State expands area fire restrictions

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
 RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

■ The New Mexico Forestry Division has expanded fire restrictions already in effect on tribal and federal lands to other areas in Lincoln and 12 other counties statewide.

Fire restrictions imposed on Ruidoso area tribal and federal lands earlier this month have been expanded to additional locations.

The New Mexico Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department has imposed smoking, campfire and open fire restrictions on non-municipal and non-federal lands in Lincoln and Otero counties, as well as 12 other counties in the state.

"Given the current conditions, fires are a threat to homes in any of the forested areas," said Toby Martinez, State Forester with the department's Forestry Division. "If you must go into the forest, please be extremely cautious. We do not need to see any additional fires caused by human carelessness."

In the order issued Friday, the Forestry Division stated a lack of precipitation, high winds and low humidity have caused wildland fuels to dry out.

The order restricts smoking to designated areas, within structures or inside a vehicle equipped with an ash-tray.

Campfires are limited to developed campgrounds or in areas designated in writing by the land owner. Charcoal grills as well as wood and coal stoves used outdoors are classified as campfires.

Martinez's order allows an exemption to the prohibition when a cooking or heating device uses kerosene, white gas or propane as a fuel.

Open fires have been off limits in Lincoln County since the division rescinded and stopped issuing burning permits after the April 1 Muskegeth Fire near Ruidoso.

Martinez said landowners can use charcoal grills in their backyards. He recommended keeping a fire extinguisher nearby.

In addition to Lincoln and Otero counties, the restrictions also apply to Bernalillo, Cibola, Chaves, Eddy, Los Alamos, McKinley, Mora, Sandoval, San Miguel, Santa Fe, Torrence and Valencia counties.

Ads aim to ease fire fear

Village launches a $15,000 campaign to reassure tourists

Radio and television ads and public service announcements have hit the airwaves from Tucson to Texas with the message that Ruidoso was unscathed by this year's forest fires.

"There was so much overstatement of what was going on," Ruidoso Mayor Robert Donaldson said of the fire that started June 2 on the Mescalero Apache Reservation. "It could have been a disaster, but it wasn't. But letting bad PR ruin our economy would be a disaster, too."

"There was so much overstatement of what was going on."

Robert Donaldson
 Ruidoso mayor

The Ruidoso village council last week approved spending $15,000 in lodgers tax money to quickly produce and distribute the 30- and 60-second messages that feature Donaldson.

"When we knew we were running into serious trouble because of a lack of information and erroneous information was going out, we contacted radio and cable TV," said Laura Doth, of Grindstone Graphics and Marketing Services Inc., the firm that handles village of Ruidoso promotional marketing.

The 60-second radio spots, which are running as paid and free public service messages, are on stations from Ruidoso and Roswell to Lubbock, Midland and El Paso. The announcements are also in the Tucson market, Grindstone Graphics' Mark Doth said.

The 30-second TV spots are running on cable operations across the Lone Star State.

They feature Donaldson standing along the Rio Ruidoso at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce building.

"On June 2 a relatively small forest fire brought a great exaggeration in the media on the fire and its impact," Donaldson begins. Explaining that the fire never reached into the village limits, the mayor said visitors can "enjoy all the area activities that you've come to enjoy."

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Joan Zagone called it important to counteract the perception that Ruidoso was affected by the Trap and Skeet Fire.

She's written a letter to television stations in New Mexico, chiding coverage of the fire.

"Unless the facts are referenced as to the proximity and distance of such an event, it is too often misunderstood and therefore needlessly sensationalized," Zagone wrote. She added that the chamber has received hundreds of calls from those who believed they heard that Ruidoso had burned down.

"The phone calls have died down some," Zagone said Tuesday. "But we're still getting some."

Donaldson said he has heard from some lodgers that cancellations followed the reporting of the Trap and Skeet Fire.

Ex-cop begins prison term in sting case

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
 RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A former Ruidoso police corporal, sentenced to 2 1/2 years in prison for stealing money from a purse, has been ordered to begin serving the term.

Luis Torres, 51, had appealed his 1999 jury conviction on counts of felony embezzlement and misdemeanor criminal trespass. The New Mexico Court of Appeals affirmed Torres' conviction and the state Supreme Court denied a review of the case.

During the appeal process, Torres had been free on bond.

A motion filed by 12th Judicial District Attorney Scot Key sought to take Torres into custody. District Court Judge Waylon Counts granted the motion Friday and also denied a request by Torres' attorney to reduce or modify the sentence.

Torres was escorted from the court at Carrizozo to the Lincoln County Detention Center where he was awaiting transport Monday to a state corrections facility.

Torres was charged in July 1998 with spending $279 taken from a "lost" purse that had been turned over to him. The purse, given to Torres by a woman, was part of a sting operation by the Ruidoso police, who had become suspicious of Torres.

A Ruidoso shop owner had told police she caught Torres coming in a back window of her business. Torres, who was armed and did not identify himself as a police officer, left without incident when confronted, the shop owner told police officials.

Torres had admitted to two investigators that he had spent the $279, according to previous court testimony. The criminal trespass conviction resulted from the after-hours back window incident in June 1998.

Torres had been fired from the Ruidoso Police Department minutes before a Magistrate Court bond hearing on July 15, 1998.

Torres, who had been employed as a Ruidoso police officer for five years, had been in law enforcement for over 20 years.

He had served more than two years as police chief in Belen until he was demoted to sergeant in July 1992 and resigned later that year.

YOUNG 101

JAMES KALVELAGE/STAFF

Ruth Shelander celebrated her 101st birthday Monday with a family get-together at Cattle Baron Steak and Seafood Restaurant. Shelander attributed her longevity to staying away from "drink, chew or smoke." Violet Propsner, right, said her mother travels the country in a recreational vehicle with her and her husband. They spend three to four months each summer in the Ruidoso area, where other family members reside. Shelander, Propsner said, was a "Rosie the Riveter" during World War II, working on military aircraft. She was also involved in electronics assembly that went into the Apollo space program. "I don't lie, either, or else you pay the consequences," Shelander said.

Teen critically injured in auto crash

■ Matthew Collins suffered a critical head injury in the two-vehicle wreck Sunday near Nogal.

A Ruidoso teen was critically injured Sunday as a result of a two-vehicle collision near Nogal.

Matthew Collins, 16, suffered a critical head injury in the crash, according to a New Mexico State Police report. He was listed in serious condition Tuesday at University of New Mexico Hospital in Albuquerque, a hospital spokesman said.

The collision, on County Road C-015 (Nogal Canyon Road) happened about 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Travis Horst, 16, of Alto was driving a 1981 Ford Mustang, that collided with a pick-up truck driven by Carl McDaniel, 42, of Nogal. Police said both vehicles were traveling about in the middle of the road. When Horst saw the oncoming pick-up truck he panicked, according to an accident report and drove into the pick-up truck.

Neither McDaniel or Horst were seriously injured.

Collins was initially taken by ambulance to the Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso and then transferred to the Albuquerque hospital by medical ambulance.

A number of emergency responders and police agencies responded to the crash.

Horst was cited by police for a lane violation.

Judge tosses lawsuits against ex-firefighters

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
 RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Lawsuits, seeking recovery of monies the Village of Ruidoso Downs contends were wrongly requisitioned by eight former firefighters, have been dismissed by a judge.

The dismissal, without prejudice, means the civil suits will likely be quickly re-surrected.

Lincoln County Magistrate Court Judge William R.

Butts Monday made the ruling over a defense argument that the Village of Ruidoso Downs' attorney received village council approval to file the lawsuit after the fact.

Village Attorney Dan Bryant argued the Ruidoso Downs village council authorized him to file legal actions during an executive session of the council. He said the council later ratified the filing of the civil

Concert to cap weeklong band camp

The Las Cruces New Horizons Band is holding its second annual summer band camp in Ruidoso this week, culminating in a one-hour concert for the community at 10:30 a.m. on Friday in the park next to the Senior Citizen Center on Sudderth Drive. Jazz, marches, show tunes and more serious compositions will be performed.

The band camp consists of instruction for various sections of the band, other special musical instructions and full-band rehearsals, starting at 10 a.m. and ending at 4:30 p.m. throughout the week prior to Friday's concert.

