County objects to tree-thinning liability

State forestry wants to pass brush-clearing project responsibility; commission wary of wording in proposed contract

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
 RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Action on a half-million dollar program to help private land owners reduce the threat of wildfire this month by Lincoln County commissioners when they learned administration and liability would be dumped on the county.

Efforts to reduce the number of trees and underbrush on property in wooded areas around was stepped up after three years of serious fires. The latest in March claimed 29 homes.

County Attorney Alan Morel said he wanted to be sure commissioners understood the $820,000 contract with the New Mexico Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department involves financial contributions from private land owners, the county and a state grant.

The county's contribution is about $24,600 of in-kind services and the state will kick in $574,000, with land owners making up the difference of $221,400.

But in the past, the state Forestry Division administered the grants. This time the way the contract is written, management, liability and supplying upfront money rests with the county.

"I can't tell you why, but that's exactly what this agreement does," Morel said. "It probably will require the county to hire one individual on a contract basis to actually administer the program. We certainly don't have anybody with the county now qualified to look at an acre of land" and determine the number of trees to be cut.

County Manager Tom Stewart reminded commissioners that the Wildland Urban Interface Group, a consortium of federal, state, city and tribal entities focused on improving forest health and decreasing the fire danger around threatened areas, worked on prioritizing at-risk sites and securing grants.

"It came to the point that the state forestry did not want to administer the program any more, but the way they phrased it was that they wanted to get counties involved," he said. "We

Mescalero sees more students

■ The increase, primarily in the younger grades, coincides with a decrease in the same age group attending Ruidoso schools.

The construction of a new, $38 million school on the Mescalero Apache Reservation seems to be paying off during the first few days of class, at least in terms of enrollment.

Mescalero Apache School's enrollment as of Monday was up 250 students from last year's count during the third week of September, while Ruidoso Municipal School District's enrollment was down by 140 students as of Friday, compared with the 20th day of school last year.

Superintendent Ray Swinney of Mescalero Apache School said 715 students have enrolled in the new school as of Monday, compared with last year's 421 students, a 35 percent increase.

Much of the increase, with 400 students at the last count, Swinney wasn't surprised that the bulk of the increase in students at the Mescalero school were in the younger grades, saying a lot of high school students wouldn't want to give up the school they'd attended for years.

In Ruidoso, enrollment last year on the 20th day of school was 2,404, compared to the fourth day of school this year, Aug. 23, when enrollment was 2,264, a 6 percent decrease.

Enrollment at Ruidoso High School increased by 22 students from last year on the 20th day, but all the other schools saw decreases.

At Sierra Vista Primary School, enrollment was down 63 students, with 296 this year compared with 359 last year, a 17 percent decrease. Nob Hill Early Childhood Center's enrollment went from 169 last year to 150 this year, an 11 percent decrease.

White Mountain Elementary School and White Mountain Intermediate schools lost 33 and 19 students, respectively, an 8 percent decrease at each. At White Mountain Elementary School, enrollment dipped from 372 last year to 339 this year, and at White Angel Martinez, a fifth grader at White Mountain Intermediate School, filled her face with watermelon at the welcome-back-to-school Martinez family party in the playgrounds of the White Mountain schools Friday. Parents at 10 watermelon stations dished out 1,800 pounds of watermelon to the students — some of whom said they'd eaten 30 or more pieces.

Fire danger rises to 'high'

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
 RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Just as quickly as it started in late June, the summer monsoon disappeared last week.

A lack of moisture has prompted officials with the U.S. Forest Service to hike the fire danger in the Lincoln National Forest around Ruidoso from moderate to high Tuesday. The village of Ruidoso followed the agency's lead.

"The monsoons kind of dropped off and things are drying out," said Smokey Bear District Ranger Jerry Hawkes. "We're still not too bad off in some places, but other areas are much dryer."

The service is not imposing additional fire restrictions, however.

"We just want people to be careful," Hawkes said. "There's more risk than a couple of weeks ago."

Although a meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Albuquerque said last week that Ruidoso was running ahead of average on rain in July and August, overall, the area still is 74 percent of average for the year. Lingering drought has caused a 5-inch to 7-inch multi-year deficit.

The Forest Service closed the forest May 22 through the July 4th weekend when the fire danger registered extreme with no relief from rain in sight.

Commissioners want rules for larger subdivision lots

Carrizozo-area development brings up questions about law

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
 RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Lincoln County needs to look at new rules to cover subdivisions with large acreage lots, says Lincoln County Commissioner L. Ray Nunley.

Earlier this month, he called for a public hearing to draft some new rules under the county's subdivision ordinance. The county has no zoning laws.

"I don't think we were prepared to properly address The Windmill Ranches," he said, referring to a large, multi-section development west of U.S. 54 and north of Carrizozo. Portions of the subdivision included lots of 140 acres that are exempt from state and county subdivision rules.

"With the break up of large ranches, I don't think this will be the last one coming," Nunley said. The county needs more control over water, roads and utilities for that type of development, he said.

"I don't think we were prepared to properly address The Windmill Ranches."

 county commissioner

Chairman Rex Wilson agreed, saying, "Every time we go through one of these things, we learn something."

If the law currently exempts subdivisions with large acreage lots, "Let's change the law," Nunley said. Those types of subdivisions impact the county, its infrastructure and natural resources, he said.

Comanche, 12, is the daughter of Harrison and Debbie Toclanny and Mr. and Mrs. Arden Comanche Sr., all of Mescalero. The puberty rites are set for Sept. 5-8 in the Seventh Canyon of Mescalero and the public is invited.

A seventh grader at the new Mescalero Middle School, Breanna is the granddaughter of Elbys Hugar, who is the great-granddaughter of Chief Cochise. Breanna enjoys basketball, volleyball, music and working on the computer.

Her sponsors are Joey Padilla and Miralene Blaylock.

On Saturday, Sept. 7, the family will honor the protectors of the public.

Lunch and evening meals will be provided with traditional foods during the puberty rites. Entertainment will include the Dance of the Mountain Gods, the Apache War Dance and Pow Wow honor songs on Saturday.

Events set to start U.S. 70 work

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Several events are planned in early September in conjunction with the start of work on the reconstruction of U.S. 70 from Riverside west to Ruidoso Downs.

Although the 38-mile project on the two-lane scenic highway is being contested by a local group worried about historical properties, environmental impacts and the disruption of irrigation ditches, a notice to proceed was issued Aug. 1. State and federal transportation officials cited the high accident and death rate on the road.

