Eggleston tops Donaldson; Capitan ousts Renfro

Voters in Ruidoso and Capitan picked new mayors Tuesday, chose new representatives and kept their incum-

New subdivision planned for area

Windmill Ranches in the works for Lincoln County

BY DIANNE STALLINGS TIME THE PRINCE

Preliminary plans for a 19,000-acre subdivision geared to provide a feel of a ranch, but with closer neighbors and without the livestock responsibilities, were submitted recently to Lincoln County Planner Patsy

Sanchez said the paperwork given to her for initial review shows development in stages on the former Straley Ranch west of U.S. 54 at the turnoff to Ancho about five miles north of Carrizozo.

A spokesman for Socorrobased Southwest Properties of New Mexico said Thursday the information was not an application, just an opportunity for the planner to look over the proposal.

Daniel W. Dattola, representing the proposed Windmill Ranches, said Monday, "The concept is to be able to live on a working cattle ranch and to mesh development with agriculture, to medium where some of these ranchers can make a living ranching, which is getting difficult.

"This might be a way they could make a living and get the financial benefit out of their property."

The company, which also is developing Abbe Springs north of Magdelena, will sell the lots and will lease back a portion of the land to a cattle operation, he said.

"It's very restrictive," Dattola said. "There's no further development, one principal building per lot and no further subdivisions. When we get done with it, that's what it's going to be."

Lots will range from 20 acres to 140 acres and probably from $19,900 to $79,900, depending on size, amenities and location, he said.

There's a lot of different types of property," he said. "We have some 140s that will have power, really great views and a lot of trees and that will be our higherend stuff. But there will be a lot of variety. Our company wants to try to be affordable so just about anyone can have a piece of land.

That's the American dream, to have a piece of land to pass down to your kids.

"I think there are a lot of people who would like to experience ranch life. We're betting there are because we're spending a lot of money there."

Part of the company's agreement with the cattle operator is that he will notify the home-owners association when he gathers and brands the cattle so members can can attend and experience the process, Dattola said.

Because the first phase of development involves the 140acres lots, that portion of the subdivision doesn't fall under the county's jurisdiction. Dattola said he expects to be selling lots "fairly soon."

"Then we will go through the process with the rest of it," he said. "There's a lot to be done, the surveys, the road work - so we're hoping in a few months we'll be ready with some of the other stuff too.

The non-paved roads will be private and maintained by the home owners association, he said. Individual wells and septic tanks will be

"We really try to make it a project."

"We're in the process now of completing the hydrological study for the water availability, Dattola said. "We're even more restrictive than the county in our covenants. We require everybody to have engineered systems, not just inspected by the county. We really try to make it a first-class project."

The first phase would cover 40 lots, each 140 acres in size.

"About 40 miles of roads are involved," she said. "One main entry is proposed with lots of open space and cattle roaming around," Sanchez said.

Subsequent phases would fall under county subdivision rules, she said.

In addition to the 5,600 acres of 140-acre lots, Sanchez said company officials proposed creating 20 lots, each of 50 acres, 90 lots of 40 acres, 110 lots of 30 acres and 60 lots of 20 acres for an additional 280 lots on 9,100

Meth lab found; suspects sought

Local law enforcement agencies dismantled a methamphetamine lab Feb. 28 at a home on Highway 70 at mile marker 257. Four suspects are still being sought.

On Feb. 27, members of the Lincoln County Narcotics Enforcement Unit, BIA Law Enforcement, Ruidoso Downs Police Department, New Mexico State Police Lincoln County Sheriff's Office and Mescalero Conservation Office conducted a "knock-and talk.' Basically, we went up there to talk to peo ple," said Chief Troy Bolen of BIA Lav Enforcement. Although no one was at the resi dence at the time, he said, they confirmed the there was a meth lab inside and put it on around-the-clock surveillance.

On Thursday, a search warrant was obtained from district court and the Mescalero Apache Tribe, to ensure that the case would allow prosecution of the defendants. The house was on the reservation but was rented to nontribal people. Bolen said the New Mexico State Police Clandestine Lab Team found enough chemicals to make more than 5 ounces of methamphetamine, considered significant. Frank Hooper, commander of the Lincoln County Narcotics Enforcement Unit, agreed.

