HEAT search finds unregistered missiles

SEE RELATED STORY, PAGE 9A

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

Officers of three federal agencies searched the Roswell and Arabela compounds of an anti-terrorism firm last week, seizing 2,352 small, infantry-fired missiles.

According to a complaint filed in federal district court Friday, the president of High Energy Access Tools Corporation, Canadian national David Hudak, was arrested Thursday and charged with possessing missiles not registered to him in the National Firearms Registration and Transfer Record.

He was scheduled to appear in an El Paso, Texas, court Monday on failing to have a current visa, but Norm Cairns with the U.S. Attorney's office in Santa Fe said he was unaware of the date set for an appearance in the U.S. District Court in Las Cruces on the missile charge.

Frank Fish, head of security for HEAT, denied any wrongdoing by the company Tuesday.

"We feel we're in compliance and that the investigation will prove that," he said. "We're not perfect, but anything missed will be a regulatory licensing issue."

The firm continues to operate, although it currently has no clients at its Tinnie/Arabela complex, he said. Hudak is scheduled in court Thursday, Fish said.

"According to him and the Canadian office, they have the paperwork to show (the components) were purchased properly," Fish said.

He explained that the conical-shaped objects would need a rocket motor and propellant, as well as detonator, to be fired. They were rejected by the military and went through two other companies before Hudak purchased them "in sort of a fire sale," said Fish, who joined the company in January. "They have been stored in a bunker since 1999 and listed on our inventory as required by the ATF, which inspected regularly. That's why this is kind of confusing to me."

He said Hudak told him the reason he bought the missiles was to use them to shatter large boulders when quarrying. He didn't know what Hudak paid for the components.

According to the complaint filed by Gary Ainsworth, a special agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, and Tony Singleton, a special agent with U.S. Customs, a check was done on Aug. 6 to determine if Hudak, HEAT or Steve Mattoon, an officer with a parent company, obtained the proper licenses. The agents executed a search warrant last Wednesday for the HEAT applied for a permit to build a tower with height restrictions. When the permit was denied, he filed a lawsuit.

Cellular tower request will be appealed to ETZ

P&Z board members can't decide on Verizon proposal

BY DIANNE STALLINGS

Deadlocking on whether to approve a conditional use permit to allow a 70-foot cellular tower off Squaw Trail in an unincorporated "pocket" overlooking downtown Ruidoso, the Extraterritorial Zoning Commission Tuesday tossed the controversial request to an appeal board.

Verizon Wireless and owners Richard and Cindy Parkinson have 15 days to file an appeal with the ETZ Authority, which is composed of two county commissioners and one village counselor.

Under new rules adopted for the extraterritorial zone around the village, cellular towers are considered a conditional use in any zoning designation.

The property selected as the most effective for coverage of what are now "dead" pockets by Verizon is not zoned, although some homes are nearby. The owners are leasing less than an acre to the cellular company.

But Barbara Willard, who plans to create a residential development on her nearby land, and another resident objected to the proposal.

They asked that either a neighborhood group or a special task force be created to work with cellular and other companies that require towers to find more appropriate locations, such as on existing water towers and church steeples. They contended property values will suffer if a tower goes up in their area. But Cindy Parkinson pointed out that Willard built a beautiful home within 100 feet of a radio tower.

She questioned the impact of the 50 homes that might be built on Willard land compared to one 70-foot tower. She assured commission members that within 60 days after the tower is no longer in service, Verizon by contract is required to remove it.

Reading from a prepared statement, Willard pointed out, "Satellite might be the only perfect solution, but communication companies say this is too expensive and this location is being offered by a private party in a residential area. One tower means less expense and more profits for these companies. It is not P&Z responsibility to see that private enterprise makes a bigger profit but it is your job to protect our environment."

Picking up on that theme, commission chairman Glen Barrows said the issue is a difficult one. Views are important, but over the last five to 10 years, many pristine areas have become residential developments with water tanks.

"You're going to be building beautiful homes, but they're not as beautiful as pristine forests," he said to Willard. "You're putting things there for your economic development. Help me understand if that tower changes the landscape more than the houses you're putting up. Which is uglier? Should we stop all development and leave the nature?"

Hernandez, LCSWA spar over service, rates

BY JULIE CARTER

Sparks flew at Thursday night's Carrizozo Board of Trustees meeting, as mayor Manuel Hernandez and Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority attorney Don Dutton debated the merits of the town possibly leaving the authority.

Discussion and approval to seek requests for proposals for a waste disposal service quickly became a heated topic in front of a packed house at the temporary city hall, but the issue was eventually tabled by trustees.

When the agenda item came up, Dutton asked if he could speak on the issue and was acknowledged by Hernandez.

Dutton began by saying, "LCSWA had no problem with the city going out to bid, if you feel you will get a better rate. But what I understand is that there haven't been any complaints with regard to the service, so I don't understand why, as a member of the organization of LCSWA, you would want to try and do something that might undermine the organization, or if you have given thought to what it would cost you (and) the town of Carrizozo to withdraw."

For the first time in the 10-year history of the LCSWA, it is running in the black, Dutton said. "It seems to me if you have an organization operating in the black and you aren't getting complaints from the citizens, that 'if ain't broke, don't fix it," he said, adding that it would take "very, very strong negotiations for you to withdraw. I am not sure it is something you would want to go through. It would be a very expensive process."

Dutton explained that the books are open for inspection at all times and an independent audit is done every year. He offered that LCSWA is there to serve, and if there are problems, they need to be talked over and worked out.

The mayor said that he had talked to several other waste companies and believed that the city could get cheaper rates and better service, but that the Water line ruptures after pressure surge

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A high-pressure surge on a water line along Paradise Canyon shut down service on the upper section of the road for an hour Tuesday morning.

Shortly after customers were put back on line, a valve broke and service went out for another two hours, said Larry Grasmick, head of Ruidoso's water and wastewater department.

"The surge resulted from a problem with a copper line," he said. "The break was on a 2-inch stub out. I guess the water was squirting across the road about 7 a.m. and our on-call man went out to investigate."

To ensure that sediment doesn't contaminate water supplies or gum up hot water heaters, the lines were flushed out before service was re-established, he said.

"We have a break every day," Grasmick said. "Either on old lines or people using the city cut-off valves and breaking them. Village code requires customers to have their own shut-off valves. They shouldn't be using the ones in the meter cans."

"They also should have a pressure regulator," which protects appliances from sudden high pressure surges and are installed on the resident's side of the water lines, he said. The village has several areas where pressure can be a problem if large regulators on the village side of the lines fail, he said. Last year, several water heaters in homes along Paradise Canyon were damaged after a surge. Many owners of older homes may not be aware that they don't have regulators, he said.

Council to hear theme park proposal

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Representatives of a Houston-based development firm are scheduled to pitch a proposal Friday to the Ruidoso Village Council to build a multi-million dollar theme park on state trust land.

The meeting is set for 10 a.m. at village hall on Cree Meadows Drive and Kansas City Street.

Most of the property lies within the extraterritorial zone around the village limits, but would need approval from a board that represents Lincoln County and Ruidoso interests.

Don Britt, assistant public lands commissioner for the commercial division, took officials with America's Christmas Village on a tour of the property, but he said he was unaware of the Friday meeting until he was notified by Mike Runnels, director of Ruidoso Planning and Zoning.

The state leases property to generate revenue for a permanent trust fund that primarily benefits New Mexico schools. State land is not sold.

Ray Powell, state Public Lands Commissioner, said Tuesday, "We've been approached by a company that wants a theme park. We're just at the very beginning of the exploratory stages."

"I've been talking to folks there in Ruidoso to see what they think of the idea, because it's a very prominent location and I've made a commitment in our Community Partnership program to do only those things that have support within the community and fit what the community wants to become. So nothing will happen until the people of the community indicate it's something they want."

This isn't the first time the office has been approached about Moon Mountain, which overlooks Cree Meadows golf course, Ruidoso High School and Gavilan Canyon, Powell said. During the past decade, some ideas looked serious, but never were realized, and others "sounded so strange, we just said no," he said.

The state secured a $360,000 federal grant to reduce the number of trees on the mountain as a step toward minimizing the fire hazard. The project nearly is finished, Britt said. The mountain is home to deer, wild turkey, bear, fox and, from time to time, a mountain lion.

Plans discussed recently, before the Christmas group proposal, included the development of hiking trails and working with the high school on projects for a forestry class there.

However, the staff person with the Roswell public lands office who was working on the trail project retired, Powell said.

"So there has been kind of a gap," he said. "Our folks in the adjoining districts are taking over his job, but it makes it much harder to get connected with someone."

"It's important everyone is aware of what's happening so they can participate in the decision-making process. Obviously, our charge is to optimize earnings (from state trust land). We're not committing to anything until we make sure it's something the community wants."

Wallace E. Westbrook is the founder of America's Christmas Village and has looked in the area previously for a location for the theme park. Britt said initial plans also include a recreational vehicle park and that other uses would evolve, according to what he has been told.

"I think they're kind of sticking their toe in the water to see if the village is interested," he said. "To be honest, there are two big problems with Moon Mountain, access and terrain, that would have to be overcome."