The estimated construction timeline shows the first phase of construction outside of Ruidoso Downs from mile marker 284.2 to 287 set to begin this fall and wind up in the fall of 2003. Two other pieces, through Hondo and Tinnie and from Picacho past Riverside, also should begin in the fall, but won't finish up until the spring of 2004.

Other sections will be tackled between those two time periods, except for a large 10-mile slice from mile marker 275 to 285 that includes San Patricio, which will start in the spring of 2003 and wind down in the winter of 2005.

Sierra Blanca Constructors, a joint venture, is handling the design and construction.

Events starting next week include:

- A public reception from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sept. 6 at the Hondo Valley Schools
- A public open house from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Sept. 7 at the Hondo Valley Schools
- An archaeological site tour from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Sept. 7. Obtain a map at the open house for the starting point.
- A ground-breaking ceremony at 1 p.m., Sept. 17 at the U.S. 70 Hondo Valley Project Office at mile marker 286.7.

SCHOOLS: Numbers expected to fluctuate

Mountain Intermediate School, it dipped from 380 last year to 352 this year.

Superintendent of Schools Mike Gladden said enrollment generally goes up until after Labor Day, but Ruidoso experiences high student mobility. Two teaching positions were not filled this year, in anticipation of a drop in enrollment — one at Nob Hill and one at Sierra Vista Primary, where greater decreases were expected. Ruidoso employed 154 teachers this year with a total staff of 266.

The new Mescalero school hired 18 or 19 new teachers, and 11 or 12 other new staff members, Swinney said, for a total staff of 142.

It was built to accommodate 1,600 students and, with about 1,200 school-age children on the reservation, is expected to max out in five years, Swinney said. Expansion was built into the plans.

COUNTY: Commissioners wary of proposed contract's wording

will be hiring a contract employee to go around and provide the prescriptions on the land. We have people in the county who are qualified."

"The grant would pay for the employee."

Stewart said he budgeted for a $600,000 grant, but was surprised to see a required in-kind support from the county, equating to administration of the grant.

"The other thing that bothers both me and the attorney is the $221,400 that's supposed to come from land owners, but currently is addressed as the county doing it," Stewart said.

"Additionally, it says 'when funding is available.' I don't want to be in a situation where we're waiting to be reimbursed on some of these things, because it's a program that needs to be ongoing."

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley, who also is a Ruidoso village councilor, said he's troubled because, "They're not going to give us the money up front. We have to do the work and then request the funds. That's bad. Every time we have one of those contract employees, we end up keeping them. Will that be the case?"

"It depends on how long the project takes to complete," Stewart said. "As long as we specify the person is a contract employee based on available grant money, I think we're all right."

"State forestry did not want to administer the program any more, but ... they wanted to get counties involved."

Tom Stewart
county manager

"This is a definite shifting of liability, is what's going on," Morel said. "The grant covers the area of Ruidoso, Alto, Sun Valley, Cedar Creek, Eagle Creek and Ruidoso Downs. It will be exciting to see how to allocate that $574,000 amongst all those areas. You need millions and millions of dollars to actually do what needs to be done."

A backlog of about 300 applicants already exists, Stewart said.

"It has to be something that contributes to the safety of the community," he said. "It can't just be smaller projects."

Commission Chairman Rex Wilson said he thought the county was selected only to act as fiscal agent. The money would flow through it, but the expertise would come through the state forestry and other agencies. He didn't think the county would have to hire anyone, he said.

"The way this is written, the county ultimately is responsible for hiring, for paying and for collecting," Morel said.

"Can we do what the chairman said and just funnel it through to the urban interface group, the urban forester and the state forestry?" Commissioner Leo Martinez asked.

"It (the contract) would have to be completely rewritten," Morel said. "But what the state has done is take out everything they did in the last grant and shifted it to the county. When I go through this thing, the county is responsible for going through the procurement code for actually hiring the people to do the work for the landowner. It even talks about the landowners being subcontractors of the county along with the wood cutters. They even have an indemnification clause for the county to hold them harmless."

Wilson said to avoid violating the state's anti-donation clause, previous federal grants involved the Natural Resource Conservation Service.

"I'm not sure we want to have a discussion today until you guys hammer it out," he said. "I don't want to stop the deal, even if we have you write a new contract and have them consider it."

Any governmental entity, such as the village of Ruidoso, could administer the grant, Morel said.

Stewart said the county was selected because priority sites were pinpointed in other towns and unincorporated areas.

Mike Runnels, director of planning and zoning for Ruidoso, said the village already has identified its priority areas and administers some grant money through its urban forester.

About 40 percent of the sites identified outside the village by the wildland/urban interface group also are completed, he said.

"All marking and thinning was done at the direction of the state forestry," Runnels said. "Rick (Delaco, village urban forester) doesn't do that. We signed a contract and had some of the same concerns. Barbara Luna (Capitan district forester for the state) worked with us on how to administer it."

People bring in receipts for the work they paid to be accomplished, Delaco reviews them and the money is dispersed, he said.

Stewart said the way the contract is written doesn't track the method used to complete the work.

"Barbara has been out," Stewart said. "I want to sit down and have her outline exactly what we're doing and make sure the agreement supports that. It doesn't right now."

Planning commission OKs variance for Innsbruck Lodge improvements

■ Another variance was granted last week for a garage in White Mountain Estates.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Approval of a variance will amend commercial site plan clears the way for an enclosed pool and second-floor addition to the Innsbruck Lodge on Sudderth Drive.

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission last week agreed to grant a variance to Jean-Pierre Schafroth to allow the pool to be built with a zero setback on the side lot line. The standard is 10 feet.

Planning staff pointed out that the rear wall of the motel is 6 feet from the side lot line and part of the rear of the building crosses the line. An 18-foot encroachment already exists as the motel wall, planner Darrell Bremner noted.

Agent George Staten of AIA Architects wrote that the only available space for an enclosed pool is the east end of the lot, because the owner wants to save Putting the pool on the west end also would block access to some motel rooms. At the east end, five units and a storage room would be demolished, but they would be added to a second story above the existing rooms.

The motel is located at 601 Sudderth Drive, near the village tennis courts and the intersection with Paradise Canyon Road.

The board also granted a variance in White Mountain Estates, Unit 4 to William H. and Doris J. Pieratt because they built a garage closer to a lot line than shown on their site plan, which also was an approved variance.

The couple asked for permission for the garage to be 10.2 feet from the front lot line and 1.4 feet from the west lot line, which is 8.4 inches closer than the originally approved variance from the front and 2.4 inches closer from the west.

