County seeks proposals for Hondo clinic

■ Facility must go out for competitive bids in order to qualify for tax levy money, state agency says

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Hondo Valley Health Clinic, opened last year, will continue to operate while Lincoln County seeks requests for proposals to provide health care services there.

County Commissioners Thursday decided to move ahead on a separate request for proposals for the operation of the health clinic on property owned by the Hondo School District, but open to the entire community.

To be eligible for proceeds from a special property tax levy, the Hondo Health Clinic must seek competitive proposals for health care services, according to the local government division of the state Department of Finance and Administration.

Currently, the clinic is managed by La Casa de Buena Salud, based in Roswell, under a contract with a community health care advisory board appointed by the Hondo School Board.

"The DFA will not approve the joint powers agreement between the county and the Hondo School Board because the clinic contract was an agreement between the Hondo Valley Community Health Care Advisory Council, which is not a government entity, and La Casa," said County Attorney Alan Morel. "They also say the $1 per year lease figure is not acceptable."

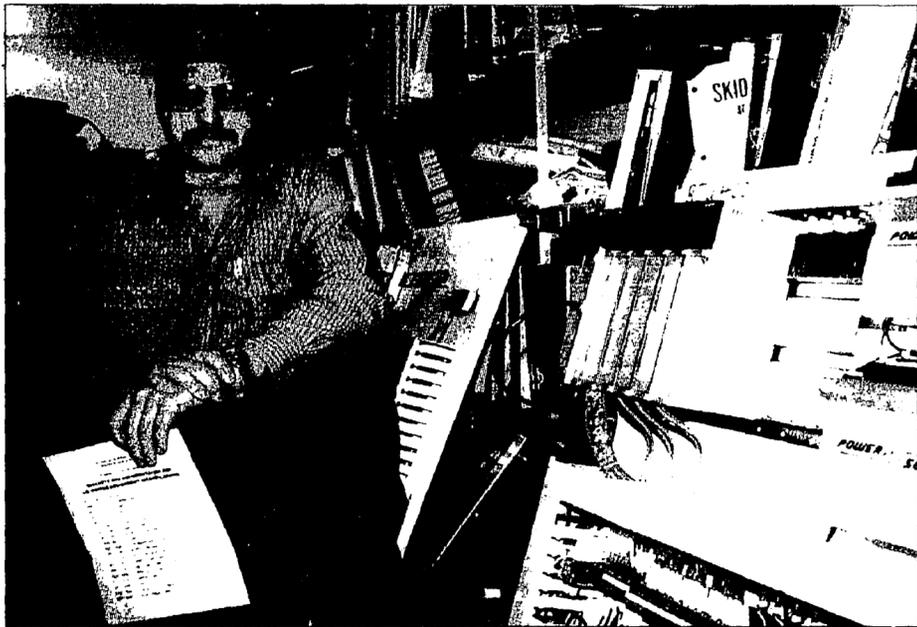

Until those problems are resolved, the county can't give $180,000 in a special property tax levy to the clinic, he said.

Morel said the state agency suggested three ways of handling the situation.

- The county could buy equipment with the tax money and allow the clinic to use it, but the clinic needs the money for operational expenses.

- The Hondo School District could lease the clinic and manage it, but that board's attorney says it's not legal for a school district to operate a countywide clinic - and it must be open countywide to use the tax money.

- Or the current lease and management agreement could be terminated. The school district could lease the clinic to the county and the county could ask for RFPs to lease and manage the clinic.

Village wires water system with high-tech electronics

Remote control

BY JAMES KALVELAGE

Ruidoso officials are working to put the village water system on remote control with a high-tech system that can — among other things — give them instant information.

Scada, the acronym for "supervisory control and data acquisition," will use radio transmitters, remote equipment and computer equipment to keep tabs on all aspects of the water system.

"It's a project that takes remote locations, an example might be a water storage tank, and controls and monitors the location," said Dennis Brand, the project manager with the engineering firm Wilson and Company.

"A computer at the water shop or at a plant will be seeing what's happening elsewhere," Brand said.

He said the system will monitor an array of things along Ruidoso's complex water system.

As an example, Brand said the large tanks in Alto will be monitored for the depth of water in storage. Scada will also be able to open and close valves and turn pumps on and off.

"It will save a person from traveling around ad infinitum, checking levels and other things as they do now," Brand said. "It will save someone from having to go to the Hollywood well and turn a booster on. It will save someone having to go and see if a treatment plant is working right."

The computerized equipment arrived Monday at Carl Kelley Construction, the Ruidoso firm installing the devices.

"They'll be able to turn water pumps on and off and even monitor the quality of the water coming from the treatment plant at Grindstone (Reservoir)," said Drew Kelley, a co-owner of the construction firm.

The system will be continuously monitored at a computer terminal. And a water department official could even get a 2 a.m. phone call at home alerting the official of a problem somewhere.

Kelley said April 9 is scheduled as a date to start up Scada and train water department staff.

"Eventually it would also be used for the sewer system," Kelley said. "This is just the first step of many things on the system."

Brand said giving the water department complete control of the system was the justification for advancing the Scada system.

He noted a quick study showed the water department is using 16 man-days per week for running around to the numerous locations with storage tanks, pumps and other equipment to check operations.

The engineer said the Scada will not eliminate the need for physical checks but will dramatically reduce the labor.

"It will save a person from traveling around ad infinitum, checking levels and other things as they do now."

Board wants more info on store proposal

■ Convenience store with gas pumps, car wash would be at Highway 48 and Ski Run Road

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

More information is needed before members of the Extraterritorial Zoning Commission can take action on an application for gas pumps, a convenience store and car wash proposed for the corner of Ski Run Road and State Highway 48.

Engineer John Shaw and real estate agent Bill Hirschfeld Monday asked for a list of items needed so that the project by Brewer Oil based in Artesia can be approved next month.

It wasn't an easy task. Joseph Patoskie, director of planning and zoning for the village of Ruidoso, and his staff said they received bits and pieces of data on the application and had hurried to get it on this month's agenda, but still were scrambling to figure out what else is required.

Board member Frank Higgins said he'd prefer that the side of the property facing the highway be landscaped with entry from the side road, and that the sign not be too intrusive because the complex will be one of the first things people coming into Ruidoso from the north will see.

But member Reynaldo Valcarcel and chairman Glen Barrow said they see problems with traffic flow under that scenario. If someone tries to turn in during late afternoon when cars are coming down from Ski Apache, traffic may back up in the northbound lane of Highway 48, they said.

Attorney Charles Rennick, who advises the board, said the ET ordinance does not govern signage, but state law dictates the type of lighting allowed.

No rezoning is needed because the 5.48-acre site is zoned for general commercial use. Service and filling stations are permitted in the district and the commission can determine if the other uses are auxiliary to a typical service station operation, staff noted.

As shown on a sketch, which must be formalized into a site development plan layout, the entry from the highway is 85 feet from the Ski Run Road intersection. Hirschfeld and Shaw pointed out that the state Highway and Transportation Department dictates where access points are situated.

Lawyer says Downs violated Open Meetings Act

Allegation stems from lack of public records regarding civil complaints filed against former firefighters

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

An attorney representing three former members of the Ruidoso Downs Fire Department has alleged the village violated the state's Open Meetings Act.

In a letter addressed to New Mexico's Attorney General, lawyer J. Robert Beauvais said he could not find any public action by the village council authorizing the village's attorney to file civil complaints against former members of the village's fire department.

The 12 civil actions, filed Feb. 15, seek reimbursement of funds the village contends were overpayments to firefighters.

In the correspondence, Beauvais included minutes of the Feb. 12 village council meeting that indicated the council went into executive session to discuss personnel matters, but never made a motion to authorize the filing of the civil actions.

"I understand the Board has the privilege of reconvening in executive session to discuss pending or threatened litigation," Beauvais wrote in the letter to Attorney General Patricia Madrid. "However the minutes of the meeting immediately preceding filing the legal actions reflect neither notice of adjourning into executive session (nor) the Board authorizing the legal action or any reference. It is my understanding a vote to authorize filing a legal

Williams waits for legislative dust to settle

Glencoe lawmaker doesn't have a full accounting but thinks the area got some money

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Until all of the confusion dies down, State Rep. Dub Williams said he won't have a full accounting of how Lincoln County fared on capital outlay projects, but he thinks each town and the county received some money.

That is, if the governor doesn't refuse to sign off on the capital outlay, which still is a possibility.

The Glencoe Republican said Monday a bill he introduced that would exempt counties from compliance with the state procurement code when negotiating hospital management contracts passed both houses and went to the governor to be signed.