OUR OPINION

A change of season is in the air

Just ahead: the busiest time of the year in Ruidoso

Despite the calendar, for most people the change from summer to fall is just about now — with the eruption of bright yellow school busses in all the expected places, the conclusion of the county fair, a thinning of mid-week traffic in Midtown and just the slightest of drops in early morning temperatures.

Many more signs of a change of season will be coming quickly now — the All American Futurity and its adjunct activities is less than two weeks away.

Then it's 10 days of State Fair in Albuquerque. And, locally, beginning Sept.

18, the Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally will carve out its five days of throaty rumbles across the county.

October's pace means something every weekend — first up, Aspenfest, then the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium, followed by Oktoberfest...

Sometime after that, the gods of weather willing, will come a few good snowfalls, so that the winter season can officially begin on Nov. 28 with the opening of Ski Apache.

Once upon a time, fall was a time of rest in our town. Not anymore.

But, come to think of it, that's not a real bad thing.

Pride goeth after 9/11

Just for a brief period there, just for a few months, we all kind of basked in the glory. By "we all," I am talking about your nitty-gritty journalist type of person, the kind editor David Giuliani in Carlsbad describes as a "nosy poop."

What do you do for a living? people would ask.

Retired newsman. I would say, puffing up ever so slightly you could hardly notice it.

That was then. That was for a period of time after 9/11 when the news fraternity got high marks for doing a great job helping our country through the mess.

Now, I gather from various surveys, our profession has fallen back to its normal, not so comfortable, ranking, just a step behind "Enron executive" in the respect derby. Truth is, journalists were never meant to be loved. Nonetheless, it was nice while it lasted.

So, when it is said and done, am I proud of my profession? Depends.

I am proud when I see local newspapers, despite inevitably being tagged "negative," tell their readers who is on the honor roll, who hit the home run, who is getting married, who we are mourning today, who is running for New Mexico office and what they are saying.

I am ashamed when I see journalists exploit the likes of the two teen girls in California who were kidnapped and raped by a madman. They will claim these interviews "might help some other teenager who faces similar circumstances." Pure bull. Kids be damned, ratings be served. Shame on you Katie Couric. If you are powerful enough to demand $60 million for your services, you are powerful enough to say no to the producers when they ask you to pander.

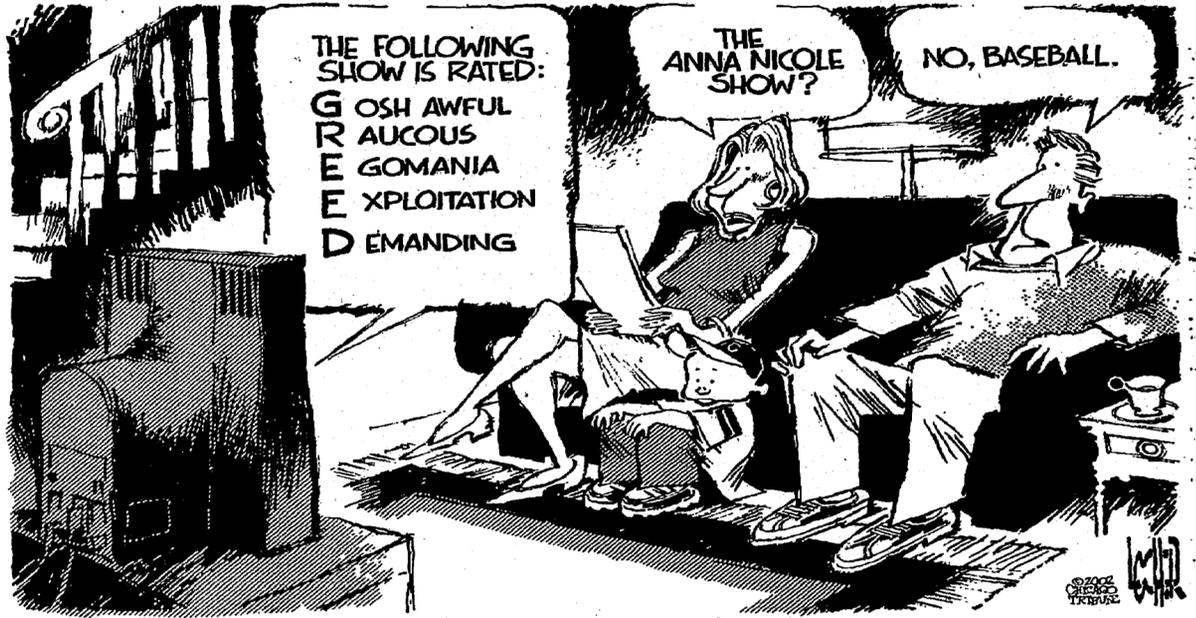

I am proud when I read that a South Florida newspaper refused to let slide nine children who had been declared "missing" by the state's totally screwed up child welfare agency. Gone, said, the state. No way, said the paper that turned loose its investigative reporters and found the kids in four weeks.

I am ashamed when television journalism is reduced to the likes of repulsive liberal Paul Begala on CNN and arrogant conservative Bill O'Reilly on FOX selling the idea that "good interviewing" means out-shouting your guests. Connie Chung has a softer touch, and might survive if she learns how to read cue cards. Walter Cronkite needs to get all these inflated egos inside a tent and preach them a sermon on how it is done.

I am proud that Bob Herbert of the New York Times takes it upon himself to write column after column exposing the hateful treatment of black people in Tulia, Texas. He calls the drug sting gone wrong a "monstrous, racially motivated miscarriage of justice..." Herbert won't give up his campaign and I am most proud that he is a journalist.

I am proud when journalists cover their beats, write their stories, support their communities, develop editorial stances, all without concern about where they are going to end up on the local popularity charts, or who might quit advertising.

Ned Cantwell - cantwell@zianet.com - is a retired newspaperman living in Ruidoso. He is mostly proud.

YOUR OPINION

Enrollment changes challenge Ruidoso schools

To the editor:

The excellent letter by Felicia Frizzell (Aug. 14) portrayed a great example of a minority student working with an outstanding school district to achieve a positive result. Unfortunately, the Mescalero Tribe has not witnessed a majority of their students achieve the same result.

Building their own school, with the goal of stressing the heritage of the Mescalero Apaches, is certainly a worthy endeavor. The tribe will now be able to determine their own focus and be responsible for their own test scores. In addition, the tribe now has one of the most outstanding school complexes in New Mexico. The Mescalero School will certainly not take a back seat to any other area school facility.

As the 2003-04 school year approaches, it will certainly be interesting to see how the Ruidoso School District will cope with declining revenue, enrollment, and faculty. Several school teachers will approach the 2002-03 school year with the apprehension of how many teachers will eventually lose their jobs due to a reduction in force.

As the Mescalero school enrollment grows, the Ruidoso school enrollment will decline.

Historically in America, the local school board is the token rubber stamp of the school superintendent. Normally, the school board hires a superintendent to administer the school district and to be the spokesman for the ... district.

Most superintendents have enough training and experience to be masters of political correctness. In rare cases, some school board members, with no formal training in administering a school district, believe they know more than the superintendent that they have hired.

The entire board, or an individual board member, occasionally attempts to assume the job of the superintendent, thus creating a dysfunctional school district.

The superintendent then either resigns or attempts to manipulate the school board into making the appropriate decisions. When this situation occurs, it is often referred to as "five local yokels and the con man." Hopefully, this term is not going to become a characteristic of the Ruidoso School District.

A thank-you from Texas

To the editor:

I am one of the many Texans that have a long association with vacationing in the coolness of Ruidoso, first coming in the late 1940s with my parents, now entertaining my grandchildren.

I am only here a short time each year, don't own property or get to participate in community building activities. So I am writing to thank you for the wonderful library you maintain and encourage all visitors, no matter how brief, to use and enjoy. The biggest surprise this year was seeing the beautiful new playground for the children of Ruidoso (and visitors) built by the Optimist Club and many businesses and people in your community.

Both of these demonstrate to me your pride in your community and your caring for the children growing up in your midst. Please keep up the good work! And thanks!

Pageant still glorifies the bad

To the editor:

A pageant player and former peace officer has ... rationalized his behavior and beliefs, and he refuses to acknowledge the fact that the pageant glorifies Billy the Kid as an outlaw.

I served 22 years in the armed forces (3 1/2 years in Vietnam) helping to protect our nation from the communist threat.

Wouldn't I be a hypocrite if I participated in a pageant, which was named in honor and glorified Lenin, the father of the former communist Soviet Union? Keep in mind, Lenin, like the Kid, was a colorful (bloody) individual and is a historical figure.

The fact that I was in the military and in a war doesn't mean that it would be morally correct for me to take part in a pageant which would exalt Lenin and his historic, murderous deeds. Even if I play a good guy, it would still be condoning immorality.

It's also unethical for our police officers to participate as players in the "Last Escape of Billy the Kid" pageant. Remember, our society at large considers the glorification of murderers and murder as immoral.

In the historically inaccurate ... pageant, evil symbolically triumphs over good. I can look in the mirror, because I, like most of our law-enforcement officers, don't praise murderers and their murderous acts.

By the way, I had a friend who was murdered. Murder isn't glorious or glamorous, as portrayed by the pageant.