Bolen said that when the officers arrived on Feb. 27, they found the door of the house kicked in and some people leaving the residence, whom they interviewed.

"We knew that the people we had observed leaving didn't do it because we had folks watching the house," Bolen said. "Officers went in to see if there was anybody in the residence and there was illegal stuff everywhere, all in plain view."

Hooper said the NEU has talked to the DEA about continuing the investigation and prosecuting the case through federal courts. The DEA used to investigate all the lab cases, he said, and the state police had a team trained through the DEA when the load increased.

Ski Apache readies for Spring Break

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

RITIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Although temperatures dipped into the single digits over the weekend, Ruidoso received just a light dusting of snow and Ski Apache registered about one inch.

The resort operated by the Mescalero Apache north of town at the end of Ski Run Road is ready for a big spring break starting next week, said manager Roy

"We've got great skiing," he said. "All the trails are open and we're gearing up for a very big spring break. Last year during the week we did about 25,000 (tickets) and we expect about the same this year.

"We've taken wonderful care of the snow all winter and that's what counts. The snow is well prepared and we'll groom it and they'll have some excellent skiing next week.

Mid-way settled snow depth on the mountain is 47 inches, he said.

Because spring breaks vary for different universities and school systems, the celebration may continue until the projected March 31 closing date for the resort.

The early shut down of the Sandia Crest ski basin near Albuquerque because of lack of snow also could send some of those skiers farther south to Ruidoso.

Housing complex denied by P&Z

A procedural question caused the affordable housing complex to get turned down.

BY DUNNE STALLINGS BUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A rezoning request to housing apartment complex on village Grindstone reservoir was denied Tuesday.

Rick Silva, a member of the Ruidoso village planning and zoning commission, said he offered the motion to reject the application because village officials didn't follow the procedures they require from others.

"They replatted the land into multi-family units and moved ahead with the project, all before they came to us," he said after the meeting Tuesday. "I'm not against the project, but they didn't comply with the village ordinance that everyone else must go through."

The village was asking that 12.37 acres be rezoned from single family residential (R-1) to residential planned unit development (PUD).

The appeal goes to the village council, which will decide Tuesday whether to schedule a public hearing at their meeting later this month.

In a report to the commission, village planner Darrell Bremner wrote that lots surrounding the acreage are zoned R-1 and that the village, represented by Cleatus Richard, has optioned the property for an affordable housing development and needs the change to proceed.

* However, he pointed out that changes in zoning are designed to meet the land use needs of village residents in conformance with the village's comprehensive plan.

"The Comprehensive Plan shows the area as low density residential, so the request does not comply," Bremner wrote. "Conditions in the community have probably changed enough from when the plan was done that rezoning could be justified by the applicant."

"I filed a response to Darrell's agenda memo pointing out why it was basically in error regarding compliance with comprehensive plan," Richards said.

Village manager Alan Briley said, "They said the city didn't follow procedures. but everyone recommended the project. Four of the six board members voted against

OUR OPINION

Congratulations to the villages' victors

Round 1 of the 2002 political war is over kirmish No. 1 in the political war — a.k.a. elections — Jof 2002 is over and done with. Lincoln County's towns and villages now have, variously new trustees and council members, mayors and municipal judges.

We congratulate the winners (and the losers, if that's what they really wanted in their secret hearts), and wish them the best as they prepare to begin a new cycle of governing, budgeting and taking the blame.

That, of course, is what being an elected public official is all about — making, changing and enforcing the rules the rest of us are required to live by which means they will make some friends, but most certainly lose some friends. Ask anybody who's been there.

Two more battles in this year's political war remain the statewide party primary elections on June 4, and the general election on Nov. 5.

That means you (and every good citizen with a sense of civic responsibility) should in coming months become a knowledgable voter.

Then if the wrong person is elected, by golly it won't be your fault.

I am very disappointed that the process outrages Mr. Gunter. If he has a problem with the presumption of innocence, and proof of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, perhaps he should relocate. I understand there is a shortage of young men in any number of developing countries that don't practice the printiples of democracy, justice, fairness and the American way.