OUR OPINION

Slow down —for safety and posterity

Traffic in historic Lincoln looming as a threat

To cross-country travelers along U. S. Highway 380, Lincoln is a charming little village that might be worth visiting — later. Right now, the idea (especially if you're driving one of those 18-wheel rigs) is to get from Point A to Point B as quickly as possible. And there's the rub.

Speeding through Lincoln might save a minute or two, but it's dangerous to pedestrians. And truck vibrations aren't beneficial to old adobe walls housing Lincoln's incredible history. Lincoln people have complained about the speed problem for years; they've asked for reduced speed limits, flashing lights, even speed bumps.

What hasn't happened heretofore finally is getting the attention of the Highway and Transportation Department and the State Police.

A planned vibration study sounds useful, a traffic count less so — at least for now.

U. S. 380 is a direct east-west route across the county, but a count now would be nothing compared to the huge increase when two years (at least) of construction begins in earnest on U. S. Highway 70 between Hondo and Ruidoso Downs.

Best idea in the near term: Electronic warning signs and a stepped-up police presence — with double fines for speed violators. That should teach drivers to treat a historical treasure with respect.

Burning debate questions

Burning New Mexico political questions:

Is Pete Domenici a saint?
Is John Sanchez something less than a saint?

Is Bill Richardson in league with the devil?

Should Bill debate John?

Is Pete ducking debates with Gloria Tristani?

First things first. Catholic church insiders tell me there has been no move to canonize the beloved Senator from New Mexico.

Should you catch Pete Domenici glowing, look for a source other than a halo. Over the years, the affable Domenici had been "Senator Pete" to those who favor him, "St. Pete" to those in the opposing camp who have used the moniker in a demeaning tone, as in, "oh, sure, he's perfect, can't do anything wrong."

Domenici's clever campaign folks turned the tables, adopting the "St. Pete" theme for radio ads in his campaign against challenger Gloria Tristani.

Truth is, St. Pete has not been overly eager to set up debate dates with Gloria who, despite the warning on his rearview mirror, is not closer than she appears.

Ever since a guy named John Kennedy became president after debating Richard Nixon, who came off on television as a fellow stumbling in after a three-day drunk, front runners have been reluctant to mix it up with trailing opponents.

Bill Richardson should welcome debates with gubernatorial candidate John Sanchez. Albuquerque Journal investigative reporter Colleen Heild did a number on John in a recent two-part series. (Note for personal file: If you are going to run for something, avoid Colleen Heild.)

Sanchez has worked hard projecting an image of a rags to riches straight shooter equally comfortable in the impoverished home of a single mother as he is at a corporate board meeting. Heild's report makes him look more like a rags to riches flip-flopper who made big promises in his legislative campaign but delivered little.

Biggest problem with John is that he does not pass the "don't bullcrap me" test. Of the two measures he managed to get through the State Legislature, one was a memorial recognizing "para-aviation" as a valued industry and sport in New Mexico. Turns out John is married to Debra, whose brother Jerry Daniele is co-owner of Paramotor Southwest American Flyer and who has been teaching power gliding in New Mexico.

Any connection between the family business and the John Sanchez memorial honoring it? It was unrelated, John insists. Come on, John; no big deal, say you did something nice for your brother in law. Just don't bullcrap us about it.

Meanwhile, Sanchez opponent Richardson is depicted as being in league with the devil by a woman on the Prime Time Christian station out of Midland, Texas. Apparently, Richardson's connection with Bill and Hillary Clinton is enough to condemn him.

Also condemning Richardson are Republicans upset with his using in TV ads a retired sergeant dressed in a United States military uniform.

John Dendahl, Republican Party chairman, said the television ad is proof of Richardson's arrogance. Maybe so, but John Dendahl calling anyone arrogant is like a baboon calling a swan ugly.

To the editor:

I recently had visitors from out of state who commented to me how junky parts of town looked...well, I started noticing these spots as we drove through mid-town and toward the "Y."

If the village (government) is so concerned about homeowners cleaning up their lots, why don't they get out and do some cleaning of their own?...or at least find out who owns these places and make them clean them up. One in particular is the old Holiday Miniature Golf site...how long has it been since anyone attempted to clean it up?

Also, there are areas between buildings in Midtown and behind the main road that look just terrible...not only are they grown up with weeds, but trash is everywhere.

Let's take time to clean up our village and make it a place people will enjoy and not have to comment about its "junky" appearance.

SHD boss under fire

To the editor:

It has come to my attention that our New Mexico Department of Transportation higher-ups are being praised in the June 2002 edition of ENR Magazine.

They are all resigning at the end of their terms (the governor's term). This is certainly ironic, since the new governor would likely not keep them anyway. These highway offices are an appointment by the governor, or new governor, in this case.

It is my understanding the secretary and his staff are being praised for the amount of roads they have built during their tenure. He has done this at whose expense? The taxpayers, of course. Of all these enormous projects that have been built during Mr. Secretary's regime, how many were built by New Mexico contractors? Very few I would guess.

I have been told that the contractor on the (Albuquerque) Big I project, called Twin Mountain Construction. I've also been told (it is) a subsidiary of Peter Kiewit and Sons, one of the largest contractors in the world. The Big I project was bid for approximately $215 million. The final contract amount was reported ... at $295 million. This is an over-run of $80 million. It is my understanding that most, if not all, New Mexico contractors are small and can't even bid these larger contracts. Why weren't the contracts made smaller to employ all our New Mexico contractors or at least to allow more New Mexico contractors to bid them? I also want to know how much money is left for future projects after Mr. Secretary leaves office?

I find it completely revolting that a $150 million-plus contract was given without a competitive bid to a subsidiary of Koch Asphalt. Again, this project was not a competitively bid project. Why, I still do not know. You would think a competitively bid contract should benefit the taxpayers of New Mexico.

I have now heard that Mr. Secretary and his staff are going to be employed, after their public service stint is over, by none other than Koch Asphalt...

...I have been told ... that Mr. Secretary has given directions to all of his district managers to get as much work, on big jobs, completed prior to his departure from the highway department. This way he could leave as the greatest secretary the New Mexico highway department has ever known. Once again, at whose expense are we making Mr. Secretary leave in a blaze of glory? What are the long-term ramifications of what he has done? We will not know for many years.

...There has been a "design build" contract recently awarded on U.S. 70 from Ruidoso Downs to (Riverside) for approximately $130 million. I have been told this was the second highest bid and that the lowest bid was $109 million. Why would the department dish out an extra $21 million of us taxpayers' money when they have someone to build the project for $109 million instead of $130 million?