Franklin L. Boren
Tinnie

A little courtesy, please

To the editor:

As a mother of two small children, I regularly attend our local municipal swimming pool. Recently, I had the misfortune of visiting the pool just as a thunderstorm was approaching. As a season-pass holder, I went directly to the front to sign in, just after two other season-pass holders had finished signing in.

I was immediately told that I was not allowed to sign in due to lightning. I was appalled, since the people that had signed in moments before me had been admitted to the pool area to wait for the storm to pass.

When I asked, "Why can't I go in and wait also?" the answer I received was, "Because they were here first."

What does that have to do with the price of eggs? The incident was nothing less than blatant discrimination, which is punishable by law.

How can our village allow such behavior by its employees?

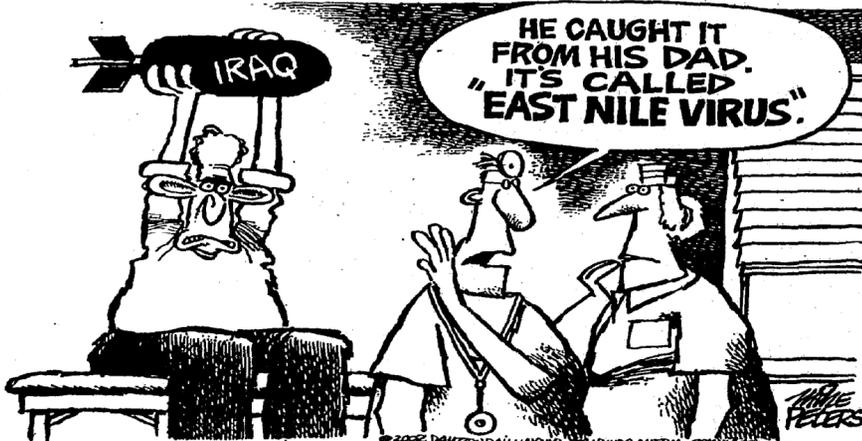

In a small town in which tourism is so heavily relied upon as our principal (source) of income, friendliness and compassion should be our greatest attribute. If our people cannot understand this and incorporate this into their daily lives, they should go live in the big city where rudeness and prejudice prevail.

Water restrictions still in effect; fire group seeking residents

■ Limits on watering will stay until Labor Day.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

When torrents of rain flood lower Sudderth Drive and drainage ditches along Gavilan Canyon overflow, some people may think the time for outdoor irrigation restrictions has passed.

But Ruidoso village officials decided last week that until Labor Day the area will continue in Phase II of Ruidoso's water conservation plan, which restricts outside mechanical watering to Tuesday. Hand sprinkling is allowed any day of the week, but only before 10 a.m. and after 3 p.m.

James Mason, public information officer for the Ruidoso Fire Department, reported that another village project, aimed at reducing the fire hazard by removing vegetation around homes and clearing yard debris, is looking for volunteer block captains to coordinate activities in their neighborhoods.

The Firewise group visualizes the Fire Smart Neighborhood Project as something similar to a Neighborhood Watch used to fight crime, Mason said.

"People to date have been great on their own, but they have overwhelmed our resources," he said. "Now we want to add peer pressure to get an organized effort. Instead of managing 8,000 residents, there would be 100 or more neighborhoods. But it's a long process."

He hopes to set up some models through next spring to work out the kinks, Mason said, adding that he plans "full implementation" by the next fire season.

The village's current fire danger designation has dropped to moderate. No seasonal restrictions are in effect. However, councilors reminded the public that tossing cigarettes out of a car still is punishable by a $500 fine and is not considered a seasonal crime.

Police Chief Lanny Maddox said recently a business owner, who witnessed a driver and his passenger each toss out a cigarette, cared enough to take down the license plate and to file a complaint with the police department. He hopes to see more reports along those lines, Maddox said.

"Our ordinance stipulates that's illegal any time, day or night, any time of the year," he said. "If citizens see littering of any kind, they can sign a complaint."

Nunley asked if it boils down to a "he said, she said" battle.

"That's even true with a police officer and defendant in many cases," Maddox said. "I think the judge will take it seriously if the person can provide some information (such as license plate, car description or the items tossed)."

Nunley said if the fines and laws are in place, signs warning visitors should be posted at the highway entrances to the village, in line with what the Lincoln County Commission put up to warn truckers that unmuffled jakes brakes can't be used within the county's borders.

New 'Zozo school superintendent aims to get parents more involved

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

With the Carrizozo School campus already showing signs of positive change, the chair in the superintendent's office is occupied by a man excited and challenged to take the job.

Castañon

Sergio Castañon brings 25 years of experience at all levels of the educational system to his new position in the Carrizozo municipal school system.

In those 25 years, Castañon has logged time as a teacher, coach, and principal in elementary, middle and high schools as well as three years as superintendent in Hondo. Having graduated from Cloudercroft High School and gaining his higher education at Eastern New Mexico University and New Mexico State, Castañon is well acquainted with Lincoln County and New Mexico.

Castañon is married and has four children. His wife Jeanne is a kindergarten teacher's assistant in the Ruidoso schools. Of the three daughters, one is a teacher in Albuquerque, one a senior at UNM, and one a senior at Ruidoso High, along with his son, who is a freshman there.

Castañon says he sees a school busy with new buildings, a school board driven to provide good facilities for the kids and staff and dedicated teachers and coaches.

"The school has the foundation to set some high goals and achieve them. When they become a unit and pull in the same direction, those goals will be reached," he said.

"Organizing the strengths we have and providing leadership and support to meet the goals the board has set" is how Castañon describes his job. "I see me as making the campus environment more inviting and more positive than it ever has been before, encouraging increased parent participation and support.

"Parents need to know that education is the most important thing for children. It is more important now than ever for the parents to be involved. I want them to know that they are always welcome here," he added.

In addition to a campus facelift, some of the ideas for improvement are more choices for students in the class schedule, a career day, college day, more recognition for students, an academic banquet, and awards for students and staff.

"These are not my ideas, but are great things that have worked," says Castañon. "I want to promote the good things Carrizozo schools have to offer. I believe my experience can help change, modify, and improve the continued success of the Carrizozo schools."

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Education workshop

Earthly Goods Cafe and Health Food Store will present a public education workshop at 7 p.m. today for parents, teachers, homeschoolers and others interested in exploring contemporary American education.

The discourse will examine current school conditions, give insight into why they exist, elicit individual responses and discussion and suggest responsible reactions to present educational circumstances.

The session will be repeated Saturday, Aug. 24 if interest warrants, and will be led by Ruidoso resident and former licensed teacher Robert Allan.

Nursing program OK'd

The nursing program at Eastern New Mexico University-Portales has received a five-year continuing accreditation through the spring of 2007 by the National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission.

Eastern's bachelor of science in Nursing Completion Program established in 1992, offers a bachelor's degree in nursing for registered nurses who have already completed two-year programs.

The mission of the B.S.N. degree is to prepare professionally educated nurses for careers in health care and provide students with a strong foundation for leadership and for graduate study in nursing.

The accrediting agency noted that ENMU's nursing program showed a pattern of strength in administrative commitment and support for the nursing program, the expertise of its teachers and role models in the practice area, and distance education.

Dr. Thurman Elder, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, said there is "a critical need in eastern New Mexico and west Texas for nurses, especially for those with a bachelor's degree."

Ruidoso, 'Zozo funded

The New Mexico Public School Public Outlay Council announced school construction awards totaling $104.8 million for this school year to 49 districts.

Carrizozo Municipal School district will receive $1,435,000 for construction of a new vocational/agricultural facility, renovations to house an early childhood center and renovation of restrooms and one classroom at Clegg School.

Ruidoso Municipal School district will receive $300,000 for continued roofing of the vocational/agricultural facility at Ruidoso High School.

"I believe most high schools are too impersonal and that students sit passively in too many classrooms. We need schools where asking questions is more important than memorizing answers. We need high schools where students 'uncover' rather than cover content. To achieve this vision for our classroom we must structure high schools so teachers can know students as unique learners."

Joe Westmoreland

High school classes get a different spin in Capitan

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Capitan's new high school principal very nearly didn't apply for the opening after seeing a Web position listing and sending in a resume. But the superintendent of schools called him and said the hiring committee wanted to talk to him.

Joe Westmoreland had retired after 20 years as a high school principal and 34 years in public schools in Texas. From his last school, in Crane, he had vacationed in New Mexico.

"The farther west I moved the more I liked it," he said. One of his son's college options was New Mexico Tech; the family drove through Capitan en route, and Westmoreland found it "a very pretty town." He saw an opening for a high school principal, and e-mailed a resume, but when he read on the school's Web site that it was a "back to basics" school, he thought sounded a bit too conservative to be a good fit, so he didn't apply. When Superintendent Larry Miller called anyway, Westmoreland asked what was meant by "back to basics."

"We'd been trying the same thing and not getting very different results," Westmoreland said. Then he met with the interview committee and told them about the Coalition of Essential Schools, an organization founded by TheodoreSizer, dean of the Graduate School of Education at Harvard.

Sizer and the National Association of Secondary Principals had completed a study of high schools across the country and found that "kids were sitting passively in classrooms, not taking responsibility for their education. There was a lot of lecturing and memorizing and not very much use of higher-order thinking," Westmoreland said. "Schools were pretty impersonal."

