More help needed on playground

Community project on track to start today

BY SANDY SUGGITT

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

About 400 people have already volunteered to help assemble Kidz Connection, the community-built playground at the White Mountain Recreational Complex, today through Sunday, but more are needed.

"We have five allotted days of building and it has to be done, so the community really needs to come to the forefront and take advantage of this opportunity of a lifetime," said Bill Chance, a Ruidoso village council member and liaison to the 14,000-square-foot playground.

Chance said 100-150 more volunteers are needed, especially over the weekend, and more hammers, power saws and electric drills. (Borrowed tools are inventoried and locked up, Chance said.)

Choices abound for helping out: hammering, drilling holes, soaping screws, sanding, painting, carrying sand, gravel and fill material, handing out food, child care, putting up the picket fence and assembling the slides.

To lend construction tools, call 257-8427. To volunteer to help with construction, call 630-1075. To donate food or help serve, call 257-9539.

Representatives of Leathers and Associates from Ithaca, N.Y., who met with local children to get their input for the design, were expected to arrive in Ruidoso about 7 p.m. Tuesday, said Richard Lurix, project coordinator.

"They were in Phoenix and they are driving between Phoenix and here," Lurix said. "We have talked to them en route a couple of times."

Corona teen dies in crash

■ Jose Arellanes was killed instantly Monday in a head-on crash with a pickup, police said

A 19-year-old Corona resident was killed Monday morning when the vehicle he was driving collided head-on with a pickup truck on County Road AO35 east of U.S. 54.

Jose Arellanes was killed instantly, according to a report by New Mexico State Police Officer Justin Fedric.

The officer reported that Arellanes was northbound in a 1989 Plymouth on the county road about 4.2 miles east of mile marker 159 when the accident occurred about 7:30 a.m. He was following a white pickup, which was kicking up dust and created poor visibility.

Sam Seely, 40, also of Corona, was heading south on the same road in a 1989 Dodge pickup.

The dust obscured his vision and he could not see the Plymouth, which was traveling left of the center lane, according to Fedric's report.

The accident still is under investigation.

Ruidoso wants to help

Blood from Tuesday's drive probably won't go East

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Betsy Mulligan heard about the blood drive on radio while on her way home from buying groceries and assumed it was connected to injuries from the apparent terrorist attacks Tuesday in New York and Washington D.C.

Jessica Sherman, 24, a massage therapist at Hawthorne Suites, never donated blood before, but decided this time she'd take the plunge and give because of what she saw on television early that morning.

But blood collected Tuesday probably will not end up back East, said Glenda Pritchard, satellite center manager in Roswell for United Blood Services.

"At this point, New Mexico hasn't been asked, probably because there are no flights to get the blood there," she said.

The blood drive advertised for Tuesday was a regular quarterly effort scheduled in Ruidoso, which Pritchard characterized as a "great supportive community."

Another drive may be set for Sept. 18, this time with volunteers from local fire departments coordinating.

"We went up last night and set up for a regular day," Pritchard said. "This morning changed everything."

Vicky Pollard, a volunteer with the Lincoln County Medical Center auxiliary, said the average turn-out for a blood drive is about 55 people.

By 4 p.m. Tuesday, 188 people had donated their blood and about 40 more were waiting.

"But we're already turning people away," said volunteer Evelyn Bizzle. "We don't have enough supplies."

Nora Midkiff, watched events unfolding on a television set in the middle of the room while donating her portion. She said she has given before and was planning on coming down to Gateway Church of Christ anyway.

"Today just took a little longer," she said.

War erupts on U.S. soil

Most of Ruidoso's people were up and around at about 6:45 a.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2001, preparing for work, perhaps feeding the kids to get them to school on time.

Many, routinely, had turned on a TV to get early morning news.

And there, suddenly, an image of a smoking gray box in a blue sky — and in those moments our world was a different place.

The World Trade Center was a mass of towering smoke, seen from afar. Then, less than 20 minutes later, from right to left, a commercial aircraft appeared and disappeared behind one tower, that followed by an orange ball erupting from the side of the second tower.

Even as we sought to assimilate the meaning of these assaults on a building that had been hit by terrorists eight years earlier, reports came of an explosion in Washington, at the Pentagon. Then reports of a car bomb on the Mall.

Then reports of hijacked aircraft in Boston. A plane crash in Pennsylvania.

Terror stuns Ruidoso-area

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Community leaders in Lincoln County said Tuesday they were stunned by apparent terrorist attacks against the World Trade Center twin towers in New York and the Pentagon and State Department in Washington, D.C.

Sheriff Tom Sullivan said he alerted his deputies to approach drivers with extra caution when making traffic stops because of the proximity of Holloman Air Force Base, where many of the nation's stealth fighter jets are stationed.

County Manager Tom Stewart, who lived in Washington for eight years and was chief of Western Hemisphere Operations at the Pentagon, said this type of terrorist attack was anticipated for years. Expect more car bombings as a second phase, he warned.

"It's devastating," Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson said from his office at village hall. "I heard it come across the radio and then I was watching television when the second plane hit and was watching when both towers collapsed.

"It's an unfortunate thing that the world has come to the place in history that it is. It's a very sad thing that there are people in the world who would perpetuate these cowardly acts."

Ruidoso Police Chief Lanny Maddox, who was at home watching the events unfold, said, "First we need to find out what terrorist group was the catalyst for this and, second, we have to take care of our own interests. This is too bizarre and I don't think it's over yet."

"We're the strongest nation in the world, but in terms of our defense and intelligence, it's pretty much stopped the nation right now."

Bombs that have yet to explode may be placed in other buildings, he said.

Stewart said he still has many friends at the Pentagon and hopes they escaped without injury.

"I'm just shocked," the manager said. "I hate to say it, but this is the worst case we used to plan for. I know where they hit the Pentagon, however, and it was not the National Military Command Center portion of the building. The Pentagon is right under the path to Reagan International Airport. It plowed into the side away from the military command center. We were always afraid of the planes flying over."

"We knew someday this would come. We just have too many enemies out there."

His old office probably was evacuated right away, he said.

"It's a real tragedy," Stewart said. "I was on the road when I heard it. We set up a TV in the office (in Carrizozo). I was sitting here talking to (finance officer) Jane Williams saying we better watch the other assets and just then the attorney (Alan Morel) called and said the Pentagon had been hit."

Resident sees tower collapse

Part-time Ruidosoan Will Bartlett was at his New York City home, unaware of what was happening until his daughter in Alamogordo called to check on him.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Will Bartlett, who owns a home in Ruidoso, was standing about four blocks from the World Trade Center when the first of the two towers collapsed.

"The dust was so thick, I couldn't breathe," the seasonal resident said Tuesday from his home in New York City. "They pushed everyone further back. The police had handkerchiefs over their faces. The firemen couldn't even take it. When ambulances went by, they kicked up plumes of dust that looked like snow."

Bartlett and a friend didn't realize what was happening about a half mile away from their home at 13th Street and 6th Avenue until his daughter in Alamogordo called to check on them.

"My roommate heard a plane coming over the house earlier," Bartlett said. "I was asleep. She thought it was unusual and the plane shouldn't be flying so low. That must have been the plane coming down 6th Avenue that struck one of the towers."

After his daughter called, Bartlett, 49, went out to his balcony and saw the two towers burning. He went downstairs and walked toward the fire.

