Governor takes trek through area

Johnson stops in Ruidoso to talk trash and drugs

He conquered Angus Pass and Alto Hill on his bicycle without missing a breath, then Gov. Gary Johnson rolled into Ruidoso leading a pack of supporters who seemed ready for the 429-mile Trek for Trash and End. It did, at School House Park.

Johnson, dressed in his trademark bright yellow Spandex, said he couldn't name the toughest stretch of the five-day trip that included stops in Carrizozo and Capitan.

"It was really beautiful," he said. "I loved it all. We knew Angus was there and we were prepared for it."

For the sixth year Johnson has trekked across the state to focus attention on picking up litter along New Mexico's highways.

Although he characterized the highway from Carrizozo to Ruidoso as one of the cleaner areas of the state, he said the 25 riders who came with him on different legs of the journey from Chama to Ruidoso found plenty to bag.

"We figure 25 tons of trash was collected and 72 communities organized clean-up campaigns around the ride," Johnson said.

He told about three dozen children and more than 50 adults at a luncheon in School House Park that the trek is his favorite activity each year.

"This has been a lot of fun for me," he said. "I look forward to it each year. A lot of communities along the way organized luncheons. Every year we take a different route."

The five days on the road were superb and the weather was wonderful, but "people need to put pressure on local authorities to enforce the laws and they need to point their fingers at

Document settles 'Kid mystery

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A fresh discovery in the history of Billy the Kid was uncovered last week by Drew Gomer, historian for the Hubbard Museum of the American West.

While sifting through old records in Lincoln County Clerk Martha Proctor's office in an effort coordinated with her staff to reorganize and preserve historically-important documents, Gomer found a gem.

In the rarefied circles of true historians, a debate remained unresolved as to whether Tom O'Folliard, a friend of the Kid, was incarcerated for the same time period as Billy during his bid for a pardon from then New Mexico Gov.

Lew Wallace.

"It has always been a well-known and accepted fact that, after his deal with Lew Wallace, Billy the Kid and his friend, Tom O'Folliard, were incarcerated in the store of Lincoln resident Juan Patron, now a bed and breakfast known as Casa de Patron," said Gomer, who also writes a Western history column for the Ruidoso News and formerly worked in production for The St. Petersburg Times in St. Petersburg, Fla. "Lew Wallace was quartered next door at the Montano Store, and it was there that the governor heard the 'local minstrels' serenading Billy 'in his prison'."

Gomer said it was assumed O'Folliard was there for the same length of time as his soon-to-be-legendary cohort, but no documentation could be found.

That changed last Wednesday, when Gomer found a bill dated Nov. 12, 1880, submitted by Juan Patron to the County of Lincoln for "rent of house for keeping prisoners from March 21, 1879 to June 14, 1879."

The document is signed by Juan Patron and Ben Ellis, who was probate clerk at the time.

"During that nearly three-month-long period, Billy the Kid stayed a total of 27 days at Patron's," Gomer said. "Tom O'Folliard stayed only 10 days, but as is often the case with history, the document yields something else that had not been previously known."

Cowboy Symposium brings in record crowds

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

More chuckwagons, more exhibitors and more entertainment meant more people bought tickets to the 10th Annual Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium over the weekend.

Attendance exceeded 17,000, a 20-percent increase from last year, said Bruce Eldredge, director of the Hubbard Museum of the American West and the man who pulled the symposium events together.

"Even though I'm dead today, I'm not as dead as a year ago," Eldredge said Tuesday. "We had really good cooperation from the staff of the (Ruidoso Downs) Race Track and the (Billy the Kid) Casino."

"This was our largest and most successful symposium ever and we ran into relatively few problems in our move to the race track."

For the prior nine years the symposium was staged at the county Rural Events Center in Glencoe, 12 miles east of Ruidoso Downs.

Comments about the move and about new events were "universally positive," said Eldredge, who already is looking forward to improving next year's symposium. "We hope to have more name entertainers for the Thursday concert, a larger concert tent, better vendor placement and more music on Sunday," he said.

Symposium visitors came from 32 states and two Canadian provinces, and 1,200 people attended the Thursday concert by Mark Chesnutt in tribute to symposium founders Robert O. Anderson and R.D. Hubbard.

Schools revamp antidepressant drug policy

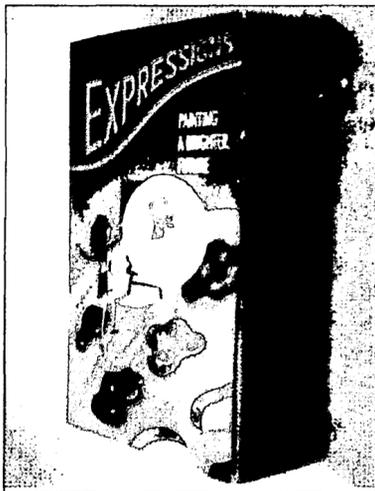

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The Ruidoso Municipal School District Monday drafted a change in its policy of handing out psychotropic medications to students from student health centers after a high school student received an antidepressant from the school without her parents' knowledge.

Any prescriptions or samples of psychotropic medications will now be handed to the parent or guardian, not to the student, said Mike Gladden, superintendent of schools—and only after a meeting with the student and parent or guardian to discuss the need for medication and counseling.

This change in policy came about after Gladden and Terry Gillespie, coordinator of health services for the district, met to discuss a recent case in which a 17-year-old student received a box of Paxil, an antidepressant, without her parents' consent or knowledge.

Gillespie on Friday attended a meeting with staff of the Office of School Health of the State Department of Health in Albuquerque, who met to discuss establishing statewide guidelines or standards for mental healthcare in school-based health centers.

Psychiatrist Steve Adelsheim,

M.D., also of the Office of School Health, said Ruidoso's Paxil case was discussed at the meeting.

"It sounded like there was some confusion on the part of the nurse-practitioner as to what the children's code says about prescribing psychotropic medications," Adelsheim said, citing state law:

"When psychotropic medications or interventions involving aversive stimuli are administered to a child 14 years of age or older, the child's parent, guardian or legal custodian shall be notified by the residential treatment or habilitation program."

Adelsheim said the Office of School Health feels it necessary to have a higher standard than the law prescribes, and is working on developing standards at the state level that would require total parental involvement before any psychotropic medicine would be given through a school-based health center.

Antidepressants should be "an optional component of treatment and certainly not the treatment itself," Adelsheim said.

Dedrick, one of the brothers to whom Billy gave a copy of the only verified photograph of himself, was confined for four days. Gallegos and well-known Regulator Scurlock each were there for 27 days, like Billy, Gomber said. Regulators was the name given during the Lincoln County antidepressant, to the knowledge of Gillespie or Monske.

Adelsheim said antidepressants like Paxil are being used in the treatment of adolescents "all over the country," although there has not been "a great deal of formal testing" with young people.

A problem he said he sees is that there aren't enough children's psychiatrists in New Mexico and as a result primary care providers - family doctors and practitioners in school health centers - end up providing mental health services. More antidepressants and stimulants are provided by primary care providers than by psychiatrists, he said.