On March 1, four days before the village elections, you published an article titled "Straw poll has Donaldson winning." You never mention the methodology used in the poll, but it is my under-standing that you relied on surplicated respondents. In other words, you made no effort to acquire a representative sampleof voters. Anyone familiar with polling will say that a representative sample is essential to a poll's credibility. If you rely on self-selected respondents, why couldn't a candidate simply organize people to respond?

Perhaps you feel you escape responsiresults a "straw" poll. That would be indefensible. You may believe that your approach has brought accurate results. in which case you should state nd defend your methodology. Or, you may doubt your approach, in which case you should not call what you have done a poll at all and should not have published it so close to the election.

Next to the articles, in bold letters, you encourage people to vote. One wonders, however, how much you respect yoters when you treat voter opinion so cavalierly.

Independence for ENMU-Roswell campus is dead! Apparently it is. Will business as usual return to Portales, Roswell and Ruidoso? Consider the possi-... bilities.

How many bachelor and master's degree programs does ENMU-Portales currently offer? Would the Portales campus be willing to share with the Roswell and Ruidoso campuses a number of those programs?

Essentially, would ENMU agree to... establish three four-year colleges in Postales, Reswell and Ruidoso? Each care put could offer different and unique bacrelor and masters programs.

Could Roswell and Ruidoso use a fouryear college campus? Could we share ENMU's collegiate sporting teams? Two or three times a season, could we attend NCAA college sporting events in our' cities? Lectures, plays, choral presentations, band concerts, etc. — why couldn't we enjoy those events in Roswell and ... vides?

Could three separate - but one - prosper under this system? Would three " Southeastern cities grow with this asset?": Wisconsin is enjoying this system now. 🛷 So are other states.

Imagine the economic possibilities for"; Roswell and Ruidoso if Portales agreed to do this. ... Is it time to consider the possibilities?

Consider one ENMU thriving in three separate cities ... cities that could definitely use the positive growth this would Ban of 'Saturday night specials' saves lives...

BALTIMORE, Md. - The Maryland law banning "Saturday night special" handguns was associated with a 9 percent decrease in firearm homicides in the state between 1990-1998, according to a new study from the Johns Hopkins Center for Injury Research and Policy at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health.

The study was published in the March 2002 issue of the American Journal of Epidemiology (Vol. 155, No.5: 406-412) and is the first to measure the law seffect on homicide rates. The term "Saturday night special" refera to relatively low-quality, concealable handguns that are commonly used in crime. The Maryland law banning Saturday night specials was passed in May 1988 during a period of skyrocket-ing gun homicide rates in Maryland and surrounding states. It survived a wellfunded campaign aimed at overturning the law via referendum later that year. Possibly as a result of these events, the study found that handgun sales were 34 percent higher them supected in the two reare prior to the law going into effect in Homicides did not decline immediately following the ban. However, the researchers found that - based on a model that incorporated historical patterns and homicide trends in Maryland and neighboring states - the rate of guin homicides was 9 percent lower during the post-law period their would have been expected had the law not come into effect. The law was not associated with a change in homicides committed with other types of weapons. Dr. Daniel Webster, the lead author of the study and co-director of the Johns Hopkins Center for Gun Policy and Research, said, "The study results suggest that the law did what it was intended to do-save lives." Webster said the findings translate into an average of 40 lives saved per year between 1990-1998.

the index to state statutes. Native American dialects, a telephone number in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., specialty dictionaries and the biography of Amelia Earhart: Any of these and more are available to support class curricula in the Ready Reference collection, which includes both print and electronic materials, at the library of Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso.

The collection also includes materials put on reserve by teachers for their online classes. Although this collection has increased in the past couple of years to about 1,500 titles, the big increase for the library has been in the volume of electronic books and journals available to students and guest users. About 10,000 e-books are available, mostly nonfiction, and that's growing constantly. Also, a CD ROM of U.S. Geological Survey maps of the entire state is available, as well as Forest Service maps and various city maps. Realtors, for example, can photocopy parts of the terrain of downtown Capitan or anywhere in the state.

"This semester Eastern set up a proxy server in Portales so students can use the Eastern New Mexico University database with their e-mail user name and password they can log onto all our databases," said Jim Pawlak, the librarian. "Before, they had to access them from a university computer or have a list of passwords for each data base. Now they can log on and they don't have to remember a long list of passwords."