"It collapsed as I was on my way," he said of the second tower hit by a jet airplane. "You could see that the fire seemed to have burned all the way around the building and then the weight of the top just pushed everything down."

He described the scene as looking like a war zone, but at times, eerily quiet.

"People weren't calm, they were stunned and crying," he said. "Right after a collapse, there was a lot of screaming and people trying to get further away. It was very frightening. People also began running when they heard there may be a gas leak in one of the buildings next to the center."

Bartlett, who works in the film department at New York University and flew back from Ruidoso two days earlier, said he didn't plan on going anywhere Tuesday because all services and businesses are disrupted.

Will Bartlett
part-time Ruidosoan

"I may donate blood," he said. "People were lined up for four blocks around St. Vincent's Hospital, which is on 12th Street and 7th Avenue, waiting to give blood."

Bartlett was born in Alamogordo and vacationed at a family home in Ruidoso for years before buying his own house about six years ago.

WAR: Attack on U.S. first since Pearl Harbor

commentators struggled to winnow news from rumor, and most carefully tried to label each for what it was.

The unsaid was most terrifying. Nobody knew where the attack came from; nobody knew the number of dead and injured.

Yet, for all the unknowns, it was another moment "that will live in infamy," President Franklin D. Roosevelt used those words on Dec. 8, 1941, to describe the dawn attack on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the day before. Thousands of sailors died on Battleship Row at Ford Island.

And America suddenly, precipitously, was launched into four long years of war.

Those who fought that war, and those youngsters now in their late 60s, still remember that day 59 years ago when the world changed. They remembered where they were, what they were doing. The still can feel the cold surge of fear of the unknown. Go back to 1963, perhaps, when President John F. Kennedy was shot down in Dallas; people remember what they were doing then.

Nothing since has happened to this nation making an equal impact — nothing until Sept.

Not the first World Trade Center bombing in 1993. Not Oklahoma City. Not the Gulf War.

Perhaps, in a sense, the memorable eruption of the nation's youth against the Vietnam War in 1968, when Robert F. Kennedy died, the nation's campuses exploded and the course of history again changed. Not the resignation of President Richard Nixon.

And now the nation faces a crisis it never has felt before.

An unfathomable 21st Century war has erupted in our own land, and on this day, nobody understands it.

Contact lenses and allergy season

Over 22 million Americans suffer from seasonal allergies. If you are one of these, you know the symptoms...red, itchy watery eyes. For contact lens wearers, added discomforts may occur. Soft lenses are most likely to cause irritation for people with allergies because the allergens adhere to lenses during pollen season. Essentially, they function as a sponge and keep allergens in the eye. They also prevent the use of medications that could be applied without contact lenses.

What's a Contact lens wearer to do? Here are a few tips:

Wear your glasses as much as possible. Moistened irritated eyes with artificial tears. Artificial tears help prevent drying and wash allergens out of your eyes. DO NOT use redness relievers. Clean your contact lenses more often and consider using a preservative free solution. Regular cleaning removes allergens from your lenses and using a preservative free cleaning/disinfecting solution will help avoid allergic reactions. If you wear disposable lenses, try replacing them more frequently. When allergy-linked itching begins, do not rub your eyes. Instead of rubbing, place a cool, damp compress over your eyes to reduce itching and swelling. See your eye doctor. There are numerous medical products designed to protect the eyes of allergy sufferers.

We encourage you to stop by Family Vision Center, 159 Mesalero Trail. We carry a complete line of contact lens supplies and accessories such as travel kits, residue-free hand soap, contact lens removers and lens catchers for your sink. take care of your eyes, they're the only ones you'll ever have.

Ruidoso Care Center purchase by local group on track

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A formal proposal for purchase of the Ruidoso Care Center is under consideration by officials with Integrated Health Services Inc.

Charles Dillard, president of the Lincoln County Care Center Inc., a non-profit corporation formed by residents of the community to ensure the continued operation of the center on Resort Drive, said, "Things are looking good here. People are coming in next week to facilitate the sale. It's solid. It's in the hands of the lawyers and executives."

The management firm, based in Owings Mill, Md., a month earlier announced the center — the only facility for Alzheimer's disease and skilled nursing care in Lincoln County — was to close Aug. 31. The state Department of Health filed in district court for the center to be placed in receivership, based on the potential threat to the health and welfare of the patients and the short period of notice.

A hearing on that case set for next week was postponed pending the outcome of negotiations for the sale of the center, Dillard said.

Meanwhile, IHS staff continues to operate the 80-bed center.

The debate over the future of the center started earlier this year when IHS attempted to close two wings, about 50 beds, contending structural problems threatened the building. But the company backed away from that stance after an independent engineer and Ruidoso building inspectors submitted reports deeming the building safe.

IHS also was cited by the state health department's licensing and compliance division for failing to follow regulations on information that must be contained in letters to patients. Specifically, state officials said IHS failed to explain the rights of patients to appeal transfers and the procedure for selecting and inspecting alternate facilities.

Future uncertain for proposed new animal control ordinance governing rural residents

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

An all-inclusive animal control ordinance drafted by Lincoln County Attorney Alan Morel probably faces major cuts before being approved by the County Commission.

During a brief first look last month, Chairman Rex Wilson said he is not inclined to support a requirement for licensing of cats and dogs. "My part of the county wouldn't receive that well at all and it's not enforceable," said Wilson, who represents the largest district in square miles, but in the most rural areas of the county.

"It's not even doable. I claim to own barn cats, but am I going to catch them? The leash law is the same. I can't let them be barn cats if they are leashed."

Morel pointed out that state law requires inoculations for rabies annually once a pet is more than three months old. He said he included the licensing provision because it's a way to generate income to offset the expense of sheltering animals. The ordinance provides that the money collected would go directly into the county's general fund.

Wilson said once the board determines the actual cost of sheltering, it may have to look at alternate sources of revenue, "but we don't know enough yet."

Commissioners are scheduled to consider the ordinance during their meeting Sept. 20 in Carrizozo.

For many years, the county was operating under two very similar ordinances, Morel said. The board rescinded a 1972 law in April. The other, adopted Dec. 9, 1980, still is in effect. It prohibits animals running at large on public property or land owned by others unless they are under direct control of their owners, but impound is triggered by a complaint.

However, the law also provides that an animal may be seized or impounded by a deputy if it is running at large. Impounded animals must be held for 72 hours and then may be disposed of humanely or handled in some other manner.

Under the proposed new law, pets running at large without permission of the land owner must be leashed or under the direct control of the owner or keeper. An animal running at large would be impounded and declared a nuisance or menace to public health and safety. Animal control officers and sheriff's deputies would be authorized to enter private property to capture the dog or cat for impound.

A citation could be voided if the owner of an unneutered dog or cat provided proof that the animal subsequently was neutered within 10 business days from the date of the offense.

However, animals impounded more than four times in a 12-month period wouldn't be released to an owner without the prior written approval of the animal control officer.

Hunting, tracking and working dogs would be exempt in authorized areas and at authorized times.

The ordinance also would require people to notify the owner, animal control officer or sheriff's department within 24 hours, if they retain an animal.

A cruelty section sets the standard for charging a person who recklessly, willfully or maliciously kills, maims, disfigures or tortures an animal, beats it with a stick, chain or other object, mutilates, burns or scalds an animal or torments and harasses it, unless they are trying to drive off a dangerous or trespassing animal.

