County defines jail criteria

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

CARRIZOZO - Lincoln County's new jail here will be a 96-bed building with no frills, if county commissioners stick with the criteria discussed last week.

County Manager Tom Stewart received approval from commissioners at their monthly meeting Thursday to ask for proposals to construct the jail.

Stewart, Commission Chairman Rex Wilson and Commissioner William Schwettmann visited a jail under construction in Deming. They traveled with Lincoln's jail administrator Mike Borrego and with Bill Garrison, chairman of Correctional Systems Inc., the company that manages the county jail on contract. They came back with an idea of what they want to see in a local jail.

That includes beds for 16 women prisoners, four in a cell; beds for 80 males, 16 in a cell; no indoor gymnasium, but use of a day room for recreation or an outside fenced compound; a multi-purpose room with four non-contact visiting cubicles; two detoxification cells; two shakedown intake cells; a fenced sally port prisoner entrance instead of a covered one; minimal use of surveillance cameras, but built-in lighting protection and keyed electric doors.

The architect will bring a concept drawing to the commission's October meeting, Stewart said.

The commission is planning a new jail, because the old one holds only 30 inmates under new space and safety requirements. Until the new detention center is completed, a minimum security building is being tried out to reduce the number of inmates in the old jail. Others are being farmed out to jails in other counties.

Stewart said he compared other options for financing, building and operating the jail, but thinks the commission is moving on the right track.

Motorcycles on parade

Thousands of motorcyclists revved down Mechem and Sudderth drives Saturday morning during a parade in conjunction with the Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally. Jill Andrews, who with her husband, Ron, coordinates the rally, said this year's five-day event attracted about the same number of motorcyclists as last year, if not more, despite rainy weather the first three days.

Gaming hearings closed

BY TONI K. LAXSON
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Feb. 21 arbitration hearing between three gaming tribes and the New Mexico Gaming Control Board will be conducted behind closed doors, an attorney for the state said this week.

The arbitration centers on the tribes' refusal to pay the state a portion of casino revenues as well as regulatory fees as required in the gaming compacts signed in 1997.

At a 3-hour preliminary arbitration hearing Friday morning at the Mescalero Inn, which also was closed to the public, an attorney for the New Mexico Gaming Control Board said she argued for both meetings to be conducted in public. However, the three arbitrators hearing arguments decided on closed-door hearings.

"And they based that on the AAA (American Arbitration Association) rules of arbitration," Eliza Stewart, an attorney for the Gaming Control Board, said Tuesday from her Albuquerque office.

Representatives for the tribes, which include the Mescalero Apache, have said the required 16 percent of net revenues from slot machines is too high to comply with federal regulations for gaming compacts between tribes and states.

The Mescalero Apache Tribe is one of two in the state that has not submitted any payments or regulatory fees to the states. The Jicarilla Apache Tribe is the other. Other tribes have since either stopped the payments to the state or decreased the percentage they submit.

Two pueblos, Taos and Acoma, have joined the arbitration process. None of the attorneys representing the three tribes in the arbitration process returned telephone calls from the Ruidoso News.

Mescalero election official removed

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

Rufina Laws, an outspoken advocate of open government, was removed Monday as chairman of the Mescalero Apache Election Board.

Administration officials say she abused her position to further her own political agenda.

Laws contends her efforts to run the Sept. 28 primary election and to improve the election process were sabotaged deliberately by tribal President Sara Misquez.

Misquez issued a statement Tuesday detailing the reasons for Laws removal by a three-member tribal consisting of Misquez, tribal Council Member Arthur "Butch" Blazer and election board member Melvin Rice.

Misquez appointed Laws Aug. 19. The appointment occurred during a meeting where Laws criticized the process of a special July election, in which Misquez was selected to serve until the next general election, Nov. 2.

"The election board's role is to function as a non-partisan entity and to provide for a fair and orderly election process," Misquez said in the statement. "In direct conflict with this stated mission, Ms. Laws had been actively campaigning for her personal agenda at election board meetings.

"We are disappointed that Ms. Laws was unable to put aside her personal beliefs and rise to the challenge of holding the chair of the election board. We wanted to give her a chance to be in a leadership position in the election process."

Politicizing the election board threatens the process of fair and open elections, Misquez said, adding that five election board members stated they would not continue to serve if Laws remained as chairman.

The tribal council later named Elizabeth LaPaz new chairman, re-

Former judge candidate arrested in Alamogordo

BY TONI K. LAXSON

Patricia Ortiz recently said her combined frustrations with an inoperable cellular telephone and intractable GTE employee moved her to curses last week in Alamogordo.

The curses, in turn, resulted in the arrest of the Ruidoso attorney and former district court judge candidate. Ortiz paid an $800 bond on charges of trespassing and resisting/obstructing an officer and was out of the Alamogordo jail within two hours on the afternoon of Sept. 14.

Ortiz said her arrest at a GTE cellular telephone outlet in Alamogordo never should have happened. She claims it was a false arrest, the culmination of a series of foul-ups following her purchase of a cellular telephone from GTE.

"There are going to be lawsuits. This was ridiculous," Ortiz said Thursday from her Ruidoso office.

GTE personnel at the Alamogordo outlet could not be reached by telephone. A telephone number listed for the outlet connects to a national system of operators. At least two of those operators did not have a direct number for the Alamogordo office.

A clerk at Alamogordo Municipal Court said Ortiz is scheduled for trial Oct. 6 on the charges. Ortiz, a defense attorney who ran unsuccessfully in last year's election for 12th District Court judge in Carrizozo, had indicated on court records she will represent herself.

Ortiz said dealing with GTE runaround led to her foul language in the Alamogordo office. It was her third visit there since she bought the telephone just after Labor Day. At the time, a store clerk gave Ortiz information on how to check and recharge the batteries. The Officer makes best of drug training

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Ruidoso Downs police officer said Monday recent drug enforcement training paid off with the arrest of two El Paso men who were allegedly in possession of 83 pounds of marijuana.

Ruidoso Downs Police Officer Kelly J. Calicoat early Friday morning stopped Mateo Grado, who turned 80 Tuesday, and Saul Munoz, 23, for a minor traffic violation near the intersection of Highway 70 and Spring Road, Calicoat said.

One of the things that made him suspicious of the pair in the 1986 Isuzu was that, in the course of his investigation the officer said he learned that they were just friends, not related, and had known each other only about a month.

Calicoat then got written consent from the driver, Munoz, to search the vehicle and found drug paraphernalia under the seat. He arrested them for that and had the vehicle transported to a secure area. A more thorough search revealed a hidden compartment containing 73 packages of marijuana, amounting to a little more than 83 pounds, he said.

It was almost a month to the day that Calicoat finished a three-day, highly specialized training program called "Desert Snow," teaching officers to recognize possible drug smugglers.

"It was a routine traffic stop for a minor traffic infraction," Calicoat said. "After I gathered information as instructed in that class to do, my suspicions started heightening after obtaining a written consent to search and the paraphernalia was found under the driver's seat."

Calicoat spoke to his instructor from the program about this bust.

"He said this is one of the oldest (alleged) smugglers he's encountered in the 500-600 cases in his career of drug seizures," Calicoat said.

Grado and Munoz are scheduled to appear for their preliminary hearing in the Magistrate Court of Judge William R. Butts at 9 a.m. today.

STARDATE

Mira, a star whose name means "wonderful," appears near the center of the constellation Cetus, the whale or sea monster. Mira changes brightness over a period of about 11 months. At its brightest, it is easily visible to the unaided eye. At its faintest, you need a telescope to find it.

A glimpse into Lincoln County's past, compiled from local newspapers by Polly E. Chavez

White Oaks Eagle Sept. 21, 1899

The White Oaks public schools will open Monday, the second of October. Great care has been taken in the selection of teachers and a successful school year is expected.

Lee H. Ruidisille, Paul Mayer and Jose Vega, jury commissioners, went to Lincoln the first of the week to make out the jury list for the October term of District Court.

News reached here yesterday of the death of Will Gray, son of S. T. Gray, at the Salado. Young Gray was a son-in-law of Mrs. Lesnet of Lincoln, and brother-in-law of John A. Haley of this place. Gray was taken with inflammatory rheumatism, which developed into paralysis, terminating in death.

Former Ruidoso police officer killed in accident

A former Ruidoso police officer was killed in a hit-and-run accident on Saturday in El Paso, Texas.