In addition, students and guest users have access to more than 400,000 books in the Portales collection, as well as interlibrary loan from all campus libraries anywhere, Pawlak said. The Portales library searches databases and contacts the library at no cost. Print materials are mailed out and can take two or three weeks to arrive.

The ENMU-Ruldoso library now has a full-time library assistant - Barbara Edwards - to help users with data bases and software programs for the six work stations. Jim Pawlak, standing, is the librarian.

Pawlak teaches students how to access materials in the library component of the three-credit- hour University Studies class, lecturing part of the time and having students get hands-on experience with database scavenger hunts. One project students are working on now is to find a national article on Mescalero sculptor Jordan Torres (the answer is: Wild West, Vol. 12, August 1999, page 56).

"We have limited paper resources. Electronic is the way a lot of information is being presented now," he said.

About 1,500 users log on each month from home or from one of the six work stations. A new one was added last year, designed for wheel-chair access, and one work station now is equipped with Macintosh software. Last semester the Ruidoso Instruction Center began offering online classes, which upped the computer use in the library, Pawlak said.

New also this year is a full-time library assistant, Barbara Edwards, who started Jan. 28 and replaced a 3/4-time library assistant who resigned in November. Edwards' middle name is "Bookworm," she said, and she has worked at other university and college libraries, including New Mexico State University, Emory University School of Medicine and Georgia Southern University.

Edwards spends "an awful lot" of her time helping students use the computers or various software programs, as well as showing them research techniques. The rest of her time is spent checking books and audiovisual materials in and out, creating new library cards, cataloging new books, sending books back to the Golden Library in Portales, and taking pictures for student identification cards.

"This is a teaching library. We show people how to use the resources. We're here to help if they run into trouble, and to show them what they can do through the library," Pawlak said.

The same resources are available free to Community Education students and nonstu-dent community members can become guest users by paying a $10 annual fee. Unlike students, they pay 10 cents a page for any printing they do. Home schoolers also use the library extensively, accessing the juvenile collection in Portales, and the library there mails the resources directly to them. Only about 30 guest passes have been issued this year, down from the usual 50, and Pawlak speculates that more people may have Internet access at home now.

The Ruidoso Instruction Center has . tools for wireless networking, Pawlak said. Students and guest researchers can move around with their laptops without the bother of cables, like wireless telephones, and reach the ENMU printers.

The library is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Research assistance is available and additional hours, equipment and assistance may be scheduled with the librarian by course instructors at least one . week in advance. Access to the library's selection of electronic resources is available form the terminals in the computer lab and via the library's Web pages at http://www.ruidoso.enmu.edu/library. Corona High School students Rachel Lucras and Tara Seely visited Mountain View Animal Clinic in a Job Shadowing program on Feb. 26.

The girls received a tour of the clinic and they witnessed a number of procedures in small animal medicine. They viewed two eye surgeries and a dental procedure; in addition, they personally administered injections to canines. Rachel and Tara observed the examination of a bound dog named Pepper, throughout the interview they commented incessently on the animal's beauty.

"We've learned so much," remarked Seely — "How to give a dog a shot, how to maintain a dog's health, how to care for a dog's teeth, types of anes-

Asked what advice she would give to other students offered this opportunity Lucras seid. "Make sure that blood doesn't bother you and have a positive attitude." The students felt that this experience was extremely conducive to making a career choice and hope that Corona will continue the program.

Robert Owen, DVM, guided the girls around the clinic. He also enjoyed the experience and invited the girls back. Owen stated that three students have fainted in his office since he began hosting Job Shadow students — and Rachel and Tara were not among that number.

Job Shadowing involves young adults having the opportunity to spend a day with professionals in their own prospective careers. Travis Lightfoot, Corona schools superintendent, arranged the Job Shadowing program in the Ruidoso area, giving five students the chance to receive hands-on experience in career fields of their own choosing.

Other students involved in the program were Monique Johnson and Rhiannon Alirez, who shadowed nurses at Lincoln County Medical Center, and Shaline Lopez, who shadowed with the Ruidoso News.

Flack says fond goodbye to Ruidoso Council

The former councilor opted not to run for re-election.

BY DIAMNE STALLINGS RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITE

Linda Flack bid farewell to her fellow Ruidoso Council members last week as she attended her last meeting.