People who insist on keeping fertile female cats and dogs would be required to keep them in a building, veterinary hospital, boarding kennel or other secure enclosure during the animal's heat.

The ordinance also would prohibit people from leaving animals unattended in vehicles without sufficient ventilation or under conditions that would endanger their health. A violation would be considered cruelty or neglect.

The ordinance also provides that it is illegal to carry an animal in vehicle in a cruel, inhumane or unsafe manner.

A section allows the transportation of horses and livestock in trailers and other vehicles designed and constructed for such purposes.

Other sections deals with:

- Vicious animals
- Guard dogs
- Animal bite incidents
- Horses impounds
- Animals trained to assist the handicap.

Most of the county's village operate under their own animal control laws.

Police stopped a vehicle with no license plate showing Sept. 7 and recognized the occupant as wanted on a warrant with Ruidoso Municipal Court.

During the arrest they discovered less than an ounce of marijuana and charged him with that and a minor allowing self to be served alcohol.

Terrence R. Douglas, 33, of Alamogordo, was arrested Sept. 8 and charged with possession of less than one ounce of marijuana, second offense.

Water OK at Bible Ranch

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Samples taken Friday from the Lone Tree Bible Ranch water supply system came back negative for fecal bacteria.

But as of Tuesday, the state Department of Health had not lifted an order to boil water for the system that serves six full-time residents.

Lisa Brown with the health department said system operator Steve Dirks will sit down with the state public health liaison and an epidemiologist to discuss the condition of the system, the results of the samples and any needed changes before the order will be lifted.

Additional "clean" samples also may be needed.

The order was issued Aug. 31, because fecal bacteria conamination was detected in the water supply. The order affected only the ranch, not Fort Lone Tree or the nearby village of Capitan.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency sets drinking water standards and has determined that the presence of fecal coliforms is a serious health risk. The presence of the bacteria usually is an indication of a problem with the water treatment or pipes that distribute the water.

Often systems are "shocked" with high doses of chlorine as a method of killing the bacteria and cleaning out the system.

Last week, Dirks wrote that he intended to disinfect the well, storage tank, water mains and service lines. The chlorine residual throughout the service area is being monitored.

TO: All of our Edward Jones clients and friends:

Following the tragic events that occurred on Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2001, we thought it was important to contact you. While we realize financial matters are not a top priority at a time like this, we wanted to let you know that we will be on hand to answer any questions or concerns you have about your investments at Edward Jones Investments.

At this time, what we know is that the stock exchanges will be closed until further notice. A statement from the Securities Exchange Commission notified us that they will monitor the situation and trading will resume as soon as it is practical to do so. We do not know the full impact of today's events, but will keep you informed as we learn more. We are maintaining contact with government officials and are monitoring the situation closely.

Sadly, there have been other national tragedies in our past, although arguably none as horrific as the events of September, 11. Thankfully, we live in a country that is resilient. Our thoughts are with the families of those affected and with the country as a whole.

Please don't hesitate to contact me if I can answer any questions or concerns.

OUR OPINION

Pedestrian politics in an upside-down world

From Capitol to courthouse, tension abounds

Even as we wait anxiously for reports on the world scene, of disaster in New York and Washington, our own concerns in other areas will continue.

Among them is politics, pure and simple. Who could expect anything else right now, despite national disaster? Until Tuesday, the Legislature was tripping over itself to protect political turf while somehow managing to conform with federal rules governing redistricting.

The state's legislative Democrats are doing their best to turn out Republican U.S. Rep. Heather Wilson with a Balkanized split of the district that now includes Albuquerque.

They're dancing around their own power bases as they adjust boundaries of House and Senate districts based on the shifting population reflected in the 2000 Census.

The fly in all that ointment, however, is the fact that for the first time since redistricting started 30 years ago, a Republican governor is sitting, his often-used veto pen at the ready.

Redistricting also is in the offing for all the state's county commission districts. The Lincoln County Commission has hired a consultant to come up with a commission district map of contiguous precincts properly balanced according to population, all before the end of 2001. Their challenge, we suspect, is to keep the commission in the hands of the rural minority.

Ruidoso's Commissioner Leo Martinez is looking at a District 2 Congressional race (should Joe Skeen decide not to run).

And suddenly all that seems a bit pedestrian in a world turned topsy-turvy, doesn't it?

IDEA LOBBY

More immigrants, please

WASHINGTON — One of the nation's leading advocates for small businesses, the Small Business Survival Committee, is calling on Congress and the President to act now to loosen immigration policies and increase the number of immigrant workers available to small employers.

"One of the most urgent challenges facing small businesses is the shortage of employees," said SBSC president Darrell McKigney. "The reality is immigrant workers — legal and illegal — are filling vital roles in the economy and many small businesses simply can't survive without them. Unless small businesses can hire enough employees, they'll simply go under."

"Right now, employers are facing the tough choice of either going without enough employees, or running the risk of violating the law. Small business owners don't want to be immigration police, they just want to provide products and services to their customers," McKigney added. "This situation can't continue. President Bush and Congress should act now to increase immigration opportunities."

In a new report on immigration issued this week by SBSC, SBSC chief economist Raymond J. Keating points out:

- Foreign-born workers already provide 12 percent of the total hours worked in this country each week.

- Foreign-born workers are filling the gap created by a lack of native-born workers attracted to low-skill jobs.

- The number of foreign-born college graduates in the labor force has increased by 44 percent since 1994.

- Current immigration levels are in the normal range for U.S. history.

- The American labor force faces a 7 million worker shortfall within seven years.

- Immigrants are important sources of entrepreneurship and job creation.

"Looking ahead, increased immigration will be important to meet future demands for both skilled and unskilled workers, as well as continuing to stoke the entrepreneurial fires that feed U.S. economic growth. The best answer to illegal immigration is to make legal immigration far easier. In the long run, the U.S. should move far closer to a policy of open borders," said Keating.

The Small Business Survival Committee is nonpartisan, non-profit small business advocacy organization with 70,000 members across the nation. A copy of the new SBSC report "A Nation of Immigrants: An Economy of Immigrants" can be accessed at www.sbsc.org.

YOUR OPINION

The 'Hondo Valley of Death' highway

To the editor:

As a Hondo Valley resident, I'm not thrilled about having a four-lane highway in my front yard; however, I must place the safety of the U. S. 70 motorists above my own self-interests.

In the future, I doubt that the highway department will have the resources to properly maintain both a four-lane bypass and a two-lane local highway.

Even with a four-lane bypass, we would still be left with an extremely dangerous two-lane, local road. Keep in mind that some of the opponents of the Parsons-Brinckerhoff recommendation have implied that U. S. 70 has been a dangerous highway from its conception.

No road is totally safe, however, U. S. 70 can be made much safer. Preferably, a four-lane U. S. 70 will have as many turning lanes and eight-foot shoulders as possible. The existing highway has very few of the above.

Some of the U. S. 70 improvement opponents are trying to kill the four-lane project through legal maneuvering and by imposing demands on the highway department that are neither realistic nor affordable.

The vocal opponents aren't speaking for everyone in the Hondo Valley of Death, but then neither am I. Hopefully, we in Lincoln County won't blow this possibly once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to save lives on U. S. 70. Four-lane proponents, please contact your county commissioners and other appropriate officials.

