FBI pursues casino token theft probe

Two former Casino Apache employees arrested

BY JAMES KAIKELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Two Ruidoso area men were arrested in Las Vegas, Nev., allegedly trying to cash in with slot machine tokens missing for months from Casino Apache.

Charged by police from the Nevada Gaming Control Board's enforcement division were Brian Torres, 33, of Mescalero and Wesley Guill, 22, of Ruidoso. Both had worked at Casino Apache, investigators said. The two have been accused of the use of counterfeit slot machine tokens and cheating at gambling, according to Keith Copher, the chief of enforcement for the Nevada Gaming Control Board.

"Around March 3 casinos here started noticing tokens from Casino Apache turning up," Copher said. "At first the tokens were defaced. Later on some weren't defaced."

The Nevada Gaming Control Board issued an alert to all state casinos about the illegitimate tokens. An alert clerk on March 17 noticed a $100 Casino Apache token mixed in with other tokens, when Brian Torres tried to cash out, Copher said. Guill was reportedly arrested minutes later, attempting to cash in a $100 token.

"Most of the (Casino Apache) tokens were $100 tokens. Some were $25 tokens," Copher said.

More than $40,000 in face value tokens from Casino Apache were seized when the pair were arrested. The tokens were believed taken from the tribal casino at Mescalero in January, Copher said. He said discussions with tribal gaming officials at Mescalero indicated the tokens had an actual value of $1,300, because Casino Apache no longer had slot machines that would use the tokens.

A Mescalero gaming official declined to comment on the case, but did confirm that the two had worked at the casino.

A Federal Bureau of Investigation official working on the case concurred, that the tokens had virtually no value to the Mescalero gaming operation.

County clinic funding raises questions

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

Lincoln County Commissioner Leo Martinez requested an opinion from the New Mexico Attorney General's Office on the status of the Hondo Health Clinic and money collected from a special property tax levy.

He wants to know if commissioners acted illegally by giving money from the levy to two of the four recipients named in the proposal approved by voters in 1992, the commissioner said.

But Chief Deputy Stuart Bluestone in the office of Attorney General Patricia Madrid said Tuesday such requests should come through a state official.

"Our office received a request on March 15 and we sent back a response dated March 23 through civil division director Albert Lama," Bluestone said from his office in Santa Fe.

"The letter explains our authority to issue attorney general opinions. They usually come in response to requests from district attorneys, state officials and legislators. We don't intervene in local issues."

However, if the issue can not be resolved on a local level, his office could issue an opinion, as it did in the hassle two years ago over equitable salaries for county officials, Bluestone said.

But a quicker route would be for Martinez to ask someone at the state level to submit the request, Bluestone said.

In his letter to Madrid, Martinez wrote that his questions deal with the allocation and expenditure of public money collected from a tax levy in place since 1992.

Voters approved the levy "to operate and maintain the Lincoln County hospital and clinics," specifically named as the Carrizozo Health Center, Corona Health Center and Hondo Clinic.

"As it turns out, the county has disbursed the funds appropriately to the Lincoln County Medical Center (in Ruidoso) and the Carrizozo Health Clinic, but the Corona Health Center and the Hondo Clinic have received none of the money," Martinez wrote. "The Hondo community formally requested their share of the money, which has accumulated to almost $600,000 at our last county commission meeting in February."

The commissioner pointed out that the county donated a portable

County budget on the verge of breaking

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

For the last few months, Lincoln County Manager Tom Stewart has warned that the county was skating on thin budget ice.

This week, the ice appears to be cracking.

Despite warnings that county jail and juvenile offender costs were running high and no more non-budgeted expenditures should be approved, the commission in January approved $14,234 for an additional sheriff's deputy against Stewart's recommendation and $5,000 in March for a water study.

Recently, county officials found that a $10,000 insurance deductible is due, said Glenna Robbins, county finance officer.

A budget summary prepared by Robbins March 31 shows that if all departments spend their entire budgets and anticipated revenues are on the nose — neither a usual occurrence — the commission will need to dip into the reserve the county is required by the state to carry.

The commission is required to reserve $767,749 out of the county's $11.3 million budget. The excess after required reserves sits at $53,462.

Commissioners are looking at $65,214 in additional money needs with $28,105 for jail expenses and $22,109 for juveniles, Robbins said.

"This shows that we will have to 'dip' into the required reserves in the amount of $11,752," Robbins wrote in the summary. That will happen "only if all departments spend all their estimated budgets and all revenues come in as estimated. Generally, the actu-

Allsup's store clerk arrested

Alleged false armed robbery report leads to misdemeanor charges

BY JAMES KAIKELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The clerk of an Allsup's convenience store, who reported an armed holdup, admitted to investigators that he lied about the robbery, according to Ruidoso police.

According to a criminal complaint, Mark Edward Bloomquist, 25, of Ruidoso Downs, told a Ruidoso police detective that he had taken money and lottery tickets, and lied about the hold-up. Detective Jim Biggs said he believes the robbery report was an effort to hide instant lottery tickets Bloomquist had allegedly scratched but had not purchased.

Bloomquist was charged with misdemeanor embezzlement and false reporting to police, which also is a misdemeanor.

The overnight clerk, working alone, had initially told police that two armed men had held him at gun point and robbed the Allsup's at Mechem

Village must be diligent in water maintenance

For now, Ruidoso is keeping pace with water demands, but officials can't slow up efforts to acquire more water rights, develop more wells, and repair leaking water lines, says the village mayor.

But residents and visitors have to do their part by conserving water, replacing outdated fixtures with water-efficient models, and using landscaping approaches that don't require much watering, Mayor Robert Donaldson said during the annual Community Update session Friday.

To that end, the village may hire a water conservation officer and when someone is using more than 25,000 gallons per month, the officer may visit, not to write a citation, but to work with that resident on methods to conserve water, he said.

"What we have to do as an administration is continually look toward what the build-out of Ruidoso will require," he said. "It's easy for some people to say let's stop growth. I'm not sure of the legal mechanism to do that or that it's necessarily a proper thing to do. "We have to look where we're heading and what our build-out is."

CLERK: Police say there were inconsistencies with what Bloomquist was saying and Sudderth drives about 5:45 a.m. on March 24. Bloomquist had reportedly told officers that the holdup men attacked him when he took trash to the garbage dumpsters along the side of the convenience store.

Ruidoso police compiled a composite drawing of one of the suspects later that morning. The criminal complaint lodged against Bloomquist states that when asked to give a general description of the individual with the gun, Bloomquist said "he looked a lot like me."

"There were a lot of little things that there wasn't a good feel for at first," Biggs said.

"And then a lot of things came together," he said of suspicion about Bloomquist's initial account.

Biggs said clues that raised doubt in his mind about an armed robbery included Bloomquist's statement that he was attacked outside at the garbage dumpsters. The detective said other employees at Allsup's said Bloomquist never took out the trash until his relief arrived at 8 a.m.

The same employees told police that Bloomquist stayed at the store until 8:30 a.m. so he could take the trash out again. The other employees looked through that trash in the dumpsters and found a quantity of scratched lottery tickets, some coins and the alarm activation necklace that Bloomquist had told police was taken by the robbers, according to the criminal complaint.

A review of the store's cash register showed it had not been opened between 5:35 a.m. and 6:01 a.m., despite Bloomquist's contention that the robbers had opened the cash drawer at 5:45 a.m., Biggs said. And, according to the complaint, the police detective had questioned Bloomquist as to why there were bills still in the register. Bloomquist allegedly responded that he had rung up sales between the time of the robbery and when the drawer was opened for police at 6:01 a.m.

A woman who stopped at the Allsup's store to scrape ice off her vehicle's windows about the time of the reported holdup told police that she only saw the clerk inside the store, Biggs said.

Questioned again by police on March 30, Bloomquist denied he had any involvement in the crime, but, according to the complaint, stated that the evidence collected by police couldn't lie, so "I guess I did it." Bloomquist then allegedly admitted he had taken money and lottery tickets and that he had lied to officers about the robbery.

An audit of the Allsup's register showed an estimated $85 in instant lottery tickets were missing and the cash drawer was short an additional $35.

building to the Hondo School District to create a clinic in 1996, "but did not give Hondo their share of the mill levy money."

County Manager Tom Stewart and County Attorney Alan Morel have said the money was not due to Hondo because the clinic was not in operation, the commissioner stated.

"The Hondo community contends that if the mill levy money had been made available to them, the money would have been used immediately to get the clinic open," Martinez wrote.

He asked three questions:

• Did commissioner act in error or illegally when the money was disbursed to only two entities instead of all four as prescribed in the mill levy language?

• What action should commissioners take to correct the problem? Can money be disbursed to Hondo and Corona now regardless of the status of their clinics?

• Does the Hondo Clinic have to procure services through the request for proposals (RFP) process?

"Your answer to these questions will help to bring all entities concerned in compliance with laws and constitutional restrictions regarding mill levy monies and the proper disbursement of public funds," Martinez wrote.

Barbara Casey, Hondo school superintendent, told commissioners last month she has a closet full of boxes with equipment ready to go, if the clinic could open. If she doesn't spend $65,000 set aside for operations before the end of June, the money will revert to the state, she said.

But she needs a guarantee of $180,000 from the tax levy to ensure the clinic can operate for a full year, Casey said Tuesday. That would leave $380,000 in the accumulated fund for the clinics. The tax levy as divided now generates about $480,000 for the clinics annually and another $1.7 million for the hospital.

Commission Chairman Rex Wilson said last month, he wants an independent entity to determine the need for health care in Hondo before taking action.