"We don't have enough child psychiatrists to provide appropriate medication management for everybody, so we have an obligation to provide better training for primary care providers," Adelsheim said.

Gladden said the colorful box of Paxil, which contained a video, came from Brown's office. He said that no other student, last year or this year, has been given Paxil or any other

Downs residents seek review board for police

BY TONI K. LAXSON
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Ruidoso Downs resident Monday revived a previous request for a citizens review board. That board, said Bonnie Richardson, owner of Ruidoso Foods, could help Ruidoso Downs avoid situations such as the present investigations into accusations of excessive police force.

Two weeks ago, Ruidoso Police Chief Larry Maddox notified Ruidoso Downs that his officers would no longer provide assistance to one Ruidoso Downs officer, Ken Arther, because of concerns about allegations of excessive force, civil rights violations and inappropriate behaviors. Arther is accused of beating men in two separate traffic stops. The officer has had past complaints filed against him.

"When the Ruidoso police force says they will not come to the aid of a Ruidoso Downs policeman, that does not make me feel like the Ruidoso Downs police officer is safe," Richardson said Tuesday. "People I have talked to, they have expressed concerns that the police force in Ruidoso Downs is out of control."

When speaking to the council, Richardson referred to past accusations against the village's police department.

"This is a serious situation," she said. "It is not a one-time thing. It has happened again and again. And it has never been resolved."

Mayor Joe Hayhurst said the village has been investigating the accusations for two weeks. When those investigations are finished, then the outcome will be announced publicly, he said.

"We have had a bit of bad publicity with our police department," Hayhurst said. "I feel like everybody else does — that we need something done. And it's all under investigation with the police and the police department."

Richardson pointed out that she had asked the council to create a citizens review board more than six months ago. She questioned what had happened to derail the project.

Though the council had previously discussed a review board, nothing further was done. At the time, an attorney for the village told her he had been ordered to stop researching the board, but did not say who gave the order, Richardson said. The attorney, Sean Baker, told her the council did not decide in a vote that a citizens review board should be researched, so it was not mandatory, she said.

Hayhurst said he would ask Village Attorney Dan Bryant, who was not at Monday's meeting, to find out what had happened to the citizen review board project.

In a later interview, Richardson said the citizens review board could act to expedite investigations into allegations of officer misconduct. In addition, the board could raise the issue of accountability.

"I would hope that incidents like this would not happen if personnel felt like they were accountable to somebody," she said. "That seems to be the problem — no one seems to be leading."

"I got the feeling that what they are doing is waiting for the attorney to get back to them. And again, they are not making decisions, but waiting for the attorney to make decisions for them," Richardson added.

On Tuesday, Hayhurst declined to comment on Richardson's statements, saying he could not discuss matters under investigation.

"And I am not going to say anything more about the review board until it is brought back out and we see what the situation is," he said.

Firm still unpaid for sewer line work

BY TONI K. LAXSON
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The repair bill will be paid, but the question now is who ultimately is responsible for a main sewer line that broke in late August and spilled sewage into the Rio Ruidoso.

In an emergency meeting, the joint board that oversees the sewer plant shared by Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs decided to pull money from a contingency fund for repairs of about $194,000. The fund, which is added to every year by both villages, had $301,000 available for repairs to the sewer system.

The Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant Joint Use Board on Sept. 29 also authorized attorneys to investigate who is to blame for the sewer line damage. Once responsibility is assessed, the joint use board will pass the bill along to the perceived culprit, board members said.

"Obviously, you have got the contractor, the land owner and you have got the governmental entity, where it took place, in allowing it," Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson, also chair of the joint use board, told village councilors on Sept. 28.

Ruidoso runs the day-to-day operations at the sewer plant, so Ruidoso attorneys will investigate, he said, adding that attorney bills will be paid by the board.

At issue is the main sewer interceptor line that broke in Ruidoso Downs at a lot across from the Wal-Mart Super Center on U.S. Highway 70 in 1997.

Ruidoso Properties Irrevocable Management Trust owns the lot where the dirt was placed and compacted. Charlie Spann, an Albuquerque attorney, manages the estate for the trust. He could not be reached for information on ownership.

To stop the spill and fix the sewer line,

Ruidoso Downs village officials hired Carl Kelley Construction and the consulting services of Drew Engineering. That was roughly a month ago, and the contractor's bill needed to be paid, Ruidoso Downs Mayor Joe Hayhurst, also a member of the joint use board, said.

A special meeting Sept. 28 was called to resolve and expedite payment, and the board reached a consensus to use the contingency fund, but board members could not vote because the issue was on the agenda for discussion only. Donaldson called for an emergency meeting Sept. 29 for the vote.

They agreed to use money from the contingency fund until a responsible party could be determined. Dan Bryant, attorney for Ruidoso Downs, said funds for the repairs should come from the contingency fund because it has paid for past repairs to main interceptor lines, whether in Ruidoso or Ruidoso Downs.

Sometimes the best medicine for the heart isn't medicine at all.

The Heart Hospital of New Mexico will offer the best of modern medicine. Like nationally-recognized doctors, specially-trained nurses and the latest medical equipment, plus some things that may not sound like medicine at all. Like private rooms, extra beds for family members, and meals whenever patients are hungry.

Studies have shown that heart patients who feel cared for and who are surrounded by family and friends recover faster. And for us, that's just good medicine.

OUR OPINION

Hmmm... suspicious confirmed

As if it matters now, New Mexico's lieutenant governor admits that the biggest problem with Ruidoso's multiple road construction projects isn't the contractor, the weather or the supervision.

It's the procurement code set up by the state for selecting contractors. Lt. Gov. Walter Bradley said here last week that Ruidoso isn't alone as it suffers through monumental construction woes: Raton (another mountain community) and Fort Sumner (nary a mountain in sight) both have struggled, and neither of them have the same contractor. Just about everybody can point to their own orange-barrel woes just about anywhere in the state, because nobody enjoys disruptions.

But Bradley laid it on the line when addressing the big-contract problem:

"The common tie — all three had contracts let by the state procurement code to the lowest bidder. But in these cases, the highway contractors were not prepared for the project."

He hastened to add that, technically, none of the contractors have broken their contracts.

So, from where Bradley stands, the $26 million being spent to fix up miles of roads in the Ruidoso area may perhaps be going to the wrong contractor — but Meadow Valley Contractors Inc. of Phoenix, Ariz., was the lowest bidder, and the law-backed procurement code says the low bidder gets the job.

His feeling is that more flexibility is needed in selecting the bidder. "We need to check out who is bidding on these projects." But, according to the state's legal staff, nothing can be done under the present code.