Sizer founded the Coalition of Essential Schools and Westmoreland got Woodlands High School in Texas involved in practicing the principles that would personalize education for the students. Detractors attributed the successes he experienced there to the clientele — a well-heeled suburb of Houston — so Westmoreland became principal of the high school in the small town, of Crane, in West Texas, and proved his point there too.

"I practice those principles," the new principal said. "An example is 'Less is more.' We should teach fewer things but do it in more depth. I always ask questions ... why 90 percent of the teachers choose to cover a lot of material."

SANDY SUGGITT/STAFF

Teachers answer that they have to cover a lot of material because of state accountability tests, but Westmoreland said the standards and benchmarks are more about skills than content.

Or they say they need to prepare students for college entrance exams, but Westmoreland says those are not just about content, but about whether students can think.

Or they say it's for classroom management, and they're required to cover "everything," but Westmoreland says that's just not true.

Westmoreland said he'd come to believe that high schools should be smaller and more personal — one of the reasons Capitan High School appealed to him. He also liked the diversity of socioeconomic backgrounds of students.

He struck a chord with the staff during the committee's interview of him.

"I haven't found any strong resistance to doing things another way," he said. "I think that was just an unfortunate terminology." In fact, he said, "I sense a real commitment to do something exceptional here."

The superintendent said that when Westmoreland met the high school faculty members, he asked them to imagine that Capitan High School was going to be on the cover of Time Magazine. "What would you as a faculty want to have in the headline, the cover story and the photos?" he asked them. The faculty split up into groups and did the exercise, Miller said.

"Every cover they gave me was going to cause us to do something exceptional. I did feel a commitment from the faculty," Westmoreland said.

Personalization is one of the blessings of small schools like Capitan, with 170 students in the high school, he said, compared with Woodland, with 2,800 students.

"We believe that kids should graduate by exhibition, show they have important skills," he said. "It's a simple idea. One of the graduate requirements could be that every student would develop a digital portfolio. Part would be the student selling himself to prospective employer or university admission office, and a demonstration of work of high quality."

"We believe that every kid should be a researcher, communicator and problem solver."

Capitan High School has a way to go with technology, Westmoreland said. The T-1 (high speed) data line has bypassed Capitan, and the school will have to look at other solutions. He sees homeschooling as the biggest competition for the Capitan schools, though, because of technology in the home.

"If they're homeschooling because of Internet access to information, then schools must be much more than information-dispensing entities; they must find some value beyond having information. We're going to ask kids to apply knowledge," he said.

One of his first actions was to assign each teacher to be an advisor to about 12 students for the entire four years of their high school careers. The teachers will learn about careers and colleges and share that information with their students, which, Westmoreland said, will make them better teachers as well. He's also reducing the number of students a teacher teaches over the course of the seven-period day from 120 to about 60 this year, to facilitate the personalization he seeks.

Westmoreland finds Capitan students "very easy to work with, anxious to please and do well — that's one of our strengths."

"I really hope that when anyone has a choice (of schools), they choose Capitan," he said.

Carrizozo schools arts program expands

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

CARRIZOZO — The municipal school system here is expanding its integrated arts program for mid- and high-school students by offering a multi-cultural and multi-medium art program. This will include music, theatre, dance and art.

With the influx of new resident artisans and the establishment of galleries and shops, Carrizozo is experiencing an art renaissance. Students and residents now have more opportunities to pursue their interest in the arts.

The head of the arts and music program in the Carrizozo Schools, Jamie Gieb, has appealed to businesses in town to accept the mason jars she has fashioned for donations. She also has asked for placing of posters.

Gieb said it has been proved that children who have music training learn to read better and do better in mathematics. She added that children exposed to the arts deal better with abstract thinking, which further promotes higher-level learning skills.

A fund-raising campaign is under way to raise more money to buy equipment and materials. The school budget provides just $200 for the program, which is lacking supplies.

A campaign logo, a large letter "I" with a red dot accompanied by the letter "a," will be visible throughout the community and in business locations. Contributors will receive certificates honoring their help and donations.

To participate in planned fund-raising events, contact Jamie Gieb at 648-2346 or 648-1125.

FUNERALS DEATHS

George Creel

Graveside services for George Harris Creel, 95, of Alamogordo will be at 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 24, in the Angus Cemetery at Angus.

Mr. Creel died Sunday, Aug. 18, 2002, in Ruidoso.

He was born Aug. 22, 1906, in Range County, Texas, to Charles and Laura Creel.

He married Mattie Casey on Oct. 6, 1934, in Greenville, Texas. The following year they moved to the Hagerman-Roswell area and settled on a farm at East Grand Plains. In 1950, they moved to Alto where he owned and operated the Hi Mesa Ranch, which is now known as Alto village and Homestead Acres area. He was a school bus driver for the Ruidoso Schools, driving the Alto route for more than 15 years.

He also operated ranches in Carrizozo and Mountainair. He and his wife moved to Alamogordo in 1981 and he was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Survivors include sons Bob Creel and his wife, Susie, of Las Cruces and Prentice Creel and his wife, Cathy, of Odessa, Texas; a daughter, Barbara Radcliff of Alamogordo; sisters Ada Bench formerly of Roswell and Essie Hawkins of Dennison, Texas; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild. He was preceded in death by his wife, Mattie, in 1998, a son-in-law, Preston Radcliff, in 2001; three brothers and a sister.

The family suggests memorials to the Missionary Fund at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso, 257-7303.

Barney Roper Jr.

Graveside services for Sam "Barney" Roper Jr., 76, of Carrizozo will be from 4 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 20, at the Fort Sumner Cemetery with Ted Bailey officiating.

Mr. Roper died Saturday, Aug. 17, 2002, in Carrizozo.

He was born Sept. 19, 1925, in Nocona, Texas.

He served in the Army during World War II and was a recipient of the Purple Heart. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and was past Master of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41 and Mount Moriah Lodge No. 54 at Fort Sumner.

He was a retired school bus driver and moved to Carrizozo 37 years ago from Fort Sumner. He also was a member of the Baptist Church.

He married Lois Cones on Oct. 3, 1947, in Santa Rosa.

Survivors include his wife, Lois, of Carrizozo; a daughter, Barbara Noack, and her husband, Bill, of Lovington; sons Ray Roper and his wife, Donna, of Springtown, Texas, David Roper and his wife, Barbie, of Carrizozo, and Sammy Roper and his wife, Kim, of Carrizozo; seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to Carrizozo Masonic Lodge No. 41 or Hospice of Lincoln County.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso, 257-7303.

Edwin Andress

A memorial service for Edwin Andress, 91, of Carrizozo was Thursday, Aug. 15, at Trinity United Methodist Church in Carrizozo.

Mr. Andress died Monday, Aug. 12, 2002, in Ruidoso.

He was born Aug. 15, 1910, in Belva, Okla.

He was a member of Trinity United Methodist Church where he had served as a greeter for many years.

Survivors include his niece, Mary Lou Mamoyac, and her husband, Bob, of Rolling Meadows, Ill.

Arrangements were under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso, 257-7303.

Joy Williams

A memorial service for Joy Wheat Williams, 50, will be at 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 24, at the First Christian Church in Ruidoso, with Jim Smith officiating. A reception will follow at the church.

Mrs. Williams died Friday, Aug. 16, 2002, at her home in Alto.

She was born June 15, 1952, in Odessa, Texas.

She was raised on a family ranch near Mentone, Texas, by her parents, James and Louise Wheat. After graduating from high school in Kermit, Texas, she attended Texas Christian University and Texas Tech University where she studied music and interior design.

She lived in Lubbock, Houston and Wichita Falls, Texas, before moving to Ruidoso eight years ago.

She was a member of the First Christian Church, where she occasionally played piano and sang. She worked as a volunteer for the Disabled Skiers Program at Ski Apache, was an active supporter of the Junior Racer's Program, Boy Scouts and the Humane Society. Her favorite activities included spending time with her sons, skiing, sailing, scuba diving, traveling, cooking and making friends.

Survivors include sons Thomas and James Williams of Wichita Falls, Texas; and her mother, Louise Wheat of Roswell.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Ski Apache Disabled Skiers Association, P.O. Box 2138, Ruidoso, NM 88355, or to the Alzheimer's Association, 404 1/2 N. Kentucky, Roswell, NM 88201.

Juveniles arrested

Ruidoso police arrested three juvenile males Aug. 16 in the 100 block of George McCarty Drive after being dispatched regarding a breaking-and-entering in progress. Two juveniles, ages 16 and 14, were found at the scene, arrested and charged with breaking and entering and criminal trespass. The resident of the home, 17, was cited for possession of marijuana and released after officers found a marijuana plant in the bathroom. A search warrant had been ordered for the residence.

House broken into

An intruder broke into a residence in the 100 block of Juniper Road between 4 p.m. Aug. 11 and 5 p.m. Aug. 17, by breaking the locking mechanism on a window and prying open the window. An antique telephone was taken, a small painting moved and a partially empty Coke can was left on an end table. Replacement of the window is estimated at $300, and the value of the telephone is estimated at $500.