The Las Cruces New Horizons Band is comprised of senior citizens over the age of 50 who have either played an instrument in their youth and laid it aside to have a family and career or those who did not have the opportunity to pursue music prior to retirement. Some members are accomplished musicians but decided to learn a new instrument and joined the band for that reason.

The first New Horizons Band was formed by Dr. Roy Ernst of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., in 1991. The word spread by articles in various publications and interested people in other areas contacted Ernst about starting a band in their areas. There are now 66 bands in the United States and two in Canada, with many more in the planning phase or in the process of forming and organizing. The movement is supported by a grant from NAMM International Music Products Association and the National Association of Band Instrument Manufacturers for publicizing and expanding the movement. Local bands are affiliated with the movement but are independent and self supporting.

The Las Cruces band was formed in January of 1995 and is jointly sponsored by the New Mexico State University Music Department and Mike White of White's Music Box, a Las Cruces music store retailer with stores in Las Cruces and El Paso. The band director, William D. Clark, recently retired as head of the New Mexico State University Music Department. John Yargas, the assistant director, is a retired music educator from California now associated with the NMSU Music Department.

The Las Cruces group was the 12th New Horizon Band formed in the United States and is the only one in New Mexico. Its premier performance was in April 1995 with 18 local senior members. The band now has more than 60 members and has played many events in Las Cruces, Hatch and Sunland Park and White Sands Missile Range and was featured as the opening performing group at the New Mexico Musical Educators annual convention in Albuquerque in January 1998. As a result, the band was invited to play at a musical festival in Chicago and the Texas Band Masters Convention in San Antonio, Texas.

The band is a nonprofit, charitable organization and contributions are tax deductible.

The band said it is grateful for the support of the Ruidoso High School Music Department, the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, the Ruidoso Senior Citizen Center and the Ruidoso News.

SUITS: Procedure questioned in Downs ex-firefighters lawsuit actions in an open session.

The attorney for the eight former firefighters, Robert Beauvais, alleged the executive session violated New Mexico's Open Meeting Act.

"We asked for a copy of the (meeting) agenda," Beauvais told the court. "It says the board of trustees will discuss the matter, not make a motion."

He called Bryant's activity involving the Open Meetings Act provisions "illegal."

Both Beauvais and Bryant concurred that a question involving the Open Meetings Act was an issue for a higher court to review, and not within a magistrate court's jurisdiction.

"But the lawsuit is clearly jurisdictional in your court," Bryant told the magistrate judge. "Instead of wasting time and money, enter an order, certifying the question to a district court. Ask them 'was there a violation of the Open Meetings Act.'"

Bryant said if the court of proper jurisdiction on the Open Meeting Act ruled there was a violation, then the civil suits could be dismissed. If there was no violation, the lawsuits could continue in either magistrate or district court. Bryant argued the cases should be heard locally.

"It's where the firefighters live," Bryant told the court. "It's where the records are kept. In this community. It cries for a trial in Ruidoso or Ruidoso Downs."

Beauvais, arguing for a complete dismissal of the suits, said he did not know of a way to send the cases in their entirety to a higher court short of a magistrate court adjudication.

Butts agreed, noting in eight years only bind-overs or appealed cases have advanced from his court to district court.

"I agree with Mr. Beauvais," Butts said. "He has raised issues of Open Meetings Act violations that are not jurisdictional for this court. Therefore all eight cases are dismissed without prejudice."

Bryant will appeal the decision to the district court, where the meeting violation question may then be decided. In addition the district court could, depending on their review of of the alleged meeting violation, keep the lawsuits or remand the civil actions back to the magistrate court.

The lawsuits sought to recover from $600 to $4,106 from individual former members of the Ruidoso Downs Fire Department.

Those included in the cases now expected to be at least partially reviewed by the district court are former fire chief Nick Herrera, former paid department member Jimmy Smith, and volunteers Jewel Smith, Kelly Calicoat, Tory Ellis, Danny Hoffer, Albert Flores and Terry Bernard.

Additional criminal complaints were filed against former department members earlier this year that allege receiving village payments for services not rendered.

Upper Canyon sign awaits legal opinion

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A legal opinion on placing a commercial sign in the right-of-way in a residential district will be presented to the Ruidoso Village Council.

The opinion is expected to accompany a Planning and Zoning Commission recommendation to allow the placement of a lodging establishment sign in the right-of-way of Main Road in the Upper Canyon.

Janice Duncan, of Mountain Air Cabins, told the commission Tuesday that the proposed two-foot by three-foot sign would lure visitors to the upper end of the canyon.

"I think we're missing a lot of visitors," Duncan said. "They come half-way up the canyon and turn around."

Duncan said the sign would state that the Mountain Air Cabins are just over a mile further up the road.

Planning and Zoning Department Director Joseph

Patoskie said it was up to the commission's discretion if commercial signs were appropriate for a residential area.

Village attorney Charles Rennick told the commission Ruidoso's code was silent on signs in the right-of-way.

"One thing I'm not sure about is whether the right-of-way is considered residential zoned," Rennick said. "The code prohibits commercial signs on residential zoned property."

Rennick said the commission's recommendation will require a final decision from the village council. Commissioner Bill Hirschfeld called on Rennick to provide the council with a legal opinion.

The commission voted five to one, with chairman Glen Barrow registering a nay, to recommend the sign.

The village has allowed commercial signs along roads at some other locations, with the business paying an annual rental for the use of the right-of-way.

Ordinance change could help drunks and police

BY JAMES KALVELAGE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Ruidoso's disorderly conduct code could this summer include a provision that would let police drive an intoxicated person home.

The ordinance proposal, scheduled by the village council for a July 10 public hearing, would also allow those publicly under the influence of alcohol or other substances also to be ticketed.

"What this would do is eliminate a lot of problems we've had for the last few years," Police Chief Lanny Maddox told the council. "We now babysit for approximately four hours until they're able to go out on their own."

Maddox said those found drunk in public are picked up under a protective custody provision and placed in detox, where they're held at the police station. Charges are not filed.

"We're out of the jail business," Maddox said. "We have four hour holding cells. With this we could take the person home or to a friend or acquaintance to take care of them."

Jail to get a water softener

A water softening system will be installed at the Lincoln County Detention Center.

The system was left out of the original design for the new county jail in Carrizozo and County Manager Tom Stewart said he worried that fixtures will be damaged by the "hard" water.

Previously tabled to allow Stewart to look at two different approaches proposed by two Culligan companies, the manager recommending staying with the low bidder.

Culligan Water of Las Cruces bid $11,645, but its proposal was challenged as inadequate by Bartlett Enterprises, Culligan Ruidoso, which bid $20,600.

Two other bids fell between those figures.

Stewart said the Las Cruces firm proposes two 2-inch pipes while Bartlett submitted a design with one 3-inch pipe.

WHAT ARC CAN DO FOR YOU

When driving at night, do you have problems with annoying glare from oncoming traffic? Do the lights in your place of business or from your computer cause a reflection or a glare? If you answered yes to either one of these questions, anti-reflective coating or ARC on your glasses may be the answer for you.

Anti-reflective coating is a special coating applied to the front and/or back side of lenses that can virtually eliminate glare and reflections. AR coating allows up to 99% of the light to reach your eyes. This special coating can be used along with other lens treatments including ultra-violet protection and tinting. Even if you don't wear glasses, non-prescription occupational lenses can be treated with anti-reflective coating to help with the glare of driving or office work.

Call 257-5029 or drop by Family Vision Center at 159 Mesalero Trail and speak to our friendly staff about anti-reflective coating. You may also want to know about our in house specials on frames and lenses.

RUIDOSO POLICE

Gas service dispute

A home in the 300 block of Walnut Drive, that had its natural gas shut off for non-payment, is at the center of a case alleging falsely obtaining services and injury to property, filed with the Ruidoso Police Department.

An official of Zia Natural Gas Company told police a meter lock had been broken off between May 22 and June 12. The company official also reported that there have been gas used at the home as a result of the removed lock.

The missing lock has a value of $500. The occupants of the home told officers they don't know who broke the meter lock.

Man in custody

A 61-year-old Missouri man was taken into protective custody by Ruidoso police on June 15.

Officers were dispatched to Flume Canyon about 8:30 p.m. on a report of a reckless driver. An officer found a vehicle and a man walked out of a wooded area to meet with the officer.

A police report stated the man responded to questioning with inappropriate answers and displayed irrational behavior.