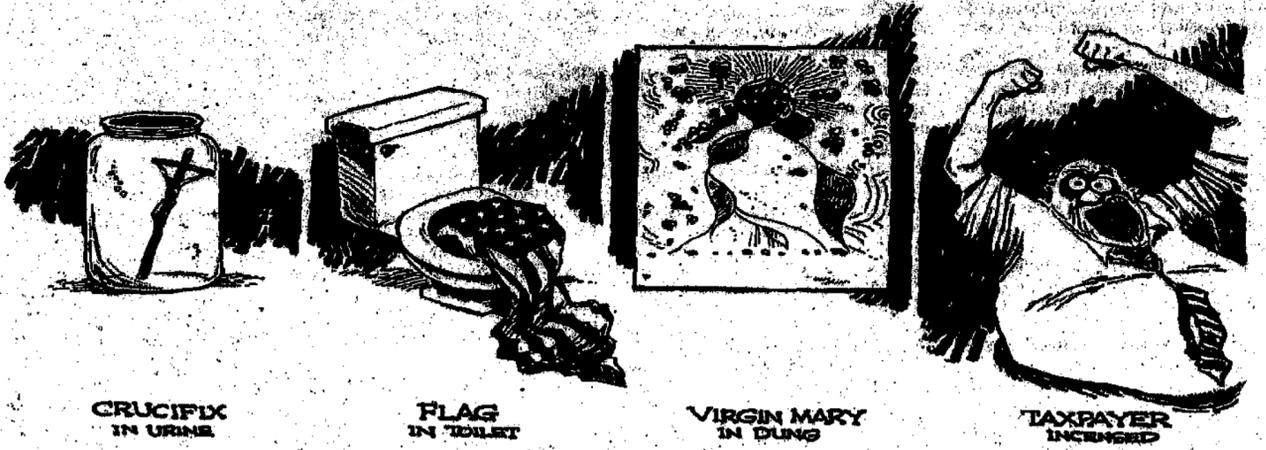

Bradley is something of an ombudsman for the state, but waffled a bit on just when procurement code revisions might be in effect — probably not in time for the next sections of State Highway 48 and U. S. 70, but certainly before the major work on U. S. 70 east of Ruidoso Downs.

Yet the lieutenant governor promised that before another contract is let for highway construction, there will be some regulatory changes to give more flexibility in selecting the bidder.

So which is it?
Considering the fact that probably the biggest single state highway reconstruction project of them all — rebuilding the "Big I" where Interstates 25 and 40 meet in Albuquerque — is coming up, some sharp revisions should be in order.

Hell hath no fury like detoured commuters who also vote.

Helping young people

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those that came out and supported the youth of our community by participating in the Lincoln County Junior Livestock Auction. In these days of increasing juvenile crime and gang involvement, it is more important than ever that we support children in such worthwhile and wholesome endeavors. Through programs such as 4-H and FFA, our children are learning responsibility, perseverance, and building self-esteem.

I would especially like to thank all those who donated livestock to New Mexico Boys and Girls Ranches. You have met a real need by helping us feed the troubled boys and girls in our care.

Thank you again for helping to make a difference in your community.

Bicycles in a parade

To the editor:

I have lived in Ruidoso for over 30 years and I have always enjoyed the parade. I do have one complaint: The children on the bicycles, no helmets and not knowing how to ride bicycles.

Crossing from one side of the street to the other side, not looking either way, and crossing in front of the (others). This lady in the parade waving at people almost hit the boy on his bicycle crossing right in front of her. When she saw him she put her brakes on, grabbing her heart. She missed him about three feet. If the children on the bicycles don't know the rules, we don't need them in a parade.

I was parked at the Ruidoso state Bank parking lot and they were going in and out there, too. My friend was in my car and she said a boy hit my car with his bicycle.

I just had my car painted two weeks ago. Now I have to have that fixed. The boy that did this does not need to ride a bicycle unless he is taught how and where to ride. If they want to be in a parade they need to go to the finish line and be picked up by their parents.

Another nominee

To the editor:

National politics seems to be attracting some really strange potential candidates for president of the United States.

Jack Nicholson, Warren Beatty, Jesse Ventura, Donald Trump and Arnold Schwarzenegger have all indicated an interest in running for the highest office in the land.

All have a freaky background in the entertainment business and it's not impossible that one of them might get elected. Such is not unprecedented. I think we need to add another name to this renowned and distinguished group—a man of stature, notoriety and accomplishment, Mr. Dennis Rodman.

Support the police

To the editor:

In response to Tony Seno's letter...and Bruce Dietrich's (of Domino's Pizza) remarks about the Ruidoso police, allow me to say...What a bright, colorful world you two live in.

Mr. Seno suggests that adding money into law enforcement (as proposed by Senator Bingaman) is wrong because of the past actions of bad cops. What's next, Mr. Seno? Cutting funds to education because of a few bad teachers? I am disturbed when I hear of a bad cop, as I am when I hear of bad teachers, priests, judges, social workers, etc. However, your "Throw the baby out with the bath water" politics is equally troubling. I understand that you are a former president of Lincoln County's Libertarian Party, enough reason for me to continue to vote Republican. I can only hope that Governor (Gary) Johnson will appoint a reasonable person to be our next county commissioner.

Mr. Dietrich's remarks regarding the vandalism of his business...has me asking what exactly is it you expect from the police and is it reasonable? I too have been victimized by crime, but I blame the criminal, not the police. You asked, "Where are the police?" when your business has been vandalized; I say read the newspaper, watch the news. From what I gather they are doing more than "chasing animals," they are dealing with homicides, murder-suicides, rape, armed robberies, auto thefts, burglaries, domestic violence, child abuse, DWI, etc. ... and you don't understand how your window can be broken without the police catching those responsible?

Mr. Seno is disgusted by the thought of a "larger, more powerful police state," and Mr. Dietrich? Well, I really don't know what he wants. Me? I'll continue to support our police, grumble at the armchair quarterbacks and continue realizing that we all share in the responsibility of crime prevention.

GUEST COMMENTARY

Best place for cash at Y2K? Your bank

BY JOHN D. HAWKE JR.
U. S. COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

As the regulator of the national banking system, I know that many Americans may be wondering if their banks are ready for the year 2000.

That is a legitimate question, and I'd like to answer it by saying that, yes, federally insured banks are ready for Y2K. They are ready because they have devoted more than two years and many billions of dollars to the task. Federal regulators have been checking on their progress every step of the way. As a result, the safest place for bank customers' money is still in a bank.

It is very important that people know their banks are prepared for the year 2000.

Now that the systems are ready, I am worried about the human factor—that people will make themselves vulnerable to theft or loss by withdrawing cash from the bank and putting it in their wallets or hiding it under their mattresses.

As we get closer to the New Year, Y2K rumors and scare stories will increase. Research commissioned by federal bank regulators shows that people expect the media to promote such stories, and they worry that others will overreact because of it.

We already have seen instances where scam artists have persuaded bank customers to give out account numbers under the pretense that their money was being moved into Y2K-safe accounts.

Federal regulators have been working to get the message out that a bank will never call to ask a customer for an account number—the bank already has it.

Bank customers need to do their part to educate themselves about the Y2K issue. They should talk to a trusted source, such as their banker. Information also is available through the Web sites and customer hotlines of bank regulators.

"Bank customers need to do their part to educate themselves about the Y2K issue."

John D. Hawke Jr.
Comptroller of the Currency

All of the federal regulators of financial institutions — the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Office of Thrift Supervision and the National Credit Union

Administration — have made clear that we are confident in the Y2K preparations of insured financial institutions.

