Hantavirus strikes Capitan woman

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A 25-year-old Capitan woman was diagnosed Saturday as the state's eighth confirmed case of hantavirus pulmonary syndrome and the first from this area.

The family is setting up a fund for Amber at the Wells Fargo bank branch in Carrizozo to help with medical expenses, according to a family member.

She may have contracted the disease outside of Lincoln County while on a hunting trip, said Sam Chavez, Luna's stepbrother.

"She's still on life support," Chavez said Tuesday night. "It's really terrible to happen to a young mother with two children."

Chavez said he had received a telephone call from a friend on Friday and couldn't believe the news.

"I thought it was a joke," Chavez said.

"She's a fighter," Chavez said. "She's not only a fighter for herself but for Chavez said he hopes people will keep Luna and her family in their prayers.

She was transported to University Hospital in Albuquerque Friday night. Her blood tests performed Saturday by the University of New Mexico's School of Medicine confirmed she was infected, said Dr. Paul Ettestad, public health veterinarian with the New Mexico Office of Epidemiology.

The woman was listed in critical condition Monday, a hospital spokesman said.

The total number of cases in New Mexico including cases diagnosed retrospectively from as early as 1975, is now set at 45, with 23 deaths. The number of cases throughout the United States confirmed by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is 227 with 96 deaths.

The woman's exposure to the virus probably occurred from contact around the house, as occurs in most cases, Ettestad said. Symptoms develop within one to six weeks after exposure to rodent waste. The early symptoms include fever and muscle aches, possibly with chills, headache, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, abdominal pain and cough.

Local home health care office files suit against LCMC

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A local home health care company is suing the Lincoln County Medical Center and Presbyterian Medical Services (PMS) for alleged unfair trade practices and violation of state and federal anti-trust laws.

The suit, filed Oct. 18 in U.S. District Court by Frontier Medical Inc., asks on each of seven counts for actual damages of at least $1.5 million, punitive damages to be determined at trial, attorney fees and court costs.

On count one, violation of the Sherman Act, Frontier asked for damages to be tripled where applicable.

Named as defendants are Presbyterian HealthCare Services, a New Mexico corporation managing the county-owned Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso and/or the center, PMS and 25 unspecified defendants individually.

Carol Gunn, spokeswoman for Presbyterian HealthCare, said her company's policy is not to comment on pending litigation.

In the lawsuit filed on behalf of Frontier, Albuquerque attorney Calvin Hyer Jr. accuses the hospital staff of "willfully, wrongfully and/or negligently conspiring and/or acting separately to wrongfully 'steer' prospective home health care and hospice patients away from Frontier and to Presbyterian Medical Services or other providers."

As one of the main feeders of such patients, the hospital's actions violated federal and state anti-trust laws, Medicare and Medicaid laws, rules and regulations and New Mexico common law, the suit contends. As a result, Frontier's ability to provide home health care and hospice to people who need those services was unfairly restrained. The actions "wrongfully prevented and/or restricted competition" in Frontier's geographical area, damaging the home health care firm's business, according to the suit.

A contract, agreement or conspiracy exists between LCMC and/or Presbyterian HealthCare and PMS for the hospital to wrongfully steer home health care and hospice patients to PMS, Frontier contends in the suit.

Hyer pointed out that many of the hospital's patients are senior citizens with limited knowledge about the scope and availability of home health care and hospice services. They rely almost completely on the expertise of the hospital staff for information on those services, the suit states.

Unless Presbyterian or the hospital have some financial interest unknown to Frontier in Presbyterian Medical Services, they should be referring patients to both PMS and Frontier, the suit states. By the staff's actions, Frontier has been denied access to the hospital, which is an essential facility for health care in the market area, the suit contends.

Trial of murder suspect begins in Carrizozo

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

His client Christopher Faviell didn't play a role in the killing of a 28-year-old Ruidoso woman in March, 1998, defense attorney Gary Mitchell testified Tuesday.

In his opening argument at Faviell's trial on first-degree murder, he told a seven-man, seven-woman Lincoln County jury, "not only did Chris not kill Elizabeth (Lankhorst-Ballard), there was no plan to kill her. He didn't help or cause her death."

Only one person in the courtroom knows what happened in the early morning of March 8, 1998 when a drunken Lankhorst-Ballard — Faviell's former lover — arrived at the home Faviell then shared with his transvestite lover Charles "Eva" Martinez, Mitchell said. Faviell will detail the events of that morning, the attorney said, asking jurors to keep open minds until they hear his testimony.

However, they may never get the chance to hear it.

After jurors were removed from the courtroom, Mitchell complained Tuesday that he found out the day before the trial that two "rogue" members of the county's drug task force interfered extensively in the case without telling Ruidoso police investigators or the district attorney.

Assistant District Attorney Canon Stevens and investigating Ruidoso Police Detective Wolfgang Born weren't aware of the number of potential witnesses questioned and possibly coerced or threatened by former task force member Alex Hinson and member Gilbert Sambrano, Mitchell said.

Disclosure of such actions so late in the process could result in a request for a mistrial, he told 12th Judicial District Judge Karen Parsons, based on a Supreme Court decision.

The ruling requires the state to disclose any information to the defense that could help its case and any information leading to discovery of facts or testimony that could assist a defendant's case, Mitchell explained after the trial adjourned for the day. The defense has no

A child playing with matches Monday morning set his house on fire and ended up in the hospital in Roswell.

The Ruidoso Fire Department responded to a call at 8:18 a.m. to 302 Walnut Drive, loaded two adults and a four-year-old boy into ambulances, and had the fire out by 11 a.m., according to Loreta Kirk, a spokeswoman.

Emergency Medical Services personnel David Granados and Diane Mecnatt said the adults, Josh Purser and Kristen Segovia, were able to sit on the curb with the boy after they were taken from the burning house, but their hair was "singled pretty good" from the heat.

Purser and Segovia were treated at Lincoln County Medical Center and released, but the child was transferred to Eastern New Mexico Medical Center in Roswell about 10 a.m., said Donna Tanner, director of nursing.

"He was in stable condition, but his physician wanted him watched overnight," Tanner said.

Kirk said the house was a total loss. She said the child was trying to light candles with matches and that he was unattended at the time. The mother had fed the child and gone back to bed, she said.

Firefighters at first searched for a second child believed to be in the house, but later learned that this child had been picked up by a school bus and taken to school.

One firefighter came out of the burning house with a couple of small boxes and a handful of money he rescued from the flames.

The family was renting, Kirk said, and other family members have been contacted. The Church of Christ donated clothing, she said.

TRIAL: If a mistrial is not declared, testimony could extend to next week

time to use the discovery process to find more information to help Faviell, he said, adding that he is having to respond "off the top of my head."

Parsons told Stevens that Hinson and Sambrano, along with task force director Frank Hooper should testify about their actions, which could extend the trial into next week.

Mitchell said he only learned Monday that a key prosecution witness, Kathy Luevano, was paid $1,000 for her help in the case.

Luevano, a close friend of Martinez and Faviell, testified earlier in the day about the story she claimed she was told by the two men after Lankhorst-Ballard's death. The woman's body was found a few weeks later in a shallow grave near Tularosa on property once owned by Faviell's mother, an assistant district attorney in Bernalillo County.

Under questioning by Mitchell and Stevens, Luevano explained that she didn't ask for money until earlier this year, long after she gave her statement to police detectives and only because she was afraid she was going to lose her home because of back taxes.

"I didn't ask earlier because I was not in financial need and I didn't want people to think I turned in Chris and Charles for the money," she said.

Her testimony painted a different picture of Faviell's actions the night of Lankhorst-Ballard's death.

Tired of his former lover's tirades and harassment and goaded on by Martinez, Faviell held Ballard-Lankhorst's legs while Martinez strangled her with her scarf after first striking her head with a coffee carafe, Luevano testified the two men told her. When Martinez tired of the task, he asked Faviell to "finish her off," which he did, she said. They then wrapped her body in a blanket and plastic, sealed it with duct tape and put it in the trunk of Martinez' car to drive toward Tularosa, she testified they told her.

Under questioning by Mitchell, who portrayed Martinez as the dominant member of the twosome, Luevano said Martinez called Faviell "an idiot, stupid" in Spanish when he said he thought Faviell was not going to help him in the murder.

Luevano said when Martinez told her of the murder, he still was angry. He said he struck Lankhorst-Ballard when she reached out to touch Faviell and then strangled her when she was on the floor and tried to scratch and bite him, she testified.

Faviell cried during the entire conversation, Luevano said.

