Downs chief doubts water plant costs

Waters asks for more sludge recycling

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The budget for the regional wastewater treatment plant shared by the municipalities of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs is bloated and should be cut by 31 percent, says Ruidoso Downs city manager John Waters.

He also objected Monday during a special joint board meeting to efforts by Ruidoso officials to increase the proportionate share of expenses assigned to Ruidoso Downs from 15 percent to 20 percent without supporting data or input from his city council.

An obviously irritated Lorri McKnight, Ruidoso village manager, suggested that instead of trying to answer Waters' major points of criticism on the spot, the two should meet along with wastewater plant director John Ramos, the village attorney and Cleatus Richards, village deputy manager for operations. They can report back to the Joint Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant Board at another special meeting, if necessary. The board's regular meeting Thursday was canceled.

Waters said he came up with suggested cuts in the budget after comparing the regional operation with similar plants in Carlsbad, Hobbs and Aztec that serve larger populations. The ages of the plants and upgrades are in line, he said.

Staffing, salaries and capital outlay don't seem to be the problem, Waters said, but the $342,000 operating budget is much too high, he said, comparing that figure to Carlsbad at $281,000. The cost per thousand gallons equates to $1.68 at the regional plant compared to

Councilors not too worried in early budget meet

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Village revenues remain healthy and although some cuts may be necessary, councilors were feeling pretty relaxed about the 2003-2004 budget process at the first workshop Monday.

A second session was scheduled for Tuesday evening when more specific dollar figures were to be reviewed for the $28.8 million budget, including a substitute for employee raises in line with what the council approved last year.

Instead of a straight salary increase, which would entail hikes in other associated benefits and social security payments, the council will look at contributing an additional 2.4 percent to each employee's state retirement plan.

However, all positions also are evaluated every other year against similar positions in other municipalities, village manager Lorri McKnight said. Proposed increases for some jobs will be suggested to maintain appropriate salary ranges, she said.

She also reviewed sources of additional income open to the village such as a special .25 percent municipal capital outlay gross receipts tax that requires voter approval. The village already has maxed out on an allowed environmental GRT, and has used the first .125 percent on an infrastructure GRT. To use the second half would require an election. The village also imposed the maximum 1.25 percent municipal GRT with .50 percent dedicated to the airport, generating about $949,000 annually, and .75 percent to the general fund, generating nearly $1.47 million per year.

The overall gross receipt tax refunded back to the village by the state for 2003-2004 is projected at $7.4 million, based on a June 30, 2003, re-estimate of the original 2002-2003 budget of $7 million, upped to $7.29 million.

Property tax in the general fund is projected to increase by 4 percent, with an estimated rate of 4.539 mills for residential property and 5.882 mills for non-residential. The maximum rate that can be imposed by the municipality is 7.65 mills on both categories. The village historically collects 93 percent of taxes owed, McKnight said.

Lodgers tax is projected at $750,000. The re-estimate this year was "very high because of a one-time, additional payment received on a large delinquent balance, the manager said.

Smaller impacts include a proposal to increase library fines from 5 cents to 10 cents per day, upping revenue projections there from $4,500 to $5,700.

A rental rate increase for the senior center also is proposed from $25 to $100 with the inclusion of a cleaning deposit.

While village revenues are projected at $24.77 million and expenses at $28.83

Hedin dismissed after hearing; plans to appeal

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

SANDY SUGGITT/STAFF

The key witness for the administration in the discharge case against Eddie Hedin, coach, teacher and trainer, was Gayla Stanaland, cheerleading coach and teacher, shown above at night during cross examination by Hedin's attorney.

The Ruidoso School Board voted May 2 to uphold the superintendent's recommendation to discharge high school coach, trainer and teacher Eddie Hedin, who decided to appeal the decision with arbitration.

The causes for discharge centered around alleged misconduct by the 24-year teacher on March 5 in being "partially clothed in the school therapy tub with a partially nude minor student."

The open hearing involved almost 14 hours of testimony from six witnesses and the reading of one deposition for the administration and six witnesses for Hedin May 1 and 2.

"We were very surprised and very disappointed," said Calvin Hyer, Hedin's attorney. "We felt it was very unfair."

School board secretary Danny Sisson said the board's deliberation after the testimony was "very difficult, very stressful and very emotional. Nobody won in this deal. There was a lot of deliberation."

The attorney for the school board, Frank Albetta of Santa Fe, was the hearing officer and will serve as the attorney for the school administration in the arbitration. Hyer said he expected to know within a week or 10 days when that will be, and scheduling will depend upon when an arbitrator and the two attorneys are available.

Hedin was served with a notice of intent to discharge him on March 6 after cheerleading coach Gayla Stanaland walked into the training room to tape up a cheerleader and found Hedin and the high school student standing in the therapy tub, according to her testimony. She said the student was wearing a tank top with a sports bra under-

Fire danger boosted to 'very high'

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

The fire danger rating for the Lincoln National Forest was raised to very high Monday as high winds and lack of precipitation continued to dry out vegetation and increase the danger of wild fire.

This is the first hike since mid-March when the rating was elevated to high.

John Kennedy, assistant fire management officer for the Smokey Bear Ranger District, explained previously that the level is determined based on trends, not day-by-day changes in the weather.

"What we look at is the energy release component," he said. "We get that from a local weather station at the ranger station. We can download from it and when the ERC gets to a certain level for five consecutive days, that determines if we bump the danger up or down."

The ERC measures the volatility of the fuels for wild fire in the forest, he said.

"As it gets hotter and dryer, the fuels are more inclined to combust," Kennedy said. Some of the factors considered are precipitation, humidity and moisture in the plant material, called the fuel moisture content.

With brisk spring winds, a storm can deliver a day of precipitation, but the gusts that follow can suck all of that moisture out of the trees within hours or a day or two, he said. Although some forecasts predicted rain last week, none materialized. The wind remained unrelenting over the weekend.

Governor to speak in village, Carrizozo on Friday swing

Gov. Bill Richardson, on a "town meeting" swing through southern New Mexico, will spend Thursday night in Ruidoso and make a public address at the Ruidoso Senior Center Friday about projects funded by the Legislature, including $450,000 for a new main fire station to be built adjacent to School House Park.

The outdoor address will be at 8:30 a.m., and the public is invited, according to Don Dutton, who coordinated Richardson's county campaign. Dutton now is on the state Gaming Control Board.

After the address and a radio interview, the governor will go to Carrizozo for a speech at the municipal building at 11 a.m.

Sheriff defends budget increase to county commissioners

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Looking at a $43,755 proposed increase in the Lincoln County Sheriff's budget and a request for matching money for two new deputies, County Commissioner Earl Hobbs called the department overstuffed and overbudgeted.

"I'm not attacking you," he told Sheriff Tom Sullivan Friday during a budget workshop. "I'm giving you my point of view. You have a job to do. I'm sitting as one of five who make decisions on the county budget. I do that on the things I see. I'm asking for your justification so maybe I'll change my mind. Maybe I won't."

An irritated Sullivan asked the commissioner how many deputies he thought the department needs to cover a 5,000-square mile county when State Police use only skeleton crews, there are piles of civil process and other legal documents to be served and "your friends are bitching about speeding on Fort Stanton Road."

Monday, Sullivan still was fuming. "He kind of blindsided me when he threw up his hands and said he couldn't believe my budget," the sheriff said. "I've been sheriff 11 years and Earl Hobbs has been a commissioner for four months. For him to say I'm overstuffed without coming to the office and talking to me is an insult to my integrity."

"Obviously, he's not familiar with what's going on." Sullivan disagreed with Hobbs' remark that the assessor's office was the most important county department.

"Each elected office has its own responsibilities," the sheriff said. "No one is more important than the others. I think that's an irresponsible statement."

If Hobbs checked around the state he would find that in each county, the sheriff's budget is one of the largest, Sullivan said. His request for 2003-2004 sits at $1,428,538. The sheriff said the Ruidoso Police Department employs 26 officers and operates on a larger budget.

