the system let him down

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Ten-year-old Murray Chico lies in the pediatric intensive care unit of an Albuquerque hospital with injuries to his head, ear and throat from a dog attack March 18 in a home where he was placed one day earlier.

Yet, apparently on a recommendation from a Bureau of Indian Affairs social worker, the tribal court denied visitation rights to the family that cared for him for nearly 2 1/2 years until he was moved in October 2000 to a facility near El Paso for a re-evaluation of his medication regimen.

"The system failed this boy," said Matt Harshey, who although not legally a member of the Leon and Cynthia Eggleston family, spent many years growing up there. "I know the social worker and placement agency didn't mean to harm him, but because of a bad decision, he probably has permanent injuries and may never be able to speak

"On top of that, he's lying in a hospital room without comfort from the people who have cared for him for the past three years."

Leon Eggleston, a Ruidoso village council member, and Cynthia Eggleston, a teacher, said they cannot comment on the situation because they are bound by a confidentiality agreement signed with Raindancer Youth Services Inc., a Utah-based Native American child placement agency.

However, Eggleston said Monday the couple canceled their foster parent license with Raindancer in Ruidoso.

"Under these circumstances, I just did not feel comfortable having our license with Raindancer," he said.

The regional director of Raindancer said he could not comment on the Chico case and the BIA social worker did not return a call to her office.

But Harshey said he signed no confidentiality agreement and he is angry at the treatment of the Egglestons and the handling of the boy by the BIA and the placement agency, which included not returning him to the Eggleston household.

According to Harshey, Chico was seven and a second grader in Mrs. Eggleston's class when he was removed from a home on the Mescalero Apache Reservation after accusations of abuse surfaced.

Another BIA social worker approached the Egglestons about becoming foster parents for the child, Harshey said. They took the required training

Tribe takes telephone ownership

■ Mescalero Apache Telecommunications Inc. has completed its acquisition of the reservation telephone system formerly owned by GTE.

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

New Mexico's first Native American-owned telecommunications company is officially in the telephone business.

Mescalero Apache Telecommunications Inc., created four years ago to explore purchasing GTE facilities on the reservation, Tuesday completed the sale and transfer of assets that makes the tribe the owner and operator of the phone system.

"This represents a big step into the future for us as we now have the ability to deploy state-of-the-art telecommunications technologies," said Godfrey Enjady, general manager of MATI.

He said the acquisition will assure all tribal residents have access to phone services.

Last year, GTE agreed to sell its telecommunications infrastructure on Mescalero lands to MATI. Last September, Valor Telecommunications LLC bought GTE lines and equipment in New Mexico, Oklahoma and parts of Texas, including assets on the Mescalero Apache Reservation. Tuesday completed the Mescalero phone system sale from the new Valor Telecommunications.

"As another new company with significant potential for economic development, we welcome MATI into the telecommunications industry," said Duffy Swan, Valor vice president of government relations in New Mexico.

Swan said the two companies will continue to work together to complete the transfer.

MATI serves 950 customers on the approximately 500,000-acre reservation.

The reservation Tuesday became the state's newest phone exchange, 464.

► New numbers

▼ The 671 prefix within the reservation boundaries has been changed to 464. For a time, calls made using the 671 prefix will continue to be completed.

▼ The final four digits of a phone number will remain unchanged with the new phone company.

▼ The 671 prefix will continue to be the exchange in the Bent area outside the reservation.

Herrera alleges hiring discrimination

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

New Mexico's Human Rights Division director has determined there may have been discrimination by the village of Ruidoso in not hiring former Ruidoso Downs fire chief Nick Herrera.

In a Determination of Probable Cause letter dated March 21, Richard A. Galaz, director of the state Department of Labor's Human Rights Division, stated there is sufficient evidence to believe discrimination on the basis of national origin may have occurred.

Records and statements submitted to the Human Rights Division showed Herrera had applied for a fireman position in Ruidoso on Aug. 31, 2000.

He and four Anglos were tested and interviewed, with the four non-Hispanics hired, according to the information filed with the division. Herrera stated he had 13 years experience as a firefighter and was certified as a firefighter, whereas the four others were not.

The village of Ruidoso had responded that Herrera did not receive a good reference from his previous employer, the village of Ruidoso Downs. Ruidoso also relied on newspaper reports, Galaz wrote, "yet elected to hire the Anglo employee who also received bad press."

Hondo boy dies in U.S. 70 crash

6-year-old's grandfather injured as passenger van slams into 18-wheeler

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Sunday traffic collision on U.S. Highway 70 killed a Hondo boy and critically injured the youth's grandfather.

The crash just after 6 p.m., involving a van and a semi truck, took the life of Cisco Aragon, 6. He was a passenger in the van driven by Raymond Aragon, 42, of Roswell.

According to a state police report, the Aragon van was westbound on the highway about 2 miles east of the Glencoe Fire Department. Raymond Aragon began making a left turn into a private driveway when the van was hit broadside by an eastbound truck.

While a state police report stated alcohol may have been a factor, investigating New Mexico State Police Officer Sal Beltran said the sun may have also played a role.

He said motorists traveling the same direction near the scene and time of the collision said the sun was an issue.

A can of beer was found in the vehicle, police said. Blood was drawn from Raymond Aragon, but the results of a blood-alcohol tests were not available to police as of Tuesday.

The 6-year-old died at the crash scene.

Raymond Aragon was taken by ambulance to the Lincoln County

Medical Center and then transferred to University of New Mexico Hospital in Albuquerque. He was listed in critical condition Tuesday in the hospital's Trauma Intensive Care Unit.

The driver of the semi truck, Ludovic Ritzert, 41, of North York, Ontario, Canada, was uninjured. No citations related to the accident were issued to the truck driver.

"Eyewitnesses confirmed that the semi driver had no reaction time," Beltran said. Citations against Aragon have not been written.

An accident report stated the occupants of the van were not wearing seat belts.

FAMILY: Some in Ruidoso say the system failed foster child classes and brought the boy home, accepting the fact that the arrangement would be temporary, and at some time Chico would be placed in a Native American home with his brother, he said.

"He had lots of emotional problems. There was a lot of anger from years of abuse and he kept testing them," Harshey said. "I know it hasn't always been easy for the family, but he received lots of unconditional love from them. The Eggleston kids call him their brother. The parents call him their son. They dropped foster son a long time ago."

"Raindancer helped them line up psychologists and doctors to give him the best care. He started out with no self-esteem. When he was angry, he lashed out, but the incidents were getting fewer and fewer. The last time we saw him, he told Leon that he knew he was a good person."

Chet Southard, a fireman assigned to the village fire station on Main Road across the street from the Eggleston home, said Murray was a frequent visitor and played with his five-year-old son.

"It outrages me that he was not returned to that family," the fireman said. "Who sets the criteria? Don't they look at a potential foster home for mean dogs? This whole thing was pointless. I would see that whole family playing with him in the summer. He had so much love there. It was ridiculous for him to be moved."

Several months ago, Chico began seeing a new psychiatrist and his medications changed, alarming the family, Harshey said. Eventually, he was sent to Alliance Hospital in Santa Teresa for evaluation, which resulted in a reduction or removal from the medicines, he said.

"Before he left, the social worker, Mary Kihega, told them that when Murray was released, he would either go back to the Egglestons or to a Native American home," Harshey said. "They were all right with that. But then in February, she changed her mind and decided to send Murray to a new foster home. I know the Egglestons talked to one of the doctors at Alliance and he told them he recommended the boy go back to them until a Native American home could be found, because it would be less disruptive."

Chico's therapist at Alliance said he also is bound by confidentiality requirements and could not comment on the case.

Chico was released from the hospital Saturday, March 17, to another non-Native American foster home north of Ruidoso and about 10 a.m. Sunday was attacked by an 11-year-old shepherd mix dog, according to a report filed by a deputy with the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office.

Undersheriff Ricky Virden said the deputy reported Chico was left in a fenced area of the home in Fawn Ridge, where he was combing the dog. The foster parent told deputies she heard Chico screaming and the dog barking and found him bleeding from the attack.

He was bitten on the head and ear and had four puncture wounds to the neck. The dog, whose rabies shots were not current, was impounded and put in quarantine, according to Virden.

Chico was brought to the emergency room at the Lincoln County Medical Center and then transferred to the University of New Mexico Hospital, Virden said. He was listed in satisfactory condition Monday, a UNM public information representative said.

Although turned down once, the family petitioned Friday in Mescalero Tribal Court for visitation rights to see Chico in the hospital. Judge Steven Wall is scheduled to rule on the petition this week.

Iris Dwek, with the tribal government division of the BIA, explained that Chico is a ward of the Mescalero Apache Tribal Court and the decision on how his case is handled lies there.

"At this level, we are not directly involved as long as he is a ward of the court," she said. "The court has the final say. She (Kihega) had some control because she is the case worker as to how the final decision comes down; however, the only reason she has anything in there at all is because the Mescalero Apache Tribal Court has made her the responsible case worker to oversee the case. Each and every court establish-

Firm's founder had foster roots

Raindancer was created by Ron Hatch, a Native American, who grew up in foster homes and was lucky enough to find a family that didn't give up on him, said Richard Laws, regional director in Albuquerque.

