

Census 2000 trying to get it right this time

In an attempt to double check work performed to date, census-takers may knock on your door this month.

A small number of residents called the Census Bureau earlier in the year to report they were not counted. In response, about 27 census workers, called listers, will visit 1,300 households where addresses are not in the bureau's list of known addresses within a 12-county region of Southern New Mexico, according to Benjamin Jacquez, head of field operations for the region.

"If no one came to your door and you called the bureau's toll-free hot line, a lister will verify your address and that you have been counted," Jacquez said.

During the initial response phase, the bureau accepted telephone calls to its toll-free hot line from residents who didn't receive a census questionnaire and an operator may have taken the information, he said.

"The bureau also received filled-out questionnaires that residents picked up at a 'Be Counted' site. If the address from those two sources of questionnaires doesn't match the bureau's address list, it must be verified," he said.

"This is a quality assurance operation," Jacquez said.

Listers will verify the address and that the resident contacted the bureau and was counted, he said. If not, the lister will help the resident fill out a questionnaire. If an address can't be verified, the bureau will assume it's false, he said.

Listers will carry red, white and blue badges featuring the Department of Commerce seal and the lister's signature for identification. People may ask for a photo identification or they may call the office in Las Cruces at (505) 541-6920 to verify employment.

"We'd like to thank everyone for consulting and supporting the census," Jacquez said. "With everyone's help, we'll have an accurate census."

Quality assurance will continue until the end of August, Jacquez said, adding that Census 2000 results will be on President Bill Clinton's desk on or before Dec. 31.

Septic issues ahead

Proposed state changes could raise cost of building, living in Ruidoso

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Proposed changes in septic tank regulations will impact Ruidoso and other communities where vacation homes and undersize lots are common.

Extra expense will be tacked on in permit fees for buyers of homes with septic tanks, required inspections and pumping. On the other hand, larger homes may be permitted on three-quarter acre lots with technologically advanced and state-approved septic systems.

The first of four hearings on the changes was conducted Tuesday in Roswell and members of the Lincoln County Planning Commission discussed potential impacts with Carl Stubbs of the state Environment Department in Ruidoso last week. The county would pass rules to mirror changes at the state level, they said.

The regulations are aimed at better protection of surface and ground water from contamination originating with poorly operating septic tanks or leach fields, state officials said.

The proposed changes would impact septic system contractors, county officials, realtors, mobile home dealers, land developers and homeowners using septic systems.

Items that aren't touched in the proposed rewrite include:

- Construction requirements for septic tanks, leaching trenches, seepage beds and seepage pits
- Set-back requirements
- Clearance requirement to bedrock and ground water

Jury finds state negligent in death

Finding for damages involves murder of Lincoln resident by escaped Camp Sierra Blanca inmate in 1994

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Lincoln County advisory jury Monday found the New Mexico Department of Corrections, former Corrections Secretary Eloy Mondragon, and former Camp Sierra Blanca warden Sandra McFadin negligent in connection with the death in 1994 of Lincoln resident Clarke Pfingsten.

After listening to four days of testimony and deliberating three hours Friday and five hours Monday, the six-woman jury recommended an award of $60,000 to the Clarke Pfingsten Memorial Public Safety Trust.

Judge Karen Parsons of the 12th Judicial District can elect to accept or alter the recommendation. She told attorneys for both sides Tuesday during a telephone conference that she will issue a decision during the week of Aug. 21.

The 84-year-old Pfingsten was killed in August, 1994, when an escaped inmate from the camp, which was then a men's minimum security prison, hitched a ride with the elderly man. David Crawford admitted he ran over the victim about 15 miles east of Bottomless Lake State Park and then drove the dead man's 1979 Ford pickup to Roswell. He was arrested there three days later and is now in a federal prison for the murder.

The jury recommended a $60,000 award, dividing financial responsibility as follows:

- 65 percent to Crawford
- 20 percent to the Department of Corrections
- 14 percent to Mondragon
- 1 percent to McFadin

Jack Johnson, a Capitan municipal judge who is one of two directors of the trust, said he and co-director Ralph Dunlap of Lincoln were disappointed about the amount of the award, only because they hoped to do something to help the community.

"We wanted to set up an emergency procedure for the whole county

LCMC details services, need for mill levy support in election

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Voters in November will decide whether to continue a special property tax levy for capital outlay and Medicaid support at the county hospital and for the operation of three rural health clinics.

Officials with Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) are reminding residents and advising newcomers of the services offered by the county-owned hospital in Ruidoso, managed by Albuquerque-based Presbyterian Healthcare Services.

For those walking through the new front entrance of the hospital on Sudderth Drive, the dollars spent on improving access for patients and visitors become evident, with admissions to the right and hospital auxiliary members to the left to help answer questions.

Gail Martinez, development officer for LCMC, said she was impressed from the outset that a town of an estimated 10,000 year-around residents could boast of a 38-bed hospital with as much state-of-the-art equipment and consulting specialists as LCMC.

As a tourist center, the population swells to more than 35,000 during the summer; in winter, skiers manage to keep many of the beds filled, she said.

"We do medical and surgical care, we do outpatient chemotherapy," Martinez said. "We have a very well supplied radiology department with an excellent radiologist."

"One of the things I think is very important for people to know is that we have a very large emergency medical services (ambulance) program covering 4,500 square miles at five different stations. So they have access to emergency victims right away. They will either transport to LCMC or to another hospital of their choice. If it's an emergency and they need to get to a hospital right away, they go to the closest trauma center."

A hospital with a good reputation and access to specialties ranging from cancer treatment to cardiac care is a must in order to attract and hold a retiree base, chamber of commerce officials point out.

Although Presbyterian took over the helm of the hospital nearly 30 years ago and with the tax levy restored its financial health, the question of what firm will manage LCMC in the future is separate from the passage of the levy, Martinez emphasized.

That levy, which would drop by nearly one-third under wording approved for the ballot this year, is the community's commitment to support the hospital so it can keep pace with the latest technology, and to its less fortunate residents, who may need to use the hospital's medical services, she said.

The majority of the money would go for state-mandated payments toward indigent and Medicaid-patient care, Martinez pointed out.

"The amount of money that comes out of the property owner's pocket is minimal compared to the services provided," she said. "Most of the funding comes from other sources, such as Medicare, Medicaid, managed care, regular insurance plans, cash customers, and from Presbyterian."

Ticking off some of the high points residents and visitors need to know about LCMC, Martinez said the hos-

In the justice court on Saturday, Arch Parker, aged 13, and Young and Gus Barrett, aged respectively 17 and 11, were each placed under a $100 peace bond for six months, the fathers of the boys being sureties. The trouble was that the boys were continually fighting among themselves, and about two weeks ago the Parker boy caught the smaller of the Barrett boys and slit both his ears with a knife, threatening to cut them off the next time he caught him.

A short time later young Barrett, on horseback, chased the Parker boy through the yard of Mr. Watkins, running over his little child and injuring it so badly that it has been unable to walk, though it is now getting better. Mr. Watkins made the complaint upon which the peace bonds were made.

SEPTIC: When homes change hands, inspections would be necessary

• Minimum lot size at three-quarters of an acre.

"The lot size requirement goes up as the number of bedrooms increased from three," said Robert Gallegos, environmental specialist with the Roswell ED office. However under proposed changes, if a person wants to build a four-bedroom house on a three-bedroom-size lot, an application could be approved with the installation of a more efficient and technologically advanced septic system, he said.

Septic experts at the commission meeting Thursday said the cost of some of the new septic systems that would be needed to satisfy requirements of smaller lots could be as much as $4,800 for a one-bedroom and $6,500 for a three-bedroom home.

Every three to five years, disposal regulations are reconsidered and rewritten by an ED task force, Gallegos said Tuesday. After public input is collected, the rules will be revisited and then a date will be submitted for proposed acceptance.