Selfish and blinded

To the editor:

I find it intriguing that most of the people who live in the Hondo Valley are so selfish and blinded by their own desires. I fear to drive on Highway 70 through the Hondo Valley because of the mad dash of insane drivers. Whenever I do drive through the valley, I've noticed that there are more cars than trucks that use the highway. So I don't understand the venomous attitude toward the trucks that use the highway. Since no one has the power to stop people from driving fast, the one thing we can and should do is to widen it to four lanes for the safety of us all.

The Hondo Valley people are interested in their own wants and could care less about the safety of the public. Highway 70 is a public highway, not a private highway. The public who drive on Highway 70 should have the right to a safe drive regardless of what the Hondo Valley people want. All New Mexicans are paying for the use of Highway 70, and we want it safe to drive on.

I could understand the people in the valley being opposed to widening Highway 70 if it were a small country lane. But the reality is that Highway 70 is a (federal) highway that goes to Roswell and on to Texas, which is a thoroughfare from many locations. And much of the traffic through the valley are Texans coming up to Ruidoso, along with Roswell and other eastern New Mexico residents. The reality is that since (it) is a highway with heavy traffic, and a thoroughfare from many locations throughout New Mexico, it makes the most logical sense to widen it to four lanes.

The other route proposed from Ruidoso to Riverside will not in the least stop the heavy traffic. Trucks may use it, and occasional travelers, but the residents of Roswell, Portales, Lubbock and trucks and travelers coming in from the east will still use Highway 70.

If the residents of the Hondo Valley want to keep their precious Highway 70 the way it is, and they win in stopping the four lanes... I suggest pulling up the road between Roswell and the next closest town (Tinnie?) so that U. S. 70 would dead-end at the end of the Hondo Valley. That way it wouldn't be a thoroughfare any longer and it would stop the heavy traffic that now exists, and save many lives.

As an afterthought, I've seen and been in much prettier valleys than the Hondo Valley. It is a pretty valley, but by no means should that prevent us from making the highway a safe one... Truthfully, widening it to four lanes will not take away from the beauty, but can actually enhance it — plus making it an enjoyable drive for everyone. As it is today, it's a deathtrap and a very dangerous road.

From now on, anybody who dies driving through the Hondo Valley, their blood will and should be on the people who protest widening the highway.

Thanks for the help

To the editor:

The purpose of this letter is to offer a public thanks to a few of Ruidoso's citizens who aided my 75-year-old mother. On the morning of Aug. 28, she was taking her morning walk along the path around the golf course. She was knocked to the ground by an unleashed dog. A lady on the path immediately came to her aid. A passing gentleman also assisted.

My mother was, fortunately, able to walk home after her fall. The animal control officer who came by her home was very helpful, and had the dog in custody for identification.

A "well done" to these three helpful persons and thanks also to all the good people who keep their animals fenced or leashed.

No 'nuisance bears'

To the editor:

It's bear time. You cage the orphan cubs, you heal the sick and patch up the injured bears. Then you tag them and send them out into the wild.

They are relocated, along with the "nuisance bears," in a territory unknown to them and most probably already claimed by mature bears who violently resent the young intruders.

The little waifs have no training, no mother to teach them of the ways of bears. Their instincts are marred by having known of man at such a young age. They know our smell, the feel of our hand, the sound of our voice, the sense of our habitat.

They will come back to haunt us.

Then, come September, a horde of hunters will swarm through the forest, proudly sporting guns and gear, and the free-for-all will start with bears in the gunsight. The little ones you thought you had saved will die; it was earmarked from the day you tagged it. What's the point in trying to save a bear with one hand, and insure its demise with the other hand?

I love my bears; there are many on my mountain top. Come September... will I have to say my goodbyes to Marauder, Rusty, Dancer and No-Name the Cub?

There are no nuisance bears, just very dumb and cruel people. If culling becomes necessary for the health of the bear clan, let it be done by experts who monitor the bear population and know where a problem exists. Rangers do not lust to kill.

A real stinker

To the editor:

Manure mismanagement near encampment rampant? Holy noxious noisomeness. Batman, breakout the gas masks. Seems to me the two real stinkers here are:

1. The lack of code enforcement. Isn't there an election on the horizon?
2. The other stink is the "poor pitiful minority" being ganged up on by "retired busybodies." Does this person truly believe her — doesn't stink?

Enough is enough. Either Ms. Rue cleans up her act or the county can clean it up for her and present a bill for services. The choice is hers.

Rep. Williams says Legislature is wasting time on redistricting

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

State Rep. Dub Williams said, after spending a week in Santa Fe, that he's dismayed with the pace and approach of New Mexico's redistricting effort.

"My wife said if she were paying me, (legislators) wouldn't get any pay for last week," the Republican from Glencoe said Monday. "You have to get the feed bill out of the way first, to pay the staff... those folks work for a living."

Williams said a better use of time for most legislators, in his opinion, would have been for them to stay home, except for members of three committees appointed to hear various plans.

Not being productive is frustrating, he said.

"I kind of get a feeling of what it must be like in prison when you have nothing to do and yet know you have a lot to do. If we don't make any more progress than last week, I won't be home until I'm an old man," the retired teacher and coach said.

Williams said proposals he's seen that affect his District 66 range from removing all of Lincoln County except Ruidoso to leaving the district about the same, but adding more from Otero County. His district now covers all of Lincoln County, southwest Chaves County and northern Otero County.

"Some of the maps I've seen might affect us negatively," he said. "I'd like to keep it the way it is, but that's not going to happen. We know better than that."

"We have 19 bills on the house side, all kind of concepts about what needs to happen."

He's also seen plans under which Sen. Pete Campos, the Democrat from Las Vegas, would no longer represent Lincoln County, Williams said. Campos' district now includes San Miguel, Guadalupe, DeBaca and Lincoln counties.

In both the Senate and the House, redistricting bills submitted by Democrats will outnumber those by Republicans, he said.

"In the last election, 49.4 percent of the voters in New Mexico voted Republican, giving the Democrats most of the 50.6 percent remaining," Williams said. "That's very close in a football game or an election. What we're striving for is to get to the point where we would have that kind of representation throughout the state of New Mexico."

"That would give us an opportunity to get more Republicans on the House and Senate side of the Legislature. In my mind, that's the reasonable thing."

But many of the plans don't go there, he said.

On the House side of the state Legislature, eight bills came from the Democrats and two from Republicans. On the Senate side, the count was seven Democratic plans to two Republican. "One of the things (Democrats) would like to do is change Heather Wilson's district in such a way that they would have an advantage," Williams said of the Republican District 1 congresswoman.

"I think she's done a marvelous job."

Ruidoso runs over Socorro in blowout win

■ The local Warriors beat their namesakes in Friday's 43-14 road victory.

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Coming in, Socorro and Ruidoso seemed to be headed in different directions. That image held up during the Ruidoso Warriors 43-14 victory over the Socorro Warriors Friday night. Ruidoso had overcome a 28-14 loss that featured nine Warrior turnovers in its season opener to defeat a bigger El Paso-Montwood team Aug. 31. Socorro took a blowout victory in its opener, only to lose 14-13 to Belen Aug.