Winter is dying hard. The tail end of a Dakota blizzard struck us yesterday, and overcoats and White Oaks coal, came in good place, and that is something that every inhabitant in this community has, is an overcoat and plenty of coal.

Estolano Sanchez, commissioner for this district, returned from Lincoln Tuesday.

The following delegates were selected to represent the Democratic party of Lincoln County at the Territorial Democratic convention to be held at Albuquerque, N.M., April 2:

Saturnino Baca, Sipio Salazar, W. M. Reily, John A. Haley, Jones Taliaferro and S. M. Wharton

The village council authorized a study of single-family lots in the community "to determine what really is out there," Donaldson said. The lots would be rated on feasibility of building, because some would not make economic sense in today's market, but may later when property values increase, he said.

"It will give us a guide on how we need to increase water rights," he said.

Fortunately, some of the pressure is off on New Mexico's water debt owed to the state of Texas through the Pecos River, the mayor said.

The eradication of water-guzzling salt cedars and retiring of water rights that the State

Engineer determined were not being used beneficially seem to be doing the job, he said.

"So the fear of having a priority call against our water rights is much less," Donaldson said.

A water right is real property, although it is not necessarily attached to a piece of land. The older the priority date, the more valuable the right, he said.

"If there isn't not enough water for the whole system, they start by eliminating the junior rights first," he said.

The village aims to buy 200 acre-feet more of water rights. Using a multiplier formula dictated by the state, that would equate to an additional 506 acre-feet of water, Donaldson said. An acre-foot is about 325,851 gallons of water.

"Coupled with what we have now, that would give the village almost 2,400 acre feet of water rights in the Rio Ruidoso Basin," Donaldson said. "That doesn't mean we should stop buying. We need for the next 20 years to continue to buy water rights when they become available."

With water rights in place, the associated challenge is to produce the water to go with those water rights, he said.

Donaldson responded to a list of recommendations offered by the Ruidoso River Association, represented by Dick Wisner.

• Attack leakage problems before taking on more demand. Base growth on available supply of water instead of struggling to meet new demands.

Donaldson said in an attempt to lower the amount of water lost through leaks and to correct pressure problems that foster leaks, the village is repairing or replacing about 10 miles of water lines per year. But with 320 miles of lines and mountainous terrain, the process will never end, he said.

• Re-work wells in the North Fork area to maximize output and verify the wellfield's potential through an independent third party.

Village officials figure the maximum water rights they can secure for those wells will produce 2,000-3,000 acre feet, Donaldson said.

• Increase subsurface water rights in the Rio Ruidoso Basin as quickly as possible to take pressure off the river.

• Rework downstream wells, the Hollywood and Cherokee, and integrate them into the system for maximum flexibility.

Hollywood already is on line, although it doesn't produce the best quality water, because of high mineral content, Donaldson said. It is being used in the southern end of town and may within the next few months be hooked to a 5-million water storage tank so that it could service the entire town if necessary, he said.

• Develop an alternative source of water for Grindstone so the reservoir can be used even if the river is dry. Grindstone should be considered an emergency source of water and treatment plant capacity there shouldn't be increased without developing an alternate source of water.

The village is pursuing bank water rights in river so that Grindstone Reservoir can be filled during monsoon season and wells will be drilled in the area, Donaldson said. The fishing and parking area around the edge of the existing lake will be relocated to higher ground to allow the reservoir to be filled, creating a larger reserve.

Ruidoso's 1999 activity 'equivalent to a town of 65,000'

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Long-time area real estate office owner-broker Bill Pippin, during a Community Update forum segment on growth trends last Friday, recalled many changes over his 40 years in Ruidoso.

In 1960, Pippin said, most village roads had dirt and gravel pavements.

"Many of the cabins were the smaller, frame cabins that were used during the summer season to escape the heat in the so-called flatlands," Pippin told the approximately 80 attendees.

"Many were uninsulated and some didn't even have running water. They provided a place to eat, sleep and keep dry," Pippin said.

Pippin also pointed to the seasonal nature of Ruidoso's part-time residents 40 years ago.

"The day after Labor Day you could shoot a gun down Sudderth and not hit anyone," he said. "Ruidoso was always a wonderful place to live, but a hard place to make a living."

Reviewing the price of homes and property around Ruidoso, Pippin said in 1957 real estate ads offered a two-bedroom new home, close to school and churches, for $8,500.

Land offerings included 80 acres with springs and timber for $24,000.

Real estate listings at the start of 2000, taken from a recent issue of Homes and Land magazine, had 44 listings under $100,000, Pippin said.

There were 58 residential listings between $100,000 and $200,000, and 47 others were priced from $200,000 to $1.7 million.

"Ruidoso is indeed a unique village," Pippin said. "There are no tract home subdivisions per se. You may have a very expensive home right next to a manufactured home."

Pippin said the real estate industry and developers have played a great role in the growth of Ruidoso.

"Realtors have taken an active roll in politics on local, state and national levels as a watchdog on issues that effect homeowners, sellers and buyers, especially in Ruidoso," Pippin said.

► UPDATE: GROWTH

Ruidoso has changed as well, said Rosalyn Robinson, of Pioneer Savings Bank.

Years ago part-time residents owned about 80 percent of the dwellings in Ruidoso.

Today, she estimated, 30 to 35 percent of those homes are lived in year round.

The average sale price of a home in the area was $98,000 in 1990, said Rod Adamson, of Adamson Appraisals. By 1999 the figure had jumped to $122,000.

The value of all property sales more than doubled, topping the $100 million level last year.

"My guess is this growth will continue in residential housing, as long as there's a good supply of money, as long as there is not a serious natural disaster in the area, as long as there is an adequate supply of water, and the economic conditions remain good," Adamson said.

While property sales soared in the late '70s, they stopped cold in 1981, because of high mortgage interest rates, said Truman Barnett, of The Title Company. With the "oil bust" of the 1980s, property sales remained "terrible," Barnett said.

"Starting in late 1990 the sales started picking up drastically, and they haven't stopped since," Barnett said.

Over the last three years, according to statistics presented by Barnett, residential home sales increased nationally by 5.5 percent.

In the Ruidoso area, during the same period, sales jumped 13 percent annually.

The demand for homes in and around the village has pushed up the size of individual sales by 36 percent since 1996, Barnett said. Nationally the rise is seven percent.

"We had a tremendous year last year and everything is showing it's going to continue this year," Barnett said of property closings. "All last year we had real estate people saying some of the sales statistics I had. I was asking them as many questions as they were of me. One of the points that came out was the impact this village has is surprising."

"The gross receipts tax, the lodgers tax, and the money spent at your places like the Furr's, Wal-Mart, those kinds of stores, indicates that this kind of population should be equivalent to a town of 65,000."

Barnett said that's why so many new facilities, like new hotels and other businesses the village hasn't seen before, are setting up shop in the Ruidoso area.

Sheriff, Board of Education contenders state their election qualifications

Orlando Montes

Pledging more interagency cooperation, Orlando Montes is challenging incumbent Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan in the June Republican primary. The winner faces no opposition in the general election.

Born in Lincoln County, Montes graduated from Hondo High School and has worked for the sheriff's office for more than 15 years, the last eight in a supervisory position. Currently a sergeant in charge of patrol, Montes also has covered domestic violence cases and civil process.

He was vice president of the county chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police and a member since its inception locally, he said. His advanced law enforcement training exceeds 800 hours since graduating from the state police academy.

Montes said he's chosen Bobby Angermiller to serve as his undersheriff, if elected. Angermiller has more than 14 years of law enforcement experience with his initial years in the Ruidoso Downs Police Department, where he rose through the ranks to become acting chief before joining the sheriff's office.

"The voters of Lincoln County now have an opportunity for positive change within the sheriff's department and the services provided by this agency," Montes said. "I will work closely with all local, state and federal law enforcement agencies to better serve county citizens."

"To me, the protection of property and the welfare of the people in the county are the most important part of this process."

Montes and his wife, Viola, have five children and operate a farm and ranch.

Douglas O. Fuqua

Douglas O. Fuqua of Ruidoso is running in the Republican primary against incumbent Van W. Witt of Chaves County for the District 8 seat on the state Board of Education.

Born in Tucumcari, Fuqua earned bachelor and master degrees from Eastern New Mexico University, and took advanced study at the University of Northern Colorado, Western New Mexico University and New Mexico State University.

He began teaching 36 years ago in Fort Sumner and has taught music, mathematics and aerospace education in Santa Fe, Tucumcari, Gallup and Silver City.

For the past 17 years, he was employed by the Tularosa School District.

Fuqua served one term on the Gallup/McKinley County

School Board and taught classes at UNM and NMSU.

"I have undertaken this task because I feel the public schools of New Mexico need a strong directional change," Fuqua said.

The quality of high school graduates has declined over the years, he said.

"I am the only candidate who still is 'on the front lines' in the classroom and I know the students I see today do not have the same basic academic skills of earlier times," Fuqua said.

A shortage of qualified teachers aggravates the situation, he said.

"The current level of confidence in the public schools is very low for good reasons," Fuqua said.

Drop-out rates declined "only because we have watered down the academic requirements to such a low level that it is almost impossible not to pass," he said. "I feel this cheats the students" who are willing to work to achieve.

"Rather than holding the schools 'accountable' on the current standards, which only reward school administrators who are the most creative with the numbers, I would measure schools on the only basis that means anything: Do the young people leaving the system know anything?"

Fuqua's wife, Susie, is a gallery director in Ruidoso and is on the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The couple has four grown children.