Faviell beaten while in jail

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Defense attorneys for Christopher Faviell, on trial in Carrizozo for first degree murder in the strangulation death of Elizabeth Lankhorst-Ballard, fear for the safety of their client, they said Tuesday.

Last Thursday, Faviell was beaten by one of three other inmates sharing a cell with him, said Lincoln County jail administrator Mike Borrego.

In court Tuesday, Faviell still sported a cut on his eye and a cast on his left arm.

Shawn Boyne, co-counsel with defense attorney Gary Mitchell, said Faviell's arm was broken in two places.

"We have to get him out of there before they kill him,"

Boyne said, adding that this is his third beating since being confined to the county jail in April, 1998.

Mitchell called the incident "gay bashing," because Faviell previously lived with a transvestite lover Charles Martinez, also known as Eva. Martinez was convicted in May of first-degree murder for his role in the death of the 28-year-old Ruidoso woman in March, 1998. He's serving a sentence of life plus 10 years and six months.

Borrego said Tuesday he is aware of other violence against Faviell, but not the number of incidents. Faviell refused to name the person who beat him last week, but one man was moved to another cell, Borrego said.

Area flu clinics offered

The Alliance for Improved Senior Health (AFISH) will sponsor vaccinations for seniors in Lincoln County on the following schedule:

Thursday, Nov. 4 — Capitan School, 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.; San Patricio Senior Center, 3:30-5 p.m.; Carrizozo school, 8 p.m.-10 p.m.

Friday, Nov. 5 — Ruidoso Convention Center, 8:30 a.m.-6 p.m.

The Tularosa Older Americans Center will be the scene of a clinic Thursday from 9-11 a.m.

The clinics are only for individuals over 65 or with a chronic disease.

But the Space City Bowling Center in Alamogordo will provide vaccinations for anyone 18 and older on Nov. 16 from 8-11 a.m. and 1-4 p.m., AFISH said.

Meanwhile, AFISH notes that an individual cannot catch the flu from the vaccine. It is safe, effective and generally has only a few side effects, which may include redness, tenderness or a headache. The AFISH organization is a coalition of public and private agencies working to improve the health of New Mexico's senior citizens.

HANTAVIRUS: Ettestad made a presentation in Capitan Tuesday night

No specific treatment exists for the virus, but supportive care can help patients survive, he said. The chances for recovery are better if the symptoms are recognized and appropriate medical care starts early in the course of the disease, he said.

The division is not allowed to be specific in identifying the place of exposure, Ettestad said.

Public health officials in the county were notified and Ettestad plans visiting the area of exposure to trap rodents and conduct tests, he said.

"I'll be going with an environmental team to do an investigation," he said.

Ettestad was making a presentation in Capitan Tuesday night.

Physicians already have a 24-hour consultation line with UNM specialists in the disease, he said.

"While most people think of hantavirus as occurring in the Four Corners area, this case emphasizes that hantavirus can occur anywhere in New Mexico and everyone needs to take precautions," Ettestad said.

"The cooler fall weather is causing many rodents to seek shelter indoors, so it is very important at this time to take preventative measures."

Cat owners don't have to worry about their pets contracting the illness if they consume an infected mouse, he said.

"We haven't seen any cases of illness in cats or dogs or any antibody response," Ettestad said.

Suggested precautions to avoid contact with mice or other rodents include:

• Air out closed up buildings before entering

• Seal up homes and cabins so mice don't enter.

• Trap up mice until they are gone

• Clean up nests and droppings using a disinfectant

• Put hay, wood and compost piles as far as possible from your home

• Store hay and wood 12-18 inches above the ground so mice can't borrow under it

• Get rid of trash and junk piles

• Don't leave animal food and water where mice can get to it.

The masked ball given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Gumm Tuesday night was one of the most enjoyable social events of the season. About twenty-five couples were present, most of whom were in mask. Excellent refreshments were served at 12 o'clock, after which the dance resumed, ending two hours later.

Miss Margie McCourt was in from the Carrizozo ranch to attend the ball. Mrs. S.E. Barber came in from her Three Rivers ranch to attend the ball. Miss Grace Austin came over from Bonito to attend the masked ball which took place at the Gumm mansion.

Getting a good frame fit is essential for comfort, optical quality and cosmetic appearance. Even if your prescription is very strong, selecting the proper frame style and lens material can insure a comfortable and flattering pair of glasses. New light weight frame materials such as stainless steel and titanium add durability as well as flexibility for recreational or occupational styles. A complementary frame size, shape and color can enhance facial features as well as result in fewer optical side effects like peripheral distortion. Lens materials, coatings and treatments not only add to the pleasing appearance, but reduce weight, increase impact resistance and improve overall optical clarity.

November Frames Feature - 30% off on selected frames including Oscar de la Renta, Bum, Bulova, ESQ, Laura Hutton and more ... offer includes 1 year frame warranty, plus factory scratch-resistant coating with order of plastic lenses.

To tile your bathroom, you need a permit

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Requiring a site plan certified by a surveyor or an engineer for all new structures or those being altered makes sense, says Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson.

"We've had a lot of problems," he said last week. He cited mobile homes being set up only to find out later they intrude into adjoining lots.

That kind of mistake should be avoided by requiring people to obtain a site plan before issuing construction permits, he told councilors before they voted to approve the change to the planning law. A permit of occupancy is not granted until everything passes inspection, including the siting of a structure.

If funding is not in compliance, it will be red-tagged to stop work until an amended site plan is filed or the work is brought into compliance, said planner Darrell Bremner.

Acting planning administrator Larry Hill has said that once a site plan is obtained, it can be used for subsequent work.

"We will work off an existing site plan," he said. "Why should a person have to go out and hire a new survey when they have a legal document showing where the house is placed. We will even do the scale work" showing proposed additions or changes.

"I hope nobody misunderstands," Hill said. "We're not out to create an additional burden on the public. We really want to protect the public."

"If you're building a new house and it's in the wrong place, you need to know early," Councilor Linda Flack, a mortgage broker, said Tuesday. Usually when a mortgage is involved, a survey is required. But in a cash sale, it's the new owner's option.

"What happens two or three years down the road and the person buying has to get financing, and then the seller finds out the house is in the wrong place?" she said. "He never knew before because it was a cash sale."

"This protects us and the individual," said Donaldson, who also is a mortgage broker. "And $250 (for a site plan) for a $100,000 house isn't that much. It's pretty simple and our liability lessens."

"You mean if I want to turn a church into a boxing arena, I'd have to get a survey — come on," said Tony Seno, former Libertarian Party county chairman.

Only if a building is altered, planners said. It's not necessary if the structure stays the same.

But Seno wasn't satisfied.

"I keep hearing you're trying to tell me how I can use my property," he said.

The council is trying to prevent him from going on his neighbor's property by mistake, Donaldson answered, adding if the village certified something and later finds it's in the wrong place, insurance won't cover the error.

Councilor Ron Anderson questioned how surveys could be required for repairs on a house and Donaldson said repairs only require a permit as already outlined in village rules. That started a whole new discussion.

"What kind of repairs can't you do without a permit?" asked a woman in the audience, adding she doesn't understand why the village is "protecting me from myself."

"We're trying to protect future buyers," Donaldson said.

Hill said nearly all repairs require permits since the state eliminated a $500 threshold. The only exceptions are repairs like painting, he said. A $25 permit will cover up to $1,000 of work and is good for one year.

"You mean if I retile my bathroom or carpet my living room, I need a permit?" asked an astonished Councilor Bob Sterchi.

If an inspector driving past a residence sees a pile of debris outside and no permit, he can ask to see what type of work is being done inside, Hill said. If he's refused entry, he can get a warrant or red-tag the work to stop construction.

Seno asked how many hundreds of inspectors will be needed to enforce such rules.

Donaldson responded the village enforces where it can.

Hill said Thursday that the regulations are part of the national building code adopted by the state and village.

"Most everybody is astounded when they hear," he said. "When they did away with the $500 minimum, I thought they would bump it up to $1,000, but they didn't."

VILLAGE BRIEFS

Traffic signal sought

Ruidoso village officials would like to see a traffic signal in place before Christmas at the intersection of Center Street and Sudderth Drive, says Mayor Robert Donaldson.

They're looking at the fastest way to accomplish that goal now that the state Highway and Transportation Department has approved the signal. The intersection was the site of a pedestrian death last year.

"We may be able to piggy-back with the state using one of its (electrical) contractors already on site," Donaldson said. "Otherwise, we'll have to go back with requests for proposals. It would take a specialized contractor to handle it."

