Engineering official against Rainmakers

■ The subdivision's 40-year water supply is being questioned by a supervisor.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

.com

A supervisor with the office of State Engineer Tom Turney recommends that a favorable opinion not be issued for the scaled-down Rainmakers subdivision in Lincoln County.

In a memorandum to Brian C. Wilson, chief of the water use and conservation bureau of the department, engineer John T. Romero wrote that the subdivider failed to prove a 40-year water supply.

Doug Rappuhn and Tom Morrison of the hydrology bureau reviewed a report submitted by Atkins Engineering Associates Inc. attempting to show that sufficient water will be available to meet the current and future needs of the proposed subdivision near the Spencer Theater for the Performing Arts on Sierra Blanca Airport Road.

"They both concluded that the subdivider will be unable to provide a 40-year water supply to existing customers and to the proposed subdivision," Romero wrote.

John Underwood, the Ruidoso attorney representing the developer, and Mike O'Brien, project point man, could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

The Rainmakers Golf and Saddle Club initially was proposed as a 1,024-acre gated community with 664 lots, 60 patio homes, five tracts for multi-family development and commercial use, a golf course and 3.6 miles of walking paths with a equestrian hub.

But in November 2001, the County Planning Commission rejected the proposed first stage of the development in large part because of water concerns.

Snowfall bountiful for area ski resort

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

"This is perfect," an excited Riker Davis said Tuesday morning of the 10 inches of wet snow that fell at Ski Apache in the prior 24 hours.

"It's exactly what we were hoping for, not only the quality of snow, but the timing," the resort marketing manager said. "This gets us a whole lot closer to opening the top of the mountain. It's a good heavy snowfall that we can pack into a base."

"The crews are out packing the mountain now. It's heavy snow and much more valuable than powder at this time."

The ski resort is operated by the Mescalero Apache Tribe, north of Ruidoso.

Rain started in the village about 5:30 p.m. Monday and continued until 3 a.m. Tuesday, when the temperature cooled and snow replaced droplets. By 9 a.m., Sierra Blanca Regional Airport reported one inch of the white stuff and a total of 35 100ths of an inch of moisture between the rain and snow.

The forecast for Ruidoso contained the possibility of the same conditions overnight and continuing through today.

U.S. 70 work continues east of Ruidoso Downs

.com

While federal and state transportation officials fight a preliminary injunction in U.S. District Court aimed at stopping the four-laning of U.S. 70 through the Hondo Valley, work continues on the highway east of Ruidoso Downs.

Shoulder and lane closures for geotechnical probes, culvert construction and equipment crossing are scheduled throughout the month. Officials advise allowing an extra 15 minutes for travel in that area.

Highway closures for rock blasting also are scheduled on weekdays between mile posts 285 and 289 and between 299 and 303. Blasting begins at 1 p.m. and can last up to an hour. During that time, the highway will be closed in both directions at those sites.

No blasting or lane closures are planned for Dec. 23, 24 and 25 because of the Christmas holiday.

Up-to-date blasting closure and travel information is available at the U.S. 70 Information Center, via the hotline at (866) 653-4069. Roadside electronic message signs and local radio stations also carry alerts.

The Valley Community Preservation Commission and several private land owners filed to stop the four-laning of the highway through the valley earlier this year. Named as the lead defendant was Norman Mineta, head of the U.S. Department of Transportation. The lawsuit contends the department violated provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act by issuing a record of decision that the project would not "use" any protected historic properties "without undertaking adequate efforts to identify historic properties that would be affected by the project."

Highway officials point to the scenic two-lane road's lethal history as one of the deadliest routes in the state and contend widening the road will create a safer highway.

Judge LeRoy Hansen of the New Mexico Federal District Court last month said he needed more information before ruling on the injunction motion.

New forest mascot is all Reddy to go

Smokey Bear still shares similar messages

.com

An icon of forest fire prevention for nearly 60 years after being rescued from a blaze in the Capitan Mountains in Lincoln County, Smokey Bear is being challenged by the new mascot of an environmental group.

Reddy the Squirrel, a symbol of the newer fire management approach of learning to live with and prepare for forest fires, was created by Mark Blaine with Forest Service Employees for Environmental Ethics.

Blaine, who is editor of Forest Magazine published by the group, said members for a long time saw that property owners who don't clear their yards and create defensible space around their structures often lose their homes to fire despite efforts of fire-fighters.

The group also stresses that fire is a natural cycle in the life of a forest, he said. A squirrel was chosen, "because it was something everyone sees" and less exotic than a bear. The Reddy character carries a rake, is wearing work boots and a hard hat.

The FSEEE group's Web site explains that Reddy and his family "have" lived in these wildlands for ages, and she understands the rhythms of nature. She knows that fire can be a frequent and unannounced visitor to her natural home.

But Eddie Tudor, manager of the Smokey Bear Historical Park established in 1979 in Capitan, said the two symbols deliver equally valuable messages and can live in harmony.

"This is only the second time I've heard of Reddy," he said Tuesday. "The first time was about two weeks ago when a woman visiting the park asked about him. I don't know much about him, but whatever the icon is they use, we as fire managers over the years have realized you do need to have fire in the environment."

"There is good fire and bad fire and Smokey's message always is to prevent unwanted, human-caused fires."

Tudor, who has worked at the park for 11 years and managed it for the past four, said he doesn't consider Reddy a challenge to Smokey, who is buried at the park.

"I think the two can go hand in hand with one another," he said. "When we upgraded the park and exhibits, we included both messages. We're teaching forest health and fire ecology and we're also teaching the prevention methods, which is Smokey's message."

Reddy's message mirrors much of what local U.S. Forest Service representatives and Ruidoso officials have practiced for years.

Smokey Bear, Ranger District foresters worked for nearly a decade to establish a fire break from the Lincoln National Forest and the village with forest thinning projects and controlled burns.

The Ruidoso village council hired an urban forester and appointed a forest health group, which led to the adoption of new fire-resistant construction and landscaping standards to reduce the fire hazards within the village on developed and undeveloped land.

Cost-sharing grants for work on private land continue to be pursued by the village and by the Lincoln County Commission to help property owners with the expense of tree cutting.

A tree-removal industry has developed locally. In Glenwood, a company is using the small-diameter trees that are no good for commercial lumber as the source for animal bedding. Sawdust from that enterprise is used to dry the shavings and other wood byproducts fire a biomass generator under a federal pilot program.

Reddy preaches that forest fires are part of nature and don't have to be destructive to homes.

"She knows that if homeowners take a few precautions, they have an excellent chance of saving their homes from the regular cycle of fires that burn through wild areas," according to a summary on the squirrel.

Some of her tips include creating defensible space around a home and building or renovating with fire resistant materials. It looks like Reddy would be right at home in Ruidoso.

More forest thinning set

Additional cutting projects are open for commercial work.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Forty-four acres in the Capitan Mountains of the Lincoln National Forest are targeted for timber stand improvement projects.

Smokey Bear District Ranger Gerald M. Hawkes signed a decision memorandum Tuesday to permit the activities to improve watershed and wildlife habitat on the north side of the mountain range.

Primary emphasis will be on management of wildlife habitat and production of fuel wood in the Peach Tree area.

"This is a fuel-wood cutting area," he said Tuesday. "It will be cut commercially, which will improve the wildlife habitat and demand on the watershed. It opens up dense juniper-piñon stands, which allows other plants to grow and creates forage for wildlife and livestock."

The cutting on this project will be handled by the owner of adjacent private land, Hawkes said. The owner has a grazing permit and will do it in conjunction with some other work.

"We have other projects available for people who would like to bid on fuel-wood cutting," Hawkes said. "There are quite a few around the district."

On this project, the cutter has one year to complete the cutting and then the Forest Service will burn the slash.

"That kills smaller trees and reduces the invasion and allows the understory plants to come in, and that's what protects the soil (from erosion) and provides the forage," Hawkes said.

A few areas in the district remain open for individuals who want to cut fuel wood for their private use by obtaining a permit from his office on Mechem Drive in Ruidoso, but Hawkes said the heavy snow Tuesday may force closure of the roads that access those areas.

"We have to consider the safety of the people and the possible damage to the natural resources once the snow settles in," he said.

Hawkes said the project is consistent with management direction and standards documented in the Forest Plan as amended in 1996.

The decision is not subject to appeal and may be implemented immediately after publication. A copy is available at the Smokey Bear district office on Mechem Drive and Cedar Creek Road in Ruidoso, or by writing the U.S. Forest Service, Lincoln National Forest, 1102 New York Avenue, Alamogordo, NM 88310.

Texas district attorney arrested in Ruidoso on DWI charges

BY SANDY SUGGITT

RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Ruidoso police arrested a district attorney from Kress, Texas, and charged him with aggravated DWI for refusing a blood test and driving left of the center line at 7:57 p.m. Nov. 27.