Robert Madrid, 50, an off-duty El Paso police officer, was on his 1993 Harley Davidson motorcycle when he was struck from behind by a 1987 red Delta 88 Oldsmobile on Railroad Drive, according to a release by the El Paso Police Department. Both vehicles were heading south.

"The Oldsmobile struck the motorcycle from behind causing it to go down onto its side and slide, the decedent was separated from his motorcycle and came to rest in the middle of the northbound lane of Railroad Drive," the release states.

The driver of the car, Edith Ruth Delgadillo, 21, allegedly tried to drive off but was unable to because of damage to the car, so she abandoned the car and fled on foot, according to the release.

The El Paso Police Department reports Delgadillo was found at her home on Sunday. She was charged with manslaughter and failure to stop and render aid, and was booked into the El Paso County jail. Bond was set at $80,000.

Earlier reports indicated that Madrid was not wearing a helmet at the time of the accident, but police report his helmet was located with the Oldsmobile and "after examining the helmet and evidence at the scene (special traffic investigators) have determined that he was wearing a helmet" and that it was expelled due to the impact of the accident.

Visitation for Madrid will be from 3-7 p.m. today at Hillcrest Funeral Home, 1060 N. Carolina Drive in El Paso, the rosary will be at 7 p.m. Wednesday. A Mass will be at 11 a.m. Thursday in San Jose Catholic Church, 8100 San Jose Road, El Paso, with burial following at Mount Carmel Cemetery in El Paso.

ORTIZ: The attorney says she plans to sue the telephone company clerk also gave Ortiz a telephone number to call her if something went wrong.

Ortiz said after a number of frustrating exchanges with the company that failed to resolve the problem, she went back to Alamogordo on Sept. 14. This time the clerk, the same Ortiz said she had spoken with three days earlier, said the company could exchange the telephone, but only if Ortiz provided the receipt and box it came in. Ortiz had the receipt. She did not have the box. The clerk would not exchange the telephone.

"Ma'am, I said, 'That is stupid. Exchange the (expletive) phone,'" Ortiz said she told the clerk.

The clerk cautioned Ortiz about her language, and pointed out that a child was in the office. Ortiz repeated the phrase.

The clerk then apparently asked Ortiz to leave the office and called Alamogordo police.

When officers arrived, Ortiz refused to identify herself — the basis of the resisting arrest charge, she said.

"They asked me for my name, and I said, 'What is your name?' They asked me for my identification, and I asked them for theirs," Ortiz said, adding that she is entitled to see verification of a police officer's identity.

"You can rent those uniforms," she said.

Ortiz contends the situation was one based on the incompetency of GTE employees, and it was a false arrest by officers.

MESCALERO: Laws says her removal as chairman was politically motivated turning her to a position she's held for many years. La Paz's son, Christie La Paz, is a candidate for re-election to the tribal council. Bonna Dell Ortega was named alternate. Jerry Mancito was appointed a judge, replacing Natalie Fossum, who was named an alternate.

The tribunal's action was presented to the tribal council later in the day, but the board split on approval. Vice President Fred Chino Sr., a candidate for re-election, broke the tie in favor of Laws' removal, a council member said.

Laws said Misquez appointed her as chairman last month "out of spite," because she knew the board was loaded with people aligned with the administration and they would make it difficult for Laws to update the election process.

The former chairman said Monday she's worried her effort to use electronic voting machines will be reversed, even though it was approved by board vote. A return to paper ballots will intensify suspicions among tribal members of tampering with results, she said.

She said she's also worried the list of candidates already certified by board vote as eligible to run may be changed.

From the outset, obstacles were thrown in her path, Laws contends, saying:

• When several members appointed to the election board by Misquez declined to serve, no replacements were named despite Laws' urging and the approaching deadline for the primary election.

• She was told that no money was left for the board to stage elections, and unlike previous elections, she would have to put together a budget in advance and request money. She was told that helpers she asked to pitch in because of the lack of board participation will not be paid, she said.

• She has not been able to find a key to a vault that holds the ballots from past elections and is to be used to store equipment for the primary and general elections.

Attorney's body found near Nogal

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The body of a Ruidoso attorney who apparently hanged himself from the A-frame shelter at a rest area just outside of Nogal was found Monday evening.

William Lipscomb, 69, was found by a man and his son at about 5 p.m. at a rest area on State Highway 37, about 15 miles east of Carrizozo, said Rick Anglada, public information officer for the New Mexico State Police in Santa Fe.

Anglada said he did not know the names or ages of the people who discovered the body.

"The call went in through the Sheriff's Department, then our officer got to the scene," said Lt. Bill Bower with the State Police in Alamogordo. "We sealed the scene at that time and began the investigation."

Bower said there was some discussion between the undersheriff and the State Police officers over which office had jurisdiction. Anglada said both agencies have jurisdiction and he wasn't sure how they determined who would handle this case.

"Lipscomb died from an apparent suicide," Anglada said.

Bower said the State Police got the call at 5:12 p.m. and cleared the scene of the incident by about 7:30 p.m. He said a criminal agent was brought in to conduct the investigation.

Anglada said the family has been notified.

There was no note found at the rest area, Anglada said.

Cycle accident kills Ohio woman

An Ohio motorcyclist was killed Saturday after being thrown to the ground when a kick stand hit pavement on U.S. Highway 70 west of Ruidoso.

Dorothy Boldman, 56, was wearing a helmet when her head hit a rock, but died from the injury, according to a report by officer Paul Bryant of the New Mexico State Police.

Boldman was a passenger on a Honda motorcycle driven by her husband, James Boldman, 61. The couple stopped at about 8:30 p.m., to put on helmet at mile post 258, five miles west of Ruidoso. But Boldman apparently forgot to put up the cycle's kick stand.

The couple started down the highway in the west bound lane. When the kick stand hit the road, Boldman lost control, according to Bryant's report.

Dorothy Boldman was pronounced dead at the scene, and James Boldman was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center for treatment of injuries, according to Julie Sterchi, assistant administrator. He was released Monday.

Local recycling study planned

In a partnership between Ruidoso and Eastern New Mexico University, students at the Ruidoso campus will complete a study of markets for recyclable materials and provide it to the village.

Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson said college administrator Jim Miller approached the village about providing the study, which will include New Mexico recycling markets as well as those in nearby states.

Donaldson recently announced that the village would discontinue collection of some recyclable materials, including plastic, because there was not a market and the materials were going into the landfill.

Miller said about six sociology students will research recycling opportunities that would allow the village to resume recycling at least at a break-even cost.

OUR OPINION

A new lease on life at the Glencoe Center

There was no better time for the county to put the Glencoe Rural Events Center in other hands. Sporadically used since last fall's Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium, the center — according to the findings of the Hondo School District, which took it over — was poorly maintained, infested by rodents and had leaky water pipes. The roof leaked too. Trash hadn't been picked up, weeds were uncut, the tractor lacked oil, the restrooms were filthy.

And the bull chutes needed to be welded.

That's quite a list for a facility owned by the taxpayers of Lincoln County, and reinforces the decision by the commissioners to rid themselves of something that over the years had been an expensive political thorn in their sides.

The bugaboo of community jealousy never went away; Capitan's concern for untouched fairgrounds overwhelmed any interest in maintaining a second cowboy-oriented facility. Private roping and rodeo arena operators felt threatened.

But the Hondo schools, landlocked on property in which there was no room to expand, saw an opportunity in the big barn of a building, the arena next door, and the acreage overlooking the Rio Ruidoso valley. Superintendent Barbara Casey made a tough pitch to the commission, and now the Glencoe center is the Hondo system's responsibility.

It hasn't been shirked. In a report to the commission last week, she advised that things are different now. The building is being cleaned, the tractor has been serviced and cleaned, several truckloads of trash were removed, and an exterminator was hired to control pests.

Weeds will be cut and minor repairs handled as soon as possible.

The chutes for cattle (and bulls) at the rodeo arena have been welded.