If the timing isn't right, he's recommending the project be postponed until spring.

"It would interfere with traffic a little and we don't want our sidewalks torn up with a lot of people in town," Donaldson said Thursday.

New zoning districts?

New zoning districts are needed to reflect changes and growth in the Ruidoso, village councilors agreed last week.

They voted to ask the village planning and zoning commission to study the creation of new commercial zoning districts and to conduct hearings on the issue.

"For instance, Leo Martinez, who has a business on U.S. 70, said some of our regulations make it difficult for him and other businesses to compete with those in Ruidoso Downs" (just a block or two away), Mayor Robert Donaldson said. Some residents also have complained about car lots in the upper part of town, he said. Others are talking about creating an "Old Town."

The commission could create some new districts and look at areas of town to see if existing zoning designations still are pertinent to the activity and uses, Donaldson said.

"No broad swath for this town works," he said. "Different areas are growing differently."

Sign ordinance eased

Following the recommendation of its staff and the village planning and zoning commission, the Ruidoso Village Council agreed last week to change its sign ordinance to allow more exposure for businesses in shopping centers.

The provision added to the law allows individual businesses within shopping centers in the Commercial-3 business district — generally from the Gazebo Shopping Center to Tall Pines Realty on Sudderth drive — to put up one projecting sign. However, the sign cannot be larger than 10 square feet and cannot intrude on a roadway.

"It's incumbent on us" to assist as many residents as we can to make a living," said Councilor Bill Chance.

OUR OPINION

Efficiency and democracy right here in Ruidoso

Democracy, it's been said more than once, is the most inefficient form of government. Yet, in the great span of history, it has worked better than any other to assure the greatest good for the greatest number of people.

Ruidoso's village council, in microcosm, demonstrated the strains and pains of the oh-so-inefficient democratic process last week when it:

1. Voted down the mayor's proposal that would have allowed the council to bypass its appointed planning and zoning commissioners in changing the rules for developers, builders and homeowners.

2. Tabled indefinitely an ordinance that would have imposed fees for vacant lots with access to water service.

3. Heard Mayor Robert Donaldson lay out a proposal for a performance amphitheater near Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

The first was a pitch for streamlining the process involving land development by cutting down the time spent in going through multiple hearings by the planning and zoning commission, then by the council. But the perception for many was that it would have left the process open to political pressure without the checks and balances a separate commission provides.

The stated goal was to increase efficiency, but council members recognized that there was an issue more important than efficiency—the perception of openness.

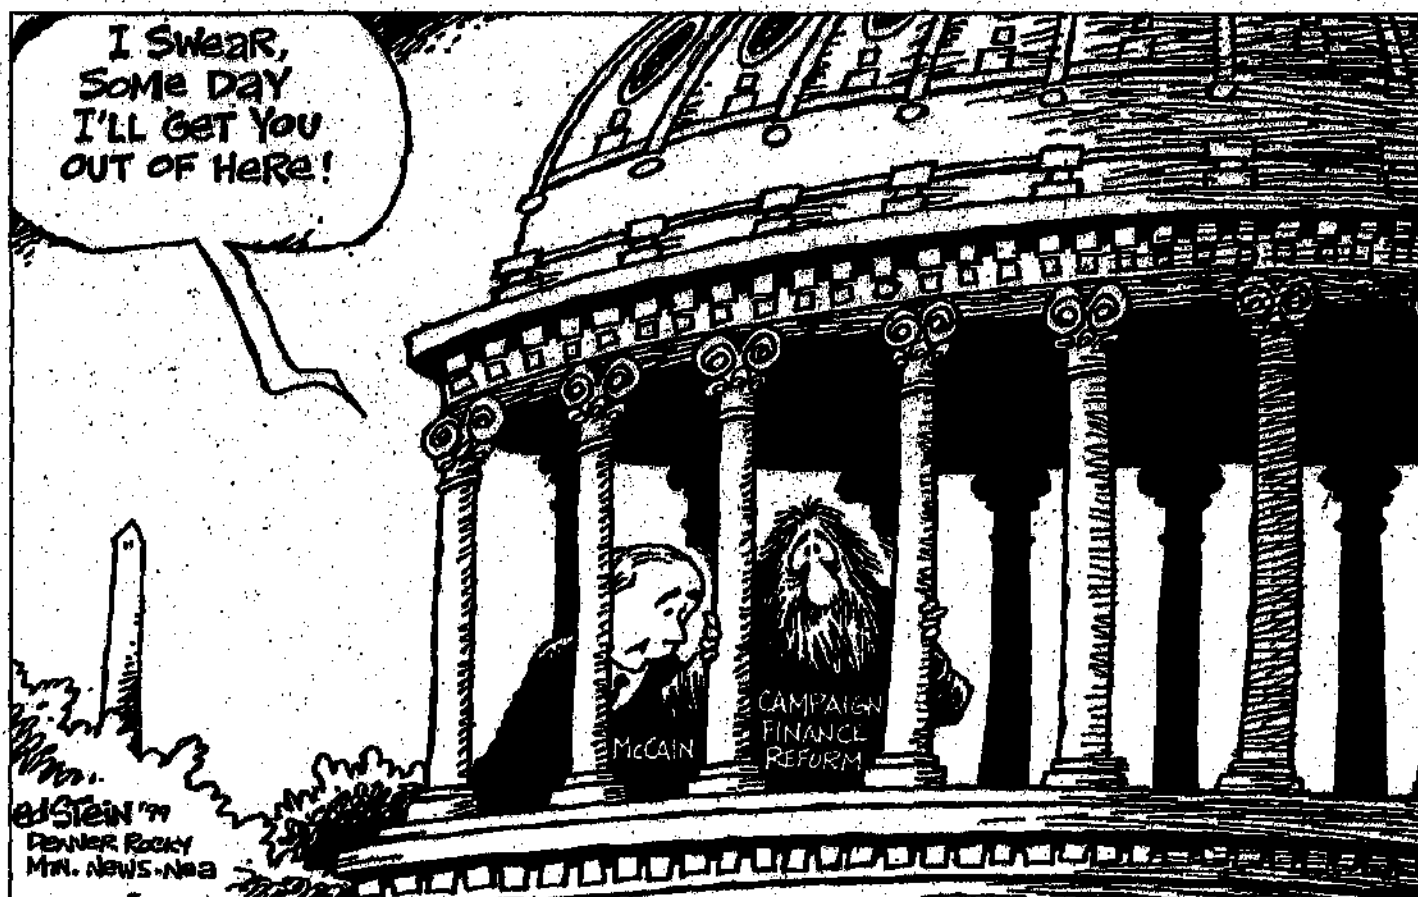

Tabling of the ordinance that would have allowed stand-by fees on vacant lots for water line maintenance simply recognized that implementation would have been at least as difficult as the aborted pay-as-you-go development impact fees tested by the council. It probably should come up again in different dress, because the problem is real and must be addressed.

Finally, the amphitheater plan:

Robert Donaldson is a forward-thinking, activist mayor who wants to make Ruidoso a better, bigger place in the years to come. It's doubtful that the convention hotel would have become reality without his support. His planned community recreational plaza is in the design phase and probably will be developed in some form, taxpayers willing.

The performance amphitheater will be seen by some as pie-in-the-sky, but in growing Ruidoso — a Ruidoso whose economic existence rests on its tourist destination appeal — it has a certain appeal that might grow with time.

So our mayor loses some and wins some in this democracy. It's not particularly efficient, but it does give his ideas a fair hearing.

Legal smoking by kids

To the editor:

Per articles in the Oct. 22 and Oct. 27 issues of the Ruidoso News, it is illegal for children to buy cigarettes; however, it is legal for them to smoke. This is as ridiculous as were the laws under Prohibition.

Under the U. S. Constitutional Amendment, XVII and the Volstead Act, the manufacture, importation, exportation, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors, except for medicinal or other special purposes, was criminalized.

However, the consumption of alcohol remained legal. In fact, it was also legal to prepare alcoholic beverages, from homes, for personal use in homes.

"Truth is stranger than fiction." As an ex-smoker, I must ask, "Are we in Lincoln County more concerned about children buying cigarettes than we are with them smoking?" Our state government is definitely anti-youth.

Several points omitted

To the editor:

On Oct. 22 a letter I wrote to the editor was published. Several points that I had written in the letter were omitted by the editor, due to publishing constraints, that I thought were very important for the citizens of Ruidoso to read and understand.