I do not know how many of us have been "BS'd," but I could not stand it any longer without expressing my views.

AMERICAN ISSUES

Intelligence tests for college admission aren't fair

CHICAGO, Ill. — Assessing the intelligence of students for the purpose of college admissions is difficult and controversial. On the one hand, the higher overall performance by whites on tests raises questions about whether they are fair or not.

Tests in the early grades, for example, often advantage whites and magnify racial differences at later ages. For these and other reasons, including differences in the quality of schools, blacks generally have lower scores on assessment tests.

Sociologists Judith Blau and Stephanie Moller of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill presented these and other findings from their research on student testing in a panel at the annual meeting of the American Sociological Association in Chicago last week. Their study examines racial divisions in assessment test scores and student outcomes using data from the National Education Longitudinal Study (NELS).

Blau and Moller assert that current assessment practices are unfair to both black and white students. Blacks are disadvantaged because testing is part of a system that has been and remains discriminatory and because test scores are used unfairly. There is also evidence that blacks view testing differently than whites — and are therefore less motivated than white students to perform well on them.

The authors, however, also suggest that tests are not fair to white youth either. Research studies suggest that, in white culture, there is a particular seriousness about individual performance and competition, and an exaggerated belief in the validity of competitive tests and the rankings they produce.

Current assessment practices reinforce the notion that talent can be measured along a single continuous dimension, with the consequence that many qualified white students do not apply to college.

Test scores analyzed in context of other variables (educational aspirations, probabilities of attending a post secondary institution, different college programs, socioeconomic status) reveal that:

- High-scoring blacks are less likely than high-scoring whites to pursue higher education, in part because blacks attend less good schools;

- Low-scoring whites are less likely than low-scoring blacks to pursue higher education;

- Blacks are more likely to pursue higher education, with controls for SES and test scores; and

- Blacks' educational aspirations exceed those of whites.

Blau and Moller, therefore, pose the question: If tests are unfair to white youth and to youth of color, why test?

They conclude that using high-school class rank instead of test scores yields fairer race and gender outcomes when assessing students for college admissions. Both blacks and males benefit if class rank is used. The pool of black students is larger when class rank is used as a measure of talent, and educational returns for blacks are fairer when based on class rank than test scores. Males also benefit as their pool is enlarged by class ranks.

Since the mid-1980s, male enrollment rates in degree-granting institutions have been dropping as institutions increasingly favored women over men.

Mitchell threatens lawsuit for Bonito water line customers

BY LIONEL W. LIPPWANN
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Leaving nearby water customers dry could tap the village of Capitan for a large amount of money, according to one attorney.

In a letter dated Aug. 21, attorney Gary C. Mitchell notified the Capitan mayor, trustees, village clerk and the village attorney of his intent to pursue litigation in behalf of five plaintiffs, all of whom are water customers of the village via the Bonito water line which extends from Bonito Lake to Capitan.

The line is scheduled to be shut down by the City of Alamogordo on Sept. 30, 2002.

Mitchell states in the letter that the land of each of the plaintiffs is "transgressed by the Bonito Water Line" and that all the plaintiffs are in possession of a right of way and easement for the Bonito water line.

"In consideration of their grant of the ## Citizens meeting is tonight

A citizens meeting to discuss the situation of five land owners served by the Bonito Pipeline is scheduled for 7 p.m. today at the Capitan school multi-purpose room.

The town's Board of Trustees hasn't mustered a majority on any course of action, including the purchase of a $6,000 pump needed to continue service from village sources after water is shut off by the city of Alamogordo, which owns the Bonito Reservoir.

An attorney for the five landowners notified the board of possible litigation that would involve the forced removal of the line that contains asbestos. The land owners granted easements for water lines to the village in return for untreated water from the pipeline and have paid monthly charges for the service at a greater rate than village residents who receive treated water.

Easement, each owner was entitled to a [water] tap on said pipeline at such places indicated and agreed upon by both the Village of Capitan and the owner of the property," Mitchell wrote.

In the case of four of the five property owners, this agreement has been in effect since 1957.

"In each instance, as required by the agreement, each owner paid for the water from said tap for users of raw water outside the village limits." This rate was one and a half the amount paid by water users within the village limits for treated water.

Mitchell continues by stating that it is his understanding that the Village of Capitan refuses to comply with its obligations pursuant to their agreement. "Simply put, the Village wishes to breach the contract," he wrote.

The trustees of the Village of Capitan have repeatedly refused to order and install a pump costing $6,000 to continue to serve these customers using water from the well field the village drilled in 1987.

Should the Village of Capitan elect to discontinue the water supply to the five plaintiffs, Mitchell states that he will seek actual damages in the amount of $20,000 to $40,000 to each plaintiff. In addition to this, Mitchell contends that the Village of Capitan will have "abandoned the easement for the Bonito Pipeline and the plaintiffs will be required to remove the approximately seven miles of asbestos concrete pipe at an estimated price of $8 per foot."

An undefined amount could be charged for removing soil surrounding the pipe that may have been contaminated by asbestos and replacing it with soil that is not contaminated.

Mitchell says, "In short...this contract would cost the Village, in my opinion, in excess of ($1.5 million)." He continues by asking that the Village settle this matter in an amicable manner, thus costing all parties concerned significantly less money.

In an interview with Kathryn Griffin, Capitan village clerk, she stated that after contacting the New Mexico Municipal League she was informed that the village's insurance cap is $100,000 per occurrence and if prejudice on the part of the village trustees can be proven, the village is uninsured entirely.

LCMC administrator looks toward future

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Officials with the county-owned Lincoln County Medical Center are reviewing plans for the direction of health care in the next five years.

James Gibson, administrator of the hospital in Ruidoso, said he will return "in the next couple of months" with an updated five-year strategic plan based on projected health care needs in the county. He reported that patient volume was down until the summer rainy season started, possibly because people were afraid of forest fires.

"We're doing well, but it gives us pause to think about 2003 and what kind of activities we want to budget for," he said. "Part of strategic planning is what we're looking at in the next four or five years, realizing that there is not an infinite amount of money. The committee is looking hard at timing, costs and needed projects."

Participa! Inc., a non-profit educational dental services program, will be providing dental services in the Ruidoso schools during September.

Medicaid covers the cost of all of the services, with no charge to the parents. An exam for uninsured children who return a completed permission form will also be given, at no cost to parents. Permission forms will be given out at the school sites.