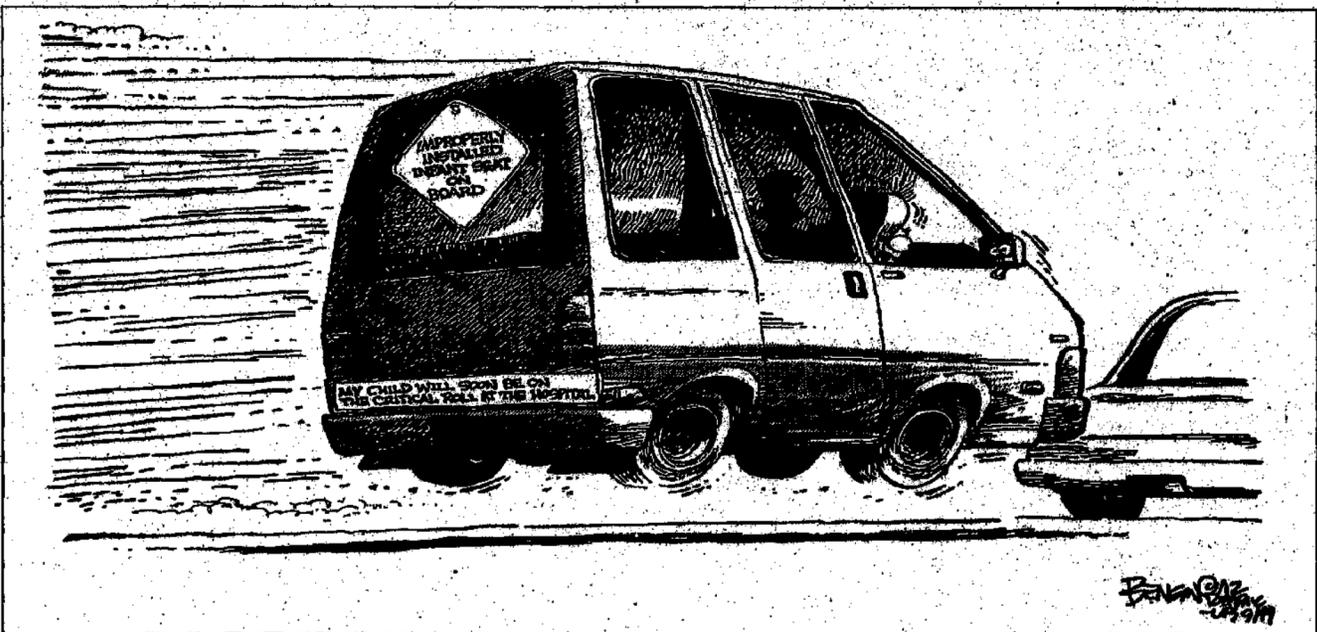

Best of all for the people of the valley, the Glencoe center still is available for community and private functions, through the school's business manager. It's also there to meet the future needs of the Hondo schools.

The county and its taxpayers, of course, still own the facility. But the commissioners' decision last week to allow a separate advisory board to oversee its operation indeed frees up the Hondo schools to make it a more useful gathering place for everybody.

The stellar Cowboy Symposium has moved to town.

But the valley people needed their own venue, under their own control, and now they have it.

May they make the most of it.

Justice is blind

To the editor:

Our 12th Judicial District, once again, appears to be soft on crime.

There are no crimes worse than those committed or attempted against children.

I read an article in the Sept. 15 issue of the Ruidoso News that belongs in "Ripley's Believe It or Not." I believe what I read.

Per the article, a self-confessed child molester was not imprisoned for attempting to sexually molest a minor. Unbelievable! In addition, the victim's family, supposedly, agreed to the plea bargaining and in my opinion, to the miscarriage of justice. Again, unbelievable!

"Justice is blind." It is time for Themis, the goddess of justice, to remove her blindfold and look at all the injustice that surrounds her in her judicial system.

Apparently, the 12th Judicial District has little concern for the safety and welfare of children. Believe it or not.

Library supported

To the editor:

In regard to a letter published recently ... thanking the Ruidoso Public Library and all sponsors for contributing to the children's summer programs, I would like to mention that not only have such programs been made possible by our dedicated library employees and volunteers, but by funds provided by the Friends of the Library organization.

In addition to membership dues, used book donations to the Friends of the Library Book Shop are sold by volunteers in the shop to provide funds for these programs, and for two to four scholarships to area graduating seniors annually.

Therefore, thanks also should go to our citizens for their donations and for their volunteer services.

Life-saving support

To the editor:

On Sept. 10 ... I had a near fatal situation that started off with Lincoln County 911. The purpose of this letter is to express my sincere appreciation to all the people involved with saving my life.

My brother, Tom Stevenson, who kept me going while waiting on EMS to arrive, to the ER staff at Lincoln County Medical Center, ICU staff, Dr. Harvey J. Featherstone and all the nurses and hospital staff involved, the Ruidoso police and fire departments ... and to all my family.

I feel the services and professionalism of Lincoln County are second to none and I sincerely thank everyone.

"Viva la independencia de Mexico" by Cynthia E. Orozco. Thank you, Cynthia, for your commentary. It was wonderful reading about our Mexican heritage and enlightening the public. We should celebrate more Mexican fiesta days in Ruidoso. Viva Nuevo Mexico!

Whose drug of choice?

To the editor:

I'm sorry Mr. Boren, but I could not disagree with you more (about the drug problem). My best advice to you would be to go back to the high school, any high school, and talk some student out of a joint, and then spark it up. Because until you do you cannot speak of what you know nothing about.

Your letters were full of contradiction and half-truth. By your own admission, tobacco and alcohol cause 100 times more grief (and probably more than that). Yet you use this as a reason to keep drugs illegal. That is absurd. It makes many millions of your fellow Americans criminal, and you can't put that many people in prison. (Although I'm sure Wackenhut would like to try.)

You missed Governor Johnson's point because of your generational bias against pot. He has said that drug use, including the use of alcohol, is a bad choice. But it makes no sense, and costs a lot of money, to lock people up for it. Your so-called "War on Drugs" is nothing more, and will never be anything more, than a jobs program for cops and prison guards.

And sir, I must correct you, the overwhelmingly used entry level is your generation's drug of choice, alcohol.

It is this hypocrisy that has left your rhetoric ringing hollow for my generation and indeed the up and coming one.

Drug abuse is an old problem that needs new answers. Sir, if you favor Turkey's solutions, maybe you should move there.

Useful Web site

To the editor:

I was a Rotary exchange student (in Ruidoso) in 1990. It is really great to keep up with what's going on in Ruidoso.

I had a fantastic year at Ruidoso High School during which time I stayed with Mike and Karen Morris. John and Jerry Howden were my Rotary contacts. I owe the town a great deal for my experiences during the year.

Keep up the great Web site. Love to all in Ruidoso

A look at private prisons, and who needs reform

As of Monday, state Senate President Pro Tem Manny Aragon resigned his position as an out-of-state consultant for Wackenhut Corrections Corporation.

Aragon resigned after allegations that his connection with Wackenhut as a consultant and his position in the Legislature was a conflict of interest.

Aragon denied any conflicts of interest but resigned anyway.

This was just the latest event that has rocked the corrections system in New Mexico over the last several months. These events culminated with the murder of corrections officer Ralph Garcia on Sept. 2.

Garcia served as a guard and was killed during a 4-hour riot at the Wackenhut-run Guadalupe County Correctional Facility near Santa Rosa, which opened in January.

Wackenhut also runs the Lea County Correctional Facility at Hobbs, which opened in May, 1998. Some 1,500 state prisoners are kept at the two privately run prisons.

Garcia and five prisoners have died in prison incidents in New Mexico in the past 10 months.

Five of those killings occurred at prisons run by Wackenhut.

Privately run prisons in New Mexico are a relatively new facet of the New Mexico corrections system that has arisen during Gov. Gary Johnson's term in office.

Johnson argues that private prisons can be run at less cost and more efficiently than state-run prisons.

But five deaths sounds a little expensive to me.

Companies that run prisons, such as Wackenhut, make profits by filling beds, and there lies the problem of that system.

If you're making money by filling beds in prisons, what is the incentive to reform those prisoners?

If you're under contract and not under direct supervision of the state, what's the incentive to have the best trained people running those prisons? The better the training, the higher the pay scale, the less profit margin.

Mr. Garcia, unfortunately, was not completely certified as a prison guard and by state regulations should not have even been at the Guadalupe County prison at the time of the riot.

Wackenhut came under fire by state officials for apparently failing to report the Guadalupe County jail riot in a "timely fashion."

But, to the chagrin of state officials, by contract, Wackenhut is not required to report incidents like riots to the state.