Terry D. McEachern, 52, the 64th District attorney covering Swisher, Hale and Castro counties in Texas, was seen first by Ruidoso Downs police "all over the roadway and driving erratically," as he headed for Ruidoso, according to police reports.

A Ruidoso police officer pulled McEachern over in the 200 block of Paradise Canyon, after observing the vehicle cross the center yellow line on Paradise Drive near Meander Drive and then move to the left side of the road approaching a blind hill.

McEachern first told the officer he had not been consuming alcohol, then later said he'd had a beer. A second officer arrived to help administer field sobriety tests, which he was unable to perform "to the satisfaction of the officer," the report states.

McEachern said he had taken Valium at 7 p.m. When asked if he felt he should be driving in his condition, he said no twice. At the police department, he refused to submit to a breath test and asked that a lawyer be present while he was tested. He did ask to take the test later, the report states.

Scot D. Key, 12th Judicial District Attorney, said it's "settled law" that no one has a right to an attorney at that stage of an investigation.

"You can't manipulate the system by refusing the Breathalyzer test on the one hand and allow a significant amount of time to elapse and then say 'I'll take the test now that my BAC is probably lower.' It's a pretty transparent defense."

"We treat every DWI defendant in the same fashion; the fact that he's a D.A. doesn't really matter," Key said. "It's business as usual for us."

mitted new, scaled-down plans this year, but during an initial review, planners took no action waiting for comment from the State Engineer and other state department reviewing the development. No new hearing date is scheduled, said county planner Patsy Sanchez.

"We decided to do nothing until they clear all of the agencies," said planning commission chairman Wayne Negley. "And it looks like the State Engineer isn't going to recommend it."

Romero issued his memorandum Oct. 22, but no final letter from Turney has been received, Sanchez said.

On many points, Romero wrote favorably about the new plan, which shows 230 parcels on about 149 acres with another 111 acres of green space.

A 266-acre golf course is proposed, but is not part of the current application for the subdivision on a site about seven miles north of Ruidoso, he noted. The smallest lot would be less than a quarter of an acre and the largest, 1.56 acres.

Romero noted that county subdivision regulations state the maximum annual water requirement for indoor and outdoor purposes per parcel is a half-acre foot, unless a detailed water demand analysis justifying another number is approved by the State Engineer. He agreed that a detailed water analysis submitted by the developer justified using a figure of .21 acre-foot of water per household per annum as the amount to be consumed. An acre foot equates to about 325,000 gallons of water.

Romero added that the subdivider adequately covered water conservation measures in the disclosure statement that would go to prospective buyers and in the restrictions and covenants attached to the land.

"Besides encouraging xeriscaping and requiring low-flow water appliances, the subdivider also has limited the amount of irrigated turf to 800 square feet," Romero said.

Meters would be installed at each parcel, which would allow the county to monitor and restrict the amount of water used, he wrote. The subdivider also is required to provide stored water of not less than 3,000 gallons for fire protection prior to construction.

He noted that the Water Supply Plan states the water system has a 100,000 gallon storage tank with a fire hydrant at the tank and that an addition 500,000 gallon tank, a new pressure system, a distribution system, water mains, fire hydrants and utility building will be installed.

Negley said the state Highway and Transportation Department staff also raised a few problems the subdivider should address, including the design at the two access points from Old Fort Stanton Road and from Airport Road.

Mechem served as governor, judge

■ Edwin L. Mechem died Nov. 27 at the age of 90.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Born the same year New Mexico was accepted as a state, Edwin L. Mechem went on to become its governor four times. He died Wednesday, Nov. 27, of congestive heart failure at the age of 90.

Mechem Drive, one of Ruidoso's main streets and also known as State Road 48, is named after the well-known Republican, who was reared in Alamogordo.

A long-time reporter in the state said Mechem, who had been with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and was district attorney in Las Cruces, established a high profile during a murder investigation of a girl named Cricket Coogler.

The case involved a professional football player with the Pittsburgh Steelers. Although it was never solved, the case propelled Mechem's name into the news across the state. That recognition, coupled with his sense of humor and the record he amassed in office, won Mechem four, two-year terms as governor from 1951 to 1954, 1957 to 1958 and 1961 to 1962.

"About the only political gaffe in his career in some people's opinion was when U.S. Sen. Dennis Chavez, a Democrat, died. Mechem resigned (as governor) and was appointed by the lieutenant governor to finish out the term," the reporter said. "He was appointed to the federal bench in 1970 by President Richard Nixon and was handling cases until the week he died."

Mechem, born July 2, 1912, worked in counter intelligence as an FBI agent during the 1940s. He was only 38 when first elected as governor and was the state's first Republican governor in 20 years. His support crossed party lines.

Some of his more notable cases on the U.S. District Court bench included the protection of the silvery minnow when the flow of the Rio Grande was threatened this summer, and a ruling that Albuquerque Public Schools failed to provide free and appropriate education for the handicapped.

In a case directly affecting Ruidoso, he ruled in 1978 that the state game and fish laws were not valid on the neighboring Mescalero Apache Reservation.

He is survived by his wife of 27 years, Josephine; daughter, Martha Vigil; sons John and Walter; numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren; and Josephine's children, Ann Galloway Leigh, Beth Galloway Horyna and Christin Galloway Dobbeck. He was preceded in death by his first wife, Dorothy; his son, Jesse; Josephine's son, John; and granddaughter, Jennifer.

The family opted for a private funeral, but a public memorial service was conducted Tuesday, at the Old Airport Terminal.

Memorials may be made to the Jesse Mechem Scholarship Fund at the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell or the Jesse Mechem Scholarship Fund at New Mexico State University Foundation in Las Cruces or to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Water, drainage projects top Ruidoso Downs' to-do list

BY P. BLAKE MARTIN
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Ruidoso Downs' Griffith Ruidoso Levels dropped to a record low from an historical monthly average of 400 gpm (gallons per minute) to 287 gpm in May 2002.

This steady decrease since April 2000 has been monitored closely by the city administration and water department staff. Last summer, the city council had to implement a water conservation ordinance. This was the first time for water restrictions in the city's 54-year history.

Three emergency priorities have been recognized by the city's recently completed 40-year Water Resource Plan and Water Distribution Master Plan:

- The reduction of the approximately 25 percent water loss due to system leakage
- The development of an alternate source of water to supplement the city's water

• If necessary, replace Griffith Spring and increase water storage capacity to handle increasing population and peak demands during the summer and provide additional firefighting reserves

The city has other pressing issues too. The recent reinstallation of almost 5,000 linear feet of water pipeline, damaged during the highway construction project three years ago along Highway 70, carried a cost of $164,260.

On Nov. 11, the extension of the sewer system to 41 homes on East Circle Drive began with a projected cost of $300,000.

The inspection and interior coating of the Redman Reservoir leaks is scheduled to begin January 2003 at a cost of $40,000. Funding will come from the Water and Sewer Improvement Fund and State Special Appropriations Grant.

The replacement of 29,000 linear feet of leaking, undersized water lines and installation of new pressure-reducing stations and fire hydrants will begin in February 2003 with a completion date of December 2004. If funded, the project has a projected cost of $1.2 million.

Drainage improvements in the River Park Subdivision are needed. If funded, design and construction will begin February 2003 with a completion date of November 2003 with a projected cost of $590,000.

The All-American Park Pedestrian Walkway design has begun and grant money has been applied for, with a construction date of May 2003, and a projected cost of $81,000.

Finally, the reconstruction and widening of Allison Lane from Reservoir Drive to Spring Drive includes curb and gutters, asphalt overlay and proper drainage. This has been funded by a State Co-Op Grant from the highway department with design and construction beginning in January 2003.

Downs senior center offering events, services

■ The center's directors want residents to take advantage of the help.

BY P. BLAKE MARTIN
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Tommy Hood, manager of the Ruidoso Downs Senior Recreation Center, reminds seniors of available services and activities.

"We serve lunch Mondays through Fridays from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., throughout the year except on holidays. Reservations can be made daily up to 10:30 a.m., and drop-in visitors are welcome."

Senior-citizen transportation provided by the center is limited, but includes weekday pick-up and transport to Center for lunch, from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., with transport home from 1 to 2 p.m.

On Mondays and Fridays, the center offers errand transportation to home-bound seniors from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

In addition, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays transportation is provided for shopping, post office, hair appointments, bank, etc. with scheduling 24 hours in advance.

This is on a first-come, first-serve reservation basis, and the center requests that seniors try to schedule all errands for a single day.

Medical transportation needs are available as needed for doctor and dentist visits.

The center suggests seniors schedule transportation at the same time a doctor appointment is made, with at least 24 hours advance to avoid conflicts with other regular or scheduled transport services.

Those eligible for these services, may call Tommy Hood at 378-4659 for scheduling.

Housing meeting off

The "mountain summit" meeting on affordable housing, scheduled for this afternoon, has been canceled.

Patric A. Pearson, executive director of the sponsoring Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, said the summit probably will be rescheduled in February 2003.

