA at (800) 366-6303 or (817) 267-4688 for the hearing impaired.

The loans are intended to assist businesses in offsetting working capital losses suffered as a result of the severe weather. Small businesses claiming to have been physically injured by the weather are not eligible."

If a customer doesn't see a particular flavor of pie at the Flaky Crust, one of two new pie shops in midtown Ruidoso, all they have to do

"We will fix anything someone asks us to ilk ii we don't have it," said Cheryl Blanchard, co-owner of the new business at Le Claire's Mountain V/llage shopping

She and her husband Pete opened the shop in mid-April. They also are the owners of the Texas House Cafe and Steakhouse, which is where they got the idea for a had so many requests (for pie) at the restaurant," Cheryl Blanchard said. "And we sold so many of them we just decided there was a need for this."

So far, response has been great, especially from residents, she said. "We love the out-of-town traffic, but we cater to the locals.'

The pies, sold by the slice or whole, are made from recipes handed down from her mother, a former restaurateur. Pie varieties include all the standards: chocolate meringue, cherry, apple, key lemon meringue. pecan, banana creme, coconut creme and pumpkin. Customers also may try a butterscotch, cherry creme or buttermilk chess pie.

The Blanchards' shop also sells frozen Hawaiian juleps, coffee and cappuccino and an assortment of baked goodies such as cheesecake, cobbler, fried pies, cookies, brownies and cakes.

"We always have something different," Cheryl Blanchard said. For instance, on Wednesday, she was offering fresh cream puffs. On another day, the special item might be homemade cinnamon rolls, she said.

The shop also will create special-occasion cakes, such as for weddings and birthdays, she said.

There is one standard cake that draws more attention than anything else at the Flaky Crust: The Pig Pickin' Cake.

"It has nothing to do with a pig actually," she / said, adding that in North Carolina the cake is typically served at barbecues, which are often called pig pickin's.

But everyone asks me what that pig pickin' cake is all about," she said.

• The Pie Pantry's two owners have 33 years of pie-baking experience between them.

BY TONI K. LAXSON RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Pies at the Pie Pantry are made using a combination of heritages — from Janine Sowell' and her partner Lynn Dennis.

While Sowell uses her grandmother's recipes for the the top-selling coconut creme, the crust is from a. recipe handed down through Dennis's family.

My pie crust comes from Arkansas," she said. "Hillbillies make the best pie

One of two pie shops to open last month in midtown Ruidoso, the Pie Pantry is th e first business venture for Sowell and Dennis, who claim a total of 33 years' piebaking experience between

The shop is located in the Timbers Mall and offers patrons - several indoor tables. Besides pies by the slice or whole, the shop sells homemade burritos (made by Tina Greene of Nogal) for $2 each, as well as coffee, tea and milk.

The story behind the shop's origin extends back a couple of years. Sowell, who with Dennis was working as a waitress, made pies on the side for a local Mexican food restaurant where her 18year-old daughter worked. Customers would ask her daughter about the pies and soon Sowell was busy selling, pies out of her home.

"I/couldn't make them fast enough," she said.

She stopped when it was brought to her attention she needed to be properly licensed for the work, Sowell said. But she kept thinking about her own pie shop. When Sowell learned the space in the Timbers Malls was available, she and Dennis decided to take a chance.

Their homemade pies include country apple, cherry, spring peach, key lime, lemon meringue, chocolate mocha, banana creme, French silk, chocolate creme, pecan, buttermilk, and, of course: coconut creme.

"It sells the most. I can't keep enough of it. If I make three pies, someone will come in and buy two," Sowell

The women are betting that locals and tourists alike need a "pfe break" during early afternoons, whether shopping or working.

"Ît's like grandma's kitchen in here," Sowell said as the smell of baking pies permeated the air. "That's the whole theme."

Today's economy: Global chilling to warming...to very hot

BY SUNG WON SOHN WELLS FARGO ECONOMICS

The massive injection of liquidity, coupled with huge budget deficits, is creating economic warming in Asia outside of Japan. Even China claims that economic growth is healthy. The re-flationary efforts in Asía have begun to boost U. s. exports, arrest the slide in commodity prices, raise bond yields and cause leadership changes in the stock market. Asia should brake U. S. economic growth.

The Asian economic warming is not all positive for the U. s. economy. Last year, the massive tax cut in the form of lower import prices form Asia was a boon to the U.S. economy. This year, rising import and commodity prices are equivalent to tax increases. U. S. economic growth is lopsided because 93 percent of it has been coming from the frenzied spending by consumers; there are too many eggs 9in one basket. The booming stock market has supported the red hot consumer spending. Alas, the spectre of rising inflation and interest rates coming from the Asian recovery could hurt stocks and ultimately consumer spending.

Inflation has been in hibernation, but could wake up later this year. Import and commodity prices have bottomed. Corporate profits are looking healthy again, partly because of better economic times abroad. This would be a good excuse for wages to rise faster, given labor shortages from sea to shining sea.