I believe the banking industry will pass the Y2K test with flying colors. Banks have made a firm commitment to ensure that their customers maintain access to bank accounts and account information.

And that commitment is as good as money in the bank.

Harshel and Elaine Anderson receive the Conservation Farmer Award at a dinner for Upper Hondo farmers and ranchers.

Upper Hondo farmers, ranchers earn conservation awards for '99

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Although James Sanchez, one of the supervisors of the Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District, joked that the group of mostly rural residents seemed out of place in Ruidoso, the food was strictly down-home cooking.

While chowing down on meat, mashed potatoes, beans and pineapple cake, district members listened Thursday to James Sanchez, district superintendent, recite a list of projects assisted by the district, including paying for pipelines and livestock watering devices.

Elaine and Harshel Anderson, who live in Ruidoso, but operate an orchard and farm outside of Lincoln, received the Conservation Farmer Award.

The couple retired from teaching in Texas, but took on a tougher job, operating Serendip Orchards, a 15.4 acre spread of cherry trees, raspberries and blackberries two miles west of Lincoln.

Conservation improvements include two small irrigation regulating filters lined to prevent water seepage, raising honey and culturing berries to provide protection from weather elements, diseases and other pests.

Fresh berries are sold at the farm as well as at retail outlets, and the excess is processed as preserves, vinegars and other items sold under the Serendip label.

"This isn't fair, to get an award for something you enjoy doing so much," Elaine Anderson said.

Davis and Lou McCrea were chosen for the Conservation Rancher Award. They own a 19,600-acre cow-calf-sheep operation 35 miles east of Ruidoso, all on private land.

Animals are rotated among six grazing pastures. Watering improvements and habitat are maintained for deer and scaled quail with controlled hunting access.

They have installed 15,474 feet of livestock pipeline and three fiberglass tanks, and refurbished four steel storage tanks and troughs.

The McCreas bought the ranch seven years ago. They were unable to attend the meeting.

David Morris was picked for the Conservation Service Award. Morris installs earthen erosion control structures and livestock pipelines, and removes brush.

"He's done a lot to preserve the way of life we enjoy," Sanchez said. "He's tried to retire several times and we call him back for big projects that youngsters in the business just don't know how to handle yet."

"I retired to do what I wanted to do and I'm still doing it," Morris said.

The Professional Public Service Award went to district board member Robert Runnels, who Sanchez said never fails to voice his opinion on policies and to defend private property rights. Runnels operates Runnels Outfitter Guide Service and Bonito Stables.

Before adjourning, members re-elected John Cooper as chairman and Robert Runnels as a board member.

Major election year shapes up for 2000

Countdown for registration, candidate filings already has started

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The next big national, state and county election isn't until the fall of 2000, but to participate in the political process as a voter or a candidate, some dates are important to remember, said Sam Chavez, Lincoln County elections clerk.

For instance, Friday was the first day a candidate could circulate nominating petitions, available at the county clerk's office in the courthouse in Carrizozo.

Locally, voters in November, 2000, will be electing two county commissioners, a county assessor, county sheriff and a probate judge.

Commission Chairman Rex Wilson's term is up in District 1, which covers the north and western rural areas of the county. Wilson is eligible to run in the June primary and November general election for one more four-year term.

Voters will get a chance to fill the district three commission seat occupied by Wilton Howell until his death in a traffic accident on Sept. 1. The district covers a portion of Ruidoso. Gov. Gary Johnson will appoint an interim commissioner to serve until Jan. 1, 2001.

Sheriff Tom Sullivan and Probate Judge Sterling Spencer could seek re-election for second terms, but Assessor Patsy Serna is not eligible, because she has served two consecutive four-year terms, the maximum allowed under state law.

Federal offices open start at the top with the president and vice president, then U.S. senator and U.S. representatives in New Mexico Districts 1, 2 and 3.

All state senators and state representatives are up for election next year, and all 14 district attorneys.

The requirements to run for public office in New Mexico are minimal. Candidates must be at least 18, U.S. citizens, affiliated with the declared political party by the date of the governor's proclamation and by that date, must live in the district or county of the office for which the candidate is running.

The last day a candidate can change political affiliation is Jan. 31, when Gov. Gary Johnson is scheduled to issue his primary election proclamation.

Other important dates for the June primary include:

- March 14, filing day for primary write-in candidates for the offices of U.S. representative, members of the legislature, district judges, district attorneys, public regulation commissioner, state board of education, magistrate and any office voted on by all voters in the state.
- March 21, when declaration of candidacy and nominating petitions for legislative, district judge, district attorney, public regulation commissioner, state board of education and all county offices must be filed from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- April 4 is the last day to file rules and petitions with the Secretary of State for new political parties.

- April 27, absentee voting begins and runs through June 8.

- May 1 and May 30, campaign finance reports are due.

- Tuesday, May 9, voter registration closes for the election.

- May 17, early in-person voting begins and runs through June 1.

- Tuesday, June 6, the primary election.

- Voter registration for the general election reopens June 12. The third primary campaign finance report is due by 5 p.m., July 6.

- July 11 is the last day for independent and minor party candidates to file.

- Sept. 5 is filing day for write-in candidates and is the last day to withdraw from the general election.

- Sept. 28, absentee voting begins and runs through Nov. 4.

- Oct. 10, the first campaign report for the general election is due. The second should be submitted by Nov. 2 and the third by Dec. 7.

- Oct. 10, voter registration for the general election closes.

- Oct. 18, early in-person voting begins and runs through Nov. 2.

- Nov. 7, general election day.

NOVA "Time Travel"

Nova "Time Travel" includes comments from experts who are pondering the hypothetical basis of time travel: Thorne, professor of theoretical physics at the California Institute of Technology; his friend and frequent betting adversary, Stephen Hawking; his mentor, John Wheeler; Sagan, who was interviewed for the program a few months before his death in 1996; and others.

While most of their work is theoretical (and illustrated in the program with special effects), some research is actually taking place in the lab. "Time Travel" explores a controversial demonstration purported to send a signal faster than light; an experiment to create exotic matter, a necessary ingredient for a wormhole time machine; and supposed evidence of photons emerging from a parallel universe, which might be a realm of transit for time travelers.

Scientists began talking openly about time travel only after Thorne published speculation based on mathematical models of wormholes, which are the theoretical entities he used to permit Sagan's heroine in Contact to travel light-years in an instant for a rendezvous with aliens.

Nova "Time Travel" airs Tuesday, October 12th at 7:00 p.m. It repeats Saturday, October 16th at 9:00 p.m. and Sunday, October 17th at 12:00 midnight.

FRONTLINE "Mafia Power Play"

Before the fall of communism, many of the world's best hockey stars played for the Soviet Union. Today, however, with its economy in shambles and crime running rampant, Russia's best athletes have come to North America to play for the National Hockey League. Despite their celebrity and multimillion dollar contracts, the lives and reputations of these young Russians are shadowed by the troubles they left behind in their homeland.