His budget numbers aren't just plucked from the air, he said, adding that his staff goes over each line item with the county manager.

During the budget workshop, Hobbs repeatedly emphasized he was not attacking the sheriff personally and that he might be persuaded with more information.

"I don't blame you for taking it personally," he told Sullivan. "That department is a part of you. I understand that."

County manager Tom Stewart recommended that commissioners not approve $20,784 as the county's participation in a FAST Cops program that would add two deputies to Sullivan's roster of 15 full-time deputies (listed in the budget), three part-time transport officers, seven full-time dispatchers and two part-time dispatchers.

Hobbs said he would like to see some services centralized for efficiency, such as dispatch.

Sullivan said he's open-minded on possibly combining dispatch with

Ruidoso, but "to cut deputies is a deficiency and disservice to the people of the county."

When trials and hearings flood his office with subpoenas to serve, the officers designated for that service are overwhelmed and deputies must be called in to help, he said.

Commissioner Leo Martinez pointed out that four of the five municipalities in the county have their own police departments and the rest of the county is sparsely populated. Besides deputies, state police officers circulate. Adding all of the officers together, "This must be one of the safest counties in New Mexico," he said.

Sullivan countered that during tourist seasons, the county's population can swell to 100,000 on any weekend.

SCHOOL: Coach fired for alleged improper conduct

neath, although a male student who had been in the training room some time before with several other students identified a white T-shirt and two-piece bathing suit as having been worn by the female student.

Stanaland then told two cheerleading students what she said she'd seen, and they went to look through the window in the door, according to testimony by all three. The deposition of one of the cheerleaders was read at the hearing, while the other testified that they had seen the female student in the tub wearing underwear.

One of the other official charges against Hedin was "insubordination in that you disregarded specific direction of your supervisor to avoid being alone with a particular female student." High school principal Paul Wirth testified that he had told Hedin on three occasions during the school year to avoid being alone with the student in question, and that Hedin had told him she was a friend of the family and her parent was often not home. Hedin testified that Wirth had never told him not to be alone with this student. Both said nothing was documented.

The third cause for discharge was that Hedin allegedly gave a false account of the facts during the investigation, saying that the student was sitting on the edge of the tub, contrary to the Stanaland's statement that she was in the tub. Hedin testified that she was sitting on the side of the tub and that he never said she was standing. The fourth cause was that Hedin's alleged "improper relationship with the minor female student has become known among students, precluding your continued status as a credible role model for students."

Finally, Hedin was charged with insubordination after being served with administrative leave by disregarding directions not to go onto the campus and not to contact Ruidoso High School students.

Gladden testified that Activities Director Ron Wall told him Hedin had requested permission to attend his son's Individual Education Plan scheduled for March 6, and Hedin later testified that that was why he was on campus.

Hyer said the directive not to contact students does not mean not to talk to students. Hedin testified that the student ran out of class to talk to him about a matter relating to an upcoming track meet, and he told her he couldn't talk.

The student in question testified that Hedin took her home from school during ski season because her mother did not get off work until late, and that Hedin was to give her a ride home because her mother was in El Paso, Texas.

She named several students who were in the training room off and on before and after Hedin arrived, and "the coach got in the pool and I got out because it was hot; I sat on the side with just my feet in," she said, adding that he was facing the wall and she didn't think he saw the other two students leave.

"The coach was sitting with his sore shoulder in the water ... and I saw (Stanaland) walk through the door and take two steps in," the student said. Asked if she needed to be protected from him, she said no. Hedin said later that he had a rotator cuff tear for which he had been receiving treatment and that he had gone into the therapy tub March 5 to soak his shoulder.

The student's mother then testified that she met the Hedins when her daughter was in the seventh grade when he was one of her track coaches. She added that she got to know the Hedins, and both she and her daughter were frequently at the Hedins'.

"I didn't have a problem with any of it," she said of the incident at the school therapy tub.

PLANT: Wastewater treatment budget upsets Downs city manager

$1.20 in Carlsbad, $1.10 in Hobbs and $1.36 in Aztec, he said.

In looking at expenses, vehicle operation costs are high, as are professional services and telephone and communications. But the two categories that hit him as really significant were a $55,000 charge for finance and administration that was transferred to the general fund and transportation and disposal of sludge for $90,591.

Sludge is the collective biosolids left from treating effluent at the plant and many places combine it with other material to create compost for sale or use by municipalities and other government entities, Waters said.

"That's a very high figure even for those who just dispose of it," he said. Hobbs budgeted $45,000 and Carlsbad doesn't allow any expense, only revenue from selling the left-over product.

"I pointed out before that I feel strongly about composting," Waters said. "It's expensive to put in a landfill, both in transportation and taking up space.

"We can't keep paying $50,000 to $90,000 a year for something that can be recycled."

When a municipal government finds an enterprise fund in a pinch, and it can't raise rates or taxes, the logical step is to look at cuts, he said, referring to preliminary projected revenues of $848,000 and expenses of $1.4 million. Expenditures and revenues are going in the wrong direction, he said.

Ruidoso Downs raised its rates last year by 33 percent, resulting in charges higher than those in Ruidoso, Waters said. The city's residents, 64 percent of whom are low to moderate income, couldn't stomach another increase, he said. "I don't care if a town is wealthy or poor, you don't transfer money back to the general fund when an enterprise fund is not doing well. You cut expenses," Waters said.

Ruidoso Mayor Leon Eggleston pointed out that for the past 34 years, Ruidoso residents paid higher rates than people in Ruidoso Downs.

"It's just for one year your rates have been higher and I don't think that justifies what you're suggesting," Eggleston told Waters.

The city manager also was peeved that in last year's budget, without consulting Ruidoso Downs, Ruidoso officials attempted to increase his city's portion of expenses from 15 percent to 20 percent and that a figure as high as 30 percent was mentioned this year. He pointed out that in 1993, his city was paying just 11 percent.

"The numbers don't add up," he said. "Ruidoso had a significant increase in hotels, while no new hotels were built in Ruidoso Downs," he said. "We have issue with the percentage Ruidoso Downs should pay."

He suggested not transferring the $55,000 for finance and administration, cutting contractual professional services by $4,000 and taking $3,000 from communications, as well as establishing a viable composting program. He took exception to overtime budgeted at 17 percent of the salary figure and proposed cutting that by 50 percent or $12,445.

"Overtime shouldn't be planned," he said. If work is expected, regular salaries should cover with proper allocation of time, he said. Overtime should be used only for emergencies. "When it's budgeted, it gets used," Waters said.

With some other cuts,

$117,000 could be trimmed from the budget, he said. That would help both municipalities.

"One of the partners is telling you it can't afford what is being dished to them anymore," Waters said.

McKnight noted that the proposed preliminary budget for the treatment plant reflects a 4 percent decrease in operating costs from 2002-2003. Each entity should pay its fair share based on usage, she said.

BUDGET: Councilors not worried so far

million, a cash forward balance of $9.86 million could cover the deficit, leaving a projected end of year cash balance of $5.79 million.

Councilor Ron Anderson was told that the budget provides for the state required reserve, as well as the council-imposed fiscal reserve of $575,200.

"It's fully funded this year," McKnight said. Last year, the council was forced to dip into that reserve.

McKnight said she's looking at an offer from the state to increase the victims' advocate job from part time to full time for Donna Reyes at the police department. But a full-time receptionist would be needed to replace her. The grant for the victims' advocate is renewable annually. The village's match is provided through office space and utilities.

McKnight said she was pleased to see employees health insurance premiums increase by only 4 percent, an impact of about $41,243 for the village's 80 percent contribution.

Councilors were critical of a general fund request by the village Arts Commission for $29,480 from the general fund, plus $25,000 from lodgers tax.

Councilor Deborah Marcum-Byars said she recalled telling the council when a quarter of a cent gross receipt tax for the arts was approved, the goal was for the group to become self-supporting. Many other groups operate strictly with volunteers, she noted. But the two requests together this year amount to a 110 percent increase over the arts council's allocation last year, she said.