Children who return a completed permission form receive a comprehensive dental exam, including a visual exam of the hard and soft tissues and charting of existing oral conditions, diagnostic x-rays, dental cleaning, topical fluoride and dental sealants.

To sign up, call New Mexico Kids at (888) 997-2583. Other questions can be referred to the school nurse.

ENMU seeks nurses

Eastern New Mexico University in Portales is paying tuition and fees for all nurses in its BSN-Completion Program. This includes all nursing and general education courses taken at Eastern during the fall semester, which begins Aug. 28.

Nursing courses can also be taken at Eastern's instructional television sites at Clovis Community College, Cannon Air Force Base, New Mexico Junior College in Hobbs, ENMU-Roswell and ENMU-Ruidoso. Many of the general education courses can also be taken at these sites.

The program is designed for nurses with associate degrees who want bachelor degrees.

Scholarship from Ford

Ruidoso High School student Joshua Romero received a $5,000 college scholarship from Ford Motor Company as part of the Ford Country Scholars program, which provides financial assistance to students committed to following careers that support rural life.

Romero was awarded the scholarship by Ruidoso Ford Lincoln-Mercury of Ruidoso. A panel of New Mexico Ford dealers, Ford Division representatives and local educators and civic leaders judged the scholarship applications based on scholastic achievement, local community service and career plans that support rural life.

Reading scores better

New Mexico's 2002 graduating high school seniors taking the American College Test showed improved performance in reading while national scores remained steady or declined, according to the New Mexico State Department of Education.

Overall, 11,791 New Mexico graduating seniors took the ACT, which assesses critical reasoning and higher-order thinking skills in English, mathematics, reading and science and is used for college admissions, academic advisement, course placement and scholarship decisions.

New Mexico's reading performance by students taking the core courses or more increased from 21.6 last year to 21.8 in 2002.

ON THE ART TRACK

A new teacher at Ruidoso High sees something in common between teaching art and coaching track.

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The connection between sports and fine arts at Ruidoso High School this year is Barry Lucy, the new art teacher — replacing Karen Reeder — and assistant track coach.

Lucy previously taught 10 years at Iowa Park High School outside of Wichita Falls, Texas, making him the third generation in his family to teach there. After that, he taught at Ruidoso Middle School for a year — language arts and art, and he coached football and track.

When his wife, also a teacher, could not find work here, the family moved to Grand Prairie, Texas, where he taught for 11 years.

"I came here for vacations with my family most of my life," Lucy said. "I always thought we had it backwards: I thought we should visit there (Texas) and live here."

The family moved back, he said, because he likes the people and the community, and "it's easy on the eyes. New Mexico is a great state for camping, exploring, hiking, working with artists and being a part of the art process. It's huge in this state, one of the largest art markets in the world."

Lucy doesn't see any conflict between coaching and teaching fine arts.

"Working with kids is working with kids ... The kind of thinking you have to do is to think on more than one level for both coaching and teaching and to motivate athletes and students," he said. "The passion that comes through for coaching comes through for teaching."

He earned a bachelor of science degree in education first and started teaching and coaching. He went back to school to earn a master of arts degree at Midwestern State University, pursuing an interest in pottery, which he intends to teach, despite the fact that the RHS pottery room is being used for physical science classes right now.

"I like burnished earthen ware," Lucy said, "Japanese ceramics, raku especially. I like using a pit fire; it gives the reds and blacks a smoky look, and I like trying to mesh different cultural influences in one style — not so much consciously, but letting the things that influence me influence me as I work."

Lucy teaches six art classes and is particularly excited about introducing advanced placement studio art at the high school — something he's had five years of experience with at South Grand Prairie High School. What surprised him here, he said, was that 10 or 15 students are interested in developing a portfolio to be graded for college credit. Five years ago, at a high school with 2,700 students — four times the size of Ruidoso's — he started with only eight students.

"I was really excited about the response from the students here and I was excited by the talent of some of the students."

The advanced placement class is on a freshman college level, and photographic slides and some samples of actual student work will be sent in the spring to the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., the organization that administers the SAT test and all Advanced Placement exams. A $75 fee per student accompanies the portfolios students send, which may represent more than one year's work.

The portfolios are judged by college and advanced placement high school teachers. Lucy was one of the 70 graders last year grading 19,000 portfolios in eight days.

Students can choose to build their portfolio in one of three areas: drawing, which includes painting as well as pencil and pen-and-ink; two-dimensional design, which can include drawing as long as it's mainly about design, and photography, digital work and combinations; and three-dimensional work, which may be in any medium.

"I've been doing this for five years, so I have a reasonable handle on what it takes for students to succeed," Lucy said. "For those students that might not consider going to college, if they can get some college credit, I hope this will encourage them to take that college credit and go with it."

SANDY SUGGITT/STAFF

For students receiving college credit from their portfolios, it means they wouldn't have to sit bored through freshman art classes and could go on to the sophomore level.

Lucy doesn't predict much change otherwise in art classes at Ruidoso High School. Advanced students are well versed in the fundamentals. Students will do work in pencil, colored pencil, charcoal, ink, oils, watercolors, acrylics, tempera, collage, photography, three-dimensional work in clay, wire, stone, paper and plaster. He looks forward to introducing students to digital imaging in a room shared with Eastern New Mexico University.

Lucy said he grades students on the basis of what they're capable of, and tries "to find something to give them some 'attaboys.' It's not their fault they can't find their niche. They're on a quest just like the rest of us," he said.

"I love it. I love teaching and elevating art above the level of a baby-sitting class," which he said it was when he started teaching 23 years ago.

■ Johnny Williams admits to two felonies, one misdemeanor

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

After pleading no contest to two felony and one misdemeanor charge, former Capitan police officer Johnny Williams was sentenced Friday to five years in prison by 12th Judicial District Judge Karen Parsons.

Williams was given three years for aggravated burglary, a 2nd-degree felony; 364 days for criminal sexual contact, a misdemeanor; and three years for bribery or intimidation of a witness, a 3rd-degree felony.

Parsons suspended two years of the seven-year sentence, which means with "good time" on the five-years remaining, the former police officer could be out in about 2 1/2 years.

Williams, who filled in when police chief Carol Durbin ran unsuccessfully for Capitan municipal judge, had entered a no contest plea in July to all three charges.

Todd Holmes represented Williams and District Attorney

Scot Key prosecuted the case for the state.