"When he married, he and his wife became foster parents and then founded the company," Laws said Tuesday.

Incorporated on Jan. 16, 1990 in Utah, according to that state's Corporations Division, Raindancer's corporate base was Washington, Utah, but its main office is in neighboring St. George, Utah.

"In Utah, only Native American children are clients, but in New Mexico, we deal with all children," Laws said. "We are licensed by the state for treatment and foster care of children in the Medicaid system."

Prospective foster families undergo 40 hours of initial training and more annual training. Background checks also are performed, he said.

Referrals come through a managed care company or the Children's Mental Health Services Review Panel in Santa Fe, he said.

In response to a Freedom of Information request, Robert Baracker, regional director of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Albuquerque, wrote that Raindancer has no contractual arrangement with the federal agency.

Information provided by the agency shows that social worker Mary Kihega has a master's degree in social work, has been with the New Mexico BIA office since 1999, worked with the BIA in Valentine, Ariz. for four years and previously worked with the BIA in Albuquerque as a child protection specialist from 1989 to 1995 and as an agency social worker from 1988 to 1989.

es their own procedures. Each is different. They have their own code and processes."

Drew said changes in treatment plans are handled differently in every case. Some go through the same review process as an initial placement and treatment, but in others, the case worker has more discretion, she said.

She had no details on Chico's last placement, but said when the Egglestons were selected in 1998, the placement and treatment package was reviewed by the court and by the Children's Mental Health Service Review Panel in Santa Fe.

Harshey said family members went down to see Chico twice a week during his evaluation at Alliance. On many occasions, he went too.

"They were allowed to see or talk to him right up through Friday," he said. "I don't know why the caseworker at Raindancer didn't try to help them and Murray, or what justification the social worker had for the change. I understand she only saw Murray once."

Egglestons' daughter Kendra was in Albuquerque when Chico was brought into the hospital there, but she was not allowed to see him, Harshey said.

"I know they've already told authorities they would take Murray back into their home no matter what physical condition he's in," he said. "I just hope someone listens to them and realizes for whatever reason the social worker decided not to send him back to the only real home he's known, it was a bad decision - a decision that will affect Murray for the rest of his life. Maybe, some of that damage can be undone."

Action delayed in wrongful death suit, murder case sentencing

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Action in two local death cases was postponed this week.

The wrongful death civil trial of James Hovland in connection with the death of his second wife, Susan Hovland, in January 1997 was scheduled for April 3.

But a district court spokesman said Monday that Gary Mitchell, the attorney for Robert M. Daly of Virginia, personal representative of Susan Hovland's estate, and the defendant's attorney, John Underwood, signed a stipulated agreement to continue the case. No new date was set.

However, a domestic violence hearing, filed against Hovland by his third wife, Debbie Jones Hovland, from whom he is divorced, is scheduled for April 19 in the 12th Judicial District Court of Judge Karen Parsons in Carrizozo.

Hovland told sheriff's deputies Jan. 1, 1997 that his second wife died after a fall from her horse and that he stayed with her for about two hours before going for help. No criminal charges ever resulted. Daly filed the lawsuit in September 1999, claiming the former Presbyterian minister assaulted and battered the 51-year-old woman and then failed to seek help, resulting in her death.

In the second case, the sentencing of Harry Doyle Mojk Jr., convicted last July of the 1996 shooting death of hunting buddy Daniel Van Bemen, was postponed from Friday.

Neither the defense attorney nor the prosecutor could attend the session.

The sentencing was rescheduled for 9 a.m. April 20 in Carrizozo with District Judge James Waylon Counts presiding.

The prosecution charged that Monk, who was from Mississippi, planned to kill his friend, Van Bemen, and then report to police that his buddy fled to avoid prosecution for the pregnancy of Monk's daughter.

Van Bemen's body was found in a shallow grave in the Capitan Mountains. Monk's son, who testified that he witnessed the fatal shooting, led authorities to the burial spot.

At his trial, the daughter testified that Monk had an incestuous relationship with her and that he was the father of the fetus that was aborted.

The daughter and Monk's wife said he forced them to accompany him on a trip back to New Mexico to dig up the body and go through the dead man's pockets for money and drugs.

Herrera: Agency finds possible discrimination

Galaz noted that one of the non-Hispanics hired by the Ruidoso Fire Department was also part of an investigation of some former members of the Ruidoso Downs Fire Department.

He said Jimmy Smith had also been suspended from the Ruidoso Downs Fire Department, but was hired by Ruidoso on Aug. 17.

The determination of probable cause recommends the parties to the complaint of unlawful discrimination work toward conciliation. If efforts to resolve the issue between the village of Ruidoso and Herrera fail, a formal hearing under New Mexico's Human Rights Act would be scheduled.

That would result in the New Mexico Human Rights Commission issuing a written complaint against the village.

"We're pleased that the investigation resulted in a probable cause determination," said J. Robert Beauvais, Herrera's attorney. "We are certainly willing to try to conciliate with the village, but if that doesn't happen Nick (Herrera) is willing to go all the way."

In a charge of discrimination document filed with the state Human Rights Division, Herrera stated that he believed he was discriminated against because of his national origin, in violation of the U.S. Civil Rights Act and the state Human Rights Act.

Herrera said he was the only Hispanic who applied for the fireman position and was more qualified than the other four non-Hispanic applicants who were hired.

"They (village of Ruidoso) need to show a legitimate reason why they shot themselves in the foot," Beauvais said.

In May 2000, Herrera was placed on administrative leave with the Ruidoso Downs Fire Department. He was fired from the chief's job on Aug. 28. The village of Ruidoso Downs has contended Herrera may have been involved in improper payment requests for volunteer members of the fire department. A criminal investigation by the district attorney's office was begun last May.

While criminal charges have not been filed, the village of Ruidoso Downs filed lawsuits against Herrera and other previous members of the fire department, seeking to recover what the village charged were padded payments.

Beauvais has argued much of the payments for the volunteers may have been legitimate, based on testimony in a hearing over Herrera's dismissal from Ruidoso Downs employment.

An attorney representing Ruidoso in the discrimination complaint was unavailable for comment.

Principal Bill Green takes Quemado job

BY SANDY SUBGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Ruidoso High School Principal Bill Green won't be poking fun at Quemado cheerleaders much longer — he'll be joining them in poking fun at Reserve, Quemado's traditional rival.

Green, who became principal in Ruidoso in August of 1999, accepted the superintendency of Quemado after repeated calls for help from the school district to the west, which needed a superintendent of schools. "I have nothing but good to say about Ruidoso; it was the hardest decision in my life," Green said.

Quemado is where Green's father has a ranch, and where his roots are.

And, as he said in an interview almost two years ago, he knew he was going to miss coaching and recess when he became principal here. Quemado is such a small school system that he'll be able to incorporate coaching with his administrative duties.

He and his wife and three of his children moved here and settled in, though, and, he said, loved it in Ruidoso.

"My son will really miss football because they don't have it there, but he really missed working on the ranch with his grandfather," Green said.

"He only got to see him twice in two years, so he's ready to go back."

About his time at Ruidoso High School, Green said it was one of the "greatest experiences" he's had.

Cigarette suspected in Sunday fire on reservation

Suppression crews from several agencies Sunday squelched a Mescalero Apache Reservation fire, attributed to a tossed cigarette.

The blaze, at U.S. Highway 70 and Mescalero Highway 4, was reported about 2 p.m., said Rachel LaPaz, public information officer with the tribal forestry department. Two fire fighting crews, five engines, two water tenders, and a bulldozer responded to the fire near the U.S. Highway 70 turnoff to the Inn of the Mountain Gods. In addition to Mescalero forestry crews, firefighters from the U.S. Forest Service, Bureau of Indian Affairs and the U.S. Bureau of Land Management assisted.

OUR OPINION

Speculation by the numbers

Lincoln County is growing — so what?

Politicians and others interested in the election process in New Mexico, as established by the powers that be in Washington, already have started juggling the numbers in much the same way some fortune-tellers shake chicken bones.

They hope those numbers will reveal something about their future.

We hope, in Lincoln County, that the 2000 Census will give us a shade more clout in Santa Fe. We hope, in Ruidoso, that the numbers will give us a shade more clout in Carrizozo.

The 58.9 percent population gain in our county — to 19,411 souls — puts us, for the first time, ahead of Torrance, Roosevelt, Socorro and Los Alamos counties. We're still well down the list of counties in the population sweepstakes, but our percentage gain led the state — and may have been enough, with strong growth in Otero County, to shift the state Senate districting more southerly; however, the house district lines probably won't change much.

It's worth noting, too, that three of the top six municipalities in percentage growth in the state were in Lincoln County — Ruidoso Downs at 98.3 percent, Capitan at 71.4 percent and Ruidoso at 67.3 percent.

Together, they represent 56 percent of the Lincoln County's population. Carrizozo lost 3.6 percent and Corona more than 23 percent. Throw in the rural growth north of Ruidoso (Alto, Airport Road, Little Creek, Angus), and the population shift is even more apparent.

Will it result in county commission districts reflecting that shift in 2002 — or will the commissioners simply slice the Ruidoso pie into smaller slivers and thus keep the county commission firmly in the rural hammerlock?