When state officials called the prison at 7:45 p.m. the night of the riot, prison officials did not report anything out of the ordinary.

Nothing out of the ordinary, just a riot, with a guard down ...

As Lincoln County reviews its options for the management of its new detention center, it needs to consider them carefully.

While there always seems to be a push for different ways to reform prisoners, it seems that, in this case, it's the prison system that needs the reforming.

Enjady, Misquez, Chino in Mescalero presidency primary field

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Oliver Enjady, former Mescalero Apache tribal vice president, interim President Sara Misquez and Mark R. Chino, son of the late Wendell Chino, are among eight who will contend for the tribal presidency in a primary election Sept. 28.

Ten days after they signed up to run, candidates learned

Monday that their names cleared a background check and will appear on the ballots.

Although only two people are competing for vice president, the races for president and for seats on the council are heavily contested.

Enjady, Misquez and Chino face former vice president Frederick Peso, banker Ben Martinez, tribal grant writer Carlton Palmer, community activist and counselor Joseph Geronimo and Peter D. Kaabe, with the housing program.

Misquez was former administrative assistant to Wendell Chino, leader of the tribe for 40 years before his death last November, and Mark Chino is a criminal investigator for the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Enjady, a well-known artist, was picked from a council seat to fill the post of vice president when Paul Ortega, then vice president, assumed the presidency after Wendell Chino's death. But the two men were removed by the tribal council from their posts in May, accused of overspending the budget and not clearing expenditures with the council.

The men submitted resignations and council members voted that Enjady could seek political office again, minutes of the council meeting reflect. But when Enjady tried to run in a special election in July, his name was removed from the ballot.

This time, he fought back, Enjady said. He presented copies of the council minutes to election board members.

"Several election board members and former members said I could have run in the special election if they had been given the information then, but for some reason they never saw it," Enjady said.

The struggle to claim a place on the ballot has been a tough one, he said Monday.

"I'm happy I'm on," he said. "It's been a struggle emotionally, because I was accused and wasn't guilty. I had no other choice but to go on the offensive to clear my name. I say over and over, I have not done anything wrong. I urge people to get out and vote and take control of their government. Let the sun back in and work toward a truly open government."

In the other races, only two people signed up to run for vice president, incumbent Fred Chino Sr. and Freddie Kaydahzinne, head of tribal housing.

Vying for four seats on the tribal council are 15 candidates: former judge Harrison Toclanny, incumbent Larry Shosh, Charles L. Shanta Jr., Philbert Choneska, police officer Robert A. Kie, former election board member Betty Smith, Frederick Kanesevah, forestry employee and former council member Berle Kaneseah, Dorene Fernando, incumbent Christie LaPaz Jr., housing employee Jackie D. Blaylock Sr., Cordell Balatche Sr., Charles Smith, former council secretary Sandra Platero and Gregory Mendez, who is with the tribe's Natural Resources Department.

The two candidates with the highest number of votes in the presidential primary will face off in November for the presidency. The eight who collect the most votes in the council primary will compete for the four seats in the general election.

About 1,900 Mescalero Apache tribal members are eligible to go to the polls.

Superintendent Ray Swinney said he will be looking for teachers that care for the students in Mescalero schools.

Mescalero schools head pushes basic education

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The reminders are plastered on the walls of Ray Swinney's office and at two other spots leading to his door.

"All Mescalero students will improve in reading and writing across curriculum," one of the trio of signs states. The other two call for students to broaden their knowledge of the Mescalero Apache culture and to become more responsible and respectful toward themselves and others.

Achieving those goals depends on hiring good teachers, said Swinney, who was picked in May as the new Mescalero school superintendent.

Born in Texas, Swinney moved to Portales in 1960, where he later graduated from college and began his elementary teaching career with a fifth grade class, while working on his master's degree.

After five years, he became an elementary principal in Grants. He stayed there nine years before being asked to take over the high school. Five years later he began a four-year stint as superintendent of schools in Deming. He returned to Grants for two more years as an elementary school principal and finished out 29 years in public education as superintendent of Tucumcari schools before "retiring."

"But I wasn't old enough, really," he said. "I applied down here and they accepted me as the middle/high school principal."

After two years, the slot opened for superintendent when Gerald Gray resigned.

"They asked me to fill in as interim superintendent (in March) and I decided to apply and was selected for the position," Swinney said. "I've spent 26 years in school administration."

From those years of experience he's learned that dedicated people ensure the success of a school more than programs.

"I believe strongly that the difference between a good education and an excellent one is the amount of commitment the staff is willing to show to the people they are serving," he said. "People don't care how much you know until they know how much you care."

He has little sympathy for teachers who complain about the hours after classroom work required to be part of a community and to follow up on the needs of children.

"I encourage employees to realize that education is a different profession than the rest," he said. "You must get involved with the students' lives. You shouldn't get into it, if you don't want to do that.

"It boils down to one essential element — caring enough. A good staff will find a way to do things better, so I try to focus on the staff and hiring properly."

He's been trained in interviewing techniques and identifying the traits that indicate the type of caring personality needed in a teacher, Swinney said.

"I'm looking for the personality of a giver," he said. "It's this administrator's job to encourage, support, guide and some times to get out of the way. They'll find ways to help the kids."

Working in a different culture isn't a problem, he said.

The schools in Grants contained a cross section of three Indian cultures — the Navajo, the Laguna and the Acoma, as well as many Hispanics, he said.

"There are cultural differences, but certainly none in mankind," he said. "Everyone thrives on mutual respect and being treated as important."

"That doesn't mean letting them do what they want. I think that's harmful. There has to be structure and discipline and a safe environment to learn."

When he moved from principal to superintendent, Swinney also took on the job of helping the Mescalero administration find money to build a new school complex, something identified as a tribal goal several years ago.

"Our school board doesn't have the authority to sell bonds," Swinney pointed out. "It's not like the public school system. We depend on the tribe and they're getting closer. I'm sure they will keep the public informed about the process."

Swinney's style is not to move into a new position and try to change everything.

"I try to identify strengths and use them to provide better services for the kids," he said. "Programs don't help kids as much as people."

However, the school district brought payroll into its main office, allowing Swinney to approve some long-overdue raises. New accounting procedures were installed to monitor spending, he said. Employees also were offered some personal programs, such as tax deferred annuities.

"I watched the process in schools for 31 years," Swinney said. "I want to implement 'our' plan, not 'my' plan. It's no good if the others don't buy in."

"We have a bunch of good people already here and we need to work on the ones who are not as committed. It's 'Show me, not just tell me.'"

Computers don't wait for Y2K

'Getting ready' takes its toll on county treasurer's system

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

CARRIZOZO - Everything may be perfect by the time the new millennium rolls around, but Lincoln County Treasurer Joan Park said new computer programs are causing some major problems in her office.

While Triadic, the company installing the Y2K compliant software, is preparing for the big countdown in December, her staff is trying to get tax bills ready to mail Nov. 1, Park told county commissioners Thursday.

"Because of the tax season and statutory deadlines, I'm very uncomfortable with the situation," she said. "It is not business as usual this year for my office. The timing is crucial."

County Clerk Martha Proctor said the company started the software conversion in her office two weeks ago. She's on the telephone asking for guidance five to 10 times a day, because the new program has multiple ways of dealing with issues, Proctor said.

"I think we need to stay on top of it and immediately let them know if something isn't working," she said. "We're not losing any information permanently."

Commission Chairman Rex Wilson asked if the staff receives enough training from Triadic personnel. "An inaccurate tax bill could cost us," he said.

"I think they've been responsive," Stewart said. "It's a huge program. I even looked at changing to a new company, but it's really too late."

Proctor suggested, instead of Stewart writing a letter, that he ask for a Triadic adviser to come to the county, sit down and work through the problems.

"My question is, is this going on in the other counties they're doing?" Wilson asked.

Park said her staff calls the company as problems occur, but several counties are waiting on Triadic for a form that is needed before tax bills can be printed.

Wilson said Triadic would be liable for problems resulting from the conversion and probably are bonded. The county could use that as leverage to prompt some closer attention, he said.

Therapeutic riding demonstration Saturday

A demonstration of therapeutic riding is set for 10 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., Saturday, at the Hubbard Museum of the American West.

Reins for Life aims to teach horsemanship skills to people with disabilities. The multi-task learning can help a person achieve in daily living skills, a release from the museum stated.