With improving economic trends abroad, economically sensitive stocks are in vogue again. Already, low-tech manufacturers, including ALCOA, Cooper Tires, Caterpillar, Weyerhaeuser, etc., have reported rosy earnings. The sectoral change should continue as the world economy improves and the domestic economy moves full steam ahead.

Ultimately, if Chairman Greenspan takes the punch bowl away, the party is over.

Gentlemen do not prefer bonds. The Asian economic warming is not helping bonds. In the past, a steady diet of good inflation news, the flight to quality and accommodative monetary policy pushed bond prices into the overvalued territory. Now, global economic stabilization, the strong U. S. economy and rising commodity prices, including oil, have raised the probability of a tightening by Chairman Greenspan. # War and peace ounty's violent 'burch is e'

Out of Lincoln County's violent past, the valley's Episcopal Church is established

BY REV. CANON JOHN W. PENN THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN LINCOLN COUNTY

The beginnings of the Episcopal Church in Lincoln County really came about because of the Lincoln County War.

Frank Coe and his cousin, George were "Regulators," who rode with Billy the Kid. Indeed, George had his thumb shot off in the battle of Blazer's Mill.

The cousins eventually decided that departing Lincoln County might be the healthiest move for them to make. And Frank moved to San Juan. County for about a year. While he was ranching in the Four Corners area, he met and married Helena Ann Tully. Helena's father was a Canadian architect whose office had been been destroyed by fire in 1871. The Tully family was Canadian Anglican (same as American Episcopalian) in their religious faith and practice.

After an amnesty was given to the participants in the Lincoln County War, Frank and Helena Coe, moved to Lincoln County where Frank owned some land. They were later joined by Helena's mother, Ann. More land was purchased and the Coe Ranch came into being in the ruidoso

Because of the family's Canadian Anglican Heritage, Episcopal Bishops Kendrick and Howden often stopped by the Coe ranch and held services there. Helena Coe began teaching Sunday school at the ranch for children in the Ruidoso Valley.

In the 1920s, the Rev. F.B. "Ted" Howden, son of the bishop, began holding regular services in the schoolhouse in Glencoe. Father Howden also began a fund to build a chapel. Land was given by the Coe Ranch for the chapel, a noted Santa Fe architect designed it, and in 1933, G.F. Bruns built

The chapel was named St. Anne's after Helena Coe's mother. The construction was native rock with a La Luz tile roof. The chapel was consecrated in 1934 by Bishop F. B. Howden.

n Jr. contin-Father Ho ued to serve Si ne's until he was called to acuve duty in the New Mexico Guard in 1940. He was subsequently sent, to the Philippines where, after the Japanese invasion, he died in prison after having survived the infamous Bataan Death March.

After the war, St. Anne's Chapel was served by several clergy, some of whom were chaplains at Fort Stanton. They would drive the rocky road along Devil's Canyon to hold services at St. Anne.s.

In 1946, a young veteran by the name of Dan Storm applied for and received a license as a lay reader in the Episcopal Church. Storm applied for and received a license as a lay reader in the Episcopal Church. Storm served primarily at St. Anne's for 52 years and would have served longer except for his tragic death from smoke inhalation in December of

In recent years, Robert O. Anderson and his wife, Barbara, have given St. Anne's a much needed storage room complete with bathroom facilities. They have also given a bell tower with two bells named Hugo and Hilda after Anderson's parents.

For many years the door to St. Anne's Chapel now, complete with bell tower.

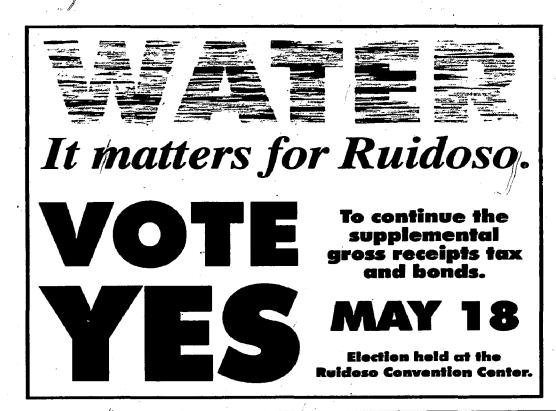

St. Anne's was left unlocked and visitors from all over the world signed the guest book. Sadly, because of vandalism and theft, it is now necessary to lock the doors.

Some people wonder why St. Anne's is located in a pit. It was not always so. Originally, it was built on a low hill. However, U.S. Highway 70 has been built up over the years and it has been necessary to build a retaining wall around St. Anne's and so some wags irreverently describe the chapel as St. Anne's-in-the-Hole.