Billionaire investor Warren Buffett was a caddy for golfer Tiger Woods during a charity golf event. Buffett didn't actually carry Tiger's clubs. He rode around in a golf cart with him.

But Buffett and other super-rich people have been carrying the bag for death taxes and so has an organization called Responsible Wealth.

Responsible Wealth says, "Repealing the estate tax, a constructive part of our tax structure for 85 years, would leave an unfortunate legacy for America's future generations."

The American Farm Bureau Federation couldn't disagree more. That's why it is supporting the Dunn-Tanner Death Tax Elimination Act of 2001, which was introduced in the House with 221 co-sponsors.

"The impact of death taxes, with rates as high as 55 percent, is so severe that its imposition can destroy farm businesses. When this happens, open space can be lost, surviving family members can be displaced, employees can lose their jobs and rural communities can lose their economic base," says AFBF president Bob Stallman.

Responsible Wealth likes to cite an IRS statistic that shows in a recent year only 650 people left an estate with significant farm assets, presumably subject to estate taxes. Therefore, they conclude the impact of estate taxes on farming is small. But USDA estimated a few years ago that over 14 percent of our most productive farms would owe death taxes.

Remember that there aren't several million farms anymore in this country. The number is small, particularly for farms of the size we count on for our produces. We can't afford to have even 500 farms broken up or penalized severely in a year. As Stallman says, there is a multiplier effect with farm estates that affects the heirs, employees, business community and environment. All suffer because of death taxes.

Responsible Wealth claims the estate tax already has provisions for protecting family farms, but Farm Bureau says estate tax planning is often burdensome, expensive and loaded with uncertainties. The Wall Street Journal reported that the estate tax "spawned a huge industry with insurance companies, seminar organizers, charities and book publishers all getting in on the action." If a farmer gets bad advice or does no estate planning at all, it can be a huge blow to a family already grieving the person's death.

The billionaires who are campaigning to retain the death tax may be altruistic but also are misguided.

William Gates Sr. told the Senate Finance Committee that it is "appropriate that a special tax be imposed on those who have so fully enjoyed the benefit of the things this country provides."

Why should people who have paid taxes all their life on their earnings and property owe a special tax at the end that penalizes their children, those who would carry on a family farm or business? If Gates Sr., and his son, Bill Gates, want to write an extra check to Uncle Sam, nobody is stopping them, but they should do it before the federal government goes ahead with plans to break up Microsoft.

Stewart Trulsen is the director of broadcast services for the American Farm Bureau Federation.

YOUR OPINION

Where is the loving care when needed?

To the editor:

When a child is battered, abused and neglected in the United States "The System" steps in and supposedly under the best interests of the child, changes what they can and allows the child to grow up in a safe and hopefully loving environment.

"The System" was woven one law at a time, but the safety net it was supposed to provide appears to have become a trap for a New Mexico child victim and a refuge to hide behind for the adult(s) who are supposed to be advocates working first and foremost for the benefit of children.

After being severely mauled by a dog, a local family's former foster son lies in critical condition in an Albuquerque hospital. This young boy lies alone without the comfort, love and assurance of familiar people surrounding and holding him. This boy has been denied visits from the family he lived with most of the past three years — a loving woman and man that for three years the boy called mom and dad.

If this child survives, what does the future hold for him when he is still recovering. Later, when he is 18 years old, what will he think of a world that turned away from him when he was just 10 years old and in a life-threatening crisis was told, "No, you don't need love, parents, understanding, security." What will the world expect of him in return — compassion, devotion, a tender heart?

Never should there be a law, regulation or rule that any human being, much less one of the human's helpless young, suffer through physical and emotional trauma totally alone, especially when much-needed love is eagerly waiting to hold and reassure that human being that he is with people who truly care.

Lights out in New Mexico

First, the Legislature fails to pass tougher penalties for repeat DWI offenders, then turns around and passes a bill that allows carrying concealed loaded handguns! But the best part of this bill is that local governments will have an option to ban residents from carrying concealed guns within city and/or county limits. But the local governments will have to post signs at city and/or county limits to warn the people about the ban.

Have we regressed to the days of Wyatt Earp, Billy the Kid, Tombstone and Dodge City?

Are the bars and schools going to be required to have check rooms?

Maybe all the magazines, newspapers and people who think that New Mexico is part of a foreign country are right.

Will the last one standing please turn out the lights?

New territory, new rules

To the editor:

One reason out of many why we need to get the United Nations out of Lincoln County is Border Region XXI (21).

This Border area is 2000 miles long and 300 miles wide; it is not a state from Mexico or the United States, but an international territory overseen by nine nongovernment organizations from Mexico and the United States controlled by the United Nations.

This Border Region is "now," even though it is unlawful.

Its intended purpose is to erase and dissolve the border between Mexico and the United States and create an "international territory."

The United Nations peace-keeping police, AKA International Police, are being trained at this time in this country by our military.

Only one thing remains, and that is for the President to tell the United States people that 300,000 square miles of the states of California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas that the people are no longer part of their states or the United States but citizens of this United Nations Territory.

All courts in the United States uphold all executive orders and treaties if they are lawful or not. Our only defense from this world government is our county commissioners and our elected sheriff.

We have lost our Constitution and it can no longer be used in a court of law.

Remember, the federal government owns no land other than 10 square miles in Washington, military bases and post offices.

Soft on felonies

To the editor:

Our state is tragically ranked third in violent crime. Why?

Could one of the reasons be that almost all of our judges, district attorneys and defense lawyers have a variation of the Stockholm Syndrome? What other reason could there possibly be for our courts being largely soft on felonies?

When many law-abiding individuals are exposed to criminals, they sympathize with the lawbreakers. In their minds, the criminals whom they come in contact with are merely victims of society and their times. Therefore, they feel that these offenders shouldn't be held accountable for their crimes.

Here in Lincoln County, a prominent defense attorney once suggested that we don't want to jail most of our county's lawbreakers because they are our friends and neighbors. "With friends like that, who needs enemies?"

Fortunately, our courts are required to take some sort of punitive action against those who violate the law. Unfortunately, the punishment usually consists of a mere slap on the wrist.

Our judges and officers of the court must not allow their emotions to continue to override truth and justice.

Here, in New Mexico, we elect our judges and district attorneys; therefore, we reap what we sew. In our predominantly Republican county, our electorate seems to be concerned only about the candidates' party affiliations.

Waste authority audit finds procurement code problems

Auditor Dan Austin cited two violations of the state law but said problems found in last year's audit had been resolved.

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

An audit of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2000 cited two violations of New Mexico's state procurement code, but noted that a problem with accounts receivable from the previous year was resolved.

In a report presented to the authority's governing board earlier this month, auditor Dan Austin of Ruidoso said that he found one instance of noncompliance with procurement regulations relating to purchases in excess of $10,000. He cited the cause as lack of oversight.

Austin noted another instance of noncompliance relating to lack of documentation of three quotes for the purchase of goods for less than $10,000.

"Management complied with pro-urement regulations on material purchases, but in some cases did not document how the regulations were complied with relating to purchases of less than $10,000," he said.

The response from authority manager Rick Simpson and office manager Beverly Foote in both cases was that employees will be educated on the procurement code and internal control procedures will be strengthened.

In his summary, Austin noted that operating expenses for the year hit $910,083, but expenses totaled $1,246,739, resulting in a loss of $336,656.

However, nonoperating revenue proved the loss down to $136,116 and retained earnings of $690,882 from the beginning of the year wiped out the deficit, leaving $555,766 at the end of the year.

RUIDOSO POLICE

Man faces battery charge

A Ruidoso man was charged March 23 with aggravated battery, a third-degree felony, for an alleged incident in Ruidoso Downs.

Justin Wayne Singletary, 19, allegedly entered a home in the 100 block of North Central Drive and jumped a man.

The victim was reportedly kicked in the groin, head and body. A Ruidoso Downs police report stated that Singletary also hit the victim several times with his fist.

The incident was reported to police about 5:30 p.m.

Singletary was booked by police after he arrived at the police station to talk to an officer.

An assistant district attorney told the officer to file the aggravated battery charge for allegedly applying force that could have caused great bodily harm or death.

Police allege fifth DWI

Ruidoso Downs police arrested a Tularosa man March 23, charging him with his fifth driving while intoxicated complaint.

William W. Watts, 31, was arrested after a patrol officer stopped a vehicle on U.S. Highway 70 for allegedly speeding 58 mph in a 45 mph zone.

An officer's report claimed Watts was staggering after exiting his vehicle, smelled of an alcoholic beverage and failed a series of standard field sobriety tests.

An alcohol test reportedly registered Watt's blood alcohol content at .16 and .18. New Mexico's limit to be considered intoxicated is .08.

A fifth DWI charge is a fourth degree felony.

Man charged as nuisance

A Ruidoso man, Wesley D. Tembly, 19, was arrested by Ruidoso police shortly after midnight March 24 for an incident outside a Midtown bar.

An officer on patrol near the Quarters saw a man urinating on a wall outside the bar. When the officer questioned the man he denied the action.

When questioned why he was at the bar, Tembly reportedly told the officer he had been inside drinking ginger ale. A police report stated the officer smelled an alcoholic beverage on Tembly's breath and noted slurred speech.