When police contacted a Kansas City, Mo., hospital a spokesman said the man was a lifelong patient and should be taken to the nearest psychiatric hospital.

An evaluation of the man determined he was psychotic, and he was taken to Mesilla Valley Hospital in Las Cruces.

Home burglarized

Ruidoso police are awaiting for a list of property reported stolen from a Grindstone Canyon Road residence in April.

A resident told police someone entered the home between April 21 and 22 and removed property without authorization.

A June 1 police report stated the department was still waiting for the alleged victim to supply a detailed list of what was missing.

The case has been categorized as a felony burglary.

Party-goer arrested

A fight at the Mountain of Blues Festival June 16 resulted in the arrest of one patron.

Police, who were on duty at the festival, encountered two men fighting about 8 p.m.

After officers separated the two, one of the alleged fighters refused to comply with an order to roll onto his stomach and place his hands behind his back.

John M. Guitierrez, 38, Paris, Texas, was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and resisting police, both misdemeanors.

Witnesses to the incident told police Guitierrez started the fight.

ID card a phony

A 20-year-old man, who allegedly admitted to having a false ID, was arrested June 14 outside a Ruidoso restaurant and bar.

Ryan A. Elwyn, Ruidoso, was charged with presenting false evidence of age, being a minor in a licensed premise and selling or giving alcoholic beverages.

Police were called to Farley's Pub at 1200 Mechem Drive at 11:15 p.m. after a manager believed an under aged patron was drinking in the bar area.

Elwyn reportedly told police a friend made the fake ID. He denied using the ID to purchase beer. A waiter told police Elwyn had ordered a beer and was observed drinking it.

Checkbook taken

A misdemeanor larceny incident was reported to police June 15 involving missing credit cards.

An El Paso man said he had inadvertently left his checkbook in a shopping cart of the Furrs parking lot on Mechem Drive about 10:40 a.m.

When he returned minutes later, he found the checkbook had been turned in but three credit cards and miscellaneous papers were missing.

Planning committee to examine fire, potential effects

A recap of the Trap and Skeet Fire and discussion about the potential aftermaths of the blaze are scheduled for today's meeting of the Lincoln County Local Emergency Planning Committee.

Committee Chairman Thomas Chavez said the talks will include the possibility of monsoon season flooding from the fire area's watershed and necessary mitigation issues.

Chavez said the committee is also looking for increased community involvement.

"With the emergency that we had and the all-out public awareness that we have here, we would like more public involvement," Chavez said. "That involvement can be done at the Local Emergency Planning Committee meetings."

The panel meets the third Wednesday of each month at 1:30 p.m. at the Ruidoso Convention Center.

The $150,000 airline service gamble

Maybe the experiment will work...maybe.

No doubt about it, Ruidoso's tourism-based economy has needed a dependable airline connection for a long time. Mesa Airlines tried it and backed off, Lone Star tried it, and backed off. Now something called Rio Grande Air is trying it, with some help from a chunk of Ruidoso's gross receipts tax revenue.

To get to that point, Ruidoso has teamed up with a couple of other tourism-based communities in the state - Taos and Taos Ski Valley - to get a connection to Albuquerque International Airport.

This marriage of convenience, also known as a joint powers agreement, will subsidize Rio Grande Air for the next fiscal year. The two Taos County resort communities will kick in $25,000 each. That, with Ruidoso's bigger chunk, will presumably allow the commuter line to get $200,000 more under a state program, and open the way for some federal funding under pending legislation (if it becomes law.)

For that, Rio Grande Air would fly a single-engine Cessna turboprop aircraft seating nine passengers to and from Albuquerque twice daily for about $118 for a round trip.

So far, so good. Tim Morris, who manages Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, says it's working for Rio Grande Air now for Taos and Durango, Colo., even if Los Alamos has been dropped for insufficient ticket sales.

Mayor Robert Donaldson thinks it will work here, especially if such entities as the Ruidoso Downs Race Track and casino and Mescalero Enterprises helps with the subsidy - or purchase a block of tickets. It might help, too, if Rio Grande can make a connection to the El Paso airport at a price that makes sense.

We can only wish the project well; in a hitch, many people might find the time savings a benefit. But nobody will know for sure until Rio Grande has a year of service behind it - and asks (or doesn't ask) for an additional subsidy.

AGRICULTURE OUTLOOK

Energy, water issues could put Kyoto Protocol in the shade

BY STEWART TRULSEN
AMERICAN FARM BUREAU

While the U.S. and its European allies haggle over the Kyoto Protocol to reduce the emission of greenhouse gases, the supply of oil and other critical resources may be a larger and more certain problem than global warming.

Under the treaty negotiated in Kyoto, Japan, the U.S., by 2012, would have to reduce its emissions of carbon dioxide and other gases to 7 percent below its 1990 levels. We may not have much of our own carbon to emit by then. The U.S. could fully deplete its own reserves of oil by 2010. World oil depletion could be as early as 2040, according to Michael T. Klare in his book, "Resource Wars."

The real "heat" will come not from global warming but from global conflict over scarce resources, especially oil and water. Severe economic hardship and small wars over oil fields and water supplies could result. We may look back on California's rolling blackouts and $2 gas as the good, old days.

Even if the U.S. conserves energy, China, Brazil, Mexico and India will need three times as much in 2020 as they did in 1990.

It's no wonder the Bush administration is considering drilling for oil in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. It's within our borders and free from conflict, except for the battles raged by environmental groups. It makes sense to drill there if it can be done in a way that is sensitive to the environment and wildlife. We may never find out, at least for now.

For farmers, resource wars mean both conflict and opportunity. The conflicts will involve water for irrigating crops. "In a vast area stretching from North Africa to the Near East and South Asia, the demand for water is rapidly overtaking the existing supply," says Klare. If the rate of population growth continues, the world soon will be using 100 percent of the available supply of water. But water is not evenly distributed so some areas are critically short now.

Ethiopia has plans to divert more water from its reach of the Nile River for agricultural development, but that's a concern to neighboring Egypt, which has designs on the same water for its growing population. In the U.S., western growers already had irrigation water shut off because of the Endangered Species Act and other regulations. Cities also want more water for their thirsty populations.

Oil wars or terrorist attacks on pipelines could occur in any of three key areas, the Persian Gulf, Caspian Sea or South China Sea. The largest oil reserves seem to be in areas with territorial disputes or shaky governments. U.S. farmers have an opportunity to become peacekeepers in the oil wars by leading the way to alternative fuels like ethanol and biodiesel. Farm-based fuels got a push from the Bush administration decision to make California replace MTBE with ethanol in reformulated gasoline.

Klare finds hope in a world system of resource management and research, but that proposal would surely spark more debates than a global warming treaty.

YOUR OPINION

Fire prevention begins right next door

To the editor:

When you drive by Mechem and Buckner please take a minute to look at the unsightly overgrown lot that is filled with fallen dead trees, trash, and pine needles a foot deep. It is not only an eyesore for the neighborhood (and tourists) but a terrible fire trap of great concern to the surrounding homeowners.

The Realtor who has this property listed for sale has been contacted three times and assured us the owner will clean it up. Three calls to the code enforcer assured us it was in need of attention. And three calls to the fire chief (got agreement) that the property owner was going to have to get the ladder fuel cleaned up. It has been eight weeks but no action has taken place. Bill Hirschfeld is absolutely on target trying to get a responsible code for property owners in regard to general clean up and fire problems. Other cities have their type of requirements which are enforced by fines or sending the bill to the owner (after a warning) when the city cleans it up.

We attended the Fire Workshop, which pointed out the problems but didn't present solutions such as an evacuation plan - emergency safe areas or proposals for emergency generators for the police department and the radio stations!

We feel our mayor and council should have utmost concern ... for the citizens and taxpayers in regard to fire and water conservation. Xeriscaping for lawns and beautification should be encouraged and tourists advised of the water and fire problems.

To the Editor:

In regard to the letter to the editor from John Hall, Alto: My husband and I are part of the people who are pushing, burning and cutting trees. I am not surprised the Forest Service has claimed to be not responsible, as the Forest Service has long been intimidated and harassed by uninformed persons as to what is happening on Forest Service land. Much of the land you refer to is private land, and it is our right to do with it as we determine best. Pines and junipers not only destroy the grass land, but also take a vital commodity away from city dwellers as well, water. A juniper measuring 12 inches diameter uses 35 gallons of water a day. Since we have pushed trees on our land, the natural springs, many which have been dry for years, have started flowing again.