Your reporters need to ask the right people the right questions concerning the Luis Torres case, then all would be made clear. Those of you who are public officials should have to answer to the taxpayers of Ruidoso, since they are paying your salaries, and ultimately answer to God for your actions.

Your reporters were at the arraignment and sentencing, but not at the trial. The "before and after," but not "during." That was the most important part in order to find out what really happened.

I am very glad Luis is not in law enforcement anymore after dedicating 27 years of his life to his fellow man. It is a thankless job, thankless to the point of being prosecuted for doing his job. What happened to him can happen to any police officer at any time. Unfortunately, that's the real world.

Remember, in this case, the fat lady has not sung yet...

True justice possible

To the editor:

In reference to the letter... "Lawmakers, cops also break the law," well in Mescalero it includes judges, or more correctly one pretending to be a judge.

The tribal constitution not only requires trials to be held by three judges, it also requires that judges appointed by the president have concurrence of three-fourths majority vote of the tribal council. But of course these provisions do not apply to the current "tribal president" and the "acting chief judge" since they control the majority vote of the present tribal council.

Steve Wall, former tribal prosecutor, has been appointed "chief judge" by Sara Misquez and given full powers and salary without the tribal council's OK, as mandated by the constitution. Today, (Oct. 27), over my objection and challenge, Mr. Steve Wall acted or pretended to be a judge and over-ruled my objections and held a one-judge trial!

Well, justice is truly slow, but if a person never gives up true justice does prevail. I know because after two years of litigation and despite tribal politics and manipulation, the New Mexico District Court ruled in favor of a party whose civil rights were blatantly abused by a tribal president, chief judge and juvenile court judge.

May the good Lord bless Judge Karen Parsons! There are still judges out there who have integrity and honesty; she is surely one of them. The law does not speak for itself; we must help it along.

People who care

LETTERS POLICY

The Ruidoso News encourages letters to the editor, especially about local topics and issues.

Each letter must be signed and must include the writer's daytime telephone number and address. The phone number and address will not be printed; however, the author's hometown will be included. The telephone number will be used to verify authorship. No letter will be printed without the writer's name.

Letters should be 300 words or less in length, be of public interest and must avoid name-calling and libelous language. The Ruidoso News reserves the right to edit letters, so long as viewpoints are not altered. Shorter letters are preferred and generally receive greater readership.

Letters may be hand-delivered to the News office at 104 Park Avenue or mailed to P.O. Box 128, Ruidoso, NM 88355, attention of the editor.

The News reserves the right to reject any letter.

thing, that is until Wednesday, Oct. 20.

I was brought into the hospital having severe chest pains and an unfamiliar rash on my chest. I guess it was the strangeness of my symptoms and the fact that I had never been in a hospital that made me so scared. However, I was quickly calmed by the employees on duty in the emergency room... They were quick to help me in whatever way they could.

I was treated for a black widow spider bite on my chest. They said that was pretty rare and a very dangerous thing.

My sole reason for writing... is to thank the people that helped me, especially Physician's Assistant David Vity, Registered Nurse Chris La-counte, and Intermediate EMT Nate Skelton, as well as all the other nurses and staff that helped in my treatment. Too many times people aren't thanked because it is thought that they were only doing their job. I don't believe that is true. The PAs, doctors, and staff at LCMC care about their patients. I could see that in the fact that they wouldn't leave my side. That meant more to me than any of them will ever know.

...I will always be in their debt. I just hope more people realize how important and great these men and women are. And that their actions go beyond just doing their job. Thanks.

STATE SENATOR, DIST. 8

The New Mexico Legislature is preparing to redraw legislative, congressional and other political district boundaries, a job that at first glance may appear to hold interest only for politicians, political junkies and others inside government, but one that in reality is vitally important to every New Mexican — especially those living and working in rural New Mexico.

The Senate Rules Committee, which I chair, will play a central role in drafting the legislation that redraws those boundaries. Before finalizing our recommendation, we will hear from community leaders and citizens about your concerns regarding how the lines should be drawn, and we will hear from legal and technical experts about the criteria we must follow in redrawing political boundaries.

The United States Census Bureau is already hard at work to ensure that the count of New Mexico's population is as accurate as possible. I am confident that, with the Census Bureau's good planning and efforts, and with the support of locally elected officials and community leaders, we stand an excellent chance of securing an accurate count of everyone living in New Mexico.

Ensuring an accurate count is important for several reasons, and I personally encourage everyone to complete and return the Census Bureau questionnaire you will receive next year and to fully cooperate with any census-takers who may visit you in person. While it may seem to be an invasion of privacy to answer some of the questions asked, it is important to do so. Remember also that the information collected by the Census Bureau remains confidential as it pertains to individuals, and no information gathered is used for law enforcement purposes.

An accurate census count helps ensure that you are properly represented in congress and in the legislature in Santa Fe. Whether you are a registered voter or not (and I encourage everyone who is eligible to register to vote), you are guaranteed representation... Most importantly, in our system of representative democracy, each of us is guaranteed the same proportional voice in each of those institutions. That is why, when we redraw the congressional and legislative district boundaries, we are required to make sure... that an equal number live in each district.

In New Mexico, that means that each of our three congressional districts will be home to about 595,000 people, each state senate district to about 42,500 people and each state house of representatives district to about 25,500 people. The actual numbers will be determined when the census is completed next year. Because some areas of the state have grown faster than others... districts will either have to expand to reach the required number of residents or contract to stay within that number. Specifically, the growth in many areas of eastern New Mexico has not been as fast as the state as a whole, meaning our house and senate districts, and perhaps even congressional district, will expand to include areas that are currently part of other districts and are represented by other elected officials.

The legislatures ... is very sensitive to preserving political boundaries that make sense, that keep communities together, that group communities with similar interests, and that ensure, as best as possible, fair political representation for all New Mexicans.

This is also an inherent partisan process, with various political parties, factions and other groups seeking to maximize their political advantage in districts that will stand through the year 2010. A big part of our job, however, as members of the communities we represent, is to place community interests first and political interests second.

Our job in the legislature has already begun, and you will be asked to do your part when the census is taken next year. Let's all work to do the best we can.

Senator Campos' district includes Lincoln County.

2000 Census should be everybody's business

Ruidoso Downs officer awaits outcome of hearing

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Ruidoso Downs police officer admitted he violated department policy, but argued at a hearing Monday that the circumstances surrounding each of three incidents should excuse him from any disciplinary action.

Officer Chris "Corky" Condon is accused by Chief David Hightower of stopping a motorist outside of Ruidoso Downs police jurisdiction, of installing a program on the department computer without permission, and of conducting an investigation of another officer without authorization.

Two members of the village personnel board and hearing officer John Hakanson, an Alamogordo attorney hired by the village, listened to testimony for about three hours before concluding the disciplinary hearing. In such cases, the board usually submits a written decision to the village within two weeks.

In his summary statement, Condon told Hakanson, village shop manager Dale Graham and Karen Jones, head of payroll, that, "In all honesty, I don't know why this case made it this far."

Hightower didn't conduct an investigation and didn't take statements from witnesses. He has no case, Condon said.

But Village Attorney Dan Bryant said neither of those actions was necessary because Condon admitted the violations.

"He says he doesn't know how this complaint got here today," Bryant said. "We got here today because he violated policy three different times. A whole lot of investigation was not done, because he admitted it in a pre-disciplinary hearing."

Condon told board members that when he discovered someone was entering false information into the department computer to discredit him, he directed a junior officer to install a program that would track who used the computer and when. However, before the program was installed, the two men decided it wasn't what they wanted and stopped the process, he said.

Condon called the chief to tell him what he planned on doing to protect himself and Hightower agreed. But Hightower testified he didn't recall Condon being specific about installing the program or conducting an investigation, both violations of memorandums on department policy.

Condon said he didn't remember the memo on use of the computer. Bryant showed him a copy bearing his initials.

"I discovered other officers in my agency were doing improper actions with the computer and I reported it and complained and now I'm the one being disciplined," Condon said.

Hightower explained that the memorandum prohibiting entering new programs is to protect the machine and to stop people from using it for their own amusement.

Condon contended he told Hightower he planned to gather information on another officer who he suspected of improper actions. The chief didn't say not to proceed, he said. He took Hightower's silence as tacit approval, he said.

Hightower acknowledged in the hearing that Condon said he would share details of his personal investigation with the chief and that he never told Condon to stop what he was doing.

Bryant told board members the memorandum prohibiting investigations of any kind by one officer of another was an attempt to settle down a department in turmoil. It came in the wake of months of disruptive behavior with complaints and counter-complaints. Several officers received disciplinary action as a result of Hightower investigating all of the different complaints, he said.