In "Mafia Power Play," Frontline investigates how the tentacles of Russian organized crime have penetrated the National Hockey League. The report exposes how major Russian crime figures are extorting Russian-born players and using their hockey connections to establish a beachhead in the U.S. and Canada.

Russian players in the U.S. and Canada are especially vulnerable to Mafia threats because many left close family behind in Russia. Oleg Tverdokovskiy, now playing for the Phoenix Coyotes, was drawing a one-million-dollar paycheck as a member of the Winnipeg Jets when a Russian gang kidnapped his mother, demanding $200,000 for her freedom. She was eventually rescued by Russian police and today lives in California.

"Mafia Power Play" on Frontline airs Tuesday, October 12th at 8:00 p.m. It repeats Saturday, October 16th at 10:00 p.m.

Hodges pleads guilty

A former Ruidoso High School principal pleaded guilty last Thursday in Magistrate Court to aggravated DWI.

Ron Hodges, who was arrested on a bench warrant Tuesday for violating conditions of his release, was given credit for his two days in jail, said Lorena Lamy, head court clerk.

Hodges was assessed a $100 bench warrant fee and $199 in court costs and was placed on a 90-day probation with the Lincoln County DWI Program, with 88 days suspended. He is required to attend a 30-day inpatient treatment program, Lamy said.

District Attorney Scot Key said Hodges reserved his right to appeal a motion arguing that the stop was illegal, which Butts had denied. Butts sentenced him to mandatory jail time.

Hodges was stopped April 10 by officers of the Bureau of Indian Affairs for weaving on the road and driving slowly on U.S. Highway 70 East on the Mescalero Apache Reservation.

New Mexico State Police were called in because Hodges is a non-Indian, and he was tested at more than twice the legal limit of .08 percent alcohol per liter of blood.

Assistant Principal Art Howard took over Hodges' duties at the high school through the end of the year, and Bill Green was subsequently hired as principal.

Site plan ordinance vote slated

The Ruidoso Village Council will hold a public hearing and vote on an ordinance amendment regarding the placement of homes on lots on Tuesday, Oct. 26.

The change is to require a surveyor's certificate to verify that a home's placement on a lot conforms to previously approved site plans.

The amendment is to reduce the number of homes, and manufactured homes in particular, that are not placed as indicated on the site plan and sometimes encroach into setbacks.

The result could be delays in the sale of the property or future improvements, Darrell Bremner, village planner, said.

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission recommended the ordinance amendment to the council.

Officer Condon hearing delayed until November

BY TONI K. LAXSON
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Ruidoso Downs police officer's grievance hearing before the village's personnel board was postponed for a second time last Friday.

The hearing, open to the public at the request of Officer Chris "Corky" Condon, will now be 9 a.m. Nov. 1. The hearing regards disciplinary actions Police Chief David Hightower has proposed for Condon.

The disciplinary actions are for three reported violations by the officer—stopping a motorist outside of Ruidoso Downs jurisdiction, installing a program on a department computer without permission, and conducting an investigation of another officer without authorization, Condon has said.

Condon, in a previous interview, said he believed the disciplinary actions were brought up only after he filed a complaint regarding the actions of another officer in the police department. Condon said he was not at liberty to name that officer.

The hearing first had been scheduled for mid-August, but was canceled when Condon's attorney, Randy Clark of Roswell, was unable to attend. Clark was again unable to attend the hearing Friday at the Ruidoso Downs Village Hall. Condon told hearing officer John Hakanson, an Alamogordo attorney hired by the village to oversee grievance proceedings, that he wanted to represent himself.

"Instead of postponing this any longer, I have decided to take care of this now," Condon told Hakanson.

Hakanson then closed the hearing for a little over an hour, asking about 12 people to leave the council chambers. At times, Hakanson and the board met with Condon and Village Attorney Dan Bryant, who represents the village and Hightower in the matter, and at times Hakanson and the board alone discussed issues regarding the hearing.

When he opened the meeting to the public, most of whom were friends of Condon's, Hakanson said he had closed it to discuss procedural matters.

"Because, if you don't cross all your 't's and dot all your 'i's things can get lost in the proceedings," he said.

Condon said afterward his attorney is to be at the Nov. 1 hearing.

In June, when Condon first asked for a public grievance hearing, Hakanson also held a closed meeting to discuss procedures for the hearing. Bryant's office had issued requests to either close the hearing or restrict evidence. One primary reason given for the motion to close the hearing was to protect the privacy of other employees, Sean Baker, an attorney for the village, said at the time. Condon said the outcome of the meeting was that he agreed to restrict the evidence he presented on his behalf.

In a previous interview, Condon defended himself against the complaints from Hightower. Regarding the traffic stop in Ruidoso, Condon said he tried to contact Ruidoso police, first. He also carries a card signed by Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan authorizing him to act on the behalf of Lincoln County, Condon said.

He did attempt to install a program on a department computer, but he did so after telling Hightower about his plans to install the program, Condon said. Hightower did not tell him not to install the program, he said.

In the third accusation against him, Condon acknowledges that he was investigating another officer's actions, but it was for his own complaint against the officer and not on behalf of the department.

RUIDOSO POLICE

Correction

Javier Rodriguez was not arrested Oct. 2 as reported on Oct. 6. A juvenile using his identification was arrested, police reported.

Burglaries

Police said the owner of LeClair Boots and Boutique, 2415 Sudderth Drive, reported 10 watches stolen between June and Sept. 30, with an estimated total value of $1,145.

A television and a VCR valued at $200 each were stolen from a residence in the 100 block of Clover Drive between 6 and 8 p.m. Sept. 28, according to the Ruidoso Police Department.

Suspects entered a residence in the 800 block of Carrijo Canyon Road between 9 a.m. Sept. 28 and 7:30 p.m. Sept. 29 and stole a watch, earrings and a belt, all valued at about $2,900, police report. Suspects entered through the window after removing the air conditioner, the report states. Checks were taken also and police are investigating forgery of two of them.

Police report that unknown people stole four wooden boxes with different images of saints from Galeria La Luz, 1101

Sudderth Drive. The statuettes were valued at about $2,000 for all, and were reported missing Sept. 22.

Drug offenses

Police arrested Joseph Allen Kyle, 19, of Ruidoso about 11:30 p.m. Sept. 30 and charged him with possession of under an ounce of marijuana.

The officer had noticed the defendant on a bicycle without lights or reflectors about 8:45 p.m., and answered another call. At about 11:30 p.m. he again saw the man on the bicycle and stopped to tell him about the traffic violation (for lack of lights and reflectors).

The officer noticed that the defendant responded with slow speech and when he was searched, a baggy with marijuana was found, the report states.

Juveniles arrested

Ruidoso police officers arrested three juveniles at Ruidoso High School and charged them with auto burglary, a fourth-degree felony, breaking and entry, possession of a switchblade and carrying a concealed weapons on school premises, all fourth-degree felonies.

The report states that the defendants, who were turned over to the Juvenile Probation Office, were charged with breaking the window of a vehicle in the parking lot of the high school at 125 Warrior Drive and ripping out two stereo speakers valued at $150 each.

