Downs talks water

Construction builds in area

■ June permits up over last year, says planning department

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Rising prices of building material and a healthy construction market translated to hefty June revenues for a local building supply company.

Joe Lorenc, manager of Foxworth Galbraith Lumber Co. on U.S. 70, said the area is experiencing "a very strong building climate," and the volume "is at least comparable to prior years," although he's only been in Ruidoso a few months and couldn't precisely compare.

"Building across the Southwest has been especially strong," he said of the housing construction market that refuses to listen to predictions for the past few years that the bubble will burst.

The village of Ruidoso planning and zoning department showed that 91 construction permits were pulled inside the corporate limits and within the extraterritorial zone around the village in June 2004 for a value of $4.26 million. That compares to $3.55 million in June 2003 and $2.8 million in June 2002.

Arrowhead Roofing took out nine permits last month, but work for other contractors and owners was spread over a wide range of projects, including 12 new single family houses, nine additions, several remodelings, decks and carports.

Lorenc said the bulk of his company's local business continues to be vacation and second homes. He estimated that type of work constitutes more than 75 percent of the new home construction for Foxworth.

But he added that bigger revenues are being reported in part because construction supply costs are up.

"The increased costs the consumer

Jim Bob Lowe keeps busy at Foxworth Galbraith checking on in-coming shipments and checking out customers with lumber for their projects pays really has driven up the totals," he said.

"Prices on some items have doubled," as in a type of board frequently used in flooring and roofing for new homes and for steel.

Recently, the board price dropped 30 percent, but now is headed up again, Lorenc said. That's a national, not a local influence, he said.

Shane Garner, manager of C & L Lumber in Ruidoso Downs, said his company has been busy all summer. However, its business emphasis is changing, he said.

"We're getting out of retail and will be concentrating on manufactured trusses and preframed component walls and building systems, and on design and draft services," Garner said. "We're taking off one side and increasing the other."

Garner said Lowes and Home Depot in Alamogordo also serve many businesses, contractors and home owners locally.

"They're pumping it into here," he said.

Planners open the gates to proposed multi-family site

■ Despite concerns, 4-acre development gets initial approval

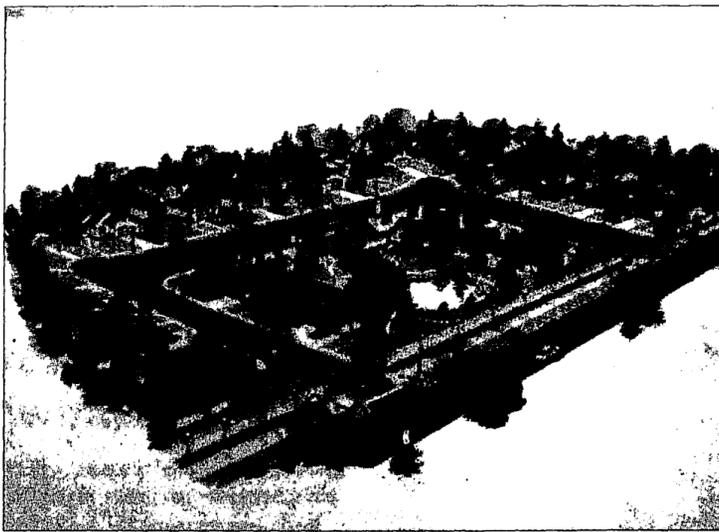

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

A new development that would mix multifamily and single-family living is proposed on Gavilan Canyon.

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission last week approved a preliminary plat, conditional use and commercial site development for Clif Rowe Construction to build Gavilan Gates.

The 4.13-acre tract is zoned neighborhood commercial and Rowe proposes to divide the tract into 22 lots that meet the width, depth and area standards for multifamily districts.

Access will be from Gavilan Canyon Road, a paved arterial street. Rowe will build one private street inside the subdivision with a 40-foot right of way. The standard is 50 feet and a variance was required for that and to allow less than minimum lot frontage on corner lots. Water and sewer would be provided by the village, and fire hydrants are adequate, according to details listed by staff planner Darrell L. Bremner.

As laid out, eight lots will be used for two-story townhouses surrounding a landscaped park area. Lots 1 through 14 will be 7,000 square feet each for single-family homes. The lots will enclose the sides and back of the townhouse area.

A concrete walk will be constructed at the back of curbs on all lots. Front yards are to be landscaped with one tree each and crushed or lava rock. An automatic gate will be installed at each entrance.

The southeast corner of the tract is located in the unincorporated area of Lincoln County. An annexation request will be filed to bring that land inside the village, the information stated.

Before the vote, commission chairman Glen Barrow said Rowe was asking for "a lot of variances."

Agent Tim Collins said the roads will be private and a homeowners association will be responsible for maintaining the improvements in line with a planned community. Collins said on lots 15 through 21, townhouses

Shortage dominates city council meeting Monday

■ Officials are confronting the situation on a variety of fronts

BY MARTY RACINE
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

As a light rain fell on Ruidoso Downs Monday evening, the topic of water shortage dominated the regular City Council meeting.

The flow of discussion was diverted into numerous channels:

• Council unanimously ratified Mayor Bob Miller's stringent Phase III water conservation plan that was issued last week.

• Gov. Bill Richardson announced an executive order declaring emergency conditions in the Downs, freeing up to $750,000 and use of the National Guard, if necessary, to help alleviate conditions. "It's important for my administration to respond swiftly and provide the necessary resources to help the City of Ruidoso Downs overcome severe conditions," Richardson said. "I'm glad that we were able to provide this badly needed assistance."

Indictment near in triple-murder

■ Grand jury will hear Posey case in Ruidoso or Carrizozo next week

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

As friends, family and other supporters of Cody Posey plan a rally for abused children Saturday, the district attorney appears ready to take the triple murder case to a Lincoln County grand jury.

An indictment would leave open the option for 12th Judicial District Attorney Scot Key to prosecute the 14-year-old as an adult. A grand jury is scheduled to hear the case Wednesday either in Ruidoso or Carrizozo, a court official confirmed.

Posey, a ninth-grade student at Capitan, is accused of killing his father, step-mother and step-sister July 5, at the

Rain and fire restrictions fall

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Seven straight days of drizzle didn't measure up to much in gauges across Lincoln County, but conditions were beneficial for vegetation.

"This is better than a hard driving rain," said James Mason, information officer for the Ruidoso Fire Department.