The village attorney is reviewing if lodgers tax can be used to pay the salary of the council coordinator, Mayor Leon Eggleston said.

OUR OPINION

It's waste not, want not on the water front

Ruidoso renews its saving effort, and we can help

With a continuing drought and water conservation the order of the day, it is reasonable that Ruidoso does everything it can to save and use every drop possible.

The village's plan to spend more than $500,000 to avoid losing about 30 acre-feet per year might seem pricey. But, as water/wastewater manager Larry Grasmick says, it's not a matter of recouping the money, but of avoiding water waste.

The village over the years has spent big money to replace leaky old water lines.

It has spent more money to get Alto Lake back into a water-holding state.

It is working regulations to "save" water from evaporation by maintaining Grindstone Lake at a smaller surface area, because the village gets no credit against its Rio Ruidoso diversion for evaporated water.

All of us can contribute, as the village has, by using - not wasting - every drop possible.

And all these things demonstrate that, naysayers to the contrary, Ruidoso's village government is serious about solving its water problems and that buying up out-of-basin water rights toward importing water truly is an option of last resort.

Absolutely splendid work for the hairstreak butterfly

Time to follow up on a few topics previously addressed, and for your humble correspondent to eat a slice of humble pie, although, trust me, he will not stuff himself.

How shallow was I to poke fun at our state legislature for turning its attention to naming an Official State Butterfly, a matter comparatively insignificant considering the other heavy issues gridlocking the corridors of the legislative halls.

But, by golly, our guys and gals up at the Roundhouse got it done. Governor Bill Richardson signed into law a bill that names the Sandia hairstreak as our designated butterfly creature. Actually, you need not yet begin paying homage to the Sandia hairstreak, assuming you would recognize one if it roosted on your nose. The law does not take effect until June 20.

Here is what I did not know, and I am embarrassed by it. The new law not only gives official sanction to the hairstreak, it also legalizes the New Mexico whiptail lizard as our Official State Reptile, and the New Mexico spadefoot toad as our Official State Amphibian.

There is more to the new law, and this is serious. How many journalists, including this one, went blithely about their business the last few years smugly confident they were performing their duties as public watchdogs when, believe it or not, our Official State Slogan had lapsed? As incredible as it might seem, the state nickname was accidentally deleted from the statute book a few years ago. Thankfully, our elected leaders caught up with this gaffe, and, come June 20, we will again be known as the Land of Enchantment. Whew!

This column also spent some time bemoaning the startling inconsistency of the New Mexico House of Representatives that unanimously passed a bill, had it survived the dodos in the Senate, would have made it illegal for a teenager to get a tattoo or body piercing without first getting parental permission.

That same House, we pointed out, routinely stonewalls any attempt to make it illegal for a teen girl to get an abortion before her parents are first notified. Mind you, the legislative proposals do not require parental consent, they simply ask that parents be told before the procedure is performed.

We asked any legislators who might want to defend that inconsistency to let us express their views. So far, no takers. Therefore, we will remind our readers before the next legislative session so they can personally demand their state reps and senators know they will be watching the votes next time this one comes up.

All in all though, our state is in pretty good shape, or will be come June 20 when we get our slogan back. Governor Richardson seems to be popular in all four directions, with the possible exception of folks in the Elephant Butte area.

There, a guy disenchanted with Bill's water policy said it will bankrupt the area.

But Bill has countered with the promise to throw a million bucks or so to ease the pain in the Truth or Consequences area.

All is well in the Land of Enchantment.

YOUR OPINION

A suspension buster in Little Creek Valley

To the editor:

It does not seem fair at all that those who can least afford to have their cars and pickups ruined by bad roads have to be subjected to just that, while other more affluent neighborhoods finally get their gravel roads paved.

I am speaking about Little Creek Road below the Spencer Theater. It crosses the Little Creek Valley in Rancho Ruidoso Village to the condominiums, where it turns east to continue ... to Rancho Ruidoso Estates. I think that there are probably 1,000 people living now in that affordable housing development. Hundreds of vehicles traverse that road all day long, coming and going. Yet we all have to put up with the poundings that our vehicle suspensions take for that four miles each way, to say nothing about having to live with filthy vehicles because of the dust and dirt, and then mud...

The county keeps trucking in more and more gravel to build the road up. Now it is so tall and narrow that there is likely going to be a vehicle roll-over when someone veers off the road a little bit. That can happen in the blink of an eye; there is no shoulder for safety. Down you'll go, sidewise off the road.

Someone with the county had better hope that there will not be a death when that ... roll-over occurs, and it is likely just a matter of time before it does. And when it does, there will be a law suit because the road is built like a tall, narrow causeway.

Little Creek Road from D003 (Pasa Monte) across the valley to the condos...and then down the valley to the east - all of it needs to be cut way down to widen it, and then paved, or at least chip sealed.

Armed forces salute

To the editor:

From an old veteran, to each of our service members:

I want to thank you for ensuring my life, liberty and pursuit of happiness.

Hopefully, all America will also thank you for your sacrifices on this coming Armed Forces Day, May 17.

I, for one, feel that the deaths of your comrades in arms are just as tragic as the deaths of the crew members of the space shuttle, Columbia. There probably won't be any buildings, roads, etc. named in honor of the majority of your fallen comrades; however, "there is no one nobler than the individual who gives their life or limb in the defense of their fellow man."

Never let the relatively small number of American anti-war demonstrators (our enemies' comforters) get you down. Always remember that the vast majority of our people, including most members of the "silent-majority," support you and your fellow troops.

Keep up the good work and the best to each of you and your families!

Of money and mouths

To the editor:

It continues to amaze me that people who live in the Alto area take such a proprietary interest in Village of Ruidoso matters. I have no idea what motivates them to write letters to the editor about issues that are uniquely Ruidoso's. Perhaps it's time to poll that area to see just how many will vote for annexation.

After all, if they are going to put their two cents in on Ruidoso issues, then perhaps they won't mind paying the price of admission by way of taxation.

Runnels needs help, not condemnation

To the editor:

(We were) appalled at the front-page story of Mr. Mike Runnels' DWI arrest. Is there no decency in this community? It is a sad state of affairs when a man's misfortune is front-page news. Do you think that because Mr. Runnels is a public employee that he should be open to public ridicule? This not only embarrasses him but his whole family - his wife, his children, none of whom were involved in the incident but are punished (unfairly) by the public spectacle you have made of him.

This story should have been reported in the police docket just as any other case of DWI would have been. It is bad enough that you ran that story as the headline of the newspaper but as if to add insult to injury you ran the man's mug shot, in which he is obviously embarrassed, more than a little inebriated and definitely does not show him at his best. Without doubt he has a problem, and he has admitted it, but it is his problem to deal with in his own way...

As responsible members of this community, you at the Ruidoso News ought to be ashamed of yourselves! What gives you the right to condemn, to publicly chastise, and to publicly humiliate a man who has not yet been convicted of the crime for which he was arrested and charged? Shame on you! It is true we cannot condone those who will drink and drive in our community, but neither can we condone those "high-minded" souls who would condemn them. Mr. Runnels needs our help, not our judgment!

Officials, businesses asked to examine effects on river

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Representatives from businesses and other entities that may release phosphorous into the Ruidoso River were asked Monday to examine their operations for possible ways to reduce their impacts.

They also heard from Lincoln County Commissioner Leo Martinez, the county's representative to the Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant Joint Use Board, that the municipalities should be going after grants and federal money to build a new wastewater treatment plant instead of continuing to upgrade a 35 year-old facility designed to last 20 years.

During the first meeting of the Ruidoso Watershed Task Force, village attorney Charles Rennick provided background on the challenge facing those along the river, including officials from the Mescalero Apache Tribe, Cree Meadows and The Links golf courses, Ruidoso Downs Race Track, the city of Ruidoso Downs and the federal Bureau of Land Management.

He explained that in 2001, when the permit for the regional wastewater treatment plant shared by Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs was renewed, the federal Environmental Protection Agency imposed strict new phosphorous standards on discharges into the river, effective Jan. 1, 2004. The standards were based on the decision of officials with the state Environment Department to set a .1 milligram per liter limit on the river.