This provides watering areas for the elk, deer and other wildlife as well as livestock. The grass is coming back and the land looks like it did in the early 1900s, before man started messing with nature. As for the brush being pushed in piles and burned or left as fire hazards, the brush left either hasn't been burned due to county regulations against controlled burning or has been placed in canyons and areas where the ground is eroding to help control and prevent erosion. New Mexico has a brittle environment, and care has to be taken to keep the fast-moving flood waters from tearing out land.

As evident by the Cree Fire of last summer, controlled burning versus a fast-moving unplanned fire does a lot to prevent flash flooding. The idea that the brush piles are a fire hazard is incorrect as the piles would only catch fire if someone deliberately set them. Even if struck by lightning, with grass surrounding them the fire would be easily contained. The fire hazards in this country are much higher where piñon, juniper, and pines have been allowed, even encouraged to grow haphazardly, with no thought of deadfall, health of the trees or plans by residents to protect their homes. If any interested persons would desire more information, we invite you to call.

AMERICAN ISSUES

Is lower Rio Grande fit for swimming, fishing?

■ A glitch in New Mexico's water quality standards found by EPA could rekindle N.M.-Texas battle over Rio Grande.

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) - The Environmental Protection Agency has uncovered a glitch in New Mexico's water quality standards for the Rio Grande that could rekindle an old fight between Texas and New Mexico over the river.

The EPA noticed a discrepancy in New Mexico's water standards during an agency review late last year, said Russell Nelson, of the EPA's Dallas office, which oversees New Mexico. The agency reviews the standards every three years.

New Mexico considers a 90-mile stretch of the Rio Grande - from just south of the Caballo Reservoir in southern New Mexico to the Texas border - to be a "secondary-contact" river, Nelson said. The standard means the river doesn't have to be clean enough for swimmers.

But downriver in Texas, the Rio Grande is considered by the Lone Star state to be a "primary-contact" river, which must be clean enough for people to swim in and fish, he said.

The difference in standards is against federal rules, Nelson said.

While the EPA cannot force New Mexico to change its water quality standard, Nelson said national-level officials can prod state officials to make changes.

But Paul Ritzma, deputy secretary and general counsel of the New Mexico Environment Department, said he thinks cleanliness might not be the central issue.

"Texas is upgrading ... standards to force New Mexico to release more water," he said. "Our concern is they're asking for cleaner water than our river system supports."

If New Mexico's section of the Rio Grande isn't clean enough to meet Texas standards, New Mexico would have to put more water into the river to dilute pollutants, he said.

That is a water rights issue, Ritzma said, not a water quality issue.

But Texas denies any secret plot to squeeze more "water out of New Mexico."

"Our standards were not changed for that purpose," said Jim Davenport, leader of the water quality standards team for the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission.

Texas hasn't upgraded its standards on the Rio Grande for years and the water that is reaching Texas from New Mexico still meet the criteria necessary for primary contact water, he said.

Davenport said the matter boils down to the EPA wanting to do all its "is."

"EPA just wants the standards compatible," he said.

Senior center contributes to community, organizations

By WENDY WIDNER
Special to the Ruidoso News

In earlier days, stereotypical senior centers were known for an announcer calling out numbers, while throngs of onlookers held their breath in anticipation, hoping to be the first to cry out the magic word... "Bingo!"

But those days have past and the Village of Ruidoso Senior Center has a lot more to do than merely look for corresponding figures on a square, ruled card. Although such functions are still available and active, the RSVP (Retired and Senior Volunteer Program) is also based in the Senior Center, which is located in the old library, 501 Sudderth, and is part of a network of more than 760 RSVP's throughout the United States.

RSVP provides civic participation and volunteer service opportunities to persons 55 years of age and older. The popular program allows senior volunteers to use their skills and time to make meaningful contributions to non-profit organizations in our community.

The RSVP program has been active in Ruidoso since July of 1994 when the village received a grant, which attributed to activate the nationally sanctioned RSVP.

RSVP Volunteer, Mary Filvas (right) delivers food to Jeanette Gadbois.

Senior Center/ RSVP Supervisor Sandee Jourden and Volunteer Coordinator Charlotte Seitz assist willing senior volunteers in deciding which of more than 43 non-profit organizations they would like to participate in. These organizations span from AARP Free Tax Service to Thunderbird Line

Dancers of Ruidoso and there is no lack of people to fulfill these needs, but there is always room for more, especially in the school systems.

"There is a desperate need for volunteers willing to go to schools," confirmed Jourden.

Seitz explained, "People don't have to be retired teachers to do this."

Regardless of the lack of volunteers in the school system, in 2000, approximately 22,387.75 volunteer hours were logged from RSVP volunteers.

It has been estimated, Jourden explained, that a volunteer hour is worth $14.30, revealing that the RSVP program performed $320,144.82 worth of free services in our area.

Hard working RSVP volunteers Charlotte Seitz, Sandee Jourden, and Ann Logsdon, get the job done.

This year there is an anticipated increase of three to four thousand hours. And that is not counting the hours that that have yet to be turned in.

RSVP currently has 201 active members although, there are many more enrolled. That's a far cry from when the program started out with 12 volunteers and one station eight years ago.

Two special recognition events, one around Christmas time and the other in April or May, are held for the volunteers, but the center never recognizes individual works because, living in an area where the population constantly varies, the organization does not want to be unfair to seasonal volunteers.

"We never want those that cannot volunteer as much to feel like they are less important because they haven't volunteered as many hours," said Jourden. "Maybe they're not able to."

"We are more interested in quality than quantity," added Seitz.

And joining the program could not be easier. According to Seitz, people can merely come in and "fill out a one-time application and (we will) make notes on what they are interested in and make them a part of RSVP."

Seitz said that the Village of Ruidoso chapter of RSVP has become most popular by word of mouth...so pass it on.

RSVP Volunteers were named "Volunteers of the year" by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Kenneth W. Strom

Memorial services for Kenneth Warren Strom Jr., 55, of Clearwater, Fla., were held in Florida with his cremated remains to be buried at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Ruidoso by his parents.

Mr. Strom died June 13, 2001, in Clearwater, Fla.

He was born Dec. 23, 1945, in Chicago, Ill.

He was a retired sergeant in the United States Marine Corps.

Survivors include children Lt. Eric Neil Strom of Ft. Gordon, Ga., Kenneth Warren Strom III of Tucson, Ariz., and Courtney Allison Strom, a student at the University of Arizona in Tucson; and a brother, Phillip David Strom of Dunedin, Fla.

Hang glider accident kills Tularosa resident Bill Cox

A Tularosa man was killed June 16 after his hang glider plummeted 175 feet from a cliff east of Alamogordo.

Bill Cox, 42, was pronounced dead at 5:15 p.m. when a search and rescue team reached the location.

Cox was preparing to launch a hang glider about 1:15 p.m. at a location behind the Space Center, according to a police report. A gust of wind was believed to have prematurely lifted the hang glider.

Orientation today for Lincoln County Fair Queen hopefuls

An orientation clinic for candidates for Lincoln County Fair Queen will be at 6 p.m. today at the Capitan Fairgrounds.

The competition will be held in Capitan at the fairgrounds prior to the Smokey Bear Stampede, and this year's winner will be crowned on July 4 at the stampede. The winner will represent Lincoln County also at the Lincoln County Fair and the New Mexico State Fair.

The competition is open to all young women who are residents of Lincoln County and between the ages of 17 and 23. The contest will be judged on personality and horsemanship.

'Rainy' weekend at track

The weather was overcast much of the weekend at Ruidoso Downs Race Track and Casino, but rain ruled the turf in the biggest races Saturday and Sunday.

Dashin Rain with jockey Gilbert Ortiz won the Bayer Legend Derby Sunday by half a length to post the final time of 1:59.682 and a speed index of 97.

Dashin Rain has finished in the top three in six of seven races. Dashin Rain is owned by Ted Abrams Jr. and trained by Janet VanBebber. Dashin Rain was the morning line favorite and remained so to post time.

Dashin Rain was not the fastest qualifier in the trials, but that did not seem to deter the winning combination.