After his arrest, Tembly's blood alcohol content was detected at .18 and .17, the report stated. He was charged with being a minor and allowing himself to be served alcohol and being a public nuisance.

While booking Tembly police said they found a Maryland ID card with Tembly's picture and another person's name. Tembly denied knowing about the ID.

Teen faces charges

Ruidoso police arrested a village teen March 24 on misdemeanor charges of speeding, eluding police and possession of an illegal knife.

The 17-year-old was reportedly observed speeding on Sudderth Drive about 9:36 p.m. The teen was found in a parking lot near Thomas B. and Junction roads.

The knife was reportedly found in the youth's possession. After booking the teen was turned over to a parent.

Two charged in domestic

A Ruidoso couple was arrested March 22, each charged with misdemeanor battery against a household member. Officers were called to a reported domestic dispute about 2:20 p.m. at a residence in the 100 block of Olympia Street.

Molly M. McBrinn-Foster, 47, told police she has been slapped and hit three times. Dennis M. Foster, 44, said he had his beard grabbed and was hit once.

Spaghetti flinger reported

A domestic violence incident was reported to police March 21, shortly after 9 p.m. at a residence on Camelot Drive.

A woman told officers that a former boyfriend had thrown a plate of spaghetti and became verbally abusive.

She claimed the man started breaking glasses on his head and threatened to kill himself if she did not reunite with him.

The man reportedly had a knife and was reported to have been bleeding heavily.

The woman fled the residence and returned with police who were unable to find the suspect at the dwelling or in the area.

Handgun reported stolen

A handgun was reported taken from a vehicle parked in the Walgreen's lot about 6:30 p.m. March 21.

The gun's owner told police he left the firearm in his vehicle while he went into the drug store. About four hours later he realized the gun was missing.

The .45 caliber handgun had a value of $500, according to a police report. The case has been classified as an aggravated burglary from a vehicle.

Kitchen items missing

A number of items were reported stolen from a residence in the 100 block of Hart Drive.

The new Ruidoso residents told officers they had been keeping some boxed items from their recent move on a porch at the home.

After unpacking items, they realized items such as a pressure cooker, bread maker, meat slicer and other food preparation devices were missing.

The total value of the missing items was $1,106.80, prompting a felony larceny case with the Ruidoso Police Department.

Restaurant missing chairs

The owner of Southern Accents, a Carrizo Canyon Road restaurant, reported the theft of 20 outdoor patio chairs.

The chairs were believed to have been taken between 6 p.m. March 16 and 6 a.m. March 17.

The case was reported to Ruidoso police on March 23. The value of the 20 patio chairs was set at $160.

Activist reports threat

A Mescalero Apache activist, who led the fight in the early 1990s against storage of nuclear waste on the reservation, asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation last week to look into report of a bomb threat against her life.

Rufina Laws said she was approached by a neighbor who urged her to disassociate herself with a group of political activists in the tribe. The person warned that she was told of a bomb plot against Laws.

Her complaint, a copy of which was provided to the Ruidoso News, was sent to Joe McGill, an agent for the FBI in Mescalero. Telephone service to the reservation was disrupted Tuesday and McGill could not be reached for comment.

Line ends Carlsbad service

CARLSBAD — Big Sky Airlines has pulled out of Carlsbad and Roswell, saying it wasn't getting enough business because local travelers were in the habit of driving to Midland or El Paso, Texas, to catch flights.

Big Sky's decision will make it hard for Carlsbad to court another airline, said Lorraine Allen, executive director of Carlsbad's Department of Development.

"It will be nearly impossible because of this experience," she said.

Montana-based Big Sky announced Friday that its last flight would leave Carlsbad on Monday after six months of service. The airline had provided flights to Dallas and Denver from Carlsbad, Roswell and Hobbs, although it discontinued the Denver run on Jan. 20.

The airline will continue flights out of Hobbs.

Mesa Airlines, flies to Albuquerque from southeastern New Mexico.

Phelps Dodge lays off 85

SILVER CITY — Phelps Dodge Corp. is blaming high electricity prices and economic uncertainties in the copper market for its decision to curtail operations in Hurley and Tyrone and lay off 85 people, effective Monday.

Chino Mines employs 990 people at Hurley, and about 130 of them will be affected.

In addition to the 85 layoffs, 44 other employees will be reassigned to jobs now held by contract employees, Phelps

Dodge said.

Chino Mines suspended its concentrator and mining operations in Hurley. They are expected to remain curtailed through the end of the year.

Copper production at Hurley is expected to drop by 135 million pounds, although the smelter and solution extraction facilities will continue to operate along with enough mining to feed the leach stockpiles, Phelps Dodge said in a news release.

Tyrone will suspend operations in August, reducing its 2001 copper production by 7 million pounds. Production will resume in September.

That curtailment will be implemented through a combination of modified work schedules and employees taking paid vacation time. Tyrone currently has 620 workers.

City to boost power rates

AZTEC — City commissioners have approved a two-phase increase in electric rates, beginning in May.

The average residential customer's bill will increase about $1.50 in May, then will go up an additional $1.50 in September. The average is based on a monthly use of 500 kilowatt hours.

Aztec is paying more for the electricity it is buying and its allocation of electricity from the Western Area Power Authority has been reduced, forcing the city to buy electricity from other sources.

One commissioner had suggested postponing action on a rate increase because of confusion surrounding it. But other commissioners said the city could not afford to wait.

Financial officer takes the helm
Furrs Supermarkets gets new president

The privately held grocer, based in Albuquerque, filed a Chapter 11 petition for reorganization with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court on Feb. 8

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Furrs Supermarkets, which filed for reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws, announced a new president on Monday.

Steven Mortensen, who has been chief financial officer of Furrs, replaces Tom Dahlen, who is leaving to become president of Fleming Companies' retail operations. Texas-based Fleming is a distribution and food retailer.

Mortensen joined Furrs in January 2000 from Ralphs Grocery Co., where he was vice president for finance and controller.

Furrs, a privately held Albuquerque-based company, filed a Chapter 11 petition for reorganization with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Albuquerque on Feb. 8.

Furrs has said it was forced to file for reorganization because it could not restructure debt in time to meet its obligations. Dahlen has said the company had expected to complete debt restructuring by September, but it didn't get done until late December.

The company earlier this month received final court approval for $33 million in financing during restructuring.

Furrs also announced Monday it has named George Golleher, a 28-year veterans of the food industry, as its chairman of the board and retained him to provide consulting and advisory services.

Duke City makes plans to tap Rio Grande water

One method currently under study is to build a 600-foot-wide dam at the north end of Albuquerque ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — City officials are shaping up plans to tap the Rio Grande for drinking water.

Albuquerque residents apparently favor building a 600-foot-wide adjustable-height dam on the river at the north end of the city over two other proposals to take water from the Rio Grande, John Stomp, water resources manager, said.

City officials still are analyzing the options and have not decided on a diversion method.

Officials sought public comment on the three options in a series of neighborhood meetings earlier this year. They will unveil the preferred alternative at a public meeting April 20. An environmental study is to be released in May, Stomp said.

The city plans to embark on a massive project in 2005 to divert some water from the Rio Grande and treat it for drinking water. The project would cut Albuquerque's reliance on ground water and avoid depleting the aquifer, Stomp said.

Whatever method is chosen would be paid for by city water customers through water rates. Seven annual increases of 4.5 percent are earmarked for the project.

The city has been studying three options: building the dam; putting pipes beneath the river to collect water and take it to a treatment plant; and withdrawing water at the Angostura Dam near Algodones, using a canal and drain to carry the water to a treatment plant.

The dam, estimated to cost $150 million to $170 million, is the cheapest of the three options, Stomp said. The dam could include a passageway for fish.

Steve Harris of Rio Grande Restoration said the proposed passageway might not be enough to protect young Rio Grande silvery minnows or eggs, which float along with the water.

The silvery minnow is an endangered species, and environmentalists sued in 1999 to keep enough water in the river for the fish.

Brian Gifford, a water associate with the New Mexico Public Interest Research Group, said he does not like any of the options.

"All of the current proposed alternatives take too much water out of the river, which will harm the river ecosystem," Gifford said.

"All of the current proposed alternatives take too much water out of the river ..."

Weight Loss Puzzles Doctors

ATLANTA, GA — Doctors were surprised when two separate studies found that a natural dietary supplement could help cause significant weight loss. Although not conclusive, both studies found that patients receiving the formula called Bio-Rex 3000, lost more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to decrease the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat. According to a spokesperson for Phillips Gulf Corporation, the exclusive North American distributor of Bio-Rex 3000, the company is considering additional studies in order to get federal approval to make pharmaceutical claims. Currently, weight loss claims for the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement are limited. However, with the requisite approval, the company could say that Bio-Rex 3000 decreases sugar cravings, increases metabolism and interferes with the body's ability to produce excess fat. Bio-Rex 3000 is currently available as a dietary supplement and plan in pharmacies and nutrition stores by calling 1-800-729-8445. A four week supply is just $19.99. Capitan boys win Alfalfa Relays, 'Zozo girls third

BY WES SCHWENGLS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Due to a mistake in tabulation, the girls of the Carrizozo track team believed they had won the Alfalfa Relays at Hagerman Saturday. The Lady Grizzlies actually finished third.

