While several residents called for reg ulation of golf courses in Lincoln County officials said they have no means to gov ern such projects if they aren't part of a ubdivision.
At a county commission meeting last week, Oscura resident Jerry Carroll said the problem needs to be settled, but said it's beyond the county's control.
With no zoning regulations in the unincorporated county, golf courses aren't covered, he said.
Chairman Rex Wilson said the issue comes back to the water and that leaves decisions with the State Engineer.

County changes subdivision water rule
TRASH: Downs council looks for waste options  \section*{}  \section*{}

Three down and one to go, but it's a big one.
Lincoln County commissioners last week approved a major change in the amount of must prove per lot, but faltored on getting a threshold figure for community water systems They agreed to reduce the amount of "provable" water rom a haif acre-root to a quarter acre-foot, which equates to about 81,463 gallons per year. But they added a requirement for a detailed water leeway to approve a lesser amount, if the study justified the action.
Commissioners said they hope to glean data from the studies to help produce a picture of water quantity and location throughout the county.
"We have to build a data base and that's going to be a $\begin{array}{ll}\text { roncentrated and slow } \\ \text { process," } & \text { Chairman } \\ \text { Rex }\end{array}$ Wilson said. The Ranches of Sonterra-Airport Road area will be a starting point, they agreed. "Each subdivision coming forward is going to have to pay for part of the data base and not the taxpayers."
The county planning board had recommended staying at a

Commissioner L. Ray Nuiley said he didn't wa

He cited homeowner aver age usage figures from Ruidoso as .14 acre-feet and from Alto as 16 acre-feet per year. The board also approved eliminating letters of credit as guarantees for subdivision requirement for disclosure statements to inform buyers that they must pay monthly fees for garbage collection by the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority.

But commissioners post poned action on the density issue related to community water systems until they have more information.
The county planning cornmission recommended that community systems be required with subdivisions of 100 or more lots. To ease the financial burden on developers who would have to buy water rights to operate a system, several real estate agents urged commissioners to lobby for a change in state water law. The change would allow owners of individual lots in subdivisions to give up their rights to request domestic well permits and would transfer the acre feet to the community Currently,

Nunley said the State Engineer told him a community water system is easier to

EYESTRAIN

If you suffer from headaches or blurred vision. you may have one of the most common eye problems in the United States today. According to a national survey. optometrists throughout the U.S. note that a leading reason people visit thei eye doctor is eyestrain. Eyestrain is often caused by the eye inability to focus due to aging or fatigue. It miay also be ciussed by excessive close-up work or imbalanced eye muscles. Symptoms can include headaches, eye soreness, eye irritation blurred vision, and aching heavy eyelids.
If you believe you are susceptible to eyestrain. the most important step is to consult your optometrist. There are many solutions to reducing eyestrain caused by extended compiter use, night driving, glare from bright sunlight or even fatigue. Dr. Gutowski and Dr. Sonnenmoser can assess your current prescription, determine if you could benefit from corrective eyewear, and recommend new advanced lens materials and lens options which should help allevinte your problems. A. a special education coordinator for elight schools in San Antonio, "angry parants, Susan Martinez handied she's special education and bilingual education coordinator in Ruidoso.
"I like being more hands-on with kids and programaming," she said, and her excitement about applying the latest research on how the brain wrorks and how people learn is contagious.
Martinez moved into the position vacated by Paul Wirth when he became the high school principal this fall. For the the high school principal this fall. For the three years prior to this, Martinez had been director of special education in Tularosa, although her family lives here and she'd been a commuter. She hadn't worked as an administrator in bilingual education, but finds the bungual teachers in the Ruidoso schools "neait ladies, enthusiastic about their work. with her from Tularosa wos brought through the State Department. of Education.

Martinez chose to focus on the concept teraching practices that vary how the subject matter is presented and "worked" by a wide variety of students.

An example she gave is teaching the planets. The gifted students could work on a research project, using reference books and the Internet, while severely delayed students might learn the names of the planets and locate them on a map of the universe aThe content could be modified for upper and lower ends, different kinds of test questions could be used, with more analytical questions for the upper end stuanaiytical questions for the upper end stutions. Everybody is still learning about the planets."

While some students may learn well with study sheets and other written mate rials, not all do, and differentiated education means providing learning experiences for many different learning styles, including those that may be more visually or tactually oriented.
Martinez taught for several years in a psychiatric day hospital, teaching students from kindergarten through sixth dents from kindergartea all the mornings sixth one classroom - and students from grades 7 through 12 in the afternoon. She sarned on the job how to set up her classroom so that everyone was-learning, no mattor their ability ot'letinning style.

Martinez said. "It cuts down on behavior problems when kids are allowed to work in groups. It increases their motivation to because everyone is learning more it ris ly gets learning on a. roll."
In order for differentiated learning to work well, teachors have to be very clea about what they want students to learn and he able to do - the easence of what the students will walk away with, she said.
Students are grouped based on interest and readiness levels, and because everyone in the classroom is doing meaningin work, dents directly rather thin jugt keeping th situdents quiet.
The groups of students are flexible so the teacher can work with a group that needs help - and all students need help at ${ }_{\text {sill }}$ some the kids leain more; no 'matter where they start out, and you don't hav complaints about gifted kids saying lready know this,"' Martinez said.
Martinez, Sierra Vista Primary Schoo principal Danny Flores and six teachers Ruidoso Middle School attended a conference on differentiated instruction in Scottsdale Jan. 9-12 given by David A. Sousa, author of "How the Brain Learns."
"The research on this says it works," Martinez said. "It calls on us as teachers to become on us as teachers to become a more effective manner: I low learning and teaching and find this very exciting.

Martinez will teach a class through Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso to teachers in Ruidoso and the Region IX schools. The grant pays the that they will develop projects that they will develop projects ing contracts" for different sub ject areas.
"I hope to find teachers that really want to go in depth in this and develop some kind of model classrooms," Martinez said.

Remodeling your kitchen isn't as hard as you thought it would be.

In fact, we make it quite simple. Bring your ideas and meet with our kitchen designers. They'll arrange to take in-home measurements of your kitchen. If you're building a new home, they'll be happy to visit the worksite. Then they'll help you determine a cabinet style and finish plus realistic design options based on your style and budget. Don't forget about the other elements of your new kitchen - flooring, sinks, countertops and lighting. Our designers can help you put it all together. They'll even generate a computer design of your new kitchen and a complete price estimate including professional installation - all free of charge.