Dog trap stolen

A dog trap belonging to the village of Ruidoso was reported stolen from the 100 block of Randle Drive where it had been set by the Ruidoso animal control officer. The report states that several neighbors had expressed anger at the trap, valued at $445, being set. The case was turned over to the Criminal Investigations Division.

Convention hotel lot split

Ruidoso village leaders recently approved splitting a 3.8-acre lot of village owned land next to the Ruidoso Convention Center into three parcels.

The largest section, about 2 acres, will be leased to the developer of a $7.5 million

Hawthorn Suites Convention and Golf Resort. The developer, whose parent company is Leisure Hotels L.L.C., will lease the lot from the village for about $11,000 a year. The company will retain an option the adjoining lots.

Foreign Objects in the Eye

First Aid Basics:
Any material (solid, liquid, gas or laser beam) not naturally found in the eye is considered a foreign body. This includes any caustic liquids, compressed gases, wood, metal, even contact lenses. Another hazard comes from any laser light source. The body has a natural defense against any foreign object in the eye; it produces tears to wash the object out. However, sometimes the body needs a little help. Here's what you can do, or have a friend do, to help remove something in the eye.

FIRST, call your eye doctor. Your eye doctor's office can give you valuable information and help determine your best course of action. Never rub or press on the eye. Unless the foreign object is from a high speed power source, try to flush it out with water in order to minimize further damage. If the object is embedded in any portion of the eye, you will need to see your eye doctor as soon as possible. This would be considered an emergency and requires an eye specialist.

If someone is available who will assist you, have them look thoroughly for any object that cannot be seen easily. They should gently pull the lower lid down. Then, carefully examine its inner surface while you look up. Next, check the inside of the upper lid. If the foreign object still has not been found, have the person place a swab across your upper lid. They should gently fold the upper lid up over the swab and search. If the object is not found, flush it out with water or sterile eye wash. If the foreign object still cannot be located, loosely cover the eye with a soft pad and call your eye doctor immediately.

A foreign body usually causes irritation or abrasion which may require further treatment to prevent infection. If irritations or other symptoms continue after an object has been removed, consult an eye doctor promptly.

The Doctors and Staff of Family Vision Center, 159 Mescalero Trail are always available to answer your questions and determine your vision care and treatment. We offer after hours and emergency services for foreign body removal and other eye injuries.

REGIONAL BRIEFS

Historical Society to study Lew Wallace

LINCOLN - A special tour of Spanish missions and a portrayal of New Mexico's most famous governor are scheduled this month for members and guests of the Lincoln County Historical Society.

Noel H. Pugach, Ph.D., professor of history at the University of New Mexico, will portray Gov. Lew Wallace during a meeting of the society Oct. 23.

The meeting from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. will be at the Iglesia de San Juan here.

Governor during a turbulent period in New Mexico's history, Wallace also is known as the author of the historical novel "Ben Hur." He was a lawyer, a politician, a Civil War general and a U.S. minister to the Ottoman Empire (modern-day Turkey).

A field trip is planned by society members Saturday (Oct. 16) to Quarai Mission. Meet at the visitors center at 10:30 a.m. for the tour that begins at 11 a.m.

To reach the mission, take U.S. 54 north from Carrizozo to the Gran Quivira/Salinis National Monument turnoff (State Highway 55), then drive through Mountainair to the village of Punta de Agua. The trip to the 1860s mission takes about 1 1/2 hours.

After lunch, the group will drive to Abo, about 12 miles away, for more touring. By special arrangement with the National Park Service and Salinas National Monument Superintendent Glen Fuller, members will tour two of the three Spanish missions, Indian pueblos and a rock art archaeological site not usually open to the public.

For more information about the meeting or tour, call (505) 653-4821.

Blessing of Animals rite scheduled Oct. 23

The annual Blessing of the Animals, sponsored by the Humane Society of Lincoln County, is set for 10 a.m. to noon, Oct. 23, in School House Park next to the Ruidoso Senior Citizens Center.

Owners will be able to have photographs taken of pets with Santa Claus and medals will be presented to pets winning in many categories.

Open to all people and their pets, the blessing is tied to the annual feast of St. Francis of Assisi, an Italian friar and founder of the Franciscan order who was known for his love of animals.

"It's an event that children, adults and their pet can enjoy," said Sandra Ford-Wenzel, administrator of the society's shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road. All pets must be kept under restraint.

Native plant group forms

The newest chapter of the Native Plant Society of New Mexico will be in Ruidoso, Mamie Carl, a member of the local formation committee, said recently.

"We placed posters around town to gauge interest in such an organization," she said, "and people have been calling up to say 'include me in'."

The meeting, scheduled for Oct. 21 at 7 p.m., will be at the Nob Hill Early Childhood Center library, 103 Sutton Drive, and will include a slide presentation by nationally known gardening author Andy Wasowski, titled "The Landscaping Revolution."

"For people who may have heard something about natives, but don't know if it's for them or not, this program is a good introduction to the many reasons why native gardening is the hottest trend in gardening today," says Carl.

Wasowski, a resident of Taos and a member of the Native Plant Society of New Mexico, said there are many advantages to using native plants as opposed to many exotic plants, including water conservation, elimination of toxic lawn chemicals, and creating wildlife habitats.

State, federal regulations different

Rules apply to wood cutting

CAPITAN - Newcomers to Lincoln County who plan to cut their own fuel wood this year, should check with the local office of the State Forestry Division here to ensure they don't break any rules, says forester Bill Duemling.

"The firewood gathering season is in full swing again," he said. "Individuals who are cutting, hauling or purchasing firewood should be aware of state regulations involving woody material."

"Anyone who cuts, removes, transports or sells must have written consent of the landowner through a bill of sale or a letter. If landowners are harvesting their own, they must be able to verify ownership of the property where the removal occurs. A recent property tax bill will do."

The document should be carried at all times by wood-gatherers - preferably in the glove compartment of the person's truck, he suggested.

A permission letter should include the landowner's address and telephone number, a signature, a legal description of the harvest area, the authorized amounts and species to be removed and the effective and expiration dates for harvest, Duemling said.

The division has a removal form that once completed and signed will serve the same purpose as a permission letter, he said. It can be picked up at the district office in Capitan or mailed on request.

Firewood cutting on federal land requires a federal permit.

In 1996, the state Legislature repealed the Commercial Tree Tag/Fee regulation, Duemling said.

"Entrepreneurs who plan to cut Christmas trees and sell them in the state no longer have to purchase individual tags for each tree or pay any fees," he said. "However, commercial Christmas tree cutters still are subject to the regulations on woody products removal and must carry appropriate consent documentation. The same regulations apply to personal use Christmas tree cutters on private or state lands."

The U.S. Forest Service charges $5 for Christmas tree cutting permits on national forest land. Trees cut on federal land and then resold no longer need a state forestry division Christmas tree tag, but a federal commercial harvest permit of a final bill of sale must accompany the sale of Christmas trees, according to a forest service spokesman. Permits will be sold in November.

Check with the Smokey Bear District office in Ruidoso at (505) 257-4049 or the district office in Cloudcroft at (505) 682-2551.