A firm hired to design a treatment plant expansion was redirected to focus on phosphorous removal treatments, a design and construction project that could take two years, exceeding the 2004 deadline.

The strict phosphorous standards now only apply to the lower Ruidoso River from Seeping Springs to the confluence with the Rio Bonito to become the Rio Hondo. But Rennick said the state is talking about expanding that requirement to the Upper Ruidoso River and considering a statewide imposition. He said the village should protest that latter proposal, in part, because Ruidoso would no longer be in a unique position. The village now can claim special hardship.

As early as 1994, agriculturalists in the valley complained about nuisance algae clogging their irrigation grates, Rennick said.

Instead of pouring money into changes at the treatment plant that may or may not solve the problem, regional board members met in December with ED staff, proposing to undertake a study to determine sources of phosphorous along the river.

"Recreational uses can be found all up and down the river," Rennick said. "It's a heavily urbanized environment."

The next step was to identify stakeholders in the river, anyone who might affect the water reaching the treatment plant.

"This is not an accusatory process," Rennick emphasized. "That doesn't get us anywhere. Everyone, including nature, is contributing. It could be as simple as phosphate from laundry detergents or as complicated as storm water control."

Eddie Livingston, president of Livingston & Associates based in Alamogordo, said his firm was hired to conduct tests for the next year at 17 points along the river. People may already notice the plastic black cases that protect the instruments, he said. The results will be examined monthly and he is waiting for the first batch now.

Samples are taken over a 24-hour period, 200 millimeters every hour to provide a composite picture, Livingston said. Eleven components are being examined including nitrogen, phosphorous and ammonia. At the same time, the state also will test for the next eight months at its own sites.

The instruments Livingston is using will measure stream flow calculated from velocity and depth to reflect seasonal changes.

Data will be examined along the way to detect needed changes in testing or placement or to gain early insights on source pollution, said Ruidoso village manager Lorri McKnight.

Livingston stressed that phosphorous never goes away, is used as nutrient by algae and is released from clay particles in storms. It is found in detergents, fertilizers, septic tank residue and can be contributed by animals - wild, pets or livestock.

John Waters, Ruidoso Downs city manager, said phosphorous also is found in ash. After severe wildfires in 2000 and 2002, heavy ash deposits were created and hit the river when summer rains washed over the denuded ground.

Preliminary data collected in May 2002 showed phosphorous levels below the plant were lower than those right above the treatment plant, he said.

If the new studies bear out that result, the two communities might be able to spend a couple million dollars curing the source of contamination instead of $8 million revamping the treatment plant and still not solving the whole problem, he said.

Cleatus Richards, deputy manager for operations, said planned expansion of the plant was estimated at $15 million and another $7 million for phosphorous treatment.

"It would affect rates substantially whether we have a brand new plant or upgrade," he said.

Congressional delegates need to be contacted to start working on lining up sources of money, Martinez said. The county also employs a grant writer who can help, he said.

Rennick said major suspected contributors are septic tanks. The village plans to connect subdivisions using septic, but the project could take $7 million for the first phase in Ruidoso and another $2 million in Ruidoso Downs.

Commission approves lodgers tax allocations

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Nearly $30,000 in lodger's tax allocations were approved last month by the county commission.

The single largest request was submitted by Tony Hoffman representing Fort Stanton Inc., to advertise the Fort Stanton open house at the historic compound Aug. 9.

Following the recommendation of the county lodger tax committee, commissioners gave the nod to $28,080 in requests. Some on the low side included $200 requested by Linda Field of the Presbyterian Women of Ruidoso First Presbyterian Church to advertise an arts and craft fair on June 28, and $400 requested by Pat Schear on behalf of the Corriente Cowbells to advertise the annual team roping event in Capitan.

On the higher side were requests from Susan Weir Ancker representing the Lincoln County Art Loop for $2,500 to advertise the annual tour of artists' studios and for $2,396 requested by Martha K. Heimann representing the Lincoln County Overland Stage Co. Inc. for promotional brochures.

Other requests included:

- $1,200 by Cindy Livingston representing the Wildland Fire Fighters Museum for signs and brochures
- $1,164 by Lloyd Maness representing the Lincoln County Tourism Council for advertising and insurance for the annual Fiber Fest in Lincoln
- $750 by Bob Edwards representing the Roswell Runners Club for brochures and advertising

- $1,800 by Ron and Jill Andrews representing the Golden Aspen Rally Association for advertising for the Sept. 17-21 event
- $1,000 by Ron and Jill Andrews on behalf of the Aspen Cash Motorcycle Rally to advertise the May 20-23, 2004 event
- $2,000 by Kim Roper to advertise the EMS Region III Annual Conference April 21-27, 2004, in Ruidoso, requested by the Eastern New Mexico Emergency Medical Services Corporation
- $1,920 from Marty Martell representing the Sheriff's Posse for insurance and advertising the trail ride July 31 through Aug. 3
- $2,200 by Fran Altieri representing the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce to advertise the annual Cinco de Mayo event
- $1,200 from Ivy Heymann representing the artists of White Oaks to advertise the 20th annual artists tour

• $2,100 by Gary Eklund representing the Carrizozo Heritage Museum for advertising

• $500 by Laura Doth representing the Special Event Resource Group for advertising the Oktoberfest Oct. 21.

• $1,400 requested by county manager Tom Stewart representing the county to refurbish the historic map of the county located outside of the courthouse in Carrizozo

• $2,350 from Ed Kaczmarek representing Fort Lone Tree Camp, to print 2004 brochures.

Stewart withdrew a request for $1,500 to advertise the county in the Santa Fe area. That initiative apparently died when Ruidoso and other towns approved the concept, but no money.

Summer spice at NMSU

LAS CRUCES — New Mexico State University's Chile Pepper Institute has found an innovative way to spice up the summer with scholarships for students with migrant roots.

A two-year, $120,000 grant from the National Science Foundation will fund the creation of an eight-week summer program called Assured, short for agricultural summer science research and development program.

The goal is to introduce students with migrant backgrounds to the agricultural research process and to broaden their interest in scientific studies, said Danise Coon, assistant director of NMSU's Chile Pepper Institute. "We're looking for kids who really want to know how research is done, and have an interest in agriculture," she said.

NMSU's internationally recognized chile breeders are seeking 10 students who are U.S. citizens from first or second-generation migrant families anywhere in the United States. Participants can be high school students with some college credits, or university freshmen or sophomores.

In addition to a $3,000 stipend, students will receive a cash allowance for meals and housing in one of NMSU's dormitory facilities.

The eight-week session begins June 9 and runs through Aug. 1.

At the end of the session, students will write a research paper, make an oral presentation and complete a scientific poster about their results.

Two of the students will be selected to return to NMSU next February to present their results at the 2004 New Mexico Chile Conference.

Three classes join forces to create a museum in a classroom

Capitan High School students have created the Museo de Cinco de Mayo, a room filled with educational displays and Mexican decorations in celebration of Cinco de Mayo, the day in 1862 when the Mexicans beat the French in the Battle of Puebla.

Michael Aguilar, a senior, was master of ceremonies, leading visiting classes through a Power Point presentation on the history of Cinco de Mayo, and then around the room to explain displays made by the Spanish and French classes on the circumstances surrounding the battle and the leaders involved.

"Most people think Cinco de Mayo is Independence Day, but it's not," he said. "The French army had guns and canons and horses and fought against Mexicans armed with pitchforks and machetes. They were losing their land, so they were fighting with more bravery."

Aguilar told students that the French had installed Austrian Archduke Maximilian as emperor of Mexico, kicking out President Benito Juarez. Juarez had General Ignacio Sargosa organize the people to fight the French — and win.

He said the armies of France, Spain and England were owed money by Mexico — the cause of the Battle of Puebla.

"With the Monroe Doctrine, (the United States) said you can't come into our continent and push people around, but in 1862, we couldn't kick French butt because we were fighting our own war — the Civil War," he said.