Uncertain weather conditions brought the cancellation, a chamber spokesman said.

OUR OPINION

Carefully consider those government promises

Our oldest veterans are seeing them broken

Government promises have a way of being broken, as almost everybody should know by now.

Consider the Indian treaties of the 19th century — promises made by Uncle Sam to tribal leaders; promises kept until the "manifest destiny" of the nation got in the way.

Privately owned ranches covering thousands of acres in southern New Mexico were borrowed by the federal government early in World War II, with a promise that the land would be returned "after the war."

It's more than half a century after the war now, and those ranches remain a part of what we call White Sands Missile Range.

And now we hear of the survivors of the "greatest generation" of World War II and of the Korean War, who were promised, because they were needed, that health-care benefits would be guaranteed for life if they served for 20 years.

A federal court of appeals ruled last week that those lifetime-care promises could be legally broken.

Why?

Simply because there is nothing in federal law that requires a government to act morally, and today's "needs" are more important.

Those veterans are dying off now, at 1,200 a day, and despite all, few are outraged by the country they served.

Now all we need is an 'Official ... So-What?'

In two months the 2003 New Mexico State Legislature will convene to do important things to us...I mean, for us.

Already the jockeying for power has commenced. Manny Aragon, still smarting from Richard Romero's coup two years ago, is trying to figure out how to dethrone Richard and regain his status as Senate President Pro Tem.

Manny must be figuring that if Heather Wilson can beat Romero, so can he.

Every year, for either 30 or 60 days, our legislators work down to dusk on weighty matters such as whether to grant their constituents a tax cut and whether to attend that night's booze party sponsored by the New Mexico oilmen or the one being thrown by the state's race tracks.

It is not an easy job.

Somehow, into their hectic pace our lawmakers manage every session to take up less crucial matters, such as should we have a state cookie and should any citizen in the entire state be able to spell it?

Back in 1963, for instance, legislators adopted an Official Salute to the Flag, a 20-word tribute written by a bunch of folks in Portales. Here it is: "I salute the flag of the State of New Mexico and the Zia symbol of perfect friendship among united cultures."

What is particularly interesting about the Official Salute is that in its nearly 40 years of existence, no one has filed a lawsuit in any court to prevent someone else from saying it. What is also interesting is that in those same 40 years, only three people have ever repeated the Official Salute.

Coming up with the Official Salute may have been relatively easy. Not so with the Official Cookie. Eloquent debate attended the decision on cookie selection, and, then, would it be spelled "the biscochito" or "the bizcochito"?

Although we cannot confirm the report, one frustrated legislator is said to have suggested "how about we call it 'the oreo' and get on with business?"

Some years later legislators got all heated up about this burning question: should the Tarantula Hawk Wasp be designated the Official State Insect? No, said some, because (picky picky) there is no such insect.

A university professor was summoned to testify the insect does not exist. "Oh, yeah," said a debate opponent, "then what was it that just bit me on the butt?" The debate was feverish, but to this very day our Official State Insect is the Tarantula Hawk Wasp, even if there isn't such a thing.

New Mexico has it all: a State Flower, the Yucca. Three state songs, none of which I can hum. A State Grass, but not the grass Gov. Gary Johnson wants to legalize. A State Tree, the Piñon. A State Bird, the Roadrunner. A State Fish, the Cutthroat Trout.

We even have an Official State Question: "Red or Green?"

It is the 1975 Legislature we owe for coming up with the Official State Slogan. We would bet this one was first written on a cocktail napkin at the Bull Ring: "Everybody is Somebody in New Mexico."

Order another round. This column is Officially Over.

YOUR OPINION

What's the cost/benefit status of a cold-water fishery?

To the editor:

Much has been written about the cost ($20 million-plus) to modify the waste water treatment plant to keep the designation of a "cold water fishery" for Rio Ruidoso.

Yet, very little has been written on the benefit/detriment of keeping this designation. Is this another incidence of the vast majority paying for the benefit to a small minority group? Will the expenditure of this huge amount guarantee success, given the reported fact that the same problem exists upstream of the facility? I and many more taxpayers are getting very upset with the cavalier attitude of our elected representatives when it comes to spending tax dollars.

For example, an Urban Forester was an unknown term in the recent past. Now there is talk of staffing an entire department when a common-sense approach to minimize potential fire hazard by property owners was all that was needed.

Filling the village manager's position from within was admirable and apparently a foregone conclusion. Yet, funds were expended for an outside search. Now there is talk of not only raising the position's salary but hiring an assistant to relieve the workload.

Whatever happened to the Mayor's proposal to conduct an audit of all departments to ascertain if they were being efficiently run? I think a cost/benefit analysis of the airport operations is way past due. Another example of the vast majority paying for benefits to a very small minority.

Mr. Mayor and Councilors, the funds you are carelessly spending are taxpayers' hard-earned dollars, not Monopoly money.

Irony, missiles and tax cuts

To the editor:

Everything this country desperately needs, the latest being defending jetliners against shoulder-fired missiles, has run up against the same roadblock, lack of money.

But by God, George Bush's one-percenters have their tax cut.

The irony here is that it is the working man who has put him in power.

Riker Davis responds

To the editor:

An explanation from me is in order in projecting the end of Ski Apache's current season.

I regret my choice of words and apologize for any offense they may have caused. I am most appreciative of our guests from south of the border. We staff with many bilingual employees and print our brochure in Spanish to welcome them to Ski Apache. We also spend a considerable amount in trade shows in Mexico to attract them to the Ruidoso area.

Mr. Prelo's and Ms. Tillman's comments in last Friday's paper were on target. If given the opportunity to rephrase my thoughts as to when our season would close, I would say, "Due to the late date in April of Easter, I do not anticipate enough attendance to keep Ski Apache open beyond the end of March."

I had no intention to offend, but only to inform.

Thanking the trinity

To the editor:

I am sure most folks were moved by Mr. Wells' guest commentary about God and why we should be thankful to Him on Thanksgiving Day.

However the "we" used so frequently in the article did not really include the poor souls who have not reached the spiritual development attained by solving that great "Inigma of Creation," as has Mr. Wells.

Instead, these lost souls are left to question why God sheds his grace and bounty on so few in this overcrowded world while so many suffer such misery and privation.

Even the Biblical Job was unable to find the answer, although he did learn not to question his God.

As one of the unenlightened, I have, daily, given my thanks to my own little "trinity" of Dame Fortune, Lady Luck and my Lucky Star. They have served me well for over three-quarters of a century. Why? I don't know, but I surely am thankful!

AMERICAN ISSUES

Information access and government Web sites

■ Research and library groups protest a proposal to remove from a Web site materials that don't reflect the goals of the Bush administration.

WASHINGTON — The American Educational Research Association (AERA) and the American Library Association (ALA), in concert with 12 other national organizations, have joined in an effort to retain documents on the U.S. Department of Education's Web site.

In a letter to Education Secretary Rod Paige, the 14 professional organizations have requested that all U.S. Department of Education materials retain the level of accessibility now available.

The groups have expressed concerns about the fate of information scheduled to be removed from the publicly accessible Web site. "Because the Internet has become, by far, the method of choice for disseminating information and research, data widely and efficiently, we are concerned about efforts that would diminish access and use of these records," they wrote.

They are equally concerned about actions that would remove from access research, data, and other digests of information that otherwise have been publicly available, regardless of administration. They advocate that educational stakeholders be included in the Web revamping process.

The effort was triggered this fall after the library, educational research and related social science communities learned of an internal memo, "Criteria and Process for Removing Old Content from www.ed.gov," that the Education Department issued to staff members on May 31, 2002. According to the government memo, the federal initiative strives to remove from public access information that either is outdated or "does not reflect the priorities, philosophies, or goals of the present administration."

Dr. Felice J. Levine, AERA executive director, emphasizes the importance of access to research reports and data. "Sound policy depends on solid science," she notes. "We need to ensure that research materials remain accessible so that analysts can interrogate them for ther and compare new results with prior data. We need to resist policies or procedures that remove such information or make it difficult to find."

"The American Library Association supports Education Secretary Paige's effort to improve the functional usability of the Department's Web site — by making it more user friendly to the general public," says ALA Washington Office Executive Director Emily Sheketoff. "However, we strongly believe that education information should be continuously accessible to educators, researchers, families, and children — and must remain permanently available to the public," she concludes.

In their letter, the professional societies state, "We, as well as the general public, need Internet access to the research, data, reports, and other digests and information that may be removed from the Department's Web site."

Police investigating 2 separate deaths

Both cases appear to have been suicides, but the bodies have been sent to Albuquerque for further analysis.