But he was disappointed to see a proposal to designate a song by local entertainer James Hobbs as New Mexico's Western Song stall on the Senate side.

Passed unanimously by the House, the item was placed so far down on the calendar that it never made it to the floor of the Senate for discussion, he said.

Williams was optimistic that $193,000 was set aside for the state Veterans Affairs Commission to apply for up to $2.7 million in federal dollars to expand and improve the Merchant-Marine and Military Cemetery at Fort Stanton.

Another bill he introduced providing alternative sentencing for juveniles made it to the Senate side, but he was unsure of its final disposition.

Williams said as much as he enjoys representing District 56 in the Legislature, he doesn't like the "game playing" of some members, who try to bury issues in committees.

"I'd rather just vote them up or down on the floor," he said.

Williams said he supported Gov. Gary Johnson's advocacy of a tax cut and not a rebate.

"He wants an across-the-board tax cut including 63,000 people who would then pay no tax at all," Williams said of the governor's plan.

"That's vastly different than a rebate. Let the people keep their money in the first place."

Williams said the capital outlay projects he put forth dealt with economic development of an area and are not "pork barrel." But he understands that Johnson wants to keep a chunk of the state's excess revenue this year in reserve, he said.

Out of $123.3 million of capital outlay requests approved by the two houses statewide, those listed for the local area include $60,000 for Mescalero sewage system improvements, $200,000 for water system improvements in Capitan, reauthorization of money already set aside but not spent this year for acquisition of property at the county fairgrounds in Capitan, another $40,000 for waste water treatment plant improvements in Capitan, $163,000 for a fire station in Ruidoso and $150,000 for a roof replacement at Eastern New Mexico University in Ruidoso.

Although not yet reflected on the list, Williams said money also was set aside for water system improvements in Corona and Carrizozo.

"I think everyone got something," he said.

Speaking of the probability of a special session, Williams said, "I don't think we're through." But he added that he's "absolutely, positively glad to be home."

Commission members consider changing code

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Some members of Ruidoso's Planning and Zoning Commission have directed the planning department to initiate the discussion stage on possible ordinance changes dealing with issues raised before the commission in January.

Commissioner Bill Hirschfeld asked what happened to the list of issues, some raised by a code enforcement official. He said two of the matters, a possible ordinance regulating barn-yard animals and a the issue of people living in recreational vehicles outside of RV parks, were supposed to have been already been agenda items before the commission.

Village attorney Charles Rennick responded the mayor wanted a subcommittee, made up of some commissioners and some village councilors, to look at the matters.

"The ordinance says an issue can come forward from the council, a citizen or this commission," said Glen Barrow, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission. "It's a very clear statement on how ordinances, ordinance additions or ordinance deletions can come forward."

Questioned by some on the commission, Joseph Patoskie, planning department director, said he had been working on proposed language changes to some ordinances.

"It stopped," Patoskie said. "It has been in a holding pattern to this time."

Hirschfeld said the farm animals and RV residency matters should have already been looked at by the commission.

"I thought we made a motion to proceed with that," Hirschfeld said. "So why do we keep bringing it up?"

Barrow said the two issues should be placed on an upcoming commission agenda for likely ordinance language.

In addition to barn-yard animals and living in recreational vehicles, the commission on Jan. 16 heard of drainage, addressing storm water runoff from driveway construction, the height of buildings, nightly rentals of residences and hill-side protection as other concerns. The issues were listed as candidates for future commission discussion and potential ordinance attention, with the farm animals and RV matters scheduled for February debate and public hearings.

In new business action, the commission Tuesday:

- Approved variances and site development plans for the future construction of two single-family dwellings at 127 B-1 and 127 B-2 Geneva Drive in the Innsbrook Village subdivision. The variances would allow the homes to be built similarly to others in the subdivision.
- Approved a conditional use and amended commercial site development plan for a body and detail shop operation at the former Figueroa's Transmission shop at 114 East U.S. Highway 70. The commission included a condition that partially dismantled vehicles cannot be parked along the front of the building.

action must be done in quorum open session which was not done in this case."

A spokeswoman for the Attorney General's office confirmed Tuesday that the letter had been received and a reply would be forthcoming.

The four members of the village council said they recall talking about the lawsuit issue, but none remembered specifically taking action directing the village attorney to file the actions.

"I vaguely remember discussing it," said Trustee Margie Morales. "We might have voted on it. I can't remember, but I know we talked about it (in executive session)." Another council member, Jim Bassett, said he didn't believe trustees ever took a vote.

Dan Bryant, Ruidoso Downs' attorney, said his contract with the village calls for working on legal matters.

"It is my belief I am empowered in my contract to bring actions on behalf of the village," Bryant said. "I've never brought a lawsuit on behalf of a legal entity without the belief I had the authority within my contract."

Beauvais said he may seek dismissal of the civil complaints on a stand that they were unauthorized.

Stress management group to meet

An encounter group for stress management will meet from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., April 3, at the Ruidoso Physical Therapy Clinic.

The session will focus on identifying the causes of stress, the medical implications of stress, learning stress relaxing activities and creating a management model to reduce stress.

Each person will have a chance to work on their personal needs to reduce stress under the direction of Dr. Sue Kreins, facilitator.

The session is limited to six people. A $100 donation to the Humane Society of Lincoln County is suggested.

Sign up by calling (505) 257-1800. The clinic is at 439 Mechem Drive (State Highway 48).

STORE: Approval pending info

Board members said the representatives should bring back approval from the state and from any other agencies that govern portions of the development.

Member Teri Sodd said she wanted more information on the run-off from the car wash and amount of water to be used in general.

Figuring in parking at gas pumps, the complex meets standards for the number of parking spaces. However, one space in front of the convenience store must be enlarged from nine feet to 12 feet wide for handicapped parking.

The oil company also owns adjacent property if adjustments are required, Hirschfeld said. Patoskie said a survey still will be needed.

A motion by Mike Reveley to approve the plan subject to a list of conditions failed with three voting for and three against. Member Al Junge abstained. A motion by Phillia Barnett to table the application until all of the needed information is supplied passed 6-1 with Junge abstaining. Junge has resigned from the board and Monday's meeting was his last.

Some of the items requested by the board include a plat plan showing the exact location of the building, all code issues satisfied, detailed landscaping plans, details on signage, lighting plans at the store and at the pumps and how water from the car wash will be recycled.

Warehouse expansion gets board approval

Extraterritorial Zoning Commission OKs revised site plan, zoning change

Owner's rules prohibit the use of storage units for operating a business or for any type of manufacturing or fabrication work

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Expansion of a warehouse storage development in the Pines of Gavilan subdivision was approved Monday by the Extraterritorial Zoning Commission.

The owner, Shamarie Mills, already has two buildings on the site, but said development of the back portion of her land was delayed because she hit problems in excavating.

She submitted a revised plan for the commercial site and also received approval for rezoning of "a sliver" of land from mobile home residential to commercial use on an adjoining lot to square off her property.

Mills said the property will contain about 60 units with one building in back able to adjust walls for size.

Most will be rented to contractors for storage of tools and material. Her rules prohibit the use of units to operate a business or perform any fabrication or manufacturing, she said.

But when Mills mentioned that many of the units have electrical outlets, Ruidoso Planning Director Joseph Patoskie asked for more details.

Attorney Charles Rennick, who advises the board and is assistant village attorney, explained that if uses aren't specified in official ET documents, people later can claim there are no restrictions on acceptable uses.

One such situation recently occurred in a local shopping center, Rennick said. Patoskie added that storage of toxic waste and other obnoxious or dangerous uses should be prohibited officially, because the original owner may leave and rental rules could change.

Member Frank Higgins questioned whether Mills had received complaints from neighbors with homes positioned on a hillside above the complex about reflection from white metal roofs on the first two buildings.

She said she's working with neighbors trying to find paint that would last, would dull the reflection and match a less reflective color for future roofs.

The board agreed not to require more parking spaces, opting instead to leave an area with trees undisturbed.

Higgins also asked for landscaping along Janet Drive and Gavilan Canyon Road to lessen the visual impact. Mills said Janet Drive was stripped of vegetation after wild fires in May 2000 were followed by rain and heavy drainage. Landscaping will be accomplished, but the project will proceed in stages because of financial restrictions, she said.

In a discussion later on a petition for mini-storage units that was denied based on acreage limitations and other issues, Rennick explained that Mills' initial application was received while Lincoln County was managing the one-mile ET zone around Ruidoso using an old ordinance.

That law allowed special exceptions for any use. Storage units in the existing ordinance supervised by the village's planning and zoning department are only allowed in industrial zones, he said.

Mills told the board she received separate approvals for the first two 4,000-square-foot buildings, but decided to finish off the eight-building complex with one last submission.