"This is going to impact a lot of people, but the intent is to preserve what they love the most when they live in these communities — the environment, including the streams and quality of life," Gallegos said.

In communities like Ruidoso and Angel Fire with heavy reliance on ground and surface water, those sources must be protected from contamination, he said.

Among the changes is a new requirement for applications, construction permits, and operating permits to prevent installation of septic systems not authorized through the permit process.

Small lots would no longer be "grandfathered." Instead, better treatment systems would be required such as an aerobic type. Part of the approval would include a maintenance contract for twice a year maintenance at about $200 per call.

Gallegos defined an aerobic system as not operating on gravity.

It is run by electric power and is composed of three compartments that are aerated with oxygen pumped into the chambers — essentially a miniaturized municipal treatment plant for the home.

Another big hit would come from new operation and maintenance requirements for gravity-operated septic systems that include pumping them every three years.

"A lot of (policing) would come with the resale of houses," Gallegos said. "The industry also would keep track."

"In your area, there are a lot of vacation homes selling constantly," he explained. "When a house on a septic system is purchased, the new buyers would need a permit in their names and an inspection would be required to be sure the system wasn't failing."

Other changes include that holding tanks would only be allowed for temporary use; leech field designs would be based on soil classification and not percolation tests because those tests often are not conducted properly.

ly, homeowners would not be allowed to build their own septic tanks because of a high incidence of leakage; and monitoring requirements would be set for alternative treatment systems.

At the Thursday commission meeting, Chairman Charles Rennick clarified with Stubbs that density is not an issue in the state's view for septic use as long as the minimum lot size is met.

Rennick said to satisfy the proposed requirements, owners in existing small-lot subdivisions that were formed years ago but are only recently developing — and would not qualify for septic tanks — could assess themselves and install a community sewer system.

The drawback is that a treatment plant requires a licensed operator to maintain it.

Three other meetings are set for Las Cruces on Aug. 9, Santa Fe on Aug. 15 and Albuquerque Aug. 17. Copies of the proposed changes are available from the ED District IV office by calling (505) 624-6046 or at www.nmenv.state.nm.us.

JURY: The jury never was allowed to hear the purpose of the lawsuit with the money," he said. "We saw a computer system, which divides an area into zones and when there's an emergency like a fire, flood or an escaped inmate, you just push one number and all of the telephones in that zone are called with an alert."

"But the cost of that system is more than $100,000."

Realistically, because Crawford has no money or assets, the estate probably will collect only $20,000 and half will go to Pfingsten's two sons, Joe Pfingsten of Albuquerque and Pete Pfingsten of Columbus, Mont., and to Albuquerque attorney David Proffitt.

"The jury was never allowed to know why we were there," Johnson said. "We had hoped they knew the purpose of the lawsuit."

The two sons initially put $5,000 into the trust to pay for legal expenses and Proffitt accepted the case "because he's civic minded," Johnson said. "All of that money was spent long ago with witnesses and an arbitration hearing."

"I'm sure the state would like to write a check and forget about it."

State officials declined comment until Parsons issued her decision.

The trust was formed in July 1996 with the express purpose of ensuring a better system of emergency notification. The suit was filed later that year.

The suit accused the state agency and prison officials of negligence resulting in the death of Pfingsten. It claimed that McFadin failed to notify citizens after Crawford's escape and said she was unaware Crawford was assaulted the night before he walked away from the prison. She failed to heed a telephone warning that an inmate was planning to escape, the suit claimed.

Crawford and one or more of the inmates who beat him up were improperly classified and assigned to the camp in violation of department policies and procedures, the suit contended.

Crawford was only a few months away from release on a non-violent crime and had no reason to escape and commit murder unless he feared for his life, Proffitt contended in an October, 1996, interview.

The camp, which was converted to a juvenile rehabilitation center, lacked restraints for adult prisoners in 1994.

From the time it opened in 1978, at least 33 escapes occurred and multiple violent crimes were committed by the inmates on citizens and residents of the county, according to the suit.

The trustees asked for general, special and punitive damages.

LCMC: An annual payroll of $7.6 million covers 216 health care workers pital roster includes 17 full-time physicians or dentists and 40 others who schedule regular visits.

Besides family practice, the physicians represent internal medicine, general surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, orthopedics, radiology, gastroenterology, psychology, pulmonology, urology, ophthalmology, cardiology, oncology, nephrology, plastic surgery, optometry and dentistry. They travel from Albuquerque, El Paso, Las Cruces and Lubbock, among other places.

Presbyterian employs Drs. Robert Beechie, Chris Robinson, Stephen Frey, and Mary Martinez. The other 13 physicians have private practices but have qualified to be on the medical staff of the hospital.

The remodeled emergency room that served nearly 9,000 patients last year contains nine beds and features an isolation room, respiratory services, a cardiac room and an ambulance bay for easier unloading of patients.

"We are by law and by contract required to treat anyone who comes through the emergency room door," Martinez said.

The number of outpatient visits at the hospital hit 39,748 last year; 263 babies were born there and 1,792 surgeries were performed.

Physical and occupational therapy are offered on an outpatient basis, Martinez noted. Inpatient and outpatient cardiopulmonary services include EKG, cardiac stress tests, pulmonary function tests and routine respiratory treatments.

Patients receiving chemotherapy for cancer conditions at the hospital earlier this week said they're thankful LCMC can handle their treatment. Having to travel several hours to a larger city would only add stress and strain, they said.

Some statistics supplied by Martinez include:

- The hospital provided $729,874 in charity care in 1999.
- The hospital absorbed nearly $1.8 million in bad debts in 1999.

• The hospital auxiliary donated $851,680 from 1992 to 1999.

• Auxiliary volunteers contributed 233,287 hours toward the operation of the hospital during those years.

• In 1999, the Carrizozo/Corona health clinics logged 4,949 medical visits and 6,611 dental visits. Without the tax levy support, the clinics may close.

• LCMC rates are reviewed annually and are maintained at or below the median for New Mexico hospitals.

• The hospital employs 216 people with a payroll of $7.6 million.

Martinez listed collaborative community efforts in which the hospital is involved as annual low-cost mammography services with Altrusa, Run for the BEACH, and the state Health Department in the county; working with the county Health and Wellness Board to determine health care needs and provide services; and, working with the Maternal Child Health Council, to coordinate home visits for Medicaid and private pay new mothers and their infants.

The White Oaks Miner's Museum won first place in the floats category of the parade with its Miner's Day float.

An unwilling participant in the Lincoln Day Parade is persuaded to move along with more enthusiasm.

Postmaster Cherie Hobbs accepted the mail from a member of the Sheriff's Posse Sunday morning. "I didn't get paid for it, so I guess I really wasn't working," Hobbs said.

Tradition renewed at Old Lincoln Days

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Lincoln Days activities were a sensation last weekend, with a bigger-than-ever Sheriff's Posse riding the mail between White Oaks and Lincoln, and more entries in the parade on Sunday.

Twenty posse members and 16 affidavits left White Oaks at 7 a.m. Friday, taking turns carrying the mail bags, and rode for eight hours to their camp outside Capitán.

"It was kind of rough," said Jane Bussey, from Pomona, Calif., who found out about the trail ride from her parents, who live in Alto.

"Makes it kind of challenging. Makes me think maybe I could survive in the old days," Bussey said.

A highlight of the first night camping out was when four of the horses rented from Cowboy Stables bolted at 4 a.m. Many of the posse members took off after them, perhaps complicating the process of rounding them up, said Jim Tharp, chairman of the Pony Express Trail Ride.

Clarence Leslie, vice president of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse, oversaw shuttling the cars of the riders from one encampment to another and hauling water for the horses and people.