"If you watch the race, Gilbert held him back," VanBebber said. "That is part of the game plan; at this time of the year I use the trials as a prep race and it helps the horse to come back stronger so they are not used up."

Coming in second was Royal N Rowdy with jockey James Gonzales II aboard. Royal N Rowdy is trained by G. Blane Wood and owned by Johnny Trotter. Royal N Rowdy was one and a quarter lengths ahead of Rockability. Rockability is trained by Russell M. Harris and owned by Ralph and Carolyn Fales.

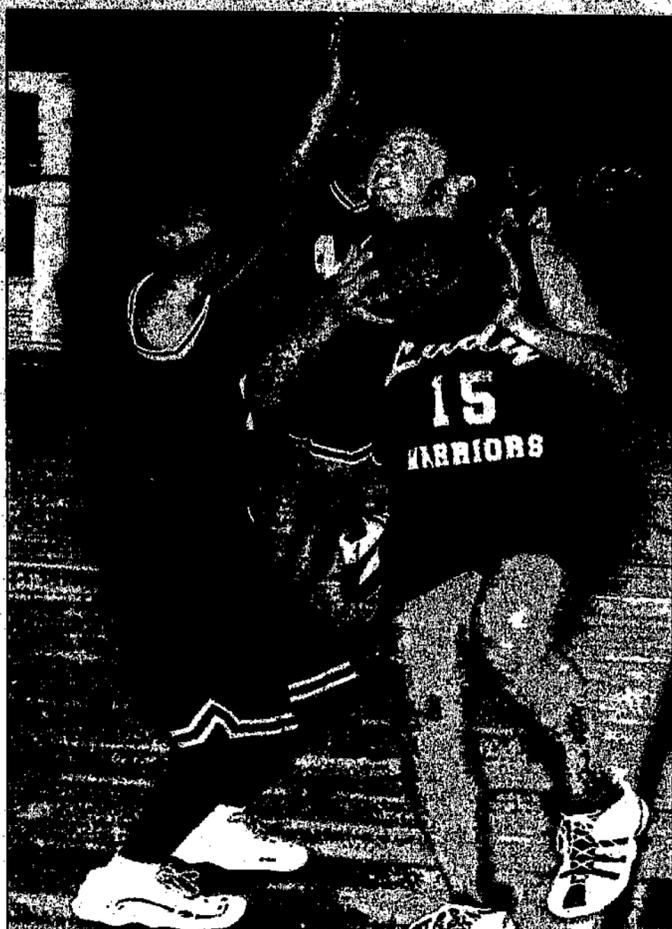

First Lady Handicap

Cashin Rain, ridden by Miguel Fuentes, won the $16,400 First Lady Handicap Saturday by five lengths over favorite Hava Peer.

Cashin Rain stalked the pace through the back stretch and made her move coming out of the turn passing Hava Peer and Soaring Ego who led the seven-horse field through the first half-mile.

Cashin Rain is trained by Antonio Hernandez and owned by Catherine A. Rausch of El Paso, Texas.

Hava Peer, with jockey Carlos Rivas, and Soaring Ego, with jockey Larry Gamez aboard, led the race to the top of the stretch where Soaring Ego gave way. Hava Peer was caught mid-stretch by Cashin Rain. Hava Peer came in second by five lengths for owner John Williams and trainer Ralph Black. Soaring Ego was third by half a length for Hardisty Cattle Co. and trainer Gary J. Lovelace.

RHS girls hoops team goes 6-4 in Las Cruces camp

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Ruidoso High School girls basketball coach Albert Ronquillo has plenty to be pleased about.

After going 6-4 at the seventh annual I-25 Summer League in Las Cruces over the weekend, the Lady Warriors are off to a hot start in their busy summer schedule.

The Lady Warriors faced competition from all over the state, including schools ranging from Class 1A to 5A. The camp was the first of three the girls will take part in during a three-week span.

"It was a little better than what I expected," Ronquillo said of his team's record. "The effort was great. We learned a lot and we were successful. It was a very good weekend."

Ruidoso notched victories over Class 5A West Mesa High School and 4A Deming, as well as four other Class 1A-3A schools.

Only one of their losses, Las Cruces High, was a blowout, and the girls were within three of Class 5A Mayfield. They also played Alamogordo and Silver tough.

"We beat the teams we were supposed to beat and surprised some people," Ronquillo said.

The camp was held at various high schools in Las Cruces, and the Lady Warriors played 10 games over three days. They will have to get used to that grueling schedule, though, as they next head to

Racetrack gets visit from kids

■ Camp Enchantment, an organization that helps kids receiving cancer treatment, stopped at Ruidoso Downs Thursday.

BY KRISTIAN LOVELACE
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Ruidoso Downs Race Track and Casino hosted the Camp Enchantment kids Thursday for a tour of the backside and a quick brunch.

Camp Enchantment is a volunteer camp for kids who are currently receiving treatment for cancer. Camp Enchantment is done free of charge for the kids.

This year Camp Enchantment had 68 kids compared to the average of 65.

Camp Enchantment brought approximately 35 kids to the racetrack, where they were given a tour of the backside.

Apprehensive at first and unsure of what to expect by going to the backside, the kids approached the idea cautiously. However, once back among the horses, they became more relaxed.

While walking around the backside, the kids made a stop at trainer Blane Wood's stable.

Here the kids asked an assortment of questions from the difference between a Thoroughbred and a Quarter Horse to what happens to the horses after they become too old to run.

Wood opened his stable for the children to come and see the horses. Once this happened, the kids were unable to suppress their joy. Bright smiles were seen throughout the barn.

"It was a pleasure to be able to do this. I will do just about anything where kids are concerned," Wood said.

As breakfast was fast approaching and the kids had to

6-man football players put on a show, have fun at all-star game

■ The best of the best in small-school football hit Horton Stadium Saturday in a fast-paced contest that included three Lincoln County players.

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

An overcast afternoon greeted the North/South Six-Man All-Stars Saturday at Horton Stadium, but it was the North squad that poured on the points in the second half, as they defeated their rivals, 32-14.

The first three quarters were fairly even, although the North led the entire way. The score was 26-14 with nine minutes left in the fourth period when Tony Chimal of Mescalero caught a key pass and ran the ball to the North 3-yard line. It appeared the South would get right back in it, but a somewhat controversial play cost them.

After a fumbled snap, South quarterback Preston Downey, of Melrose High, appeared to have a knee down as he picked up the ball. No whistle was blown, and Downey evaded pressure and got off a pass. The ball was intercepted by North defensive back Richard Martinez, of Roy High, and run back about 15 yards to the 19-yard line.

The North then went for the kill, as quarterback Kyle Griffiths, of Logan, threw a 61-yard touchdown to Austin Clawson of Ramah. But the play was called back on an illegal procedure penalty.

On third down, Griffiths appeared to be in trouble, but scrambled away from trouble and ran 66 yards for the score, icing the game for the North.

The South did have one more chance to put some points up, but failed to score inside the North 10-yard line with 2:14 to go.

North coach Ron Stevenson praised his team for their effort and attitude.

"We haven't heard a negative word all week," he said. "It's all 'Yes, sir' and 'No, sir.' They'll all be successful in what they do."

Carrizozo's Chris Margis, who caught a 27-yard pass to end the game, said his team played well.

"We had a few mistakes in the first half," Margis said. "But in the second, we kicked it up a notch."

Stevenson agreed with that.

"In the first half, they played hard, but were a little nervous," he said.

"They played an awesome second half."

South coach Dan Sabastian said his team could not get on the board in the second half.

"When you can't score in the second half, you're in trouble. Anybody would be," he said.

North quarterback Griffiths won the Offensive Player of the Game award, and the North's Austin

Clawson, a linebacker from Ramah, was Defensive Player of the Game.

Pat Ventura, vice-chairman for the committee that put the game together, said it was a positive experience.

"It was a good first year (here)," he said. "Hopefully next year will be even better."

Stevenson said everyone involved appreciated the support shown by the community.

North all-star Matt Copeland, left, from Logan, tries to get away from the South. The North squad won the game, held at Horton Stadium Saturday, 32-14.

RHS kids ride to win at rodeo

A number of local kids earned top honors at the New Mexico State High School Finals Rodeo, held June 7-10.

BY WES SCHWENGELS
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The New Mexico State High School Finals Rodeo was especially fruitful for the Ruidoso High School team.