Arabela gets 911 upgrade

Installation of an Enhanced 911 emergency dispatch console and page system for Arabela started earlier this month using $129,086 from the state Department of Finance and Administration.

"I'm encouraged to see our efforts come together," Lincoln County Manager Tom Stewart told county commissioner's Thursday.

The new system will indicate on a computer screen the site of a call with an automatic paging system for all departments.

Road repair due

A repair and improvement proposal for Gavilan Canyon Road was submitted by Lincoln County Manager Tom Stewart to the District 2 engineer of the state Highway and Transportation Department.

The project would fall under the Municipal Arterial Program as a supplement to the county's cooperative/capital project's list.

"It probably will not receive high consideration by the engineer since the submission lacked the voluminous package of backup data required," Stewart said. "But at least the subject of improvements to Gavilan Canyon Road will once again prod the district engineer."

Stewart said he attended the Feb. 28 meeting of the Southeast Regional Planning Organization, during which the group recommended approval to the state transportation department of $23,840 for work on the Billy the Kid Scenic Byways.

Members ranked Scenic Drive in Alamogordo and Marland Drive in Hobbs as their first and second priorities.

The group will meet within the month to rank several beautification projects, he said.

Flooding investigated

If flooding of the entrance to one of the wings of the Lincoln County Medical Center was caused by the design of a new addition, then the architect should be paying for needed changes, not the county, says Commissioner Leo Martinez.

Thursday he asked hospital administrator James Gibson whether the area flooded before construction of a parking lot for the new emergency room.

Gibson said water doesn't drain as quickly in that area and with a heavy downpour, some flooding of the entrance to the west wing, used by oncology patients, occurs.

Some grading work and a concrete slab should correct the problem, Gibson said.

"I had engineers look at the slope and they said construction was done according to the specifications," Gibson said. "This will be handled like a change order."

Lincoln brewery OK'd

Being able to sip the suds off a beer is part of the Western experience for some visitors to the historic settlement of Lincoln, said Tim Hagaman, owner of the Wortley Hotel.

He received approval from the Lincoln County Commission Thursday for a new small brewery license to be located on U.S. 380 at his business, now called the Wortley Pat Garrett Hotel/Murphy Dolan Brewery Saloon.

"I didn't think a liquor license was necessary when I bought the Wortley, but after two seasons and hearing from tourists, especially international tourists who were disappointed that they can't order a beer in an old Western town, I'm asking for approval," Hagaman said.

The state charges about $2,000 for a license, County Attorney Alan Moré said.

Cigarette ignites grass fire at home of Downs mayor

For the second time in six months, a wayward cigarette ignited grass on the property of Ruidoso Downs Mayor Bob Miller.

The latest fire on Monday burned about a 4-foot-by-4-foot area near the mayor's home at U.S. Highway 70 and Heights Drive, said Tom Armstrong, acting village fire chief.

As with a fire on Sept. 28, the butt of a cigarette, believed to have started the fire, was taken into evidence. Armstrong said the brand of cigarette appeared to be the same as last year's fire.

"It was like they lit it, and just as quickly threw it out," Armstrong said of cigarette ash left behind. "It shows that someone is pretty thoughtless about throwing cigarettes out."

A village code enforcement employee detected smoke south of the intersection early Monday afternoon and stomped out the flames, Armstrong said. A fire truck covered the burned area with foam to assure the grass would not reignite.

Ruidoso Downs has an ordinance that targets those tossing cigarettes outdoors with a citation.

OUR OPINION

Let's put a tent over that circus

The just-ended Legislature will go down...and down...

The legislative session ended last Saturday, and it seemed to be crazier than any in recent years. It is a show, just like those on television. It should have been a legislative "Survivor" reality show, with legislators getting kicked out for playing politics rather than addressing the issues their respective constituents elected them to consider.

The past 60 days were enjoyable, especially for Republican Gov. Gary Johnson. So enjoyable that he referred to the session as "fun." That's not the correct reference. Each and every session should be constructive and progressive. "Progressive" shouldn't be about legalizing marijuana either; it should be about moving the state forward.

So what was this session about? It was about political stances taken on every issue — education, capital outlay items and health care, to name a few. The stances ensured that not everything that could have been completed in the 60 days was completed. Lobbying was heavy and thick; it seemed heavier and thicker than in the last few years. That lobbying raised questions or doubt, when necessary, to prevent things from being completed.

What's going to happen now? All of the dust kicked up in the last 60 days will settle. A legislator or two will grow a conscience about an item that should have been completed and wasn't, and will call for a special session, for which ultimately the taxpayer pays.

Then the entire state gets to watch the show all over again — the greatest show on earth.

The state of New Mexico should sell tickets...as a means to fund necessary capital outlay items such critically needed repairs for some of historic Fort Stanton's buildings.

Politics has dominated the issues, locally and throughout the state. That means the taxpayer loses in the end because attitudes and personal agendas took precedence over the issues at hand. Things need to get done. If they aren't done, voters throughout the state have a funny way of making sure they do come election time. Just ask former Rep. Raymond Sanchez, for many years the House speaker.

A question to ponder

As to the cockfighting issue, it is a bloodsport. Without the weapon attached to the bird's leg, there would be less bloodshed, and that would not satisfy whatever the "sport" offers to those who favor it.

I confess to once witnessing a contest between a fighting cock and a parrot. This is what happened:

The birds were put into a pit and circled one another warily for a moment or two. Suddenly, the cock reared back and took a vicious swipe with its lethal steel spur at the parrot, but missed by the width of a feather.

Whereupon, the parrot frantically fluttered back to its perch on his master's shoulder, and squawked: "Did you see that dirty *&^#! pull that blade on me?"

The 'cheerleader' effect

To the editor:

Commissioner Leo Martinez was quoted in the News complaining that the Lincoln County Medical Center was being supported (apparently unfairly) by a "cheerleader effect" of volunteers whom he also characterized as politicized. He is wrong on both counts.

His use of the term "cheerleader" evokes an image of decorative but witless boosters, as in "Cowboy Cheerleaders." This is the utter antithesis of the LCMC volunteers. The volunteers are mature citizens, most of whom have great latitude in their choice of how they occupy their time. After rational consideration, they have chosen to dedicate hundreds — in some cases thousands — of uncompensated hours to assisting at LCMC. These people are far more familiar with the hospital than is Mr. Martinez. They deal constantly with the staff and they know the facilities. Most of them have at some time been patients at LCMC.

The volunteers know, perhaps better than Mr. Martinez, that some other operator could cut costs deeply and administer the facility more cheaply than the Presbyterian group. They even know pretty well where the costs would be cut. Services could be reduced, and the hospital could become a transfer point from which patients would be shuttled to Roswell or Alamogordo rather than treated locally. The laboratory facilities could be slashed and more tests could be transferred to Albuquerque. Martinez says that he knows that the volunteers would support whoever took over the hospital regardless. He is wrong; the volunteer support would vanish like ice on a griddle if some lean and mean cost-cutter moved in — and cost cutting (bidding) seems to be the only benefit on offer from competitors.

Martinez seems to bemoan the fact that the current hospital operation has determined and vocal support from knowledgeable and committed taxpayers, while there is virtually no support for change to some new operator. Shouldn't this tell him something?

A fiery issue in Nogal

To the editor:

Regarding "Feud grips volunteer fire department" (Ruidoso News, March 2), we have been members of the Nogal Volunteer Fire Department since 1999 and would offer our view of this operation from the "inside."

There is no organized or sustained effort to recruit new members to a department woefully undermanned for the large area it must cover...recently even expanded. When new members do join the department, no organized effort is made to determine what relevant skills or training they may have to offer. No organized effort is made to assign new members to roles in which whatever physical and mental capabilities they bring to the department are utilized in appropriate assignments as members of a team. There is no evidence of a formal, organized training program to develop and improve the fire fighting skills of new, as well as experienced, members. On the contrary, the repeated efforts by Assistant Fire Chief Patrice Brazie to initiate and carry out training programs, despite the vacuum at the top, have been consistently rebuffed and undermined by Chief John LaMay. Similarly, Ms. Brazie in her role as Assistant Chief has conducted required equipment inspections which reveal serious deficiencies. Instead of action being taken to correct these discovered deficiencies, Chief LaMay has chosen to publicly humiliate and demean Ms. Brazie for daring to bring them to light. Now the chief and his three cohorts seem to have decided that if they can't shut Mr. Brazie up, they will simply get rid of her.