Updating 'Update'

From affordable housing to water problems, economic development to growth management, dozens of Ruidoso residents listened, learned, and contributed during discussions at Friday's "Community Update," an annual day-long self-help brainstorming session sponsored by the Ruidoso News.

Some six dozen people gathered at 10 a.m. for a session on growth trends, followed by one about affordable housing. The traditional luncheon, attended by nearly 140 people, was keynoted by Rosemary Thompson, regional representative for the New Mexico Economic Development office. Many stayed for a concluding session about area water issues.

Elsewhere in this issue are summaries of the local issues considered during Update. The videotape of a "condensed" (3 and 1/2 hour) version of the event will be presented on Ruidoso cable channel 11 beginning at 2 p.m. Thursday.

The Ruidoso News thanks the panelists for their help in making Update the most successful in a continuing annual series, and thanks the record-setting number of attendees.

And, to report on results (the real measure of success), an update on Update will be published in September.

Violence and humanity

To the editor:

No one, especially children, should have to live in fear. Our governments are, constitutionally, responsible for protecting us against violence.

During the past five years, New Mexico has moved from ninth to third (second in violence) place in overall crime, nationally. We have not executed anyone since 1960. In the 1800s, Judge Isaac Parker, "the hanging judge," proved that executions drastically reduced violent crime.

"We humans often, irrationally, rationalize our own behavior and beliefs." Many New Mexicans are, inhumanely, for encaging convicts for decades or keeping them on death row for years instead of, humanely, putting them out of their misery by timely executions (euthanasia). Aren't most prisons miserable places?

History and the world at large condemn Hitler and the atrocities that he inflicted upon his fellow man. I don't believe that there are any pageants or byways named in his honor. Are there any memorials dedicated to those who have glorified Hitler?

Lincoln County, it is time for us to stop glorifying Billy the Kid and violence, and to start speaking out against crime and "cruel and unusual punishment"! Wouldn't anything else be hypocritical?

A murdered friend

To the editor:

Last week, my friend was murdered.

He was a being with a heart so full of love: Love for life, for people, and for other animals. His goal each day was singular — play, have fun. My friend was not a neighborhood nuisance. He was an indoor dog who slipped out the door while the deliverymen were here.

The driver stopped at first, but couldn't wait the 60 seconds it would have taken me to grab my happy little bundle of love. Instead, the driver floored it and intentionally sacrificed a beautiful life for his precious 60 seconds. Do you still hear his screams? I do. And, because he could scream, I kept praying, "please let it be a broken leg." But when I reached my friend, his insides were hanging out, he was gasping for air, and his eyes were imploring me to tell him, "It's gonna be alright. You're my very good boy. I love you so much." So, that's what I did, over and over, until he took his last breath and his soul left us. However, his spirit lingers and I can feel it, hoping that this driver can find forgiveness within and that peace and love are able to live in his heart. Me, I'm not as kind as my friend. My wish is that you experience first-hand the agony Hasteen experienced during his last moments of life. My wish is that you personally know the heartbreak, pain, and suffering you have inflicted upon my family and myself.

My deepest gratitude goes to Dr. Cooper and Carla for their kind words, compassion, and gentle ways with Hasteen. Thank you to the gentleman in the Jeep Wagoneer for his assistance and concern.

See motocross first

To the editor:

As a lifelong resident of Ruidoso, and an active motocross rider, I am angered by all the negative responses towards the proposed motocross track on Airport Road.

After reading the articles in the paper, it is obvious that the people stating their negative opinion have no clue about the sport of motocross and have stereotyped riders in general. One individual is worried about riders partying and littering on the proposed site. Another is worried that riders would riding on residential streets or private property.

Obviously these misinformed individuals have never attended a motocross race. None of these concerns have ever been present at any other track in the state.

These people need to attend a motocross race sometime, and by doing so they will realize that their concerns are not valid. I just hope that these people haven't convinced other local residents that the sport of motocross and local riders will have a negative impact on the airport area. I encourage anyone to attend a race and see for yourself that motocross isn't as bad as these people have made it out to be.

Some TV alternatives

To the editor:

The networks transmit from Buck Mountain (a couple of peaks north of Sierra Blanca): CBS-KBIM 18, UPN-KSAY 38, NBC-KOBR 53, FOX-KSAY 55, ABC-KOAT 58, PBS-KENW 61. All 6 are UHF frequency which does not require a big boom antenna; UHF can be received using a small bow-tie antenna (e.g. Channel Master No. 4221 Multi-Bow, about 2 feet square), which can be quickly attached to any surface, as well as some of the compact directional antennas. Anyone with a good location relative to Buck Mountain will receive a high-quality picture.

DirectTV's satellite based Select Choice delivers programming comparable to cable's preferred service for $20 monthly which hasn't increased in the 3 years we've subscribed — 7 channels of HBO plus 3 channels of Cinemax run under $20. Fifty channels of PPV movies are provided at $2.99 plus a cornucopia of ala carte sports programming packages. Convenient, customizable, channel guides are included. Similar service is available from Dish Network.

Both services offer promotional equipment and installation packages which bring installed costs to $0-100 — quickly recouped through reduced subscription costs and more programming variety. A well planned single receiver system will meet the needs of many households. The trick is to combine (using a reverse splitter) the cable from the antenna (networks) with the output of the DBS receiver. This will enable all connected sets to surf network stations independently while sharing the DBS signal.

Those needing the ability to simultaneously view different DBS channels on separate sets will require a dual receiver system which will increase the initial cost and incur an additional monthly fee. A radio controlled receiver/remote combination eliminates compromises in placing the receiver.

Zero smoking for kids

To the editor:

Congratulations to Carrizozo for its new law making it illegal for minors "to procure, possess, utilize or consume any tobacco products" within the town limits! The more we study the effects of tobacco products, the more we understand that they are particularly dangerous for young people whose bodies are still developing. Permanent, irreversible, damage is done to the lungs of teens and pre-teens who smoke.

And the new law may convey the message to our younger citizens that their elders aren't entirely irrational after all. Until now the message seemed to be that we didn't care if they smoked or chewed — we just didn't want them to buy tobacco products! How wonderful it would be if all the communities in Lincoln County followed Carrizozo's example of zero tolerance!

Where are the children?

To the editor:

"Do you know where your children are?" Remember as a child growing up in a small Texas community, hearing that question on our TV in the evenings. My parents always knew where my 5 sisters and I were. If not at home, then what home and what friend we were staying the night with.

The crimes that are being committed by very young children — where are their parents? If we look inside the homes of these children committing these crimes, what would we find? It's called a TV, with free access to adult channels. Is there a Bible also in that home, gathering dust somewhere? People spend hours watching TV, how about a few minutes with God's word? It has some good advice, and answers to any problems you face in your home.

Don't wait until your child is half-grown and rebellious and then shove them in a church pen and expect them to listen.

I am the mother of two daughters. I've homeschooled the oldest for the past 4 years and realize it's now necessary to pull my youngest out of public school as well. Not only has the language become progressively worse and accepted, it leaves little doubt as to what some of the kids are allowed to watch at home.

We as parents are responsible for what they are exposed to, in school or out. I realize it will be there as they grow into adults.

But, by getting back to basics, and grounding them in the word of God, I know they will be prepared to cope as well as deal with whatever is to come in their lives. (Proverbs 22:6)

Equitable city services

To the editor:

Re: Ruidoso officials continue to look for equitable county services—Ruidoso News, Friday, March 24.

I think Mayor Donaldson is correct in his concern for the taxpayers in Ruidoso.

I would point out also that taxpayers, specifically those of us "part-time residents," need a helping hand also.

Although our house is in the Village limits, we pay utilities to the village of some $40 per month. Water — I used 70 gallons due to a leak which I have repaired — is very high for us part-timers but is surely worth it. Sewer and garbage charges are very much out of line in my opinion. Our garbage container is a block away from my house. The charges doubled not very long ago.

Also, for our part of the city taxes, our street is not paved (Blue Spruce), and we have no street lights. I would appreciate equitable city services.

Misdirected funding

To the editor:

There is perhaps a simple reason why our local police chiefs (and indeed most of law enforcement) aren't ready to give up on this war on drugs—MONEY. If our national drug policy ever was overtaken by common sense, that would surely mean a shift of funding away from law enforcement to health care.

This idea is supported by Ruidoso Downs Police Chief (Eddie) Lerma who would like to have a representative from his department on the Lincoln County Narcotics Squad, but if and only if the feds pay for it.

'Affordable housing' seen by mayor as one key to continued economic expansion in Ruidoso

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson, who has espoused a need for affordable housing, heard comment Friday challenging a village plan that would provide the seed for an affordable apartment complex.

Ruidoso resident Sam Swearingin, who said he is a financial planner, said government cannot solve the housing issue.

"Why not have the private sector take care of this," Swearingin said during the affordable housing segment of the annual Community Update forum. "If you start getting into subsidized housing, is the message to business that we're going to bail you out?"

Donaldson said being a resort community provided few opportunities for high-paying jobs, but the reality is a need for many workers. He said affordable housing is a necessity to keep employees in the Ruidoso area.

Earlier this year the village decided to offer municipal land near Grindstone Reservoir, and gather bids from developers who would construct a 150-unit apartment complex. Sale would require that half of the units fall into the "affordable" category. An open bid process would, the mayor said, give the village "maximum bangs for their (the developer's) buck and ours."

Donaldson said five developers have approached the village, saying they like the conditions of the offering and the open-bid process.

Revenue derived from the possible sale would return to the village's utility fund, since the water department was used to purchase the Grindstone property.