Williams was arrested March 6 and jailed under a $50,000 cash-only bond after trying to bribe a victim to drop her criminal sexual contact complaint against him. He bonded out in April.

The Ruidoso Police Department videotaped an interaction between the officer and the woman from Capitan on Sudderth Drive in a sting initiated by the district attorney's office that also included the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department and the New Mexico State Police, Key said at the time.

His office chose to take the criminal sexual contact case to the grand jury instead of a preliminary hearing because grand juries are secret, Key said. If the grand jury had not indicted him, the officer's reputation would not have been compromised, he explained.

But after Williams learned of Key's intent, he committed the bribery offense, the prosecutor said.

A spokesman confirmed Monday Williams was in the Lincoln County Detention Center pending transport to prison.

Moon Mountain project talk gets delayed

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

When developers proposing a theme park on state trust land in Ruidoso learned that some village councilors wouldn't be attending a special meeting Friday, they canceled their presentation.

Village Clerk Tammie Maddox said Monday she is trying to reschedule the business items on the special meeting's agenda because the council's regular meeting Tuesday also was canceled. But she hasn't been contacted by America's Christmas Village principals about a new time to talk to councilors, she said.

The Houston-based group once before explored sites in Ruidoso, but now is examining the possibility of about 500 acres on Moon Mountain, which overlooks Cree Meadows Golf Course, Ruidoso High School and the central portion of Gavilan Canyon Road.

State Public Lands Commissioner Ray Powell said last week that his policy ties approval to support from the community. State lands can be leased, but not sold, to generate money for a permanent trust fund that benefits school districts among other things. State trust lands are found in 32 of New Mexico's 33 counties.

Lincoln County Medical Center: 50 Years of Excellence in Health Care

A REMINDER TO THE COMMUNITIES WE SERVE

Before 1950, the people of Lincoln County had to travel between one and two hours to get to the nearest hospital. Imagine having a heart attack or even suffering a broken bone during that time. One or two hours must have been one long, miserable drive.

Today, Lincoln County has one of the best medical facilities in the state. Besides a well-equipped 24-hour emergency department, Lincoln County

LINCOLN COUNTY MEDICAL CENTER'S MODERN FACILITY TODAY.

Medical Center also offers some of the same specialty services found in larger metropolitan hospitals—like chemotherapy, physical therapy, lab testing, CT scans and MRIs. LCMC works in collaboration with visiting physicians from such specialties as cardiology, gastroenterology, plastic surgery, oncology, nephrology, ophthalmology, and urology to provide services that many hospitals its size are unable to.

But the thing that makes LCMC really special is the people. All of our 250 staff members—our housekeepers, our maintenance workers, our nurses, our technicians, our physician assistants, our physicians, our leadership, and our support staff—are committed to providing you with the finest care possible. And our dedicated volunteers are always there to lend a helping hand. Over the last several years, more than 90% of our patients have left satisfied. That's why we say Lincoln County Medical Center: Excellence in Health Care.

LEGAL NOTICE

The National Scenic Byways Program has in the past been allocated approximately $25.5 million nationwide for states to compete for funding. The New Mexico State Highway and Transportation Department expects that comparable funds will be available for federal fiscal year 2004.

Eligible applicants include city, county, state, and federal government agencies, including Native American tribes and pueblos, and 501C nonprofit organizations. Applications must be for an eligible activity on a designated scenic byway in the sponsor's area. Eligible activities include:

2. Develop and implement a corridor management plan for a scenic byway.
3. Safety improvements necessary as a result of increased traffic or changes in the types of vehicles using the highway as a result of byway designation.
4. Construction along a scenic byway of a facility for pedestrians and bicyclists, rest areas, turnouts, highway shoulder improvements, passing lanes, overlooks, and interpretive facilities.
5. Improvements to the scenic byway that will enhance access to a recreation area.
6. Protection of scenic, historic, recreational, cultural, natural, and archaeological resources in an area adjacent to a scenic byway.
7. Developing and providing tourist information to the public, including interpretive information about the scenic byway.
8. Development and implementation of scenic byway marketing programs.

Capitan gridders back with a vengeance

BY TODD FUQUA
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

No doubt about it, 2001 is a year Ed Davis and the rest of the Capitan High School football team would like to forget.

Never mind that they were 2-8 on the year, losing every district game and missing the playoffs for the first time in Davis' tenure.

Never mind that they were in most of the games they played, only to lose due to a porous defense.

What the team would really like to forget was a scary injury to Raymond Zamora, who got hurt playing against Anthony, Texas, and was taken to Thomason hospital with a blood clot in his brain.

Zamora is better, though not playing on the team this year. Davis said he's being slowly reintegrated into school life as he heals from the injury.

But there's no doubting the impact it had on the Tigers last year.

"It was a pretty trying experience for us," Davis said. "This bunch is all pretty close. They all seem more focused now, but the full impact, we'll never know."

The mere fact that Zamora is up and around is enough to inspire this year's team, and Davis said he never wants another season like last year.

Although there are only five seniors playing this year — Bo Sparks, Rusty Martin, Jerry Trujillo, Judd McGraw and J.D. Mitchell — and only one or two of them will start, Davis is excited about his team's chances.

"We lost 14 seniors, so no one expects us to do much, but that's good," Davis said. "I have no doubt, I believe these guys can win."

The Tigers competed in a 7-on-7 football league over the summer against Mescalero and Carrizozo, and turned in a performance that made Davis this excited.

"They did some things that surprised me," Davis said. "We were able to keep kids coming up, lifting and working out regularly."

"We just hope the entire class shows leadership, that's got to be our success," he added. "If we're not a family, we're not going to be successful. We've got to perform as one, and the guys understand this."

It's been a little difficult this season for the team in terms of preparation. With the New Mexico Activities Association moving up the starting date of school by a week this year, every team coach in the state has had to make a decision whether or not to conduct two-a-days (two practices daily, one in the morning, one in the afternoon).

These practices usually take place about a week before school starts, but now that school is starting a full week early, many coaches — including Davis — have decided not to hold the dual practices.

That means they've had to cram as much practice and learning into one practice as possible, something Davis

Seniors, height could be the difference in Tiger volleyball

BY TODD FUQUA
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Having but one senior and untested personnel running the offense and defense proved disastrous for last year's Capitan volleyball team. The Lady Tigers went winless in District 5-2A and were shut out of the playoffs after dropping their final game to Hatch in the district tournament.

But with the changes in other teams in the district, coupled with the seasoning of the Lady Tigers, coach Sherry Gowen believes this year will see Capitan back at state.