"With a heavy rain, a lot of run-off occurs and we lose it to the river. With cool, damp days, the moisture sits there and clings to the bark of trees."

On Monday the village adjusted the wildfire danger rating from high to moderate, he said. The village and Ruidoso Downs dropped fire restrictions.

U.S. Forest Service officials announced last week that they would ease restrictions on the same Monday and the state Forestry Division led the way Friday.

Because of a wetter than normal April at 3.02 inches, Ruidoso at the end of June was sitting at 115 percent of normal for the calendar year-to-date.

However, despite the past week of intermittent rain, July still lags behind its average of 3.59 inches.

SHORTAGE: Water study revealed

...tance.”

- City administrator John Waters thanked the Village of Ruidoso for its “gracious” gesture to sell 1 million gallons of water to the Downs, reporting that the transaction was probably a one-shot deal. The request was made, he said, after “quick fixes” on a well pump “didn’t work.”

- Municipal Judge Harold Mansell reminded councilors of a reverse transaction years ago, when, he said, the Downs furnished water to Ruidoso after a village well became contaminated with diesel fuel. “Ruidoso Downs came to their rescue,” he said.

- Waters announced that the city’s three emergency water projects identified in the water master plan remain the “top priority” in this year’s Infrastructure and Capital Improvement Plan, for which the city will be seeking grants. “Now that our situation has made it to Santa Fe, they understand the nature of our water issues, perhaps it can free up some additional funding to help us get these projects taken care of,” he said.

- Waters announced that the council will be regularly briefed on the status of water production; over the rainy weekend Public Works Director Ken Mosley reported slightly elevated levels but still historically low flows regarding the city’s two main water sources, Griffith Spring and the Denton Well.

- Waters reported no immediate “pickup” in Griffith’s flow due to recent rains but anticipated that the monsoon arrival will have “some affect” on the spring. The recharge area between the Downs and Clouderoft was “getting hammered” by rain on Sunday, he said.

- Citizen Karen Jones asked the council to consider a moratorium on high-density housing and to refrain from buying property to acquire water rights until “this water crisis is resolved.”

- Geologist Jim Riesterer of Santa Fe’s Glorieta Geoscience, Inc., presented a detailed and somewhat troubling Power Point report on the city’s water system.

State funds to help

The governor’s emergency declaration was welcome as rain. The money will help pay for the Ruidoso water purchase and to repair and redrill the Denton Well, which has been breaking down on a regular basis.

On Tuesday, Downs officials met at City Hall with Mark Martinez and Bill Ewing from the Emergency Management Office of the New Mexico Department of Public Safety and with Lincoln County Emergency Services Coordinator Manager Bill Martin.

Santa Fe firm retained

Glorieta Geoscience was retained by Ruidoso Downs in April, Riesterer said, to look at the sources of Griffith Spring and Denton Well and the reasons for their flow declines.

The company is also studying long-term alternative sources of water, he told councilors and the public at Monday’s council meeting.

The protracted drought has had an obvious impact on the spring, Riesterer said.

“It’s had a cumulative effect where over time, as you have more and more years of drought, the... spring flow is going to decline,” he announced.

The spring, he pointed out, is tied into the regional aquifer system, “which takes a longer time to recharge.”

As more wells are dug into the aquifer, he explained, the water level in the aquifer will decline.

Since 1999 the spring flow, he reported, has dropped from 340 gallons per minute to 240 last year.

“That’s a pretty rapid decline.”

Water levels in the Denton Well, cameras show, have also dropped, Riesterer said. Both the spring and the well draw from the regional Yeso Formation aquifer.

Recommendations

For both short- and long-term solutions, Glorieta Geoscience recommends several steps:

- Repair the Denton Well to run more efficiently and deepen the well from 175 to 300 feet.

- Work began on that project Tuesday, with crews digging a supplemental well 60 feet from the original Denton opening.

- Drill a deep exploratory well to the bottom of the Yeso Formation, “which nobody else in the area is tapped into,” Riesterer said.