"The money would be used to bring sewer lines up into the area," Donaldson said. "That will allow us to look to the future and see if this works — (if it does) will we do more of these? People who live and work here deserve decent housing," the mayor said.

Steve Tally, board president of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, agreed with Donaldson.

"There is a shortage of 450 to 500 rental units," he said of the Ruidoso area. "I applaud the village administration for getting behind this."

Tally called the lack of a large enough workforce the number one issue the chamber has heard from its members.

"With three new hotels coming, with an average of 40 employees per hotel, the problem will get more severe," Tally said.

UPDATE: HOUSING

With projections that Lincoln County's population will show an increase in 2000, and another near 20 percent boost by 2010, Tom Battin, president of Ruidoso State Bank, said New Mexico Department of Labor statistics indicate the number of people in the local work force has actually declined since 1998. Coupled with a 4.7 percent jobless rate last year in Lincoln County, Battin said there is a need for affordable housing, in an effort to balance Ruidoso's cost of living with its lower wage economy.

"The biggest factor is the "cost of housing," Battin said.

But speaking from the forum audience, Swearingin said the problem wasn't a lack of affordable housing, but rather poor wages.

He said if commercial enterprises go out of business because they couldn't pay a wage that would support an employee in Ruidoso — that was capitalism.

Prepare for growth, says keynote speaker: 'It's coming'

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Growth is galloping right at Ruidoso.

Community leaders and business owners had better prepare or they'll be trampled, warned the keynote speaker for the annual Community Update luncheon in Ruidoso Friday.

"I saw Santa Fe change over the years," said Rosemary Thompson, director of District 6 (Southeastern New Mexico) Economic Development under the state Economic Development Department.

"Listening to the program this morning on the need for affordable housing in Ruidoso, I know that Santa Fe faces the same problems and sees the same mixed reactions. "But growth will happen whether you like it or not."

Formerly a real estate broker for 20 years, Thompson said she's lived in Santa Fe for 30 years, but added that today, she could not afford to pay the price that would be asked for the home she bought five years ago.

Her department, Thompson said, is the smallest state government agency with 70 employees and seven divisions.

She works for economic development. The other divisions are international trade, film, science and technology, space commercialization, which works on bringing the proposed Space Port to southern New Mexico, and office of the Secretary that includes marketing.

► UPDATE: ECONOMY

"Community development is our job," she said of her division. "We work with recruiters to bring jobs to New Mexico. We ... assess needs, as well as how to retain and advance existing businesses."

Involving business owners in defining community development goals, identifying problems and coming up with solutions is one of her priorities, said Thompson, whose district covers Lea, Lincoln, Otero, Eddy, and Chaves counties.

In line with that goal, a business retention/expansion program is being put together by volunteers under the lead of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, banker Tom Battin, Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson and others.

Similar "surveys" were completed in seven other communities including Grants, Portales, Roswell and Carlsbad, she said. The new survey is tailored to the needs of business owners in Lincoln County and probably will be launched after the Labor Day weekend.

Volunteers will sit down with business owners and complete the survey, about an hour's process, Thompson said. After the information is compiled, from four to 10 priorities, including "red flag" issues needing immediate attention, will be identified. The process could take two years to finish, but along the way a network of communication is created, she said.

Thompson said she has alerted chamber director Joan Zagone to the possibility that the old Wal-Mart store in Ruidoso might be right as a "call center" for the telecommunications industry.

U. S. Forest Service works to restore long-neglected basin watersheds

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Some critics blame overgrazing by livestock and excessive harvesting of trees for the poor condition of the watershed around Ruidoso.

But Smokey Bear District Ranger Jerry Hawkes told guests at the annual Community Update Friday that what led to the deterioration of the Lincoln National Forest and stands of trees in the Sacramento Mountains was the effort started 80 years ago to protect valuable timber, grazing forage and pockets of development.

"The Forest Service began to manage for their products and it wasn't desirable to allow the trees to burn, so they put out fires," he said. "The trees and brush have gone unchecked. One hundred years ago, the forest was more open with large trees and grass and forage beneath them. When there was a fire, the smaller trees and grass would burn, but the larger trees would survive. Today, many of the large trees are gone and we're left with crowded trees of medium to small size. When it rains, the soil erodes because nothing grows under them."

With grass and forage allowed to grow in forests where small trees are removed, the run-off after a rain is slowed and water can percolate into the underground supply — called recharging the aquifer — as well as drain into stream systems, he said.

A crowded forest could produce a nearly uncontrollable fire leaping from tree crown to tree crown, driven by seasonally strong winds, Hawkes said.

But officials now recognize past mistakes, he said. "The most important water production areas are the national forest and the mountains," Hawkes said.

► UPDATE: WATER SHED

Hawkes defined a watershed as a drainage area or run-off basin. The Rio Hondo watershed is one of 21 in New Mexico given priority for special federal dollars to improve its condition, he said.

Of the 400,000 acres in the Smokey Bear District of the Lincoln National Forest, 50 percent needs more work, Hawkes said.

"We've treated 36,000 acres to this point, but we not only have 150,000 new acres to treat, but those areas that have been treated will regenerate trees and we'll have to go back in," he said. "But it will be easier to maintain once the initial treatment is finished."

Portions of the forest are being cleared of water guzzling junipers and small pines in an attempt to interrupt the line of a fire and to increase the water recharge, Hawkes said.

In the last few years as more groups, government entities, and individuals became interested in watershed management, conditions have improved, but they need to continue to work together, Hawkes said.

The thinning must continue on private and public land and communities must go after available federal funding for projects, he said.

TOKENS: Officials believe more people are involved

"They were not being used by the (Casino Apache) casino. They were outdated," Bill Elwell, FBI special agent at the Albuquerque office said.

"The FBI is still looking into the case," Elwell said. "We are still rounding out our investigation." Additional charges are possible, and additional arrests could come, Elwell said. While Torres and Guill have been charged in Nevada state court, federal prosecution, for theft from a reservation and interstate transportation of stolen goods would be up to the U.S. Attorney's office, Elwell said.

In Las Vegas, Copher said while two people have been charged, there are more individuals believed involved in the token theft who could eventually be arrested.

The Casino Apache tokens are not supposed to work in slot machines at other casinos, but Copher said sometimes the "marker system" in the machines don't work, and the illegitimate tokens are accepted.

The dollar amount of Casino Apache tokens that had been accepted in Nevada casino machines was estimated at more than $1,000, a "small percentage" Copher said of the more than $40,000 face value of the missing tribal tokens discovered in the arrests.

Torres and Guill are believed to have been in Las Vegas on two separate occasions in March, investigators said.

The two defendants were released from the Clark County Detention Center in Las Vegas, after posting $20,000 bonds.

"The U.S. Attorney will discuss the matter with Las Vegas authorities to determine if federal charges will be filed," Elwell said.

al ending cash balance at the end of June is somewhat greater than the estimated cash balance showing on the balance sheet."

Stewart said Tuesday, "This is a continuation of what I have been saying."

"Jail and juvenile detention costs haven't come down 'and I'm concerned," he said. "I don't want to panic anyone. I just want to be fiscally responsible. It appears we may go over the budget and we need to make an adjustment. It's routine, but still a surprise."

Another financial item he's keeping in mind is the new fire station at Ranches of Sonterra, Stewart said. Commissioners agreed to loan the Bonito Volunteer Fire Department money in excess of what that group has available to build the station. He's not sure if the money will be needed in this fiscal year.

"We're operating on the margin for sure," Stewart said. "Commissioners are trying to hold the line on taxes and I don't blame them for that, but there are requirements."

The fiscal summary prepared by Robbins was requested by Commissioner Leo Martinez, who voted against paying for the extra deputy for the last five months of the year. At that January meeting, commissioners took no action on a handicap ramp for the senior center in Carrizozo and financial help for libraries in Capitan and Ruidoso.

Two men face trial in killing of Ruidoso man

Both deny guilt in the death of John Mirabal, who died in August 1999 after being shot

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The trial of two men charged in the shooting death of John Mirabal of Ruidoso in August 1999 is set for Sept. 11.

Peter Noce, 36, of Silver City and Jack Stepp of Las Cruces will be tried together in the 12th Judicial District court of Judge Karen Parsons in Carrizozo.

Noce is charged with voluntary manslaughter and tampering with evidence, which carry a maximum combined sentence of seven and a half years and a $10,000 fine.

Stepp faces charges of aggravated battery and tampering with evidence.

If convicted, he also could be sentenced up to seven and a half years, provided the jury finds the battery resulted in death.

A court clerk explained that if District Attorney Scot Key successfully argues that aggravated circumstances exist, those sentences could be increased by one-third.

The two men waived their preliminary hearing in magistrate court in Ruidoso and their arraignment in district court in Carrizozo. They both deny guilt.

According to police accounts and court records, Noce and Stepp were drinking at The Quarters bar in Ruidoso.

They argued over Mirabal's girlfriend in the bar parking lot at about 1:30 a.m.

Mirabal, 29, and his companions drove to their condominium at The Village Lodge on Mechem Drive. Noce and Stepp allegedly followed them.

In sworn statements, witnesses said Noce went to the passenger side of Mirabal's car and "a scuffle ensued."

The victim yelled "Help me get the gun away from him," and then a shot was heard, records reflect.

As the two women drove away, they heard Mirabal say, "Hey, hey," and saw him run after the vehicle. When they stopped, he fell.

The women pulled him into the vehicle and drove him to the Lincoln County Medical Center, where he was pronounced dead.

The women stated they saw Noce in Stepp's vehicle and noted the license plate number.