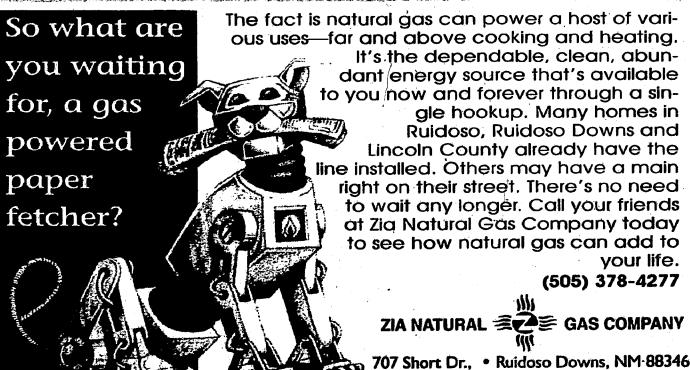

St. Anne's Chapel is now part of the Episcopal Church in Lincoln County, a parish of four locations with the "mother" church being Church of the Holy Mount in Ruidoso. It continues to serve the spiritual needs of a small congregation of valley people and the occasional tourist. Its inside walls are covered with plaques/commemorating the Coes, Tullys, Bonnells and others who have been part of the historic life of this small chapel. Soon, two more plaques will be added that will commemorate the contributions of Dan Storm and his mother, Bertha, who was the St. Anne's organist for many

Who would have known that when Frank Coe was run out of Lincoln County, he would start a chain of events that would bring more than a century of spiritual growth to/ the Ruidoso Valley.

The perfect place to set up shop

story and photos by Dianne Stallings
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of feature stories about the artists participating in the 1999 Lincoln County Art Loop Tour. On Saturday and Sunday, July 10 and 11, 21 Lincoln County artists will open their studio/homes to the public.5

Jewelry designer Zoe de Negri

Born in England, raised in Nigeria and cultivated in New York, Zoe de Negri chose an adobe house along the Rio Bonito for her home and studio.

Although the jewelry designer brought her unique perspectives with metals and precious stones to Lincoln County, she does little direct selling. Most of her work is sold wholesale to select stores.

But visitors on the 1999 Lincoln County Art Loop will have a chance to watch the artist at work and to buy some of her pieces during the self-guided tour Saturday and Sunday, July 10-11. De Negri is one of 21 artists from Carrizozo, Nogal and Capitan to San Patricio and Lincoln who will open their studios/to visitors for the two-day event. Started as a way to unite artists and potential buyers and to promote a wider appreciation of the local art community, the loop has evolved into an eagerly anticipated glimpse of the creative process.

Although her mother, an artist and fashion designer, insisted her daughter take cooking and foreign languages, as soon as she fulfilled those commitments, de Negri plunged into creating jewelry, which ranges from whimsical to gramatic.

"I grew up always fixing other people's broken necklaces," she said.

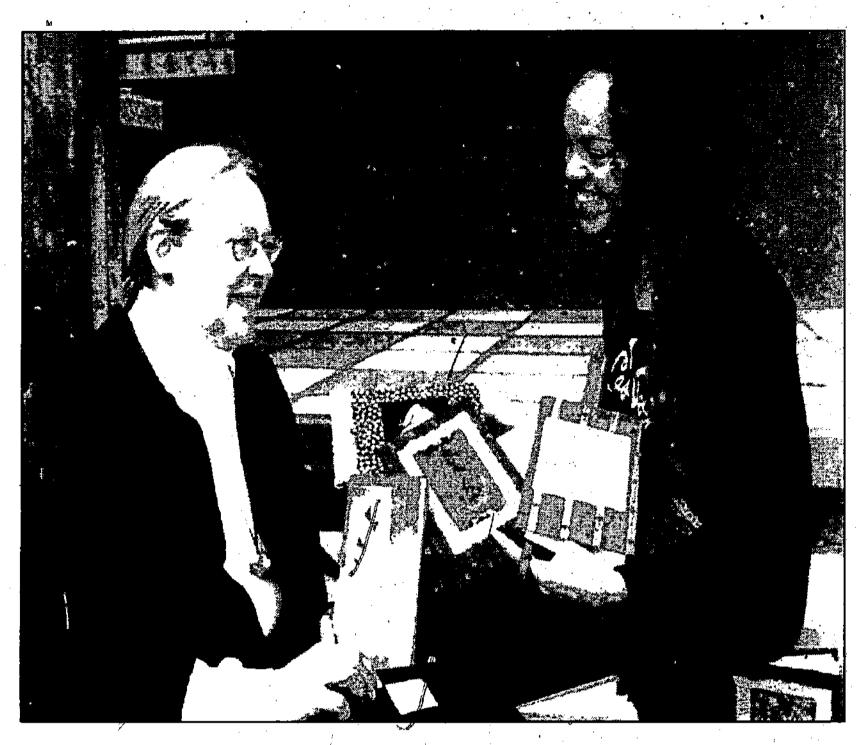

Her time in Africa at the University of Lagos in Nigeria influenced her style.