Bicycle found

A blue Murray Rock Canyon mountain bike was turned into the Ruidoso Police Department after being found in the 700 block of White Mountain Drive, having been left there between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m. Aug. 17.

Shoplifting bust

Police arrested a 16-year-old female Aug. 13 at Walgreen's, 138 Sudderth Drive, charging her with shoplifting a music CD priced at $17.99 and concealing her identity, after she gave the name of someone else.

Breaking, entering

Various household electrical items were taken from a residence in the 100 block of Mescalero Trail between 12:30 p.m. July 29 and noon Aug. 13. The part-time resident found the front door unsecured, and an investigation showed that unknown persons used a pry device to get the deadbolt open. The value of the household items was estimated at $167.

Burglary

Police arrested a 16-year-old male at Village Auto Sales, 1056 Mechem Drive, at 11:20 p.m. Aug. 15, charging him with two counts of burglary, possession of burglary tools and criminal damage to property after being alerted of a burglary in progress.

Two other juveniles told police he had flagged down their vehicles and attempted to talk them into helping with the heist. The youth was in the BMW he allegedly was attempting to steal.

He was referred to the Juvenile Probation Office and released to a parent.

Judge to rule whether to recuse self in Downs suit

A district judge said his court can't intervene until a decision is made.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A request for Ruidoso

Downs Municipal Judge Harrold Mansell to recuse himself from a case involving former fire chief Nick Hererra and fire fighting volunteer Jeff Ammons was sent back to Mansell for a ruling.

Judge Frank Wilson of the 12th Judicial District Court

Thursday remanded the request from attorney J. Robert Beauvais back to the judge as a necessary step before the district court can intervene.

The former fire chief is the subject of criminal prosecution in which the city of Ruidoso Downs is the alleged victim. Ammons has a federal civil rights case pending against the town and the town has a civil action pending against him.

On behalf of Ammons and Hererra, Beauvais wrote

Mansell, asking the judge to recuse himself because of prior remarks showing personal bias and because of his ties to the village.

Mansell in January ruled Beauvais had not presented the request in the correct manner or shown enough grounds for the requested action, according to information from the court.

In April, Beauvais wrote Mansell again, noting that in addition to the other claims, he now represented the judge's ex-wife in a dispute concerning a municipal election, which involved the legitimacy of Mansell's vote. He contended the judge would be biased against him as an attorney for Ammons and Herrera and should step down from hearing the case.

Mansell wrote back that Beauvais didn't present his request properly, but he didn't say how he would rule.

Beauvais filed a writ of prohibition in district court in Carrizozo. Judge Karen Parsons, who normally presides over that court, recused herself after setting a hearing.

In his ruling, which has not yet been entered in writing, Wilson pointed out that before the district court can become involved, Beauvais must formally present his grounds for recusal to Mansell and receive a ruling from the municipal judge.

If Mansell decides to recuse himself, the city can appoint an alternate judge to hear the case.

If he does not, Beauvais' request will come back to district court.

Valley of Fires open after repaving done

Valley of Fires Recreation Area, about five miles west of Carrizozo on U.S. 380, reopened this week after repaving projects were completed.

Tim Kreager, assistant manager of the Roswell office of the Bureau of Land Management, which operates the recreation area around an ancient lava flow, said the $280,000 repaving work will enhance the experience for visitors.

The recreation area was closed June 18 while WWW Construction of Ruidoso completed repaving about one mile of road, parking areas and campsite areas.

The recreation spot includes a group tent camping area, one group picnic shelter, 22 campsites suitable for recreation vehicles and 10 individual tent camping sites.

Valley of Fires is adjacent to the Malpais Lava Flow, the youngest in the United States at between 1,500 years and 2,000 years old. The flow ranges from four to six miles in width, sprawling along a 40-mile route and is 160 feet deep at its thickest point.

Stover honored for leadership

Jim Stover, probably the best known name in emergency medical services in Lincoln County, received the 2002 Leadership Award from the Injury Prevention and EMS Bureau of the state Department of Health, Public Health Division.

The award was presented at a recent state EMS conference in Albuquerque.

Stover has been director of Ruidoso EMS since 1983 and coordinates all operations and functions of the Advanced Life Support system that serves Lincoln and Otero counties, the Mescalero Apache Reservation and the Indian Health Service hospital on the reservation that abuts Ruidoso.

Stover also is responsible for a community program that provides all levels of EMS education and is chairman of the Safety Committee for the Lincoln County Medical Center. He developed the safety programs and safety policy manual to ensure a safe environment for hospital guests and employees.

Under Stover's leadership, Ruidoso EMS received the state education award and two system excellence awards for its service to the county.

County manager sent letter of concern before HEAT raid

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Before agents with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms searched the operations of an anti-terrorism and law enforcement training firm in Roswell and Arabela Wednesday, at least one query about the company was sent to the Office of Homeland Security.

Lincoln County Manager Tom Stewart, who was responsible for coordinating military operations in the Western Hemisphere in the Pentagon before moving to Alto and joining the county in October 1998, wrote a letter to Homeland Security Director Tom Ridge asking him to look into the operation.

The letter, dated June 4, noted that representatives of High Energy Access Tools talked about the company during a county commission meeting in May.

"The organization is reportedly headquartered in Vancouver, British Columbia," he told Ridge. "All sounded legitimate and the county was happy to have the organization in Lincoln County assisting in combating terrorism around the globe."

"Since the presentation, however, rumors are surfacing that the organization is actually training terrorists. The source of one of the rumors happens to be a former employee who has stated that 'nobody will listen to what I am trying to warn you about.'"

He asked Ridge to forward the information to the appropriate agency to provide "independent verification of HEAT's legitimacy."

Stewart said Monday he doesn't know if his letter had any part in prompting the search by agents with the ATF and U.S. Customs that uncovered more than 2,000 unregistered weapons.

"I don't ignore rumors and go with what my gut tells me," Stewart said.

"It's an ongoing investigation and probably 98 percent of what this corporation does is legal. We just have to ensure weapons are properly registered."

"With the events of Sept. 11, everybody should be on the lookout - not paranoid, but they should ask questions if everything doesn't seem right. There is nothing wrong with calling the authorities and if everything is all right, it will be OK. I encourage everybody to be on the alert."

Just two months ago, the company conducted an open house at its anti-terrorism training range near Arabela in Lincoln County. That occurred about a month after Frank Fish, head of security, and Mike Payne, deputy director, assured the county commission they were not training terrorists at the comound.

Fish said the people working for the privately-owned company are patriotic and wouldn't knowingly train anyone "who might come back at us."

Counter-terrorism training aims to shut down existing terrorist operations and anti-terrorism training focuses on prevention, Payne explained.

They said HEAT was founded in Casper, Wyo., in 1997 and is a nationally-known defense contractor and specialty training development company. The firm moved to the Roswell Industrial Air Center because it fit the needs of its client.

"Technological changes occur overnight," Payne said. Only private companies have the flexibility to keep up and modify training to fit new gear and approaches, he said at the commission meeting.

"Often agencies rely on manuals and don't have the budget to seek outside assistance," he said. "We train in current 'off the shelf' products and fully understand their capabilities, uses and requirements."

The closing of military bases has reduced needed terrain for different branches of the service to train their soldiers. The company can provide that land and expertise for military and law enforcement training, he said.

During that presentation, Payne assured commissioners "there will be no tanks and rockets flying around through Tinnie (a nearby settlement on U.S. 70)."

He said the Roswell Tactical Training Center, which was established a few years earlier, and the Tinnie Range Complex employ about 40 people, many retired U.S. Special Forces personnel. But Payne said more would be added if some large contracts went through. Client group sizes usually are 50 people or less, he said.

HEAT: Company president arrested for weapon, immigration violations

Roswell office and training center at 122 Will Rogers Road. Hudak was present and was arrested by Immigration and Naturalization Service agents on an immigration violation. The complaint contends he was in the United States illegally. He was charged later on the destructive devices possession charge.

In addition to finding explosives, 49 wooden crates marked "Charge Demolition" were found, the complaint states. Each box contained 48 destructive devices, described in the complaint as warheads, marked with yellow bands used by NATO to denote a high explosive, the agents wrote.

"The warheads are designed as military weapons to be used to defeat light armored vehicles and/or bunkers," according to the complaint. "These warheads would, if exploded, cause heat, blast and thermal effect that would produce fragmentation that would cause serious injury and/or death."

The devices, officially designated as M141 Bunker Defeat

Munition, were designed to be fired from the shoulder as mounted infantry weapons. They were manufactured in Mesa, Ariz., by Tally Defense and are classified as missiles, according to the complaint.

However, the wooden crates appeared to be manufactured and labeled by a company called "Something Special," and were not the original packing crates, the complaint states. The marking "Charge Demolition" on the crates is not an accurate description of the contents. That description usually refers to quantities of explosive charges such as dynamite or TNT, the agent wrote.

Also found in the search was a bill of lading dated Dec. 13, 2000, showing International Hydro Cut of North Vancouver, British Columbia, shipped 49 boxes containing "charge demolition" to HEAT in Roswell. Hudak appeared to have signed the bill of lading.

The agents discovered a magazine inventory dated Aug. 12, showing one item valued at $23,040.