Police said that helped them track Stepp and interview him in Las Cruces.

Noce was arrested in Silver City Aug. 26, four days after Mirabal's death, and was brought back to Lincoln County.

Key will prosecute the case for the state. Attorney Gary Mitchell represents Noce and Stepp.

The American President

The American President is the first documentary series ever to profile all 41 of America's chief executives. The 10-hour series tells the nation's story from the perspective of the highest office in the land and features exclusive interviews with President Clinton and all the living former presidents except the ailing Ronald Reagan. Each of the series' one-hour programs presents the stories of several presidents, linked by a common theme. The two-episode premiere, "A Matter of Destiny," opens with "Family Ties" which addresses American political dynasties and concentrates on John Quincy Adams, Benjamin Harrison, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and John F. Kennedy. The second part, "Happenstance," highlights Tyler, Fillmore, Andrew Johnson, Arthur, and Truman, vice presidents who assumed the office upon the death of the president.

The second evening, "Politics and the Presidency," begins with "An Independent Cast of Mind" which focuses on America's occasional proclivity to elect a president who claims to be independent of partisan politics. As the program suggests through recounting the stories of John Adams, Taylor, Hayes, and Carter, independence doesn't always lead to effectiveness. "The Professional Politician" examines the relationship between the skills required for success in politics and the skills required by a successful president. The episode highlights Van Buren, Buchanan, Lincoln, and Lyndon Johnson.

"Executive Vision" opens with "The American Way," featuring presidents who advocated limiting the powers of the federal government. Though Jefferson, Coolidge, Hoover, and Reagan may have understood the special character of America in different ways, each was guided by a belief that there is a distinctly American way of doing things. "The World Stage" highlights Monroe, McKinley, Wilson, and Bush, four men engaged in the task of securing a stable world in which American interests could be asserted and defended.

The fourth evening, "The Candidate," starts with "The Heroic Posture" which examines men of military fame who became Commander-in-Chief — Washington, W.H. Harrison, Grant, and Eisenhower. In "Compromise Choices," viewers see what happens when a president is chosen less for his positive qualities than for his relative lack of negative ones. As the presidential careers of Pierce, Garfield, Harding, and Ford demonstrate, the results can be surprising.

The final evening, "An Office and Its Powers," begins with "Expanding Power," a look at the presidencies of Jackson, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, and Nixon, each of whom expanded — or overstepped — the powers of the presidency. The series concludes with "The Balance of Power," exploring the rise and fall of the powers vested constitutionally in the three branches of the federal government. The episode focuses on Madison, Polk, Taft, and Clinton.

The American President will be broadcast on five consecutive evenings in two-hour blocks (2 episodes per night), Sunday through Thursday, April 9th-13th at 8:00 p.m. Ten one-hour episodes will repeat Saturdays at 10:00 p.m. beginning April 15th.

Pre-prom alcohol forum attracts no parents

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

No parents were at the Monday forum organized to inform parents of the symptoms of alcohol poisoning so they could pass the information on to children who will be attending the school prom Saturday — and after-prom parties that often involve alcohol.

"This just emphasizes what the kids say, that the community doesn't care what happens to them," said Victoria Hisel, business manager of the DWI Prevention Program.

Hisel said she mailed 220 fliers about the 7 p.m. forum to parents of juniors and seniors at Ruidoso High School and put more than 100 posters around town — and not one parent came to the forum.

Jana Hammitt, a probation officer with the DWI program, said she thought the zero-turnout to the forum was because of "heavy-duty denial."

"Parents think I'd much rather my kids drink at home than out with a bunch of kids," Hammitt said. She added that parents think other parents needed to come to the forum, while they didn't need to because their children wouldn't drink.

All the committee members who planned the event agreed that there is drinking and drug use among young people in the community, and that some parents rent condominiums for their children's parties — and provide alcohol.

"Parents don't know the latest research that shows that alcohol damages brain development in young people," said one of the committee members, Wanda Gielow de Figueroa, who has been teaching developmental skills to students in area schools.

The committee had planned to show two videos. "Without Warning" is about sudden death caused by alcohol poisoning. Parents of teenagers who passed out after binge-drinking told of finding them dead the next morning. The other video showed X-rays of brains of young people who binged on alcohol and the damage it did to their brains, particularly in their ability to learn.

Death is a real possibility for someone who passes out from alcohol consumption, said Barbara Reyes, DWI coordinator. The old standbys of coffee, food, a cold shower or letting a person "sleep it off" could risk the life of the individual. A cold shower could put the person in shock, and food and coffee can cause the person to vomit and choke, she said.

When people are treated for alcohol poisoning in the emergency room, they are treated as are other drug overdoses, said Gielow de Figueroa. An intravenous line is inserted to keep fluids flowing and to keep them from going into shock, and they're hooked up to a ventilator to breathe for them. They are also given charcoal to help absorb the poisons.

All the participants at the otherwise parentless parent forum said they felt it was critical for all high school youth to see these videos before the prom.

High school principal Bill Green said the school was "working in conjunction with Vickie Hisel on giving presentations to classes during Gerald Ames's (American history) classes."

"That's news to me," Hisel said, but she called later to say that she talked to Gerald Ames and would be in his classroom all day Friday. The history classes are for juniors, she said, but there are also seniors taking the class.

Green said there would be a day-long seminar in May before graduation for the entire high school and that Students Against Drunk Driving is "getting the word out and putting posters up ... about abstinence with alcohol and ways to have fun without it."

"The school does not endorse any ideas about 'stay at home and have parties there wisely, because you're not supposed to drink, so don't do it,'" Green said.

He attributed the lack of parents at the parent forum to apathy and parents letting the "the kids call the shots. So many parents turn a blind eye to it, they say 'Not my kid,' and then they get a call at 3 in the morning that their kid's been involved in an accident."

The prom committee has activities planned throughout the night of the prom to get participants involved in the prom and not leave the building, he said. There will be food and drinks and activity booths.

"The school is definitely encouraging the police department to be out in force and that will be a deterrent to the kids that might feel a need," Green said.

Prom-goers will have the Ruidoso Bowling Center to themselves from midnight to 2 a.m. Saturday, and can go from there to a party at the gym of First Baptist Church, 420 Mechem Drive.

"We rented the bowling alley from 12 to 2 a.m., then we're returning to the First Baptist Church and we're going to have games set up—ping pong, air hockey, basketball, board games and movies, from 2 a.m.-6 a.m.," said Mark Davis, youth pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Davis said he and John Duncan, youth pastor from the Gateway Church of Christ, are paying for the parties out of their church budgets. Food will be available and prizes will be given away throughout the night, including a VCR, a CD player and a color television.

"I think there needs to be something to do (after the prom) and I know a lot of kids like to bowl and this gives them an alternative and an after-prom thing," Davis said.

The bowling alley will be reserved for prom-goers, who will be able to bowl free.

"It's a non-controversial event where we don't have to worry about people coming in drunk, and it makes for a real positive atmosphere," Davis said. "We're hoping this thing kicks off and sparks some more interest to make it bigger and better next year."

Davis said he would have participants sign in and out in case parents called and wanted to know where their children are.

The bowling alley is at 1202 Mechem Drive. For information, call Davis at 257-2081.

Lights out for tennis team

BY WENDY WIDENER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Ruidoso tennis team had a chilly, dark evening on which to step up against the New Mexico Military Institute Colts Thursday.

The match started at 3 p.m., but didn't end until almost 7 p.m. As the district foes played into the sunset, the cold breeze began to blow and darkness set upon the Ruidoso tennis courts.

The east court had two failing lights, on the diagonal from each other, so one player on each side had an advantage over the other because that player could possibly see the ball. Several players tried to finish their matches even though the lights had failed, but finally the remaining games were moved to the other court. There, all four lights were functioning, but constantly interrupted as the lights flashed off until Ruidoso Coach Dave Anderson fed the light's coin-operated power source more quarters.

Anderson seemed disgruntled about the conditions his team played under.

"The kids played really good," he said. "We had a golden opportunity to play one of the best teams in the state. But, again, we are up against

For the first time in its four-year history, the Warrior softball team came home with a trophy.

Ruidoso took home a second-place trophy from the Cobre Tournament, just missing the tourney title by one run.

"I am so proud of the way they played," said coach Brian Baca. "Who would have thought, four years ago when we started this program, with the rough start we had and the long row we had ahead of us, we'd be playing in the Cobre championship. I think the girls have a lot to be proud of. They played well. They put their hearts into it."

Ruidoso 17, El Paso Bowie 0
The Warriors started the tournament at 8 a.m. Friday with a 17-0 blowout of El Paso Bowie.

The top five batters in the Warrior lineup were responsible for the majority of the scoring, with freshman Timesa Eckerdt 3-for-4 with 2 singles and a triple; Sarah Fromknecht 4-for-4 with a pair of singles, a double and an inside-the-park home run, and Julie Miller 3-for-4 with a single, triple and inside-the-park home run.

Crystal Gheer was back on the mound for Ruidoso. She threw "until we felt were in control of the game," Baca said. "Then Tiffany (Brantley) came in and did well. She closed out the game and didn't allow any runs to be scored on her, either."

Between the two, the Warriors only allowed two Bowie hits.

While the pitching was solid, Baca

The Warrior softball team shows off the first trophy it won in the team's history — a second-place finish at the Cobre Invitational.

said the bats were key. "I think the thing about it is the hitting was a big change," he said. "Putting up 17 runs in a game is probably more we put up the first four or five games. The bats really came alive."