"All of the markets, the color and the wonderful beads" (shaped her thinking), de Negri said.

She left Africa in 1969, traveled for a year in Europe and lived in London, Switzerland and the Canary islands. She came to the United State to visit her mother 30 years ago and stayed, first in New York, where she continued to study and established long-lasting relationship with stores that still buy her work, including Henri Bendell, Bloomingdales, Lord and Taylor, Kamli and Bellini.

"I lucked out," de Negri said. "I walked into (the very exclusive store) Henri Bendell with a bunch of things I had made and the buyer bought an order. I found out later I should have called and set up an appointment."

In 1978, de Negri moved to Minnesota and started her second business called Pound Sterling Inc., selling handcrafted jewelry to stores and museums. She stayed 13 years and during that time expanded into the national market.

In 1989 as her fascination with Southwest themes grew, she moved again to Truchas, N.M., looking for a quiet life high on a mesa between Taos and Santa Fe. But on a trip to Cloudcroft, she discovered Lincoln County and in 1996, she moved her equipment, her dogs and her donkeys to her home across from the intersection of State Highway 37, where its breaks off toward Nogal from State Road 48.

Her line includes pins featuring cats, dogs and owls, some flowers, a mesh application and a series of abstract designs with garnets and amethysts, as well as some one-of-a-kind bracelets and pendants.

Paper makers Beverty and Paula Wilson

Beverly and Paula Wilson, a mother-daughter duo based just outside of the settlement of Lincoln on U.S. 380, also will welcome visitors on the Art Loop tour.

What started as a mutual hobby and a chance for Paula to create some original artwork, grew into Fruit of the Trees, an enterprise producing handmade paper and journals of all sizes, shapes and color, some incorporating flowers and other vegetation. Their studio home between mile marker 95/and 96, west of Lincoln is the perfect setting for their avocation.

Each journal, photo album or note card is one of a kind, created from the imaginations and creativity of the two women.

Coming from Chicago and Massachusetts, where her husband is a professor at Harvard University, Wilson is a Master Gardener, as well as an expert on Egyptian and Syrian history and culture through her work as a museum docent.

Not satisfied with producing a spectacular garden, she wanted to interact with her plants on another level and began sketching her herbal offspring. About the same time, her daughter, then in eighth-

1999 Spencer season ends

The /winter season for the Spencer Theater concluded May 1 with a solo piano recital by Navah Perlman, She comes by her musical talent quite legitimately, as her father is violinist Itzhak Periman.

As is the case with so many classical musicians, especially soloists, studies begin at an early age. In the case of Perlman it was the age of 6.

She has performed world wide. both in recital and as soloist with noted symphony orchestras.

While Perlman is an accomplished planist I found her program perhaps not containing the best selections. The opening number by J.S. Bach, "Toccata in C Minor" sounded beautiful on the Steinway but tended to be somewhat carelessly played in found it to be emotive and well presented. Except for the Copland the rest of the performance was a tasteful blend of moods and styles, all from the mid-19th and early 20th centuries; Mendelssohn, Robert Schumann and Prokofiev.

Perlman, while perhaps not the best choice to end a season at the Spencer, was essentially satisfying.

As I reflect on the past season I notice there were but a few truly outstanding performances. One that I regret not having seen was the Fiesta Navidad back in December. I cannot tell you how many people have commented that it was the best program they've seen at the Spencer. For quality and brilliance my/vote still goes with the King's Singers. Of all the performances I attended during the year, they were my favorite. 🥖

The New Mexico Symphony was my second favorite. I found Mark O'Connor sort of ho hum. Glenn Campbell was just plain fun, further attested to by his recent Pioneer Award and tremendous standing ovation at the CMA ceremonies. The Blind Boys from Alabama was the only act in the Blues Highway 61 Tour worth spending more than a half hour of a Saturday evening with.

Then there was the Russian Ballet. I detailed my disappointment in that evening's perforparts. I loved the Beethoven and _ mance earlier in the season. I didn't attend any Irish dancing simply because I've experienced enough, and since I am not Irish nor was I raised in that tradition so I cannot adequately interpret the nuances enough to attend three different performances in two years.

The coup of coups for the Spencer was the road company premier of "big." It was an enjoyable evening indeed and a proud moment for our community./In the future I hope we get to see more small ensemble work; baroque quartets and quintets, brass ensembles, for the opera lovers a diva or two, a return engagement every year of the New Mexico Symphony, more popular performers and more theater company performances.

grade, attended a summer camp in Michigan dedicated to the arts.

'I was interested in acting, but all of those classes were filled up and Mom said take art classes." Paula said. "They were mainly in drawing and print making and that's pretty much where I still am interested today."

She's continued her art studies at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., but spends breaks at home.

When Paula brought home paper making skills, it didn't take long for both women were hooked.