In front of a display about the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, he explained that the United States bought land consisting of present-day California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and part of Colorado from Mexico in 1845.

"If we hadn't done that, we'd be living in Mexico and the United States would be a heck of a lot smaller," Aguilar said.

Amber Lamay, a junior who used to live in Juárez, Mexico, worked with student musicians, dancers and singers to provide live entertainment for the visiting classes. The singers sang "De Colores," "San Serini," and "Los Animales."

"We made up our own dances from segments of Mexican dances," Lamay said.

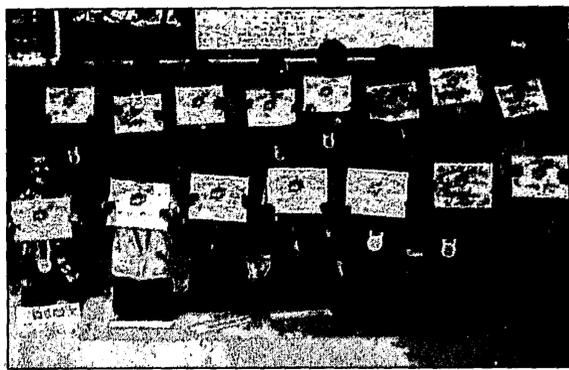

The high school art class made a piñata, which was broken at the end of the day.

Fair book support strong, board hears

Lack of quorum prevents board from taking any action.

BY JULIE CARTER FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The Lincoln County Fair Board lacked a quorum in its meeting last month, so no business that required a vote was brought to the table.

C-Mountain 4-H members, with their leader Velma Ward, presented the fair board with more than $1,000 from ads sold for the fair book. Chaparral 4-H of Corona, Sabra Davidson leader, was commended for the advertisements they sold having such a remote area in which to work.

Tommy Dinwiddie was present to clarify dates and contract requirements for the 4-H Rodeo scheduled in Capitan on July 26-27. A youth jackpot breakaway and calf roping is scheduled for the night of the 26th.

To date, with the estimated cost of the fair book and the value of the ads sold, approximately $1,000 will be available to put toward the fund for Fletcher Hall renovations. The fair book is at the printers and will be available to interested fair participants by the end of May. Contact the Lincoln County Extension office for your copy.

There will be a new award this year at the fair from Corriente CowBelles. The Corriente CowBelle Stockman's award will be a $40 cash award to an exhibitor of breeding cattle, sheep, poultry, rabbits, dairy goats, and horses. The award will go to exhibitors who meet the criteria set by the CowBelles among which are practicing good sportsmanship and giving exemplary care to their animals.

Canyon CowBelles will be giving the Canyon CowBelle Special Breeding Beef award.

The board's next meeting will be May 21 at 7 p.m. at the fairgrounds.

Hondo students honored at banquet

BY JULIE CARTER FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The National Honor Society held its annual banquet and induction ceremonies in April. Hondo high schoolers Teka Salcido and Eva Ontiveros were inducted into the NHS. Junior high student Brian Aragon was inducted into the National Junior Honor Society.

Jackie Chavez won the Distinguished Eagle Award, Harmony Haun the Leadership award, and Ontiveros and Samantha Gomez were presented with service awards.

Highest GPA awards went to Brian Aragon, 7th grade, Viviana Marques, 8th grade, Teka Salcido, 9th grade, Tiffany Sances 10th grade, Harmony Haun, 11th grade and Jackie Chavez, 12th grade.

Hondo art students participated in the annual Henriette Wyeth Memorial School Art Show 2003 held at the Hubbard Museum of the American West. Angelica Chavez won Honorable Mention in the High School division. Her entry was a wooden sculpture of found objects entitled "Miss Voodoo."

The "Kick Butts" poster-making contest for the antismoking campaign sponsored by the Counseling Center of Ruidoso named three first place winners in the Hondo 7th and 8th grades. Alicia Gallegos, Brian Aragon, and Tricia Yocum each received Pizza Hut dinners and free movie tickets.

With the annual Hondo Fiesta approaching, Hondo students participated in a Fiesta Artwork competition. Winners were Alicia Gallegos, Rosa Mata and Meagan Parmley.

For the third consecutive year, the Hondo 2nd and 3rd graders are planting flowers in the planters at the top of the school driveway. This is the final unit for part of their study on plants in science class. The students began by cleaning trash and weeds along the sides then turning the soil over in the plantings. They then placed fresh soil and planted seeds and sprouts in the prepared ground.

Hondo's kindergarten graduation will be May 15 in the multi-purpose room at 6 p.m. The 15th is also the last day of school for the elementary. High school graduation is May 23 at 6 p.m. in the gymnasium.

Carrizozo kids treated to agricultural fun at Ag Day

BY JULIE CARTER FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

The students of Carrizozo schools, preschool through 12, are treated every year to Ag Day, organized by Canyon CowBelles. Students look forward to the outdoor stations representing agriculture, demonstrations of different facets of agriculture, and best of all, a hamburger fry for lunch.

This year was no exception, as the petting zoo was complete with a goat, lambs, pig, and a doggie calf that brought sighs of "he doesn't have a mama?" from the little students. Jack Allen Davidson presented facets of his job with the Animal Damage Control, and County Extension Agent Pete Gnatkowski demonstrated sheep shearing. A weaving loom fascinated students while the fun was over at the roping station where they got to try first hand what roping could be like.

The NRCS had their popular water conservation trailer set up and the newly renovated greenhouse was on display with Ray Dean guiding tours. Carrizozo Ag students provided supervision and help in each area.

The CowBelles and their volunteer help, usually their husbands, cooked hamburgers on the grill and the students had a picnic on the football field. Students leave the event with a good taste of beef, some fun moments in participating in agriculture on some level, and take home literature from several related agencies.

Groups net 325 sacks of garbage

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A dead skunk and a toilet were the "oddest things" picked up by this year's Great American Cleanup April 26 in the Ruidoso area, said Parks and Recreation Department supervisor Ellen Bizzell.

Other items includes tires, batteries and a lounge chair, but the 106 volunteers picked up 325 bags of trash in the event this year, Bizzell said.

First National and First Savings banks working as a team took the prize for the Bank Challenge — a golden litter picker-upper — with 92 bags of trash; State National and Pioneer banks came in second with 70 bags; 1st Federal Bank and Ruidoso Rotary Club brought in 53 bags, the Eastern New Mexico University Walking Club and Stretch Meadows brought in 32 bags and City Bank 29 bags.

"This whole group has community pride," Bizzell said. "The Bush family did Grindstone — only two or three of them — and got 17 bags of trash. They've come out for the last two years."

This year's cleanup wasn't as big as last year's when 160 people picked up 400 bags of trash, she said.

On Earth day, April 22, the Optimist

Club and Ruidoso Middle School eighth-graders picked up 322 bags of trash, ENMU staff picked up 21 bags of trash and 22 bags were picked up at Ruidoso High School. On April 5, 85 young people showed up at Skateboard Park to clean up the park, paint ramps and fix a couple of new ramps.

"We had a really good turnout as far as our spring cleanup," Bizzell said. "But the best contest would be if everybody only came back with two bags of trash because the area was so clean."

Officers had found the vehicle off the road, "resting against a tree" at Resort Drive and Oak Grove Place. Dutchover was also charged with driving off the roadway and not furnishing proof of insurance.

Punch and run

Ruidoso police cited Joel Octavio Padilla, 38, of El Paso, Texas, for battery April 25. Padilla allegedly punched a man in the mouth in Midtown and drove away. He was apprehended by police at the Travel Lodge on Highway 70.

Lock broken

A deadlock bolt was cut out of a door in the 100 block of Innsbrook Drive between April 25 and 30, according to police reports.

Stereo stolen

The owner of a vacation home in the 400 block of Paradise Canyon Road reported stereo equipment valued at $1,250 was taken from the home between 9 p.m. April 27 and 3:47 a.m. April 28.

Restaurant break-in

An officer on patrol at 3:47 a.m. April 28 noticed an open window at the Hummingbird Tea Room, 2300 Sudderth Drive. After notifying the owners, a white Royal cash register valued at $500 was discovered missing. The window had been previously damaged by the power company, the report states.