The complaint also lists information from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police about Hudak, Mattoon, HEAT and International Hydro Cut Technologies. The report showed that Hudak and Hydro Cut were issued Canadian blasters permits and that Hudak is one of the company's owners. They were involved in specialized explosive technology used by Canadian and Provincial Government agencies in anti-terrorism activity.

The Canadian report stated that Hudak referred to a subsidiary company called HEAT with an office in Casper, Wyo., and a training site in New Mexico. Hudak, owner of Hydro Cut, said his company provides tactical explosive devices used by international police emergency response teams, as well as anti-terrorism units. His company also is involved in tactical entries of aircrafts.

According to the complaint, Hudak pleaded guilty in Canada to possession of a prohibited weapon and careless handling and storage of a firearm, and received probation and a conditional discharge.

The two agents wrote that after researching four licenses issued to Hudak, they "do not include those necessary to possess or manufacture 'destructive devices.'"

TOWER: P&Z votes against 70-foot structure

ural terrain?"

But when it came time for a vote, Barrow sided with member Teri Sodd against the project, while members Frank Higgins and Phillis Barnett favored it with provisions.

The provisions included minimizing visual impacts by painting everything green, if necessary; by performing maintenance such as mowing on a set schedule; and by posting a bond to ensure immediate removal if the tower becomes unused.

Higgins wanted to limit the height of the tower to 70 feet, but relented when Charles Rennick, attorney to the board, pointed out that requirement would eliminate an option for the board if future requests are received from other companies to co-locate on the tower. Without the ability to raise the height to accommodate more receivers and signals, the board might end up approving more towers. This way, the board can decide if several shorter towers are better than one taller tower, he said, assuring members that future requests would have to come to the board.

Earlier in the meeting, Chris Basista, a consultant for Verizon with Romano and Associates LLC, emphasized that the tower would not be in addition to those existing. It would replace a tower on Whitlock street behind the Radio Shack business off Sudderth Drive, a much more visible 125-foot high structure. The new tower would be 70 feet and would only extend slightly over the tops of the trees, he said.

He explained using a map that the topography of Ruidoso is difficult to cover with cellular signals and that only a few locations are high enough to accommodate line-of-sight signals.

"Verizon looked at all the surrounding area for feasibility, but unfortunately, topography in Ruidoso plays a big role," he said. All the available commercial property is too low. The company could add more height to the tower on Whitlock to try to enhance that tower's performance. But from the start, the company knew that site wouldn't serve well and it was considered temporary, he said.

Byron Hendrix, a systems engineer with Verizon, said other wireless providers were contacted, but had no space available on their towers or were unwilling to tell Verizon where they planned future towers. The company waited to apply for the Squaw Valley site until the ETZ firm up its rules, he said.

Each cellular site costs about $750,000 to develop. This new site would cover a significantly larger area, but still might not eliminate all dead spots, depending on the density of trees, the weather and other factors, Hendrix said. Generally, Verizon customers should be able to use their telephones inside buildings downtown, if the new tower is approved, he said. It should not interfere with other dish receptors, he said.

But commission members worried that approving one tower would open the door for many more on the mountain.

Mescalero police receive funding

The Mescalero Apache Tribe received a $51,975 grant for equipment and training from the U.S. Justice Department.

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici confirmed that 10 New Mexico tribal law enforcement department received more than $3.4 million to buy equipment, hire more officers and train them.

The money is provided through the department's Community Oriented Policing Services Tribal Resources Grant Program.

"This federal investment is geared toward boosting tribal communities' efforts to reduce crime and violence," Domenici said.

The two largest grants went to the Zuni Pueblo at $915,156 and the Acoma Police Department at $716,955.

It's official, AB What A Runner is fastest

BY KRISTIAN LOVELACE
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

AB What A Runner's track record for 440 yards of 20.99 stood through the final trials for the All American Futurity Thursday and gave the filly the top time in the finals, to be run Sept. 2 at Ruidoso Downs.

The previous record was held by Truckle Feature, who had run the 440-yard length in 21.02 back in 1973.

AB What A Runner won the race a length and a quarter ahead of Silvered Eyes, who also qualified and posted a speed index of 108 for trainer Bret N. Vickery and owners Dennis & Kris Hill.

Silvered Eyes, with jockey Jacky Martin aboard, qualified in the time of 21.194 for trainer Jack W. Brooks and owner Don R. Hill.

The connections of Lin Melton and Dutch Masters III qualified two horses into the finals with Flys R Streakin and supplement Meteoric in the times of 21.209 and 21.262 respectively.

Both trainers John Bassett, last year's All American winner, and Dwayne Gilbreath qualified two horses apiece.

Bassett, with jockey Joe Badilla, qualified First To Flash and First Place Queen. First To Flash, Rainbow Futurity winner, qualified in the time of 21.132 for owners First To Flash Partners. First Place Queen qualified in the time of 21.316 for owners Newcomb Cattle Co.

Gilbreath and jockey Roy Baldillez qualified Andthebeatgoeson and The Down Side in the times of 21.323 and 21.336 respectively. Andthebeatgoeson is owned by Terry K. Wood.

Rounding out the qualifying list is Special Red Warrior and Eye Opening Episode both ridden by Juan Vasquez. Special Red Warrior qualified in the time of 21.205 for trainer Joe M. Garza and owner Severino Gonzalez. Eye Opening Episode qualified in the time of 21.418 for trainer Jose L. Dominguez and owner Sandra L. Erwin.

Famous owner

The Down Side is owned by not one, but two prominent names. Ruidoso Downs co-owner R.D. Hubbard is entered into a partnership with John Jones and country music artist Tby Keith for the All American qualifier.

"This was Tby Keith's first quarter horse, he has been in the Thoroughbred business some time and I talked him into buying some quarter horses," Hubbard said. "We are pleased to qualify and hope to have some success and buy more."

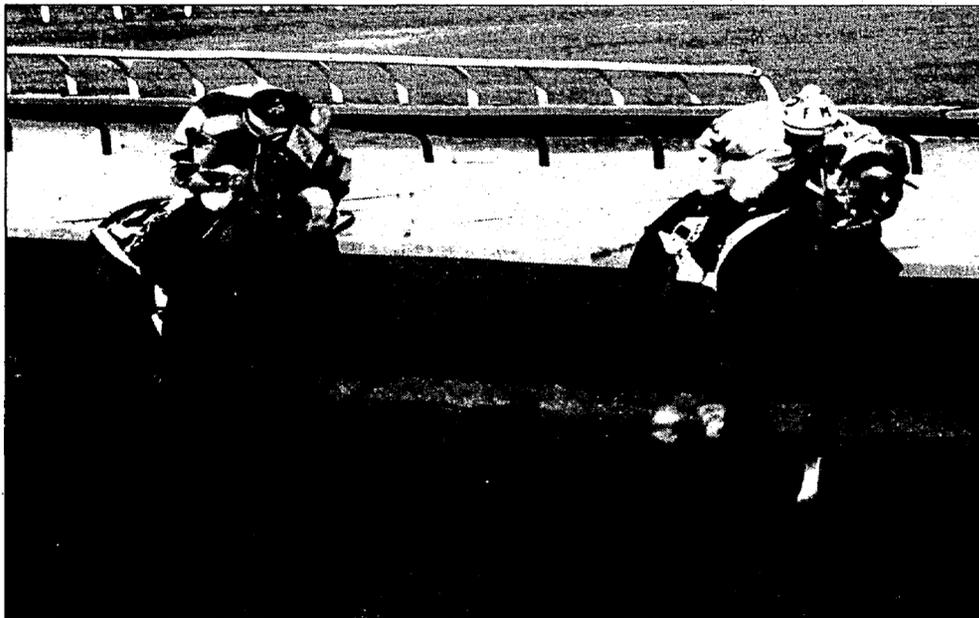

Keith, who performed at Ruidoso Downs in July, bought The Down Side with his partners at last year's All American Super Select Sale for $47,000.

"Tby told me that if wins the All American Futurity, he's going to sell all of his Thoroughbreds and buy quarter horses," Hubbard said.

All American Derby

Tres Seis ran second in the Rainbow Derby but was on top of his game Friday, qualifying for the All American Derby in the time of 21.485 for trainer John Bassett, owner Eaves Horse Family and jockey Jose Badilla.

All American Futurity legend trainer Jack W. Brooks qualified Friday 123 and Dashin Prince Henry in the times of 21.687 and

TODD FUQUA/STAFF

Bourbonstreetchick, left, with Christopher Zamora aboard, outduels Cowboy Copas for a win in the Clovis Classic Futurity Sunday at Ruidoso Downs.

21.696 respectively. Friday 123, ridden by Jerry Yoakum, qualified for owner T. Bill Stables. Dashin Prince Henry, ridden by Jacky Martin, qualified for owner Jim D. Pitts.

Yoakum also qualified First Down dandy in the time of 21.676 for trainer Roy Marcom and owner Molly B. Morris.

Genuine Strawfly, Ruidoso Derby winner, qualified in the time of 21.620 for trainer Carl Draper and owners Ray Willis Joyce McBride and Elmer Criswell.