31. The Ruidoso Warriors furthered Socorro's woes with hard running and stifling defense, as Socorro was held to just one TD against the first-string defense. Ruidoso quarterback Josh Adams was the focus of the Socorro defensive attack, which opened up the ground game for Warrior running backs Brandon Brumlow and Jose Linares. Brumlow had more than 130 yards on the ground before he sprained an ankle in the second quarter. He did not return, but head coach Les Carter said he would be ready for next week. Linares picked up nearly 60 yards after Brumlow left.

"They had the idea they had to shut down the quarterback," Carter said. "That opened up the fullback." While Ruidoso's passing game was limited, it was also effective. The Warriors attempted six throws, two of which went for touchdowns. "We are seeing good things every week," Carter said. "... We are getting more comfortable and getting some momentum." After enjoying a 28-7 lead, Ruidoso built up its advantage and began substituting in its second-string defense late in the third quarter. That unit gave up Socorro's final touchdown. The offense continued its smooth production, turning the ball over just once. Carter said there were no problems with the center-quarterback exchange, something that plagued the Warriors in their season opener. The problem seemed to be solved against Montwood, when Ruidoso changed centers and committed no turnovers. Carter said he was pleased with the overall effort the Warriors showed in their first road win of the year. "I think the big thing is that the boys are playing as a team," Carter said. "... We're continuing to show a lot of effort and determination." Ruidoso is back home Friday for a game against the Artesia Bulldogs at 7 p.m.

Capitan racks up yards; scoring low

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The Capitan High School football team rolled up a lot of yards Friday in its win over Faith Christian. It just didn't score a lot of points in the 30-20 victory. Senior Chance van Winkle racked up 226 yards on 21 carries alone, as the offense totaled 500 yards. Sophomore Andrew Armendariz added 173 yards on 25 runs. Still, Capitan head coach Ed Davis saw a lot of room for improvement on both sides of the ball. "When you have that many yards of offense, you should win handily. Which we didn't do," he said. The Tiger defense played better, in Davis' view, but was not without mistakes. The secondary gave up two long TD passes that let to the somewhat close final score. Capitan's margin of victory would have been larger, but it had a pair of turnovers deep in Faith Christian territory and saw one TD called back on a penalty. "It's an improvement," Davis said. "... We're nowhere near our peak yet." The Tigers next game is against top-ranked Hagerman at home. Homecoming has been switched to Sept. 28 versus Escalante.

Dell City 62, Mescalero 38 Chiefs unable to keep with Dell City offense

■ Another strong game from Mescalero's Raymond Bignmouth couldn't save the Chiefs.

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Mescalero's Raymond Bignmouth rushed for 188 yards, with another 103 through the air, and scored four touchdowns, but it was not nearly enough, as the Chiefs lost to Dell City, Texas, 62-38. "Our offense wasn't able to execute as well as we would like to," Chief coach Rodney Wright said. Despite scoring on the second play from scrimmage, Mescalero managed only 12 points in the first half, while Dell City charged out to a 22-12 halftime lead. Things didn't get much better in the second half, as the Chiefs gave up 20 points in the third and fourth quarters. Wright said his team's tackling left something to be desired, although the Chiefs are usually in good positions defensively. The coach added that there wasn't much comparison between Dell City and Reserve, Mescalero's previous opponent. "Dell City was a much better football team than Reserve," he said. The Chiefs now have an open week before facing Pine Hill at home Sept. 22. Wright said he will have his team focus on fundamentals, like tackling, during the off week before preparing for the Warriors.

Grizzlies get their first win of the year, 50-0 over Reserve

BY TODD BUTTS
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Carrizozo Grizzlies (1-1) hosted the Reserve Mountaineers (0-2) Friday night in a game where the Grizzlies showed much improvement and won by the 45-point mercy rule. The Grizzlies' entire game plan worked like a well oiled machine. The offense and defense were firing on all cylinders as they dismantled the Mountaineers 50-0. "Defensively, we played a little smarter than we did last week. We played more like a team this week," said the Grizzlies coach Pat Ventura. "Last week we were a little scattered." The game got out of reach early. After forcing a punt, Carrizozo moved the ball easily to the 5-yard line. Grizzly quarterback Lane Dixon then tossed the ball to senior tight end Abel Avila in the end zone, giving the Grizzlies a 22-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. Zozo scored early and often. The Grizzlies received the opening kickoff and marched down the field with strong running by sophomore Brent Dixon. Senior Levi Boble then punched the ball six yards up the middle for an early 8-

0 lead. The Grizzlies taught the Mountaineers their next lesson on defense. On the first play of the ensuing series, Mountaineer quarterback Cody Tibet, pressured by Boble, threw the ball away and into the waiting arms Carrizozo's Lane Dixon for the interception. The Grizzlies wasted no time in taking advantage of the turnover. More open-field running by Brent Dixon gave the Grizzlies a 16-0 lead after the extra point. The Grizzly offense continued working together as a team in the second quarter. Breaking tackles Brent Dixon gave the Grizzlies a 28-0 lead early in the second quarter. The Grizzly defense once again shut down any offense for the Mountaineers and took over the ball on downs on the 22-yard line. Lane Dixon and Avila hooked up with a pass to the 3. Brent Dixon then took the pitch and walked into the end zone untouched. The Grizzlies converted the extra point to take a commanding 36-0 lead. But the ensuing kickoff looked like it would end the shutout. Mountaineer Jason Evans See 'Z020, page 3B

Warrior volleyball team starts off strong, but can't finish in Roswell's Zia Tournament

BY TODD BUTTS
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Ruidoso Warriors volleyball team traveled to Roswell Sept. 7 and 8 to participate in the Roswell Zia Volleyball Tournament. Sixteen teams showed up to see who would come out on top. The teams were separated into four different pools to determine how they would be seeded in the brackets. Pool play consisted of each team playing two games with each of the other teams in their pool. The top two teams in each pool were seeded in the championship bracket and the third and fourth place teams seeded in the consolation bracket.

The Warriors did very well in their pool. Ruidoso was seeded No. 1 in their respective pool, moving on to the championship bracket. Santa Fe came in second and Clovis third, with Cobre fourth in pool play. "We played very well yesterday in pool play to come out first in our pool," said Warrior coach Albert Ronquillo. "We lost our intensity. We let too many balls hit the floor. Missed too many serves. We're not getting enough touches on the blocks. All that stuff is things we can work on and fix." The top two teams from each of the four pools moved on to the championship bracket.

The championship bracket in the traditional three-out-of-five-games style. There were no eliminations. Ruidoso faced off against the Deming Wildcats in the first round of the championship bracket. The Warriors had Deming down 13-2 in the first game of the match. The Warriors lost their focus and let Deming come back and win the first game. The Wildcats took the next two games to defeat Ruidoso. The next opponent was Moriarty with the Warriors taking the first game. According to Warrior coach Ronquillo said the next two games with Moriarty could have gone either way. They could not get over the hump losing in four games to Moriarty. The Warriors next took on the Santa Fe Demons (2-3). In very close games The Warriors fell 15-10, 16-14, 15-13. Ruidoso finished eighth in the championship bracket with an 0-3 record. "We were pleased with this tournament. The girls really kind of came together in this tournament," said Santa Fe coach Mike Thompson. "The Ruidoso girls work hard. I wish Ruidoso all the luck." The Warriors volleyball team will travel to Artesia Sept. 18, just two weeks after Ruidoso beat the Bulldogs at home.