"We were rebuilding last year, so this season should be a lot different," said Gowen, now in her third year at the helm of Capitan volleyball. "We've got good height, and are more aggressive on blocks and offense. We're a much more well-rounded team."

Capitan's sole loss from the senior ranks — Jessica Neal — is more than offset by the return of Jessica Tully-Mitchell, Emily Hobbs, Stephanie Kelsey, KayCee Gilson and Lorena Brockman as this year's crop of 12th-graders.

Gowen said this group of seniors gives her team a sense of urgency — these girls want to win this year because it's their last.

It's also an advantage for the Lady Tigers because everyone else in the district — Tularosa, Hatch, Cloudcroft and Lordsburg — have all lost their seniors. Even better, every-

Request Memories wins AQHA final

BY KRISTIAN LOVELACE
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

It was a quick break and fast sprint in the 350-yard AQHA Claiming Challenge with Request Memories winning the race in the time of 17.415 Sunday at Ruidoso Downs.

Request Memories, conditioned by Ramon Ronquillo, posted a speed index of 100 and won the race by a head over Special Task Force. Jockey James Gonzales was able to pick the mount from Antonio Escareno and guide the horse to victory for owner Humberto Viramontes of Deming.

"He didn't break real well but he got to running at the end. I let him drift a little, but then I switched sticks. I never hit him," Gonzales said.

Escareno was on top of Lets Cash In, who was scratched from the race.

Special Task Force was leading the field through the stretch but was out-finished by Request Memories. Special Task Force is conditioned by Jack Brooks for owners Oil and Hay Partners. Special Task Force and jockey Juan Vasquez were able to post a 100-speed index.

Coming in third was Shakeel for owner Jackie Sessions and trainer K.C. Carden.

Sunday's victory in the $31,410 AQHA Claiming Challenge Finals brings Special Task Force's lifetime earnings to $43,490.

Request Memories paid $20.40 to win, $4.40 to place and $3.20 to show. The exacta paid $105.40, the quinella $62.20 and the trifecta paid $166.

Julie Montoya has six years of experience as a coach... in basketball. So last year, when there was a need for a volleyball coach in Hondo, she was surprised that the job was offered to her. Although she hemmed and hawed a little before taking it, she eventually she gave in.

Montoya played volleyball in high school, and she was struck by how much the sport has changed since

Hondo Eagles: football lives again

BY MELODY HAYES
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

When asked about how he became head football coach, Brandon Devine — Hondo's Ag teacher for the past three years — replied with a laugh, "I was roped into it." All he did was offer to help out.

Devine played defensive tackle during his high school years in Artesia where, in 1987, his team tied for state championship. Coach D.W. Harvey taught him everything he knows about football, but especially how to treat the players. "He had a true feeling for his players. Let me tell you what kind of man he is. To this day, every player that has ever played for him still gets a birthday card from him. But he was very strict, expected 110 percent all of the time."

This will be Hondo's first football team in 10 years. One of the prerequisites to having this team was that all who intended to play must show up for summer conditioning and weight training sessions, every day. With a full turnout of 13 boys, the season was on.

The team will only play four games this year because "the team is all brand new," said Devine. "They have no experience, but we're very pleased with how they came through practice." Two of his 13 players have played 11

Slow start costs Lobos in season-opening loss to No. 25 N.C. State

■ Second-half rally not enough to overcome Wolfpack as N.C. State quarterback Phillip Rivers has 282 passing and three touchdowns.

RALEIGH, N.C. — North Carolina State University quarterback Phillip Rivers threw three touchdown passes and also rushed for a pair of scores to lead the 25th-ranked Wolfpack past the University of New Mexico, 34-14 Saturday in the Black Coaches Association Bowl game. New Mexico closed to within 13 early in the fourth quarter before Rivers found Jericho Cotchery for a 50-yard touchdown to put the game out of reach. The Lobos dropped their third straight road opener and sixth straight game to a ranked opponent.

New Mexico (0-1) came out slowly, falling behind 21-0 in the first half, after lightning delayed the start of the game by 38 minutes. Rivers led the Wolfpack (1-0) on first half scoring drives of 80, 96 and 90 yards to give N.C. State a 21-point cushion it would not relinquish.

The Lobos came out strong in the second half however, as quarterback Casey Kelly found wide receiver Adrian Boyd for a 22-yard gain to the N.C. State 3-yard line. Three plays later, tailback Quincy Wright found the endzone on an option pitch to make the score 21-7. The UNM defense forced the Wolfpack into a 3rd-and-four play on the ensuing series and appeared to have Rivers sacked before the 6-5 junior fired an improbable shovel pass to Sterling Hicks for a 46-yard gain.

After a Rivers touchdown plunge made the score 27-7, Kelly led the Lobos back down the field, completing 5-7 passes for 65 yards, culminating in a 5-yard touchdown pass to Ryan Penley on a tight end screen to cut the Wolfpack lead to 27-14.

New Mexico outscored North Carolina State 14-13 in the second half, but was unable to overcome its sluggish start. The Wolfpack outgained the Lobos 416-239 on the day, including a 253-72 advantage in the first half. UNM was often plagued by its inability to stop N.C. State on third down, allowing the Wolfpack to convert 10-13 on the afternoon, including 6-7 in the first half.

Rivers finished with 282 yards on 16-26 passing, while Kelly was 20-36 for 168 yards, but also threw a pair of second half interceptions. Wright, a senior, was solid in his first game as a starter, rushing for 67 yards on just 12 carries, while catching four balls for 40 yards. Cotchery led the Wolfpack with four receptions for 106 yards.

Prize fighter ready to get back in ring

For local fighter Shane Schortzer, each time he steps into the ring is a chance to prove to himself, his backers and the world that he's a force to be reckoned with.

Schortzer made a bit of his case back in April during the No Holds Barred tournament, as he won his first match against Jesse Hernandez by knockout in an astounding 30 seconds.

But the win streak ended there, as Schortzer found himself in a wrestling hold in the semifinals against Rich Garin, a hold he never got out of, dropping his personal record to 26-8.

After spending all summer working with the Mescalero Hot Shots fire crew during the busy fire season, Schortzer is ready to get back into the ring.

Schortzer is back on the fight trail Friday, when he takes part in a tournament called "El Octagono" in Monterrey, Mexico. Schortzer is one of eight fighters from around the world — one from Mexico, one from Puerto Rico, one from Japan and five from the United States — entered in the event.

From there, Schortzer has two other fight dates in mind. He'll enter tournaments to take place Sept. 9 and 20, both in Juarez.

man football, but none have experience in 6-man.