Gale to serve as parade grand marshal

EL PASO, Texas — Ruidoso native Tristan Gale is the grand marshal for the Las Palmas Del Sol Sun Bowl Parade on Thanksgiving Day, it was announced at a news conference today by Sun Bowl Association President Louis Zuniga.

Gale won a gold medal in the skeleton event at the 2002 Olympic Winter Games in Salt Lake City, and has been a member of the Skeleton National Team for four years. At 18 years old, she was the youngest member selected for the team. She has become one of the nation's top skeleton sliders in a short time, and she competed internationally in preparation for the 2002 games.

The 2001 America's Cup Champion, Gale finished the 2000 and 2001 seasons ranked first and fourth in the United States, respectively. She won three of four races at the Olympic trials, securing a spot on the 2002 Olympic Team.

"We are honored to have an Olympic gold medalist as the grand marshal of the Las Palmas Del Sol Sun Bowl Parade," said Joe Daubach, Sun Bowl Association Special Events Director. "Tristan is an outstanding representative of not only the southwest, but of the United States as well. She will definitely add to the spirited ambience of the parade."

The 66th Las Palmas Del Sol Sun Bowl Parade is Nov. 28 at 10 a.m.

Misfits prove to be a nemesis to local teams

There were only four local teams in the recreational division of the Mountain Double Up tournament this past weekend at the Eagle Creek Complex, and three of them all met their demise at the hands of the same team.

The Homies, Emdors, Co-Nads and Bad News all took part in the co-ed softball tournament, and all but one fell to the Misfits of Alamogordo in the losers bracket. The only team that didn't lose to the Misfits were the Co-Nads, who lost to the Homies.

The Emdors found themselves immediately in the losers bracket following a loss to 12-Pack of Portales in their opening game on Saturday, then lost to the Misfits later that night.

The Misfits later faced Bad News. The Mescalero team had defeated F-A-M of Albuquerque in their opening game, but then lost to the Deming Giants, dropping them into the losers bracket. Bad News was then eliminated by the Misfits.

The Co-Nads won their first game, beating Team Lazy of Lovington, but then fell to eventual champion Who Cares of Deming. In the losers bracket, they then lost to Homies of Mescalero. The Homies had lost their opening game to Artesia Family Fitness.

The Misfits later finished off the Homies, then defeated Whatever of Lovington, only to fall to the Giants. The Giants later lost to the Wild Bunch of Clovis, who in turn lost in the championship game to Who Cares.

There's a winner in each race, part 2

(Editor's note: This is the second in a two-part series.)

After Skooter Drone's bad experience in the mud on his last outing at Ruidoso Downs, followed by the big gray gelding coughing blood, trainer Steve Farris wonders when his horse is going to have that kind of racing luck where conditions are favorable and the racing gods keep their harpoons sheathed.

But Skooter's third outing for Farris is doomed from the start when a huge thunderstorm hits the track with such fury that racing is halted for half an hour. When the clouds clear, what is left is an oval of mud for the grounds crew to struggle with. Miraculously, they make it a racetrack again, but it is far from fast.

"I should probably scratch him," Farris says, recalling Skooter's last trip in the mud. "But he's been improving so well."

If workouts mean anything, Skooter has indeed been making steady progress, from a 41/0 for three furlongs on June 9, his first workout for Farris; to 39/3 on July 4;

DOWNS: Tres Seis is fastest in All American Derby trials, Bourbonstreechick wins Clovis Futurity

Its Called Splash, ridden by Juan Vasquez, qualified in the time of 21.525 for owner SMS Racing and trainer Tony Sedillo. A Real Man and Oxygen qualified out of the sixth race in the times of 21.623 and 21.656 respectively. A Real Man, ridden by Larry Payne, is conditioned by Eddie Willis and owned by Bill Price. Oxygen, with jockey Jerry Rodriguez aboard, qualified for trainer Lin Melton and owner Dutch Masters III. Rounding out the qualifying list is Moonshine Six and Don't Dink With Me. Moonshine Six, with jockey Roy Baldillez, qualified in the time of 21.690 for trainer Dwayne Gilbreath and owner Jerry Vaughn, Whittle, Don't Dink With Me and jockey Alex Bautista qualified in the time of 21.696 for trainer Scott Willoughby and owner Loretta Loeb. Clovis Classic Futurity With eight horses qualified for the Clovis Classic Futurity, it seemed like an easy win for trainer Blane Wood, but luck was not on his side Sunday as Bourbonstreechick won the race by a neck over Cowboy Copas. Bourbonstreechick, with jockey Christopher Zamora, was the fastest qualifier in the trials with the time of 17.60 seconds. Sunday the gray filly won the race in the time of 17.637. Bourbonstreechick is conditioned by trainer Jaime Zamora and owned by BLM, Racing.

Jockey Christopher Zamora knew going into the trials what kind of horse he had and told wife and trainer Jaime Zamora that the horse was going to qualify and be the fastest qualifier. "Chris told us before the trials we were going to qualify and we were going to have the fastest time. I told him no, that was the kiss of death," Jamie Zamora said. "We laughed about it and it was just funny when she did qualify the way he said. I am glad that she won the race." Cowboy Copas was the only horse to challenge the winner throughout the race. "I was glad for the competition on the inside because it kept her (Bourbonstreechick) focused," Jaime Zamora said. Wood came in second with Cowboy Copas with jockey Freddie Martinez aboard. Cowboy Copas came in second a length and a quarter over third place finisher Miraculous Kid. Bourbonstreechick and Cowboy Copas broke from the inside and were able to escape the bumping from the middle of the track. Sunday's earnings of $29,962 in the $59,922 Clovis Classic Futurity brings Bourbonstreechick's lifetime earnings to $41,670. Bourbonstreechick will go to Farmington where she will run in the Farmington Futurity trials. Bourbonstreechick paid $5.60 to win, $3.60 to place, and $2.80 to show. Cowboy Copas paid $8 to place and $4.40 to show. The exacta paid $124, the quinnella $26.60 and Miraculous Kid rounds out the $83.90 trifecta. New Track Record Rare Eye Opener, running in the 10th race on Saturday, set a new Ruidoso Downs track record at 250 yards, covering the distance in the time of 13.11. Ridden by Tim Williams, Rare Eye Opener broke from post position nine and sprinted down the lane to victory Saturday for trainer Jim Brock and owner Bennie and Teresa Jeter of Arlington, Texas. The previous track record was held by Three Runs set in 1995. Rare Eye Opener broke on top and made a wire-to-wire win ahead of In Overdrive. The top eight finishers in the race all posted a speed index of 100 or greater with Rare Eye Opener turning in a speed index of 109.

LARUE: Skooter Drone still searching for win to 37/2 on July 26; to a very respectable 36/4 on Aug. 4 (all breezing, all fast track). Farris has had Skooter scoped again since his last race and everything looks all right. He's also added a tongue-tie, which holds the horse's tongue down and prevents him from swallowing it. Farris believes that this equipment change contributed to the fine workout five days ago. Skooter is also eating better. When Farris first got him, Skooter barely touched his food after working. Now, with his appetite normal, he's put on muscle and his eye is clear and bright. He's approaching top condition and Farris wants to race him. "I probably should scratch him," Farris says again. But the totem hippo and the brass pig are out and he is busy brushing the checkerboard design into Skooter's rump. "Hi, Doc," Farris calls to the track veterinarian on his way to the paddock. "See you after the race." Farris does this ritualistically because to see the vet after the race would be for the obligatory examination the vet gives to a winner. Skooter handles the sloppy track better this time and finishes fifth in a field of nine for six furlongs. "I think he ran a big race," Farris says. "I'm proud of him. He never quit and seemed to be getting stronger in the stretch." Then he adds, "But all that mud and those big feet. We could sure use a break in the weather." The break in the weather comes eight days later. The track is fast and Skooter starts well in a five-furlong sprint. He's cruising off the pace at the three-eighths pole when a horse to the outside lugs in and nearly causes a five-horse wreck. Harla Webb, Skooter's rider, has to draw him up sharply and his race is over. He finishes seventh. Skooter arrives back at his stall barely winded. "He hardly got a workout," Farris says. "This horse just can't catch a break. First the mud and now a near-wreck. They just ran over him and it was all over. This horse gets no luck." Stephen Halladay, one of Skooter's owners, says, "Learning to lose together, that's partners. Winning will be sweet." But the loss has hit Farris hard. "I know things could be worse," he says. "But all the work, and how far we've come. People don't understand how tough this business is. You win a race, you'd better enjoy it. It makes a man want to cry." He studies a water bucket at his feet for a long time. Then he turns to the big gray horse and says what all good horsemen who have endured the racing gods' disfavor say: "I'm not gonna give up on you."

Mescalero football coach has a winning vision for his team.

BY MELODY HAYES
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Rodney Wright knows that a head coach usually gets all the glory. But since he is a team player, he absolutely will not take credit for anything himself. He gives credit to the whole cast of players that have stood in the wings, assisting the Mescalero Chiefs through the drastic change from playing six-man to 11-man football.

Varsity coaches Harry Vasile and Mike Torres, and the junior high coach Lynn Hanks and his assistant, Alan Kirgan, deserve credit too, Wright says.

"A head coach can only be as good as the staff around him," Wright explained, expounding at length about how wonderful his staff is and how well everyone works together. "They help me, guide me, and give me strength."