Jesse Townsend won the All-Around championship at the state event, Doug Smith took the boys cutting title for the year and Shayla Smith earned the same honor on the girls' side.

Doug and Shayla Smith finalized their crowns at the state event June 7-10 in Gallup.

Shayla's horse, Dual Nurse also took the title of "Horse of the Year" at the rodeo.

"(We) couldn't be prouder of these young people," said Karl Stressman of Wrangler, the chief sponsor of the event, in a press release. "They truly are going to be the leaders of tomorrow and we are very fortunate to be able to lend our support to such a deserving group of young people."

them did not want to go. The kids were taken to the Turf Club, where breakfast was served. AQHA had donated items for the kids to take with them. Among the items were jockey trading cards, a book about horses, and an "I Love American Quarter Horses" pen.

After breakfast, the kids had to leave to complete other commitments throughout the town. However unsure their future might be, the kids look upon it with bright hopes and dreams.

Their morning at the track undoubtedly left a lasting impression that none of them will soon forget.

Fishing Report for Ruidoso and area, as of June 18, 2001

Ruidoso River: The River has dropped considerable amount in the past two weeks; need to start washing trucks, cars and praying for rain. The River was stocked on June 12 with 651 Rainbows and should provide some fun fishing in your favorite streamside spots. The best subsurface fly selections remain for Rainbows or Browns remain the Bead head Pheasant Tail nymphs or Bead head Prince Nymphs, Green Rock worms and Bead Head Cased Caddis Larva continue as producing patterns. A few sporadic caddis hatches continue to come off near evening, so be sure to pocket a few Elk Hair Caddis dry flies.

South Fork: Not any change from last week. The flow rate is way down and we are just waiting for the Monsoons to hit. One still needs to hike a ways up the stream to find fish. Once found they are healthy and hungry. The fish here are not fussy. Caddis dry flies and small nymphs of just about any pattern will work here.

Bonito Lake: The Lake was stocked June 12 with 1,566 Rainbows and should offer some fun fishing. Small dark colored dry flies continue to produce just before dark on the main lake body. A damsel fly nymph tied as a dropper behind your dry fly offering may bring an unexpected take. For the spin cast fishermen, try a hot pink, renegade pattern propeller fly or a black with grizzly hackle propeller fly behind a bubble rig.

Eagle Lakes: These lakes are now open. The fishing has reported doing well. The day fee has gone up to $10 per day, person. Reason given is since the fish hatchery in Mescalero is closed, costs of transporting fish from as far away as Arizona have to be covered. Damsel fly patterns have been working along with Black Humpty dry flies.

Grindstone: Sink a woolly bugger or a streamer 8 to 10 feet and strip - hang on. Damsel fly and Dragon fly imitations have been working well. For spin casters, tie on an Olive or Black propeller fly behind a bubble rig and enjoy catching fish. Float tubers are having a blast using sinking tip flies and fishing between 8 and 15 feet stripping Buggers and Streamers. Please remember to squeeze the barbs down on all hooks; this will reduce injury to any fish caught and returned to the water. Lake Mescalero: The lake level is quite low, but is fishing well. Dark woolly buggers continue to take fish late in the day. Remember to get your day pass at the front desk. The Trap and Steel Fire is out; now the real work begins: how to mitigate the damage? Remember the ash and debris will run down hill... Down hill in this case may be a disaster in the making. Carrizo Creek and the Ruidoso River may stand in the path. If help is needed to repair the damages, lets all volunteer to help save these cold water fisheries. Please practice Catch and Release whenever and whenever you can.

Golf tour won't stop in N.M.

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) - An effort to rescue the Buy.com Tour's New Mexico Classic apparently has not worked out, according to Albuquerque television station KOB-TV.

Tourney officials announced May 9 that the event was canceled for financial reasons. The following day, the PGA Tour announced it still intend to make the tourney happen.

After weeks of trying to raise money to keep the tour afloat, KOB-TV reported late Wednesday that the PGA officials decided to pull the plug.

Organizers told the station they could not come up with enough sponsorship dollars to keep the event in New Mexico. They said a tournament would be held in Phoenix to replace the New Mexico Classic on the schedule.

The tourney was to be played in August at Santa

Ana Pueblo's new Twin Warriors Golf Club.

The station reported that since the New Mexico Classic was canceled, the New Mexico Open may make a change in location.

The Open is currently scheduled for mid-September at Santa Ana, but Roger Martinez, director of golf at Twin Warriors, told the station he is now working on getting it moved to his course nearby.

ENMU signs forward for 2001 season

PORTALES (AP) - A 6-foot-6, 195-pound forward from McLennan Community College in Texas has signed on to play basketball for Eastern New Mexico University, school officials announced Friday.

Cedric Palmer averaged 15 points and seven rebounds a game as a sophomore at McLennan this past season. He scored 12.6 points per game and grabbed 5.1 rebounds per game in the previous season.

Palmer graduated from Yates High School in Houston, where averaged 19.1 points a game.

"Cedric is an explosive player who will give us versatility at the forward position, and he is a player who can score and rebound inside," Eastern coach Shawn Scanlan said.

Palmer will join McLennan teammate Randy Johnson, who signed with Eastern earlier this spring.

EDUCATION BRIEFS

New State FFA president from Hondo

Codi Montes, a 2000 graduate of Capitan High School, right, was elected state president of the New Mexico FFA Association at its 73rd annual convention at New Mexico State University. Montes, of Hondo, is the daughter of Thomas and Renee Montes. She attended Eastern New Mexico University in Portales last year. She will represent the state at the national leadership conference for state officers in Utah, the state president's conference in Washington and the national FFA convention in Louisville, Ky., during her term. She is the first state officer and state president from the Capitan FFA chapter. At Capitan, her adviser was Todd Procter.

Students honored

Andrew Richardson of Capitan was named to the dean's honor list for the spring 2001 semester at South Plains College in Levelland, Texas. Students named to the dean's honor list must maintain a minimum 3.25 GPA while carrying at least 12 semester hours of college-level work with no failing grades.

Talia Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy P. Wood of Ruidoso Downs, was named to the dean's list of Harding University of Searcy, Ark. To be eligible, a student must have an average scholarship level of 3.65 GPA and be carrying 12 or more hours. Wood, a senior majoring in dietetics, attended Clovis Christian High School before entering Harding.

Brett Meyer was named to the dean's list at Texas Tech University for the spring 2001 semester. Meyer is the son of Diana Buchanan. Next year, he will be a junior and has a double major in history and math.

Scholarships awarded

At the annual Janice Herd Memorial Team Roping, $250 scholarships were awarded to three deserving area students: Amanda Bird, Casey Helms and Codi Montes.

Bird, currently a student at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, is majoring in biochemistry with a minor in agricultural biology. She hopes to attend medical school at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque.

Helms, a 2001 graduate of Capitan High School, plans to attend NMSU in the fall and pursue a degree in agricultural education.

Montes, currently a student at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, is pursuing a degree in agricultural education. She also will serve as New Mexico State FFA president for the coming year.

Tennis lessons offered

The Parks and Recreation Department of the village of Ruidoso is offering tennis lessons for children 10 to 14 years of age.

The lessons will be at the School House Park tennis courts, from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., starting July 23. The fee is $15 per child. Registration is at the Parks and Recreation office, 801 Resort Drive between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

For more information, call 257-5030.

Wilderness Camp set

Registration is open all summer for the Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Wilderness Camp for children age 7 to 12.

Camp is open for the first 25 children to register and will run from noon to 5 p.m. the last three weeks of June and July

(not the week of July 4).

The fee is $50 per child. Children must be dropped off at the White Mountain Intermediate School gym. For more information call 257-5030.

Museum 'Mars Week'

The week of June 17-23 is Mars Discovery Week, the focus of which is to generate public awareness of the red planet and the efforts by NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., to explore it.

As part of the New Mexico Museum of Space History's participation, the Education Department will offer the following lessons and activities:

Thursday, 11 a.m. to noon: Activity class, "Creating Mars Critters" (grades 2-4). Participants will create a "Martian" with various materials based upon currently accepted information about the red planet. Cost $3.

Thursday, 11 a.m. to noon: Activity class, "The Spacecraft, Mars Global Surveyor" (grades 2-4). Participants will recreate a "unique model" of the Mars Global Surveyor spacecraft currently orbiting Mars. Cost $3.