Flack didn't run for re-election. She was appointed to the board by Mayor Robert Donaldson in July 1998, but then won election in March 2000 to finish out the remaining two years in the term.

Donaldson, who presented a commemorative plaque to Flack, said her presence made the council much stronger and noted that she was the third woman since the village was incorporated in 1945 to be elected.

"to the council,

Flack thanked the community, councilors and the village staff for helping her learn what needed to be done and how to do it.

HOW GOOD IS VISION SCREENING?

Vision screening is a quick way to spot individuals with obvious vision problems and signal the need for a comprehensive examination and care. It's a low cost way for the motor vehicle department to identify would be drivers who should not be allowed behind the wheel without glasses. Screening helps schools identify children who may not be able to read the blackboard, and community screening is often invaluable in spotting amblyopia in young children.

But screening is not complete eye care. It cannot examine the total health of the eye to identify vision abnormalities. It takes a complete optometric examination to check eye coordination, side vision, tracking and other visual skills. Eye charts may help the school find those who are nearsighted, but not how nearsighted. Farsightedness and astigmatism are not checked at all. Some screenings for senior citizens do check for glaucoma, but may overlook any other eye disease present.

Warrior tracksters could challenge at state

RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Any time you talk about a successful track team, you talk about speed. The Rufdoso runners may have lost a lot of that speed to graduation, but head coach Ronny Maskew still feels his boys team could contend for another Class 3A title this season.

"We lost a lot of good people, but still have a lot of people that can pick up the slack," Maskew said. "We have about 40 kids out on the boys side, and those are pretty good numbers.

We still have talent; those we're counting on have been on the team for two or three years. We may have a drop or two in a performance, but that doesn't mean as a team we'll be worse off."

Among those Maskew will be counting on are Jose Linares and Tyler Line - both state qualifiers last year in middle distance running — and relay runners Nathaniel Hedin, Josh Romero and Michael Torres.

True, they'll be without the blazing speed of Solomon Barnett or steady performance of J.R. Floyd, but the Warriors may actually have more depth in the running events this year, which gives them a good shot to claim their second state title in three years.

The one question is in the field events. Ruidoso doesn't have a lot of experience in shot put, discus, long or triple jump.

Tyler Line, right, hands off to Josue Lineres during relay practice at Ruldoso High School. The two are part of a track team that could challenge for another state title, despite losing some very fast runners to graduation.

We may not have the outstanding individual performances we did last year, but we have people we feel could fill in point-wise," Maskew said.

"Instead of having Solomon Barnett win three or four events for us, we may have one person that can win two and another win one and make up for it."

On the girls side, Maskew has a team that is much improved over last year, and the team is still pretty young.

Cecily Howell and Megan Gabaldon, both state qualifiers in pole vault last season, are back this year, as are Rachel Loya and Tamara Grant in the shot and discus competitions.

Another state qualifier from last season is Carrie Line in the hurdles, as is Amanda Montes in middle distance, although she's recovering from knee Lady Chief head coach Rol Bradford used a full-court press to combat Logan's superior size.

Logan made good on all the fouls, going 20-34 from the foul line and were led in scoring by Monica Ramirez with 18 points,

McDougal takes second at opening tourney

FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Ruidoso Warriors tentraveled to teams Alamogordo March 2 for their season opener, as 16 teams from around the region attended the Alamogordo High School Invitational Tennis Tournament.

The Warriors are playing their way into shape, having only two weeks of practice due to weather conditions. Some team members had only a week of practice coming into the tennis program from other sports.

The young Ruidoso netters still gained valuable court experience as they head into their season.

"They did really well considering how little time we had to prepare. I have a great group of kids this year," said Warrior coach Celeste Franklin. "I have kids with so much try and athletic ability. We've got a lot to learn about the game of tennis but they will be just fine. Everybody is really excited about the season."

While most of the Warriors fell in their first matches of the day. Ruidoso did taste some Eighth-grader Heather McDougal was the number two seed at the townsment and proved she deserved the ranking, taking second in her flight at the tournament in the girls singles division.

McDougal worked her way threw the bracket into the championship match. There she faced Julie Moscato from Mayfield, ranked in the top 10 in the Southwest National Junior United States Tennis Association in the 16-andunder division.