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Investigation continues on the deaths of two Ruidoso residents. At 3:21 a.m. Monday, the body of a woman was found in the 100 block of Shaw Lane. According to police reports, a witness found the 43-year-old woman hanging in her residence in the early hours of Nov. 30. She had attempted suicide on two previous occasions, one as recently as Nov. 30. At shortly after 2 a.m. Tuesday, while responding to a request for assistance in the 600 block of Sudderth Drive, police officers discovered the body of a 43-year-old male. A press release by the Ruidoso Police Department states that "it appears the male subject was the victim of a single self-inflicted gunshot wound." Both were sent to the Office of the Medical Investigator in Albuquerque for lab tests to determine the cause of death, Maddox said.

RUIDOSO POLICE

Child abuse arrest

Police arrested Shawn Lee Rankin, 33, of Ruidoso Nov. 29 in the 500 block of 2nd Street, charging him with four counts of child abuse, two counts of possession of firearms by a felon and criminal damage of property less than $1,000. He was also charged with three counts of violation of a protection order, possession of less than one ounce of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia, driving without a license and with expired vehicle registration.

Household battery

Ruidoso police arrested Gary Schut, 27, of Mesalero Nov. 30, charging him with battery against a household member, concealing identification, resisting, evading or obstructing a police officer. Schut was also served with warrants for failure to appear and contempt of court.

Multiple arrests

Police arrested Tammy K. Robinson, 29, of Ruidoso, and Theodore G. Henderson, 45, of Ruidoso Downs, charging them with aggravated battery against a household member Dec. 2 in the 100 block of Meander Drive. Henderson was also charged with unlawful taking of a motor vehicle.

Disorderly conduct

Police arrested Rodney G. Carr Jr., 41, of Ruidoso Nov. 30 at Sudderth and Wingfield drives, charging him with disorderly conduct.

Domestic arrest

Michael J. Tercero, 34, of Alto, was arrested Dec. 1 in the 300 block of Gavilan Canyon Road and charged with battery against a household member.

DWI charged

Police arrested Kenneth B. Heflin, 29, of Ruidoso, charging him with second-offense aggravated DWI and driving without a license.

Loud driving

Police stopped a man in Midtown for sounding his horn for several blocks Nov. 27. James R. Lott, 19, of Ruidoso was cited with unreasonable noise after driving from in front of Quarters Bar to Chase Street, closely following a car that he said had changed lanes in front of him.

Computer taken

A $2,000 Mac Powerbook computer was reported missing from an office at Sierra Vista Primary School, sometime between 8 p.m. Nov. 24 and 7:30 a.m. Nov. 25. The person making the report to police said there was no sign of forced entry, and that whoever took it had a key, according to police reports.

Items stolen

A resident in the 200 block of Porrr Drive came home Nov. 26, after being out of town a day, and found about $815 of goods missing from a vehicle. In addition, a car window and a residence window and window screen broken, with damages estimated at $450. Reported missing were a car CD player, a speaker, a pocket watch and VHS movies.

Gun missing

A 9mm Sig Sauer handgun was taken from the console area of an unlocked pickup truck in the 100 block of Texas Street between 2 and 6 p.m. Nov. 4. A purse and other items were in the truck also, but nothing else was reported missing, according to police reports.

Attempted break-in Someone attempted to break into a residence in the 200 block of Paradise Drive between 7 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Nov. 29, damaging the front and back door jams.

Window shot out

A resident of the 300 block of Resort Drive reported the rear passenger window of his vehicle broken between 10 p.m. Nov. 24 and 11:30 a.m. Nov. 25. The police officer investigating the case found ground metal shaving with copper color similar to what he had seen at firing ranges and concluded the damage was done by firearm ammunition. Damage to the window was estimated at $650.

Gone fishing

Four fishing poles and a tackle box were taken when someone cut the lock off a storage shed in the 100 block of Santa Maria Drive, according to police reports of Nov. 26. A small window on the back door of the residence was broken, with damages estimated at $152.70.

MBA for Carlsbad

Eastern New Mexico University has announced plans to offer a Master of Business Administration program in Carlsbad.

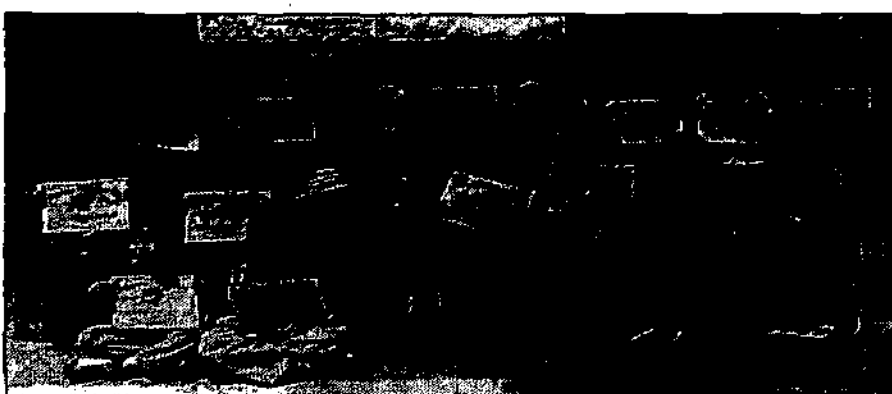

In cooperation with New Mexico State University-Carlsbad, ENMU will offer the MBA program starting Jan. 17, 2003.

According to Dr. Gerry Huybregts, dean of the ENMU College of Business, the MBA program will initially be offered during the weekends at the NMSU-Carlsbad campus. The plan is to offer graduate courses during the first and third weekend of the spring semester. Each course will meet four times throughout the semester on Friday evenings from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Students with the necessary prerequisites can complete two graduate courses, or six credit hours, during the spring semester.

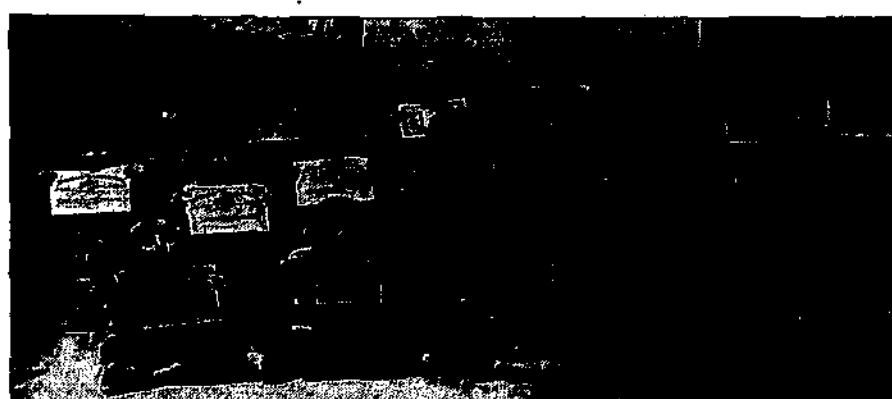

Those interested in the MBA at Carlsbad should contact Dr. Lee Weyant at (505) 562-2352 or on the Web at Lee.veyant@enmu.edu.

White Mountain Intermediate School students began climbing as part of their physical education classes last week, thanks to community donations and a gung-ho teaching aide.

A WALL for the challenge of it

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Kids were climbing the walls at White Mountain Intermediate School last week — at least during physical education class in the gym.

Thanks to four Sundays of work donated by P.E. teaching assistant and coach Dave Anderson, the gym now has a climbing wall, and that sport will be incorporated into the curriculum.

The 9-foot by 16-foot wall can handle four climbing children at a time. Although it is geared for fifth- and sixth-graders, Anderson plans to put in additional blocks lower in the wall for third and fourth grade students.

"Deb (Thomas, the physical education teacher) and I were looking through some catalogs and I presented the idea to the school a year or two ago, but they didn't think we had enough money."

Anderson went out and found the supplies, at minimal cost to the school district.

Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Company donated most of the wood, Thomas donated one panel, the school bought the mats and donated some of the paint, and Anderson bought the ceramic hand-holds and the rest of the paint and supplies.

He ordered the hand-holds from REI in Albuquerque, where he also received advice and a diagram for the wall, and Ruidoso police officer Eric Ament also helped with the design. Anderson painted the plywood to smooth over the rough spots, creating a mountain scene for the children to climb. The mats will be attached to the wall to protect them when the wall isn't being used.

"It's a real challenge for the kids," Anderson said. "They were surprised at how much harder it is than they thought it'd be."

The ceramic hand-holds are made specifically for climbing walls "to give them the actual feeling of a rock. Some will be coarse, some smooth, some lifted up, some the other way."

Using the climbing wall builds strength in the upper body, particularly the shoulder and arm, and in the fingers, as well as overall stamina, he said.

Several levels of difficulty for climbers are created by the wall's design: The outside panels are the easiest, and the center two the most difficult. The bar at the bottom is used for traversing across the wall. Above the traverse bar, the footholds follow the clouds, so once they're on the wall, children can traverse across the clouds using only the small hand-hold handles.

"It's an extremely technical climb," Anderson said. Later on, a perpendicular board can be placed at the top so the children will have a three-dimensional object to climb on.