Condon testified that when

he pulled over a driver who ran a stop sign on Hull Road, an event witnessed by Hightower, he attempted to first reach a dispatcher with the village of Ruidoso, in compliance with department policy.

He continued to try to contact the dispatcher without success until the driver already was stopped. Condon noted that he was off-duty, that he was an officer commissioned by the state and that the action did not affect coverage within Ruidoso Downs.

"I acted the way I thought

Emphasizing literacy

In conjunction with National Family Literacy Day, (observed Nov. 1), the Lincoln County Literacy Council, in conjunction with Lincoln County Head Start, is implementing a family literacy program.

Betsy Hambrick, literacy coordinator, said all materials and services for the program are free.

Family literacy programs bring parents and children together in the classroom to learn and to support each other in their efforts to further their education and improve their life skills, she said. As parents identify their strengths and develop skills, essential messages about education are passed on.

More information is available from Hambrick at (505) 934-3668.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS WITHIN SUBDIVISIONS LOCATED IN THE COUNTY OF LINCOLN OUTSIDE OF ALL MUNICIPALITIES

The Board of County Commissioners of the County of Lincoln would like to discuss whether any subdivisions in the County are interested in self-assessment to upgrade the roads in their subdivisions to either chip-sealed or paved roads. This discussion will take place at the Commission's next regularly scheduled Commission meeting, to be held at the Ruidoso Convention Center on November 18, 1999, at 9:00 a.m.

The Commission would like to stress that this discussion will address self-assessment, not forced taxing or assessment to improve subdivision roads. Individuals interested in improving the roads within their respective subdivisions, through some form of self-assessment, are invited to attend this meeting and make their wishes known to the Commission. The various alternative forms of self-assessment will be addressed in greater detail during the meeting.

Stories of LUPUS

Marcia Raymond and Karin Mellberg are women with a mission. Recently diagnosed with lupus, they decided that something had to be done to increase the awareness of this debilitating and potentially deadly disease, and to help build a sense of community among the more than 2 million Americans who suffer from it.

Taking their inspiration from the late journalist Charles Kuralt, who died from the complications of lupus in 1997, Raymond and Mellberg embarked on an unusual sort of a road trip. Both women began the journey with their disease symptoms active, including hair loss, fatigue, rashes, joint and muscle inflammation, and pain. They traveled 3,200 miles in an RV with a camera crew in tow to eight cities in California, Nevada, and Arizona. There, they met others who endure the precarious roller coaster of symptoms, pain, treatment, side effects, flare-ups, and recoveries that come with a diagnosis of lupus.

Stories of Lupus, a half-hour program, presents an emotional and intimate account of people who are finding ways to live with this unpredictable, often life-threatening, and highly misunderstood disease. The program provides an overview of the deceptive disease, for which there is no known cause or cure. It also addresses the research of this chronic autoimmune disease that has remained a mystery since the time of Hippocrates.

Although 90 percent of lupus patients are female and the disease commonly strikes women between the ages of 18 and 45, Stories of Lupus profiles a wide range of individuals and their families. Their stories of courage and determination put a human face on a disease that, in the words of Mellberg, is "silent, hidden, destructive."

Brian Darrow was diagnosed as a teenager and has been hospitalized 16 times. Libby Campbell was diagnosed three years ago at the age of 12 and wonders how the disease will affect her chances for a normal life. Michelle Handy's marriage and career collapsed after she was diagnosed with lupus.

One face viewers may recognize in Stories of Lupus is that of Mary McDonough, who played the part of Erin in the long-running television series "The Waltons." She speaks candidly about the adjustments the disease has forced her to make in her life, especially in her roles as a mother and actress. One of her main concerns is the possibility that her daughter will inherit lupus.

Stories of Lupus can be seen Wednesday, November 3rd at 9:30 p.m. It repeats Sunday, November 14th at 12:00 noon and Friday, November 26th at 11:30 a.m.

Reparation payment for WW II veterans of Bataan, Corregidor sought in Congress

WASHINGTON — A bill to provide $20,000 in reparations for World War II veterans who were forced to provide slave labor for the Japanese war effort while being held as prisoners of war following the Bataan and Corregidor campaigns has the support of both New Mexico U. S. senators.

The bill, introduced this week by Sen. Jeff Bingaman, D-NM, directs the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to make a one-time payment of $20,000 to eligible veterans of the Bataan Death March and Corregidor campaign or their surviving spouse. Many were New Mexicans.

While throwing his support behind the legislation, Republican Sen. Pete Domenici said he will work to see if the bill can be improved by exempting the reparation from federal taxes.

As the bill begins to move through Congress next year, Domenici pledged to examine the need to exclude the $20,000 payment from federal income taxes.

Without an exclusion, he said, the interaction between a lump sum payment and the Social Security income tax earnings limitation could subject some of eligible survivors to one-time exorbitant tax rates in excess of 50 percent.

"We don't want the federal government to give the compensation with one hand, only to have the IRS take it away with the other," Domenici said.

"The New Mexico Brigade played a prominent and heroic role in the fierce fighting that took place in the Philippines. For four months, the men of the 200th and 515th held off the Japanese only to be overwhelmed by disease, starvation, capture and enslavement," Domenici said. "I support this bill and will work to see it enacted."

Domenici said members of the 200th and 515th Coast Artillery, better known as the New Mexico Brigade, would be eligible for compensation. Of the 1,800 men in the New Mexico Brigade, less than 900 returned home and a third of those died within the first year of returning.

Bingaman's bill notes that a veteran is deemed eligible for the reparation if he served at Bataan or Corregidor in the Philippines during World War II; was captured and held as a prisoner of war by Japan as a result of such service; and was required by Japan to perform slave labor in Japan during World War II.

Reparations to individual members of the armed forces who were taken prisoner of war at Bataan were limited by a treaty governing the postwar reparations for which the government of Japan was liable. The amount of reparations paid to members of the armed forces held as prisoner of war by Japan during World War II, based on time served as a prisoner of war, but did not take into account slave labor performed while a prisoner of war.

"Today, every student in his or her history class learns about the tragic result of the Battle of Bataan. The survivors of the battle were subjected to the horrors and atrocities of the 85 mile 'Death March.' As if this weren't enough, following the infamous march, these men were held for over 40 months in prisoner of war camps," he said.

State ends tax amnesty program

SANTA FE — The widely publicized Tax Amnesty Program will end Nov. 12.

According to John J. Chavez, secretary of the New Mexico Taxation and Revenue Department, more than $20 million in back taxes has already been collected during the Tax Amnesty period, which began Aug. 16.

"As the end of the program approaches, I cannot state strongly enough that there will be absolutely no grace period for the payment of back taxes after Nov. 12," stated Chavez. "Taxpayers who straggle in Nov. 15 will be subject to the full extent of penalties or prosecution that the law allows."

"Because the incentive is so great, we expect a last-minute rush of taxpayers looking to escape penalties on unpaid taxes," predicted Chavez.

He suggests that waiting until the last minute may be unwise due to the large number of taxpayers expected to come forward as the program draws to a close.

Secretary Chavez point out that in New Mexico, the payment of state income tax, gross receipts tax and other mandated taxes is a matter of law, not a matter of choice.

Taxpayers who owe unreported taxes should understand that, with new reporting systems now in place, the chances of escaping detection are extremely remote.

Tax Amnesty offers those citizens a one-time opportunity to come forward without fear of penalty or prosecution.

The program absolutely ends at midnight, Friday, Nov. 12.

There are six local Audit and Compliance Division offices located in Albuquerque, Clovis, Farmington, Las Cruces, Roswell, and Santa Fe.

For the address of each office, or to learn more about your opportunities and responsibilities as a law-abiding New Mexico taxpayer, call the toll-free Tax Amnesty hotline at 1-888-Pay-Noww (1-888-729-6699).

OFFICER: Condon is protesting the disciplinary action

Chief Hightower would want me to act," Condon said. "I told all of the details and documented everything, but I am being disciplined for doing my job."

Bryant said the situation

did not pose a safety or health threat.

Hightower issued the edict not to perform traffic stops in the village of Ruidoso without prior approval by the Ruidoso Police Department in response to a letter from Ruidoso Chief Larry Maddox requesting that arrange, he said.

For that violation, Hightower issued a letter of reprimand to Condon, a very minor penalty, Bryant said.

For the computer offense, he issued a two-shift suspension and for the investigation violation, a three-shift suspension.