"This is the nicest group ever," Leslie said. "Every one of them is happy-go-lucky and having a lot of fun."

Susan Seligman of Albuquerque said she expected the ride to be rougher. Seligman was the only one of the group that didn't smell Saturday morning, though, because she brought along a solar shower.

Saturday's ride was about five hours and ended with a campfire supper and a no-talent contest, and Sunday's ride was just three hours, with half a dozen members of the posse delivering the mail to Postmaster Cherie Hobbs at 10 a.m.

Meanwhile, Billy the Kid made his last escape three times — Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon.

The Lincoln Parade started a little late but there were 28 entries in it, which is "pretty good for us," said one of the judges, Stan Thomas.

"We were really glad to have the Ruidoso High School (14 Karat Gold) Band here," Hobbs said. "We haven't had a band in the parade ever since I've been here, and the Museum of New Mexico made a donation so they would come and play."

Hobbs said she thought there were more people watching the parade and more people in the parade than in past years.

The San Patricio Over the Hill Gang won the Sweepstakes Award after more than 100 men, women and children made the 2 1/2-hour horseback ride to Lincoln.

Used car sale rules tightened with revised village ordinance

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A proposed Ruidoso ordinance that would regulate used vehicle sales outside of car dealer lots has been overhauled. The code will be given a public hearing on Sept. 12.

The ordinance language, replacing a Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission draft, was made by a council subcommittee made up of Mayor Robert Donaldson, manager Alan Briley and attorney Charles Rennie.

With three exceptions, the new proposed code would make it unlawful to display for sale any vehicle on a property not specifically permitted for sales of vehicles.

The exceptions would allow a vehicle with a for-sale sign on a designated parking area of property owned or leased by the seller. Those driving a for-sale vehicle to work would be allowed to display the vehicle in an employee parking area. A car or truck posted for sale could be temporarily parked at a location when the driver is conducting business, visiting or engaging in other lawful use of the property.

The Planning and Zoning Commission in June had proposed wording that would have created a permit system.

Explaining the adjustments to P&Z last week, Donaldson recommended the planning group make sure ordinance revisions are ready for a hearing before sending it to the council.

"One of the philosophies of the council is to go after the five percent doing it wrong rather than the 95 percent doing it right," the mayor said.

Donaldson said the ordinance would be part of the village's traffic codes, with enforcement by the police department.

"This is not aimed at the property owner trying to sell an auto," the mayor told the village council Tuesday.

The ordinance would require those who qualify to post a notice visible on the vehicle stating the owner's name, phone number, whether that person is the owner or lessee of the location where the vehicle is displayed, or whether the vehicle is an employee of the business.

Neglect alleged

The parents of a Carrizozo girl are suing the town for failure to maintain playground equipment at a public park where they say their daughter injured her foot.

Barney and Jeanette Baca state in the lawsuit filed July 27 in Lincoln County District Court that their 14-year-old daughter Bernadette lost her balance on a seesaw and when she fell, her foot lodged between two metal bars.

Town attorney David Stevens said he had no comment on the legal action.

The suit alleges the incident occurred May 31, 1999, as their daughter, son and a three-year-old cousin were visiting a playground on U.S. 380 operated by the town.

They are asking the court for compensatory and punitive damages, interest, attorney's fees and the cost of the court action.

Chase nabs alien

An alien was nabbed by police, following a high speed chase that began during the early morning hours.

Jose Manuel Flores-Rigoza, hometown and age unavailable, was charged with possession of a stolen vehicle, felony possession of a controlled substance, eluding and evading police, and reckless driving.

A Carrizozo police officer was tipped by a semi-truck driver of a vehicle being driven erratically on U.S. Highway 54, said Police Chief A. I. Vega.

The vehicle reportedly avoided a police stop and the chase, which brought speeds of up to 85 miles per hour, was underway southbound.

Rigoza was apprehended north of Tularosa when State Police disabled the vehicle through the placement of spike sticks on the roadway.

OUR OPINION

Be careful, that might be catching

Local government in the village of Ruidoso Downs has had its ups and downs (sometimes far down) over the years, often as not because it was a not-so-prosperous village with not much tax revenue.

That has changed in the past three years, with Wal-Mart and many other businesses opening along U. S. Highway 70; such activity has created substantial gross receipts tax income for a formerly strapped community. No wonder, then, that government in the village has struggled to keep up with growth, to meet the expectations of a growing population...sometimes to boldly experiment.

That experiment included a village administrator, now departed. Now there's a move on to test doing without a professional hired hand to direct operations; after all, some note that the village is operating better than ever — employees are getting along together just fine.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if all communities could achieve that equilibrium? Good luck, Ruidoso Downs.

YOUR OPINION

To be fair, Gore can take some credit

To the editor:

This is in response to Mr. Russ Majesty's letter published in the Aug. 4 Ruidoso News.

Mr. Majesty claims that President Clinton and Vice President Gore can claim no credit for the healthy state of the U. S. economy, but that they are to blame for some problems that he perceives. Mr. Majesty is certainly entitled to his opinion, but it appears that he wants to have it both ways. Would he be saying such a silly thing if the economy were in trouble?

Traditionally, in the U. S. and elsewhere, elected political leaders (mayors, governors, presidents) are held responsible for what happens during their terms, good or bad. That is what we call accountability.

George Bush can and does claim credit for good things that have actually happened in Texas during his terms as governor there. Al Gore must be given credit for being part of an administration that has maintained a record-breaking economy, and during a time of peace at that. Every candidate who has previously held office must run on their records. Again, this is the accountability that we hear so much about.

Mr. Majesty and other critics of Vice President Gore may not like him or they may just not like Democrats, but to argue that the current administration deserves no credit for prosperity and peace is contrary to logic, fairness, and history.

Incredible summer

To the editor:

My children and I wanted to write a note of special thanks for an incredible group of people and a very special organization.

We were very lucky, this summer, to be a part of the children of Lincoln County that got to experience the art class at the three-week art camp that was held in the town of Lincoln.

I need to applaud Mrs. Evelyn Copeland and her incredible group of talented teachers that taught my children this summer.

Every day, my children told me about the classes they attended; the meals they ate (all donated from our local restaurants); the songs they sung; the musical instruments they learned to play and the dances they danced. My favorite was the puppets they designed, made and dressed. Alex loved the Dulcimer lady of Captain and her hand-made instruments. Rachel loved all her drawings but her favorite was the tin art.

Boy, my children and the children of this county are so fortunate to have Mrs. E. Copeland, the Hubbard Museum of the American West and staff, all the wonderful teachers and van drivers. You made my children's summer one of the best! They are already looking forward to next summer.

Thank you all for the great experience.

Not a good example

To the editor:

To paraphrase Colin Powell, ask not what is wrong with the children, ask what is wrong with adults.

Since 1940, our county has honored the former "outlaw" William Bonney. This doesn't say much for our people as a whole.

Glorifying a murderer and murder is hypocritical, indecent and un-Christian like. If any of my readers or their kith or their kin are, ever, murdered, hopefully, the good folks of Lincoln County won't, also, praise their killers.

The pageant entitled, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid" also sends the wrong message to our youth. During one of the pageants, a seven-year-old boy remarked, "Daddy, Billy the Kid was a good guy — wasn't he?" Children are highly impressionable and due to improper parents and environments and/or peer pressure, many kids are easily led astray. Some of these minors will become juvenile delinquents, merely to gain attention like that given to William Bonney.

It's time for us to become more concerned about saving the children than about preserving the legend of Billy the Kid.

Unfortunately, our county will continue to corrupt some minors and young adults by glorifying an outlaw and outlawry. While I was in the military, I worked with too many young soldiers who had been tarnished by their home towns. Fortunately, I have no offspring!