"I had always wanted to make a book," Beverly said. "We both love paper. I write a lot of letters and can use beautiful paper. There is something textural and sensual about a beautiful piece of paper."

Their fascination and affection for paper making shows in their work. It's matched by their feelings for the family home in Lincoln, purchased on Beverly's third trip to the county.

"I knew I had to be here," she said of her decision to buy near Lincoln. "This house had just gone on the market. We were thinking this would be our second home, but I couldn't leave. I've never felt such a sense of place as I do here."

GOTO COLO

THE CAST takes the stage for a sound check and voice warm-up.

off to see the Wizard

story by Meredith Keelon VAMONOS STAFF WARTER

Photos by Meredith Keeton/Ruidoso News

SENIOR CHLOE WIERWILLE, who plays Dorothy, and a 'Munchkin' put on the final touches of their costumes before Tuesday's dress rehearsal.

Ruidoso High School drama present its annual end of the year musical, The Wizard of Oz, at 7 p.m. today and Saturday at the Spencer

Theater. The three-performance run opened last night.

The musical-version, which is different than the well-known film version, will be performed in two acts featuring more than 50 local students. Joining high school students are elementary school children who play the Munchkins of Oz.

The annual musical is the largest yearly performance for RHS drama. Students work on the musical for a good portion of the school year, holding casting calls for parts, working on sets and pulling together what could pass for a professionally done show. Performing the play at the Spencer Theater provides sound and lighting effects and gives the show a polished backdrop, said senior Chloe Wierwille, who plays the lead role of Dorothy. For those who have seen the film version of The Wizard, of Oz, the stage performance will offer interesting plot differences.

"The best part of being in drama is being out in the spotlight. When you've finished opening night and everything went well, all the practice, which is the worst part, pays off," said Wierwille.

The Wizard of Oz was chosen in part because of the large number of roles it offers.

"There are great costumes and makeup, and so many different characters. So unlike Grease or something like that, a lot of people get to have parts," Wierwille said.

Many of the actors who made a name for themselves in last year's musical, Bye Bye Birdie, return to the stage. In turn, many of the Munchkins starred in the Missoula Children's Theater performance of Cinderella at the Spencer last June.

Working with a cast that includes such a large number of young performers proves interesting for older members.

"Working with the Munchkins is crazy," said senior Malcolm Sharbutt, who pays the Cowardly Lion. "They're like monkeys."

Though last year's musical got rave reviews and the students were pleased with its outcome, the production of The Wizard Of Oz has gone more smoothby

"We're further along than we were last year at this time," junior Holland Dorn said. "It's going to be sad because it's the last time for our seniors, but we

Pushing Tin

Rated: R Show times: 2:15* p.m., 4:45 p.m.,7:15 p.m., 9:45 p.m.*

Plot: Nick Falzone (John Cusack) is a control freak. An air traffic control freak.

He "pushes tin" at New York's Terminal Radar Control (TRACON) center. Part catacomb, part frat house, TRACON is the chaotic air traffic facility on Long Island that handles up to 7,000 flights a day into and out of the finite airspace above Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark airports. Nick works the Newark radar scopes, the busiest of them all, and he is the best of the best. If you don't believe, just ask him.

That is, until Russell Bell (Billy Bob Thornton) comes to town. After stints in Albuquerque, Phoenix and Denver, Russell – a cross between a motorcycle cowboy and a Zen master – has come to New York looking for heavier traffic. This is the same guy who once stood in the turbulence wake of a 747 just to see what it felt like.

Fueled by caffeine and machismo, a rivalry ensues between Nick and Russell. The one-upmanship becomes a contest of wits and wills. of the new millennium.

The third Guardsman

And it was upon his arrival here that an amazing change came over Chris. He never did stop telling outrageous lies (which were invariably believed) about his past, but he did stop his nasty habit of bilking folks out of their hard-earned cash.

Oklahoma were Bill Tilghman, Heck Thomas and Chris Madsen. They were known far and wide as "The Three Guardsmen." Much is known of the early lives and careers of Tilghman and Thomas, but, until recent-ly, little was known of the third guardsman. Chris Madsen.

Both Tilghman and Thomas had life-long careers in law enforcement, which is not to say that they didn't have something in their past to hide — Tilghman, most notably had a brush or two with the law before settling down to a career of enforcing it.

But Chris Madsen's early years have always been something of a mystery. This is partly because Madsen had so many contradictory and outrageous tales to tell about his own past, and partly because no one, until now, did any serious research on the man's life. Thanks to researcher Leif Ernst, we now know that Madsen had good reason to be vague about his past.

Early years

Chris Madsen was born on February 25, 1851 in the Danish town of Rormosehus on the island of Funen. When he was confirmed on April 23, 1865, the parson noted that Chris was "well informed and well behaved." That didn't last long. At the age of 17, Chris left for Copenhagen, where he sold wine for about half a year. After that, he worked as a coachman north of Copenhagen for a brief period before he went to the island of Zealand, where he became a beggar.