Burglary reported

A similar break-in at Sierra Cleaners, 99 Texas St., occurred between 8 a.m. April 27 and 3:20 a.m. April 28.

The intruder appeared to have entered through a window with a lock broken prior to the break-in, and $100 in currency and $25 in change was taken.

Business damaged

The alarm went off at Lincoln County Grill, 2717 Sudderth Drive, at 1:29 a.m. April 28. Personnel from the alarm company arrived and found the window open on the north side of the building and a damaged screen outside the window.

Restaurant damaged

Someone also broke into Burger Trolley, 647 Sudderth Drive, between 7 p.m. April 29 and the morning of April 30. A window was apparently smashed with a shovel that was found lying next to the door, and the serving window was blocked open.

No money was kept in the business overnight and nothing appeared to be missing, the report states.

Trailer found

Police recovered a U-Haul trailer reported stolen from Colorado where it was parked overnight at Gateway U-Haul, 396 Sudderth Drive. The trailer is valued at $2,265.

Former inmate sues, claiming lack of medical care

James Barela says Lincoln County Detention Center staff prevented him from taking required medication, therapy while in jail.

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A former inmate of the Lincoln County Detention Center in Carrizozo is suing the county commission and its jail management company for failure to provide medical treatment and for withholding medications.

James Edward Barela filed the lawsuit in U.S. District Court on April 23 naming the commissioners and Correctional Systems Inc., a Delaware corporation, as defendants.

He claims jail staff violated his right to access reasonable medical care guaranteed by the 8th and 14th Amendments to the U.S. Constitution, that they were deliberately indifferent to his serious medical problems and failed to provide access to treatment, refused to provide medications, wrongfully removed prescribed medication and delayed treatment until his medical condition seriously worsened.

The suit claims Barela was substantially harmed by their indifference and is entitled to actual damages and compensation for emotional distress. Because their actions were intentional, he also should receive punitive damages, the suit contends. The commission and CSI were indifferent in their operation and maintenance of a public facility, it claims.

County manager Tom Stewart, who oversees CSI's handling of the jail, acknowledged that several recent suits have been filed alleging denial of access to medical care.

"There are a lot of things I can't discuss," he said. "But I have investigated and I have received satisfactory explanations. We just have to deal with the lawsuits as they come along."

According to the suit filed on behalf of his client by Ruidoso attorney J. Robert Beauvais, Barela was involved in an automobile accident on June 28, 2001, unrelated to his later arrest and incarceration at the jail. He suffered broken bones in his left leg, a dislocated hip and broken pelvis.

After a period of hospitalization and rehabilitation, he returned home and a physician ordered physical therapy two times a week.

He was arrested on March 1, and was originally sent to the Otero County Detention Center where he awaited trial until April 18, 2002, and was afforded access to his physical therapy, the suit states.

On April 18, 2002, he was transferred to Lincoln County's jail, where his requests to be transported for treatment were ignored, the suit claims. Although Barela asked in writing to be kept in protective custody to avoid being jostled by other inmates, on May 14, 2002, he was moved back into the general population, the suit states.

On June 19, 2002, three prescription inhalers Barela used for an asthmatic condition were seized by guards during a shakedown of the housing unit. When jailers failed to respond to his request for the return of the inhalers, Barela filed a pro se tort claim with the county, the suit states.

Although jailers refused to return Barela's medical supplies, he was moved into a handicapped room, according to the suit.

Other claims in the suit include that the area in which Barela was confined flooded during a heavy rain on June 20, 2002, but jailers failed to mop up the water and he slipped and fell, reinjuring his pelvis, lower left leg, head, knees and hands; at the hospital, he was given a prescription for pain medication, but jailers refused to provide the medicine; and that on Sept. 5, 2002, Barela was moved into a housing unit that was not handicap accessible.

On Dec. 11, 2002, "and in violation of applicable state and federal regulations," Barela, a state prisoner, continued to be housed with federal inmates in the jail and was kicked by one of those inmates, the suit states.

"Despite Barela's repeated request for medical assistance," he was not transported to the hospital until Dec. 14, 2002, where he was diagnosed as bleeding from the wound. On Jan. 4, 2003, he underwent surgery on his leg, which was seriously infected related to the delay in treatment from the physical attack, the suit claims.

Another operation was performed on his leg after he was moved to University Hospital in Albuquerque, where the infection Barela had contracted required insertion of a chest tube for the intravenous administration of antibiotics, the suit states.

Political activists work toward cooperation

A diverse group of Lincoln County political activists met April 28 to develop a political education coalition for the county, said organizer Robert Allan.

Representatives of all local political parties and other groups interested in grass roots democracy were invited to the meeting to discuss the possibilities of non-partisan political cooperation through educational activities, he said.

Cooperative advocacy on community civic problems such as water, lack of citizens' responsibility, public education, health, development and taxation also was suggested. More meetings are planned.

Lincoln County water model talk Saturday

Initial data from the U.S. Geological Survey crew that is gathering data to create a Lincoln County water model will be discussed during a meeting Saturday of The Water Network.

The session will start at 10 a.m., with coffee at 9:30 a.m., at ENMU-Ruidoso.

Members of the Lincoln County Commission and of municipal governing boards have been invited to the open meeting.

Ruidoso track teams still after state qualifiers

BY TODD FUQUA
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

CARLSBAD — With one week left until the Class 3A state track meet, Ruidoso is in about as good of shape as they could have hoped for at this point in the season.

The Lady Warriors have qualified in all but seven events following their third-place finish at the Caveman Invite on Friday, while the boys still lack spots in 11 events.

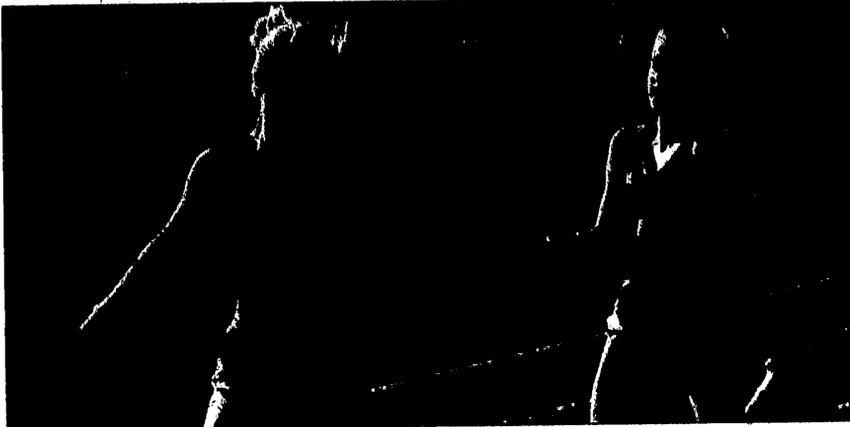

Coach Ronny Maskew thinks a lot of those events will be filled following their appearance at the District 4-3A meet in Lovington this coming weekend.

"There's no doubt what we have to do this week," Maskew said. "We have the opportunity to qualify a number of other events, but it will be tough."

The Ruidoso girls were bested by Clovis and Carlsbad on Friday — a pair of strong Class 5A teams — but easily outdistanced New Mexico Military Institute, the only other Class 3A team there.

To do that, the Lady Warriors got good times in all relays, and added a qualifying mark by Heather Johnson in the 300 hurdles. They also improved their times in the 4x200 relay with different personnel than that with which they qualified earlier in the year.

Despite all this speed, the Ruidoso girls still have no qualifying marks in the 100, 200 or 400-meter sprints, although Maskew expects those goals to be met at district, where a top-two finish guarantees a trip to Bloomfield.

The Lady Warriors' strongest events, as usual, were the throwing events. Katie Coronado won the discus with a throw of 124 feet — a throw she seemed to make with little effort after having just taken part in the long jump — while Rachel Loya and Tamara Grant again dominated in the javelin and shot put competitions.