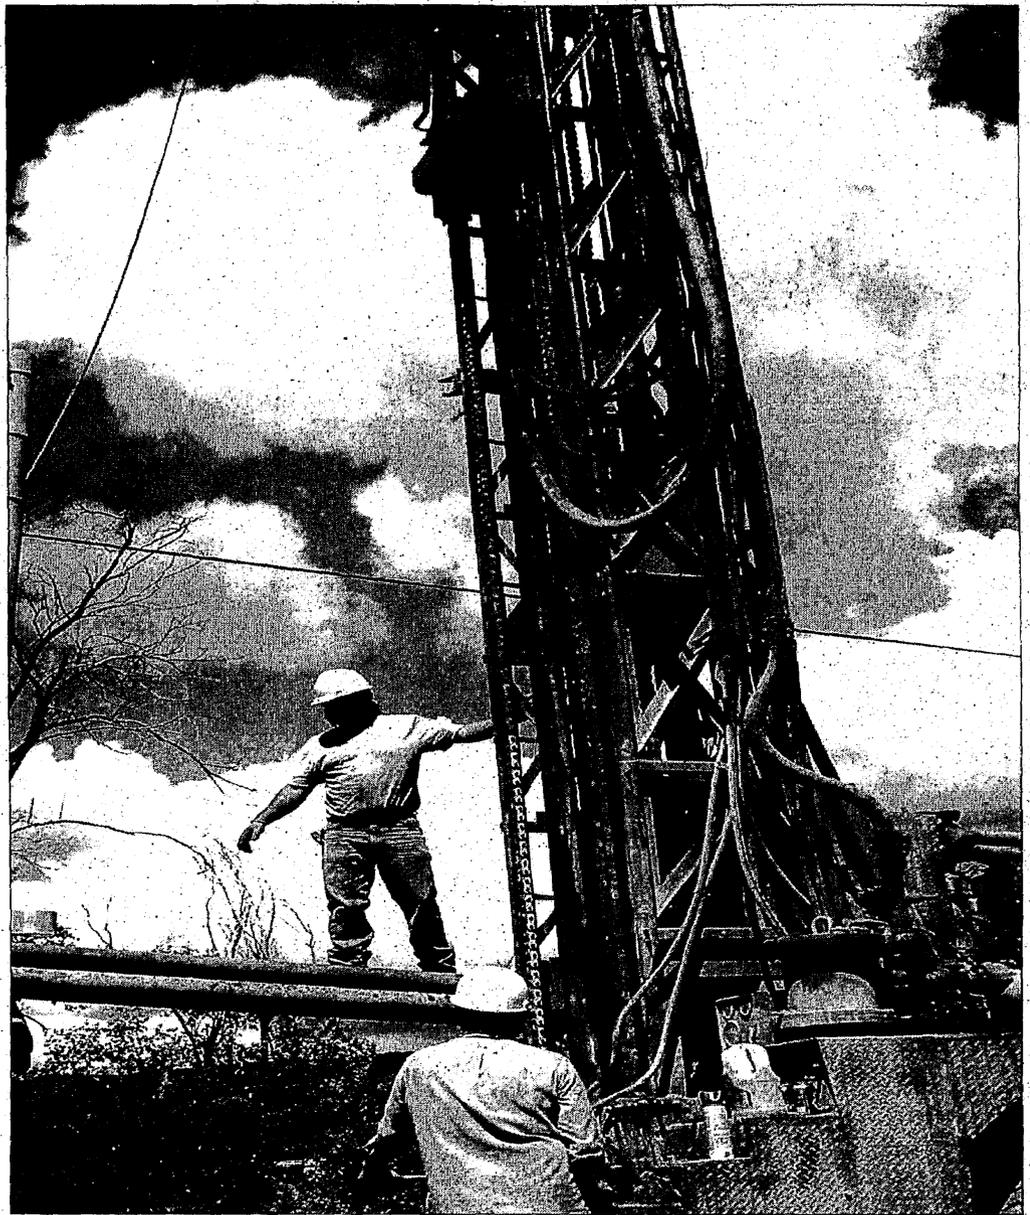

Such a well might turn into a production well “that will hopefully meet the needs of the city far into the future.”

Responding to a citizen’s question about such a well’s impact on domestic wells, Riesterer explained that because of the “stratification” of the aquifer that allows engineers to “seal off the upper layers,” an exploratory well would have minimal impact on domestic well production.

Nor would such a well negatively impact the spring, he added.

“We don’t want to be just sucking the spring into a well.”

- The third recommendation is to drill a 300-foot production well on the Riverside property about three-quarters of a mile east of the racetrack.

SANDY SUGGITT/STAFF

Workers on Tuesday began drilling a new well at the Denton Well, which normally supplements Griffith Spring as Ruidoso Downs’ water supply. The drill site is about 60 ft. from the original well opening. When completed, officials hope the new shaft will reach a depth of 300 feet, some 125 feet deeper than the existing well.

GRAND JURY: Decision pending ranch house they occupied as part of the father’s job as foreman for ABC newsman Sam Donaldson’s Chavez Canyon Ranch near Tinnie.

After the bloody shooting incident, friends and family stepped forward to relate incidents of physical and emotional abuse of the boy by his father throughout his life and since the death of his mother in a traffic accident four years ago. His guardian and aunt, Corliss Clees of Roswell, and other supporters plan a rally for Cody and to increase awareness of abused children, at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Church on the Move, 901 Brasher Road in Roswell.

Posey’s attorney, well-known death penalty opponent and public defender Gary Mitchell, said the psychological evaluation process on the boy just started.

“It takes a considerable amount of time,” he said Tuesday. During Posey’s first court appearance, District Judge James Waylon Counts extended the time period from 10 days to 30 days for Key to decide whether to prosecute Posey as a juvenile or an adult. At that hearing July 9, the judge also entered a denial on Posey’s behalf of the three first-degree murder charges and four charges of tampering with evidence.

Mitchell said he received notice of a grand jury being convened next week and added that grand juries usually follow the lead of the prosecutor because he is the only one presenting the case and interviewing witnesses.

While that process unfolds, Mitchell said he is waiting for copies of reports on the incident from the Sheriff’s Office and other agencies.

“We did receive a video tape they made and I appreciate that,” he said.

Although Posey initially was placed on suicide watch, that precaution has been removed and he appears to be doing well, Mitchell said.

“I’ve visited him and talked to the counselors,” he said. “They all are impressed with him – how polite and generous he is. His aunt has been able to see him, but visitation is restricted to his attorney, psychologist and guardian.”

“People can write him and a large number have. Just call my office for the address.”

Mitchell said he’s also receive information on the case from more than 100 individuals.

“If someone thinks they know something, they should call me,” he said. The office number is (505) 257-3070.

Our neighboring communities are in this together.

A few days of rain does not change the Ruidoso world, or the world next door called Ruidoso Downs.

Ruidoso's neighbor was running dry last week, with big races and consequently more visitors coming the racetrack, and so Ruidoso Downs city manager John Waters and water director Ken Mosley came visiting to ask for a million gallons of the wet stuff to get through the big Rainbow Futurity weekend, which ended Sunday.

Nobody went thirsty.

The Ruidoso Village Council agreed to help top off its neighbor's 1-million-gallon storage tank, but balked at entering into a 30-day agreement with potential weekly draws on village sources.

By the weekend, some monsoonal moisture began to arrive, but meanwhile, Gov. Bill Richardson had declared the Downs' water problems dire enough to make special funds available.

Pity the Downs, perhaps; it's running like Ruidoso, maybe even faster, percentagewise. Its long-used big spring is drying up. It does have problems.

But Ruidoso's council members were right when they said their own residents come first; tougher questions will be asked come the next emergency, they said.

Among the questions we can envision being asked: "Hey, Ruidoso Downs, why don't you recognize that our cheek-by-jowl communities are in a dependent relationship that won't quit. Why don't we make it legal? Why don't we make it a greater city, by annexation?"

Vet arrest duffed, says your wiley columnist

There are any number of obscure words and phrases associated with the game of golf, a pastime that involves otherwise intelligent people forking over 50 or 60 bucks to a guy who lets them walk on his grass while swinging a stick, an activity you can do pretty much for free at the local park.

A golfer may "blade" a ball, or hit it onto the "dance floor," or exhort it to "break, you sucker!". Another favorite is to "duff" it, meaning the ball squirts off to the left 30 yards or so.

It has been only recently that language historians have discovered the origins of the golf term, "duff." Turns out this word, meaning "misplaced shot," was named after one Colin Duff, a New Mexico Game and Fish officer.

Duff totally "duffed" it when he went into the office of an Alamogordo veterinarian, arrested and cuffed him. Why? This dangerous man, Dr. G. L. "Les" Wiley, had refused to divulge the name of an employee who brought in a fawn for treatment.

One of Doc Les's workers found the weak, distressed deer in the middle of a gravel road near High Rolls and brought her in for treatment.