"The principal wants to put a pulley system to go up to the top of the orange mountain (above and behind the climbing wall) and hook into a rafter, so students can 'belay,' or be hoisted, by the pulley, giving them suspension so they won't fall down."

Meanwhile, students are challenged to develop the muscles it takes to climb the wall as is.

SANDY SUGGITT/STAFF

Teaching aide Dave Anderson, who began pushing for a climbing wall a year or two ago and assembled it during a month of Sundays, demonstrates how the wall is climbed. So far, only sixth-grader Derrick Grant has been able to "climb it like a monkey," Anderson said.

Curious in Corona

At 95, Geraldine Perkins is still leaving her mark on her corner of the world

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

CORONA - For the past several years, Geraldine Perkins has made a New Year's resolution to stay curious.

That resolve now spoken has been lived in a life that is a testimony to that inquisitiveness. Born to Franklin and Mary Du Bois on a "cold winter midnight on Dec. 4, 1907 in Longton, Kan.," as she described it, Geraldine Du Bois began her lengthy journey through a life that landmarks people and places recorded in history.

Following her grandfather, who came to Corona ahead of the railroad and put in a general store, the young Du Bois family stayed on a while. They left for other places for a short time only to return in 1916 when Geraldine was in the fifth grade. She proudly declares she has lived in Corona in every decade of the century.

The family sent Geraldine to live boarding-school style for her high school education. Mary Du Bois felt her daughter needed to graduate from an accredited high school, which Corona did not have at the time. She visited home on holidays only and graduated at the age of 15 - "and I wouldn't recommend that," she said.

At the University of New Mexico, majoring in biology and chemistry, Geraldine had plans for a career in medicine. On a visit to Kansas to see her grandparents, she discovered her eyesight was not as it should be and the diagnosis would change her path forever.

Retinitis pigmentosa is the name given to a group of disorders of the retina, all of which result in a progressive reduction in vision. Geraldine was going blind. Her dreams of study for surgery at Johns Hopkins ended with that reality. "It just threw me," she said. "I gave up a teaching fellowship at the University of Nevada and came home. I took a job teaching at little school over the hill we called Punkin Center for $100 a month for nine months, plus a $5 janitor fee. Then I taught in 7th and 8th grade in Tatum for a year.

Du Bois Drug Store can still be found on Corona's main drag. Geraldine Perkins, below, opened it more than half a century ago.

"I like to say those two years of school teaching drove me to drugs," she says with a slight smile. "And I stayed with the drugs 43 years 10 months and six days."

At the age of 21, Geraldine bought a drug store. She borrowed the down payment money from a bank in Vaughn in an era when that boldness from a woman was uncommon.

"After I bought the drugstore, I found out you had to be a registered pharmacist to own a drugstore so I went to the Wooster School of Pharmacy in Wichita, Kan. My certificate is dated Nov. 30, 1930." Geraldine was the fourth female pharmacist to register in the state of New Mexico.

The pharmacy was as close to the medical field she could get. Still

"I don't have time to sleep. If I had more time, I would walk more and I would type more."

Geraldine Perkins
Corona resident today, the Du Bois Drug Store stands as a landmark on the main street of Corona. Even with degenerating eyesight, she continued as the pharmacist until 1973.

"As long as I could read the fine print I could fill prescriptions, and doctors aren't known for their fine handwriting, you know," she said. "In all those years, there were only two prescriptions I could not see to fill."

A young man by the name of Archie Perkins who worked at the Corona Trading Company, and later went on to UNM to play football and become a teacher, caught Geraldine's eye and they were married. Archie taught and coached at Corona Schools as well as tending to the family ranching interests. Archie and Geraldine had two children, Sherrill (Bradford) and Rand, both of whom live, ranch and teach in Corona today. Archie died in 1994, 10 days short of his 86th birthday.

Most of her life has been dedicated to involvement in service organizations and improvement in education and health care in New Mexico. She spent many years on the committee of the Health System Agencies, an organization that regulated hospitals in the state and was responsible for the clinics in rural areas we see today.

She was a lifetime member of the local chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi and for 50 years a member and one-time grand chief of Pythian Sisters-Cedar Temple. She also belongs to Crown CowBelles and in their day, was part of the local Extension Club and Woman's Club.

Geraldine now fills her days with typing letters, and "reading" by listening to news magazines and books on tape. Her family gives constant urgings for her to write a book. Her love of politics, sports, and foreign affairs keeps her busy staying on top of those areas. Still very much involved in the family ranching Geraldine says, "I'm still the boss. I can't write the checks but I sign them."

Geraldine now is faced with hearing problems. She says she could deal with the loss of her eyesight but losing her hearing is "killing her." Her mother's theory, and one she adopted, was that you had to be smarter than your children. She works at it constantly still today. "I wish I didn't think I needed eight hours of sleep," she says. "I don't have time to sleep. If I had more time, I would walk more and I would type more."

The personification of courage and encouragement, at 95 years young, Geraldine Perkins is what everyone should want to be when they grow up.

Hondo group honors locals at annual meet

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District held its annual meeting and election at Cree Meadows County Club in Ruidoso last month. Approximately 100 cooperators and guests enjoyed dinner and presentations. Special guests included state Rep. Dub Williams an NMDA Representative Roy Todd.

Howard Shanks, retired coordinator for South Central Mountain RC&D, presented a program outlining the Salt Cedar Eradication Project.

This program, initiated this past summer by the New Mexico State Legislature for the Pecos and Rio and Grande Valleys, has effectively treated 9,100 acres in an area ranging from south of Carlsbad to north of Santa Rosa.

Stanley Bulsterbaum of the state Interstate Stream Commission spoke to the group concerning water issues critical to New Mexico during the current drought. The issues revolve around New Mexico's efforts as a state to meet its interstate water delivery compacts.

The district honored retiring John Cooper with an engraved Nambe bowl for his 18 years of service to the Upper Hondo SWCD. Preston Stone was elected to fill Cooper's position for a three-year term. Robert Runnels was re-elected by acclamation to his current position. James Sanchez was presented his 10-year pin for service as a board supervisor for that duration.

The Outstanding Land Stewardship award went to Cliff and Bess Crouch of the Lavender Springs Ranch in Arabela. The Crouches primarily raise lavender for commercial use in dried lavender and lavender oil, but also maximize income from a small acreage with another high value crop, raspberries. Working with lavender is a special dream for Bess who has been interested in the crop for many years.

Jerry Hawkes of Ruidoso, district ranger for the Smokey Bear Ranger District, was honored as Outstanding Conservationist. Hawkes was chosen for his contributions to the community relations in management of the Lincoln National Forest. His leadership and willingness to work with permittees and other forest users, and his sincerity have created working relationships that instill confidence in the public that their forest is being carefully managed.

With divorce affecting a majority of families today, the holiday season isn't always a happy time. What's the best gift parents can give? Love and peace, of course.

Stepfamilies are the way of life for more than 80 million people in the U.S. Suddenly extended families expand to the point where many youngsters spend their holidays being shuttled from one feast to another, often collecting piles of food and gifts at each stop.

Experts agree that minimizing holiday stress is one of the greatest gifts parents can give their children. To accomplish that, adults may have to change their attitudes. It's important for parents to do whatever is necessary to avoid putting a child in the position of being torn between families. Ideally, parents should ask children to write a wish list, and then the two parents should work together to determine what wants and needs will be provided by each of them. Tell relatives how you would prefer gift-giving to be handled for stepchildren. Provide sizes, color preferences, and other information about the new family member. Be sure to thank the relatives who are cooperating; after all, being an extended step-relative also takes some getting used to.

The real solution for happy holidays ultimately lies in each person's attitude. Family members may not always agree - or even like each other - but need to learn to respect others' feelings, especially during the holidays.

Ruidoso returning to state title game

Ruidoso uses ball control, timely scoring to win their Class 3A semifinal match against Hot Springs.

BY TODD FUQUA

RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES - For a while Saturday, Ruidoso's game against Hot Springs in their Class 3A football semifinal was almost a replay of a week before. The only difference being that the Warriors threatened to lose a halftime lead.

Ruidoso went up 33-14 at the break, and used several big plays to withstand a determined Hot Springs team to win 59-45 and secure their first championship appearance since 1998.

"It was going to be anyone's game, it's just whoever had the ball the longest and made the fewest mistakes," said Ruidoso coach Ridge Bowden. "We got a couple of stops on defense and were able to convert."

Ruidoso scored often and controlled the ball enough to keep the Tigers (8-4) from building any kind of momentum, although they continued playing hard until the very last snap. The offense defined the game, as the two teams combined for more than 1,000 yards from scrimmage and traded two kickoff returns for touchdowns.

The Warriors (8-5) got started early, as quarterback Josh Adams took the ball on the second play of the game and ran 75 yards for a touchdown with barely a minute elapsed in the first quarter.