'Hazard' tree trimming gets council approval

A change in Ruidoso's forest management law will allow electric utility companies to trim vegetation on utility easements throughout the village to reduce fire danger.

The amendment, approved by the Village

Council last week, was in response to a fire on Warrior Drive in May that threatened housing areas. It will allow Texas-New Mexico Power to remove potential fire hazards on public easements across private land.

Women's education sorority celebrates 52 years of service in Lincoln County

Alpha Delta Kappa, an international sorority for women educators, unite in the common goals of educational excellence, altruism, and worldwide understanding.

The Eta Chapter annually awards two $500 scholarships. Presently holding the awards is Mandi Aldaz, an education major at the University of New Mexico, and Sherri Cox of Capitan, who is pursuing a master's degree.

Tigers attempt to rewrite history

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The District 6AA runner-up Capitán Tigers want to remember their past as well as forget it.

Capitan makes its sixth-straight regional volleyball tournament appearance, but it faces the team that has ended Capitan's season each of the last four years—the Animas Panthers. "They know it's there," Capitan coach Bryan Massé said. "You have to realize that that's last year and that's the year before and that has nothing to do with us, unless you let it."

Capitan and Dexter will represent District 6AA at Saturday's Region G Volleyball Tournament in Animas. Capitan meets the District 5AA champion Panthers at 11 a.m., followed by Dexter versus Hatch Valley at 1 p.m.

The winners earn trips to the state volleyball tourney and meet at 5 p.m. for the regional championship.

The Tigers (17-4) enter the regional coming off a forgettable performance in Dexter at Saturday's District 6AA championships.

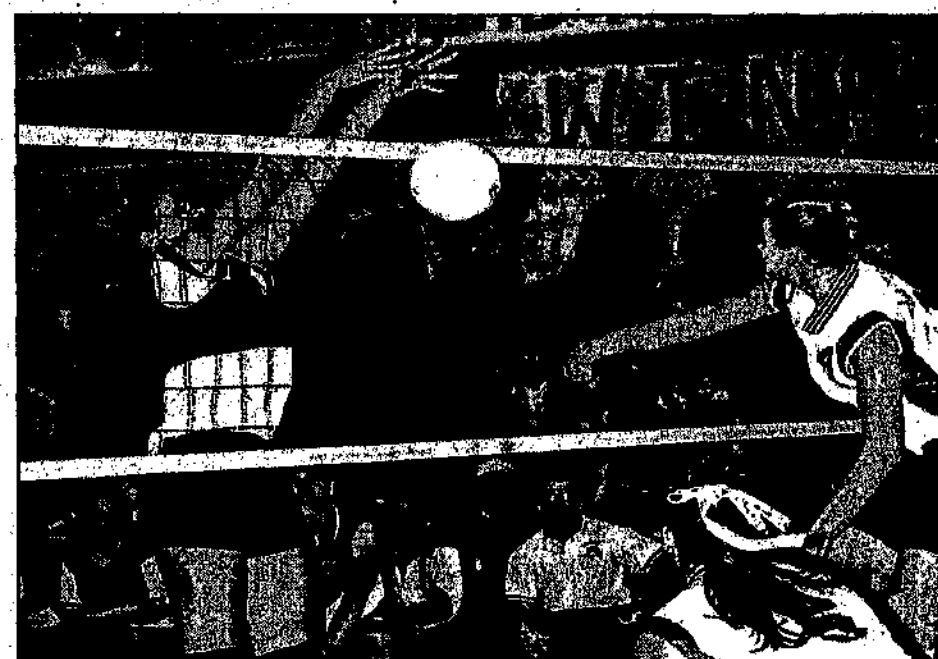

After beating the Demons on their home court in the first game 16-10, the Tigers didn't muster much else. Dexter rallied to win the next three games in rather convincing fashion, 15-3, 15-5, 15-6. Dexter, the defending Class AA state champion, improved to 20-2 to win the district title victory.

"It was like we ran out of fire, emotional energy and got down on ourselves," Massé said. "I don't know if that was it, but it sure looked like it."

Dexter coach Sally Knight said her Demons are slow starters but they caught the Tigers on a flat night.

"We finally started getting on our game," Knight said. "The Tigers are much better than they showed the last three games."

Ruidoso refocuses its energies

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Ruidoso football coach Les Carter was frustrated, really frustrated after his team's loss to nemesis Artesia in District 4AAA action, but not for reasons fans might suspect.

Sure, there were three squandered scoring opportunities by the Warriors and a dicey call or two by the officials.

But Carter's frustration stems from another source.

"The frustration level is not with losing the ball game, but probably with the overall picture of what's being made out of that game," Carter said Tuesday.

He went on to describe it as "unhealthy."

"We get so wound up and the community gets so wound up, that our kids don't play as free," Carter said. "Sometimes we allow rivalries to become too big a thing."

"When we realize that then I think we're going to play it like we're supposed to, like it's another district game. It's a very important game but it's no more important than the other two."

Indeed, the Warriors (7-2, 1-1) can determine their destiny when they travel to Portales (3-6, 0-2) Friday for a 7 p.m. game with the Rams. A victory clinches a playoff appearance for Ruidoso.

"We don't have to wait and see; it's in our hands," Carter said.

The Rams are no pushover. Lovington struggled with the Rams but went on to win 32-30 last week.

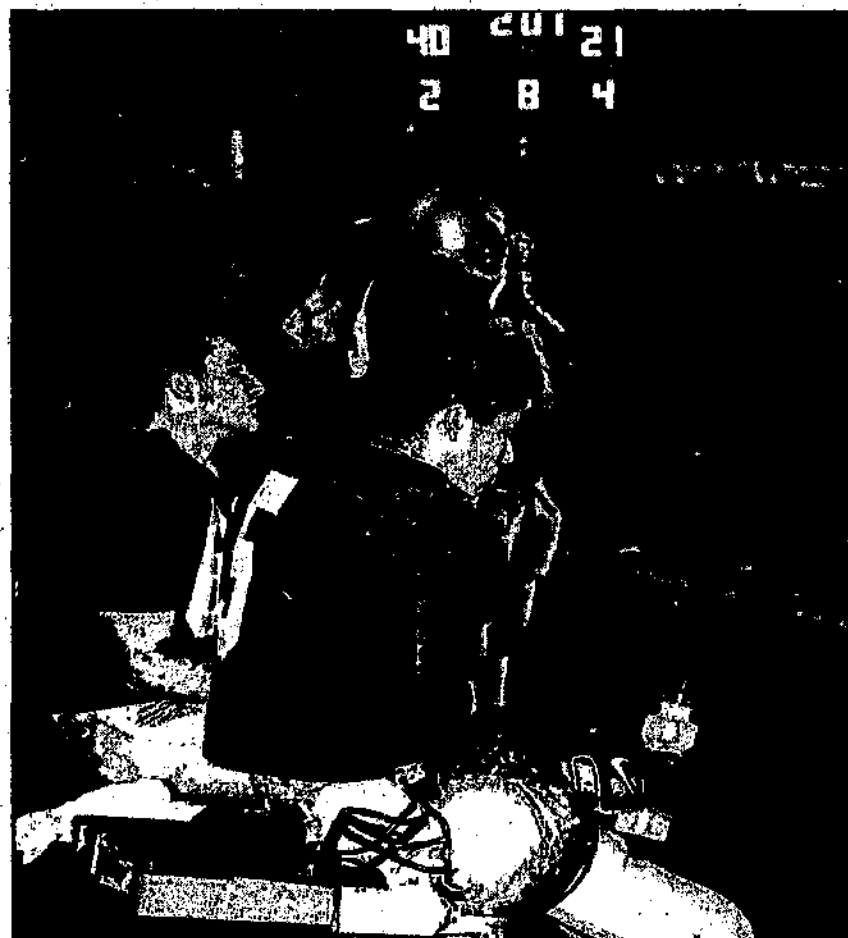

Portales runs a wishbone offense, and a team's defense must be disciplined in reading and reacting to stop the wishbone, Carter said.

"If the Warriors perform physically the way they are capable of offense and defense, they should do well against Portales, Carter said.

As far as the mental shape of the team is concerned, Carter said spirits are "really good."

"We believe in facing things straight on. We did and we talked about it and we put it in perspective," he said.

Artesia 40, Ruidoso 21

Behind the running and throwing of senior quarterback Mark Joseph, the Artesia Bulldogs recast their spell over Ruidoso, defeating the Warriors 40-21 in a District 4AAA contest Oct. 29. Indeed, Halloween weekend belonged to the Orange and Black of Artesia.