State law says you cannot take or possess live wild animals and Officer Duff was having none of it. When Dr. Les refused to give the worker's name, Duff cuffed him.

The scary part of this story is that they let the vet out of jail almost immediately.

Apparently, they don't see Wiley as a threat to society. I'm not buying that. There is no doubt in my mind this guy will soon be committing other nefarious deeds, like, maybe, treating sick raccoons.

Doc Wiley's fate is up to the courts where a judge, if he doesn't duff it, will dismiss the entire ridiculous affair. That seems to be the opinion of Scott Key, Twelfth Judicial District DA. Key said the arrest never should have happened.

All of our regulations and laws are subject to common-sense analysis, and perhaps we didn't use common sense - 'we' meaning the Game and Fish Department," Key said. Perhaps, indeed.

Scott could have given the same advice some weeks back to the state cops who also duffed it big time when they arrested a young Roswell lady who also was trying to do a good deed and who also was busted.

Nicole Francis encountered a police roadblock near Carlsbad where they ticketed her for driving a car without proper insurance.

Trouble is, it wasn't Nicole's car. She was the designated driver trying to get safely home her intoxicated friend, who owned the car.

Nicole faces a $375 fine, one that it can be assumed some judge, if he or she does not completely duff it, will dismiss.

We hate to think what could happen to some poor slob who is driving his pickriated friend's uninsured pickup and stops to rescue a sick squirrel. Throw away the keys.

Law enforcement types are generally good folks doing a job most of us wouldn't touch. But that doesn't mean they don't occasionally whiff it.

Ned Cantwell, ncantwell@charter.net, is a retired newspaperman living in Ruidoso. He calls a golf shot that squirts off to the left 30 yards or so a "good drive."

P&Z REJECTS YET ANOTHER PROPOSED MIDTOWN DEVELOPMENT

YOUR OPINION

Finally, ETZ recognized as 'hogwash'

To the editor:

Finally the Extra Territorial Zone has been publicly recognized as the hogwash that it truly is. Thank you County Commissioners for voting to scrap the transition district. I ask you to not back down and please follow through with what you started so this injustice to private property owners can be corrected.

Mr. Planning Director, you may get some complaints from a few select citizens; all I can say is, deal with it.

It is far better that you deal with a few chronic whiners than for the majority of honest property owners rights to be taken away by a government they want nothing to do with and have no vote in.

I am a current ETZ citizen and I am elated that the county commission has decided to give back private property owners rights. If Ruidoso does not like the way my neighborhood looks then they can annex the other direction and get their outrageous property taxes from some one else.

Show us the movie!
Why doesn't the local cinema show Mindheit 9/11 instead of some of the mindless movies on now? You should not be afraid to show a movie that provokes people to think.

We are not all Republicans in this town. Some of us are independent, open-minded and free-thinking people.

Tie-breaks are 'black marks'

To the editor:

The Ruidoso mayor is apparently on a road of no return. With many months on the job he has learned none of the procedures which enable a mayor to perform in a way which has the support of the taxpayers.

If he thinks that his main job is to break ties in council meetings, he is dead wrong. In fact, that is one act he should not have to perform very often. Rather, his job is to see that the councilors involved in the tie vote are brought together for a discussion to reach a decision in the best interests of the voters. Each time the mayor breaks a tie vote is a black mark on his record

It's snowing on Gavilan and Mechem

BY CAROLYN FELDER
RUIDOSO

When you drive south of Farley's on Mechem or north on Gavilan near Buddy's Stables, look for "snow" in the air. Thistle seeds are flying in great numbers! Those very same seeds are often carried by your vehicle tires and end up growing in your lawn and your driveway. Left uncontrolled, this noxious weed will continue to crowd our native flowers and grasses. We have a horrible infestation in many areas of the town. This has developed in the last 15 to 20 years because, until four years ago, little had been done to control their growth.

Weed Warriors is working on a test site south of Farley's on Mechem that the state highway department will evaluate this September. We are picking, cutting and then spraying with vinegar and soap. If you want to help demonstrate an alternative treatment for this problem, please help now! Last summer was the first time that we picked that area. Since the Musk Thistle is a biennial, the first year plants that we missed last year are now blooming.

It takes at least three consecutive years of fighting this alien to slow down the growth cycle. White Mountain Meadows development off Gavilan has been worked four years, and now is a 95 percent controlled area. Ask anyone who has lived there for five or more years how much change has occurred.

Weed Warriors needs volunteers to pick these maturing blooms. Our motto is: "Pick your five gallons of blossoms each week" as long as they bloom. You can pick any day that you want - 7 a.m. or 7 p.m. are pleasant, cool times.

Carolyn Felder will give you a contractor bag which will hold 15 gallons of blossoms and a certificate for every 15 gallons of heads that you pick. (The blossoms should be kept in the contractor bags and allowed to compost or rot before putting them in the trash.)

Be among the first 20 people to turn in a 15-gallon bag of thistle blossoms and she will invite you to a home-cooked brisket potluck meal.

If you want to have more fun, while picking, invite a friend to help, and/or come out any Wednesday from 8 to 11 a.m. and pick with Weed Warriors. Check the Ruidoso News' community calendar on Wednesdays for the next week's location.

One of our Weed Warriors, Stella Williams, had her left kidney removed last April, yet she has a wonderful spirit of community and makes a difference by picking at least one hour a week. Stretch yourself and try it at least once. Wear protective clothing and gloves, if you have them. Bring a small bottle of water and a pair of scissors or clippers.

To learn more or volunteer, contact Felder at 258-1347.

LETTERS POLICY

The Ruidoso News encourages letters to the editor, especially about local topics and issues. Each letter must be signed and must include the writer's daytime telephone number and mail address. The phone number and mailing address will not be printed; the hometown will be. The telephone number will be used to verify authorship. No letter will be printed without the writer's name. Letters should be no more than 300 words in length, of public interest, and free of libel; editing will be for length, grammar or spelling. Shorter letters are preferred and generally receive greater readership. The Ruidoso News reserves the right to reject any letter. Longer by-lined "Guest Commentary" articles will be considered; call the editor at (505) 257-4001. Letters may be delivered to the Ruidoso News office at 104 Park Avenue, mailed to P.O. POLICE BRIEFS

'Loud, boisterous and intoxicated'

Ruidoso police arrested Walter J. Woodall, 35, of La Luz, and James K. Woodall, 41, Ruidoso, July 26, charging them with disorderly conduct/public intoxication. Police responded to a second call of loud noises coming from the forest behind Camelot Apartments and found the two camping in the woods, loud, boisterous and intoxicated, according to police reports. Officers found James K. Woodall hiding in an abandoned refrigerator.