Friday, 9-11 a.m.: Planetarium show "Return to the Red Planet" and areology (the study of Mars) activity (grades 5 and up). Participants will study the geology of Mars in an unusual way. Cost $6.

The classes will be in the Tombaugh IMAX Dome Theater and Planetarium building, room 118. For more information, contact the New Mexico Museum of Space History's Education Department, (877) 333-6589 or (505) 437-2840.

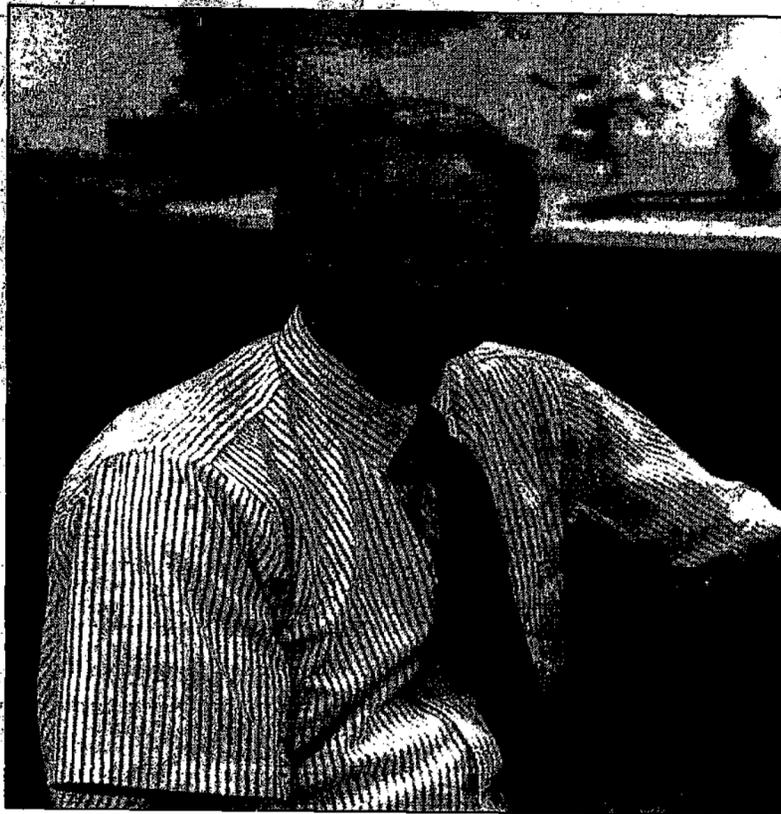

Teachers go to school

From June 4 to 8, Pixie Arthur and Carla Burns participated in the Intel Teach to the Future program. Designed to help teachers effectively integrate technology into their classrooms, the program is a nationwide initiative that gives teachers free, hands-on computer training with their own lesson plans. With this training, teachers discover how to turn computer technology into valuable teaching tools that help students improve their learning and meet challenging standards.

Teachers learn to help students tap the reservoir of information on the World Wide Web, construct new knowledge and use technology to communicate this knowledge in exciting new ways.

Burns and Arthur are now responsible for training 20 more teachers, and, next year, a new group of 20 teachers.

For more information about the program, contact Smith Frederick at the University of New Mexico, (505) 277-5597 or e-mail to teacher@unm.edu, or check out the Web site at www.techteacher.unm.edu.

Larry Miller will assume duties as superintendent of the Capitan Municipal School District on July 2. He comes to Capitan from the Grady school system in northern Curry County.

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

CAPITAN — The new superintendent of schools here was raised in a community similar to Capitan, and welcomes a return to rural roots with his move to Lincoln County.

Larry Miller, who was hired by the school board to replace eight-year superintendent Diana Billingsley, said he and his wife, Dodie (an elementary school teacher), had a set of criteria for "an ideal place to be," and Capitan met a lot of the criteria, he said.

"I love the area; I love the mountains. It's a little bit further south. I think it's fairly conservative and that's in line with my philosophy, and it's a growing place with a lot of diversity."

Miller has been superintendent for the last three years with the Grady Municipal School District, where he also functioned as principal for all grade levels.

"One of the differences in this job that I will have is that there will be three principals available to carry on the functions at the building level. That will be a big support," he said.

Miller graduated from high school in Bartlett, Texas, a ranching community 50 miles north of Austin, where his family lived 10 miles out of town. He was in FFA and athletic activities and felt the school prepared him well because of the low pupil-teacher ratio. Similar to Capitan, Bartlett is a ranching community.

"In that setting, teachers really cared about the basics that students needed to learn," he said. "I did not feel like I was at a disadvantage because I was not at a larger school."

Although his parents went only to the eighth grade, they saw the need for education, and seven out of their eight children became educators, Millers said.

"I do believe that my parents had just a passion that they wanted their kids to be educated. Dad was just very concerned about that report card when it came home; he wanted to know what it said, and we had to answer to the report card," he said. "It seems like in our family, once you have the education profession in your bloodstream, you never, ever are able to deny it. It's part of you."

He went on to earn a bachelor of science and a master of arts degree at Southwest Texas State University. In 1978 he earned a doctor of philosophy in curriculum and instruction at the University of New Mexico. Miller was a teacher and coach at Goddard Junior High in Midland, Texas for two years; and in 1972 became deputy director of the Division of Recreation and Historic Preservation of the New Mexico State Planning Office in Santa Fe. He continued to work as a planner for the U.S. Department of the Interior Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service until 1981, when he became assistant principal at the Moriarty Municipal Schools.

In 1981, his children were getting to school age and he and his wife decided they wanted them to attend a smaller school.

"We just believed that students have a better chance if they are in a low pupil-teacher ratio atmosphere, so we moved to the Edgewood area, and one thing led to another and I got a job in Moriarty."

After serving as assistant principal in Moriarty for 15 years, he took a position as student adviser at TVI Community College in Albuquerque for two years, and then in 1998 became superintendent of schools in Grady.

Miller said in Bartlett and Grady, academics and covering the basics were emphasized, and he brings this with him to Capitan Municipal School District.

"Part of my philosophy is that students will rise to the occasion. If you have high expectations, they are going to meet those expectations," he said.

Miller said he believes the Capitan school district is in good shape administratively and that Diana Billingsley "has done an outstanding job, having been there eight years and she has things in good shape ... I'm pleased to have the opportunity to follow her. It's certainly my desire to match the job that she has done."

He cited Capitan's good test scores and state-level reports as proof that the schools are doing a good job among the other districts in the state.

Billingsley, who will be directing schools of fish in her retirement (she cited "going fishing" as one of her main retirement goals), said Miller will be a good addition to the administrative staff.

"He has already been in the district talking with people, finding out what their concerns are. He has been to the last two board meetings, on his own time ... finding out where we've been, what we've done and where we want to be. I think it's going to be a smooth transition," she said.

"He seems to be a very caring man, as far as caring about students and the community is concerned. He seems to be a man that will listen ... He seems to be very open as far as having an open-door policy and he welcomes people to come in or call him," Billingsley said.

Miller said he'd visited Capitan three weekends and found community members helpful and supportive. He wants to live near the school, and he and his wife are looking for a house to rent — when most people would prefer to sell, he said.

Miller's first day as superintendent will be Monday, July 2.

High school grad gets $75,000 in scholarships

Good grades, plus ambition, gives a bright student many choices. He picks Harvard.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — David Mericle's good grades and hard work are paying off — to the tune of $75,500 in college scholarship money.

Mericle, who graduated last week from Madison Memorial High School, has received 11 scholarships so far, and more could be coming.

Last summer, he made a list of dozens of college scholarships available to seniors. Then he chipped away at the list, ultimately applying for 35 scholarships ranging in value from $500 to $20,000. "Whatever time I had available pretty much went into this — weekends, after school, holiday breaks," said Mericle, 17, who graduated with high honors and a 4.0 grade-point average.

Sharon Specht, his school guidance counselor, called his scholarship streak unusual.

"Most students, if they pursue scholarships at all, will apply for one or two," she said. "David has this inner drive and personal determination, and obviously, he's very bright."

So bright he earned $20,000 from Toyota Motor Sales and $2,500 from USA Today when it named him to its 20-member All-USA High School Academic Team.

"He's always working," said his mother, Mindy

Taranto, a contract negotiator for the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers.