The demonstration is free and sponsored by the museum's education department, represented by Ray Barela and Paula Nelson.

For more information, call (505) 378-4142 or (800) 263-5929.

Voter list purged

CARRIZOZO - Ninety-one voters were purged from the registration list in Lincoln County recently, because they haven't voted in six years.

County Clerk Martha Proctor said Thursday most of the 94 notices mailed were not delivered, because people have changed their addresses. They may still be in the area, but she has no way of checking, she said.

"I know a lot of people who should be purged, but I can't take them off without something factual in writing," she told county commissioners. "Even the 91 purged won't know until the next election that they've been removed, because I can't reach them."

Three people called and asked to remain on the list, she said.

More headaches lie ahead in Ruidoso, because many people are switching from post office boxes to home delivery, but may not remember to update their records, Proctor said. About 14,000 people are registered to vote in the county.

She urged county residents to update their addresses if they move or change to home delivery by contacting her office.

Reception for composer Friday evening at Spencer

Jerre Tanner, the composer chosen to participate in Continental Harmony, will be honored at a reception at the Spencer Theater on Friday from 5-7 p.m.

Continental Harmony is the project proposed for the 4th of July celebration in 2000. In every state throughout the nation, on the same day, a concert will celebrate the event. The New Mexico event will be at the Spencer Theater.

Tanner was scheduled to arrive in El Paso today. He will be given a tour of the theater and meet with the Continental Harmony Council on Thursday.

The composer will familiarize himself with the area and its history during his week-long stay, in order to better compose music that is appropriate for New Mexico.

Tanner is interested in using local talent because, he says, "they play with a greater degree of passion and enthusiasm than professionals sometimes." Professional musicians will be used when and where Tanner deems them necessary.

Three other visits to Lincoln County are planned for the composer in the months ahead. The next will include a two-week residency with schools and speaking engagements with community groups.

The emphasis of the concert will be on the three cultures that settled the area - Native Americans, Hispanics and Anglos. The contributions of all three cultures to present-day life will be highlighted.

One of the goals of the Continental Harmony Council will be to make a community-wide celebration, involving as many local artists as possible with concurrent exhibits and events.

Those interested in meeting the composer during his first visit may call Margaret Lahey, the Spencer's education and community outreach coordinator, at 336-0017.

COMMISSION BRIEFS

Set-aside fund not recommended

A special set-aside fund isn't recommended by the state Department of Finance and Administration as a way to save money for future major Lincoln County projects.

County Manager Tom Stewart reported to county commissioners Thursday that the DFA said such funds are appropriate only for counties that are bankrupt or to segregate proceeds from the sale of property to be used to purchase other property.

The late Wilton Howell, a commissioner for seven years before he died in a traffic accident Sept. 1, last month asked Stewart to determine if a special fund could be established to receive money unspent in department budgets at the end of each fiscal year.

Such a fund could pay for major items either unexpected or anticipated by the board, Howell said at the time.

Help for road workers

Lincoln County road department employees will get some help soon.

County commissioners Thursday agreed to allocate $10,000 to hire temporary employees when the county is hit by heavy rain or snow, or for other emergencies.

The money will cover about three people, who will be brought in only as needed, said county road manager Albert Hernandez.

Free office cleaning

Because the state Health Department budget was cut by $1.2 million, department offices in Lincoln County will be cleaned for free.

The state asked county commissioners to pay the $5,200 it will owe this year for cleaning the offices in Carrizozo and Ruidoso.

County Manager Tom Stewart said the local health department staff serves more than 600 families a year. He knew of the budget cut and anticipated the state might not be able to pay, Stewart said. He didn't count on the money in the budget and can cover the difference, he told commissioners Thursday.

"It would be a total increase to our budget of $1,620," Stewart said. The motion to honor the request passed unanimously.

Drug-tester wanted

County Manager Tom Stewart is looking for a company to supervise random drug testing of Lincoln County employees.

County commissioners Thursday told Stewart to ask for proposals from companies in line with state law that requires testing for commercial drivers and operators of safety equipment.

Tommy White, owner of Ruidoso Paving, said his employees are tested because they operate heavy equipment on the road.

"The Department of Transportation says it can come in any time and audit my records to ensure we're testing," he said.

County Attorney Alan Morel said under the county's policy, probable cause must exist to believe the employee is using drugs, such as an accident or the appearance that the person is under the influence. If commissioners want to go beyond that limit, they must change the policy, he said.

Commissioners took no action to change the policy, but approved looking for a company to supervise testing, noting that they could reject the proposals if they don't like the approach. Stewart estimated the cost per test at $52.

Large Fort Stanton acreage under comprehensive review by BLM

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Mixing multiple recreational uses of 24,630 acres around historic Fort Stanton, while protecting natural resources and cultural sites, could be a daunting task.

To help reach those goals, the staff of the Roswell Resource Management Office of the federal Bureau of Land Management is asking the public to be involved in decisions on land use.

A draft of issues and challenges in managing the Fort Stanton Area of Critical Concern, about 15 miles northeast of Ruidoso, was reviewed last week after a six-hour tour of the property. The session was conducted by Ann Eustin of Sustainability Associates of Roswell, the firm hired as consultant to the BLM for the preparation of the management plan.

Twenty-four issues were identified by the staff in the draft, some originating from past public input.

Major issues include:
• How should designated off-highway vehicle areas within the critical area be managed?

The staff proposed limiting use to designated roads and trails, but totally excluding use in a 100-foot corridor along each side of the Rio Bonito and Salado Creek, on marked horse-hiking-mountain biking trails, around the Feather Cave Archaeological Complex and areas where the endangered Kuenzler hedgehog cactus grows.

The staff asked if the corridor along the rivers should be increased to 100 yards, for ideas on how to prevent new roads being formed by users and what roads should be closed to off-road use.

• Where should 20 miles of new trails be developed and how should they be designated for hiking, horseback riding and mountain biking?

• Should camping be handled as dispersed sites or in a centralized campground?

• Where should fees be charged and how should they be collected?

• How can impacts on archaeological sites be controlled?

• No grazing is allowed in the area, but a proposal is before Congress to lease out grazing on a yearly basis to generate more money for use within the area of critical concern.

The staff wrote that some of the questions to be answered include what kind of grazing, and if it should be on a rotating basis to prevent injury to vegetation, if bidding should be limited to local ranchers and if it is compatible with recreational uses and preservation of historical and archaeological sites.

• Should hunting be restricted to bow and arrow and muzzle-loader and if plans for wildlife transplants and reintroduction of mule deer, wild turkey and other big game should move forward.

The draft calls for the interpretive development of 330 acres around the Lower Stanton Ruin and Feather Cave, to include trails, interpretive signs, a shelter, restrooms and parking.

But the staff wrote that challenges will include how to monitor the area and how to ensure that increased public use won't cause more damage to cultural and natural resources in the area.

Listed in the draft for possible future purchase are 1,760 acres of state land and 1,265 acres of private land, including the Fort Stanton Waterfall on the Rio Bonito and the nearby ruins of the historic Sutlers Brewery.

In related news, fire hazards on the Rio Bonito tracts supervised by the federal Bureau of Land Management (BLM) will be discussed at a 10 a.m. meeting Sept. 25, in Lincoln.

Computer simulations of fires, either spreading into the settlement or originating from it, indicate a blaze could pose an immediate threat to Lincoln or the property surrounding the tract, Parman said.

For more information, contact Tim Kreager, Roswell assistant field manager, or Jim Desmond in the Roswell Fire Management Office at (505) 627-0272.

'Empower Yourself' training offered

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

Sandy Hartley fought battles all through her life, including the trauma of seeing her home in Nogal burn down.

But the artist was never one to sit back and complain about her problems. She's known locally for charging ahead into new challenges. With the help of friends, she rebuilt a totally energy-independent home.

However, she realized that over the years she held onto emotional baggage that weighed her down. While splitting her time between California and New Mexico, Hartley said she discovered a new way of approaching life free of that baggage and she'd like to share the discovery with others.

"I liked how it sounded and they sent me a tape," Hartley said of the "Empower Yourself" program. Phone consultations and literature also are available. Hartley was so intrigued, she signed on to be part of a support team.

The course is taught in a two-and-a-half-hour beginning session and then in once-a-week classes for eight weeks. If enough interest is shown, Hartley will begin the sequence in mid-October.