Ruidoso 10, Burgess 0

Later Friday afternoon, Ruidoso faced another El Paso team, and this time Gheer one-hit her opposition while the bats again pounded out the hits.

The Warriors defeated El Paso Burgess 10-0, with the top five batters — Cassie Bednorz, Kathy Hightower, Simona Ramos, Fromknecht and Miller — again doing most of the damage.

Bednorz was 2-for-2 with a home run and triple, and Ramos, Fromknecht and Miller all hit 1000.

"The hitting was really on," Baca understated.

The Warriors picked up six runs in the first inning, one in the third and three in the fourth.

Gheer again went most of the way on the mound, with Brantley doing a good job in relief.

Getting Gheer, who missed the early part of the season with an injury, back on the mound was a big help, but Baca said there were other factors as well.

"I think she does give a little bit of confidence, but I also think the defense helped us and definitely the offense," he said. "Crystal's a good pitcher, but I think she'd be the first to admit that without defensive backing (it wouldn't have been as easy.) They did contact the ball, but when they did, the defense was there to make some plays."

Thatcher, Ariz. 5, Ruidoso 4
In Saturday's championship game, the Warriors came within one run of earning the tournament title, falling 5-4 to Thatcher, Ariz.

Despite cold weather — it never snowed, but Baca said storms circled the field — and delays due to injuries to players on other squads, Ruidoso jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead.

In the first inning, Bednorz scored on a double by Miller, then Miller and Ramos scored on a hit by Brantley.

The Warriors held that lead until the fourth, when the team's youth and inexperience caught up with it.

Thatcher went ahead 4-3, scoring the four runs on three Ruidoso errors. Thatcher added one more in the bottom of the sixth, then it was the Warriors last chance.

Bednorz scored on a single by Ramos and the Warriors had a runner on third, but left her stranded, leaving

Tracksters improve at Socorro meet

KAREN BOEHLER
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The Warrior track team is still taking things slowly, giving players a chance to advance at a reasonable pace early in the season.

The Warriors still did well at Socorro Saturday, with the boys finishing third and the girls fourth.

Coach Ronny Maskew said while just about the full team competed, not everyone ran in every event they will later in the season.

Solomon Barnett and J.R. Floyd, back after basketball, competed in only the 400- and 800-meter relays.

"We just kind of kept what they were doing to a limited amount," Maskew said.

On the girls side, Leah Miller also limited the number of events she competed in. Nevertheless, there were some strong finishes.

The relay teams anchored by Barnett took first place with state qualifying times, even though it was the first time for the teams to run.

"We were very pleased with the way they ran," Maskew said. "We still have a lot of work to do on those relays, but know we're getting there."

Thomas Schiele again took first in the long and triple jumps, and easily made the state qualifying height in the pole vault, finishing second, while Phillip Darley went 12-6

Carrizozo girls withstand weather

TULAROSA — Cold temperatures and the threat of snow sent many teams home early from the Rose Relays in Tularosa Friday, including Capitan and Hondo, but for those who stayed, the finishes made the bone-chilling temperatures worth while.

Carrizozo's girls put on a solid show, taking fourth behind Fort Sumner, Tularosa and Animas, all bigger schools. The meet included teams from as far north as Santa Fe, as far west as Lordsburg and everywhere in between.

Brooke Holland finished first in the 1,600-meter run, the first time she ran in that event, and second in the 3,200-meter run. Ariel Burr was the fastest girl at the meet, winning the 100-meter dash, and Zozo's 400-meter and 800-meter relay teams both finished first.

"They did pretty good," said coach Pat Ventura. "The last few races we pulled some people out and switched them. We had the relay loaded, and pulled it out. And pulled the medley out and pulled the mile relay out. But that's all right. In this weather, we qualified some. We had a few strains, we didn't want to pull any muscles."

The Grizzly boys finished ninth, with no gold medals but

District baseball snowed out

TULAROSA — Mother Nature played an April Fool's trick on the Ruidoso baseball team (1-10) Saturday, blanketing the field with snow and forcing the postponement of the Warrior district opener vs. Cobre.

But Ruidoso did get a pair of games in against Tularosa Thursday. Unfortunately for the Warriors, they still didn't get their second victory.

Tularosa 9, Ruidoso 1
The Warrior bats were again slow in coming around, but Ruidoso did stay even with the Wildcats early in the game.

After Tularosa scored in the bottom of the first inning with a no-doubt-about-it, against-the-wind home run by Daniel Bigas, the Warriors came back to tie the game in the second.

Willie Lundquist started the Ruidoso action with a single then came home on a double by Ryan Blackman. But Blackman was stranded at second when the next batter struck out, and that was all the scoring the Warriors could muster in the game.

Tulle came back in the bottom of the stanza with two runs, then, after a pitching change from Chad Swanner to Matt Locke, picked up two more in the third. The Cats added to their total with three in the fourth and one in the fifth. David McNally came on to pitch for Ruidoso in the sixth, and held Tularosa scoreless thanks to some strong backup in the field.

While the Warriors could only manage one run, they were making contact with the ball. Ruidoso had four hits, three of those doubles. Besides Blackman's two-bagger, Swanner and Locke also doubled.

On the mound, Swanner went two innings, giving up three runs on four hits, one walk, a hit throw and the 400- and 800-meter relay teams each finished second.

"They're continuing," Ventura said. "They've still got a ways to go to get in shape and we're still a little broke down."

But the coach sees a promising future.

"We're coming along," he said. "Next week we ought to have a better week."

Capitan left early, but two Tigers decided to brave the cold for the 3,200-meter run.

Tyler Haughness, who finished fourth, and Adam Hobbs were the only two Tigers left at the track at the finish.

"I don't think it was that bad," Haughness said. "I just think (the rest of the team) just wanted to leave."

Hobbs, who ran all bundled up, said Haughness decided to stay, "and I just came along. I was thinking about it, and when he decided he would do it, I decided I would, too. It was fun. It's all about having fun. I had a beanie, some pants. What more do you need?"

Mescalero also stayed to the end, and while the Chiefs didn't place anyone at Tularosa, coach Sheldon Fernando was pleased with the effort.

"Everybody did real good. Everybody beat their personal best, which was what we were looking for. We are looking to beat our personal records every meet we get to. So everybody was pretty happy and it's really surprising how they finished off. It's just a matter of time (until we start placing.) They're all eighth and ninth graders, and they're all really enthused about running."

Hondo's Eagles came for their first varsity meet in 15 years, then had to leave early because of worries about snow. That meant the girls didn't get a chance to compete, but despite a pulled thigh muscle, Eddie Valenzuela did compete in the 100-meter dash and long jump. Coach Julie Montoya was pleased with his effort.

"He improved his own time. It still wasn't quite enough to get a place, but he's right up there with them," she said. "As long as they're improving on their own personal times, then that's what counts."

to join Schiele as a state qualifier. Ryan Kimbrell helped the Warriors take all but the top spot in the pole vault by finishing fourth.

On the girls' side, Miller took first in the triple jump, and Kammi Sparks took first in the high jump, with another state-qualifying time. Monica Keyes was second in the 300-meter hurdles, and both the 400- and 800-meter relay teams finished second.

"Overall, we're pretty pleased," Maskew said. "We see a couple of things we need to work on and we're going to try to concentrate on that in the next two weeks."

Of the seven teams competing in Socorro, two were district competitors, and while Silver finished on top in both divisions, Maskew thinks the Warriors have a chance to be right in the hunt for the district title.

"We have more than hope," he said.

Saturday, the Warriors travel to Carlsbad to compete in the Caveman Invitational, which Maskew said will be "a mess," because of Ruidoso's prom.

"We're trying to concentrate on a few events, and let some of the kids get back early," he said. "We're going to make the best of it."

Maskew said the squad will try to get the field events finished, qualifying a few participants, and do one relay. Then, some of the older athletes will head back to Ruidoso while the younger athletes who won't go to the prom will get a chance to run in more events.

batsman and three strikeouts.

Locke went three innings, allowing six runs on five hits, no walks and four strikeouts. McNally hit a batter and walked one, but allowed no runs nor hits.

Tularosa 10, Ruidoso 3. Swanner started off the second game with a solid triple in the first inning, but was stranded when Ben Lundquist hit a shot back to Tularosa pitcher Cody May.

The Wildcats then keyed off of Swanner on the mound, picking up one run in the first and three in the second before Swanner was relieved by Locke.

Tulie picked up four more runs to jump out to a 8-0 lead heading into the third.

The Warriors tallied one run in the top of the third when Nick Page tripped and came home on a ground-ball out by Tristan Torres.

The Warriors kept the 'Cats scoreless in the third and fourth, with Locke going 1-2-3 in the fourth.

The Warriors then added a second run in the top of the fifth when Locke reached on an error, advanced on a wild pitch and an out by Blackman, then came home on a Tularosa error.

The 'Cats tallied their final run in the top of the sixth, and Ruidoso picked up one more in the seventh when Ben Lundquist led off with a single, advanced on an error and passed ball and came home on a single by Locke.

Although both teams were inconsistent in the field, both also had some fine fielding. Coach Mike Morris singled out Blackman at third for three solid efforts, including a line shot that he caught and became a double play when the runner on third was caught off base.

There were still far too many Ruidoso strikeouts at the plate, but Morris said his young team is coming along.

"Once again, we have young players, and they're learning," he said. "All these games are what it's about. Our hitting is not what it should be, but we're hitting. And we're still learning that too. We're getting there, but it's slow."

Ruidoso again managed four hits, with the triple by Page the only extra-base hit.