Fishing report for Ruidoso as of Sept. 12, 2001

Ruidoso River - It has been over a month since the river was last stocked with trout. The fishing on the river has slowed nearly to a halt. With the water at just 2 CFS and the lack of stocked trout, you can pretty well figure this one out. As stated the last few weeks, nymph fishing is what's happening on the river. Large trout are abundant in the river now. Worms are declining, and Scuds are increasing in the waters. The trout continue having success with Humpy or other dry fly as a strike indicator and using a dropper. The dry fly was tied on 12 inches above the dropper.

South Fork - One still needs to hike a ways up the stream to find fish. A ways of two or three miles upstream. Once found, the fish are healthy and hungry. The fish here are not fussy. Caddis dry flies and small nymphs of just about any pattern will work here.

Bozito Lake - The lake waters are getting on the low side and to add to the low water, the lake has taken on a green coloration due to a large algae bloom. Over 1,000 Humpies were stocked last week. The fly patterns that have been working are Humpies, Dark Hendricksons, and Parachute Adams flies have been consistent producers before dark on the main lake. A damselfly nymph tied as a dropper behind your dry fly offering may bring an unexpected take. For the spin cast fishermen, try a hot pink, renegade spinner propeller fly or a black with grizzly hackle propeller fly behind a bubble.

Eagle Lakes - Eagle Lakes will close for the year on Sept. 16. If you want to check daily activity on Eagle Lakes call 336 4668 for the latest. The day fee has gone up to $10/day/person. Reason given is that, since the fish hatchery in Mesquite in closed, costs of transporting fish from as far away as Arizona have to be covered. Damselfly patterns have been working along with Black Humpy's, Parachute Adams, and Blue Wing Olives. Grindstone: The surface water temperature is still high but are dropping fast due to the cool fronts passing through. Float tubers continue reporting doing well by tossing a sinking tip line and stripping a dark wooly bugger with some flash or a streamer 8 to 10 ft deep. Float tubing will end Oct. 31, so plan your last few trips now. Damselfly and Dragon fly imitations have been working well. For spin casters, tie on an Olive or Black propeller fly behind a bubble rig and enjoy catching fish. Please remember to squeeze the barbs down on all hooks; this will reduce injury to any fish caught and returned to the water.

Lake Mesquite: The lake level is quite low, but is fishing well. Dark wooly buggers continue to take fish late in the day. A few folks have been successful with Parachute Adams, Mosquito, or Hendrickson patterns and casting to rising fish. Remember to get your day pass at the front desk.

Please practice Catch and Release whenever and whenever you can. We have moved our local shop - New address is 2501 Suddarth Dr. - Come see us for daily fishing information. Check out our improved and expanded website for community information.

Soccer boys still learning on field

A Ruidoso Warrior, left, fights to keep the ball away from his opponent from Moriarty. The Warriors stuck with the Pintos much of the game, but ended up losing 5-1 in Thursday's home match. Ruidoso next heads to Santa Teresa Saturday.

■ The Warriors looked good early, but eventually couldn't stay with visiting Moriarty, losing 5-1.

The Ruidoso Warriors boys soccer team showed some promise before letting their game against the Moriarty Pintos (1-3) get away Thursday. The Warriors lost to the Pintos 5-1 in a game played in Ruidoso.

"We played them real even the first half. We just kind of let down the second half," said Warrior coach John Kluthe. "I think we will continue to improve. We will continue to work on it in practice."

The Warriors held their own in the first half of the game, keeping the Pintos within striking distance. The Pintos did manage to knock home the game's first two goals halfway through the first half.

The bright spot for the Ruidoso offense came with 16 minutes left in the first half, when Logan Flaherty hit a long goal from the right corner of the field to make the score 2-1.

But the second half was all Pintos, as the defense for the Warriors slowly broke down. They allowed the Pintos to pull away and take a 5-1 victory.

"Our soccer play was a little sketchy," said Pinto coach Jeff Eschenburg. "I think our conditioning is what won us this game. It seemed like Ruidoso just kind of tired out at the end."

Grizzly v-ball squad strong versus NMMI

BY TODD BUTTS
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Carrizozo Grizzlies stepped up Thursday when they took on the Class 3A New Mexico Military Institute Colts. The Grizzlies continue to improve as they won in four games against the Colts.

"We did a better job of serving and passing the ball," said Carrizozo coach Bill MacVeigh. "I was proud of the girls. We bounced back and improved."

The Grizzlies jumped out and took the first two games, 15-9 and 15-7.

The Colts then came back and won the third game, 15-6. But the Grizzlies finished off the match, 15-8 in fourth.

Lacey Burd and Ariel Vallejos played some sharp defense for Zozo, getting some blocks and digs to help the team take the win over NMMI. It was definitely a team effort with Monique Jiron coming off the bench with some key spikes to finish off NMMI.

The Grizzlies will be traveling to Dexter to compete in the Roadrunner Volleyball Tournament Sept. 13 and 15.

Many pro, college sports slates cancelled or postponed in wake of eastern attacks

Tuesday's attacks in the eastern United States had effects in the sports world as well, as Major League Baseball called off all 15 of its scheduled games.

Aside from work stoppages, it was the first time since D-Day in 1944 that baseball wiped out an entire day of regular-season play.

It was only the third time the major leagues postponed an entire day's schedule, aside from labor strife or weather.

The others were Aug. 2, 1923, when President Warren G. Harding died; June 6, 1944, when Allied forces invaded France in World War II. Exhibition games were called off on April 14, 1945, two days after the death of President Roosevelt.

Race tracks around the nation called off their cards and the NFL, criticized for playing after President Kennedy's assassination in 1963, had not yet made a decision on this week's games.

College football commissioners are considering postponing this weekend's entire schedule of games.

Sports events canceled or postponed because of Tuesday's terrorist attacks included:

Baseball: All 15 major league games. All minor league baseball games scheduled for Tuesday.

College: UCLA and USC postponed all athletic events through the weekend, except Saturday night's Arizona State-UCLA football game. Several college volleyball games were also postponed.

Golf: PGA Tour canceled Thursday's starts of the World Golf Championship and two other tournaments.

Horse Racing: All live racing around the country. Calder Race Course, Laurel Park and Pimlico Race Course closed at least through Wednesday.

Soccer: U.S. Women's Cup doubleheader scheduled for Tuesday, U.S. vs. Japan, Germany vs. China. Four Major League Soccer games scheduled for Wednesday.

'ZOZO: Grizzlies notch 1st win of year over Reserve

took the kick and looked like he was going to go all the way. But Lane Dixon chased him to the 1-yard line and forced a fumble that went through the end zone for a touchback.

Zozo sustained the next drive, and a reverse to Lane Dixon to put the Grizzlies up 44-0 at the end of the first half.

The Mountaineers received the kickoff to start the third quarter. Once again, it looked like special teams for Reserve was going to put points on the board. Mountaineer freshman Brad Harrison ran the kickoff all the way down the field, but a clipping penalty brought the ball back to the 10-yard line.

After a punt, both teams turned the ball over on their next series of plays.

After the Grizzlies got the ball back, they converted a touchdown pass on the first play. The score meant the end of the game, as Carrizozo won by the 45-point mercy rule with a little more than four minutes left in the third quarter.