"This is a fast team — period," said Devine. "Not a lot of size, but we are quick and we are fast," he added. "Eddi Valenzuela is a good runner and very fast. Steven Chavez looks really good, and so does Brandon Reyes, a receiver."

Devine expects his players to give 110 percent on every play. However, when asked about specific goals for the team he replied, "The little secrets we've got, I want to keep."

Devine sees football as a big part of his players' lives. He believes it will "help instill pride in where they are, what they've accomplished, and where they came from."

Devine's football philosophy? "Play straight-up, good, old-time football."

HONDO: Eagle netters aiming for post-season

game, learning as much as she could throughout the past year. "The more I study the sport, the more I love the game," Montoya said.

This is her second season at the helm for the Lady Eagles. The team finished third in the district during her initial season, losing the fifth game to Mesilla Valley.

Montoya's main problem is the lack of a place to practice. Hondo's gym is floorless. Replacement is in progress, but it won't be finished for another two weeks.

To get a head start on the season, the team began practicing outdoors every morning for a full week before school started. They would meet for two hours starting at 6 a.m. to beat the heat, working on the fundamentals.

Now that school is in session the girls are practicing four days a week at Ruidoso Middle School from 5-7 p.m., until their floor is complete. Montoya said, "It was good to get on the court. It was really nice of Ruidoso to let us use their gym until ours is finished."

Their first tournament game is scheduled for Sept. 20 and 21 at Gateway Christian in Roswell. Eight teams will compete during the round-robin elimination. Last year, the Lady Eagles won the consolation prize at this same tournament. It was the first time the team had ever brought home a trophy.

Montoya has plans to change this. Since Hondo has never made it to the regionals, she has made this her number one goal. If they make it there, then she'll set the goal even higher, perhaps to get to state.

The one thing Montoya wants to avoid is injuries. Her plan is for "the team to stay healthy. Injuries will hurt us. I have several girls for backup, but they are inexperienced." If she can keep all of her returning girls in play, she expects to have a good season.

Montoya said that all of the young women are excellent players, but Santanna Gomez is "the heart of our team. She's a good all-around player." Don't forget to add Jackie Chavez (setter/hitter) and Harmony Haun (hitter/back row specialist) to the list of who to watch this season. Chavez is a returning senior and showed a lot of strength last season. Haun, in the end of "last season, really started hitting; she was always right there."

Redistricting has placed Tatum firmly on their schedule, and Montoya feels they are the team to beat. "Tatum is tough. They won state runner-up last year," Montoya said.

Last week Hondo attended a scrimmage at Carrizozo, winning three of the five games they played. Their next game is Sept. 19 at New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell, at 5:30 p.m.

The one thing Montoya wants more than anything for the team and for herself is learning to practice patience. It is very hard on the girls to have to travel every day to practice and then back home again.

Even in the face of adversity, the girls are very excited about the upcoming season. She knows it will get better... once they finally have a floor.

CAPTAN: State not such a lofty goal

"Last year, we were just overmatched in hitting," Gowen said. "This year, there's no reason we shouldn't be there. They put in a lot of time in the off-season, and I think it's going to pay off."

All that hard work manifested itself when the team showed up for their first two-day practice at the high school. Because of the earlier start date mandated by the New Mexico Activities Association, the Lady Tigers had to have their first practice starting at 5:30 a.m.

"Everyone showed up that first day, every single girl," Gowen said. "They were that dedicated, and it made me really excited from the very start."

The hard work should show itself immediately when the Lady Tigers start their season Sept. 7 at Mescalero. They have a big front row, with six girls standing at 5-foot-9 or taller:

Tully-Mitchell, Kelsey Brockman and juniors Jennifer Bartley, Jessica Becker and Falon Sparks.

All that height translates into a solid blocking front as well, making things much easier on the defense. "You don't have to play a blind spot, you can give that area up because the front will take care of it," Gowen said. "Last year, all the other teams took it to us, now it's our turn to take it to them."

POOP SCOOP

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A Vermont sculptor and artist, who went through a near-death experience, created a chapel as a place for dog owners to connect with their pets, both living and dead.

Rebecca L. Rhodes writes in "Animal Watch" Magazine, a publication of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, that Stephen Huneck built a chapel, designed to look like an early 19th Century New England church. A black Labrador with wings adorns a weather vane atop a tall steeple.

"The intricate stained-glass windows feature images of dogs rather than religious icons," she wrote. "And instead of listing daily services, a sign in the front of the church reads, 'All Creeds, All Breeds. No Dogmas Allowed.'"

Huneck is best known for woodcut prints and sculptures of dogs, and a series of books for children, Rhodes wrote.

In 1994, after being in a coma for two months, he awoke and was inspired by his love of his own dogs, and a series of books for children, Rhodes wrote.

Located on Dog Mountain, part of Huneck's farm in St. Johnsbury, Vt., the chapel opened in the summer of 2001.

Entering the chapel either through human-sized or canine-sized doors, visitors will see life-size carvings of seated dogs anchoring the ends of four pews. The hymnals are copies of Huneck's first book, "My Dog's Brain."

Rhoades wrote that hundreds of people from across the United States already visited the chapel. They posted cards in the entryway, many with photographs memorializing their pets.

"Epitaphs by bereaved owners recognize the special relationships people have with their pets," Rhoades wrote. "My boy is waiting in heaven," and "Our first best hairiest friend," are two examples.

Native American flute music plays in the background. Visitors can sit in the chapel or wander the wooded area around the building.

"Designed as a center for meditation, the chapel offers spiritual comfort devoid of any formal religious belief system," Rhoades wrote.

Huneck told the author he probably wouldn't have built the chapel if people were allowed to bring their pets with them to church.

"My own feeling is that God created everything, so there's a little bit of God in everything, including our pets," he said. "We should all cherish and respect that."

The chapel is open every day from June to October, or by appointment. Admission is free. For more information, visit Huneck's Web site at www.huneck.com or call (802) 748-2700.

The magazine also noted that Denver, Colo. was named America's No. 1 Pet Healthiest City by the Purina Pet Institute's Healthy Pets 21 Consortium.

Composed of leaders in the animal health and welfare communities, the group rated America's top metropolitan areas on 23 criteria of health, legislation and services.

For instance, Kansas City, Mo., has more than 20 veterinarians accredited by the American Association of Feline Practitioners and Portland, Ore., protects its pets with one of the strongest anti-cruelty laws in the nation.