"It's emotional education," Hartley said. "It helps achieve clarity, and to allow a person to respond from the present moment. We're not educated to do that."

Some corporations are turning away from intelligence tests and focusing on emotional intelligence in their hiring practices, she said.

Stevhan Caldwell, Ph.D., and Calien Richardson created the course and the Empowerment Learning Institute, based in Coarsegold, Calif. They work with corporations in developing programs for their employees, Hartley said.

"I like the idea of empowering ourselves and feeling good about who you are," she said. "I had a lot of work inside and out. It was kind of painful to go there initially. You have a choice of responding in new ways."

For more information about the program of self-expression, acceptance and exploration, contact Hartley at (505)354-3500.

The group urges people to "honor (the founding fathers) staunch courage and wise counsel by studying the Constitution, knowing your rights, and fulfilling your responsibilities."

The Daughters of the American Revolution encour-

Chili cook-off promises to heat fest up

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The "Great Pepper," also known as Paul Crown, plans a bigger than ever chili cook-off for Aspenfest, with more than 100 cooking teams participating this year compared to last year's 86.

The Ruidoso cook-off is the 8th in the world, Crown said, and this is his 18th year to organize it. About 3,700 people went through the gates at last year's event.

Although he jokingly warned that some of the concoctions could include skunk meat, armadillo tails, bird beaks, fish tails and braided horse hair, in reality there are strict rules about the ingredients that go into the chili pots for the New Mexico State Open Chili Cook-off. Crown inspects the raw meat and makes sure nobody marinates it or uses store-bought chili mixes, which is not allowed.

"Open," Crown said, means that cooks can come from any place in the world, not just New Mexico. There are 100 judges who will select 10 chili winners, three showmanship winners, and the top three New Mexico chili winners.

The event, sponsored by the Ruidoso State Bank and Budweiser, will be in the Tall Pines RV Park at 1800 Sudderth Drive. This also is one of the best places to see the Aspenfest Parade, Crown said.

The gates open at 10 a.m. Saturday, and admission is $2. Chili samples cost 25 cents each, and there will be other food concessions and beer sold by Gabe's restaurant. Beer sales start at 10 a.m. The band, Lone Star Express, from Capitan, will provide music.

Chili cooks turn in their chili beginning at 2 p.m. and judging finishes at about 5 p.m. Anyone can sign up to be a judge, which is one of the best ways to sample the chili, Crown said.

At 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. show teams "put on skits, give away candy bars, and dress goofy," Crown said. "If you win showmanship, you are also accepted in the World's Championship Chili Cook-off."

Show teams finish up 30 minutes before the chili is due for judging so they can "enhance their concoctions of chili before they turn them in," he said.

On Sunday, there is a "pod" competition, which will start cooking at 9 a.m. with tasting at noon. There are no concessions, but chili sampling is free. Crown explained that those who cook on Sunday are members of the Ruidoso Chili Society, a "pod," or chapter, of the Chili Appreciation Society International. To stay sanctioned with CASI, each pod has to have its own pod cook-off. Last year 54 cooks stayed to cook on Sunday.

Last year $6,500 in proceeds from the New Mexico State Open and the pod cook-off were donated to the Ruidoso Rotary Club Scholarship Fund.

Crown said everybody involved in the chili cook-offs is a volunteer.

Instead of cash prizes for winning the competitions, winners on Saturday receive two points toward their membership in the International Terlingua World's Championship Chili Cook-off, which takes 10 points to obtain.

Some chili cooks compete in 25 or 30 competitions a year, at their own expense, Crown said.

"It's expensive to do this," Crown said. "They can spend in excess of $5,000 to 6,000 to buy ingredients."

The New Mexico Environment Department will check for proper cooling and heating of foods so people can feel safe about what they're eating, Crown said.

Grizzlies have the talent for another title

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

A couple of new faces along with a pair of steady veterans has Carrizozo Grizzlies girls' volleyball coach Tycie Jackson thinking repeat.

Last year's undefeated District 3A volleyball champs have won their first two district matches and head into Friday's Capitan Classic Volleyball Tournament with a 4-2 record.

Jackson said transfers Brooke Holland, a junior, and Christa Franck, a freshman, give the Grizzlies a more well rounded attack and complement seniors Renee Rael and Molly Hightower.

Holland, who shares setting duties with Carrizozo's top all-around female athlete Rael, is also picking up some of the hitting load from the outside hitting position.

Franck transferred to Carrizozo last spring and didn't play volleyball with the Grizzlies, but she's already making her presence felt, Jackson said.

"I don't want to be too confident, but I think we can come out on top," Jackson said of the district race. She hinted that she's already thinking state berth as well.

Jackson will get an indication of how far the Grizzlies will go at this weekend's Capitan Classic. The Grizzlies will focus not so much on winning and losing, Jackson said, but rather playing consistent volleyball against a host of opponents that are usually larger in school enrollment than Carrizozo.

"In my opinion, I'd rather see us play good, solid volleyball," Jackson said, because consistency will help the Grizzlies win districts and hopefully advance through the playoffs.

One contributing factor to Carrizozo's quick start this year is the familiarity between Jackson and the Grizzlies. Now in her second year at Carrizozo, Jackson said, "They're used to me. The consistency has helped a lot. They know me and I know them."

Carrizozo, last year's Classic consolation champ, joins host Capitan, Elida and San Jon in pool A, while Aztec, Magdalena, Grady and Cloudfcroft make up pool B. Pool play begins at 1 p.m. Friday in the Tigers' two gyms.

After pool play determines tournament seeding, quarterfinal matches are set to begin at 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The tournament concludes Saturday.

Fresh off their consolation championship in Roadrunner Tournament, the host Capitan Tigers will try for their third-straight Classic crown. Bryan Masse's Tigers defeated Magdalena in five games for the 1998 title.

Senior Andrea Wyatt of Carrizozo positions herself to dig up a kill attempt during Carrizozo's match against Capitan several weeks ago. Wyatt is one of four seniors for second-year Grizzly coach Tycie Jackson. The Grizzlies, who finished the District 3A campaign with a perfect 8-0 record, shoot for their second straight district crown this season. Carrizozo will play in this weekend's Capitan Classic tournament before returning to district play.

Bears regain grid bragging rights

BY KAREN BOEHLER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Capitan Tigers had another tough night on the gridiron Friday, falling 34-14 to former district rival Cloudfcroft (2-2).

Playing in the supposedly friendly confines of Tiger Stadium, Capitan (1-3) took its first lead in three weeks, jumping out 6-0 in the first quarter on a Scott Kennedy pass to James Robinson. But that was the only edge the Tigers would have, as the Bears roared back.

The game, described by Cloudfcroft head coach Danny Ward as "weird," was filled with mistakes by both teams. At times it appeared neither squad wanted to win, but Capitan assistant coach James Weems said that wasn't the case.

"Both teams wanted to win. It was just a matter of who was going to make the fewer mistakes," he said.

Or, who could capitalize better on the other's mistakes.

That turned out to be Cloudfcroft. The Bears scored on two interceptions of Tiger passes and one fumble and recovered from what seemed to be devastating penalties, including touchdowns that weren't.

Weems said the Tiger problem has been consistent, but just what that problem is seems a mystery.

"The last couple of games we've been playing maybe two quarters of the football game, and it's not that they're out of shape," he said. "They'll get up then they'll relax and we can't explain it. Our line will go hard for a quarter, a series, then they'll blow it."

Capitan continued to get strong play from senior running back James Robinson, who showed his speed on the field on more than one occasion. His 53-yard-dash down the right side helped the Tigers tie the game at 14-14 in the third quarter. But Capitan mistakes would often nullify the solid play of Robinson and quarterback Justin Jones.

Ward said the longtime rivalry meant mistakes could be expected.

"It was an emotional game," he said. "It was one of those things. We play hard against Capitan; they play hard against us. It was just a hard-fought game all the way through."

The Tigers looked as though they might turn their fortunes around when Robinson scored the first TD of the night at 7:35 in the opening stanza. The point-after attempt was no good, but Capitan kept Cloudfcroft off the scoreboard through the quarter.

The Bears put their first points on the board just 4:13 before halftime, but that was enough to get the steam back in the squad.

Willie Lentz intercepted a Tiger pass, opening up a chance for Graham Gilbreath. The 6-1, 190-pound senior ran the ball from the 32 to tie the game at 6-6. He then picked off a pass for two more points.