This is directly opposite of the situation facing the Ruidoso boys, who haven't qualified anybody yet in any of the throwing events, and are still looking for someone to make it in the long and triple jumps.

They do have three going to state in the high jump — Cody Small, Chance Hooper and Nick Fajardo — and also have all four relay teams qualified.

The Warriors took a stumble during the running of the 4x100 relay, dropping the baton on second hand-off, but improved their time in the 4x200 and got their final relay qualifying mark in the medley.

"We wanted to make sure we had all of them qualified in boys and girls," said Maskew, whose relay teams didn't qualify at all last year until their finishes at district. "We're very pleased with that."

Another new qualifier in Carlsbad was Willie Comanche with an improved time in the 3,200 meter run. Comanche joins Casey Mirau and Josue Linares in the 100-meter dash as other Warriors runners heading to state.

Maskew expects another qualifier in the 1,600-meter run at district, as well as the 200-meter dash and the 110 and 300-meter hurdles.

"We're just worried about doing our best and things will take care of themselves," Maskew said. "But we still have to perform well."

Cody Small leaps in the long jump competition in the Caveman Invitational Friday at Carlsbad.

Montes signs intent letter to accept scholarship to NMJC

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a reprint of a story which ran in last Friday's issue of the Ruidoso News.

BY TODD FUQUA
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

She hasn't run competitively in over a year, but Amanda Montes is excited about the chance to do so — on scholarship — at the junior college level.

The Ruidoso senior signed a letter of intent Wednesday to attend New Mexico Junior College in Hobbs on a full cross-country scholarship.

Montes hasn't run all year, thanks to ACL surgery on her knee in December of 2001. That surgery — occurring during her junior year — came in between the cross-country and track seasons, two seasons in which she did compete.

But her parents wanted her to rest her knee this year.

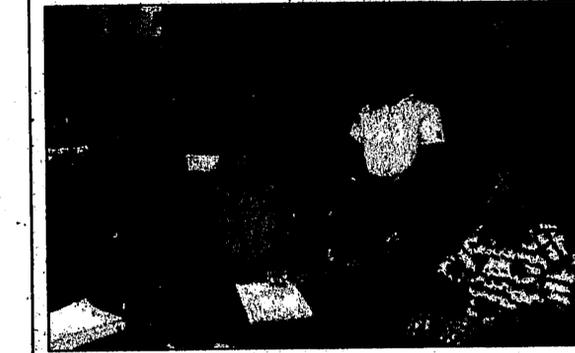

Montes said she had already decided to go to the two-year school to study sports medicine, and planned to walk on to the cross-country team and distance track team.

That was because the NMJC coach — Bob Jackson — had coached Montes while she was an eighth-grader in Hobbs.

"I would have run as a walk-on, I was excited to be coached by him again," Montes said.

The fact that her father, Victor, ran as a roadrunner in the 10,000-meter and 3,000-meter steeplechase didn't hurt.

When Jackson learned Montes was planning to enter NMJC, he was able to find her the scholarship. It will be the third year for the cross country program at the junior college.

Ruidoso senior Amanda Montes, center, signs a letter of intent to attend New Mexico Junior College next fall. Montes will run on the cross-country and track teams during her time in Hobbs. Surrounding Montes are, from left, RHS activities director Ron Wall, RHS assistant cross-country coach Yelena Temple, parents Victor and Patricia Montes, RHS principal Paul Wirth and RHS cross-country and track coach Ronny Maskew.

Area teams qualify more for state

MESCALERO — Both Rodney Wright and Eddie Chavez know they don't have a realistic chance at winning this year's Class 1A state title in Albuquerque starting on Friday, simply because they — Mescalero and Hondo, that is — don't have the numbers.

But at least they have a few people going — more than last year, in fact.

Entering the District 8-1A meet on Saturday, the Chiefs had but one qualifier — Christian Aldava in the boys' 100-meter dash. At the end of the day, Mescalero had added Leslie Bigmouth, Augusta Lang, Tori Torres, Nicole Dolan and Yvette Martinez to that list.

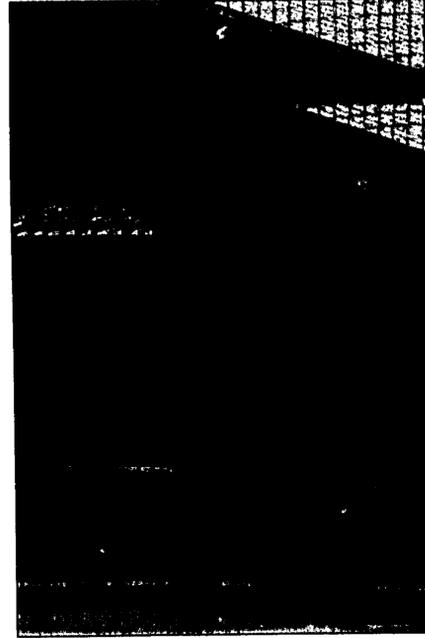

In fact, the Lady Chiefs had enough points to earn them the district runner-up title behind champion Tatum.

Hondo already had Steven Chavez qualified in the 200-meter dash, and left Mescalero with another qualifying run by Eddi Valenzuela.

For all the new qualifiers, though, there could have been even more — but for a slip-up or two.

"I'm real pleased with the effort," Wright said. "We did so well because we ran in all the relays."

That's something the boys didn't do — simply because Wright wasn't able to get all his runners to the track in time — and the Chiefs finished Mescalero's Leslie Bigmouth lets loose in the discus competition during the District 8-1A meet Saturday in Mescalero. Bigmouth threw for 80 feet, 2 inches, good enough for a second-place finish and a spot at the state meet.

Lady Warriors win final game of year

BY TODD FUQUA
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Ruidoso softball coach Billy Page always knew his team could win in District 4-3A, it was just a matter of getting the Lady Warriors to believe it.

The Lady Warriors believe it now, having finished their season with an 8-0 victory over St. Michael's Saturday to salvage a split in their final district double-header.

Ruidoso lost the first game, 8-7.

"At the end of the game, we talked to the girls about having our chances to be there," Page said. "This proved we can get over the hump and that we can beat the people we need. We proved we can play, it's just a matter of winning."

Ruidoso (9-14, 2-10 district) came very close to sweeping the twin bill over the Lady Horsemen. The Lady Warriors were leading the first game 7-5 in the sixth inning, only to see St. Michael's tie the game with a pair of runs.

The Lady Horsemen then

loaded the bases in the bottom of the seventh, and a deep fly ball brought the game to an end.

Ruidoso didn't let that game take the wind out of their sails, however, shutting the Lady Horsemen out behind a one-hit pitching performance by Apollonia Page.

"We just kept playing well, we had only one error in that last game," coach Page said. "If you eliminate the errors, you'll win some games. We knew we could beat that team, and started getting a lot of hits."

Beltran takes district for Carrizozo boys track team

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

"I had the confidence and walked away with two golds, but I was disappointed in my performance. I'm capable of throwing in the 130's," said Beltran. "I haven't peaked yet, so maybe this weekend I will."

Beltran

Carrizozo boys is Steve Ramirez, a qualifier in the javelin and triple jump.

Beltran's shot put distance of 41-3/4 at district qualified him for state in that event.

"It's been a hard year to train without a regulation circle. Our track is under construction, so we have had to travel to Capitan to practice, or practice just wherever we could. It seems to have made it different this year."

Although optimistic about the state meet, Beltran feels like he is throwing the discus for second place at best. Oren Watson of Cliff has consistently won the event since his freshman year, throwing the discus for a high 140-foot average.

Beltran is seeded fourth in the state in discus and

Anthony Beltran has led the boys track team throughout this season with consistent placings in shot put and discus. He has capped off the regular season with first place wins in both at the district meet last weekend in Estancia.

Beltran, a senior, qualified for state last year in both events. In discus, with a throw of 130 feet even, he placed second. He ended up fifth in the shot put.

Headed back to the state meet this weekend in both events, Beltran is not happy with his distances even though they qualified him. At district last weekend he won the gold in discus with a throw of 114 feet, 4 inches.