Adams was Mr. Everything for Ruidoso, as he ran for 225 yards, passed for 119 more and had a hand in seven Warrior touchdowns - including a 92-yard kickoff return in the fourth quarter which stopped a Hot Springs comeback before it got started.

"Nobody touched me, everybody got their block and it turned out to be a big play," Adams said of the run back. "That helps on special teams, a lot of the game is based on that. It just came out that we ran it, and got a lot of momentum with it."

Momentum was something Ruidoso needed at halftime. Although they were leading by a healthy margin, they got that lead at the expense of Taylor Line, who went down with a knee injury near the end of the second quarter and was taken off the field by ambulance. Line finished the game with 57 yards rushing and one touchdown, and the Warriors were left with the question of how to fill the hole he left behind.

"Tyler has been a big part of our offense, but we have had to play without him quite a bit this year," Bowden said, referring to an ankle injury suffered during a pre-season scrimmage which kept Line off the field until just before District 4-3A play. "The guys that were in there like Jaime Urban and Casey Mirau, they picked it up in the second half and kept our offense moving."

Mirau moved 108 yards on 11 carries in the game, while Urban had 18 yards to take the pressure off of Adams.

Pressure is just what the Tigers placed on Ruidoso from the beginning. After the Warriors' first score, Hot Springs answered with a 47-yard kickoff return by Roman Sanchez to the Ruidoso 33-yard line. Later, on a 4th-and-2 play, the Tigers scored on a 25-yard run by quarterback Zach Gerleve to tie the game at 7-all.

Gerleve was the Tigers' leading rusher with 99 yards, and passed for 172 yards in the game while contributing to four Hot Springs touchdowns.

They tried to get closer near the end of the first half, as the Tigers were at the Ruidoso 27-yard line with five seconds left, but Gerleve threw an interception to Steven Stroup to end the threat.

One of Gerleve's scores was a 46-yard pass to Sanchez, which put the Tigers down by 12 with 8:44 left in the third. But on the ensuing kickoff, Adams blew through the

Warriors open hardwood season with victory

BY TODD FUQUA

RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

It was a slow start for this year's Ruidoso basketball team, but by the final buzzer of their opening game against Socorro Friday, the Warriors were halfway to last year's win total.

Not that their 65-56 victory over Socorro would be a rare thing this season. Head coach Billy Page is hoping this is just the shape of things to come.

"We're looking forward to having those guys from football out," Page said, referring to Josh Adams, Chance Hooper and Steven Stroup - all of whom were instrumental in Saturday's Class 3A semifinal win over Hot Springs. "Those are some pretty good athletes, and it will be more of the same."

Not that the Warriors (1-0) are without talent now. Ruidoso used a 17-2 run in the third and fourth quarters to take the lead by good from the visiting Warriors, as steal after steal turned into point after point for the locals.

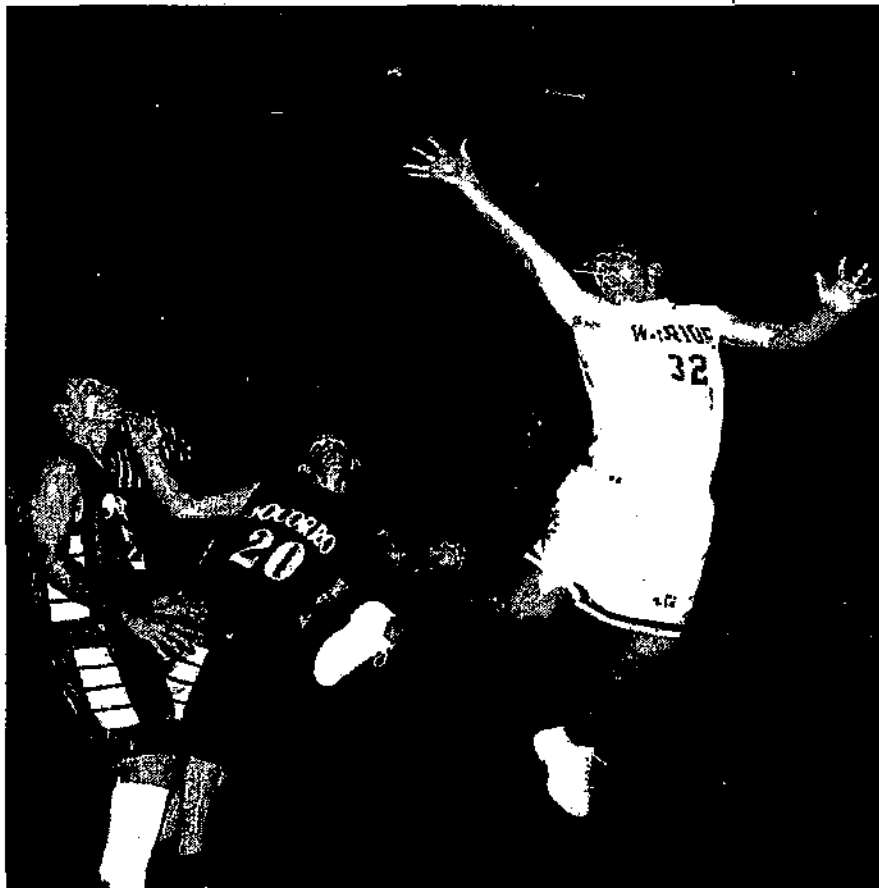

"It worked better in the second half," Page said of the game plan. "We weren't getting a good position on our press in the first

County pair named to all-star team

Despite having a plethora of seniors to choose from Captain had but one chosen to represent the Lady Tigers in this year's Class 1A/2A team in the North-South all-star volleyball match.

Jessica Tully-Mitchell, who was one of five seniors on the Class 2A state championship Captain team, was named to the south all-stars as a setter. Carrizozo, which lost to Tatum in the Class 1A quarterfinals, placed Krista Frank as a middle blocker to the team.

The all-star volleyball match will be played July 29 in Albuquerque.

Brown a natural to lead Warrior wrestlers to individual titles

BY TODD FUQUA
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Wrestling has always been a natural for Brian Brown. In fact, it's always been in the family.

It became even more of a family affair when he met a girl named Sarah Ames while both were students at New Mexico State University, although neither knew it at the time.

"She went into the bathroom and saw a picture of my brother (Nathan), and she said, 'I know that guy, he always beat our guys,'" Brown said.

It turns out Ames' father, Gerald, was a long-time wrestling coach at Ruidoso High. And after he had married Sarah, Brown eventually came to Ruidoso to follow in his father-in-law's footsteps.

That journey continued this year when Brown was named the new head wrestling coach at RHS, and Brown has some high hopes for several individuals on the team.

"Team-wise, I don't know how we'll do," Brown admitted. "I want to improve individually at first."

In a sport that's as individually driven as wrestling, it stands to reason that any improvement made by certain Warrior grapplers will translate into a better team performance.

As a team last year, Ruidoso finished third in Class 1A/3A at the state dual tournament, defeating Shiprock 32-30. At the individual tournament, the Warriors had two medalists in Patrick Hodges and Shawn Gurule.

Gurule has put some more muscle on his small frame and returns this year as a senior in the 125-pound weight class as a favorite to medal again this year. He'll be joined by a number of talented hopefuls such as Dave Hall at 119 pounds, Greg Crow at 130 and Cody Huffman at 140.

"We've still got a lot of freshmen, so we're still young," Brown said. "But most did wrestle under me in 7th and 8th grade."

Brown was the wrestling coach at Ruidoso Middle School for four years prior to being elevated to the post at RHS, and has had several of this year's juniors and seniors when they were in middle school, making the transition from prior coach Jerrett Perry to Brown a relatively smooth one.

The Warriors start their season Thursday with a quad meet at Roswell High, starting at 5 p.m. While it's called a quad, there will actually be five teams there; Ruidoso, Roswell, Goddard, New Mexico Military Institute and Tucumcari. After that, the team travels to Belen Saturday for another tournament.

Most of the wrestlers Brown has out right now are in the smaller weight classes. Many of those in the middleweight divisions are still on the gridiron with the football team, and will miss the Belen tournament as they play for the Class 3A state title at Portales.

Those Brown is currently doing without include Jeremy 4-1A/3A this year, a district made tougher with the addition of Cobre — traditionally a strong wrestling school. It's that kind of competition that excites Brown this season.

"Our first goal is to be district champs, and we'd like to do well at our home tournament," said Brown, referring to the Sierra Blanca Invite Jan. 24 in Ruidoso.

The Warriors also host the district tournament Feb. 15 before the state team and individual championships.

County Little League football crowns minor, major champions

Two Lincoln County Little League football seasons came to a successful close recently, as the Falcons and Jaguars wrapped up championships in the major and minor divisions at Horton Stadium.

In the Minor division championship, the Jaguars capped a 7-1 season with a 34-6 defeat of the Ravens. The Jaguars were led by quarterback Brendan Flack, who had 164 yards in passing, including a 76-yard bomb to Kayle Frierson to open the scoring in the second quarter.