Money for nothing appeals to everyone, and Chris was no exception. Arrested for vagrancy, he received the minimum sentence of five days on bread and water. After this quick dietary change, Chris went to Sweden for a period of three months and then on to Schleswig (not in Germany) where he learned about "drainage."

By the autumn of 1870, Chris was back in Denmark, where he made his living by borrowing money from friends and acquaintances. In northern Jutland, he was arrested for this practice and did a little time. After his release he went home, where he continued his career of "borrowing" and was, as you might expect, arrested again.

In August of 1874, a Danish newspaper described the lessthan-industrious young man as being cunning and clever. It said that his preferred victims were professional people — schoolteachers, parsons, counts, etc. One of them was even a member of Parliament. Not exactly the sort of early career that a future famous Western lawman would be expected to have.

Honorable he wasn't. Chris would say anything in order to fleece his victims. Many of them were treated to tales of Chris, the decorated war hero, and others heard stories about his sick and dying mother. Forged documents came in pretty handy as well. But hey, at least he wasn't physically abusing anyone.

From louse to lawman

Back in the 1870s, Denmark had an interesting method of dealing with habitual criminals, they shipped them off to other countries. It is a matter of record that the United States authorities complained on several occasions to the government of Denmark about this practice, which was eventually halted. But not before the U.S. became the recipient of career criminal Chris Madsen.

And it was upon his arrival here that an amazing change came over Chris. He never did stop telling outrageous lies (which were invariably believed) about his past, but he did stop his nasty habit of bilking folks out of their hard-earned cash.

Arriving in New York City in 1876, Madsen enlisted in the cavalry. Now, at long last, he could go around speaking of his experiences in the military and not be lying! He was, in fact, present at some pretty interesting historical events.

He was there when Buffalo Cody killed and scalped an obscure sub-chief known as Yellow Hair. Yellow Hair got his name because he always proudly displayed a scalp that he had removed from a blonde lady who no longer needed it. In Cody's reminiscences, however, Yellow Hair became Yellow Hand – it had a better ring to it.

Madsen was also present as part of the burial party at the Little Big Horn after George Custer found out exactly how much he had over-rated himself. In fact, Madsen was, for a time, mistakenly listed among the dead.

Respectability

In 1887, the former con-man married and produced two sons, of whom he was enormously proud. He continued as a cavalry-man throughout most of the Indian Wars and in 1891, after 15 years in the cavalry, Madsen resigned with the rank of sergeant holding the Silver Star.

At El Reno, Oklahoma, Chris was appointed as a deputy U.S. Marshal and the next year (1892) he transferred to Guthrie, where the legend of the Three Guardsmen began to take root.

On November 19, 1892, Madsen, in the company of fellow lawmen Heck Thomas and Tom Huston, approached the small town of Orlando, Oklahoma. They were most interested in finding a gentleman by the name of Ol Yantis, who had recently been naughty. Ol's naughtiness manifested itself in the form of bank robbery, and the lawmen had received a tip that he was I staying at his sister's farm a few miles out of town.

They took position around the place before dawn and settled in to wait. They didn't have to wait long. At sunrise, Ol emerged from the house with some feed for the horses in one hand and a six-shooter in the other.

"Throw up your hands, Ol" shouted Madsen, "We're officers." The only one of Yantis' hands that came up was the one with the pistol in it. He managed to get off one shot before a bullet from Madsen's rifle slammed into him. When Yantis again raised his pistol and fired, a bullet from Huston's rifle ended the discussion. Ol Yantis died that night.

Fun in Beaver City

The following year, Chris was assigned to escort a district judge to wild and wooly Beaver City. The pair made the mistake 6 bedding down in what passed for a bedroom over a saloon. That night, some gentlemen downstairs were having too Marshal Madsen received a tip much fun and began discharging their weapons through the ceiling, which made the experience an exciting one for Madsen and his charge.

Madsen walked downstairs and pulled a pistol out of one man's hand when another announced "I'm a son-of-a-bitch from Cripple Creek." Madsen didn't miss a beat. "I knew who you were" he replied, "but I didn't know where you were from." Drunk as he was, the fellow knew that he was being insulted and when he took a swing at the Danish lawman, he was clubbed into unconsciousness by the pistol in Madsen's hand.

Another man jerked a pistol and Madsen immediately shot it out of his hand, ala Roy Rogers. (One wonders if the man's hand was where Chris was really aiming). He then arrested all three of the miscreants.

Felix Young

In May of 1894, Deputy U.S. that train robber Felix Young was in El Reno. And it was on May 2, 1894, that Madsen spied Young in the street chatting with a local gambler. Madsen attempted to get close to the fugitive, but was still 40 yards away when Young recognized him and took off like a jackrabbit for his horse.