A Tiger fumble one play later set up the second Bear TD of the night, a short run by Seth Pollard. The kick by Ray Roberts was no good, but Cloudfcroft led 14-6 going into the locker room.

Capitan started the second half like it did the first, roaring to a quick score with 8:56 showing in the quarter.

But Cloudfcroft made it 22-14 on its next possession when Pollard broke away from the pack to rush 40 yards.

The Tigers moved well down the field on their next possession, but gave up an interception to Michael Bowen with 1:31 left in the quarter.

The Bears made that mistake count, scoring with 24 seconds remaining on a 50-yard run by Kody Adams.

Adams helped the Bears put the nail in the coffin when he picked off another Tiger pass, giving Dustin Porch a chance to grab a Bear pass in the end zone with just over a minute left in the game.

Weems knows his team has problems, but said they've got to be able to overcome those disabilities.

"We've come into (these games) with injuries, and it's hurt us, especially at quarterback," he said. "But we can't make those excuses. We've got to come out and practice and find something that works. We haven't been able to do that yet."

The Bears have now won two in a row after losing their first two matches of the season. Ward is pleased, but not overconfident.

"We've made a lot of progress this year so far. The first four games have been tough," he said. "We keep working a little bit better. I think we may be on a roll here, but I'm not getting too excited about it yet."

The Tigers travel to Artesia Thursday for a game against the AAA Bulldog junior varsity.

Warriors off to best start in 14 years

BY LAURA CLYMER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The last time Ruidoso opened the football season with four straight wins, it went on to take the state championship. That was 14 years ago in 1985, and Warrior coach Les Carter isn't quite ready to compare this year's version of the Warriors with that one.

"We still don't think we've reached our full potential," Carter said. "But we know we have some good athletes and that they can play."

The Warriors improved to 4-0 on the season with a 25-14 victory in Los Lunas Friday, and in the process came of age.

"It was a game that we grew up," Carter said.

Ruidoso trailed 14-6 at one point against the Class AAAA Tigers. But the Warriors rallied on offense and defense.

"They had an opportunity to hang their heads and quit and they didn't," Carter said of his boys. "Their guys were huge and we realized that we can play with them."

Ruidoso racked up nearly 460 yards in offense against the Tigers, 416 of that was through the air.

"We're going to run according to our throwing game," Carter said.

That means as long as Ruidoso is successful via the airways expect junior quarterback Todd Schrader to keep putting up the ball.

Carter said he's not totally ignoring the running game. Schrader threw six passes to his running backs as well.

"We're using them. We're just using them in a different way," Carter said.

Junior running back T.J. Montoya will continue to fill in for the injured Frank Dorame. Dorame, who sprained his knee a week ago in practice, will miss Friday's game against Albuquerque Academy. Dorame was released to begin rehabilitating his knee. He might miss Ruidoso's Oct. 1 date with Hobbs as well, Carter said.

Friday's foe, Albuquerque Academy, is off to a 0-3 start. The Chargers have yet to score this season. Last week, Piedra Vista pounded Academy 62-0.

The Warrior scouting staff has seen the Chargers run three different offensive attacks. With the possibility that a fourth is in the cards, Carter said the Warriors this week will continue to focus on their game plan on both sides of the ball.

Ruidoso's third quarter scoring spree subdues Los Lunas

BY FRANK A. GURULE
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Todd Schrader, Ruidoso's 6-foot, 4-inch quarterback, passed for 416 yards and three touchdowns to lead the third-ranked Class AAA Warriors to a 25-14 win over Los Lunas Friday.

Thomas Schiele was on the receiving end of touchdown tosses of 54 and 23 yards.

"Thanks to my offensive line I was able to do well," Schrader said. "Los Lunas is a fantastic team. They are going a long way. We won this game for our coach, Les Carter."

Schrader completed 25 of 37 passes on the night, with one interception.

Los Lunas sophomore quarterback Bryan Stearley, in game," he said. "We were able to throw down the field."

On its first drive in the second half, Los Lunas scored on a 15-yard run by senior tailback Anthony Perea. The Tigers completed a two-point conversion on a pass from Stearley to Utash and led 14-6.

But Ruidoso scored 19 points in less than six minutes to take a commanding 25-14 lead with 8:10 left in the third quarter.

The Warriors answered the Tiger touchdown with one of their own and then surprised the Tigers with a successful onside kick. Seven plays later, T.J. Montoya scored on a 31-yard run to put Ruidoso ahead.

A Los Lunas fumble on the ensuing possession, recovered by Brandon Brumlow, set up the final Warrior TD, a pass from Schrader to Schiele.

Besides the on-side kick, Ruidoso successfully faked two punts, one late in the game with the Warriors well in command.

"Those are things we work on every week," Carter said explaining the fake punts. "It's just that the opportunity arose, and we took advantage."

For Los Lunas, Perea ripped through the Warrior line for 154 yards on 26 carries. The win leaves Ruidoso unbeaten with a 4-0 record. Los Lunas dropped to 2-2.

Hope everyone found us last week at our new home on the "What's Happening" page.

Came across some hints for new cat owners on how to ensure the curious felines don't get into the wrong supplies, chew through electrical wires or damage treasured plants.

Friskies PetCare Products offered these suggestions to cat-proof your home:

- Clear the yard, garage and basement of all toxic household and garden poisons and insecticides.
- Don't leave bathtubs or basins filled with water. Close the toilet lids, screen all high windows, flatten dangerous tin cans and keep sharp can lids out of kitty's way. Put away sharp sewing or art and craft implements and watch out for dangling electrical cords.

• Cats are fascinated by small, cozy enclosed spaces. Be sure kitty isn't in the closet, dresser drawer, cupboard or washer/dryer when you close the doors.

• Common house plants that can be dangerous to cats include philodendron, poinsettia, dieffenbachia and ivy. Hang plants out of kitty's reach and grow some greens for him. A little flat of grass, parsley, ferns or even catnip will give your cat his own garden and distract him from your house plants.

• During the holidays, keep your cat away from the holiday tree and decorations. Broken ornaments and tinsel, if swallowed, can cause intestinal difficulties. Ingested ribbon or cord from the unwrapped presents can result in stomach problems as well.

Bilingual teaching spreads in Ruidoso schools, and is making better students

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Jose Flaco reads equally well in English and Spanish and likes being in Molly Long's fourth-grade dual-language class "because uno aprende mas en inglés y español al mismo tiempo" (one learns more in English and Spanish at the same time).

María Teresa Vasquez was born in Juárez, and has been in Long's class for not quite two weeks, so for her it's a place to begin to learn English while keeping up with her course work in Spanish.

Frank Gandarilla said "it's bien (good) fun to learn two languages, y muchas escuelas no tienen eso" (and many schools don't have that). At White Mountain Elementary, two bilingual classes are taught in Spanish two days, in English two days, and Friday is a "choice day" so students can do accelerated reading and writing in both languages.

Many of the children in this class have been through the innovative dual-language program beginning in first grade at Sierra Vista Primary School, where the children have all their classes in English one day and in Spanish the next, and bilingual teachers team-teach different reading levels and subject areas.

By the time children whose home-language is Spanish have been through two years of instruction in both languages, they're beginning to read in English. Some children were in the program in first and second grades because their parents wanted them to learn English, said Irene Sutton, a bilingual teacher at Sierra Vista Primary. Because there are four such classes at first and second grades and only two at third and fourth grades, there isn't as much room for these children at White Mountain Elementary.

Long said she got involved in bilingual education because her high school Spanish class made her a candidate to speak to parents who didn't speak English; no one else on the staff at the time could do so, she said.

"So they put the kids in my room, but they were pulled out for most of the morning for ESL (English as a Second Language) and Spanish and some science and math in Spanish," Long said. "I felt they didn't feel part of the class. I could see they were not doing well and were lacking continuity with their grade level."

So Frank Cannella, principal at White Mountain, allowed her to try something different and in 1996-97 established a bilingual combined class for both third and fourth grades, with no "pull-outs" - i.e., no one was pulled out for special instruction. Long said there were 18 students, and 14 of them had limited English.

"Part of the magic formula was I was learning Spanish along with them," Long said. She began taking Spanish classes herself, so while her students were learning English, she was practicing her Spanish on them.

"They got the idea that it's okay to make mistakes and learning is a lifelong thing," she said.