In light of this situation, where the lives of people and property in a small community are placed in jeopardy because their Fire Department is not up to snuff, it is sad indeed to see Tim Stewart, county manager, try to trivialize these problems (which have been previously brought to this attention) as a "member dispute" which can be solved by fiddling with "bylaws." When Mr. Stewart directed a combat unit in Desert Storm, we are certain that he knew full well that the lives of his men and the success of their mission depended upon their fitness to fight the enemy. Here in the Nogal district, as well as in every other area in Lincoln County served by a volunteer fire company, the people deserve units which are capably led and trained to high standards of fitness for combat against a powerful foe: fire.

In light of the Glencoe and Nogal fiascos, isn't it time for Lincoln County Commissioners to step in, establish uniform standards of training and efficiency for these units, and see to it that these standards are maintained through regular inspections and audits? In light of our experiences in Nogal, we think it is high time.

The great potato surplus of 2001

BY STEWART TRUENSEN
AMERICAN FARM BUREAU

The Irish Potato Famine was the worst famine to occur in Europe in the 19th century. Crop failures caused by blight contributed to the death of more than a million people in Ireland.

During the 20th century, agricultural science solved many of the problems that led to food shortfalls and famine. Now, surpluses are more of a problem.

Of course there are striking differences between want and plenty. Everyone suffers when food is in short supply. Consumers are insulated from the problems of surplus; farmers are not.

Right now there is a surplus of potatoes in Idaho and other parts of the country. Prices are so cheap that farmers are giving potatoes away to food banks. Most of us are completely unaware of this situation, but for potato growers it is a nightmare.

Idaho farmers are receiving $1 to $2 per hundredweight for their potatoes. The cost of producing a hundred-pound sack of potatoes is about $4 to $5. "I don't know how a lot of these farmers are going to hang in there this year, especially with the cost of energy, fuel and fertilizer going up," says Gary Fuhrman, director of commodities and marketing for the Idaho Farm Bureau.

Potatoes are perishable and can't be stored indefinitely. Fuhrman says potatoes from the 2000 crop can be stored through part of the summer, but by September farmers need the space for the next crop. Potatoes now in storage have to be moved out even if it means giving them away.

"The farmer, as everybody knows, is generally a generous person, and if they can, they are going to donate to somebody who can use the potatoes," says Fuhrman. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is working to distribute some of the potatoes. They are sending dehydrated potatoes to El Salvador; a country hit hard by earthquakes. LDS members also are washing and packing potatoes for shipment to food banks around the country. They expect to fill more than 100 semi-trailers.

Idaho boasts of ideal conditions for growing potatoes — rich volcanic soil, warm sunny days and cool nights and water from melting snow. But prices paid to growers have been disappointing for a number of years. This caused farmers to increase their plantings. "Farmers in the last couple years have had to plant just as many acres as they could to try to make ends meet," says Fuhrman. As it turns out, this wasn't a very good tactic because the weather was near perfect last year. The result was more potatoes than the market could bear.

If there is one way we can help, it's to eat more potatoes. Certainly that's not a long-term solution, but it could help in the short run. While food shortages quickly become an issue of national concern, the problems brought about by low prices and oversupply don't always gain public attention. They should though, because these problems threaten the futures of the men and women responsible for our food supply.

"I don't know how a lot of these farmers are going to hang in there this year, especially with the cost of energy, fuel and fertilizer going up."

STATE BRIEFS

Food trays spark jail disturbance

AZTEC, N.M. — One cellblock in the San Juan County jail remained locked down Monday after a disagreement with inmates over their food trays.

Jail administrator Bob Yates said four prisoners were removed from the cellblock to other cells Sunday afternoon. He would not release their names.

The cellblock will remain locked down until jail officials can review the inmates' attitude and behavior, he said.

About 2:15 p.m. Sunday, 24 inmates refused to comply with orders to lock down — be in their cells — while food trays were retrieved, Yates said.

The disagreement stemmed from "the way the detention center does the feeding vs. the way the inmates wanted it done," he said.

A dozen sheriff's deputies were called in and the situation was handled without further incident and no injuries, Yates said. He said deputies did not bring firearms into the cellblock.

Governor wants probe of pyramid schemes

SANTA FE — Gov. Gary Johnson wants a statewide assessment of whether suspected pyramid schemes have lured in state employees.

Gifting circles, which profess sisterly philanthropy, ask for up to $5,000 and have delivered up to $40,000 to veteran recruiters who advanced to the top of the pyramid-shaped organizational chart, said Cristina Larranaga-Maestas, a state worker who got involved but now warns others against such schemes.

New Mexico law makes it a felony to participate in "pyramid promotional schemes" in which a donation provides a chance to receive more donations from new recruits — a plan that prosecutors describe as a vicious cycle that collapses immediately without new members.

Some state agencies have done internal investigations, and administrators are looking into whether employees participated while on the job or using state equipment and whether they recruited or pressured co-workers and subordinates to join.

County puts limits on adult businesses

MORIARTY — Torrance County commissioners have limited adult entertainment, such as topless dance clubs and adult bookstores, to six areas along Interstate 40.

New adult businesses could open only in the zone, from seven miles east of Moriarty running 36 miles to the county line. The businesses would have to apply for a conditional use permit and maintain standards set by the county.

The standards limit how close an adult entertainment business can operate to similar businesses and to churches, homes and schools.

The commission unanimously approved the zoning changes last week in response to a nightclub that began offering topless dancing in the county last September, said County Attorney John Utton.

The county sued Route 66 Nightclub last October to stop the dancing, contending the club violated special use zoning laws.

Club owner Mervin Gemmer then sued the county in federal court, charging county officials were violating his right to free speech.

right to free speech.

Clovis teacher indicted on 11 counts

Educator accused of fondling six girls then intimidating them not to tell anyone

CLOVIS (AP) — A Curry County grand jury has indicted a suspended Clovis teacher on 11 counts of criminal sexual contact of a minor and five counts of intimidating a witness.

Lloyd Sperry, 48, of Melrose, will be arraigned next week, District Attorney Randall M. Harris said Monday.

His attorney, Tye Harmon of Clovis, entered an innocent plea on Sperry's behalf last week.

Sperry remained jailed on $250,000 bond at the Curry County Detention Center.

He was arrested early this month after allegations that six girls, ages 7 to 10, were fondled in classrooms at Zia Elementary School in Clovis.

An affidavit said the alleged incidents occurred from October 2000 until late last month.

The girls said Sperry threatened them to keep them silent and promised them better grades if they allowed him to touch them or if they would touch him and not tell anyone, court records said.

Police learned of the accusations and began their investigation when the parents of one girl came forward Feb. 24, said Dan Aguilar, a Clovis Police Department detective.

Sperry, who had been a student teacher for the Clovis district in 1999, was hired fulltime last May. He was placed on leave Feb. 26, said Clovis Superintendent Neil Nuttall.

Court throws out county's logging regs for private land

Rio Arriba ordinance in conflict with state law, federal judge rules

TIERRA AMARILLA (AP) — A federal judge has ruled Rio Arriba County does not have the authority to regulate logging on private land.

U.S. District Judge James Parker ruled on a lawsuit brought by Rancho Lobo Ltd. earlier this month.

Parker said the county's logging ordinance is void because the state has given authority over private-land logging to the Forestry Division of the New Mexico Department of Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources.

The judge ruled the county ordinance, which prohibits clear-cutting without a county variance, is in conflict with state regulations that allow clear-cutting.

Lynn Sferrazza, lawyer with the Western Environmental Law Center, a Taos law firm that drafted the ordinance for the county, said she disagrees with Parker's ruling.

She said the county is considering an appeal.

John Polk, lawyer for the 10,000-acre Rancho Lobo north of Chama, said Friday he welcomes any appeal and is confident his clients will prevail.

"We're back in this case, and it's just clear as crystal that the county has no right to regulate timber harvesting, that it has been pre-empted by state statutes," Polk said.

In a letter to Rancho Lobo, county planner Antonio DeVargas last year informed the partnership it needed a county permit before cutting trees. Rather than argue the matter with the county, Polk said his clients took the matter to federal court.

The owners of the Rancho Lobo land intend to use it to raise big game and for fishing.

"We had a situation here where many areas are significantly overgrown," Polk said. "It was a fire hazard. We obtained all the necessary state permits."

Police discovered blood in home of missing man

LAS CRUCES (AP) — Police continued to search during the weekend for a man reported missing Wednesday after a trail of blood was found in his home.

Police say circumstances surrounding the disappearance of Joe Polanco Jr. are suspicious.

Polanco's girlfriend told police she arrived home after work March 14, to find the front gate and door wide open. She reported following a trail of blood from the garage through the house.

Several chairs were overturned and papers were strewn about the living room, she said. In a side bedroom lay a white bloodstained towel, according to police reports.