He also was named a National Merit Scholar ($2,500), a Wisconsin All-State Scholar ($6,000) and a Lucent Global Science Scholar ($5,000).

He passed up admission to Yale University, Stanford University and the University of Wisconsin-Madison for Harvard University, which he'll attend this fall.

The Empire State

New York From A to Z

People usually think of New York City when they hear "New York." It is the largest city in the U.S., with about 8 million people.

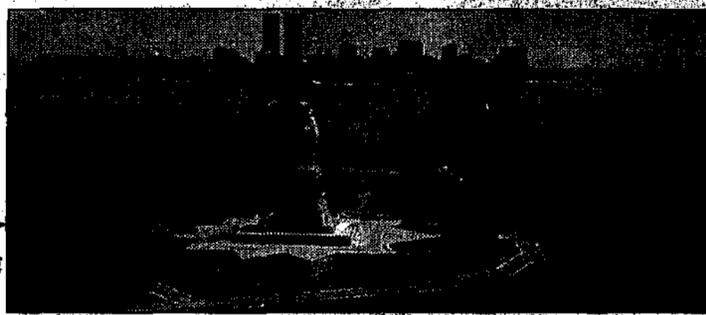

New York City is only part of the story. Forests cover about half the state. Farmland covers about one-fourth.

Mountain ranges include the Adirondacks and the Catskills. There are 4,000 lakes and ponds, and more than 50,000 miles of rivers and streams.

New York is a world center of finance, publishing, theater, art, music, manufacturing, trade, and apple and dairy farming.

It was one of the original 13 colonies. New York City was the U.S. capital from 1785 to 1790.

It is the third most populous state, behind Texas and California, with about 19 million people.

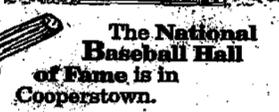

The Statue of Liberty, world symbol of freedom and hope, overlooks the Manhattan skyline. The twin towers of the 110-story World Trade Center rise high above the other skyscrapers.

Albany is the capital, with about 100,000 people.

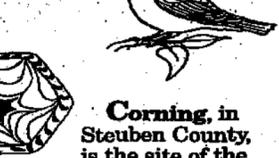

The Bluebird is the state bird.

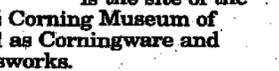

The George Eastman House in Rochester is one of the world's top photography museums.

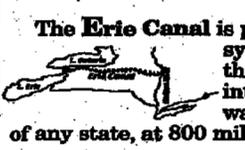

The Erie Canal is part of a canal system that forms the longest internal waterway system of any state, at 800 miles long.

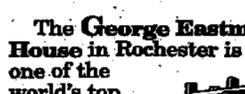

Niagara Falls, 180 feet tall, spills about 40 million gallons of water each minute.

More Downhill ski spots are there than in any other state.

The National Baseball Hall of Fame is in Cooperstown.

Corning, in Steuben County, is the site of the world-famous Corning Museum of Glass, as well as Corningware and Steuben glassworks.

Rookie Cookie's Recipe Zucchini Boats

You'll need:

- 2 zucchinis, cut in half lengthwise
- 1 tomato, chopped
- 1/2 onion, chopped
- 1 tablespoon tomato paste
- 1/4 cup Italian bread crumbs
- 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese
- 1/4 cup mozzarella cheese, grated

What to do:

- Scoop out insides of zucchinis, leaving at least 1/4 inch of the shell. Save the filling and chop it finely.
- In a small bowl, combine chopped zucchini and tomato and onion pieces. Mix well.
- Stir in tomato paste. Mix well.
- Spoon equal amounts of mixture into zucchini shells.
- Sprinkle equal amounts of bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese on top.
- Place on a baking sheet and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 20 minutes.
- Sprinkle equal amounts of mozzarella cheese on each half. Bake 5 more minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Supersport: Jerry Sharp

Height: 6-3 Birthdate: 10-8-69
 Weight: 285 College: Syracuse

People who love watching football can now watch it in the spring and summer. That is when the Arena Football League plays. One of the teams in the league is the Carolina Cobras, and one of their best defensive players is Jerry Sharp.

He joined the league in 1995. Before joining the Cobras last year — their first year — he played for three other teams, the Orlando Predators, the Nashville Kats and the New England Sea Wolves.

Last year he finished the year with 18 tackles, two forced fumbles and one blocked kick.

In college he studied speech communications. In his free time he likes playing video games, reading and lifting weights.

Meet Vitamin C

When you say "Vitamin C," most people think of the vitamin. These days it means the name of a popular singer.

Vitamin C, 31, whose real name is Colleen Fitzpatrick, grew up in Old Bridge, N.J., with an older brother and sister. Their mother was a legal secretary and their father worked for a communications company.

In high school, Vitamin C started her show business career by dancing in TV commercials. She also began acting.

After graduating from New York University, she joined a musical group. When the group broke up, she started her solo career. Her first album came out in 1999. She lives in New York City.

The Hudson River flows through about 300 miles of the state. About half of it is deep enough for ocean-going ships.

Immigrants seeking opportunity and freedom have poured into the U.S. through Ellis Island.

Jewish, African-American, Irish, Italian and Puerto Rican are the biggest of New York's dozens of ethnic groups.

Kayaking, rafting and canoeing are top tourist attractions in mountain and lake areas.

Lakes Ontario and Erie form part of the state's borders with Canada.

Manufacturing is important, especially of photo chemicals, medicines, clothing, machinery and computer products.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art is the biggest art museum in the country, with more than 2 million works of art.

New York City is famed for its theaters, museums, Wall Street financial district, skyscrapers and monuments.

The Atlantic Ocean borders 120 miles of coastline. The Great Lakes and Long Island Sound add another 1,100 miles of shoreline.

Ports have enabled the state to flourish throughout its history. New York City has one of the biggest natural seaports in the world. Buffalo is the state's top port on the Great Lakes.

Queens is one of the boroughs, or sections, that make up New York City. Others include the Bronx, Manhattan, Staten Island and Brooklyn.

One-third of all Revolutionary War battles were fought there.

The Rose is the state flower.

 Next week The Mini Page is about our Charters of Freedom: the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

The Sugar maple is the state tree.

More than 37 million tourists visit New York City each year.

The United Nations' world headquarters are in New York City.

More than 5 million visitors from overseas come to the state each year.

The first Woman's Rights Convention was held in Seneca Falls in 1848.

Xerox and Eastman Kodak are two of the major corporations headquartered in Rochester.

The Yankees are just one of the many major sports teams in the state.

Zoos have added to New York's fun for many years. The Bronx Zoo, for example, is the largest city zoo in the U.S., with more than 6,000 animals in natural habitats.

Coming To Ruidoso, New Mexico!
How to Manage The Stress of Life
Staying motivated when you are feeling stressed is a lot like pulling the proverbial "rabbit out of a hat." You must first reach in and pull. In this workshop, Tony Ruesing will teach you the value of living in the "here and now." He says, "People tend to live in the past or the future... when you take time to be in the present you receive more clues as to how to cope with the past and better manage the future." Ruesing says there is a sense of mental alertness that doesn't exist in the past or the future, but only in the moment. This program will help you put all of your challenges into perspective so you can gift yourself with the right attitude and coping skills. You can, like others who have heard Tony speak, walk away with the courage found in being present to the moment both in your personal life and on the job. This program makes you feel better about your special gifts and talents and helps you put those talents to work for you.

Make Plans to attend:
When: Thursday - June 28, 2001
Where: Hubbard Museum of American West

Delighting Your Customer
If you are looking for just the right way to set the tone for customer service in your organization, then this is a program you won't want to miss. Tony Ruesing brings over 25 years of sales and marketing experience to his program, Delighting Your Customer. Simply put, Tony can help you put your skills and experience to work for you in handling the day-to-day responsibility of delighting customers. Everyone in the organization from the President or owner, to the person who stands eyeball to eyeball with the customer is important to the success of the operation. It is essential for all to work together to identify what it will take to satisfy the customer and then deliver it with enthusiasm and professionalism. This program will build on your existing skills whether you are a brand new customer service representative or a seasoned veteran. It will give you new insights into handling customer complaints and make certain the customer will want to come back again and again. The ideas you will get in this fast paced program will give you renewed energy in your effort to be the best at what you do. Make plans to attend.