Speed does kill

To the editor:

To the driver of a big green truck...You probably don't think that speed limit laws apply to you, or maybe you just don't think. Friday morning you were speeding down Colorado Lane and ran over my dog. You didn't even stop. Now, I'm thinking maybe you didn't know. But I don't know why you didn't hear my dog's cries. The whole neighborhood heard my dog's cries. This leads me to think that you don't care. What if that was my little sister out there and you came up speeding like you do and ran her over too. That's O.K. We'll just put her to sleep like we did my dog. For further reference: SLOW DOWN.

GUEST COMMENTARY

Mexican election good on both sides of border

BY TOM STEEVER
AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

Changes are in store for Mexico. The recent presidential election of Vicente Fox in Mexico brings with it a big change for the Latin American nation. Not that the change in the Mexican presidency is a surprise; they elect presidents every six years and limit them to one term.

This election is different because the previously undefeated PRI party has fallen to the will of the Mexican electorate for the first time in seven decades.

Fox's election victory bodes well for the Mexican and U.S. economies, according to American Farm Bureau Federation Senior Economist John Skorburg. "What Vicente Fox has said is that, for his six years in office, he wants their economy to grow, in real terms, by 7 percent per year," said Skorburg. The former Coca-Cola executive "has the background to make sure that Mexico stays on a more even keel in the future," said Skorburg. "and certainly when that happens it's better for our farmers and ranchers here in the United States as well as the farmers and ranchers in Mexico."

Skorburg feels Fox has what is needed to run Mexico. "On one side he'll be strong working with the United States in that he knows how business operates," explained Skorburg, "and on the second side, he knows what it's going to take to do those social reforms that are being mandated now by the citizens of Mexico." Fox's election could mean less corruption in Mexico as well as less illicit drug dealing, according to Skorburg. The change in leadership also will bring privatization of more industries in Mexico, said Skorburg. "You're going to see the things that have been government owned going more toward private ownership and that includes their energy sector, which means big changes for electricity, big changes for oil. So this is going to be a major change for Mexico."

Some of Skorburg's insight into the improving Mexican economy comes from recent data.

Mexico's first quarter gross domestic product is up almost 8 percent, industrial production is up 5 percent over the past 12 months and the peso seems stable in the past year. Mexico's crushing inflation is slowing with consumer prices up less than an annual rate of 10 percent compared to rates of 50 percent during the peso crisis of the mid-1990s. Skorburg is quick to point out where that credit should go. "Mexico's current president, Ernesto Zedillo, is partly responsible for their improved economy," said Skorburg. "And he didn't over-heat (artificially over-improve) the economy, so it's likely that their usual boom and bust can be avoided." Even Zedillo acknowledged that Fox is the new person in control and has promised a smooth transition into power. Fox will be inaugurated Dec. 1.

Greater trade with Mexico is a two-way street and means a bigger cache of commodities going both ways, according to Skorburg. "Once you put on the hat of an economist, you find out that these should be positive changes for Mexico," said Skorburg. "And the better neighbor Mexico becomes, the better trading partner they're going to be for the United States."

Sierra Contracting, White Mountain Compost crucial to area's well-being

Sierra Contracting, Inc. located 1/2 mile east of Ruidoso Downs

Village grapple truck loads yard waste

Horse bedding from Ruidoso Downs Racetrack

BY DREW GOMBER
Special to the Ruidoso News

For centuries, man has been discarding his waste without any thought to the future consequences. In the last century, man began to become aware of his past mistakes and there are many who have become concerned about waste and recycling, but it is still something that should concern ALL people. In the end, we must all live here, and common sense dictates that it is better to live on a planet that is clean than one that can only be compared to some sort of huge cosmic garbage dump.

Most people in Lincoln County — and everywhere else, for that matter — are unaware of the process that their waste must go through once it leaves their possession. And that is where Sierra Contracting, Inc., comes in...

In June of 1999, 3,946 cubic yards of waste was sent to Sierra Contracting. Now if all this waste had simply been discarded, the amount of retrievable material lost would have been tragic. The same month, the total village waste from Ruidoso was 3,484 cubic yards. This means that if the waste had simply been discarded and NOT sent to Sierra, than the amount that went to the landfill would have more than doubled. THAT is what happens without recycling. The estimated quantities for the fiscal year of 2000 in Ruidoso are 45,000 cubic yards — which is the equivalent of a whopping 450 truckloads of waste! Based on a rate study made in June of 2000, it was established that waste could be diverted to Sierra for LESS money than it would cost to take it to the landfill, which, incidentally, is 81 miles (one-way) from here.

Sierra Contracting, which was established in 1996 after the closure of the Capitan landfill, is the producer of White Mountain Compost. Beginning as an incinerator site, in March of 2000 Sierra acquired White Mountain Composting Co. The much-in-demand White Mountain Compost is available at local nurseries as well as at Sierra Contracting, Inc., which is located 1/2 mile east of Ruidoso Downs on Highway 70. Many Ruidosoans take pride in their yards and it is interesting to note that during some months, the yard waste in Ruidoso is more than all other waste combined!

That's right. Most folks don't really think about it, but did you know that there is a silver lining to almost everything — including garbage collection? Sierra Contracting knows how important it is to keep things out of a landfill if they can be re-used. And, since Sierra has acquired White Mountain Compost Co. The incinerator is no longer in use. In fact, Sierra has acquired a 12-foot tub grinder that is capable of grinding up to 100 tons per hour! Sierra has gone 100% recycling with all organic waste.

Given the fire conditions in recent months and the wildfires that have plagued New Mexico, to say nothing of the rest of the West, Sierra's existence becomes even more crucial to the well-being of the community.

When I interviewed the folks at Sierra, they wanted to make sure that they would be able to thank the taxpayers of Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, Alto and local contractors for their support. Now that I have done that, I would like to say that, in the opinion of this writer, we, the taxpayers, also owe Sierra a debt of thanks! They are a prime example of private enterprise working in conjunction with our local governments. Sierra is actually able to recycle materials for less expense than landfill disposal! Remember to ask for White Mountain Compost when you are at your local nursery and help us keep Ruidoso green! For more information on Sierra and White Mountain Compost, contact Van Patton at 257-4075 or email him at ruiprop@zianet.com.

FUNERALS DEATHS

Richard Wardlaw

Memorial services for Richard "Dick" Wardlaw, 72, were Monday at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount with the Rev. John Penn officiating.

Mr. Wardlaw died Thursday, Aug. 3, 2000 in Ruidoso. He was born Oct. 5, 1927, in Safford, Ariz.

He served in the Air Force during World War II. He came to work for the Mescalero Apache Tribe in 1961 after having worked with the San Carlos Apache Tribe in Arizona. As a result of the close working relationship that was formed between Mr. Wardlaw and Wendell Chino and staff, he was able to utilize his administrative talents over the years in assisting the tribe in conclusion and award of land-claim settlements, assisting in the administration of tribal enterprises, three of the most successful being Inn of the Mountain Gods, Sawmill and Ski Apache. He recommended actions to the BIA that have benefited the Apache people, and was loyal and dedicated to the tribe and a respected individual among those with whom he had dealings.

He married Ruth Harrelson on May 30, 1989, in Ruidoso.

Survivors include, his wife, Ruth; daughters Rebecca Wardlaw of Albuquerque, Mary-Louise Wardlaw and Ruth Covington, both of Lafayette, Colo.; a brother, Robert Wardlaw of Scottsdale, Ariz.; a sister, Margaret Pulsifer of Mesa, Ariz.; and a granddaughter, Heather Covington of Lafayette, Colo.

The family suggests memorials to the Memorial Garden Fund with the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso.

Modesto Chavez

The funeral for Modesto Chavez, 57, of Ruidoso, was Aug. 5 at the Fountain of Living Water Church at San Patricio, with the Rev. Benjamin Chavez, his brother, officiating. Burial followed at the Hondo Cemetery.