"We could have blocked somebody and tickled somebody. We dropped the ball on a touchdown and a clip down here. We did a lot of things wrong and not much right," said Mountaineer coach Cliff Snyder. "I've got a lot to learn. All we can do is keep trying."

The Grizzlies will visit the Tatum Coyotes Sept. 14.

Aggies nearly upset Beavers; UNM hurt on special teams

■ Oregon State continued to struggle, but the Aggies couldn't take advantage Saturday.

New Mexico State played its closest game of the season in its home opener, but it still wasn't enough as the Aggies fell to the Oregon State Beavers (No. 22 AP), 27-22.

Oregon State got the win, but the Beavers still don't look like the team that finished last season as one of the best in the country.

Ken Simonton scored two touchdowns and ran for 169 yards as Oregon State bounced back from a season-opening loss Saturday night.

The Beavers (1-1) lost 44-24 to Fresno State (No. 11 AP) Sept. 2 and didn't put away the Aggies (0-3) until Mitch Meeuwsen recovered an onside kick with 1:26 left.

Coach Dennis Erickson had trouble explaining the slow start, but said defense is one area of concern.

"We don't know what's wrong with our D," a noticeably frustrated Erickson said. "We need to look at the film and evaluate what went wrong. They battered at us really well but we held on."

Simonton said he didn't care about the final score.

"A win is a win, no matter how you get it," he said.

New Mexico State coach Tony Samuel and his players found no satisfaction in the close loss.

"We played well, but the last time I checked we're trying to win games and that's the bottom line," Samuel said. "They did a good job of misdirection and slowing down our running attack and forced us to throw the ball."

"It's not a time to talk about moral victories," said defensive back Sideeq Shabazz, who had 19 tackles and blocked a field-goal attempt. "We should have won that game and there is no consolation in staying close."

Kenton Keith's 2-yard run and a 31-yard pass from K.C. Enzinger to Manwell Talbert, both in the fourth quarter, rallied the Aggies from a 24-9 deficit. Keith's score was set up by a pass-interference call on Oregon State's D.J. Coote in the end zone on a fourth-and-18 play.

The Aggies, playing their only home game during the first seven weeks of the season, cut it to 14-9 at halftime on a 26-yard field goal by Dario Aguinaga and Keith's 1-yard run.

After Aguinaga's field goal, New Mexico State's Tyrone Gifford intercepted Jonathan Smith's pass at the Aggies 43. From there, Enzinger and tailback Walter Taylor picked apart the Oregon State defense with option plays.

Texas Tech 42, UNM 30

Just when it looked like the New Mexico Lobos had a shot to steal a victory, Texas Tech stole it right back.

Red Raider freshman Ivory McCann took a kickoff 8 yards deep in the end zone and sprinted untouched down the field as Texas Tech beat New Mexico 42-30 in its season opener Saturday night.

Officially, it was only 100 yards. And it was the end for the Lobos (1-1), who had just converted a botched punt snap into a 21-yard field goal by Vladimir Borombozin to get within 21-17.

"I thought we were in the game until the kickoff return," said New Mexico coach Rocky Long. "It had been a heck of a game until then."

After an earlier return, McCann had asked coach Mike Leach how deep was too deep to bring it out of the end zone. The coach had said 4 yards.

"Ivory made a great play. He brought it back and that was huge," Tech coach Mike Leach said.

The Lobos then went four straight possessions without a first down before Kliff Kingsbury hit Ricky Williams on a screen pass that turned into a 32-yard TD with 12:50 left.

Paul McClendon's 54-yard fumble return gave Tech a 42-17 lead before New Mexico scored twice in the final 3:25.

Kingsbury completed 30 of 49 passes for 364 yards with two interceptions. Nehemiah Glover had nine catches for 102 yards, while tailback Williams, who also ran for 55 yards on 14 carries, caught seven passes for 89 yards.

Tech outgained New Mexico 426 total yards to 332. The Lobos got 166 of their yards on the last two TD drives.

Kingsbury had 265 yards by halftime and put Tech ahead to stay with two touchdowns in less than two minutes midway through the second quarter.

"They've got a good quarterback who did a great job of getting the ball in their hands," Long said.

Jarrod Baxter had his second straight 100-yard game for New Mexico, with 23 carries for 106 yards and two TDs — the last a 4-yarder with 3:25 left. Rudy Caamano, who was 11-of-24 passing for 122 yards, found RaShaun Sanders wide open for a 15-yard TD with 51 seconds left.

New Mexico had a 7-3 lead when Baxter scored on a 3-yard run just two plays after Stephen Persley blocked a punt late in the first quarter.

Caamano scored on a 5-yard keeper, on the fourth play after an interception by Gary Davis, to get New Mexico within 21-14 just before halftime.

EDUCATION BRIEFS

ACT registration soon

College-bound high school students who need to take an entrance exam have two chances to register for the ACT before the Oct. 27 test date.

The postmark registration deadline is Friday, Sept. 21. The late registration deadline is Oct. 5 (an additional fee is required for late registration). Students can get information from their school counselors, or preregister online at www.act.org.

ACT scores are accepted by virtually all colleges in the nation, including all Ivy League schools. The test fee is $24 ($27 in Florida). A student's ACT scores are considered by colleges, along with several other important factors, for admissions and course placement. Other facts include high school GPA, college prep courses taken in high school, extracurricular activities, personal background and other information.

ACT's Web site has information such as test locations, sample tests and the capability to order test prep materials. The ACT is given nationwide and is taken by more than 1 million high school graduates each year.

Seniors who have already taken the ACT can take it again and try for a higher score. Juniors and sophomores can take the exam and use their scores to examine academic weakness, take courses to correct those weaknesses and retake the exam at a later date.

Old steam engine intrigues Capitan engineering student

LAS CRUCES — Reconditioning of a turn-of-the-century steam engine this summer was a fascinating look back in time, said Taylor Smith of Capitan, a sophomore mechanical engineering technology student at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

The reconditioned engine, a 30-horsepower Murray Standard Corliss stationary steam engine that once produced power and heat on the New Mexico State campus, has been placed on display on the university's Frenger Mall, across from Engineering Complex III.

"We're all engineering students. We're all interested in machines. It was interesting to look back in history this way," Smith said.

Nine other students were involved in the project. The engine was bought in 1912 and installed in the college's old engineering building in 1914. It is believed to have provided power for the mechanical shop and possibly to heat other buildings, wrote David J. Embry, a graduate student in industrial engineering from Farmington, who compiled a history of the engine for the project.

Louis Kleins, former head of the university's engineering technology department, recalls using the engine as the subject of experiments as late as the 1950s, Embry added. When the old engineering building was razed in 1960, the engine was scrapped. Broken into several pieces, it was moved from place to place on campus over the next 41 years, said Anthony Hyde, associate professor of engineering technology and head of New Mexico State's manufacturing technology and engineering center.

In May, when College of Engineering Dean Jay Jordan asked that the engine be reconditioned and placed on display, the work required repairing decades of neglect and exposure to the elements, Hyde said.

Most of the work was done in the engineering department's student projects center, but the physics department's glass shop cut and ground glass cylinders, the Physical Science Lab's metal-plating department nickel-plated some worn parts, and the Office of Facilities and Services' masonry shop sandblasted parts that had become encrusted with rust, old paint and old grease.