Multiple charges

Police arrested a 17-year-old Ruidoso male July 25 at the Shell Gas Station, 1416 Sudderth Drive, charging him with refusing, evading or obstructing an officer, concealing his identification, and forgery. They cited Patrick Perales Jr., 18, of Ruidoso Downs, with refusing to obey an officer. Officers had been dispatched to Reese Drive about a verbal confrontation, found the suspects and they fled, despite being told to stop several times. The juvenile was referred to the Juvenile Probation Office, and officers discovered, when his mother came to retrieve him, that he had given a false name.

Trashy offense

During a traffic stop July 24 in the 700 block of Sudderth Drive after a caller reported trash possibly being thrown from the vehicle, police officers saw an open container of alcohol in the vehicle and subsequently cited two juveniles from Roswell for being minors in possession of alcohol and minors allowing self to be served. The 17-year-old female was driving the car and had never had a driver's license, so she was cited for that and for not driving within a single lane of traffic. The mother of the 15-year-old male, Josephine M. Montano, 34, of Roswell, picked up the two at the police station and was cited for allowing an unlicensed minor to drive the car. Both minors were referred to the Juvenile Probation Office.

DWI

Police arrested Ana Emilia Trevizo, 21, of El Paso, July 24, charging her with first-offense driving under the influence of alcohol and failure to drive within a single lane.

Bike violation

Ruidoso police cited a 17-year-old Ruidoso female for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk in Midtown July 24. The officer told her she could voluntarily comply with the ordinance or he could give her a $500 ticket for the violation, the report states. She "angrily" told him the fine for ordinance violation was $117, not $500. "It was apparent to me that (the juvenile) had been aware of the ordinance, as she knew the fine amount, so I issued her a nontraffic citation to appear in Ruidoso Municipal Court," the officer wrote in his official report.

Refusing to obey officer

Police arrested Richard B. Girot, 57, of Ruidoso, July 18; they charged him with refusing to obey an officer during an investigation of a domestic incident. The report states that Girot shut the door on an officer after he was told to leave it open.

Elkhorns vanish

Someone stole a rare $10,000 rack of elkhorns with skull from a fenced property in the 100 block of Hutson Drive sometime between 5 p.m. July 23 and 7 a.m. July 24, according to police reports. The fence was chain link with barbed wire attached at the top. The fence was apparently undamaged.

Electronic heist

Almost $4,000 of electronic equipment was stolen from a residence in the 100 block of Granite Drive between April 18 and July 19, according to police reports: A workman noticed a window screen on the ground by an open window and knew the owners hadn't been at the resident in quite awhile. The police report notes that damage was done to the staircase where the thieves apparently used a dolly to move a 60-inch television out. Also reported taken were a VCR, a DVD player and binoculars.

Tubing taken

About $1,300 of copper tubing was stolen from a property in the Milagro Hills Subdivision at the end of College Drive between July 24 and 26, according to police reports.

School break-in Someone broke into Ruidoso Middle School, 134 Reese Drive, between noon July 17 and 7:13 a.m. July 19, breaking four windows and damaging an inner door with hammer-like marks. The case is pending further leads and more information about whether or not a computer was stolen.

A visitor from Clarendon, Texas, told police she lost a beige purse valued at $3,000 about noon July 18. She said she bought items at Allsup's Convenience Store, 127 E. Highway 70, set her purse on the ground next to the car while she loaded the items, then drove to the Hubbard Museum for a tour. She noticed her purse missing and returned to Allsup's but did not find it there and the clerk had not seen the purse, the report states.

Ugly picture

A pellet gun may have broken a $500 picture window in a residence in the 200 block of Maple Drive about 8:21 p.m. July 20. The officer investigating the case found a small hole and reported that it might have been caused by a pellet gun.

Awning assaulted

The owner of Ruidoso Roastery, 113 Rio St., reported that someone damaged a swing between 8 p.m. July 19 and 6:45 a.m. July 20, cutting, tearing and burning the cloth on the swing and causing $150 in damages.

Register rifled

Unknown suspects threw a large rock through a window of Luna's Family Restaurant, 1501 Sudderth Drive, between 10:20 p.m. July 24 and 6:55 a.m. July 25. $140 was stolen from the register.

Stealing crystal

The owner of Michelle's Mystic Gifts, 2306 Sudderth Drive, reported that someone shoplifted a crystal valued at $10.95 between 10:55 and 11:05 a.m. July 20.

Motorcycle mayhem

A resident in the 100 block of Lower Terrace Drive reported that someone drove a motorcycle into his driveway and carport, "did donuts in the carport and drive, and knocked over the decorative bricks lining the drive."

Deck lights decked

Someone damaged nine Malibu deck lights at a residence in the 100 block of North Eagle Drive between 11 p.m. July 19 and 6:30 a.m. July 20.

Feds approve state's gaming contract with Mescalero Apache

The agreement settles a long-standing dispute

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

New Mexico's gaming compact with the Mescalero Apache Tribe was approved Friday by the U.S. Department of Interior Secretary.

The agreement settles a long-standing revenue sharing dispute.

Win-win situation

The compact was the final element in a $25 million lawsuit settlement over past revenue-sharing payments by the tribe brought by New Mexico Attorney General Patricia Madrid.

The new compact reduces future revenue sharing payments to the state from the Mescalero from 16 percent to 8 percent of gaming machine revenues.

Based on current estimates, Madrid said the gaming tribes in New Mexico under agreements she negotiated will pay the state about $40 million in annual revenue sharing.

The approval by Secretary The Norton by Secretary The Norton means the remaining $23 million of the settlement with Mescalero will be released.

Good-faith payment

The tribe had already paid $2 million in good-faith money when the settlement first was signed by Madrid and Mescalero President Mark Chino on April 20.

The final step is to record the agreement into the Federal Register, scheduled to happen within a week.

As a result of settlements negotiated by Madrid, the total realized by the state now exceeds $200 million from the 11 gaming tribes.

The only tribe that has not settled with the state is Pojoaque and that lawsuit is pending in federal district court.

Gallegos not guilty

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

His first time in court ended with a mistrial in January, but Monday, Lincoln County jurors found Leonard Gallegos, a former state probation officer, not guilty of possession of cocaine.