It was the first time standout McDougal had faced Moscato due to the fact they were in different age groups. McDougal fell in straight sets and should be looking forward to a rematch.

The Warriors will travel to Belen Friday, with matches beginning at 2 p.m.

The teams have already seen some competition in a practice meet at the Texas Tech Indoor competition at Lubbock back in February. Maskew's only goals were to see how far along some of his competitors were in terms of experience.

Their season starts Friday at the West Texas Relays in Odessa, the largest high school track meet in the state of Texas.

"Running against the kind of tough competition we'll see there will really help. Maskew said. "Particularly in this district.

District 4-3A looks to be tough again, as Ruidoso will be up against the likes of Lovington and New Mexico Military Institute for state domination in Class 3A. In last year's district meet, Lovington came in first, followed by Ruidoso and NMMI. At the state meet, the order was reversed, with the Colts winning the state title and Ruidoso still in second.

"This district is always the toughest in track, so you don't always run your top people- in some events at the end," Maskew said. "That way, we can get more people qualified for state and hopefully get more points."

NEW ORLEANS — A lastsecond shot by Patrick Sparks elevated Western Kentucky over New Mexico State 73-72 in the Sun Belt Conference semifinals here Tuesday, dropping the Aggies to 20-12.

Western Kentucky (27-3) moved on to play in the conference championship against Louisiana-Lafayette, but did so only after surviving a scoring show by Eric Channing and James Moore. The two scored 34 points in the second half and the Aggies were 68 percent from the field as a team.

NMSU began the second half with a 20-6 run and took their first lead at 45-44 with 11:48 remaining. But the 18th ranked Hilltoppers went on an 8-0 run of their own to take the lead back.

The two teams continued to battle back and forth until the Aggies found themselves with the ball and just 17 seconds left, down 71-69. After calling a time out, they set up the play for a Channing three-pointer, which went in with four seconds left to put NMSU up 72-71. But no lead was safe in this game, and Western Kentucky returned the favor by in-bounding the ball with just 2.8 seconds left to set up Sparks' game-winning goal:

Channing led four Aggle players in double figures with 24 points, followed by Moore with 17 and Jason Fontent with 15, Brandon Mason added

Western Kentucky was led by Chris Marcus 18 points, with Derek Robinson and Raynardo Curry scoring 14 and 15 points each. David Boyden put in 13.

POOP SCOOP

by Dianne Stallings RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITE

This week, I'm continuing with more information about how to find rental apartments and homes where pets aregton D.C.based Humane Society of the United States has a 'rentine United States has a Teming with pets" section allowed or how to persuade a landlord to give your pet a chance.

For pointers on negotiations, the Washington

D.C. based Humane Society of the United States has a "renting with pets" section at www.hsus.org.

The site includes links to others pages that list pet-friendly apartments and a booklet about renting with pets, as well as a page on 13 steps to finding pet friendly housing.

Once you find that page, more links appear for grading yourself as a responsible pet owner, fadvice on how to move your pet s

Once you find that page, more links appear for grading yourself as a responsible per owner, for advice on how to move your pet safely, how to help your pet settle into its new home and finding pet-related resources in your new community.

Because not everyone has a computer, I'll hit the highlight of each section over the next few weeks.

Under the page on 13 steps to finding per-friendly rental holis the highlight of each section over the next two weeks.

under 13 steps to finding pet-friendly rental hol housing, the HSUS advises to give yourself enough time and start looking at least six weeks in advance by contacting real estate and rental agencies.

Understanding why many housing communities reject pets may help you sell yourself as a responsible pet owner to another condomium group.

Contact the local humane society or animal care and control agency, where some-one may be able to provide a list of spartment communities that allow pets. if you know agents or managers who own pets themselves, they may be able to help with leads.

Look for community apartment guide books at the supermarket or near newspaper distribution boxes. They may indicate which ones allow pets or specify weight and size limits.

Also check out the HSUS Web site section on pet-fion on pel-friendly apartments by stopping at the local library to use a computer.

Don't waste your time and resources when it obvious that a firm "no pet" policy exists.
Shift your attention to a place where negotiation is possible. We've covered four of the 13 steps. More next week.