Living Christmas trees, including balled and burlap, potted and other containerized stock, are regulated by the New Mexico Department of Agriculture. Live trees no longer need a special NMDA tag, but living trees gathered in the wild can only be resold by a licensed nursery dealer, Duemling said. The NMDA monitors transplanted trees to prevent the spread of contagious insect and disease pests.

The state forestry division in Capitan may be reached by calling (505) 354-2231.

VILLAGE BRIEFS

Sewer regs near vote

Changes to Ruidoso's regulations regarding sewer service will be voted on by village councilors Oct. 26 following a public hearing.

One change is to reduce the cost of a dye test from $100 to $50, with the village picking up the other half of the bill. Dye tests are used to determine whether a home is on-village sewer lines or a septic tank.

A second change is to allow homes and businesses in areas being annexed by Ruidoso to connect to village sewer lines.

P&Z assigned studies

Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson has given the village's Planning and Zoning Commission several study assignments for potential changes in Ruidoso's zoning laws.

The first subject regards lot splitting - whether restrictions should be imposed to reduce the potential for widespread splitting of residential lots.

Because of declining available lots in the village and the escalation of real estate values, more people may be inclined to split lots. Those lot splits could ultimately result in higher demand on Ruidoso's water system, sewer lines and streets, Donaldson said.

"We really do need to get a handle on this," he told commissioners.

Possible solutions may include increasing the minimum lot size for residential areas, he said.

Donaldson said he would like the commission to make a recommendation to the council by a vote on their regular agenda, rather than through a public hearing first, and then a vote.

Another subject for study are possible revisions to business zoning, Donaldson said. He has received comments from village councilors as well as members of the commission about an increase in car lots as well as lots selling manufactured homes, and questioned whether those should be adressed in possible revisions.

He said business zoning criteria has not been revised since the late 1980s.

"We need to make sure the uses are pertinent to today," he said.

Donaldson also asked planning and zoning commissioners for an opinion about architectural controls for business areas. Architectural controls regulate the appearance and building materials used.

Capitan's Lindsey Bush sizes up one her 14 kills during the Tularosa match, while Wildcat Angle Gutierrez tries to stop her. Bush and the Tigers rebounded from their disappointing district loss to Dexter Tuesday to take a district victory from Tularosa Thursday. The Tigers (12-3 overall and 3-1 in 6AA) begin the second round of district play Thursday, when they host Cloudcroft beginning at 4 p.m. with freshman team play.

Tiger spikers rebound for win

BY KAREN BOEHLER FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

TULAROSA - The Capitan Tigers (12-3, 3-1) and Tularosa Wildcats (8-7, 1-2) went head-to-head on the volleyball court Thursday, with the Tigers claiming a 15-11, 15-12, 10-16, 15-4 District 6AA victory.

Neither team was at their best. Tiger coach Bryan Massé called the play "sloppy."

"I thought we really just had trouble getting confidence back from (the loss to) Dexter, and we weren't in sync at all," he said. "I'll take the win, but we can play a lot better."

Capitan led through most of the first two games, but except for a five-point string by server Lindsey Bush in game one, the Tigers couldn't hold the momentum.

Neither could Tularosa. The Wildcats managed a five-point run behind the serving of Angle Gutierrez in game two to jump ahead 8-6, but Capitan pieced together a point here and there to retake the lead and the win.

The Tigers appeared to have the momentum on their side going into game three, but Tularosa summoned the strength to come back.

Service errors plagued both sides.

"We missed quite a few (serves)," Massé said. "More than normal. We missed five out of six in one game, and you just can't do that and win. We got lucky and did, but most of the time you're going to get beat."

Cats coach Scott Rhodes said most of his team's missed serves were long.

"Sometimes that's a good sign, that we have adrenaline in us and are ready to go but right now it's district time and you've got to get that serve in," he said.

Capitan again jumped out to a lead in game four, and this time the Tigers held the edge. Krystal Roybal served eight points to put Capitan up 14-3.

After one more point by Tularosa, Lorena Brockman fired an ace over the net to give Capitan the game and match.

Roybal said she was "focused" during her serving string, while backed up with solid play from her teammates.

"I think when I served, everybody got the momentum and just kept it," she said.

She said the loss in game three forced the Tigers to pull together.

"We weren't talking to each other," Roybal said. "We weren't backing each other up. But after we got focused and decided we had to get some heart into this, we all pulled together as a team."

Bush led Capitan with 14 kills. Shawna Shreengost tallied eight kills and Roybal and T.J. Maroon had four each. The Tigers begin their second round of district play Thursday when they host Cloudcroft. Freshmen teams begin play at 4 p.m., followed by JV and varsity action.

Now children are learning to read, and enjoying it

"We've had the trainings for all the districts for the last three or four years," Gladden said. The districts worked their way into it, starting with training the superintendents, then training principals and librarians "so they'll know how to support the teachers in their efforts." Last spring teachers received training, with their final two days of training last week, where they learned strategies to motivate students to read more, matching students with the right book, reducing paperwork, and keep reading levels rising.

Cheeta McMurry, a second-grade teacher from Alamogordo, said she's been using Accelerated Reading for a couple of years, and she's gotten rid of the reading program.

"We don't need a basal reader anymore. We let the kids read what they want to," McMurry said. "The child can move forward, doesn't have to wait for the rest of the class or have to read things that are boring to him or he doesn't understand."

Frank Cannella, principal at White Mountain Elementary School, said the school had bought $30,000 worth of books in the past four years, bringing the library up to speed for the program.

When students come to school they take a test that measures their reading level, and then the books are arranged in the library by reading ranges. Cannella said a student in second grade might test at 2.2 to 2.6, which means a range of the second through the sixth month of second grade. That student could then go to that section of the library and pick any book of interest.

After reading the book, the student takes a test to see how well the book was understood. Each classroom has a computer so they can take the test as soon as they finish a book. These and the library and computer lab computers are networked to allow a test at any of them.

"They get points," Cannella said, "and the kids get competitive about how many points they have. Teachers give them awards and there are school-wide things when they get to 25 points."

Third graders have a 10-point Club and fourth graders a 20-point Club, and when they meet the goal they get to eat lunch in the library and parents bring cookies, cakes and other treats. A parent who owns a limousine will take the top readers for the first nine-week period to Pizza Hut on Oct. 19, and the principal will dress as a woman.

Cannella said his 400 students used to check out 300 books a month; now they check out 1,000. Each class has one period in the library a week, but students can check out books on other days.

"Ideally, you want them to finish a book in a couple days," Cannella said. "The purpose of Accelerated Reading is to get them to practice reading. If you want to be good at skiing, you practice skiing."

One secret of success: Children read at appropriate levels, rather than books that are too difficult or too easy, both of which may discourage them.

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Capitan student to attend nuclear meeting

Nathan Longbotham, a senior physics major at Abilene Christian University (ACU) from Capitan, will attend the Division of Nuclear Physics of the American Physical Society meeting in Asilomar, Calif., Oct. 13-16.

Three other students from the university and 50-60 students from the U.S. and Canada were awarded travel grants to attend the conference, said Dr. Donald Isenhower, chair and professor of physics at ACU.