Vaulting into the saddle, Young pulled a pistol and fired twice at Madsen. Chris responded by letting five rounds go in the direction of Young. None of the bullets took effect on the fugitive, but they did kill his horse. Madsen then ran Young down and arrested him.

But it was in March of 1896 that Madsen confronted his most : lawman. He was 93. celebrated fugitive: George "Red Buck" Weightman.

Weightman had been a member of the Doolin-Dalton gang until Bill Doolin decided that Red Buck was too trigger happy and jettisoned him from the gang. Weightman was long on ruthlessness and short on brains, and on March 5, 1896, Madsen and his posse cornered him in a dugout near Cheyenne, the posse opened fire. It was a shot from Chris Madsen's rifle that was credited with ending his career.

Epilogue

He had come a long way. From a low-life con-man in his native Europe to an honest soldier and lawman in America, his adopted country.

To the best of anyone's knowledge, Chris Madsen never broke any laws in the United States, and in 1944, he died at Guthrie, Oklahoma, a respected and deeply mourned pioneer

Eastern New Mexico University College of the Air Summer 1999

Eastern New Mexico University is dramatically expanding the amount of upper division and graduate programming available in Ruidoso and Lincoln County, from visiting faculty to instruction delivered by ITV (instructional television). Continuous registration for ITV classes at the Ruidoso Center is available for Summer and Fall sessions. The ITV Facilitators and the Ruidoso Center counselors can assist you with registration. If you need to discuss financial aid to assist you in attending classes, call 1-800-537-LERN and your call will be transferred to the appropriate office. You may also register the first night of class but we suggest preregistration to insure your spot in class. Tuition and books must be paid by the start of the semester or arrangements for payment must be made with the Accounts Receivable office, also available by calling 1-800-537-LERN. You may make your payment at the Ruidoso Center ITV room in the Sierra Mall. Courses are subject to change without notice. Books may be purchased from the ENMU bookstore in Portales via phone order [call toll free 1-877-499-2665] and are mailed directly to the students's home. Use of ITV, Internet and other new technologies represent another way ENMU is meeting the educational needs of the Ruidoso community, Lincoln, and Otero County! Call (505) 257-2120 or toll free 1-800-934-3668 for more information.

COMMUNITY EDUCATION PROGRAM

The Ruidoso Center Community Education Program is designed for people who are not interested in formal credit programs of study. The program strives to fulfill that part of Ruidoso Center's mission which is "to make inexpensive, high quality educational services available at convenient times for the residents/of the Ruidoso School District and the surrounding area of Lincoln and northern Otero Counties." Programs are also designed to be of interest to visitors to the Ruidoso area. The program is oriented toward lifelong learning and the fulfillment of the individual.

DON'T KEEP IT TO YOURSELF. SHARE YOUR KNOWLEDGE!!

Our instructors are a diverse and talented group of people, each with something very special to share. If you would like to propose a class or workshop, for ENMU consideration, just give us a call. Whether you would like to teach in our program or just recommend an activity, we'd love to hear from you!

COURSE FEES

The Ruidoso Center Community Education program is a self-sustaining program with course fees covering all program-related expenses. Fees are based on an estimated minimum number of students. Unlike credit programs, of study at the Ruidoso Center, the Community Services Program does not depend on state and local taxes for support. Honored Américans (agés 62+) will pay half fees unless otherwise/specified.

CLASS/CHANGES AND CANCELLATIONS

The Ruidoso Center reserves the right to cancel any course with insufficient enrollment. Locations, dates and times of classes and instructors are also subject to change. A class will be closed when it reaches maximum enrollment, so you are encouraged to register early. Classes with insufficient enrollment will be cancelled, and you will be notified by phone. To make contacting you easier, please give day and evening phone numbers with your registration. Refunds will be automatically processed on courses which the Ruidoso Center cancels.

REGISTER EARLY - MOST CLASSES BEGIN AFTER JUNE 2!!!

Register as soon as possible to assure a space in the class or classes you want. Registration begins April 15. Mail-in, walk-in or FAXED registrations will also be accepted until the start of class. Phone registration is also available for Community Ed classes with payment necessary before the first class.

FIVE EASY WAYS TO EN-ROLL FOR YOUR COURSE!

We offer continuous registration up to the starting date of each class but emphasize the importance of early registration. If you wait until the last minute, you risk the possibility that a particular class is full or has been cancelled. Generally, we do NOT take on-site registration at class and instructors cannot accept your payment in class. We cannot permit anyone who is not/registered to attend class. No acknowledgment will be sent to you! You are automatically enrolled as soon as we receive your registration form and payment.

BY PHONE (the easiest way!)

You can enroll over the phone. Call the Ruidoso Center office at (505) 257-2120. If you live outside of the Ruidoso area, call 1-800-934-3668. Please have your course name, and Credit Card number ready when you call. When registering by phone, you may use a MasterCard, Discover or VISA Card. Save time and travel!