With Saturday's snow-out against Cobre, the Warriors were scheduled to try again to open district Tuesday against Silver. Saturday, Ruidoso is at home against powerhouse Santa Teresa.

Ruidoso one run short.

"Thatcher was by far a very good team," Baca said. "I think what happened was we contacted the ball well, but some of our inexperience showed through."

Baca said the game was a good learning experience for the young squad, giving them a chance to play in a tight match.

"It was an opportunity," he said. "In the past couple of years, we really haven't had any close games. We came out and handled Burgess and Bowie pretty easily. So I think this was a good test for us. We weren't quite ready to play in a tight game. We kind of fell apart."

But Baca had no doubt who the better team was.

"We outplayed them six of the seven innings," he said. "No doubt about it. It was just that one inning we got a little bit shaken and we made some mistakes."

Three Warriors — Gheer, Fromknecht and freshman Ramos — were named to the all-tournament team.

"Simona being a freshman, that's a pretty good accomplishment," Baca said. "She was pretty impressive at the plate. We were real pleased with all the girls, but those three girls were noticed by the other coaches."

Now the Warriors move into district play.

Ruidoso was scheduled to face Santa Teresa in the 3AAA opener Tuesday, and Baca felt his team was ready.

"The girls are ready to play, now it's just a matter of getting up there and getting it done," he said. "Relaxing and just playing the game we can play."

German Air Force expands at Holloman

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Despite objections from local ranchers, environmental groups and one federal agency about the location of the flight training area, the German Air Force Flying Training Center was activated last week at Holloman Air Force Base.

Lt. Gen. Rolf H. Portz, German Air Force chief of staff, presided over ceremonies with Gen. Michael E. Ryan, U.S. Air Force chief of staff.

The center was established at Holloman in May, 1996, as a tactical training center. At the time, about 325 German military personnel and 12 Tornado aircraft were assigned to the base. Those number increased to 600 German military staff and 25 Tornados today and will continue to grow until about 750 military personnel, 125 civilian employees and 42 Tornados are in place by the end of 2001, according to information from the Air Force.

German air crew training for the F-4F Phantom II and Tornado is centralized at Holloman. Crews come to the base from undergraduate navigator training at Pensacola, Fla.

Fighter weapons instructor courses for both aircraft also are taught at the base, along with advanced tactics for Tornado air crews.

The German Air Force has trained in the United States for more than 50 years, Ryan said during the ceremony Friday, which included a formation of nearly 500 German air force troops, national and international dignitaries and a 16-plane flyby of aircraft stationed at Holloman.

Bob Jones, president of the Paragon Foundation, a non-profit group that has sued the United States Air Force to stop the use of Otero Mesa south of Alamogordo for training runs, said he's not against German's training at Holloman. "Our position is that we're not opposed to the German presence, but we certainly are opposed to the training compound at Otero Mesa and all the low-level bombing sites," he said Tuesday.

The group filed suit more than a year ago to stop construction of the complex and is asking the court to order the air force to move training operation back to land it already controls on White Sands Missile Range.

He pointed out that regulations require the air force to use all areas it controls to the fullest extent before seeking more. Air Force officials have countered that the missile range is inappropriate for the training missions and already is at maximum use for safety.

But Jones said in view of other similar lawsuits filed against the Air Force across the country, "I think they better back up and use what they have or they may lose it all."

RUIDOSO POLICE

Cash taken in burglary

Ruidoso police are investigating a burglary that took place last month, at Circle J Barbecue, at 1825 Sudderth Drive. According to police files, the larceny/burglary occurred between March 18 and March 20.

A cash bag, containing $636, was missing from the restaurant's office. A rear door to the office was also found partially open.

Felony larceny probed

A March 29 incident at a Sudderth Drive gas station resulted in the business manager's purse disappearing, along with a reported $200 in travelers checks.

The manager told police she let a person use the business phone, which was behind the sales counter. The manager noted that the suspect later walked out of a back room when thanking her for the use of the phone.

The case is being investigated as felony larceny.

License taken from truck

An employee at Sierra Glass, on Mechem Drive, reported to Ruidoso police that a license plate had been taken from the company's work truck. The incident occurred between 5 p.m. March 30 and 9 a.m. March 31.

Wallet grabbed on street

A Ruidoso man, stopped for questioning by police after he was observed running down the street at 1:50 a.m., told officers that his wallet had just been stolen.

The victim said he was outside the Quarters Bar on Sudderth Drive early morning on April 2. He said he had been looking through his wallet when an unknown subject came from behind and took the wallet.

The wallet reportedly contained five credit cards and other identification cards.

Household battery

Police arrested a Ruidoso man March 30, charging him with battery against a household member.

Arrested was Kenneth Wayne Carnes, 52. Police were called about 7:45 p.m. to a domestic disturbance at a Whitney Drive residence, according to a police report.

The victim had a minor cut to the head and a black eye, said an investigating officer. The report alleged that Carnes grabbed the victim in a head lock and forced her head into a chair.

Census workers still in demand

Tests of basic skills for those wanting part-time work with Census 2000 — with hourly wages from $10.50 to $12 an hour — will be conducted today at 10 a.m. at Pioneer Savings Bank and San Patricio Senior Citizen's Center and at 2 p.m. at Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso.

Thursday tests will be at 10 a.m. at the Carrizozo Village Hall and Pioneer Savings Bank, Ruidoso, and at 2 p.m. at ENMU-Ruidoso; and 6 p.m. at the Ruidoso Convention Center.

On Friday, testing will be at the Ruidoso Village Hall at 9 a.m.; the Presbyterian Church at 10 a.m.; and Village Hall at 2:30 p.m.

More information is available from Census 2000 at (505) 541-6900 or toll-free at (888) 325-7333.

EDUCATION BRIEFS

All-American scholar

Samantha Serna of Ruidoso was named an All-American Scholar by the United States Achievement Academy (USAA).

The USAA established the All-American Scholar Award Program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The All-American Scholar must earn a 3.3 or higher grade-point average. Only scholars selected by a school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted.

Serna is the daughter of George and Suzie Serna of Ruidoso.

Rocket launches coming

Students from Ruidoso, Carlsbad, Portales, and Roswell schools will launch high-powered model rockets they designed and built at the Roswell Municipal Airport Thursday, April 13.

Participating schools are Ruidoso Middle School, Ruidoso High School, Mesa Middle School, Portales Junior High; from Carlsbad, Carlsbad High School, Alta Vista and P.R. Leyva Middle Schools; from Roswell, Goddard and Roswell High Schools.

The academic focus of the student-launch project is launch technology. Students and teachers build high-powered model rockets that will carry multiple-sensor payloads to altitudes of about 2,500 feet. After landing, the rockets and payloads will be recovered so payload information can be analyzed by the participants.

Launch Day was developed by New Mexico Space Grant Consortium, a NASA-funded statewide program led by New Mexico State University's College of Engineering. It is co-sponsored by U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici under the Providing Engineering and Technology Experiences for Students program and will involve students in the New Mexico Mathematics, Engineering and Science and Achievement program.

The launch will take place between 8 a.m. and noon at the Municipal Airport in Roswell.

For more information, contact Judy McShannon at (505) 646-6414, or visit the Space Grant Web site at <http://spacegrant.nmsu.edu>.

State Bar sponsors school essay contest

High school juniors and seniors from New Mexico are invited to participate in the State Bar of New Mexico's annual essay contest and compete for cash prizes of up to $700.

This year's contest question, "Land of the Free... Home of the Brave," explores the complicated issue of immigration.

Essays expressing personal points of view will be accepted until April 13. Essays are limited to 10 double-spaced pages and will be judged by a panel of judges, lawyers and journalists and evaluated according to content, originality and writing skills.

The Albuquerque law firm of Modrall, Sperling, Roehl, Harris & Sisk, P.A., will sponsor cash awards of $700 for first place, $350 for second place and $150 for third place. Contestants will receive either a certificate of completion, an honorable mention certificate or a cash award. First-, second-, and third-place winners will receive their cash awards during an annual Law Day luncheon at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Albuquerque on May 1.

Now in its 11th year, the high school essay contest is sponsored by the State Bar's Public Legal Education Committee to promote higher education and to encourage an appreciation of the law.

Students may obtain information on the topic and an entry form through their high school English teachers or by calling the State Bar office at (505) 797-6030.

Monica Keyes, Distinguished Warrior for the 1999-2000 school year. Keyes is a senior.

RHS HONORS the very best scholars

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Distinguished Warrior Monica Keyes suffers an ailment that she'll recover from soon.

Keyes received the award as "Distinguished Warrior" March 28 at the Ruidoso High School Academic Awards Banquet for superior academic achievement and outstanding performance in extracurricular activities, and these may be symptoms of the disease.

"Senioritis" is the ailment, and it comes near the end of the last year in high school when everything piles up — finishing course work, filling out applications for scholarships "and everything I have to get out," she said.

Keyes ranks third in her class with a 4.286 grade-point average and attributes her good grades and many accomplishments in extracurricular activities to following the footsteps of her sisters who were involved in many activities and worked for good grades.

"I always wanted to be involved in everything," Keyes said. "It helps, to get into a good college."

Keyes said her two older sisters, who graduated from college, set a good example for her, and her family has been supportive. But, she said, English teacher and student council sponsor Pixie Arthur has been her main mentor in school and has supported her in everything.

Keyes said she's considering Pepperdine University or Occidental College, but she said she will probably make that decision after she recovers from senioritis.