Wright began his football career as a quarterback at Ruidoso High School during the 1984-1987 seasons, playing for a team that won the 1985 state championship. He was coached by current Artesia head coach Cooper Henderson, a man whom Wright feels "does it better than anyone else. I learned from him about football, and how to treat the players."

ment was in Artesia, where he stayed for over six years. Then after a brief hiatus, he was Mescalero-bound in 2001. This is Wright's second season as a Chief.

Roland Bradford, Mescalero's previous coach and current athletic director, laid a good foundation onto which Wright feels he can build.

"I came in with a fresh program, but the foundation was there," Wright said. "The kids have responded really well."

Mescalero is a young but experienced team that has been "playing together since seventh grade," Wright said, "with only two seniors on the team." He feels they have plenty of experience.

Wright will not say anything about individual players. It is his feeling that it "takes an entire team to win a football game. There are no individuals here, everyone works as a team, and their actions will speak for themselves." He does confess that there are "11 returning starters that will be the core of the team," and they "will fill positions on both sides of the ball."

Football restricting has affected Mescalero in a big way, and Wright says the kids are "excited about the change to 11-man football."

"To play six-man takes a lot of speed, and only four or five kids. Last year we had 30 kids on varsity which meant 24 of them were sitting on the sidelines," he added.

That just isn't what this coach envisions. He wants a schedule that will see more kids involved, and wants each of them to feel they have "a staked claim in whatever we're doing."

His No. 1 goal for the team is to win the state championships, but because of the change from six-man to 11-man, Mescalero is not eligible for post-season play.

"The count year was 2000. That's when we had to choose either six, or eleven, and we stayed at six," Wright explained. "Last November we made the decision on our own to play 11-man. The 11-man setup allows greater participation, so that's a step in the right direction."

Mescalero had a struggling team for years. Although they had some very good players and excellent coaches in the past, they had never experienced the thrill of winning.

That is, until the last game of the 2000 season.

That was when Mescalero won their first game ever, and that taste of winning carried over to 2001 when the team was very competitive.

"Given a few breaks we could have easily had a 5-3 season," Wright lamented.

But that record was not to be, as the season ended with two wins and six losses. Wright was not discouraged and added, "We never gave up, because even in losing, you learn lessons."

Wright's philosophy is that the best way for any team to learn what's expected of them is by doing. Since June 24, more than 25 young men have showed up each day for practice to study these his new expectations.

They have been enthusiastically working all summer, doing lots of repetitions of drills, and getting lots of throwing and catching practice. Wright wants them to learn and execute the offense, a spread offense with four receivers and a single back.

Wright says he knows that folks will be watching for him to "throw the ball quite a bit, because that's what they did in Artesia." He will not comment on whether this is true.

Specifically, Wright wants his team to learn and execute the 4-3 defense, with four down linemen, three linebackers and zone coverage behind.

"It's really a read and react defense, one that relies on proper technique and basic fundamentals, like stepping with the correct foot and making the correct read," Wright said. "Every player has keys they react to. So the defense, more than anything, will drill repeatedly the keys to watch for, so that it becomes a habit to react to what they see."

Wright is also a seventh grade history teacher at Mescalero, and is very concerned that academic studies come first.

"Education is number one, they have to go to class," Wright said. In addition, he wants them to retain the things they learn on the football field. He knows they will "look back at some point in their lives and take something they learned through football and apply it. We teach life skills — like getting going when things get tough, being on time, and working as a team."

Wright does, however, have a few tricks up his sleeve, and will not divulge his individual goals for the offense, the defense, or special teams. The only thing he will say is that the team will be very competitive and they will get out there and try to win every game.

And he can't wait for Friday. The scrimmage takes place in Capitan at 6 p.m. Mescalero will face Capitan, Dexter, and Cloudcroft.

Fishing report for Ruidoso area, Aug. 21, 2002

Ruidoso River: The Ruidoso River has a new bag limit as of April 1. In the past a five fish limit was in effect. The new limit is three fish, a good move by the NMGF Department to help conservation and a quality fishery. The river has caught some water thanks to recent rains. This past week 936 hungry rainbows were stocked. The village added a few more with their supplemental stocking program. Fishing pressure has been high, but many fish remain.

Concentrate efforts between Gavilan Canyon bridge and the Chamber of Commerce building. In this stretch of water you should find a fair amount of fish. Toss Pheasant tail nymphs, Bead Head Prince Nymphs or a Copper John. Tie a Parachute Adams or Hummy dry fly on as a lead fly, then tie a nymph dropper about 12-18 inches behind. Use the lead fly as your strike indicator. This is an effective and fun way to fish small waters. Large Stoneflys have been found by local fisherman. If you have a few Stones with you, it would not hurt to toss a few and see if they fish are hungry. Remember to always wear eye protection.

South Fork: Closed due to fire hazard.
Bonito Lake: The lake is off color, but the fish don't seem to mind. Reports were that damsel nymphs were catching fish. Try a dark Hendrickson on top with a small nymph dropper late in the day.

Eagle Lakes: Eagle Lakes are open for the season. Lots of shore line weeds, but lots of hungry fish. Great place for teaching kids or beginners alike. Damsel fly nymphs were the hot ticket this past week. Fish 'em 12 to 18 inches under a dry fly indicator. Wear long pants and shirts and use bug dope, it's deer fly season.

Grindstone: The lake received more than 4,000 rainbows this past week. Woolly Buggers, Zonkers and Streamers fished fairly deep have produced fish the past weeks. For spin casters, tie on a propeller fly behind a bubble rig and enjoy catching fish with a fly. The hot ticket for propeller flies has been purple or hot pink.

The lake is once again open to non-motorized craft. Dig out your float tube, air it up and go fishing.

Please remember to squeeze the barb's down on all hooks; this will reduce injury to any fish caught and returned to the water.

Please, if you pack it in, pack it out. Litter continues to plague the area lakes and streams.
Lake Mescalero: The lake level is great. Dark woolly buggers continue to take fish late in the day. A few folks have been successful with Parachute Adams, Mosquito, or Hendrickson patterns and casting to rising fish. Several reports the past day or so state that damsel fly nymphs are starting to come off in the afternoons. Remember to get your day pass at the front desk.

Please practice catch and release wherever and whenever you can.

TEN MINUTES DECIDING WHETHER OR NOT TO GO TO THE NEAREST EMERGENCY ROOM COULD LEAVE YOU WITH NO CHOICE AT ALL.

At the first symptom of a heart attack, every minute that passes reduces your chances of survival by 10%. That's why, even if you experience mild symptoms like nausea, dizziness or unexplained fatigue, you should go to the ER as fast as possible. If it's treated soon enough, a heart problem can usually be kept from doing irreparable damage to your body. At ENMMC, we offer a wide range of services for the prevention, diagnosis and rehab of cardiac problems. Our sophisticated technology helps pinpoint cardiac problems, leading to the most appropriate treatment, and our four cardiologists are top-notch: Michael McGuire, M.D., Fundador Adajar, M.D., Hamid Feroze, M.D., and Zoltan Toth, M.D. Choose ENMMC for your cardiac health. It could be the most important choice you ever make.

POOP SCOOP BY DIANNE STALLINGS. RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER. Some cats talk too much. At least that's what some owners say. The authors of the Humane Society of the United States' 'Complete Guide to Cat Care' explore that thought in a section dealing with cat vocalizations. They advise that if the talking becomes too annoying or frustrating because you can't figure out what the cat wants, first schedule a visit with a veterinarian to rule out illness. Give the cat time to adjust to changes in his life and eliminate stress in his environment that may be upsetting him, they write. 'Be fair, too,' they write. 'Are you being unreasonable to expect a naturally gregarious, friendly animal to remain as silent as a potted plant? Listen to your cat. He might be trying to tell you something very important like I love you or the basement is on fire.' But if you want to cut down on the vocalization, they advise ignoring the cat and to be consistent. 'This may be very difficult, especially at first. Even by responding negatively - yelling for example - you're offering him attention and thus, inadvertently rewarding the unwanted behavior,' they write. 'When he's quiet, reward him with treats, attention, cuddling and play.' Purring, on the other hand, is almost always welcomed. The authors call it the quintessential music of the cat. A purr indicates an overflow of any emotion, they write. 'Badly injured and dying cats often purr,' they said. 'A cat about to give birth accompanies her labor with continuous, powerful, rhythmic purrs. When her kittens are about two days old, they spontaneously begin to purr themselves, helping orient themselves in the group and as a signal to the mother cat that milk is flowing and all is well.' As they grow, the first kitten to the nipple often calls his siblings with a loud 'dinner-gong' purr, the authors write. They say purring also can indicate appeasement by a subordinate cat toward a dominant one. It reduces the chance of attack and distracts the aggressor. A female cat may purr during a stress-filled ritual of courtship and mating, they write. No matter why cats purr, research shows that stroking a purring cat can lower a person's blood pressure and pulse rate, and increase their sense of peace and well-being. The book, which is published by St. Martin's Press, sells for $27.95. Written by Wendy Christensen and the HSUS staff, it contains 320 pages of interesting facts, advice and cautions about cats and cat ownership. Some of the other chapters dealt with how to train a cat, cats and children, and health and feeding.