Joseph accounted for 267 - 103 rushing and 164 passing - of Artesia's 351 yards in total offense. He scored four rushing touchdowns and tossed another as the Bulldogs took sole possession of first place in the 4AAA. Artesia improved to 6-3 overall, while Ruidoso, tripped up for only its second time this season, fell to 7-2.

The Bulldogs escaped what could have been a disastrous beginning when they coughed up the football on the opening kickoff. Ruidoso promptly marched down the field to the Artesia 8-yard-line but stalled there when Jesse Anderson's 26-yard field goal attempt went just wide left.

Two Joseph TD runs and Cody Jones' interception and run back of 12 yards gave Artesia a 21-0 lead.

It looked like the rout was one.

But Ruidoso refused to fold. The Warriors came right back. Todd Schrader hooked up with J.R. Floyd for a 60-yard scoring strike at the 8:40 mark of the second quarter.

Schrader and Floyd connected again about four minutes later for a seven-yard TD pass play that cut the Bulldog lead to 21-14.

In the second half, it was a matter of who made the most of their opportunities. Three times inside the Artesia 20-yard-line the Ruidoso offense came up empty.

"We felt like we would have more success throwing underneath and we did," Carter said. "But you can't get inside the 20 and not score. It didn't happen and that's another side of high school football."

Artesia coach Cooper Henderson said, "The fact that we were able to get that early lead helped us a lot because Ruidoso definitely played a fine football game."

Ruidoso seniors Grant Brumlow (left) and Frizzell Frizzell (right) wait for the final two minutes of the game to tick away against Artesia. The Bulldogs made the most of their scoring opportunities en route to their 40-21 win over Ruidoso in 4AAA action Oct. 29.

Playoff hopes for the Warriors are still alive, however. Ruidoso must defeat Portales Friday to clinch the district runner-up spot.

CROSS COUNTRY

The Indians' ambush is a twin killing

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Ruidoso cross country coach Ronny Maskew said he didn't know much about the Cobre Indians heading into Friday's District 3AAA Meet. He called rival Silver City the pre-meet favorite.

After Cobre swept the boys and girls titles, Maskew has amended that thinking. He and the rest of the district know all they want to know about the Indians.

"They really did (surprise me)," Maskew said. "I thought they had one or two kids that could run really, but gosh they had seven that could run really well."

"I think Silver was more in shock than we were."

That's because the Colts were considered one of the top Class AAA teams in the state heading into the District 3AAA meet. Now, heading into Saturday's State Championships at Gallup, the Indians have that tag.

Cobre upset Silver, 29-30, in the boys race. Ruidoso was third with 61 points. In the girls race, the Indians were more convincing. The first four finishers were Indians. Cobre scored 18 points to Silver's 47 and Ruidoso's 55.

The Warriors' top finisher in the boys race was senior Collin May, who placed 11th with a time of 17 minutes, 34 seconds. Amanda Montes of Ruidoso took fifth in the girls race. She posted a time of 21:14.

All three teams will represent the district at the State Cross Country Championships Saturday in Gallup.

"We ran pretty well," Maskew said. "We had some of our better times; we just got beat. We don't have any excuses. These kids have worked hard. They've done well. They just flat out got beat."

This week in preparation for the state event, the Warriors will work on speed coupled with distance runs.

Ruidoso will leave Friday morning for Gallup.

"It takes forever to get there," Maskew said.

The Warriors will aim to improve their individual performances, Maskew said, and hope to finish in the top 10 in the team standings but that's going to be tough to do.

Ruidoso is familiar with the state course at Red Rock State Park. All but two have run the course, which features a few hills and sand.

"It's mostly a flat course," Maskew said.

Maskew also said the Warriors can expect from 6,000 to 7,000 spectators at the state meet, which is broadcast on radio.

"It's really a great, great event for cross country. I suspect it's one of the better state meets across the nation," Maskew said.

District 3AAA Meet results

Boys team results: 1. Cobre 29, 2. Silver 30, 3. Ruidoso 61
Girls team results: 1. Cobre 18, 2. Silver 47, 3. Ruidoso 55

Grizzlies advance to six-man football semis

BY KAREN BOEHLER
SPECIAL TO THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Playing in weather that resembled more the dead of winter than early fall, the Carrizozo Grizzlies made quick work of the Vaughn Eagles Friday, winning 56-6 in the first round of the six-man football state playoffs.

"(Getting out of here) was exactly what we were thinking," Carrizozo coach Pat Ventura said. "Just come out, get this done with. Nobody get hurt. Nobody get sick. Get out of here and go home."

The wind was blowing before the game began, the temperature dropped quickly and by game's end rain was coming down. But that only inspired the Grizzlies.

Joe Pawloski ran for three touchdowns in the first quarter and Ryan Roper two. The stiff wind made kicking difficult and only Roper made it through the uprights all night.

The Carrizozo defense was also strong, Vaughn (3-6) to one touchdown, a kick return from the 10-yard-line by junior Lucas Tapia.

Eagles coach Mike Anaya fielded a team that had nine players. Three were out with injuries and a senior had quit.

"We're just a young team," he said. "I've got mostly sophomores and freshmen. Hopefully in the next few years we'll pick it up a notch and be a little better."

Even though a win would have extended the Eagles' season, Anaya held back sophomore running back Andres Aguilar to keep him injury free. Aguilar has picked up 100-plus yards on the ground this season, but a knee injury and the bitter cold combined to make him much less of a threat.

Anaya said his team didn't want to keep the game going any more than Carrizozo did.

"They could have played better, but the conditions, the cold, they just wanted to get out of here," he said.

Knowing that a 45-point difference would end the game, Carrizozo scored four more times in the second quarter on runs by Wayne Francis, Simon Beltran, Bryan Bartz and Pawloski. Pawloski's last TD run from the 86-yard line with 1:18 remaining in the half pretty much guaranteed the game would end at halftime, and it did.

"I just wanted to end it,

Mustangs trip up Carrizozo for district title

Grizzlies will make second consecutive trip to regionals under Tycie Jackson

BY KAREN BOEHLER
SPECIAL TO THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Carrizozo Grizzlies picked the wrong time for their first loss in district volleyball.

Playing on their home court for the District 3A championship Saturday, the 12-6 Grizzlies fell to Mountainair 8-15, 15-10, 2-15, 15-4, 15-8.

Inconsistency and service errors contributed to the Grizzlies' demise. But Carrizozo coach Tycie Jackson said an injury to Brooke Holland, who went down in game three with a shoulder injury, came back then went down again early in game five, was the difference.

"When Brooke went out, that upset us and flustered everybody," she said. "It's almost like it went downhill from there. They tried, they fought, but I had some inexperienced players in there who were trying as hard as they could but just couldn't get it done."

After Holland went down the first time — in the middle of a rally that didn't stop — the injury almost seemed to galvanize the Grizzlies. Carrizozo lost the serve, but after getting it right back, Stella Brewer served six points to give the Grizzlies a 15-2 win, and put them up 2-1.

But game four was all Mustangs, and the final game went to Mountainair when Zozo couldn't hold the serve on rally scoring.

The Grizzlies' serving, which for much of the season was impeccable, also wasn't as strong as usual Saturday. Jackson said it might have been because of the boisterous crowd.

Both teams had full rooting sections, packing the gym, with the Mustang fans every bit as loud as the Grizzly rooters.

"I think the crowd was intimidating to them," Jackson said. "I don't know, but our serving hurt us."

Mustang coach Braham Hindi said his team picked a good time to come on strong.

"We hadn't played real well up until (Saturday)," he said. "Both times we played Zozo, we would play one game real well then just kind of lay down and die. They knew if we won the district, then we could host region in Mountainair, so they had that in the back of their minds."

Despite the loss, the Grizzlies' season isn't over.

Friday, Carrizozo will travel to Mountainair for a 6 p.m. semifinal match-up with District 5A champ Loving, while Mountainair squares off against Hagerman around 7:30 p.m. The winners earn a trip to state and meet at 10 a.m. Saturday for the regional championship.

Jackson thinks Holland will be back by next time, and isn't going to rule out a trip to state.

"I'm not going to say (playing in Mountainair) is going to make it harder, because here, there, where ever, we're just going to have to play hard," she said.

"I told the girls in the locker room, 'We can pity ourselves or we can get over it and get after somebody.' There's two ways to look at it."