Gallegos, 50, was charged after Carrizozo police reported that he was found May 31, 2003, in a residence with 47-year-old probationer, Rito Samora.

Gallegos was employed by the New Mexico Corrections Department to supervise parole and probationers, according to Carrizozo Police Chief Angelo Vega at the time of the arrest.

Possession of a controlled substance is a 4th-degree felony.

Gallegos' attorney, Adam Raffkin, said the 12th Judicial District jury in Carrizozo deliberated about one hour and 10 minutes before returning the verdict in favor of his client.

"I'm doing some speculation, but I think the reason for the acquittal was that there were a number of aspects of the story from the primary arresting officer that just couldn't be reconciled," the attorney said of the outcome of the one-day trial.

The previous mistrial was declared before the case ever made it to a jury, he said.

"Some inadmissible evidence was offered by one of the officers regarding that (Gallegos) didn't deny committing a crime, and you are not allowed to comment on a defendant's silence," Raffkin said.

As to whether Gallegos will resume his work with the state, Raffkin said employment law is not his specialty.

"It's my understanding he was fired at a post-termination hearing," the attorney said.

"He will have to talk to an attorney specializing in employment law whether the acquittal entitles him to have his job back."

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Capitan alumni to meet Friday

The Capitan Alumni Association will have its bi-annual reunion July 30 and July 31 in the Capitan High School multipurpose building. This year's theme is Honor the Teachers.

Registration begins at noon on Friday, with a gab fest and then supper at about 5 p.m. followed by a dance featuring The County Line Band until midnight. Saturday morning begins at 8 with late registrations and more visiting with coffee and donuts.

A program honoring teachers will be followed by a short business meeting and lunch catered by Rustic Roots Catering. Everyone is invited to come and see and visit with old friends, classmates, and cronies.

Parks and Rec field trip

Ruidoso Parks & Recreation will take an awesome kid field trip Thursday July 30 to visit Wet and Wild in Anthony, N.M., a large water park. The cost is $20 per person, and the group will leave School House Park at 8 a.m., to return between 8 and 9 p.m.

For more information, contact Ruidoso Parks & Recreation at 257-5030.

Chamber chorale rehearsals

Auditions for the fall semester Eastern New Mexico-Ruidoso Chamber Chorale are scheduled by Director Waynta Wirth for 6-8 p.m. Monday, Aug. 9, and from 3-5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 14, at the Ruidoso High School Choir Room.

In all, 24 spaces for choral performers are available in the chorale. Rehearsals will begin Aug. 30, with a final performance Nov. 22 at the Spencer Theater for the Performing arts in Alto.

The Chamber Chorale, in its 8th year of existence, provides a performance venue for more experienced choral singers in all vocal ranges.

Those interested in auditioning for the chorale may contact the director at 257-4840.

Alcohol server training

Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso will offer an alcohol server training from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Thursday at the ENMU college office. The fee is $30. Students must be 19 years of age with a valid photo ID and pass a test with a score of 80 percent or better to receive certification, and must bring a valid state or federal photo identification to class. Pre-registration and payment must be done at EMNU Ruidoso Center prior to class.

Adolescent ills compounded

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Adolescents who think little of themselves tend to shy away from interactions with peers. This uncertainty and withdrawal then draws negative feedback from other students, prompting even more withdrawal and leaving them with few chances to have close friends and as targets for teasing or bullying.

Such are the findings of a comprehensive year-long study led by researchers at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and published in the July/August issue of the journal Child Development. The study looked at three time periods in the lives of 605 fifth and sixth graders in a Midwest school district, particularly at how the youth and their peer groups mutually influenced each other.

"Our findings have important implications for understanding how both youth and their social worlds influence the course of children's relationships," said principal investigator Karen Rudolph, a professor of psychology at Illinois.

"Unfortunately, youth may enter into self-perpetuating cycles that result in a downward spiral of relationship difficulties," she said. "Intervening in these downward spirals and improving youths' relationships will require both helping youth to change their perceptions of their social abilities and worth, as well as helping schools to change the peer environments that permit social isolation, peer conflict and victimization."

The adolescents were asked about their self-views and experiences of stress in peer relationships. Teachers were queried about the adolescents' display of helpless, withdrawn, and prosocial behaviors with peers.

The researchers focused on how the youths' beliefs about their social self-worth and self-efficacy affected their behavior and experiences in the peer group, and how these experiences then influenced the youths' future behavior and beliefs.

The results confirmed the researchers' expectations about downward social cycles, suggesting that early intervention is needed to improve peer interactions in schools, Rudolph said.

"Understanding why some youth experience chronic difficulties in their peer relationships is critically important for learning how to prevent some of the negative consequences associated with isolation, rejection, and victimization by peers."

The National Institute of Mental Health partially funded the study, which also was supported by the University of Illinois.

The four recently hired teachers for Sierra Blanca Christian Academy are, from left, Rhonica Toler, Rachael Broaddus, Marquita Appleby and Julian Romero. Those interested in meeting the teachers and hearing from the administrative advisor about Christian schools are invited to a parent orientation from 7-8:30 p.m. Thursday at Angus Church of the Nazarene at the bottom of Angus Hill.

Christian school to host orientation Thursday

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Sierra Blanca Christian Academy will have an orientation for parents of registered children and those seeking more information from 7-8:30 p.m. Thursday.

The four teachers will be introduced, and John Foreman, administrative advisor for the school, will talk about Christian education — what can be expected from the new school and what will be expected of parents and students.

So far, 21 students have registered to attend school, but close to 30 students are expected by the time school starts, said Devin Marshall, board member.

"We have a great foundation laid," Marshall said. "It's really exciting. We have seven board members working on this."

Another orientation will be scheduled closer to the date of opening to discuss practical matters for parents, such as time to drop off children and pick them up.

Marshall said the board would like to have all registrations in by Aug. 10, but exceptions will be made.

The school moved quickly from meetings of parents and grandparents in February 2003 to the formation of Sierra Blanca Christian Academy in May 2003. In the fall, the board of directors of Angus Church of the Nazarene agreed to allow the school to use its new facilities, which include classrooms and a large gym. By spring this year, the board of directors of the school had grown to seven and more than 30 volunteers had agreed to teach electives.

Now the school has hired four teachers and Foreman as administrative advisor. Marshall said Foreman will come to the school several days each month and will be available for telephone consultations. He is acting superintendent of Mesilla Valley Christian School in Las Cruces. He helped to create SBCA's student/family handbook and teacher's manual and has experience and knowledge about Christian schools.