Mr. Chavez died Thursday, Aug. 3, 2000 in Ruidoso.

He was born May 1, 1943, and lived in Lincoln County all his life.

He married Ramona Corona in March of 1972 in Carrizozo.

Survivors include his wife of Ruidoso; daughters Ericka Ramons and Cassandra Chavez, both of Ruidoso; brothers Benjamin of San Patricio, Israel of California, Ruben, Monroy and Arturo, all of San Patricio, Felix and Rayner, both of Ruidoso; sisters Lydia Rue, Adelina Chavez and Lillian Lopez, all of San Patricio, Dolores Carrillo of Tularosa, Maria Salas and Teresa Chavez, both of Ruidoso; and four grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by sisters Esperanza Chavez and Elena Klein; and a brother, Charlie Chavez.

Arrangements were under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso.

Florence Rancher

The funeral for Florence Rancher, 91, of Carrizozo, will be at 10 a.m. today in the First Presbyterian Church of Ruidoso. Burial will follow at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Ruidoso, with the Rev. Cathy Caudle officiating.

Mrs. Rancher died Monday,

Aug. 7, 2000 in Carrizozo.

She was born Aug. 17, 1908, in New Castle, Pa.

She was a registered nurse, receiving her license in 1931 in Colorado, and had been a nurse at Fort Stanton Hospital. She moved to Lincoln County with her husband in 1957 from Chandler, Ariz. She was a member of the Carrizozo Senior Citizens and the First Presbyterian Church in Ruidoso.

She married Gordon W. Rancher on March 26, 1946, in Detroit, Mich.; he preceded her in death in 1985.

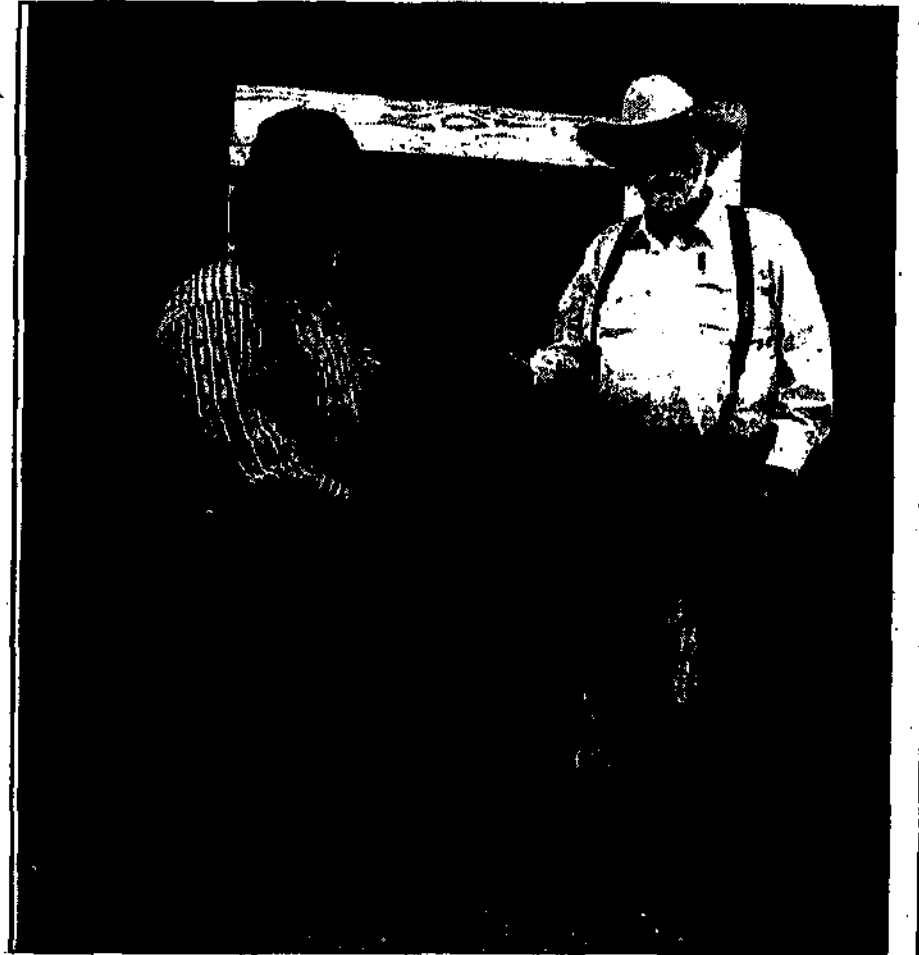

Survivors include sons Terry Rancher of Rota and Lloyd Rancher of Sedona, Ariz.; grandchildren Linda Saladonia, Donna Kurtmen, Rosalind Kirk, Steffen Rancher, Jayme Avery, Trish Marr, Eric Rancher, Kevin Rancher, Kelly Rancher and Brent Rancher; and 19 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by sons Jimmy Rancher and Ted Rancher; and a grandson, Danny Rancher.

The family suggests memorials to the Carrizozo Senior Citizen Center.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso.

Diabetes and Your Eyes

Nearly half of all people with diabetes will develop some degree of diabetic eye disease. The most common is diabetic retinopathy. This is caused by changes in the blood vessels in the retina, the nerve rich lining at the back of the eye that is essential for seeing. But diabetes can also contribute to glaucoma and cataracts. Diabetes is the leading cause of new cases of blindness in adults 25 - 74 years old, according to the American Diabetes Association.

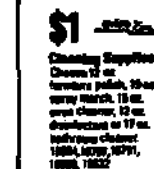

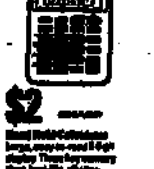

Diabetes-related eye diseases often have no symptoms, but early signs can be detected during an eye examination. People with diabetes should see an optometrist or ophthalmologist at least once a year. Early diagnosis and treatment can help in preventing blindness.

We invite you to stop by Family Vision Center, 159 Mescalero Trail, if you have questions concerning diabetes and your eyes. Take care of your eyes, they're the only ones you'll ever have.

Bingaman's visit focuses on forest, Fort Stanton's historical potential

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Greeted by about 30 supporters of Fort Stanton Sunday, U.S. Sen. Jeff Bingaman promised a serious look at what can be done to preserve the historic 1855 fort.

The Democrat from Silver City was in Lincoln County to meet constituents at a dinner in Capitan that evening, but spent the afternoon on a quick drive through the fort, a tour of areas burned in the Cree Fire last May, and a meeting with county and municipal officials and forestry and natural resource conservationists at the Smokey Bear Ranger District office in Ruidoso.

Bingaman arrived at the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport about 1:30 p.m., then headed by van toward the fort, where supporters of a plan to convert the complex into a living museum waited to pitch their proposal.

Bingaman posed for photographs with Sally Burkstaller, Dick Weber and other members of Fort Stanton Inc., next to a life-size image of the late actor John Wayne uttering the printed plea to "Save our fort, Pilgrim."

The stop was a follow up to a previous visit in Washington, D.C., by County Commissioner L. Ray Nunley to report the plight of the fort.

Meeting later at the Lincoln National Forest district office, Bingaman talked about the status of legislation he hopes will funnel money for small projects between the U.S. Forest Service and private or community entities to thin and clear urban/wild land interface areas.

Those areas exist when development is backed up to and intermingled with large forests.

"A bill I introduced more than a year ago passed the Senate in November authorizing $5 million for small joint projects," he told the group of about 20, including Commission Chairman Rex Wilson and Commissioner William Schwettmann, forest rangers Jerry Hawkes and Matt Reidy, Howard Shanks of the South Central Resource Conservation and Development Council, and Keith Kessler, chairman of that council and manager of the Bonito Reservoir and associated campground owned by the city of Alamogordo.