Keyes' list of honors and extracurricular activities while in high school is long and includes four years of being on the Principal's List, attaining grade-point averages of 3.8 or above, Who's Who Among American High School Students, Outstanding Student Council Member in 1997, U.S. Achievement Academy National Award, New Mexico State University Honor Scholar, University of New Mexico Star Scholar, District Champion 100-meter hurdles and 800-meter relay. She also was active in other sports, drama, and was president of the Executive Board of Student Council.

Alexis Golden Hoff, also a senior, had the highest grade-point average in her class at 4.429.

"My parents had a big influence (on my academic success)," she said, "and it's become part of my personality to do well. A sixth-grade teacher inspired me; encouraged us to do well, and told us what to expect in middle school and high school. She taught us to take really good notes."

Hoff said English is her academic strength and wants to go on to study business. She encourages her younger sister to do well in school and to take the advanced classes, "because I know she can do it," she said.

"The challenge is what keeps it exciting," Hoff said. "The challenge of course work plus all my extracurricular activities and balancing it all out with friendships and staying focused this close to the end. My little sister has always been there to support me."

Solomon Barnett, Sean Sebastian and Saras Sharma, all juniors, earned first place in grades at the awards banquet, with grade-point averages of 4.318. Barnett attributes his success in school to his strong Christian upbringing and an inherited desire to achieve.

"My family has been supportive," he said. "They always taught us to try to be the best we can, they encourage us and ... helped us with school work and got us ahead by teaching things at home."

Barnett attended a private school from age three through second grade and he said he feels he received a better education because there were fewer students in the class.

It's worth the effort to do well in school, he said, because "you have the knowledge and people respect you for being smart. It makes your life easier in the long run."

Barnett said he plans to study computer engineering; his academic strengths are social studies and math.

Sebastian said he acquired a strong work ethic from participation in soccer, basketball and baseball.

"Whatever I do, I try to work as hard as I can because I like to win and because I'm a sore loser," he said.

Sebastian's family participates in everything he does, including sports, and this encourages him to excel.

"I get in trouble if I haven't done my homework," Sebastian said. "If I haven't done my homework, like if I'm playing on the computer, they'll enforce the rules. Homework before play."

He also has an older brother, now a sophomore in college, who did well in school and in sports.

"I tried to copy him like little brothers do. I credit him with the work ethic, and I always try to surpass him," he said.

Sharma, the class clown, attributes his academic success to "cheating, meditation, herbal products from India — and hard work, natural ability and luck."

In a similar vein, his academic strengths are English, science and grape yogurt.

"I decided to be smarter than my older sister," Sharma said.

His parents encouraged him to study, he said, although at the awards banquet, Sharma, who was the student speaker for the junior class, spoofed to his parents in the audience, saying, "I've heard you saying he's not my kid, he's just living with us till his real parents get back to town."

Later, though, he said his parents continue to give him moral and physical support — and that support sometimes consists of pushing him into his room to study, as well as positive responses to his grades.

"It's important to find something you like doing, joking around or burning energy with exercise and do it as often as you can," Sharma advised. "Burn off the stress from such a high workload to maintain, otherwise, you'll burn out before the four years are up."

Jacob Ornelas received the highest grades in the sophomore class, 4.652. His mother encouraged him to study and checked to see if he did his homework, he said.

"When Mom was going to college, she had us around when she studied, and I guess I picked up my study habits from her," he said.

When he was younger, he said his mother helped him with his homework — not doing it for him but giving him related examples. He also had good teachers, he said, and the most influential ones when he was in sixth and eighth grades. His eighth-grade teacher got him in contact with people from MIT, where he wants to attend college. There was also a gifted-program coordinator/counselor he consulted for decisions he made in high school in Colorado.

"I think good teachers and the support of the teachers is important to success," Ornelas said. "Because if a teacher doesn't have any interaction with you, you don't get the same out of it."

His academic strengths are math and science. He's taking a calculus class at New Mexico State University-Alamogordo Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Kelly Paton, a freshman, received the highest grade-point average in her class, with 4.2.

"I think the biggest influence I've had (toward doing well in school) was I went to school in El Paso in a school that really expected the best of everyone, so I just tried my best, learned good study habits," she said. "And my parents also expect a lot of me — good grades and to try hard."

Paton named two teachers who had a hands-on approach to teaching and learning as being influential to her academic success. In seventh and eighth grades, these teachers "had a different way of teaching things that made it more fun and easier to learn," she said.

She gave an example of a time when her class studied the Revolutionary War, the class pushed the furniture aside and drew a big map on the floor and reenacted the battles with corks.

Paton said her strengths are science and English. She doesn't like math although she does well in it, she said.

In all, 15 seniors received plaques at the awards banquet for having grades between 3.5 and 3.79, and 16 seniors were on the Principal's List for having grades of 3.8 or above.

Eleven juniors received academic awards and 11 students made the Principal's List.

In the sophomore class, 10 students received academic awards and 18 students made the Principal's List.

Twenty-three freshmen received academic awards and 12 students made the Principal's List.

New members were inducted into the National Honor Society at the awards banquet, and each member lit a candle.

"There are over 70 students in the National Honor Society," said assistant principal Art Howard. "That's the most they've ever had in it. I would say there is an increase in academic performance."

Running for President

The Campaign Trail

The year 2000 is a presidential election year... February through June

Searching for candidates

In each state, Republicans and Democrats hold primaries to select their candidates. A few states hold caucuses.

- A primary is a secret-ballot election.
- A caucus is a gathering where people vote in public.

August

Naming the candidates

Both parties hold national conventions to make their final selection for their presidential candidate.

September and October

The final campaign

The candidates travel around the country trying to attract voters.

November

Election Day

The presidential election day is always the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

The first primary election was held in New Hampshire in February. Here former senator Bill Bradley, a Democratic candidate who later withdrew, greets voters having breakfast at a restaurant.

Vice President Al Gore talked with a group of children when he campaigned in New Hampshire. Candidates always welcome good photo "ops," or opportunities.

What's it like to run for president?

To find out, The Mini Page interviewed a Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter, David Shribman. He has covered many candidates on the campaign trail.

"Candidates have to be different from us," Mr. Shribman, who writes for The Boston Globe, told us. Running for president is ...

- "Exhausting, and a huge burden on their family. They might be away from home as long as 19 months. While correspondents can rotate and go home, candidates cannot."

- "Eating every sort of food imaginable."

- "Smiling and having to be nice when people are not nice to you. Some people are unpleasant."

- "Making speeches. As difficult as it is for reporters to listen to the same speech four times a day, seven days a week, it is even more difficult for a candidate to deliver it."

- "Shaking every last hand in the rope line." (Rope separates the candidate from the crowds.)

- "Flying to the next stop even when you are too exhausted to move on."

- "Sleeping in a different room each night. (One candidate told of checking the cover of his phone book each morning to find out where he was.)"

How the U.S. Government Works guides readers to what happens in Washington, D.C., introducing kids to important buildings in our nation's capital, the people who work in them, the kind of work it takes to run the U.S. government, and more. MIGHTY FUNNY'S Funny Phonics

It's fun to learn phonics, or the sounds that letters make. This week's target sound is the one made by the letter I. It is a vowel that has two sounds, long and short. This week we are using the long I sound, as in the word "ice."

Q: Why did Benjamin Franklin fly a kite?
A: He thought it was a shocking idea!

Jim: I'd like to buy a pair of alligator shoes.
Clerk: What size does your alligator wear?

Q: Where will the cat be when the lights go out?
A: In the dark!

Go on an I word hunt. What other words can you find with the long I sound?

Who's Who in a Campaign

We asked reporter David Shribman to tell us more about the campaign trail.

Republican candidate George W. Bush greets some kids while members of the press take pictures.

CAN WE DRAW A CROWD?
Advance people make the arrangements as to where the candidate stays and speaks.

THE CANDIDATE'S SPEECH WAS GREAT!
Media people talk with the press and try to put a good face on things.

YES, ONE TWO THREE.
Sound people make certain the candidate can be heard.

STAND BACK, PLEASE.
Security people protect the candidate.

THIS WILL HELP PAY FOR TV COMMERCIALS.
Fund-raisers raise money for the candidates.

WE WANT LOWER TAXES.
Strategists figure out which primaries to enter and which ones to avoid. They help the candidate to present his ideas in the most appealing way.

What candidates need

John McCain, like many candidates, often traveled on his own special bus when he was campaigning.

• Money is the oxygen of politics. It pays the expenses, such as traveling to events and advertising on radio and TV. Candidates even need money to raise more of it!

• Supporters are important not only on election day, but also along the campaign trail, to stuff envelopes, attend rallies and make telephone calls.

• Stamina. Politicians like to say that running for president is not a sprint, but a marathon. Candidates have to get up every morning and be "up" even when things are down.

• To be fast on their feet. They have to respond to questions they have not expected and to events they have not foreseen.

• Ideas and policies. Candidates can't run for office if they do not know what they would like to do if they get elected.

A kid's point of view

The Mini Page asked 12-year-old Elizabeth Shribman, who went to New Hampshire with her reporter-dad, to tell us about what goes on in a campaign.

This year, I went on the campaign trail with my dad. We went to hear the candidates give speeches and argue their points.

Being on the campaign trail is interesting and loud!

At speeches, people are very enthusiastic. They applaud frequently and hold up signs that say the candidates' names.

While we were traveling from speech to speech, we saw lots of buses. Many of them held reporters. Occasionally, we were lucky enough to see a bus that held a candidate.

Everywhere around us at speeches, we saw reporters, scribbling notes into note pads or laptops, or talking on cell phones.

A lot of cameramen and other people from television stations were there, too.