After seeing signs of a struggle and a large amount of blood in the kitchen, she called Polanco's family and they notified police.

Polanco's girlfriend and father told investigators that Polanco had been receiving threats.

Court records indicate Polanco was facing jail time after violating a five-year probation for a 1996 case in which he pleaded guilty to three counts of filing false insurance claims, one count of perjury and one count of forgery.

Since 1996, Polanco had violated his probation at least twice and failed to appear in court last month on the latest charge.

A warrant was issued for his arrest and he was detained, but released after his aunt posted the bail.

According to conditions of his bond, Polanco was not to leave Dona Ana County before a hearing concerning the revocation of his probation.

Trainer appeals suspension

District court stays 45-day penalty ruling pending outcome

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

An order staying a 45-day suspension of a Ruidoso Downs horse trainer's license was issued pending the appeal of a New Mexico Racing Commission ruling.

Claire Greenwood, 52, filed her notice of appeal Feb. 26 in the 12th Judicial District Court in Carrizozo, asking the court to stay the ruling and reverse the order. District Judge Karen Parsons issued the stay the same day.

In the action, Greenwood's attorney, Gary Mitchell, stated that on July 15, 2000, reacting to a complaint and on orders from the Ruidoso Downs Board of Stewards, track security conducted a search of Greenwood's barn on private property next to the race track.

The agents found medications for horses what are not narcotic and did not require a prescription by a veterinarian under the laws of New Mexico.

The medication is an antibiotic routinely used by ranchers, farmers and horse owners, according to the lawsuit.

However, under the rules of the New Mexico State Racing Commission, a trainer may not possess the medications at a race track in the state. Greenwood was cited for unauthorized medication and having an unauthorized syringe and paraphernalia.

The commission suspended her license for 45 days beginning March 1, and fined her $1,500.

Mitchell noted that the stewards at the race track originally cited Greenwood for unauthorized medication, syringe and paraphernalia, and levied the suspension and fine. Greenwood appealed that decision Aug. 3, 2000. On Feb. 5, a racing commission hearing officer heard her appeal of that decision.

He submitted these conclusions:

- That Greenwood's barn in on private property
- That Greenwood's daughter runs a business out of the barn.
- That the syringe was put in the barn by another trainer.
- The barn includes Greenwood's permanent residence.
- That only six race horses were in a 22-horse barn.
- That the barn is used

year-round

He recommended to the racing commission that Greenwood not be suspended and that her fine should be $500, according to Mitchell.

The racing commission on Feb. 21, reversed the decision of the hearing officer, reinstating the suspension and the $1,500 fine.

In the appeal, Mitchell disputes that the racing commission has jurisdiction over Greenwood's private barn, which is not part of the licensee's race track.

He contended the racing commission has never established rules for private barns. Due process requires notice of the rule or regulation allegedly violated, Mitchell stated.

Without such notice, trainers who use private barns have no notice that they may be in violation, he contended.

Greenwood broke no state laws by having the medications and syringe in the barn, he stated.

He acknowledged that Greenwood signed a stall application with the race track, but stated that one was never provided because she used her own private barn.

RUIDOSO POLICE

Juveniles accused

Three juveniles were rounded up by Ruidoso police March 18 after reports of $108.21 in shoplifting at Midtown businesses on Sudderth Drive.

A police officer nabbed the three, two girls and a boy, on Rio Street shortly after 3 p.m.

The three admitted walking through Midtown and taking items from several shops, according to a police report.

Retrieved were $37.81 in merchandise from 50 Million B.C., $25.70 in products from Happy Trails, as well as merchandise valued at $9.97 from the Thunderbird Trading Company, $21.75 from Covered Wagon Collectibles and $7.98 from Jean's Cherry Blossom Shoppé.

The juveniles, ages 14 and 15, from Alto and Ruidoso Downs, were taken back to the shops and the merchandise returned.

Parents were called to pick up their children. The case has been turned over to the Juvenile Probation Office.

Woman faces charges

A Ruidoso woman was charged March 17 with driving while intoxicated, failure to maintain a traffic lane and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Holly L. Hawley, 38, was charged after an officer made a 3:09 a.m. traffic stop on Sudderth Drive.

Hawley allegedly failed a field sobriety test. An Intoxilyzer test indicated her blood alcohol content was .11 and .10, above the .08 standard for intoxication.

During booking, police reportedly found drug paraphernalia.

Possession alleged

A Roswell man was cited March 16 for possession of less than an ounce of marijuana.

Ruidoso police officers on a foot patrol about 11:30 p.m. saw two men leave a Midtown bar and look in vehicle windows in a parking lot.

Approaching one of the men, who was reportedly smoking, an officer detected the smell of burning marijuana.

Travis A. Visser, 21, was issued a ticket for possession of marijuana.

Cement stolen

Ruidoso police searched unsuccessfully March 17 for a vehicle whose driver allegedly made off with construction materials from a location in the 100 block of Meander Drive.

The driver reportedly had loaded bags of cement in his pick-up truck about 11:20 a.m. The case has been filed as a misdemeanor larceny.

Cash taken in burglary

A felony burglary and misdemeanor larceny crime was reported to Ruidoso police on March 16.

A side door was kicked in and $150 in cash reported taken from Ruidoso Ice and Water Company at 1605 Sudderth Drive.

Some of the cash was missing from a drop safe at the business.

Police probe complaint

Police are investigating a felony battery against a household member case that was reported on March 14.

A woman told officers that her fiancée has beat her and threatened her for several years.

The most recent alleged incident happened on March 11. The woman said she was slapped, punched and choked.

The fiancée told an officer the woman had thrown ketchup and spat on his face. He said she also pushed him into a wall.

The latest incident was reported to have occurred about 10:50 a.m. March 11 at a residence in the 1200 block of Mechem Drive.

No charges filed

Police responded March 11 to a call of an argument between a mother and a daughter at a residence in the 100 block of San Juan Road.

A physical confrontation was alleged, with the older woman reportedly struck above an eye.

While a misdemeanor battery on a household member file was proposed by police, the two women allegedly involved in the confrontation both rejected the filing of charges.

Gas skip reported

A driver of a van reportedly drove away from a Sudderth Drive gas station without paying for $32.64 worth of gas.

The gas skip was reported about 8:30 a.m. March 15 at the Diamond Shamrock station at 1901 Sudderth Drive.

The case has been categorized as a misdemeanor falsely obtaining services.

Woman hurt in Sudderth Drive wreck

A Lincoln County woman was injured Monday when her vehicle rear-ended a pick-up truck on Sudderth Drive in Ruidoso.

Veronica L. Sanchez, 26, of Glencoe, suffered a neck injury in 8:18 p.m. accident, according to a Ruidoso police accident report. After being taken by ambulance to the Lincoln County Medical Center, Sanchez was transferred to a hospital in Lubbock, Texas.

A passenger in the pick-up truck complained of injuries. The truck's driver was uninjured.

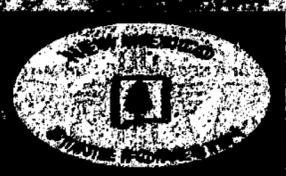

The pick-up truck was stopped for traffic when the westbound Sanchez' vehicle hit it from behind, the police said. Sanchez' vehicle reportedly suffered heavy damage. The stopped truck received moderate damage. Seat belts were worn by all the occupants, the accident report stated.

Sanchez was cited for failing to show proof of liability insurance, a registration violation, driving with a suspended drivers license and following too closely.

Capitan girls race to first in Dexter

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Going into the Demon Relays at Dexter Friday, Capitan girls track coach Zale Woodward was not necessarily expecting a strong finish, as the team took only 11 of its 25 eligible girls because of spring break.

That made their victory all the sweeter.

"We were surprised," Woodward said after his team took first place over defending Class A state champion Loving and five other schools.

The girls took five first-place medals and 13 other top-six finishes in route to 89 points, nine points better than Loving. Two girls made state-qualifying marks despite windy conditions in Dexter.

Jessica Neal ran the 100-meter hurdles in 17.4 seconds and Jessica Becker threw the shot put 31 feet, 8-1/2 inches, both good enough for first place at the relays and a guaranteed spot at the state meet in May.

Of Capitan's 89 points, 34 came in the shot put, discus and javelin. The Tigers won twice in those events, including Lindsey Bush's top spot in the discus.

"Our throwers did well in those three events," Woodward said.

While Capitan did not fare so well in the sprints, Woodward said he was not concerned with that.

"We catered toward the relays," he said. "We always have our best girls on the relays. If we do nothing else, we do relays."

"It probably worked out for us," he added.