"Pastor Rick Hutchison will be acting as interim principal, overseeing teacher-parent affairs and the board will work together er with volunteer to create schedules," Marshall said. "We have a curriculum committee made up of homeschool moms and teachers. Trena Davis (a board member) is in charge of curriculum and coordinating volunteers. We'll have a lead teacher to answer questions with parents and coordinate." Kindergarten teacher Rhonica Toler is licensed to teach in New Mexico. She moved to Nogal almost four years ago from Houston, Texas. She has previously taught second and third grades and a sixth grade homeschool group. Last year she tutored fourth grade at White Mountain Elementary School.

"I have been a proponent of Christian education for 20 years — ever since I taught in public school," Toler said. "My children had an opportunity for a Christian education and I would love for children in this area to have the same opportunity. It's so awesome for children to know how important they are and how much God loves them and to realize their potential."

Julian Romero will teach third through fifth grades and will coach and teach physical education. He was raised and lives in Capitan, "and I'm probably related to half the people in this county," he said. He is licensed to teach in New Mexico and has taught in Carrizozo and Capitan.

Marquita Appleby, who has lived at Bonita Park for 12 years, will teach first and second graders. She taught at the former Ruidoso Christian School and in Belen, as well as in Nashville, Tenn. and for seven years at a Christian school in St. Louis, Mo. She said she applied for a teaching position with SBCA because of "the

SBCA tuition and other details

Classes at Sierra Blanca Christian Academy will be at Angus Church of the Nazarene, at the bottom of Angus Hill, the intersection of Highways 37 and 48. Classes for middle school and high school students start Aug. 18. Classes for elementary and kindergarten students start Aug. 23. Two hot lunches a week will be catered. Students will wear uniforms, which can be purchased through Zia Sports in Roswell.

Tuition for half-day kindergarten is $1,500, and for full-day kindergarten $3,000.

Tuition for first through fifth grades is $3,300. Tuition for sixth through 12th grades is $2,000. The latter will be on a four-day week with a self-paced curriculum in the mornings.

The registration fee is $250. Various discounts are offered on tuition. Those who pay in full by Aug. 1 receive a 10 percent discount. For the second student from a family, 5 percent discount is offered; 25 percent for the third student of a family, 50 percent for the fourth, and the fifth student from one family — throughout the life of the school — will attend free. Discounts are also offered to full-time pastors and missionaries.

level of academic achievement and the emphasis on the scriptures."

Rachael Broaddus will teach in the middle school and high school program. She moved to the area about a year ago from Wheaton College in Chicago, Ill., where she was working on a master's degree in educational ministries. She taught at a Christian preschool for three years while attending college. She plans to go back to school to get a teaching certificate.

"In teaching, I learned my heart was with kids and teaching," she said. Mid-school and high school students are on a four-day school week, and their classes start Aug. 18. The younger grades are on a five-day week and their classes start Aug. 23.

The school still seeks volunteer office help and donations of Christian books or literary classics, Marshall said.

COMING OF AGE

DIANNE STALLINGS/STAFF

Victoria Jane Rivera will celebrate her Mescalero Apache Coming of Age Ceremony Thursday through Monday at the Chino family feast grounds in South Tularosa Canyon. The daughter of Ruby Chino and Margarito Rivera, the 14-year-old sophomore at Tularosa High School is sponsored by A. Paul Ortega and Fleta Padilla. Victoria is the granddaughter of Martha Jane Chino and the late Serapia Ganadaria Rivera and Hermenegildo Rivera. Her great-grandparents are Elsie Chino and John Balache. Her great-great-grandparents are Sam and Lizzie Chino. She has one older brother, Rory, and one niece, Mikayla, of Mescalero, and four older brothers and sisters in Las Cruces. Victoria's hobbies include riding horses and cooking. She would like to study to become a culinary chef. The public is invited to join the family on the special occasion. Traffic jam: Neighbor objects to automotive center's congestion

■ Compromise reached between New World and adjacent neighborhood

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Complaints about trash and traffic at the back of an automotive center off Mechem Drive prompted a compromise in an effort to satisfy the business owner and neighbors.

Patrick McNulty, general manager of New World Automotive Center, told members of the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission during a hearing last week on an amended commercial site development that his neighbor filed a complaint about the number of vehicles she was forced to look at parked in back of the business.

When she bought the property, a tire business had just gone bankrupt and Dan Fender acquired the land and building to continue that type of business, he said.

"We try to keep the area clean, but there are a lot of tourists and you never know how many will break down," he said.

The number of cars parked could vary from six to 12 in a matter of hours. Difficulty and delays in getting parts, especially for foreign cars, also is a problem, he said.

After a lengthy discussion, the board approved the application with the conditions that two spaces paralleling Hansen

Drive be eliminated, that a third space on that road be screened and only one car parked there, and that outdoor work should not occur in the Hansen area.

McNulty asked if other businesses that back onto that street also will be required to stop working there, specifically citing a carpet store. Village Planning director Charles Rennick said he's taken a look at those situations too.

The automobile repair business will be allowed 23 parking spaces, including two that may be used for auto sales and six inside the building.

In another petition involving cars, the commission split 3-4 and ended up rejecting a motion to approve a conditional use application by Ronald T. McWhorter to build a three-story, 3,058-square foot garage on a 10.26 acre site. The property already contained a house, an apartment, an attached garage, an attached carport and one detached garage.

Voting against the motion to approve were Phyllis Barnett, Vicki Williams, Glen Barrow and Mike Reveley. Voting for the motion by Tim Hoyt were Harvey Foster and Brad Treptow.

The tract is zoned high density residential.

Doug Sabo, who owns land directly south of the property, said excavation has already started on the land. With tree removed, the area will be seen from Hull Road, which is lined with expensive homes, he said. "He has a 30-vehicle garage already," Sabo said, contending the land is being used for commercial purposes. He called the area an eyesore and questioned environmental impacts from things such as leaking oil.

Tim Collins, the surveyor representing McWhorter, said building the new garage would clean up the land, bringing cars now parked outside into the enclosure. Most are antiques, he said.

"Ron had started development when he came to me and I told him he was in error and to stop," Collins acknowledged.

Williams said, "It's a residential area and you're basically bringing a business into it."

Rennick said only one garage per house is allowed on a lot, no matter what the size. The village code is geared to the number of units, not acreage, he said.

es share common walls and therefore, a zero setback is allowed.