Malvina Torres teaches the other dual-language class at White Mountain, and team-teaches with Long. Students in both classes participate in the accelerated reading program in both Spanish and English.

Long teaches literature to the higher level Spanish students and Torres teaches those who are struggling.

"We're teaming to meet the needs of our students," Long said. "For example, we had some parents at orientation concerned because their son has been in the program but won't speak Spanish at home, so we've come up with a program to encourage them to use more Spanish."

Another bilingual teacher,

Roberta Roser, takes about 20 students from both Torres' and Long's classes and teaches a conversational class with puppets to help them build their vocabularies and gain facility in conversing.

For language arts, Torres said, "we group the students according to their needs and development and rotate the children for reading and spelling for an hour each day."

"You build a child's native language before you can expect them to acquire real skills in a second language," Long said. "If they can't pick out a main idea or a subject and verb in their own language, they're not going to in a language they're just learning."

Cannella said the dual-language program has worked. He said he teaches science to all the classes, and when he tried to teach Long's third-graders, he needed her to translate almost everything. By the time those students were near the end of the fourth grade, though, he could do the science lessons in English without translations.

"They really had come a long way in their English development by the end of fourth grade, through Molly's patience and understanding," Cannella said.

That first year, 1996-97, Long's class consisted mainly of children coming from Mexico, Cannella said, but after that year, the class opened up to some native English speakers. Long has four students in her class this year whose parents want them to learn Spanish.

"There's a diversity of levels in the classes," Cannella said. "Some are fluent in Spanish, some are struggling or fluent in spoken Spanish but not written Spanish, and some are fluent in both."

Cannella said there's also "a bunch of kids who are truly bilingual in fifth or sixth grade who, have gone through the program, all from Mexico and learning English as a second language."

Paul Wirth, director of instructional support for the school district, said research has shown that it takes five to seven years for students to be successful in a second language.

"The philosophy that's been utilized at Sierra Vista, Nob Hill and White Mountain Elementary is to promote both Spanish and English on a daily basis," Wirth said. "Our goal is for them to graduate from high school with excellent skills both in Spanish and English, and that will give them lots of advantages as they compete in this world-wide economy."

This is the first of a series of articles about the Ruidoso schools' bilingual program. The next will appear on Sept. 29.

School-to-Careers project in area leading the pack

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Local businesses and schools will have a meeting of minds in February or March so business can tell the schools how to better prepare students for work.

The School-to-Careers coordinator for the Region IX Educational Cooperative said he hopes this meeting will result in business people going to the classrooms to talk about their businesses, industries and future jobs.

Last year, Gary Cozzens said, the School-to-Careers program focused on realigning the curriculum with the standards and benchmarks the State Board of Education (SBE) set out for about a dozen core areas, such as math, science, and reading.

"One of those areas is career readiness, which is more or less what School-to-Work does," Cozzens said. The SBE set Jan. 1, 2001, as the deadline to have the standards in place, he said, but Lincoln County schools - Corona, Garza, Capitan, Hondo and Ruidoso - are already in the process of realigning their curricula this year.

"Now we're taking the next step and bringing the businesses in to prepare students to work locally or globally and to get a job right off or to go on for technical training or two- or four-year colleges," Cozzens said.

The program has had "magnificent support" from the Chamber of Commerce, and now the goal is to link businesses and schools to come out with a better product, he said. Cozzens said the meeting between the schools and businesses may take place in the Ruidoso Convention Center the last week of February or the first week of March.

Planning for this meeting was the focus of the quarterly Regional Area Partnership (RAP) School-to-Work meeting Sept. 14 at Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso. There are 17 districts in this School-to-Work partnership, Cozzens said. The Lincoln County Schools comprise a third of the schools in the Roswell district, the others being Roswell, Vaughn and Socorro school districts.

Joseph Henry, Father of Forecasts Weather Service Birthday

To get the weather forecast today, all you have to do is turn on the news, look in the paper, make a phone call or check the Internet.

But 150 years ago, there were no accurate daily forecasts. This changed when a famous scientist you've probably never heard of started what would become the National Weather Service.

Few people today have heard of Joseph Henry. But in the 1800s he was so famous that the well-known band director John Philip Sousa composed a march in his honor.

He was so respected that he served as an adviser to telephone inventor Alexander Graham Bell and telegraph inventor Samuel F.B. Morse.

When Joseph Henry died in 1878, the government shut down. The president and other top officials attended his funeral.

The first forecast

Joseph Henry started the first national weather forecasting service when he was serving as the first director of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. The Smithsonian then was a national museum and research center.

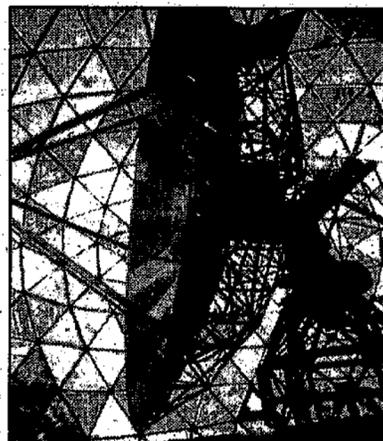

He organized two groups, or networks, to help him gather information needed to make forecasts.

A network of about 150 volunteers recorded daily local weather conditions.

A second network was made up of telegraph operators. They sent local weather conditions to Washington at a certain time each day.

Henry said if he knew what the weather was in Cincinnati, Ohio, that morning, he could tell what it would be in Washington, D.C., that night.

For the first time, newspapers were able to print daily weather forecasts.

Since the 1970s, when the weather service started using Doppler radar to track storms, the amount of warning time has more than doubled. Doppler radar can measure wind speed and direction. Regular radar cannot do this.

In the 1850s, tourists visited Joseph Henry's weather map at the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C., to find out conditions in their home towns. Henry also used the map to make forecasts.

National Weather Service

Today the National Weather Service is a part of the U.S. government. It has about 12,000 weather stations. It issues more than 734,000 forecasts and 45,000 to 50,000 severe weather warnings a year.

New technology makes it possible to make more accurate forecasts and to give storm warnings in time for people to get to safety.

Satellites send in global information as they orbit the Earth. High-speed computers create models of worldwide weather patterns.

Meet Joseph Henry

Early years

Joseph Henry's father was an alcoholic and his family was poor. When he was about 8, Joseph was sent to live with his grandmother.

He dropped out of school at about age 11 to help support his family. After his father died a couple of years later, he moved back in with his mom.

The jobs he worked at included training under a silversmith/watchmaker. He thought seriously about becoming an actor.

One day, he picked up a book on science. It changed his life.

Even though he was about five years older than his classmates, he went back to school to earn his high school diploma.

After graduation, he worked as a surveyor and tutor. His high school hired him to teach math and science.

Later, even though he had no college education, Princeton, a famous university, hired him as a professor.

Joseph Henry (1797-1878) was often called the greatest American scientist since Benjamin Franklin.

At the Smithsonian

When Joseph Henry was director of the Smithsonian in 1846, it only had one building, the "castle." Henry lived there with his family.

Today it has 16 museums, a zoo, and research areas in many parts of the world. The Smithsonian Institution is the biggest museum group in the world.

The scientist

Joseph Henry was one of America's greatest scientists. But because he believed science should be given away freely, he was in no rush to claim credit for his inventions. If he had, he would be a lot more famous today.

He invented the first practical electric motor, now used in many modern items, from washing machines to hair dryers.

As a lesson for his students, he invented the first practical telegraph. Samuel Morse might not have been able to build his own telegraph if not for Henry's earlier work.

Henry and an English scientist, Michael Faraday, each discovered at the same time things about electricity that opened the door to inventions such as the doorbell and air conditioning.

Lessons for his son

When Joseph Henry was growing up, there were so many drunks and unemployed men in his neighborhood, he had to be very careful not to follow their example. He cautioned his son to be just as careful.

He also told his son that one day he and his friends were rolling stones down a hill and almost hit a man. They weren't meaning to hurt anyone.

He wanted his son to learn this lesson: Even if your intentions are not bad, bad actions can bring bad results.

You have to pay attention to what you're doing, he said.

Man of many talents

Henry made important contributions in many areas, including:

- the study of sunspots.
- lighthouse foghorns and lights to help ships find their way.
- acoustics, or the study of sound.
- lighting at the U.S. Capitol.
- the Navy's Civil War effort.

Joseph Henry married a cousin, Harriet Alexander. They had three girls and a boy.