Woodward said the reason he likes to focus on the relays is because it allows an opportunity for more girls to get medals and qualify for state. Also, the relays are worth more points, he said.

Those points added up, as the Tigers took first in the 800-meter relay and the 1600 medley relay. They also took a silver in the 400 relay. Melissa Becker, Amy Irvine, Stephanie Kelsey and Jessica Neal made up the shorter relay teams, while Randi Goss took Neal's place in the 1600.

Warrior boys finish fifth at White Sands; girls sixth

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

After the Ruidoso boys and girls track teams placed fifth and sixth respectively at the White Sands Relays at Alamogordo Saturday, head coach Ronny Maskew knew things could only get better for one reason: there are no more spring breaks this year.

"We had a lot of people we knew were going to be gone," Maskew said of his teams. "Thank God spring break is over."

The week off was not the only thing standing in the Warriors' way. Along with facing 13 other schools, most of which were Class 4A or 5A and had gotten more practices in, Ruidoso did not yet have some of its stars, such as J.R. Floyd and Jesse Anderson, from the boys basketball team. Because of the cagers' deep run into the state playoffs, those multi-sport athletes were not yet available to Maskew.

"We like to give them a week off," Maskew explained. He added that even though they are practicing now, they will not be in top running shape for a couple of weeks. "The basketball kids are not in the best condition. We're not going to rush anything," he said. Since Ruidoso will run in only eight more meets, including district and state, Maskew does not want to risk losing an athlete to injury.

The Warriors took just 34 kids to the White Sands Relays, which is only half of the number Maskew said he plans to take to their next meet, in Roswell. The coach said he was pleased with both teams' performances considering the circumstances.

"We don't have many times when they're not giving it all they've got," Maskew said.

The Ruidoso girls took two first-place finishes. Those gold-medalists were Kammi Sparks in the high jump and Rachel Loya in the javelin throw, while three other girls scored points for the Lady Warriors overall team total of 25.

On the boys' side, Warriors Solomon Barnett and Cody Small grabbed gold medals in the 400-meter dash and high jump, respectively, while two other boys finished in the top three of other events a total of three times for a n overall team score of 31.

Maskew said he is targeting Ruidoso's home meet, the Ruidoso Invitational on April 12, to have everyone on both the boys and girls sides at full strength.

"We may not do quite as well these first few meets," he said, "but in a couple of weeks, they'll be picking it up."

As for the Alamogordo meet, the home school took first place overall on both sides, while Sandia, Monzano, and El Paso-Eastwood also had strong showings.

Next up for the Warriors is RISD Invitational, which will be in Roswell, Saturday at 9 a.m.

Capitan boys' showing at Dexter promising

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Taking only 11 athletes to the Demon Relays in Dexter Friday hurt Capitan's chances to win the meet. Judging from their performances though, the full squad's future looks promising.

The Tigers took fourth at the relays, including gold medals in the shot put, javelin, and mile. Head coach Ed Davis said he was pleased with the showing.

"This showed us that we can have a really strong team," Davis said.

The short-handed squad competed in only five running events and placed in four of them. Among those scorers was Rusty Martin, a sophomore who was running in his first track and field meet ever. Martin took second in the 800-meter run with a time of 2:14.8, a finish Davis said was not entirely expected.

"He had a real good year in cross country," the coach said, but he added that he didn't know how Martin would fare in his first track race.

The Tigers scored 60 points despite not competing in any of the relay events, the pole vault, high jump or hurdles.

Capitan's strength was the field portion of the meet, as the Tigers took first, second and fourth in the shot put and second, third, and fifth in the discus. They also took first, fourth and sixth in the javelin throw.

Capitan had several multi-event scorers, including Ryan Kimbrell who won the javelin and took second in the long jump, Dennis Brockman who was fourth in the long jump and the 400 meter dash, Tyler Haughness who won the mile in a time of 5:09 and was second in the 3200-meter in 11:21 and Jared Joy who was second in the shot put and discus.

Cody Glass qualified for state by throwing the shot put 41 feet, 9 inches. He also took third in the discus.

Baseball Warriors drop two at Eunice tourney

BY TOMM BUTTS
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Ruidoso Warriors baseball team learned a few lessons as they went to Eunice Thursday to officially start their season at the 2001 Cardinal Classic Tournament.

The Warriors went 1-2 at the tournament learning the mental game is an important aspect of the sport.

The beginning of the season proved to be a learning experience for the young Warrior team, as it was pitted against the Midland Christian Mustangs from Texas (9-1), which had already played 10 games this season. Midland Christian had an advantage because of their experience and it showed as they beat the Warriors 11-0.

The strong pitching for Midland Christian proved to be downfall for Warriors. Ruidoso went three-up and three-down against the Mustangs in each of the first three innings.

The third inning was where the Warriors let Midland jump out to a big lead. Five errors for the Warriors in the third inning led to Midland scoring eight runs. It was a gap the Warriors could not come after the second inning. The Warriors battled back but it was too late. The Warriors lost to the Panthers by a score of 14-3.

"Both these Texas team already had eight to 10 games under their belt," said Ruidoso head coach Mike Morris. "This is our first couple games of the season. Of course we had some kinks to work out."

In their third game, the Warriors finally decided to turn things around as they faced the Jal Panthers. It was a tight game that went down to the wire, but the Warriors fought all the way as they defeated Jal 9-7.

Freshmen Jamie Urban began the game by knocking the ball out of the park and giving the Warriors the lead in a ball game for the first time in the tournament. Urban had a big game as he also ended the contest by driving the ball up the middle and knocking in the winning RBI.

"We had a meeting after the second game," Warrior assistant coach Mike Swanner said after the win. "We discussed getting mentally ready. Preparing yourself to be ready to play. They know what to do. They're good ball players."

The Warriors now move on to the New Mexico Military Institute Tournament in Roswell. The Warriors will face off against Dora High School at 10:30 Thursday morning.

CAPITAN: Undermanned boys excel

Other scorers for Capitan included Joey Saiz, Tommy Aldaz and Michael Brazel.

Davis said that while he was happy with his teams outing, he is disappointed in the NMAA's scheduling for track.

"They've all but crowded track out in New Mexico," Davis said, citing a growing basketball season. "It's ridiculous, we're running eight meets in six weeks basically."

Still, Davis said he is not rushing his boys in practice since an injury would likely mean the athlete would be out for the balance of the short season.

"We don't want to push anybody," he said.

After finishing a third-place finish at state last year, the Tigers are looking to make the top three this season.

"I feel like we'll be one of the strongest teams around in the field events," the coach said.

Davis said he hopes the performance of just 11 of his kids will inspire the rest to come back better than ever.

"This meet lit a fire under us," he said.

Perhaps that fire will warm the poor weather the Tigers have had to practice in for the majority of the season thus far. Davis said that between the snow, rain and wind his team has had to put up with, as well as spring break, he is optimistic that his team will perform superbly, "if we can get things together."

Capitan was host to the Henry Sanchez Relays Tuesday, but results of that meet were not available at press time. Next, the Tigers are at the Alfalfa Relays in Hagerman, Saturday.

GIRLS: Tigers claw way to victory at Dexter

Although none of the relay times were fast enough to qualify for state, Woodward said they will get there.

"I feel confident that we can qualify by those times," he said. If the girls do not meet those requirements, they can still qualify by taking first at district. But, Woodward said, "That's like sneaking in the back door."

The Tigers then competed at the Henry Sanchez Relays at Capitan on Tuesday. Results from that meet were not available at press time. The next meet for the team is the Alfalfa Relays at Hagerman Saturday.

Trial in case of boxer's dogs postponed

Tapia is accused of allowing his two Neapolitan mastiffs to run loose; a related civil case is pending. The magistrate court trial of professional boxer Johnny Tapia on a charge of allowing his dogs to run loose was postponed last week.

A new date was not set. The postponement was requested by Tapia's attorney and approved by the district attorney. Magistrate Judge Ted McCutcheon from Alamogordo is scheduled to preside over the trial, which is tied to an incident in May when Tapia's two Neapolitan mastiffs are accused of killing 17 show goats owned by a neighbor in Rancho Ruidoso. Several were pregnant. A suit against Tapia to recover damages was filed in Lincoln County district court by the family of 14-year-old Wesley Hall, who was raising the goats as a 4-H project. That suit still is pending.

Meeting to discuss Fort Stanton

A community meeting on possible future uses for Fort Stanton to include in a state study is set for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 4. The study by the firm of Kells & Craig will be submitted to the state General Services Department and may be used as the basis for recommendations to the state Legislature next year and to evaluate if the fort would be appropriate for inclusion in the state Monuments Division program.