"It's an effort to bring people together," he said. "An effort to get agreement among all groups to take an interest in the health of the forest."

A life-size poster cutout of John Wayne joins supporters of Fort Stanton in asking U.S. Sen. Jeff Bingaman, in the foreground, for his support to create a living museum at the fort.

The bill, called the Community Forest Restoration Act, passed the Senate and also the House Resources Committee. If passed by the House and signed into law, it would authorize grants of up to $450,000 to community organizations to work with the forest service to reduce the number of small-diameter trees in New Mexico's forests.

But Kessler told Bingaman to ensure the continuation of proper thinning, the government should participate in finding or creating a market for those smaller harvested trees. "Logging is not interested in small diameter trees," he said. "There's no market. Yet that's what we have to do to reduce the risk. We need to develop a market for smaller diameter trees. We won't get anywhere unless people make money."

Sid Goodloe, a rancher whose clearing and grazing rotation practices have restored natural grasses to his land, urged more research on how the product could be used. He pointed to co-generation plants, which use junipers to generate electricity.

Shanks said if White Sands Forest Products, Inc. could find financial help to convert its equipment to handle small diameter trees, 200 jobs in the Alamogordo area would be saved. As it stands, the company is running out of large trees in areas open for harvest and the company may close its operations, he said.

Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson said the village anticipates picking up nearly twice as many cubic yards of yard waste this year as last year.

"We expect that in perpetuity," he said. "If a market was developed, there would be some money coming in. It's too important a resource to be destroyed. It could bring money back in to be used to clean up more of the forest."

Schwettmann said if Lincoln went in with the counties of Eddy and Otero, the three could collect substantially more money to attack the problem in portions of the forest within their boundaries.

The money for first-year funding of Bingaman's bill is part of $240.3 million he and U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici, R-NM, are trying to secure for a nationwide effort to remove overgrowth on federal lands. Bingaman co-sponsored Domenici's amendment to the fiscal year 2001 Interior Appropriations Bill, which passed the Senate last month. Domenici co-sponsored Bingaman's bill.

Reidy told the senator that Smokey Bear District asked for $2.1 million "to accelerate our program. We need to shorten the time frame."

Donaldson said the federal government also should come up with a program to help private land owners who want to thin the trees on their land, but find the cost prohibitive.

"We have areas where people own 50 to 60 acres they've inherited," he said. "They're not wealthy and the cost to bring down one tree can be $1,000. We need grants for people on private land to clear and get their land into shape or we will end up not solving the problem."

It's now the only state cemetery for veterans

Fort Stanton cemetery improvement sought by vets' commission

The New Mexico Veterans' Service Commission has applied for a $1.5 million grant aimed at improving and expanding the Fort Stanton Merchant Marine and Military Cemetery.

Commission Director Michael C. D'Arco said the money would establish a new section at the cemetery.

The announcement was funneled Monday through State Rep. W. C. "Dub" Williams, R-Glencoe. D'Arco submitted the application after meetings conducted July 10 with Bill Jayne, director of the U.S. Department of Veterans' Affairs State Cemetery Grants Service, and with Hershel Gober, acting Secretary of the U.S. Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Gober was named to the post by President Bill Clinton after the resignation of Secretary Togo West.

The state took over management of the historic fort's cemetery in 1955, but only recently was it placed under the oversight of the state veterans' agency by agreement with Steve Bessert, New Mexico Secretary of General Services.

In a news release on the application, D'Arco expressed his optimism that it would be approved and that the cemetery in the future will become New Mexico's only state - as opposed to federal - veteran's cemetery.

The fort, established in 1855, is about 12 miles northeast of Ruidoso and efforts are under way to convert it into a living museum. About seven buildings are used for a substance abuse program operated by the state Corrections Department.

Felony burglary, larceny

Ruidoso police are investigating a reported felony burglary and felony larceny. A woman told officers her vehicle had been in the parking lot of the Ruidoso Bowling Center on Mechem Drive on Aug. 2.

The next day she discovered a number of items had been taken from the vehicle. The missing property was valued at $580, according to a police report.

Felony theft

A felony burglary and larceny incident occurred during the first half of July at a Racquet Court location. The burglary was reported to Ruidoso police on Aug. 2. An estimated $2,500 in items were taken from a storage area.

Mail boxes vandalized

A series of mailbox vandalism occurred overnight Aug. 3-4, according to police reports. Mailboxes on Lower Terrace Drive, Willie Horton Drive, and Jack Little Drive were discovered damaged. In one of the smashed mailboxes, the fourth such event according to the owner, the letter container was custom-made. The damage estimated at $30 to $75. Most of the items are being reviewed as a misdemeanor injury to private property. Police reports indicated at least four mailboxes were damaged.

Vehicle 'keyed'

A vehicle parked at a Mechem Drive bar was scratch damaged in late July. The criminal damage to property case was reported to Ruidoso police on Aug. 7. An estimated $500 in scratches, believed to have been made with a key, was made to the vehicle, which had been parked at J's Bar on July 27.

Incident hurts boy

A 13-year-old Ruidoso boy was injured in what police are investigating as a misdemeanor battery case.

The youth had been riding a motorcycle near Ruidoso High School when a gray sports utility vehicle allegedly began closely tailing the cycle. The youth told police he sped up and the vehicle continued to follow closely. Both vehicles eventually stopped near Gavilan Canyon Road and Meander Drive, where the SUV driver allegedly knocked the boy off his motor bike. The youth said he was then kicked and hit.

The SUV driver reportedly fled when other vehicles approached the area. The battery incident occurred on Aug. 7.

Misdemeanor battery

An Aug. 3 misdemeanor battery case is being investigated by Ruidoso police. A 44-year-old Ruidoso man said he was assaulted by a male and female in the 300 block of Sudderth Drive.

Women's Club hosts state officers

Leadership workshop focuses on service projects of clubs across the state of New Mexico.*

The Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club hosted the state Women's Club officers for a fall board meeting and leadership workshop recently, with social security for women a key element.

Bobbie DeBolt, local club president, welcomed state officers Ruth Glissen, president, of Albuquerque; Virginia Robinson, corresponding secretary, Alamogordo; Donna Kelge, treasurer, Albuquerque; Lois Cozier, recording secretary, Portales; and Sue Ogden, parliamentarian, Carlsbad.

Sue Stearns, department chairman on conservation and natural resources, showed a video, "Soil — Who Needs It?" The film is available for civic clubs or schools.

Materials were distributed to club presidents on safety in the forests, "The Watershed, the Life Blood of New Mexico" and Keep America Beautiful.

Margret Perez, Silver City, chairman of the home life department, presented material on women's social security.

She reminded the members social security was not meant to be a retirement program but must always remain an earned right.

She said with 60 percent of women at age 65 and 72 percent at age 85 receiving social security, members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs need to take a stance on the need to make social security fair to women. This is not only to help the older generation, she said, but as much to help the younger generation.

International affairs chairman Jackie Rawlins, Silver City, sent a video encouraging support of Childreach, the U.S. member of Plan International (formerly Foster Parents Plan), an international child sponsoring organization since 1927.

The mission aids in the quality of life of depressed children in emerging countries. Childreach does not give cash handouts directly to families. Instead, children and their families benefit from projects designed to lift themselves out of poverty.

Projects include providing safe drinking water and sanitation, child survival and health care, home improvements, agriculture and income generating projects.

Juanita Stovall, Las Cruces, public affairs department, reminded clubs to include Veterans Day in their November programs. Information on the holiday can be obtained from the national office and the Internet, she said.

Charlene Glock, Las Cruces, chairman of the literacy department, reported on special projects for sophomores, HOBY, or Hugh O'Brien Youth Studies; ESO, a reading program for women; and Libraries 2000, a national program of the general federation.