REGISTER BY MAIL (the postal way)

Complete a noncredit registration form and mail it with a check or money order to: ENMU-Ruidoso, ATTN: Community Education, 709 Mechem Drive, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345. We will process your registration by 5 p.m. A receipt is available at our/office to confirm your place in class and you/will need to show this receipt to the instructor at the first class meeting.

REGISTER IN PERSON

(the most personal way)

Come by our office and get to know us! The Ruidoso Center Office is located at 709 Mechem Drive, Ruidoso, New Mexico. You may register in person as follows:

- 1. Regular office hours: 8 am 5pm Monday through Friday
- 2. Special Registration: Saturday, May 29

REGISTER BY FAX (the high tech way)

You may register by FAX 24 hours a day, 7 days a week! Fill out a Registration form and fax it day or night to (505) 257-9409. When faxing your registration, you may chose to use a Discover, MasterCard or VISA.

REGISTER BY P.O.

(the businesslike way)

Organization's enrolling staff for training purposes will be invoiced if a purchase order number is quoted.

HOW TO FIND YOUR CLASS

If your class location is not designated in this schedule, please call the Ruidoso Center Office on or before the day class is scheduled to obtain the class location. The Community/Education program holds classes in a variety of locations. The course instructor/will meet you at the class location

REFUND POLICY FOR COMMUNITY EDUCATION COURSES AND WORKSHOPS

We want you to be 100 percent satisfied with your Community Education class! If for any reason your class isn't exactly what you wanted, simply come by the office, and we will be happy to assist you. If you prefer, we will refund your money under the following conditions:

- 1. Registration fees are refunded in full only when:
- -- the class or workshop for which an enrollment was submitted is already full; OR
- -- the activity is cancelled; OR
- -- the Ruidoso Center rejects the enrollment application.
- 2. If after the first class meeting, you find the class isn't exactly what you wanted, 50% of the registration fee will be refunded. It is your responsibility to notify the Center Office prior to the second class of your intention to withdraw if you want a refund.
- 3. There will be no refund for withdrawals after the second class meeting. If you haven't withdrawn even though you are not attending class, you still have a financial obligation to complete payment for that class.

PLEASE REVIEW THE COURSE RE-FUND POLICY BEFORE REGISTERING

REQUESTS FOR REFUNDS

Requests for refunds must be received by the Ruidoso Center Office during weekday office hours before the deadlines stated above. Requests may be presented in person at the Center Office or may be mailed to: 709 Mechem Drive, Ruidoso New Mexico 88345. Please allow 15 days for processing any refund.

WE'RE HERE FOR YOUR QUESTIONS

What chaos has your ugly kitchen caused today?

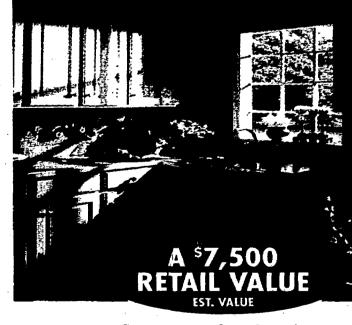

Broken hinges. Gashed counter tops. Too little storage space. Outdated cabinet styles and finishes. Walls covered with spackling. The list could go on and on. These are all signs of an ugly – and nonfunctional – kitchen.

Let the 1999 Ugly Kitchen Contest make it all better.

That's right! We're giving away a dream kitchen. If you're chosen as one of this year's winners, you'll receive:

- FREE Professional Design Services
- FREE Professional Installation
- FREE Aristokraft Kitchen Cabinets
- FREE WilsonArt Laminated Countertops
- FREE UNR Kitchen Sink
- FREE Moen Kitchen Faucet AND -
- FREE Sinkmaster Garbage Disposal

Entering the 1999 Ugly Kitchen Contest is easy:

- Bring a photo of your kitchen to a participating Foxworth-Galbraith store no later than Monday, May 31st.
- Complete a 1999 Foxworth-Galbraith Ugly

Kitchen Contest registration form and submit it with your photo entry to a Foxworth-Galbraith Associate.

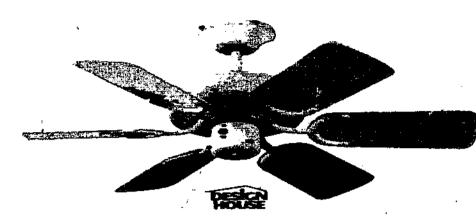

While you're in, visit with one of our kitchen design specialists. They'll help you plan and design your kitchen by finding the right cabinetry and accessories to meet all your needs. With our free kitchen planning and design service, you'll get a kitchen designed to match your style. All with a price to match your budget. And if you're our winner – it's all FREE.

Winners will be selected on Friday, July 2nd. No purchase necessary. Some restrictions apply, so see store for complete details and contest rules. Good luck to all our entrants!