Frierson later returned a kickoff 70 yards to start the second half, and the Jaguars extended their lead to 27-0 on a 20-yard rush by Brandon Bury and a 58-yard rumble by Flack.

The Ravens (6-2) were unable to score until a 7-yard touchdown run by Julian Lopez late in the game. Bury finished the scoring with a 51-yard touchdown run.

In the Majors, the Falcons finished a perfect 8-0 season with a 24-6 victory over the Broncos. While the Falcons seemed to win it easily, there was no scoring at all until the Falcons' Jason Montes scored on a rush in the second half for a 6-0 lead.

Aaron Kannady later scored on another rush for a 12-0 lead before the Broncos held their opponents to the 35-yard line, forcing a punt.

The Falcons, however, called the fake punt and Hall ran to the outside for a 65-yard touchdown to take the 18-0 lead.

After a 70-yard kickoff return by the Broncos (5-3) to cut the lead to 18-6, the Falcons scored an insurance touchdown on a 55-yard rush by Kannady on a reverse.

Aggies hold off Lobos in men's basketball action

BY FELIX CHAVEZ
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

In 2000 and 2001, the New Mexico State Aggies had lost close games to in-state rival New Mexico in the Pan American Center.

Saturday night, the Aggies got redemption of sorts, scoring the final four points of the game, the final two coming on a Jason Fontenet layin with 21.9 seconds left to win 59-58.

NMSU is now 3-1 on the year, while UNM falls to 1-2.

"We hung in there," NMSU guard Brandon Mason said. "We struggled offensively, but we made some defensive stops and made some baskets to get back in the game."

Mason set up the game-winning basket by stripping UNM's Ruben Douglas from behind, then dishing the ball to Fontenet as the Lobos couldn't get back on defense.

"Ruben does some different things to get shots, I just figured he'd drive, he did and I was able to get him from behind," Mason said.

Said Douglas of losing the ball: "Brandon anticipated the play well. He just made a really good play."

The Lobos had a chance to win the game after calling timeout with 16.7 seconds remaining.

But NMSU came out in a zone, forced Douglas, who scored 20, into passing the ball by double-teaming him. Douglas found freshman Mark Walters who drove into the paint and launched a running jump shot, but it was well off the mark, failing to draw iron as time ran out.

"They surprised us by coming out in a zone," Douglas said.

Said Mason: "There was no way I was going to let Ruben shoot the ball to beat us. Coach Henson drew up the play and that's why he has won as many games as he has."

On a night when the Aggies struggled to find the mark from the field, making just 18-of-51, it was Mason who lifted the Aggies. He went 7-of-12 from the field, 4-of-5 from the 3-point line and hit both free throws for 20 points, tying Douglas for game's top honors.

Mason's back-to-back treys trimmed UNM's 44-36 lead to 44-41 with 8:57, but it was his 3-pointer with 3:45 that may have been most crucial.

Down 52-47 with 4:09 left and the offense seemingly going nowhere, Mason's triple cut the lead to 52-50 and seemed to give NMSU new life.

The two teams traded points in the next three minutes and UNM still lead 57-55 after a Jamaal Williams free throw. Douglas made it 58-55 with a charity toss, then missed the second shot and what turned out to be a break for NMSU. Mason was fouled by UNM's Mikal Monette with 40.9 seconds left. Mason canned both shots and the Aggies were down one, setting up Mason and Fontenet's heroics. Douglas missed two free throws Saturday after making his first 22, including his first three against NMSU.

"Brandon did a good job tonight, he came up big," NMSU coach Lou Henson said. "He does a lot of good things. He scored well, he had to defend Douglas all night. We struggled offensively. When you have to depend on the perimeter shot like we do, that will happen. We couldn't get the ball in to James Felder and he was in foul trouble early, which also hurt. We're just not very big."

Said Mason: "I felt comfortable with my shot tonight. I didn't shoot well against Colorado on Wednesday, but I had been getting in some extra practice the past couple of days and that helped. UNM defended really well. They forced us to do some things we didn't want to do. But we were able to spread the ball out later in the game and that helped some and we got a couple of good looks."

The Lobos stayed in the lead in the second half behind Williams, who scored 11 of his 15 in the second 20 minutes and Douglas, who had nine.

"We didn't have an answer to Williams or Douglas," Henson said. "Both of them are very good."

The first half saw UNM hit 12-of-25 from the field to take a 32-29 lead entering halftime. Douglas hit for 11 points, while Javin Tindall had eight to lead the Lobos. But UNM also had 12 of its 20 turnovers to hurt its cause.

The Aggies struggled in the first half, hitting just 10 of 29 shots and 5 of 10 free throws. Four players scored five points for NMSU in the first 20 minutes.

"Turnovers hurt us," Lobos coach Ritchie McKay said. "Twenty turnovers is too many."

Said Douglas: "This one hurts. Last week we had a lead late against California and lost. Tonight we had another lead and couldn't hold on. We have to execute better."

Greyhounds win one, lose one at WTAMU

CANYON, Texas — After defeating Ouachita Baptist Friday by a healthy margin, the Eastern New Mexico men's basketball team fell to West Texas A&M Saturday in the final game of the Papa John's Thanksgiving Shootout to even their record at 2-2.

The Hounds beat Ouachita 83-77 on Friday, benefiting from Cedric Palmer's 29 points and a game-high 10 rebounds by Jamaal Hunnicutt. As a team, Eastern out-rebounded its opponent 40-33.

ENMU's luck ran out against host WTAMU, however, falling 82-65 on Saturday to their Lone Star Conference rivals.

Jon Belt led Eastern with only 12 points as the only Greyhound in double figures. The Buffaloes were led by Rod Prater and Eduardo Caviglia with 17 points each, followed by Matt Madison with 11 and Chris Bracey with 10.

Palmer and Kevin Iverson were named to the all-tournament team for Eastern.

The Hounds travel to Albuquerque this Friday to take on New Mexico Highlands in a 5 p.m. game in University Arena, prior to University of New Mexico's 7 p.m. matchup against Indiana-Purdue University at Fort Wayne.

WARRIORS: Season-opening win on court difference in the ball game."

The difference wasn't there in the first, as Socorro (0-1) took an initial 6-0 lead, mostly on superior rebounding by Nick Sramek and the scoring of Joseph Santillantes, who led the visiting Warriors with 26 points.

As a team, Socorro out-rebounded Ruidoso 36-30, with Sramek leading the way with 11 and Santillantes close behind with eight.

But most of that damage was done in the first half. And the local Warriors never let their opponents get too far ahead, using the press and good defense to stay within four points at the half.

Part of that good defense came from Cody Small, who used his height to intimidate and block several Socorro shots inside. Although Page said all that blocking might have worked against the team overall.

"He was actually blocking the ball too often, because then he was out of position to rebound," Page said. "We like to stay on the floor. Patrick (Valliant) was also trying to block, but we missed some rebounds that we could or should have had."

Autson Beier had eight rebounds to lead Ruidoso while scoring 10 points to tie Small and Valliant for third in scoring. Nick Page led the locals with 12 points overall, while Tony Dominguez added 11.

The worm began to turn late in the third quarter, when — with Ruidoso down 37-34 with just under a minute left — Dominguez took the ball off a steal, drove the length of the floor and was fouled while taking the shot.

The shot went in, although Dominguez's follow-up free throw did not. But the momentum had shifted and, when Beier put in a lay-up on another steal with 21 seconds left in the third quarter, the local Warriors had taken the lead for good.

"The guys really came out with some confidence in the second half," Page said. "Tonight I wasn't able to go as deep as I'd like, but we'll be able to go deep once we get (the football players) out. It's exactly where we want to be."

In junior varsity action, Ruidoso won 67-46. Garrett Born had 19 to lead the Warriors, followed by Erik Rossiter with 18 and Wes Adaza with 11.

The Ruidoso varsity next faces Bloomfield Thursday at 3 p.m. in the first round of the Taos Tournament.

middle for his touchdown return.

"The run back was big," Bowden said. "It was a great return and gave us an extra lift there which we needed."

Hot Springs returned the favor in the fourth quarter, as Gerleve followed a 1-yard touchdown by Jess Shendo with an 82-yard kickoff return of his own for a touchdown, keeping the Tigers within striking distance.