"The goal of all of these experiments is to understand the proton and neutron which are the particles that make up the nucleus of every atom. The better we understand the fundamental building blocks of nature the better we can understand the structure of the universe around us," Isenhower said.

The Department of Physics at ACU offers degrees in physics, engineering physics, and microelectronics, as well as a two-year pre-engineering program.

It is one of some 80 universities nationwide that receive funding for nuclear physics research by the U. S. Department of Energy. Students have attended many different graduate schools in various fields and found employment at some of the leading corporations in the world.

Ruidoso 4-H girls show off alpacas and win at State Fair

The Ruidoso 4-H Club represented by the alpaca "training and showmanship" special project, took home numerous awards Sept. 10 at the Lama Youth Show at the New Mexico State Fair, and again on Sept. 26 during the regular Alpaca Show at the State Fair.

The Lama (spelled with one L) Youth Show is for 4-H children showing alpacas and their large cousins, the llama. The special project "alpaca training & showmanship" showcased the children's work at taking newborn alpacas and training them to lead at halter and go willingly through several different styles of obstacles courses, and to show their animals to the best advantage at halter.

Participating in this inaugural project for the Ruidoso 4-H Club were Heather McDougal, granddaughter of Mas and Sunny McDougal, a sixth-grader at White Mountain Intermediate; Ashley Stella, daughter of Joe and Gina Stella, a fifth-grader at White Mountain Intermediate; and Thea Evans, daughter of Rick and Ann Evans, a fifth-grader at Hondo Valley Schools.

Providing the alpacas for the project were Marilyn and Dr. Mike Nishitani of Portas Nirvana Alpacas, Ruidoso. The project leader was Ann Evans of Enchantment Farm Alpacas, Glencoe.

In Showmanship at Halter, Heather placed third, Ashley fifth, and Thea fourth.

In Novice Obstacle, Thea placed second, Ashley fourth and Heather fifth.

In Egg Scurry (against ages 9-19), Heather placed fifth.

In Gamblers Choice (against ages 9-19), Thea placed second and Ashley placed fourth.

In Novice Public Relations, Thea placed first, Ashley placed fifth, and Heather placed sixth.

The girls showed in three separate classes in their age division of 9-11 and in two classes that pitted them against children of ages 9-19. At the end of the day, Thea Evans accumulated enough points to earn Reserve Grand Champion Youth for the day.

On Sept. 26, the girls went back to Albuquerque for the regular Alpaca Show. Ashley Stella placed fourth in Alpaca Open Obstacle, against adults, and Thea Evans placed third in Alpaca Open Public Relations, also against adults.

A Clothes Yarn

From Fiber to Cloth

Spinning fiber into yarn

Did you ever wonder how your clothes are made? Clothes are made of fibers bound together.

Fibers are threadlike strands of a substance. Before they can be made into cloth, fibers must go through several steps where they are cleaned and straightened.

MY SHIRT IS MADE OF COTTON.

Spinning is the final step. It turns the fibers into yarn by twisting and pulling at the same time.

Twisting holds the fibers together. Untwist a piece of yarn and see how easily it pulls apart. Yarns can be made as thin as a hair or as thick as rope.

The first forms of yarn were probably made when people braided animal fur or twisted plant fibers together.

For thousands of years, people spun fiber in the same way, using a spinning wheel. Because people had to make all their own cloth, spinning was very important.

Sociable spinning

For hundreds of years, spinning was one of the few tasks where women could sit down and relax a little while working.

Often neighboring women brought their spinning wheels with them on visits to their neighbors. They could sit and talk together during the long hours it took to spin the yarn.

Yarn to fabric

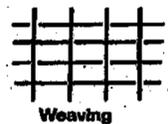

Most fabric is made by knitting or weaving. In knitting, a person or a machine loops the yarn together to make fabric.

One long string of yarn can make a very long piece of fabric.

In weaving, a machine called a loom interlaces two pieces of yarn.

Weaving wonderful cloth

The very first weaving, which is still practiced in parts of South America and Asia, was probably "back-strap weaving."

The weaver, usually a woman, ties one end of the yarn to a strap on her back. She ties the other end to a post or tree.

Holding another length of yarn in her hands, she interlaces this yarn in and out of the long strands between her and the tree.

These pieces of cloth are not very wide, but they can be long. The pieces are sewn together to make a wider piece.

In the African country of Ghana, men weave in a way much like this. Their bright colored fabric is called "kente" cloth.

This chief (center) in Ghana was photographed about 30 years ago wearing kente cloth. In Ghana today, kente is still worn, but only for special occasions.

Puzzle-le-do

These famous stories all have to do with cloth, clothing, or things for making cloth. Can you name each story?

Fibers Today

Dyeing and printing

The colors you are wearing might have been put in the fabric in several different ways. Yarn can be dyed and used to weave or knit a pattern.

Fabric can also be dyed a solid color after it is woven or knitted. Colorful designs can also be printed on fabrics after they have been woven or knitted.

Looms and knitting machines can be programmed to make different patterns in the fabric.

Making dyes

Synthetic dyes made from chemicals weren't invented until the 1900s. Before that all dyes were made from natural material such as:

- berries
- flowers
- bark
- roots
- beetles
- shellfish
- minerals

One of the most important dyeing ingredients was human urine. Big chamber pots would be put around villages to collect it. The urine causes the color to go deep into the fiber so the fabric stays permanently colored.

After the urine-treated cloth was dyed, it was washed, beaten, rinsed, and laid out in the grass to dry under the sun. The finished cloth was clean and safe to wear.

One of the most sought-after colors was gold, because only the rich could afford the real thing. Bright yellow dyes to make fibers look like gold were made from crocuses.

One of the rarest colors was purple. Because it took a lot of work to produce the color, which could only be made from one type of shellfish, purple was often worn by royalty.

Industrial Revolution

New inventions in the textile industry sparked the Industrial Revolution.

For thousands of years, most cloth was made in people's homes or small shops. In the 1700s, everything changed very quickly.

New inventions such as steam-powered machines made it cheaper and faster to produce goods in factories.

Several inventions in the textile industry made it possible to make cloth much faster by machines than had ever been done by hand. Women, and even children, started spending most of their day away from home working in factories.

New problems

People not only left their homes to go to work, but they also left the country and crowded into cities.

Because of the Industrial Revolution, people could get many goods for cheaper prices. But workers were paid low wages and factory owners took most of the profits.

Child labor became a big problem, with children sometimes working 16 hours a day in textile factories. In America today, laws protect against child labor.

Uses for today's fabrics

Today textiles can be made so strong they are used for many things besides clothes, including:

- lightweight bicycles
- bulletproof vests
- artificial arteries
- army tanks

Children as young as 5 worked in factories. Sometimes children were chained to the machines. This little girl was working in a cotton mill.

The Mini Page thanks R. Alan Donaldson, professor of Textiles and Apparel, Technology and Management at North Carolina State University, for help with this issue.

Look through your newspaper for pictures of people. Pretend you are dyeing their clothes, and color them.

Next week The Mini Page is about Vikings in North America.