"After the track meet, there was a bunch of confusion," said Carrizozo track coach Pat Ventura. The coach said that confusion was not just limited to the girls side, as one high school's "A" and "B" boys track teams had some of their points added together by mistake. The Capitan girls also lost a spot after the results were corrected, dropping from third to fourth.

Capitan girls' coach Zale Woodward said he noticed some discrepancies almost immediately after the meet and brought them to Hagerman High School's attention. Corrections were not made official until Tuesday morning.

Woodward said he believed the cause of the mistake was likely a computer program malfunction.

It was not known at press time whether any boys results were incorrect, although there did appear to be discrepancies in some of the team scores.

According to the original results, the Capitan boys team had won the meet with a team score of 82. Unofficial retabulation of the individual scores did not bring a different total.

Tiger boys' coach Ed Davis said he was happy with the way his team performed, despite missing some athletes to other commitments.

"That's the thing about these young men, they run hard," Davis said.

The field events were again the Tigers' strong point as Cody Glass won the shot put and discus and Ryan Kimbrell took the pole vault and got second in the javelin.

Also standing out for the Tigers was Tyler Haughness who won the 1600- and 3200-meter runs.

Davis did pull some athletes, including Dennis Brockman and Joey Saiz, from the later events because they began to feel muscle twinges.

"I take all (injuries) serious," Davis said. "We're nowhere the condition we expect to be in. But we're getting there slowly."

Despite Carrizozo's drop in the standings, Ventura said he was still pleased with all of his athletes' performances.

"That's the thing about these young men. They run hard."

RHS rallies to two wins at tourney

BY TODD BUTTS
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Ruidoso Warriors baseball team (5-5) had a series of highs and lows at the New Mexico Military Colt Classic this weekend. After coming from behind to beat the Dora Coyotes on Thursday, the Warriors faced off against the host team, the NMMI Colts (2-8). The Warriors lost to the Colts 12-0. Next they faced the Dexter Demons for third place in the tournament. In what looked like what was going to be another blow-out, the Warriors battled back from a 11-0 deficit to win 12-11.

for Ruidoso. It was frustrating beginning for the Warriors as the Colts came out with the hot sticks in the first inning. The Colts jumped out to six to nothing lead.

The Warriors did better at the plate through the next few innings. They managed to get men on base but could not bring them home. The Colts continued to slow their lead.

In an effort to blow down the Colts, coach Mike Morris brought Warrior David McNally to the mound in third inning. McNally walked the first three batters, loading the bases for the Colts. Throwing a little wildly, McNally hit the next batter, bringing in a run to give the Colts a 9-0 lead.

The fourth inning was just as tough for the Warriors. They were not able to get runners in scoring position and remained scoreless. Errors killed the Warriors against the Colts. NMMI, with men on first and second, hit the ball into right field and with the Warrior errors, the Colts managed to get an in-the-park home run.

"I think we are getting better. Score-wise they made a few mistakes that we capitalized on," said Colts coach Charlie Ward.

The Warriors went down in order in the fifth inning, and the game was called due to time restraints. The final score had the Colts winning 12-0. The Warriors went on to face the Dexter Demons for third place in the tournament.

Ruidoso track teams take on bigger schools at RISD Invitational

BY WES SCHWENGLS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

It was a fruitful weekend for the Ruidoso High School track teams, as the Warriors qualified in two more events for state competition.

The Warriors took part in the RISD Invitational in Roswell Saturday along with 13 other teams, including class 5A Clovis, Carlsbad, Alamogordo and Hobbs. Ruidoso held their own however, earning a top-five place finish at the meet overall.

The stars of the show for Ruidoso were junior pole vaulter Phillip Darley, who took fourth in his event, and the boys' 4-by-100-meter relay team, which took second. Both qualified for state competition.

The relay team consisted of Tyler Line, J.R. Floyd, Jose Linares and Solomon Barnett and sped to a 43.98-second time, despite it being the first meet at which Ruidoso had run the event.

Barnett also won the 400-meter run in a time of 49.17 and took third in the triple jump at 41 feet, seven and a half inches.

The Warriors may have had a shot at a higher finish had they competed in all events. Coach Ronny Maskew held out of a few, both due to cold weather and the fact that the teams were not at full conditioning.

"We'll run everything this week," Maskew said, referring to the teams' next meet at Socorro. "We'll be much more ready to compete team-wise."

Warrior senior Dominic Gonzales won the shot put with a toss of nearly 49 feet, which qualified him for state again. Gonzales also took second in the discus.

Senior Kammi Sparks led the way for the Lady Warriors as she took third in both the 300-meter low hurdles and the high jump and ran a leg for the 4-by-400-meter relay team, which took fifth. Sparks either scored or contributed to 10 of the team's 13 points.

All three girls' relay teams ran well at Roswell. The 4-by-100 team (Carrie Line, Leah Miller, Mindy Brunell and Kayci Brunell), 4-by-200 team (Bethany Rogge, Miller, Mindy Brunell and Kayci Brunell) and the 4-by-400 (Sparks, Jenna Carrasco, Brunell and Miller) all placed for Ruidoso.

While Maskew said he was pleased with his teams' efforts, he is looking forward to the Socorro Invitational, Saturday at 9 a.m. He said he expects the team to perform even better than they have thus far.

"We're looking to get on the road to improving," Maskew said.

Tennis Warriors improving

BY WES SCHWENGLS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The inexperienced Ruidoso High School tennis team faced a tough test Friday, playing against some good 4A and 5A squads at the Goddard Invite in Roswell.

The Warriors lost to Goddard and Lovington on the boys' side, and NMMI and Roswell on the girls'.

This is the first season of play for many of the Warriors, and while nobody on the team won their respective matches, there were signs of life from the squad.

Senior Paul Brown and eighth-grader Jaque Rankin were especially promising, taking their opponents to the limit Friday. Brown lost to Jaron Graham, Lovington's No. 1 seed, 7-5, 6-4.

Rankin lost a heartbreaker to Melanie Budnik of NMMI, 7-6 (6-8, 6-8). The match featured three tiebreakers.

Ruidoso head coach Celeste Franklin said she was optimistic after the tournament.

"Those guys are really coming around," Franklin said. "Last time (at Alamogordo), they were so scared they didn't know what to do."

Ruidoso's youth — six eighth-graders are on the team — was apparent at the invitational, as the Warriors saw only one other eighth-grader there.

Next up for the tennis team is a match at NMMI Thursday.

Ruidoso skiers take home 10 medals from Taos competition

BY LAURA DOTH
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Ruidoso Ski Team has been on the road facing tough competition in the past two weeks. They battled skiers from throughout the region at the Southern Series Championship in Taos on March 3 and 4.

Taking advantage of excellent racing conditions, Ruidoso skiers competed in both the Giant Slalom and Slalom races. Also held in conjunction with the United States Ski and Snow Board Association (USSA) sanctioned Southern Series Championship were the non-sanctioned Fun Race Championships.

Despite heavy snow and cold temperatures, Aaron Goeller was the first Ruidoso skier with a podium finish in the Southern Series Championship. Goeller placed third in the Giant Slalom, which was a combined race for the 13 and 14 year olds. His times of 54.75 in the morning and 59.35 in the afternoon netted him a bronze medal.

Teammate Eric Vaughn finished in the top 10 with times of 1:01.28 and 1:06.68. Stefan Seigmann placed 12th followed by Travis Ingels in 14th. Josh Lynch fell in the second run, taking him out of the race.

Racing in separate morning and afternoon races, the J4 boys (11- and 12-year-olds) got off to a rocky start. Peter Zagone landed a spot in the top 10 with a solid fifth-place finish. He was followed by Dylan Jasinsky in 13th place and Joe Lynch in 14th place. Rett Smith did not finish the course.

In the J4 girls division, Nicole Doth missed gate number 16, disqualifying her for the morning run.

In the afternoon heats, Peter Zagone pushed the course and grabbed a silver medal with a time of 1:01.02. Dylan Jasinsky finished 13th and Joe Lynch finished 18th. Once again Rett Smith had difficulty with the race course. He fell on his run and did not finish. Nicole Doth was within sight of a medal, finishing fourth in her division.

The J3 boys again combined their times for the morning and afternoon Slalom runs on March 4 under improved weather. Aaron Goeller finished third for his second bronze medal of the weekend. Stefan Seigmann broke into the top 10 with a strong eighth place finish. Eric Vaughn repeated his 10th-place showing, bringing the total number of J3 skiers in the top 10 to three. Travis Ingels finished 12th and Josh Lynch completed both runs for a 14th-place finish.

After a disappointing Saturday, Rett Smith skied his way to a silver medal on Sunday morning's Slalom race. Peter Zagone maintained his top-10 presence with a fifth-place finish. Joe Lynch finished 15th and Dylan Jasinsky finished 24th. Nicole Doth finished fifth in her division for the morning run.

In the afternoon, Rett Smith finished fourth, Joe Lynch finished 11th and Dylan Jasinsky was 15th. Peter Zagone did not complete the race.

In her first podium finish of the season, Nicole Doth finished third in the J4 Girls division. Her time of 1:02.92 netted her a bronze medal.