Because none of the students nor any of their professors had ever seen a steam engine of this type in action, in June, Hyde and six of the group visited the Antique Gas and Steam Engine Museum in Vista, Calif., which has two working Corliss steam engines. They took photographs of parts that were missing from New Mexico State's engine.

Back in Las Cruces, Herbon and Wes Eaton modeled the missing parts on a computer, using the pictures taken in California, pictures from books and photographs from university archives, then made them in the student projects center.

"It's interesting to compare (cars) to a mechanism from 100 years ago," Herbon said. "It doesn't have a quarter of the parts a car engine does. The simplicity of it, the small number of parts used to get the motion they wanted, is neat."

Facilitator Lynne Silverstein

■ For the first time ever, all three of Ruidoso's Kennedy Center Partners in Education are participating in a project, in this instance to teach teachers about

Using art in education

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Five artists or arts educators will be chosen to learn more about teaching teachers how to integrate the arts into the school curriculum at a two-day seminar and workshop in Las Cruces Nov. 15 and 16.

The New Mexico Kennedy Center Partners in Education of Ruidoso, Las Cruces and Silver City will offer a hands-on seminar, "Artists as Educators: Planning Effective Workshops for Teachers" to five people from each city to help them develop a workshop plan for professional development workshops for teachers, said Margaret Lahey, education outreach coordinator for the Spencer Theater for the Performing Arts, one of the three organizations participating in the Ruidoso Partners in Education.

Besides the Spencer Theater, the Ruidoso Municipal School District and the Hubbard Museum of the American West are part of the Ruidoso partnership. (The partnership and Region IX Education Cooperative offered a full-day inservice called "Teaching for the Arts" in February of 2000 for certified teaching personnel in Ruidoso and representatives from the other Region IX schools.)

Lahey said the two-day seminar will help artists-educators "develop their ideas into a proposal for a workshop which will incorporate some of the elements of their art form into teaching methods and tools for different curricula, for example, how to use drama to help teach literature."

Paul Wirth, the Kennedy partner from the Ruidoso schools, said once the 15 people complete the training, they can give workshops in the schools.

"We'll need to find out what topics they've developed, then we'll allow our teachers to plan at their sites which local artists would be appropriate to meet curriculum goals," Wirth said.

The facilitator of the seminar will be Lynne Silverstein, senior program consultant to the Education Department of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Silverstein directed the development of this seminar as an outgrowth of her work with the workshop series for teachers. She designed the Kennedy Center's program promoting partnerships between performing arts centers and school (which began in 1991, although the Ruidoso partnership did not form until 1999). She develops and designs arts-integrated curriculum resources for schools.

Part of the seminar includes a three-hour workshop with the artists in the role of teachers.

Kimberli Boyd, "one of the best workshop leaders," according to Lahey, will lead the workshop. Boyd is a dancer, performing artist and artist educator, founding artistic director of Dancing Between the Lines, a solo performance company and arts-as-education organization. She has performed with Lee Harper and Dancers in Atlanta, Ga., and as a member of CM and Co. with Celeste Miller, and appeared in the works of Peggy Lyman, Antony Morgan, Dorothy Vislocky, David Dorfman, and others. Boyd tours as a workshop presenter for the Kennedy Center's education department.

"We're looking for people who are not only artists, but who have actually worked with teachers and who have worked with children," Lahey said. "We're looking for people who have a strong respect for teaching and are motivated to try to find ways to help teachers."

Participants will learn how to plan, present and evaluate workshops for teachers, recognize aspects of their art work they can teach to teachers and begin a proposal for a workshop for teachers.

Lahey said information on the workshop proposals developed would be distributed in "Class Acts," the newsletter going out to the schools about Spencer

Kimberli Boyd, dancer, performing artist and artist educator, will lead the artists-as-educators workshop.

Theater's educational outreach performances. She said participants might be invited anywhere in the state or country to give professional development inservices for teachers.

"This is kind of opening the door, and the sky's the limit as to what each artist or arts educator can do," she said. "If they have something exciting and relevant, they might be invited back by schools to do residencies."

Selections of the five to attend the seminar will be made about Oct. 8 and all applicants will be informed. The selection committee will include Lahey; Paul Wirth, associate superintendent and high school principal of the Ruidoso schools; representatives of the Hubbard Museum; Mary Lea Lane, Ruidoso Arts Commission coordinator; and possibly Dan Hood, former choir director with the school district and former Kennedy partner for the school district.

Writers, painters, dancers, musicians, film-makers or any other artists are welcome to apply, Lahey said, as a good distribution across the arts is desirable; however, the committee will be looking for the five people in the Ruidoso area "most likely to end up with the best type of workshop product — somebody who has applicable experience and a history for carrying things through."

The registration fee for the seminar and workshop is $200, but the New Mexico partners will underwrite $100 and will provide lodging and meals for out-of-town participants, and an additional $50 will be refunded to those who successfully complete the training, Lahey said.

The deadline for applications to be received is Oct. 1. To receive an application, contact Lahey at 336-0017.

"This is a first, all three New Mexico partners working together for the first time and it paves the way for future projects," Lahey said.

Living in a "horse" community, when I recently read the massacre of 34 wild horses and resulting legislation enacted in Nevada, I decided many local readers would be interested in the topic.

In the fall edition of "Animal Watch," the publication of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, author Gail Conners wrote about an April 5 ruling by the Nevada Supreme Court bringing additional charges against three defendants in the December 1998 Storey County massacre.

Local citizens joined together after the cruel killings and pushed for a legacy for the slain horses in the form of Nevada Senate Bill 396, which took effect Oct. 1, 1999.

As Conners details, the measure was sponsored by State Senators Dina Titus, a Democrat, and Randolph Townsend, a Republican, and stipulates that the killing of a wild or "stray" horse in Nevada is a felony.

Although wild horses on public lands managed by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management are protected by the 1971 Wild Horse and Burro Act, estrays living on private land, such as those killed in Storey County, were not. The bill fills in that gap, Conners wrote.

The citizens group, called the Virginia Range Wildlife Protection Association rallied against "mustanging," the illegal acquisition of free-roaming horses for personal profit. These horses often are sold for slaughter and export in the horse meat trade, Conners wrote.

After the dead horses were discovered in 1998. Wild Horse Spirit, a nonprofit volunteer group that rescues injured and jeopardized mustangs was called, but was unable to save one filly who still clinging to life.

The group worked with the Storey County district attorney's office to organize a reward fund.

Eventually, three young men in their 20s were charged with several offenses including felony counts. But the three got off with one gross misdemeanor charge each because the horse's value wasn't high enough.

Conners wrote that in response to an appeal filed by the state, last April, the Nevada Supreme Court allowed prosecutors to file seven additional gross misdemeanor charges per defendant.

While two of the men were discharged from the U.S. Marine Corps as a result of the alleged shootings.

While waiting for the new trial to begin Jan. 7, 2002, all three are free.

Authorities in Nevada say two or three horse shootings are investigated a year, but it's difficult to find evidence. In Nevada, about 25,000 wild horses are managed by the BLM and about 1,200 stray horses are in the Storey County's Virginia Range.

They hope stiffer fines provided in the new bill will be a deterrent for shootings in the future and delivers the message that the state is serious about animal abuse.