Glock will head the Harriet Donahoe Scholarship program for the state. This scholarship was founded in 1920 for high school senior girls.

Glisson announced the fall district workshops: Sept. 22-23, District II, Farmington; Oct. 13-15, South Central, Oklahoma City; Oct. 20-21, District IV, Ruidoso; Nov. 10-11, District III, Roswell.

Essie turns 99 with a smile and a philosophy

BY WENDY WIDENER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Ninety-nine years ago, the average worker made $12.98 a week for 59 hours, Theodore Roosevelt became the youngest President, following the assassination of President William McKinley, and Essie Griffin was born. The "average worker" has passed on, Teddy has long since left the White House, but on Aug. 9, Essie will reach the age of 99.

"I've been through three depressions," Essie remarked.

Married in 1924, Essie took on the last name Bradford as well as her maiden name of Griffin. Now Essie Griffin Bradford, Essie remarked, "The next man I marry is only gonna have three letters in his name."

Essie's husband of 30 years died in July, 1954. The two had one child, Carlene, and "that was enough," said Essie. That was enough because Essie has also taken care of her countless grandchildren, great grandchildren and great-great grandchildren.

In honor of Essie's birthday, flyers were posted, boasting "she looked great at 98 and she looks mighty fine at 99!" The bulletin invited the public to attend a lunch at First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs on Aug. 5. Essie was asked to make the beans for her own party because "no one else makes them like she does," relatives said.

Living in Brownwood, Texas, all of her life where she solely maintained a ranch until she retired at 88, Essie joined five generations of her family in Ruidoso, who lovingly refer to her as "Mama."

Essie didn't think she'd stay, but once she got into her new lifestyle, she didn't have time to "look back toward Texas."

Essie is the last of eight children. Her mother died at 85 and her father at 74.

Essie's father, Winifred, was the church song leader, but now he would be called the "minister of music," Essie said. "Daddy used to sit with the bible on his knee and read to me."

Essie remembered how she used to study the Bible with her father. "Sometimes when I hear the preacher preach, dad's words come back to me."

Essie makes the transaction from 98 to 99 years old saying, "I am old, but I won't admit it."

Riders complete endurance challenges

BY RHIANNON REYES
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

CAPITAN — The American Endurance Ride Conference national championships wrapped up Friday with a 50-mile ride through tough terrain surrounding Capitan.

Although Friday's weather conditions seemed less harsh than during Tuesday's 100-mile ride from a spectator's perspective, riders indeed competed more like racers in the shorter, 50-mile ride, said Randy Eiland, AERC vice president.

"Yeah, it's cooler, but they're going a lot faster," he said.

Eiland estimated a 10 percent pull rate (horses and riders ending the ride early) from the 70 total entries at the second checkpoint. However, the outlook remained sporting and optimistic, as Eiland added, "So far it's doing great."

From a veteran rider's perspective, "50 mile racing is totally different than 100 mile racing," said the winner of Tuesday's 100-mile ride, Jerry Fruth of Evansville, Ind. "In 100 miles, there's a lot of strategy to it — you really have to be thinking all day long about every aspect of what you're doing. Fifty miles of course take half the time, so it's a lot faster, it's more of a speed race, there's not much strategy to it."

Fruth not only won first place in the heavyweight division, he took the overall title as well as the award for best conditioned horse.

"I've been doing endurance riding for 25 years," Fruth said.

Nicknamed Irene, Fruth's stallion Jabask Knight shared in Tuesday's victory.

"He just pulled out all the stops and ran extremely well all day," Fruth said. "It was really his day to shine. I'm debating now as to whether we're Diana Grillo of New Jersey gives Country Major a chance to see if the grass really is greener before leaving on the second leg of the 50-mile endurance ride Friday. Grillo finished fifth in the lightweight division.

gonna continue to race him or if we're just gonna put him out to stud. We'll probably make that decision next year sometime," he added. "Because after winning this, there's not much else you can ride."

However, Fruth and Irene may continue to compete in endurance rides and "just do some fun things" until the time comes.

"Because," Fruth added, "he's an extraordinary horse — I'm very blessed to have him."

Fruth won the 50-mile heavyweight title last year, but this year didn't compete in the shorter contest. He did attend the 50-mile ride to give his comrades a few pointers on the trail they were about to embark on.

Lightweight competitor Cici Butler of the central region came out on top of Friday's 50-mile race, finishing in 5:50 while also winning the award for best condition.

Butler began her trek at 6:58 a.m., passed all her vet checks in fair time, and emerged victorious at the end of the trail at 1:35 p.m.

Featherweight champion Jody Welch, hailing from the northwestern region, rode into Fort Stanton alongside Butler, but finished with a second overall placing, because she had started three minutes earlier.

Middleweight champ Kevin Waters began at 7:12 a.m. and finished at 2:30 p.m., putting him first place in his division. Central region's David Kaden arrived at the finish first in the heavyweight division and placed sixth in the overall running; he entered the race at 7:01 a.m. and completed the trail at 2:18 p.m.

Following close on his heels was junior first-place finisher Tessa McAfee, who started at 6:58 a.m. and finished at 2:18 p.m. as well. With the same exact time as McAfee, from beginning to end, was Lois McAfee of the featherweight division.

As for the heavy pull rate mentioned earlier, veterinarian Barney Fleming of Deming attributed the cause of most of the pulls to lameness.

"But," he added, "that's just from riding fast. It's a lot more competitive for the entire (50-mile) ride as compared to parts of the ride on Tuesday because of the distance they had to go."

A few of the horses that had competed in the previous ride and went out again Friday were among some of the entries that had been pulled. Other horses were drawn from the race as a result of "bad luck," according to Fleming.

On the other hand, Fleming, along with the rest of the riders, vets, and organizers, was pleased with the overall experience.

"We had good riders (Friday), good horses," he said. "I think it was extremely successful this year. I was pleased with the turnout, very pleased with the trail, very pleased with the camp, the geography, the area where

Starting off the season

High school sports practices officially got underway around Lincoln County Monday, and the Warrior football team was one of the first squads to begin preparing for the season. Instead of two-a-days, the Ruidoso gridders are concentrating their efforts on one long morning session at the high school practice field. Left, two Warriors work on their blocking technique. Below, the team conducts an "inside run" practice. Warrior football gets underway Aug. 18 at home with a scrimmage against Clint, Texas, then takes to the road for the season opener against Las Vegas Robertson.

Oklahoma filly breaks Ruidoso Downs speed record

GCH Byallmeans Magic, the 10th race longshot Saturday at Ruidoso Downs Race Track and Casino, broke the 830-yard track record with a speed index of 109. Devious Dimples set the track record in 1997 with the time of 16.60.

GCH Byallmeans Magic, the 3-year-old Oklahoma bred filly, won the sprint in 16.402 for owner Robert Ortiz of Santa Fe and trainer Ramon Ronquillo.

Clovis Classic Futurity
Trainer Blane Wood qualified six out of 10 horses Thursday for the $75,000-est Clovis Classic Futurity.

Wood and jockey James Gonzales, II teamed up three times to qualify the top two runners, No Easy Task and Pass The Form. No Easy Task, owned by Henry Woodruff of Shallwater, Texas, qualified in 17.545 to win the ninth race by a nose. Pass The Form qualified in 17.550 for owners Richard and Patricia Shearer and won the seventh race by a length ahead of No Work All Play. No Work All Play, also trained by Wood, qualified in the 10th position with the time of 17.743. Gonzales also qualified Six A Blazin, owned by Frank and Elizabeth Gallegos, for trainer Wood in 17.680. Wood and Short teamed up to qualify Looks Like Roon, for owner V. Doyle Norris of Ralls, Texas, in 17.692. Wood's last qualifier was Kama Shootin. Kama Shootin and jockey Roy Baldillez qualified in 17.719 for Norris and Trey Wood.