Immediately following the sanctioned races each day were the Fun Race Championships. Ruidoso skiers dominated the Fun Races with Thomas Williams bringing home the gold twice. In the J5 boys division (9- and 10-year-olds), Williams skied a 52.34 in the morning run and a 58.37 in the afternoon. Those times pushed him to first place in both legs of the Giant Slalom. Casey Cultreri placed fourth in the morning run and got up for a silver medal in the afternoon run.

In the J3 boys division, James Williams brought home two bronze medals in the Fun

Ruidoso ski team member Rett Smith flies toward the finish line during the Southern Series Championships. Smith got a silver medal on the morning slalom run.

Race Championships

"The kids are doing super," said coach Hubert Seigmann.

Ruidoso's haul for the Southern Series and Fun Race Championships were two gold medals, three silver medals, five bronze medals and 16 top-10 finishes.

While the Junior Olympic qualifiers trained for their upcoming events, five members of the Ruidoso team traveled to Leadville, Colo. for the Council Cup March 8-10. The Ruidoso team faced varying weather and serious competition from more than 20 Colorado teams and 150 racers at the Council Cup.

Under bright, sunny skies, the racers did the Super G on March 8. Stefan Seigmann lead the Ruidoso charge, finishing 17th. Eric Vaughn was hot on his heels, finishing 18th. Travis Ingels took 23rd and Josh Lynch ended up 24th. Nicole Doth was 34th in the J4 Women's Division.

The second day of racing brought cloudy, cold weather with intermittent snow flurries. Racing the Giant Slalom, Eric Vaughn finished a strong 13th in the morning run. Seigmann finished 24th, Ingels finished 26th and Lynch ended up 27th. Nicole Doth was 34th again.

In the afternoon run, Eric Vaughn continued to reach for the top 10 with a 14th place finish. Stefan Seigmann pushed his speed, moving up into 18th place. Travis Ingels and Josh Lynch finished 22nd and 23rd respectively. Nicole Doth took 34th.

The weather continued to deteriorate for the final day of racing. Under heavy snow, the skiers fought minimal visibility and cold temperatures through both Slalom runs. Eric Vaughn finished 15th, while teammates Travis Ingels and Josh Lynch moved up into 17th and 18th place. Stefan Seigmann had difficulties with the course and did not finish. Nicole Doth advanced slightly during the morning run, finishing 32nd.

The weather did not improve for the afternoon race, but the racers continued to hit it hard. Stefan Seigmann jumped into 17th place. Vaughn finished 21st, Lynch took 22nd and Ingels 25th. Nicole Doth improved again, finishing 29th for the day.

The Ruidoso Ski Team continues to train at Ski Apache. The team will be competing at Telluride, Colo. and Loveland, Colo. through the end of the ski season.

TRACK: Carrizozo girls third — three days later

"We had some runners that stepped up and ran real well," Ventura said.

Ariel Vallejos won the long jump and finished second in the 200 and Christa Franck got second in the javelin and shot put to lead the way for the Grizzlies.

The boys team was missing seven athletes due spring break and other commitments and struggled as a result. Although the team lost a number of runners from last season, Ventura said he thinks they can qualify "a relay or two and some individuals."

The girls team has already qualified for more than nine spots in the state meet.

Ventura said he was not too upset that his girls had not actually won the Hagerman meet.

"We just went out there to qualify some events," he said.

The Capitan girls also performed strongly, finishing less than five points behind Carrizozo for fourth place. Lindsey Bush won the discus and got third in the shot put and Jessica Neal and Ginger Cupit took second in the 110-meter hurdles and 3200, respectively.

While the Lady Tigers did not qualify anyone for state at Hagerman, Woodward said he was especially happy with the performances of runners Cupit and Randi Goss. "I was really pleased with our middle-distance girls," Woodward said. "The throwers did real well too."

Woodward said he attributes much of the team's success in field events to legendary coach Henry Sanchez who works mostly with Capitan's throwers.

The Tigers next head to Tularosa for the Rose Relays Friday at 3 p.m. Carrizozo will compete at the Socorro Invitational Saturday, a meet which will feature many class 4A and 5A schools.

"After the track meet, there was a bunch of confusion."

Pat Ventura, Carrizozo track coach

WARRIORS: Baseball team third in NMMI tourney

The Warriors faced the Demons Saturday in what looked like another blowout.

The first three innings were all Dexter. The Demons jumped out to a 11-0 lead in what looked like a repeat of the NMMI game the day before.

The fourth inning was where the Warriors started scratching their way back into the game. Warrior David McNally started it off with a base hit. Ruidoso then loaded the bases, and Ben Lundquist hit the ball to the shortstop who mishandled it, giving the Warriors their first run. By the end of the inning the Warriors had cut the lead to 11-4.

McNally continued to lead the team at the plate. He started off the fifth inning with a double to left field. Ben Lundquist hit a single to left, driving in McNally for an RBI third, Swanner stepped to the plate and hit a double, driving in two more runs and cutting the lead to 11-9.

Ben Lundquist and Matt Berry both doubled, knocking in two more runs to tie the game 11-11. Thomas Row then hit the ball back to the pitcher, who threw wildly to first, allowing Berry to score the winning run.

"We started off slow. What can you say when you spot a team eleven runs?" said Morris. "All of a sudden they started getting in themselves. Started getting some hits. Started getting a few runs. Right there at the end we came through."

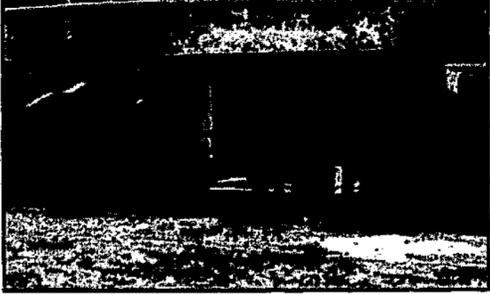

Lundquist and Swanner were chosen All-Tournament for their outstanding play.

The Warriors began district play Tuesday against Lovington. Results were not available at press time.

Girl Scouts in the dark

Cadette Girl Scout Troop 1 of Ruidoso said goodbye to the bright sun and stoically marched into darkness in March to earn their national park service Junior Ranger patch at Carlsbad Caverns National Park. Troop members had an exclusive visit to the Big Room, the Lower Cave and the Wild Cave, areas limited to only 12 visitors a day. Leader Pam Robinson called the trip, "incredible and exciting; it was an experience that brought us together as a troop." (Published in the national Girl Scout Leader magazine.)

Capitan teacher Mary Shanks will get what every teacher would like to have:

a golden apple

Mary Shanks is a teacher who prepares for every one of her diverse students.

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Capitan teacher Mary Shanks was surprised to learn that she's one of five New Mexico elementary teachers to receive the Golden Apple award for 2001.

The Golden Apple Foundation, a nonprofit organization supported by private and corporate donations, has been recognizing excellence in teaching since 1996. Winning teachers receive all-expenses-paid professional development, a personal computer and a $1,500 stipend, as well as induction into the Golden Apple Academy. The awards are rotated each year among elementary, middle school and high school teachers, and this year's awards went to elementary teachers.

Dick Clevenger, principal of Capitan Elementary School, said Shanks is the sort of teacher the Golden Apple developed the award to honor.

"Mary Shanks is only the second teacher in 44 years that I've ever recommended for any kind of award because I believe that doing their job is what's expected of them ... they should be the very best they can be and that's what they get paid for," he said.

"You have to have something that's above and beyond being very good: dedication and commitment. It's that special thing that some teachers have that pushes them above and beyond."

Clevenger cited Shanks' willingness and ability to deal with all children — gifted, special education, physically disabled. In her class of 23 students, he said, she does 19 lesson plans to meet the needs of all the children.

"She takes at least 19 different approaches to what she's trying to get across because those kids respond to it, each of them, in a different way," he said. "She takes time to find out how to get kids to respond and then goes about doing whatever is necessary."

Shanks is the first at school in the morning and the last to leave in the afternoon, Clevenger said. She takes a leadership role in the school with anything affecting instruction or students.

"She puts kids ahead of politics. Nothing else really matters as far as she's concerned. ... She's just one of those special people."

A selection committee made up of members of the New Mexico Association of Educational Retirees visited the schools of the 18 finalists and spent a day at each, watching them teach and talking to students, colleagues, principals and parents, said Marty Wilson, executive director of the Golden Apple Foundation.

"Then we came back with that committee and they shared observations and notes," Wilson said. "It's incredibly difficult, but we narrow it down to five."

The stipend can be used any way the teachers wish, Wilson said. "It's actually our way of addressing the shortage of pay for teachers. They get fully loaded computers, donated to us by the Intel Corporation in Albuquerque, and they use the computers to keep in touch."

"This award is not a one-time thing. Once they're selected, they enter into the Academy of Fellows (now 80) and they keep in touch via e-mail and they meet twice a year for a summer institute (for certified teachers from the state) at UNM. (It's) kind of developing into a think tank, a voice for teachers across the state."

Literacy was the topic of the summer institute two years ago, and mentoring was the topic last year. This year's topic has not yet been chosen.

In past years, award recipients took a semester academic sabbatical, many for an exchange visit to Oxford University sponsored by the University of

New Mexico. Wilson said teachers at the smaller schools had more trouble taking a sabbatical, so this year the foundation will work with teachers on a professional development plan for "something they can show will directly improve their classroom."