Karen Boehler/special to the Ruidoso News
All-district 3A selection Renee Rael of Carrizozo makes a pass to a teammate during the Grizzlies' match against Mountainair Oct. 30 for the District 3A title. The visitors from Mountainair upset Carrizozo in five games, but both teams will represent the district at the Region D Tournament Friday and Saturday.

Teacher Eva Clarke enjoys having interns working with her in her kindergarten classes, and she said September Testerman has a natural ability to work with the children.

local businesses to get an idea about their possible futures

This is the last of two articles about the work internship program at Ruidoso High School.

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Ruidoso High School students have infiltrated the workplace to find out ahead of time if their career interests can stand up to the rigors of the job and the training required.

September Testerman, a junior, is working with Eva Clarke's kindergarten class at Nob Hill Early Childhood Center, and said she'll probably do it again next year because she loves working with the children.

Testerman works with the children individually at their tables, and is learning both sign language and Spanish on her own to be better able to communicate with the students.

"I help them learn their names, and I help them with art projects, and support Mrs. Clarke, act as a back-up," she said. "I've always wanted to be a teacher for kindergarten. It's so much fun!"

Testerman thinks it will look good on her resume to be able to write that she's had two years of "somewhat-teaching" experience while still in high school.

Shannon Salazar, whose internship is in the office of veterinarian Lynn Willard, said she's getting a better knowledge of the field through her internship, and finding out what she needs to study.

Jeremiah Simmons, interning at Lincoln County Medical Center, already knows medicine is the career for him, but he loves learning about it so much he can't wait for medical school.

Evan McClendon is interning this semester at the Hubbard Museum of the American West, and next semester he'll intern with architect George Staten.

"I chose this as a good experience to do so many things," McClendon said. "I want to do a little bit of everything."

Rebecca Durham, coordinator of the Ruidoso High School internship program and liaison between the professionals, or mentors, and the student interns, said she'd like to see the program grow to place about 50 students next year - and have them in every walk of life: in banks, law offices, law enforcement, auto shops, and other work places.

"We're going to be talking about the program when we schedule classes in the spring," Durham said. "It'll be part of (counselor) Linda Robeson's orientation."

Right now, 22 students are placed at Lincoln County Medical Center, Ruidoso Animal Clinic, at KBUY radio station, the Hubbard Museum of the American West, and in various classrooms across the school district, teaching classes and working with computers.

To expand the program, Durham said, requires more employers to step up and take on an intern - and that requires commitment and time.

"A lot of people think that it's free labor," Willard said. "That's not the purpose of the program. It's not a matter of us saying, 'Go clean the cages,' or 'Go clean the yard.' The purpose is for (the intern) to work with me on a day-to-day basis and see what I do and then determine whether to scratch it off her list."

Far from just having her run errands, Willard constantly tests Salazar on spelling, average temperatures of different animals, what a glucose curve is. She watches surgeries and then discusses them with Willard and Mary Jane Cooper, the other veterinarian in the clinic.

Despite the extra work entailed in having an intern, Willard is pleased to do it.

"It has been work for us and work for her," he said, but he does it because he likes young people.

Clarke, on the other hand, said it hadn't been much extra work for her to have interns because they're usually very interested in working with the kindergarten children.

Testerman "has such a natural ability, she catches on easily," Clarke said. "I can really depend on her to just take over if a situation arises and I need something done."

Clarke said she takes on interns to help the school system and to help any of the young people who come over from the high school. She said she's had five or six interns.

"I think it behooves us all to work with anybody that's interested in early childhood, to let them have that extra experience is a help," Clarke said. "In my own situation, I appreciate it, I enjoy it, and there's not one bit of hard work to it."

At the hospital, Mary Stahl, practice manager for all the physicians' offices connected with the hospital, was very positive about the internship program, which sends its four high school interns through a rotation so they'll experience almost every avenue of medicine.

"I think interns are great fun to work with," Stahl said. "They bring a lot of energy into the office."

Dr. Chris Robinson agreed, and said all of the interns he had worked with were very intelligent and motivated. Simmons has been an intern for various doctors and departments in the hospital and said they expect him to know things and send him to check out unusual cases.

Mentors set up schedules with the students that allow them to spend at least 4 1/2 hours per week for a half-credit. After nine weeks, the mentor fills out an evaluation of the student's performance and discusses it with the student.

Durham works with the mentor as well as with the student-interns, who sign a contract (parents must also sign a permission/insurance form). The final grade is determined by the student's time sheet, a daily log sheet, the mentor's evaluation, and Durham's evaluation of the student's final project, a 15-minute presentation of what was learned during the internship.

The mentor evaluation form looks similar to an employee evaluation, and rates students on appropriateness of appearance, demonstrating initiative and self-direction, following directions, and communicating in a clear and concise manner, to name a few items.

"It's a wave of the future," said Mike Gladden, superintendent of schools, who foresees expanding the program even further and integrating it more with the School-to-Work Program.

"We may have a sixth-grader saying 'I want to be a doctor,' and this actively gives them on-the-job experience," Gladden said. "It's an opportunity before college to find out if they're going to be dissatisfied with a certain career, gives them an earlier experience of that."

Clarke, who has had five or six interns, has enjoyed the experience and encourages anyone to do it.

"I appreciate ... knowing that Nob Hill could provide some sort of help for the program," Clarke said.

September Testerman, a Ruidoso High School junior, is interning at Nob Hill Early Childhood Center because she's always wanted to be a kindergarten teacher.

Billy Bear Gets His Bearings

Where Am I?

Billy Bear was fast asleep when his father carried him into his new home and put him to bed. Daddy Bear had been promoted, and the family was transferred to Bear Town, Kansas. Billy Bear was so tired from packing and saying goodbye that he slept all the way on moving day. Billy Bear was very puzzled when he woke up. He wanted to find out where he was. He wanted to get his bearings.

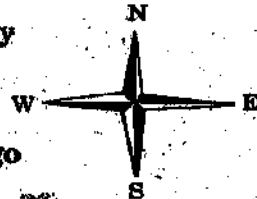

Daddy Bear decided it was a good time to give Billy a lesson in geography. Geography is the study of the Earth and the living things on it, and why and how and where they are.

"This is a photo of our new house from outside," said Daddy.

"To give you a better idea, I will draw you some maps," said Daddy Bear. "A map is a drawing of a view from above. A map makes big things small. To give you an idea of the size, I will give you the measurements for the greatest distance from east to west." The words north, south, east and west tell us which way to go or where something is. These are called "cardinal" directions.

1. You are in a room. east to west: 12 feet	2. Your room is in a house. east to west: 40 feet	3. Your house is on a lot. east to west: 50 feet
4. Your lot is in a neighborhood. east to west: 2 miles	5. Your neighborhood is in a city. east to west: 10 miles	6. Your city is in a state. east to west: 400 miles
7. Your state is in your country. east to west: 2,807 miles	8. Your country is part of a continent. east to west: 4,000 miles	9. Your continent is on the Earth. around the equator: 25,000 miles

Bearing In on Maps

Billy's dad wanted him to know more about how to locate people, places and things. Daddy Bear pointed out that many maps have grids with lines going in two directions.

A bar scale helps us measure the distance between two points. The bar scale for Bear Town shows the distance in feet. How far away is the riding ring from Billy's house?

Absolute location

By using the grid of Billy's neighborhood, he could find out the absolute or exact location.

For example, Billy Bear's house is absolutely located at D-2.

Find the letter D on the sides. Find the number 2 at the top and bottom. With your fingers, trace along the rows of squares until the two rows meet. Billy's post office is located at A-2. Billy's drugstore is located at B-4.

Bear Town index

Can you find these other locations?

- Bear Town Lake
- Sunflower Farm
- Riding ring
- Picnic table
- Billy's swings
- Fire station
- Grocery store
- Soccer field

Relative location

Relative location is how a place is related or connected to another. For example, the barn is between the riding ring and the soccer field.

Cardinal directions

North, south, east or west tells us which way. Can you fill in the blanks?

The swings are _____ of the post office.
The airport is _____ of the drugstore.
The lake is _____ of the picnic table.
The fire station is _____ of the drugstore.

Latitude and longitude

We also use grids to find out where we are on Earth. These imaginary lines are called parallels of latitude and meridians of longitude.

- Parallels of latitude
  - run from east to west.
  - are separate circles.
- Meridians of longitude
  - run from north to south.
  - meet at the North and South poles.

Next week read all about New Hampshire, a state that will soon be in the news.

When we put these together, we cover the Earth with a net, or grid.

To do: Look through your newspaper for locations. Find them on a globe or map.