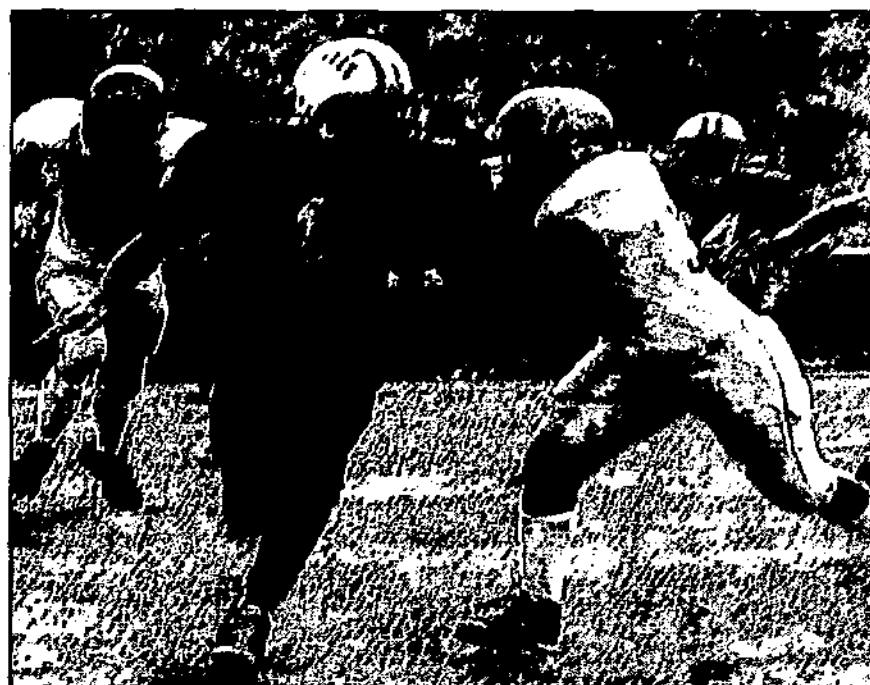

Ruidoso recovered the onside kick, then controlled the rest of the game with their running game, chewing up the clock and the yardage and ending with a 13-yard touchdown by Adams with 6:54 left in the game.

The Warriors surprised everybody with an onside kick of their own, recovered the ball, then scored as Adams again crossed the goal line four minutes later to put Ruidoso up by 30 points.

Hot Springs scored two more touchdowns inside of a minute after that, but the game was already in hand by then.

"We're in the state championship now," Bowden said. "The kids worked hard, played hard for it, it's now just a matter of one more."

The championship will be played against Portales in a rematch of the 1988 Class 3A title game. Portales defeated Cobre 20-13 in the other semifinal. The game is set for Saturday at 2 p.m. at Gerleve was the Tigers' leading rusher with 99 yards and passed for 172 yards. More than 80 of those yards came near the end of the fourth quarter, when the game was already decided.

Greyhound Stadium.

Notes: All the scoring meant there was only one punt in the entire game... Counting his 92-yard kickoff return, Adams accounted for 436 total yards of the Warriors' offense... The penalty situation was light years removed from last week. There were only 10 flags for a total of 80 yards in the game.

Pages 937-974, and the
"Plat" recorded on May 10,
1978, with the County Clerk of Lincoln County in a certain instrument designated as "Plat" in said office in Tube No. 614
with warranty covenants.
Together with such interests as are described in the Warranty deed found at Book 109, pages 677 - 679 of the deed records of the Lincoln County Clerk, recorded December 17, 1984.

Unless you enter your appearance in said cause on or before January 6, 2003, judgment or other appropriate relief will be rendered in this cause against you, and you will thereafter not be permitted to claim any right or title to the subject property, or to be heard on whether the Court should partition or order sale of the property.

When giving to charities, you might consider if they are animal friendly.
Writing in Animal Times, the publication of People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals,
Ingrid Newkirk said that 232 hastatics have signed never to fund cruel, irrelevant animal tests in response to a PETA campaign.
Started a few years ago, PETA attempted to convince health clubs to stop funding animal experiments.
Some groups agreeing with that stance include Birth Defect Research for Children and the Heimlich Foundation.
Giving donors a PETA consistent giving to Easter Seals,
the United Cancer Research Society, the AIDS Network of Edmonton Society and The Garland Appeal," newkirk said.
The most recent conversion came in an announcement
from the Avon Breast Cancer Crusade that it will no longer fund animal experiments.
On PETA's black list is the Bureau of Mines. PETA publishes a charity guide listing organizations that do and don't fund experiments on animals.
Copies are available free by calling 1-866-TEST-KIND.
Newkirk wrote that when she founded PETA 25 years ago, only three companies offered crucely-free shampoo and cosmetics.

Today, more than 550 companies follow that line.

"First, we convinced companies to come clean and stop telling consumers that they 'had to live with animals by law,'" she wrote. "Then, we went undercover into the labs and showed that pain was the hidden ingredient in personal care products and makeup."

The last step was to protest.

Newkirk also is critical of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

"Rather than working to reduce emissions and prevent animal-based environmental exposures to toxic chemicals," the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has instead chosen to establish 'acceptable' exposure levels based on the testing of animals," she wrote. "Information from PETA. 'In fact, the EPA requires more animal-based chemical toxicity testing than any other federal agency. Yet in more than 10 years, the EPA has not issued a single toxic industrial chemical using its authority under the Toxic Substances Control Act, despite killing hundreds of thousands of animals and causing countless human health exposures.'"

PETA included a few interesting

ing meat and dairy-free recipes for the holidays, you must want to try. Here's one of the best.

Shepherd's Pie uses: 4 medium potatoes, diced; 2 tablespoons margarine; 2 1/2 cup of soy milk or liquid non-dairy creamer; 1 medium onion, finely chopped; 1 tablespoon of vegetable oil; 12 ounces of frozen beef-style crumbles (try Veggie Grounds, #10); 10.5 ounce can of Franco-American mushroom gravy or 1 1/4 cups of prepared vegetarian gravy; a 6-ounce can of mixed peas and carrots, drained; and salt, garlic powder, pepper and cayenne to taste.

Boil the potatoes for 20 minutes or until tender. Drain and mash with margarine and soy milk or nondairy creamer. Add salt and pepper to taste.

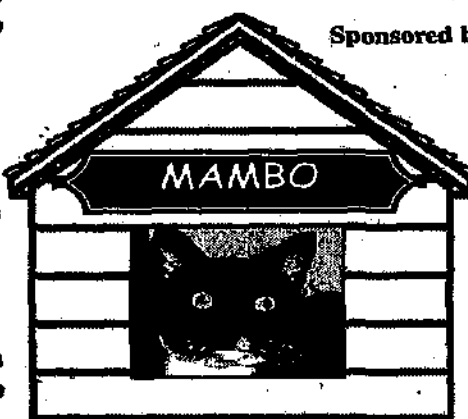

In a medium pan, saute the onion in the oil until translucent. In a medium bowl, mix the cooked onions, crumbles, mushroom gravy, peas, carrots and spices.

Top the crumble mixture with the potatoes, spreading them to the edges. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 to 40 minutes until the potatoes are browned and the crumble mixture bubbles out the edges.

Looking for a handsome companion on a cold winter night, then choose Mambo, a wonderful black and white short-haired, neutered male. Friendly and lovable, he's tired of shelter living.

A blue-tick heeler/Labrador cross, Seymour is 9 months old with the energy of a puppy. He needs lots of space to run and a loving owner who will take time to train this super-smart canine.

PSYCHIC PREDICTIONS

Judith L. Christopher

Week of December 4 - 10

SAGITTARIUS:
(Nov 22 - Dec 21)
You need to open up your eyes, and heart! You only get what you give! Don't expect for someone else to love you, when you don't in return.

ARIES: (Mar 21 - Apr 19)  A good time to catch up on paper work that is getting behind. Take a little trip if possible. Feel the wind in your hair. Call on the wild side of life.

LEO: (Jul 23 - Aug 22)
You can't look in the rear view mirror of life, and expect to have a happy future! Take a chance, not everyone is out to hurt you. Let someone love you.

CAPRICORN:
(Dec 22 - Jan 19)
Keep your eyes open and your mind too. You will be around people that might test your intelligence and your temper. Don't let them spoil your fun.

TAURUS: (Apr 20 - May 20)
Now is the time for you to do what you have always wanted to do! No, you're not doing what you want to do, you might be doing what you have to do.

VIRGO:
(Aug 23 - Sep 22)
It's a turn around point in your life. Get ready, get set, go. You will see a difference in a lot of people. It's time to get back on and ride again.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 - Feb 18)
It's okay to work, but not when it hurts others. Life is short, play hard. Take the time to be with family and friends. Do something that is good for all.

GEMINI: (May 21 - Jun 20) III
Trying to be in two places at once will test your mind. Relax and let life show you the way. Depend on your inner strength. Look ahead, to get ahead.

LIBRA:
(Sept 23 - Oct 22)

If you want something, then you need to speak up and tell who ever it is, what you want, and when you want it. You're losing ground, when you don't talk.

PISCES:
(Feb 19 - Mar 20)
Don't try to get everything done all at once. Throw the clock out, let nature take its course, it will anyway. Don't expect anything, it will be okay.

CANCER:
(Jun 21 - Jul 22)
Money is of question, as usual. Love should be questioned too! Don't assume that love will live on its own. Give what you can, when you can.

SCORPIO:
(Oct 23 - Nov 21)
You will be ahead of yourself, once you allow yourself to let go, and do what comes naturally. Let the love shine inside, let it come out and live.