On April 2, KNME, the public television station in Albuquerque will send a crew to spend the day at Capitan Elementary, videotaping Shanks' class to be telecast at the awards event on May 12, at which the five winners, colleagues and family members will receive their awards.

Wilson also will attend the April 12 Capitan School Board meeting to honor Shanks.

"I feel very honored," Shanks said. "I also feel very humble because this is a wonderful teaching staff, so I feel really blessed that (Dick Clevenger) saw and appreciated my ability in working with students."

Shanks is a second-grade teacher who's taught for 22 years at Capitan Elementary School, plus two years in Las Cruces and Deming. Born in Plainview, Texas, she received a bachelor's degree in elementary education from Abilene Christian University and a master's degree in elementary education with an emphasis on reading from Eastern New Mexico University in Portales. She also has about 60 credit-hours study beyond the master's degree.

"I've always wanted to be a teacher," Shanks said. "I've taught Bible class since I was a sophomore in high school — and still do."

Her mother encouraged her to seek a career in teaching because she thought highly of teachers and thought her daughter had a natural talent for teaching.

Shanks is also the vice chair of Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District and wrote the program for "Project Soil," for use by teachers of kindergarten through fifth grades to teach about soil. New Mexico State University used the program to create the Project Soil video, which won an award.

Shanks said she enjoyed the visit in February by the selection committee. The members, veteran teachers, commented on the diversity of her 23 students. She said the committee spent a lot of time in the classroom and at one point talked to the students about their teacher. One parent heard about the visit and came to school to praise Shanks' teaching.

"We're pretty much a back-to-basics school," Shanks said of Capitan Elementary. "The other second-grade teacher, Laura Jones, and I plan together and we're very structured. We teach phonics and read stories with sight words. We use the Shurley Method Grammar, and our kids know how to identify and mark a sentence (adjectives, subject-nouns, verbs, adverbs, adjectives and prepositions). They write a two-point expository paragraph — a method of teaching writing and grammar."

Shanks said she doesn't want to do a sabbatical, but would like to attend a conference on early childhood development to be held in Washington, D.C. Wilson said the foundation will cover all expenses related to the conference as well as reimburse the school district for a substitute teacher for her class.

"I would like to go there for the conference and to talk to our congressmen about education," Shanks said. "I think they need to hear from some grassroots people from the classroom."

Parents also are supportive, she said, and always willing to get their children to school early if she needs to spend more time with them, and most parents attend the parent-teacher conferences.

"I really appreciate the support I get from Mr. C and the school board and Mrs. Billingsley (superintendent of schools)," Shanks said.

"I also appreciate the support staff — secretaries and teacher's assistants — because I could not teach as well as I do if I didn't have them."

Space Station Stars in the Sky

Look up one night, and you might see what looks like a bright new star gliding across the sky.

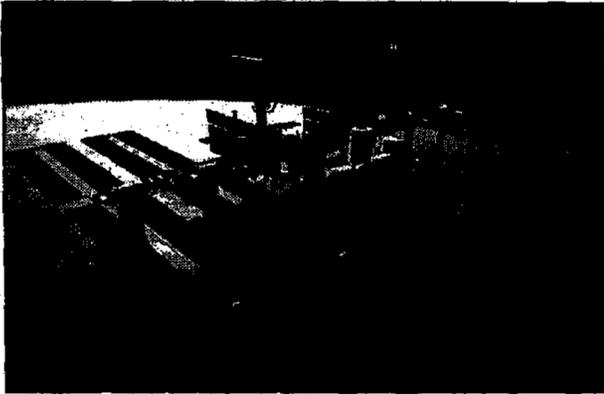

On some nights, the third-brightest object in the sky will be the International Space Station, or ISS. Only the star Sirius and the moon will appear brighter.

People in space

In November, the first crew began living on board the space station, and a new chapter began in space exploration. From now on there may always be humans living in space.

People will probably be living on the station for at least 15 years. Each crew will stay on the station until new crew members come up.

ISS could also be the launching spot for people going to the moon, or exploring Mars or beyond.

This computer-made art shows what the International Space Station will look like after it is finished in 2006. The station flies about 230 miles above the Earth. It orbits the Earth every 90 minutes, about 16 times a day. It flies at about 17,500 miles per hour.

Seeing the station

In December, astronauts attached giant solar wings to the station. The 240-foot wings, which will produce power for the ISS, make it easy to see the station from Earth.

ISS is visible on the ground because it reflects sunlight.

The best times to see the station are within two hours before sunrise or after sunset. Sometimes it will seem high in the sky. Other times it will be just over the horizon.

To learn when the station will appear in skies in your neighborhood, see: <http://spaceflight.nasa.gov/>

The lab arrives

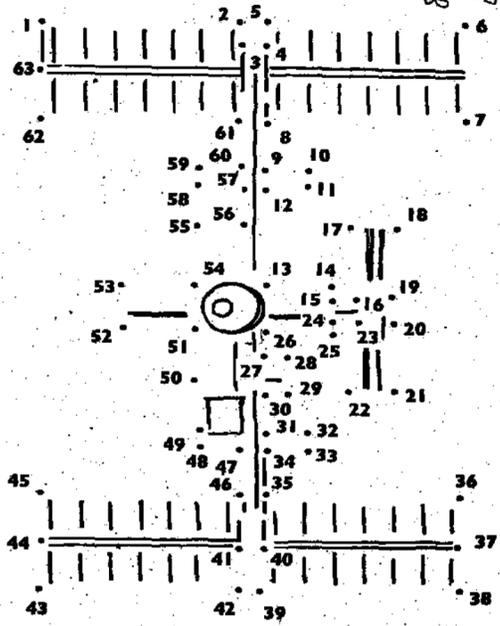

In February, shuttle astronauts brought up the most important part of the station, the laboratory named Destiny. Before the lab arrived, crew members could not do much scientific work. They spent most of their time building the station.

Scientists hope experiments on Destiny will help them make better medicines and materials. They also hope to learn more about the causes of diseases.

Mission patch for the delivery of Destiny.

Rookie Cookies Recipe Wrapped Beans

You'll need:

- 1 (15-ounce) can green beans
- 10 slices of uncooked bacon, cut in half
- 1/3 cup Italian salad dressing

What to do:

1. Form about 10 beans into a bunch.
2. Wrap 1/2 slice of bacon around each bunch. Form bunches until all beans are used. Use more bacon if necessary.
3. Place bunches in a baking dish. Pour salad dressing evenly on top.
4. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 40 minutes or until bacon is cooked.

Makes about 8 bunches.

MIGHTY FUNNY'S Funny Phonics

It's fun to learn phonics, or the way letters sound. This week's target sound is the one made by the OW blend, as in the word snow.

Chloe: Why did the moth eat the rug?
Sue: To see the floor show!

Carl: Where do Eskimos keep their money?
Zoe: In a snow bank!

Steven: Why did the crow sit on the telephone wire?
Luke: So he could make a long-distance call!

Go on an OW word hunt. What other words can you find that use the OW blend? What sound do you HEAR?

Gus Goodsport's Report Supersport: Allan Houston

Height: 6-8 Birthdate: 4-29-71
Weight: 200 College: Tennessee

Allan Houston is in his fifth season as a guard for the New York Knicks. Before joining the team in 1996, he played for three seasons with the Detroit Pistons.

Last season he led the Knicks in scoring average (19.7 points per game). That tied for the best average in his career. He also averaged 19.7 points a game in the 1995-96 season. Allan was born and grew up in Louisville, Ky. In high school, he played basketball and was a high jumper on the track team.

In college, he earned a degree in African-American studies. When he played college basketball, his father was the coach.

Meet Michael W. Smith

One of the most popular Christian singers around is Michael W. Smith. He started writing songs when he was 6.

Before he became a professional singer, he worked for a music publishing company.

He got his start in music in 1982 when he got a job playing keyboards for singer Amy Grant.

Michael lives with his wife, Debbie, their three sons and two daughters on a farm near Nashville, Tenn.

In his free time he likes to ride four-wheelers, ride horses, fish, hunt and play golf. His favorite place to visit is Colorado. Some of his favorite music is from movie soundtracks.

Space Station TRY 'N FIND

Words that remind us of the International Space Station are hidden in the block below. Some words are hidden backward or diagonally. See if you can find: SPACE, STATION, RUSSIA, SKY, CREW, MISSION, COMMANDER, GRAVITY, AIR, SCIENCE, WATER, LIVE, PEOPLE, MOON, MARS, POWER, EARTH, ENERGY.

Mini Spy ...

Mini Spy is getting some outdoor exercise while serving as part of the crew of the International Space Station. See if you can find: ruler, funny face, letter C, saw, word MINI, pizza, pliers, tooth, peanut, arrow, number 7, heart, letter H, pencil, safety pin, ear of corn, marshmallow, letter A, doughnut.

All Aboard the Space Station

The United States and Russia are the biggest of 16 partners working on ISS.

The first crew to live on ISS were (from left): Mission Commander William M. Shepherd, U.S.; Yuri Gidzenko and Sergei Krikalev, from Russia.

Life on the station

Quarters are cramped, but not as cramped as in other space missions. From three to seven people will be spending months in a space about as big as the inside of a jumbo jet.