Trainer Bob Noel qualified Worthafortunetoo and Kiss My Royal Dash. Worthafortunetoo qualified in 17.664 for owner Nancy Tivis of Portales. Worthafortunetoo won the fifth race with jockey Bo White. Kiss My Royal Dash qualified in the ninth position we are, and thanks to the community for that."

Eiland agreed.

"This year's championship was an awesome experience in every respect," he said. "We had awesome horse and rider teams, we had the finest group of vets in one place that I have seen (and) we had a trail, in both distances, that could be finished but, in the words of every knowledgeable rider, exceeded (all others) in toughness."

in 17,734, with jockey Adam Fuentes aboard.

Deferred Sentence, trained by Bennie Woolley, Jr., qualified in the third position in 17,551. Deferred Sentence is owned by BLM Racing and ridden by jockey Christopher Zamora.

Tony E. Sedillo and jockey Fernando Gamez qualified General Rime in 17,700 for owners SMS Racing, Llc.

The $75,000-est. Clovis Classic Futurity Finals will be held Aug. 20.

Fern Sawyer Handicap
 Mink left the field behind to win the $16,500 Fern Sawyer Handicap Saturday.

Mink, ridden by Dennis Means, took the lead from the break and maintained it throughout the race to win by six and three-quarter lengths ahead of challenger Torrey Pines. Mink, trained by Kerry Reed and owned by JBS Racing, Llc., has won her last three outs including the First Lady Handicap.

"She's done awesome while she's been here," said Jay Singletary. "We will probably go from here to Oklahoma since she is Oklahoma bred."

Mink might get one more out before leaving Ruidoso in the Ruidoso Mile against her full brother Slew O Mink.

"Her brother is running in the Ruidoso Mile," said Singletary. "I have always wanted to run them against one another. So there is a real good chance she will go in the Ruidoso Mile."

Torrey Pines, owned by R.

D. Hubbard & Edward Allred, challenged Mink though the race but was unable to gain ground on the winner.

Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby

Trainer Mac Millar took home a win Sunday with the 3 year-old Texas-bred gelding Hadif's Associate in the $16,700 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby for owners Pam Millar and Richard Hopper of Ruidoso.

Breaking fourth from the gate, Hadif's Associate fell to the back of the pack through the back stretch then began to gain ground in the far turn. At the top of the stretch, Hadif's Associate felt the pressure of second place finisher, Twotimesthemoney, ridden by Chris Montano, and picked up enough late race speed to hang on by a neck to win.

Jockey Chris Montano aboard Twotimesthemoney rallied late to catch Hadif's Associate, but couldn't gain enough ground to make up for the extremely wide far turn. Twotimesthemoney is owned by Richard Lentz of Hobbs and trained by Barbara Brown.

Coming in third, two and three-quarters lengths off second place, was Trevally, a Mexico-bred colt trained by Ruidoso Downs newcomer Sal Gonzalez. Jockey Alfredo Juarez rode for owners Riposo

Inc. of CA.

Miller wanted to send a special thanks to Hadif's Associate's former owners.

"I would like to thank James McArthur and Jaramar Farms for selling me this horse," he said.

American Airlines Challenge Final

Jockey G. R. Carter took a back flip dismount off Coyote Ridge after winning the $99,360 American Airlines Juvenile Challenge Sunday.

Coyote Ridge, owned and trained by Armando Orozco of El Paso, took the lead through the stretch to outrun Leaders Dash at the wire by a nose in 17.655.

Coyote Ridge broke on top, but seemed to slow near the wire but when Leaders Dash, with the jockey Jacky Martin, came to challenge him for the win, Coyote Ridge seemed to find another gear. Leaders Dash is trained by Tony Sedillo and owned by SMS Racing.

"He sat real good in the gates and when they opened the gates he went real good," Carter said. "I hit him with the left handed after I did he seemed to go flat on me and Jacky's horse real made a strong run at me."

According to trainer Orozco, Coyote Ridge will be supplemented into the All American Futurity Trials Aug. 17.

NASCAR featherlight coming to Sandia Motorsports Park

For the first time in the history of New Mexico racing, Sandia Motorsports Park, New Mexico's newest, and only NASCAR sanctioned racing venue, will feature the NASCAR Featherlite Southwest Series Tour on Aug. 12. The event will feature 35 cars that are slightly smaller than those seen in the NASCAR Winston Cup Series and has previously featured current NASCAR racing stars including Ron Hornaday and Kurt Busch.

Not all the Featherlite Southwest Series drivers are motivated solely by points and prize earnings. One of the drivers, Darrell LaMoure on Phoenix, sponsored by Desert Thunder Motor Sports (also of Phoenix), displays photos of missing children on the hood of his Chevrolet in an attempt to help missing children's organizations across the nation.

The LaMoure family (Darrell's father, Roger, is as involved in the racing program as Darrell) has offered to display the photograph of Robbie Romero on his car for the Albuquerque race. Robbie Romero of Santa Fe, was reported missing June 7, and has still not been located.

Kym Pasqualini of Nation's Missing Children Organization headquartered in Phoenix, is coordinating the effort between the LaMoure family and the Romero family.

The Romero family will be hosted by Sandia Motorsports Park and the LaMoure family at the race event on August 12. This will provide the opportunity for the LaMoure family and New Mexico race fans to lend their support to the Romero family.

Bell Signs of Phoenix supports the LaMoure family's efforts and donates the photo-impressed vinyl used on the racecar.

Several radio stations have offered their assistance in raising funds for Nation's Missing Children Organization and the Romero family in their efforts to locate the Romero child.

OLYMPICS: Racewalkers headed down under to compete changed, possibly allowing Sarah Stevenson, who trained with the Rohls in Cloudcroft, to finish higher than fifth.

"It's not really fair to anybody in the race," Michelle said. "It should have been resolved long before the trials."

The Rohls will be competing in the National 10K race walk Saturday in Wilkes-Barre, Penn., then leave Sept. 10 for Australia. Although Mike won't compete, he will be there to cheer his wife on.

For Michelle, who said the strongest competitors are the Russians and Chinese, the goal is just to finish in the top 10.

"Realistically, unless they get disqualified, they are several times ahead of me," she said. "But it's a race walk, and you never know what's going to happen."

The Rohls will be named Cloudcroft "ambassadors" at a ceremony in their honor 6 p.m. Aug. 22, at the Cloudcroft Chamber of Commerce.

Defendants(s).

Clerk's Notice of Suit
by Publication and Mailing

TO EACH DEFENDANT NAMED ABOVE:

A lawsuit has been started against you in the above entitled court by the above named Plaintiff or Plaintiffs. Plaintiff's claims are stated in a written Foreclosure Petition and Complaint, a copy of which is available from the Court Clerk and/or the Plaintiff's attorney whose addresses and phone numbers are indicated above.

In order to defend against this lawsuit, you must respond to the Foreclosure Petition and Complaint by stating your defense(s) in writing and by filing same with the Clerk of the Court (by mail, if you wish) and mailing a copy to the Plaintiff's attorney. If you do not respond in writing, a default judgment may be entered against you without notice. A default judgment is one where the Plaintiff may be entitled to what they ask for because you have not responded.

Your written response must be filed (by mail, if you wish) with the Clerk of the Court and mailed to Plaintiff's attorney on or before September 18, 2000. If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be served on time.

The lawsuit asks for a money judgment and involves the foreclosure of a mortgage or deed of trust against and quieting title to the following Real Estate and all improvements thereto which is commonly described as: 501 Spring Rd., Ruidoso Downs, NM 88346.

In this lawsuit, the Plaintiff alleges that the following Defendants have personal liability on the subject mortgage or deed of trust and Note and the requested money judgment. Name:

Dated: 7-19-2000.