With all those performances, Carrizozo had enough points (183) to easily win the district title — a good 53 points ahead of Mountainair.

All this without too much input from Ariel Burr — last year's high-point individual at the state meet and a qualifier in six different events this year.

In fact, Carrizozo coach Mel Holland will have to decide which of Burr's events to drop at state — New Mexico Activities Association rules state an individual can compete in only five events at any given meet.

Teammate Lacey Burd is in the same situation. Other members of the team headed to state are Tierney Burd, Adrienne Zamora, Whitney Whittaker and Mary Beth Shivers.

'Zozo girls fill out contingency for state

BY TODD FUQUA
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Carrizozo's quest to repeat as the Class 1A state girls track team got a healthy boost Saturday following their appearance at the District 7-1A meet in Estancia.

Stephanie Brewer and Kaitlyn Vega each finished in the top two in the 3,200-meter run and discus, qualifying them for state and making them the last two members of the Lady Grizzly track team to punch their tickets to Albuquerque.

In addition, Christa Franck was the high-point individual. That included a win in the high jump competition — an event she hadn't been in all year.

seventh in shotput. The shot put rankings from seventh to second are only a quarter-inch difference, so the competition will be very close.

Beltran is headed to college in the fall at Western New Mexico University in Silver City. He has a full ride academic scholarship and plans to major in psychology.

Any sports in his future at college? "Maybe football," he said. "I'll just have to see."

8-1A MEET: Mescalero girls finish second

last overall. They would have had a few more points if Tyrone Cervantes' throw in the shot put event had been allowed to stand.

Cervantes' initial toss was good enough for second place, automatically entering him in the state meet. But it was later determined that half the throws had been improperly measured, and the entire contest had to be redone.

"The competition committee met and we all decided that was the fairest thing to do," Wright said. "Too bad it cost us another kid at state."

Cervantes' next three throws didn't place him in the top two needed to get him to Albuquerque. What's more, his presence in the shot put re-throw meant he wasn't able to be at the track for the running of the 800, 1,600 or medley relays.

Keeping their promise

The Mescalero girls had vowed they would have a second-place trophy in district, and pulled it off on Saturday with a 42-point effort.

Sure, they were well behind Tatum — which team wasn't? — but they have a large contingent going to Albuquerque this weekend.

Two of their relay teams — made up of Bigmouth, Lang, Torres and Martinez — got in by virtue of second-place finishes in the 4x200 and medley relays.

Bigmouth will also represent her team in the discus, having thrown for 80 feet, two inches to take second. She was half an inch away from second place in the shot put.

Lang added a first-place finish in the 100-meter dash, winning with a time of :13.37.

Hondo

The Eagles also had but one qualifier heading into Saturday — Steven Chavez's mark in the 200-meter dash. They added just two more qualifying marks in Mescalero — Chavez's time of 11.79 in the 100-meter dash and an 11.25, second-place finish in the 100 by Valenzuela.

Saturday marked the first time all season Valenzuela had competed in a track meet since injuring his hamstring during the Bobcat Relays in Hagerman on March 29.

Valenzuela also placed fifth in the long jump with a distance of 17-1 1/2, not good enough to place him in Albuquerque.

"I could have run him in other events," said coach Eddie Chavez on Valenzuela's performance. "I just didn't want to. He was a little upset, but if he hurt himself, he wouldn't go to state at all."

Hondo also got a second-place finish out of the 4x200 relay team, running the course in 4:49.85 and securing a spot in Albuquerque. The Eagles might have had one more relay team at state but for a dropped baton.

The Eagles' 4x100 relay team was headed to a third-place finish behind Tatum and Lake Arthur, when Saul Acosta — fresh off of running the 3,200-meter run — couldn't quite get the baton into Steven Chavez's hand on the final hand-off.

The same thing happened to Mescalero, and both teams were disqualified.

So, what, Hondo would have been third anyway, right?

Well, Lake Arthur had one Miguel Porras on their team, who was disqualified because he had entered in six different events — New Mexico Activities Association rules only allow five.

As a result, Porras had to forfeit every event he had been in — including Lake Arthur's finish in the 4x100. With that disqualification, Hondo would be going to state with a second-place finish.

New futurities announced for sale entrants

Lowell Neumeyer, general manager of the Ruidoso Sales Company, a division of Ruidoso Downs Race Track & Casino, has announced the formation of a pair of new futurities for New Mexico bred sale entrants that will begin in the summer of 2004 for yearlings selling this year.

The Mixed Sale, which will be conducted Aug. 15-16 at Ruidoso Downs Race Track, has traditionally been for horses of all ages, including broodmares. Beginning this year, the sale will be exclusively for Thoroughbred and quarter horse yearlings. A broodmare sale that will include horses of other ages will be held at a date to be announced later in the year.

"We met with horsemen, both consignors and buyers of past sales, to get their ideas for what they would like to see," said Ruidoso Sale

Company General Manager Lowell Neumeyer. "The group felt strongly that the August sale should be limited to yearlings and that a special focus should be placed on New Mexico bred."

The special focus will include two futurities — one for New Mexico-bred Thoroughbreds and one for New Mexico-bred quarter horses — which will be conducted during the 2004 race season. The race will be open only to horses which are entered in this year's sale.

The early estimates for the races are for the 350-yard Ruidoso Quarter Horse Sale Futurity to be worth approximately $175,000 and the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Sale Futurity approximately $100,000. The Ruidoso Sale Company will add $15,000 to each race along with 25 percent of the sale entry fee representing the first payment. Three subsequent payments will be made, including the trial entry payment. Exact dates for the trials to the new races for New Mexico bred have not been announced but they will be held early during next summer's race season.

A date for the fall broodmare sale will be announced in the next month. The Ruidoso Sale Company also operates the record-setting All American Yearling Sale, being held this year on Aug. 29-31.

This year for the first time, the sale company conducted a Horses In Training Sale in conjunction with Sunland Park.

For more information regarding any of the sales operated by the Ruidoso Horse Sale Company or the next New Mexico bred futurities call 378-4474.

PSYCHIC PREDICTIONS

Judith L. Christopher

Week of May 7 - 13

TAURUS: (Apr 20 - May 20) People, Places and Things will change right before your eyes. You'll win some, and lose some. Find out what you want in your life, for life.
VRGO: (Aug 23 - Sep 22) What you put in your mind and body will effect you tremendously right now. Don't skip on your health and well being, it could turn on you.
CAPRICORN: (Dec 22 - Jan 19) Your money matters can change very quickly if you don't get on top of things. Don't expect anyone else to handle your affairs as good as you.
GEMINI: (May 21 - Jun 20) This is the time for you to keep your eyes wide open and your mouth quiet. You'll learn more about what you need to know by just watching & learning.
LIBRA: (Sept 23 - Oct 22) Your easy going nature could be tested by people who aren't worth it at all. It's best not to try to win the war, but to walk away with your good energy.
AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 - Feb 18) You're in for a big surprise! You're about to embark on a new life. Do what you want to do, before someone else tells you what to do. Take charge now.
CANCER: (Jun 21 - Jul 22) Your stress level could play havoc on your health. Then you'll really lose time and money. Work steady, love more, and let the little things slide by.
SCORPIO: (Oct 23 - Nov 21) This could be a good start of something new and exciting. Make plans to do something different in your life, by starting to eat better and feel great.
PISCES: (Feb 19 - Mar 20) You're going to run out of time and money, if you don't stop and fix what needs to be fixed right now. Do the right thing so good energy can come back.
LEO: (Jul 23 - Aug 22) You're on a roll now, but which way? Up hill, or down hill? Watch where you step, you might just find a hole, you didn't think was there, think ahead.
SAGITTARIUS: (Nov 22 - Dec 21) You only have one Pie, that's you. You can only cut it up so much, before it breaks into pieces. Do a few things good, don't cut yourself short.
ARIES: (Mar 21 - Apr 19) Your heart may feel a little out of sorts. Not everyone can understand what you're going through. Find someone who really cares about you. Talk.