It will seem larger than that, though, because the gravity on board is only about one-millionth of that felt on Earth. (This is called microgravity.) Crew members will get to use the ceilings and walls as living space.

Air

It could get smelly up there. Crew members will have little water for bathing. Science experiments on the station might give off smelly gases.

Also, without gravity, air doesn't move. Without special machines to move and clean the air, crew members could end up surrounded by poisonous carbon dioxide they've breathed out. Oxygen would not move into their lungs.

Oxygen to breathe is manufactured on board or is stored in tanks outside the station.

Water

Some water has been carried to the station, but getting it up there is expensive. The crew will save and recycle as much as they can.

Sinks won't have faucets. The crew will just wet a washcloth with spray. Showers will be brief.

Special machines collect the water in the air. The crew's wash water and urine from the crew and lab animals will all be recycled.

Even though this sounds unpleasant, the recycled water will actually be cleaner than most drinking water on Earth.

All crew members go through survival training on Earth.

The second crew went through winter survival training in Russia. They are (from left): U.S. astronaut Susan Helms, Commander Yuri Usachev from Russia and U.S. astronaut Jim Voss.

Special training

If ISS crews run into trouble, they can take a Russian-built "lifeboat" back to Earth. But in an emergency, they might have to land in a jungle or ocean, or Russian Siberia.

Before going into space, the crew members have to learn how to survive on Earth. They go through survival training in arctic cold and in jungle heat.

They learn how to build shelters with what material is around, and how to find food and water. They even eat lizards!

Horse sense runs in this family

BY KATE LAROSE
CLOVIS NEWS JOURNAL

PORTALES (AP) — As a whip cracked sharply in the air, a dark-brown filly galloped around the pen, nostrils flaring. With a single "Whoa" from horse trainer Andy Fair, the animal stopped at the side of a round, wooden fence.

"Come here," Fair said in a soft, commanding tone, beckoning from where he stood in the center of the enclosed ring. Like a dog coming to her master, the horse walked slowly to Fair, standing beside him as he stroked her neck.

For the filly, it was a familiar routine, a process Fair has used in training horses for 23 years at his Portales stables.

"Working with a horse, it's real hard to put into words," Fair said as he led the filly toward his white, cinder block barn.

"I've spent my whole life learning how to do this," he said.

As a 12-year-old helping his father, John W. Fair, with his horse shoeing business, Andy began to learn the art of training horses as an apprentice to a trainer near Stephenville, Texas. When he graduated from high school in 1978, Fair opened his business where it still stands today off State Highway 267 about four miles west of Portales.

The stables belonged to his father, who allowed him to use it as training grounds for young, unbroken horses.

"At that point, you ride anything," Fair said. "You ride horses that have bucked everyone in the country off."

It has been a while since Fair has seen the wild horses he used to train in his youth, which he attributes to more careful breeding by owners.

Now, he mostly works with 2- or 3-year-old horses, although he also re-trains horses who have learned bad habits.

With nine horses in his stables and a waiting list of eight more, Fair can afford to choose his students more carefully these days. The soft-spoken, lean, 40-year-old cowboy uses a method with horses called resistance-free training, teaching with calm, persuasive commands rather than force.

"When I work with the horses, I approach it with, 'Let's just try this out, it's not that bad, I'll be right there with you,'" Fair said. "You're looking for respect from them."

Over the years, Fair has developed a broad clientele, training horses for riding, for ranching and even for buggies. He has also trained two zebras. Training a zebra to wear a halter was difficult because they were wild.

"You can just tell there's a difference — you can see it in their eyes," Fair said.

What he enjoys most is preparing horses for western pleasure show riding, which requires the animals to walk in a slow, measured gait with their heads down. No matter what the horse's future job, Fair said, the early stages of training always starts with a process called joining up.

In a round pen, Fair teaches the horse how to run in a circle and stop at his command, accustoming them to the feel of riding equipment.

"I always like to study my horses, to read them," Fair said. Once the horse learns to follow his commands, he puts them in a bridle and saddles them, allowing them to identify with the extra weight.

"With me, there's not going to be a lot of bucking, there's not going to be hollering," Fair said. "My main purpose is to make the ride just as pleasant as I can."

Fair and his son, Cheston, worked with a two-year-old quarterhorse named Cat in the round pen. Clutching a long, white rope attached to Cat's head, Fair pulled Cat tightly to his side while riding another horse.

"When Cat first came (two weeks ago), he would just stand back in the corner and wouldn't hardly let us touch him," Cheston said. "A horse is a whole lot like a person, each horse has its own personality, each horse has its own fears."

Cheston, 20, hopes to pursue the trade that he has learned from his father since he was 12.

"I've never really thought about doing anything else," Cheston said. "I'm doing what I love."

Andy Fair said of his five children, Cheston and his daughter, Lacy, 9, show the most interest in horses.

"My son, he's got the horse sense," Fair said.

It could be a character that runs through family blood lines. Grandfather John W. Fair lives in a house behind his son near the stables. "It's been really nice for me, since I've got my son and my grandson in the business," John said. "It's rewarding."

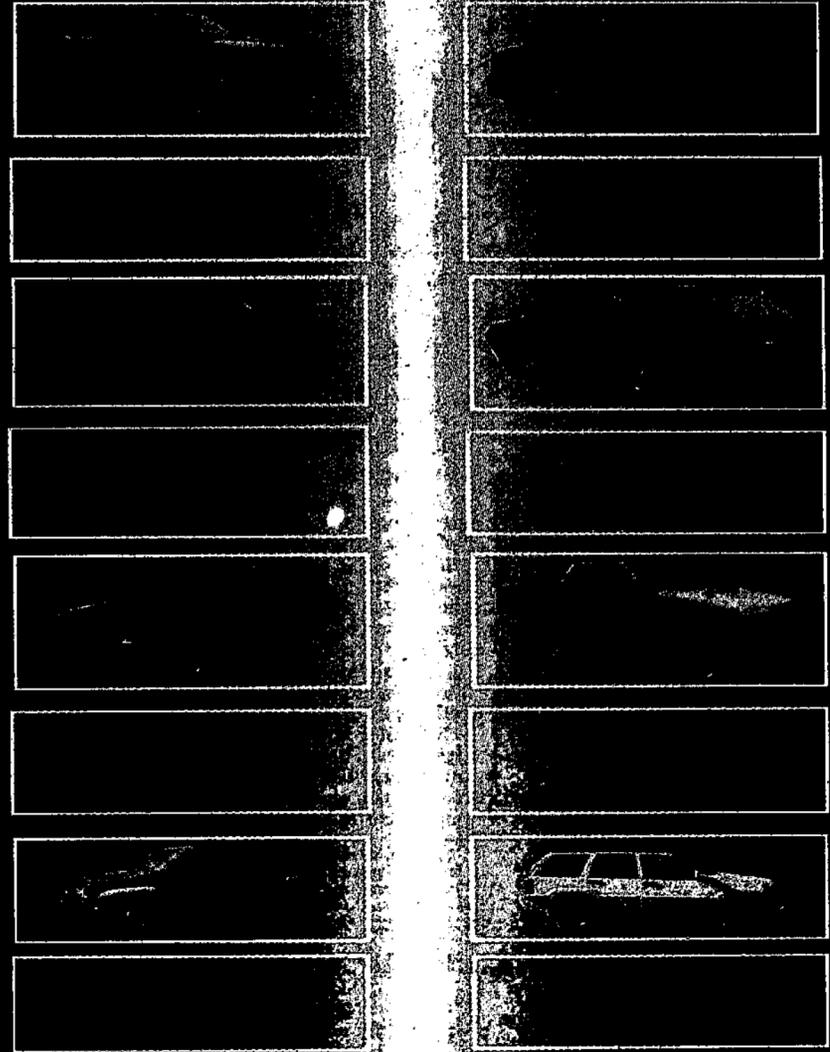

Andy Fair said not everyone who owns a horse or even trains them knows the right way to handle a horse. "It's just a bond," he said.

"People laugh when I say this, but it's just a matter of being horsey."

"It's just a matter of being horsey."

Furrs Seafood Selections!

SALMON IN CREAM SAUCE OVER PASTA

Ingredients:
 12 oz. Fresh Furrs Linguini or Other Thin Pasta
 1/4 lb. Furrs Butter
 1 Cup Frozen Furrs Peas
 1 Cup Furrs Heavy Whipping Cream
 2 Cups (about 12 oz.) Furrs Cooked Salmon
 1 Cup Furrs Parmesan Cheese
 Salt and Pepper to taste
 Dash Nutmeg to taste
 1/4 Cup Minced Fresh Parsley

- Cook the pasta in 4 quarts boiling water (for about 12 minutes for dried and 2 minutes for fresh)
- Meanwhile, melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in a sauce pan or skillet over medium heat. Add the peas and sauce. Add the remaining 6 tablespoons butter and cream, reduce the heat to low and cook, stirring occasionally, about 5 minutes. Add the salmon, 1/2 cup of the parmesan, salt, pepper and nutmeg to taste. Stir until the cheese melts and the salmon is heated through, about 2 minutes. The sauce should not boil.
- Drain the pasta and place it in a heated bowl. Pour the sauce over the pasta, add the parsley and garnish with toasts to mix. Serve immediately. The rest of the cheese may be used as a topping.