Structured chances for interested citizens working in small and large groups will follow to allow sharing of ideas. The study by the firm of Kells & Craig will be submitted to the state General Services Department and may be used as the basis for recommendations to the state Legislature next year and to evaluate if the fort would be appropriate for inclusion in the state Monuments Division program.

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Student rates highly

Lori Genta of Ruidoso was named to the dean's honor roll for the fall 2000 semester at Abilene Christian University, Abilene, Texas. To make the Honor Roll, a student must complete at least 12 semester hours for grades and earn 3.45 or higher grade-point average. ACU is a private Christian university with rigorous academic standards.

Genta is a graduate of Ruidoso High School.

ACU is affiliated with the Churches of Christ and has an enrollment of about 4,800 students. ACU students may choose from 70 baccalaureate majors that include 117 areas of study, 30 master's degree programs and one doctoral program. For more information about ACU, call toll-free 1-800-888-0228 or visit ACU's Web page at <http://www.acu.edu>.

NMMI open house

The New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell will hold its annual open house on Saturday, to acquaint those who may be interested in attending the school with the educational opportunities that exist at the 110-year-old institution.

A fully accredited college preparatory high school and a university parallel junior college, the institute offers one of the most reasonably priced educations in the nation. The school has produced such notable alumni as Conrad Hilton, Pulitzer Prize winners Thom Horgan, Ira Harkley and Tommy Thompson; cable television pioneer Bill Daniels; newsmen Sam Donaldson and Chuck Roberts; and Football Hall of Famer Roger Staubach.

With both a junior and senior ROTC program, the institute also offers those interested in pursuing a military career or a service academy appointment an opportunity to do so.

For more information about the open house activities, call (800) 421-5876.

Bachelor's degree offered here

The Ruidoso Center of Eastern New Mexico University will begin offering a bachelor's degree in childhood education in Ruidoso in August 2001.

The program will be delivered locally by instructors and by instructional television. Classes will begin on Aug. 27. Interested applicants must successfully complete the Teacher Assessment Test for the State of New Mexico, have completed at least two years of undergraduate college course work and be accepted into the ENMU Teacher Education Program.

For more information, contact Jim Miller at 257-2120 or Cathy Overdorf at 257-3157, or call (800) 934-3668.

Teaching Spanish with a family touch

A New Jersey teacher gets up close and personal by encouraging her students to make family journals.

Spanish-class student Randi Gomez is shown with her teacher, Edie Bryan.

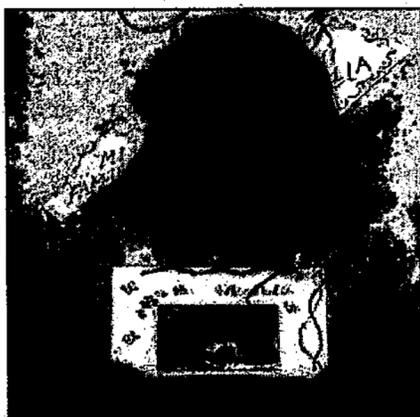

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Primo, hermana, abuelos, cuñados: these are some of the words students in Edie Bryan's Spanish class in Hondo learned and applied to family journals they created as a class project.

The 15 first-year Spanish students decorated their journals with photographs of their family members. The journals were on display March 16 for parent-teacher day.

Bryan, who's taught Spanish for 20 years, mostly in New Jersey, said this was an experimental way of teaching family vocabulary, and she was surprised by its success.

"We were doing a lesson on the family and the family members (in Spanish I) — cousins, nephews. I thought that would tie in nicely with that. When I started, I didn't realize it would be such a good idea. ... I'm going to do it every year."

Jackie Chavez holds the cover of the family journal she made for Spanish class at Hondo High School. The photo on the cover shows her parents holding her when she was a baby.

Bryan said in previous years of teaching, Spanish students in their families, but in Hondo, it was a completely different story.

"This is probably the closest community I've ever been in, as far as family (goes)," she said. "This was very refreshing."

Sophomore Randi Gomez said she liked the project because it allowed her to be creative.

"And finding old pictures and looking back ... was fun," Gomez said. "I had to go through boxes of pictures and find the right ones, and you remember all those times."

She pointed to a picture of herself when she was 5, along with her sister. Another photo in her journal shows the whole extended family at her brother's high school graduation.

Freshman Lauren Richardson said her father helped her with her family journal, giving her information and helping with the Spanish terms. She said she liked the project, especially looking through and choosing the pictures she would use.

Harmony Haun, also a freshman, said it was fun because she got to learn a lot of the words to describe her family, and she's proud to show off her family.

"She's a good teacher," Haun said of Bryan. "She helped me to understand a lot."

Now that she's seen that family journals are a good way to learn Spanish vocabulary, Bryan said she'll do it every year, but plans to make some changes.

"I'll probably make the material I use a little more professional," she said. "Also I would like to involve parents more and make it more of a family memento."

This is Bryan's first year to teach in Hondo. She also teaches English as a Second Language (or ESL).

"I came from Venezuela when I was 15," she said. "My father worked for an oil company in Venezuela and ended up working for the same company here. The political situation was iffy; they had a revolution after we left, and my mother's German, so we got in (to the U.S.) through her visa."

Bryan had intended to retire from teaching. Then she saw a notice about the annual Hondo Fiesta Dancers' performance, attended it and met school superintendent Barbara Casey, who persuaded her to teach there. The fact that Hondo is on a four-day school week helped convince her.

"If it hadn't been for the Fiesta Dancers, I wouldn't have known that Hondo existed," she said.

The couple settled in Capitan, and Bryan had intended to retire from teaching. Then she saw a notice about the annual Hondo Fiesta Dancers' performance, attended it and met school superintendent Barbara Casey, who persuaded her to teach there. The fact that Hondo is on a four-day school week helped convince her.

"If it hadn't been for the Fiesta Dancers, I wouldn't have known that Hondo existed," she said.

This example of a family journal shows Lauren Richardson's family.

Research program for teachers offered for second summer

SOCORRO — For the second year running, New Mexico Tech will enhance its curriculum offerings to state educators this summer with the Math and Science Educator Research Program. The program allows New Mexico teachers to be paid for hands-on summer research experiences at several of the university's research centers.

The 10 teachers selected to participate in the eight-week research and education project, offered through New Mexico Tech's Master of Science Teaching Program, will be paired up with university researchers to develop new projects or take part in existing scientific investigations.

Vannetta R. Perry, Tech's coordinator for education outreach programs, said the research internship program also requires participants to submit written and oral reports at the end of the summer session.

"These reports are meant to help the teacher share the excitement of doing real science in world class facilities with their students and colleagues," Perry said.

By completing the math and Science Educator Research Internship Program, participants will earn six graduate credit hours in Tech's MST degree program.

Teachers also receive a small stipend for their work. Faculty members who serve as mentors during the summer research internship will later conduct follow-up visits to each intern's school. The professors also will provide further information and report new advancements in the teacher's research. This will supplement the presentations the teachers will have already made to their students, colleagues and administrators.

Teacher-participants will arrange field trips for students to visit the research sites for more investigation. These field trips are partially underwritten by the program. To further explore the concepts of the teacher's research, research projects for students will be developed, and later supervised via the Internet by the professor who served as the teacher's mentor at New Mexico Tech.

"The research and teaching experience gained by teacher-participants will be invaluable, and disseminating that knowledge throughout New Mexico will enrich the teaching and learning of our state's K-12 students," Perry said.

Applicants who are chosen to participate in this summer's program will be eligible for scholarships (including six hours of graduate tuition) and travel expenses for the mentor's school visits and student field trips to New Mexico Tech research sites. Some funding will also be available to help student research projects after the program's completion.

The Math and Science Educator Research Program will run from June 12 to Aug. 4. Completed applications must be postmarked no later than May 15 for consideration.

Teachers interested in applying or those wishing more information about other MST courses offered this summer are asked to contact Vannetta Perry at the New Mexico Tech Office for Educational Outreach at (505) 835-5678 or by e-mail at science@mmt.edu.

Meet Author Richard Peck

The John Newbery Medal is awarded each year to the author of the most outstanding children's book. This year's winner was Richard Peck for "A Year Down Yonder." This is the sequel to "A Long Way From Chicago," which was a Newbery Honor Book last year.

His background

Richard Peck's first writing job was in the Army. He was assigned to write the chaplain's sermons at his base in Germany.

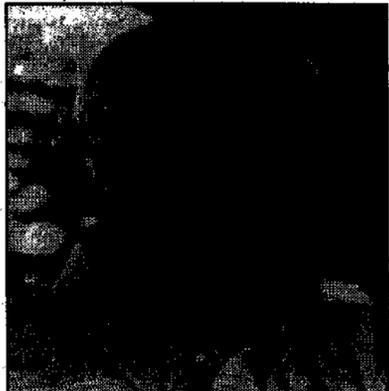

He later taught high-school and then junior-high English. He had trouble finding books written for junior-high-age kids. So he decided to quit teaching and write his own.

He said it was his students who gave him the voices for his books.

A publisher bought his first book as soon as he had written it.

In "A Year Down Yonder," a 15-year-old girl spends a year with her grandmother, a woman sure to stir things up.

National Library Week is April 1-7. The theme is "at your library."

Richard Peck, 66, wrote his first book when he was 37. Since then he has written about a book a year — 28 books for kids and four for adults. He lives in New York City.

His work

Richard Peck does not write every day. He said, "I just keep at it. There's no schedule."

He writes each book six times. At the end of the sixth version, he throws away the first chapter. Then he writes a new one.

He said, "I wouldn't know how to write the first chapter until I know how it ends."

He travels about 50,000 miles a year, speaking at libraries and schools.

Advice to kids

"Learn five new words a day, not big words out of a dictionary, but words you can use."

In "A Long Way From Chicago," two city kids spend their summers in a small town with their grandmother. They learn a lot from this funny, independent woman.

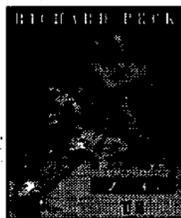

Some favorites:

Time and place to read: "Everywhere I am. I never go anywhere without a book. I live so much of my life in airports and planes, I get wonderful reading done there."

Favorite kids' author: Mark Twain. "He turned me onto reading as a child, and he helps me with my writing today."

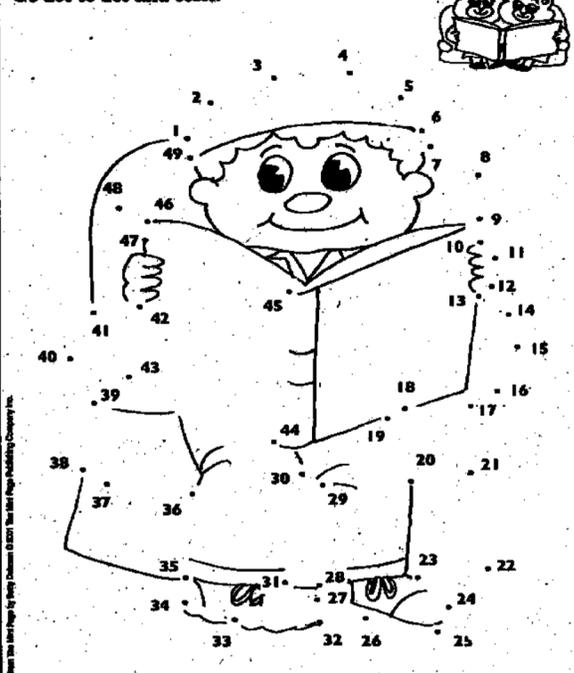

Hobbies: "I love to travel. I work it into my career. I never dreamed I'd see this much of the world, and I always wanted to. Being a writer made it happen."

Color: all autumn colors, probably because "I was one of those kids who liked going back to school every fall."

In "Strays Like Us," a 12-year-old girl and a neighbor boy join forces at their new school. Both kids have been sent to live with elderly relatives. They learn they aren't alone. The world is full of misfits and strays.

Go dot to dot and color.

MIGHTY FUNNY'S Funny Phonics

It's fun to learn phonics, or the way letters sound. This week's target word is the one made by the EA blend, as in the word bead.

Dylan: What do you call a 3-foot preacher?
Spencer: A short speaker!

Liz: Why is the baby the least important person in the family?
Mimi: Because a baby doesn't count!

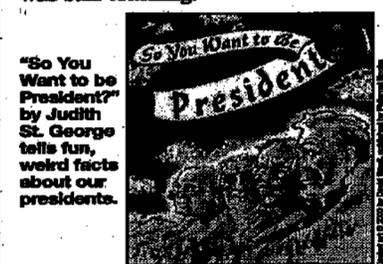

Wendy: What did one peanut say to the other peanut?
James: "I'm going nuts!"

Go on an EA word hunt. What other words can you find that use the EA blend? What sound do you HEAR?

Meet Illustrator David Small

The Caldecott Medal is presented each year to the illustrator of the most distinguished picture book for children. This year's winner was David Small for "So You Want to Be President?"

His background
 When he was 38, David Small lost his job teaching art at a college. He began working on children's books and other art jobs full time.
 Since then, David Small has illustrated about 30 picture books, seven of which he has also written.
 He also illustrates magazine and newspaper articles. He travels a lot, speaking in schools and libraries.
 He wrote his first book, "Eulalie and the Hopping Head," when he was still teaching.

His work
 David Small works seven days a week. He's in the studio before sunrise and works until dinner, with a break for lunch.
 He said, "If you want to be an artist, you have to like being alone too. You'll be shutting yourself off in a room and being all by yourself day after day after day."
 Sometimes it takes him as long as two years to complete a book. However, "So You Want to Be President?" took only six months.

David Small, 56, and his wife, author Sarah Stewart, often work together on books. They live in a small town in Michigan, and have five grown children.

Some favorites:
Time and place to read: on airplanes and before going to sleep.
Hobbies: "Drawing is my hobby. Work is my hobby. I love my work; it's relaxing to me. It is my favorite thing to do."
TV: the news. "I don't really like TV. It really robs us of our imagination. And watching TV all evening is like your whole life has been sucked into the box."
Music: jazz. He always has music going when he's working.
Colors: "I love all colors. I can taste them. I really, really respond to colors emotionally, even black and white, especially black."

David Small won a Caldecott Honor Award for "The Gardener" by Sarah Stewart. When a girl goes to live with relatives in the city, she turns an ugly area into a place of beauty.

In "George Washington's Cows," the cows wear lavender gowns, the hogs help with the chores, and the sheep count to 20 by threes.

Advice to kids
 David Small said: "The most difficult times in your lives may turn out to be the best or the most important times in your lives."
 When he was 12 he had cancer. He was operated on when he was 14, and nearly died.
 He said: "As you can imagine, this had a big, big, big effect on my life then and now, an emotional effect. It's been the source of my greatest anxieties and my greatest successes.
 "It has made me act immediately on my ideas. I don't sit around waiting and worrying. I know for a certainty that we don't have a lot of time.
 "But it also made me impatient, and that's a down side.
 "Our culture is so full of people grumbling and complaining. I'm lucky to be alive. I've experienced my life, more than many people do."

In "The Money Tree" by Sarah Stewart, a woman grows a tree with leaves made of money. She sees only the beauty of the tree, but neighbors turn greedy.

entrance of the Lincoln County Courthouse, Carrizozo, New Mexico, sell all the right, title and interest of the above-named Defendant(s) in and to the hereinafter described real estate to the highest bidder for cash. The property to be sold is located at 209 Del Norte Drive in Ruidoso, and is situated in Lincoln County, New Mexico, and is particularly described as follows:

Lot 14, Block 1 of FOURTH ADDITION TO AIRPORT WEST, Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico, as shown by the plat thereof filed in the office of the County Clerk of Lincoln County, September 20, 1976, in Tube No. 575.

The foregoing sale will be made to satisfy a judgment rendered by the above Court in the above-entitled and numbered cause on March 5, 2001, being an action to foreclose a mortgage on the above-described property.

The Plaintiff's judgment under Court 1, which includes interest and costs, is $94,866.48 at the same bears interest at nine point seven five zero percent (9.750%) per annum from March 1, 2001. The amount of such interest to the date of sale will be $1,085.45.

The Plaintiff's judgment under Court 11, which includes interest and costs, is $18,419.44 and the same bears interest at thirteen point nine zero percent (13.900%) per annum from March 1, 2001. The amount of such interest to the date of sale will be $298.52.

The Plaintiff has the right to bid at such sale and submit its bid verbally or in writing. The Plaintiff may apply for or any part of its judgment to the purchase price in lieu of cash. The sale may be postponed and rescheduled at the discretion of the Special Master.

Notice is further given that the real property and improvements concerned with herein will be sold subject to any and patent reservations, easements, all recorded and unrecorded liens not foreclosed herein, and all recorded and unrecorded special assessments and taxes that may be due. Plaintiff and its attorneys disclaim all responsibility for, and the purchaser at the sale takes the property subject to, the valuation of the property by the County Assessor as real or personal property, affixture of any mobile or manufactured home to the land, deactivation of title to a mobile or manufactured home on the property, if any, and environmental contamination on the property, if any, and zoning violations concerning the property, if any.