Not another Camelot

Barrow said the single-family home on lots 1 through 14 need a 5-foot variance on setbacks, or 25 percent of the requirement.

"It looks a little over developed," Barrow said.

"The village just passed a moratorium on multi-family housing (in Camelot subdivision)."

Collins replied that the Camelot action was based on water availability and density.

This project isn't high density, he contended, with 22 units on four acres.

Realtor Doug Siddens pointed out that residential construction is allowed in a neighborhood commercial zone as a conditional use.

'Big improvement'

The development should be a big improvement at the entrance to the village than "the junk they will see further on down the street," Collins said.

Village planning director Charles Rennick said the subdivision will have to go to the village council for final approval, but said he didn't think the density was too high for the acreage.

The single-family area backs up to steep terrain and Collins said he's not sure if the developer will stair-step the homes or put up retaining walls.

Erosion control plans

Interim and permanent erosion control plans and covering excavation or retaining walls must be submitted to the department before work begins, the commission specified.

"It looks a little over-developed."

Glen Barrow
chairman, planning and zoning

Double garages and two parking spaces per unit also are part of the plan, which satisfied one of the concerns of commission member Harvey Foster.

In another application involving multi-family construction, the commission approved the site development plan for Lot 7, Block 6, of White Mountain Estates, Unit 4.

The project was submitted by Melrose Construction and applicant James Burkhart.

Commissioners required that an extra lane be constructed to allow people living in the top two condominium units to back out of their dri-eways without impacting the street.

The 1.11-acre property at 102 Racquet Place was zoned for multi-family and Burkhart wants to build eight units, a principal permitted use in the district.

The condominiums comprise phase 2 of an existing project. Each unit must be planned with 200 square feet of outdoor living area.

Agent Jack Russell said 38 percent of the tract will not be developed.

Several neighbors objected to the extra traffic on the streets, which they said were narrow.

'Lovely to look at'

Some acknowledged that the other condominiums built by Burkhart were "lovely to look at," but complained about construction noise, truck traffic and workers parking on the streets.

Russell said the condominiums will contain 1,978 square feet and will sell for about $250,000.

The best cure for loneliness is waiting behind a kennel cage door at the Humane Society of Lincoln County's animal shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road.

Many senior citizens, who have lost life-long mates or experienced the loss of a child, or who simply can't get out as much, find themselves emotionally adrift.

Rebecca Simmons with the Humane Society of the United States wrote that the common scenarios of failed marriages, children moving out of the home, family and friends dying results in depression and loneliness for the elderly across the country.

Last May during Older Americans Month, the HSUS teamed up with the U.S. Administration on Aging to promote the benefits associated with pet and senior unions, she said.

She told about 72-year-old Marjorie Smith, who walked into the Idaho Humane Society in Boise two years ago after losing her son.

"When Smith saw Gus walk into the Humane Society's waiting room, she was impressed with (the Scottish terrier's) attitude," Simmons wrote, quoting Smith as saying, "We bonded immediately, and I have never been sorry for a moment that I went to the shelter that evening."

Kelly Connolly, HSUS issues specialist for companion animals, said emotionally, pets can bring new meaning and purpose to the life of a senior.

"The unconditional love and commitment to their owners is almost like free therapy," she said. "They act as friends, entertainers and warm, fuzzy bundles of joy. Having a pet in an elderly person's life can offer them a sense of well being, a sense of encouragement and even a reason for living. Being responsible for another life often gives new meaning to the lives of those who are living alone."

Caring for companion animals also helps elderly people remain active and healthier.

Studies suggest that contact with animals can lower blood pressure and that there is a link between pet ownership and an increase survival rate for cardiac patients. Other potential health benefits can include decreased stress, reduced bone loss, lowered cholesterol levels and improved blood circulation.

Before adopting, seniors should understand the amount of time required to care for a pet and must have the means physically and emotionally.

Animal care professionals often advise seniors to consider adopting an adult dog or cat, which may better fit their lifestyles than a puppy or kitten.

Shelters have mixed breeds, but nationally, about 25 percent of the animals in shelters are purebred. You often can put your name on a list for a certain breed or a particular appearance, is mixtures are your preference.

Adoption also is cost effective and some areas have special programs for seniors.

FAMILY AFFAIR

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

In and out of the arena, ranch rodeo had become an increasingly popular family sport in the county. It will take a score card to keep track of all the relatives competing in the arena and a complete data system to track them back to all the family members who fill the stands.

Keith and J.R. Shafer, of Claunch, were very little boys when they first started going to those first ranch rodeos in the county to watch their dad, Billy Bob Shafer, compete.

Their cousins, Sam and Wade Gutierrez of Mayhill, were a few years older but still youngsters in the bleachers watching with several branches of their family tree.

All the boys now compete, usually on teams of their own.

Their dad, Joe Gutierrez, was invited to compete with them this 4th of July. The next generation is now showing some mercy to those that came before them.

Usually Joe competes against the boys on an old guys' team, Los Viejos, with brother-in-law Billy Bob Shafer.

Jared Arnold was about 10 when he moved to the ranch west of Claunch. It was then he watched his dad, Greg Arnold, compete in his first ranch rodeo. In Corona last weekend they were on a team together.

Rankin and Dal Frost, though still teen and pre-teen, were pushing their dad, Duane, to get up a team and let them on it. They have been on teams together and on teams competing against each other.

It was complicated enough back then to sort through the brothers, brothers-in-law and assorted cousins who were all competing with and against each other on a handful of ranch rodeo teams. Lincoln County is not just ranch country, it's family ranch country.

Those sons have grown up to be good cowboys in their own right. They now enter on their own, and often it is to compete against dear ole dad.

This year's 4th of July ranch rodeo saw a mother-daughter combo from Las Cruces on an all-girl team. Erica Johnson and her mother, Amanda Mayfield, are the constant members of a rotating all-girl ranch rodeo team.

Brothers George and Bill Grassie competed in Capitan this year. If you don't remember them you'll remember their team name, the Prolapse Cattle Company of Capitan.

At the most recent Stampede ranch rodeo, only two teams of 17 entered didn't have a relatives on the team with them or had someone on the team that was related to someone on another team. That count could be altered if some were related and not admitting it.

The grandstands at Capitan fill to the brim over the 4th of July for the ranch rodeo. It is by far the most popular event offered at the Smokey Bear Stampede and draws people that would never show up to see a "regular" rodeo.

Those "real cowboys" have an appeal all their own and not just to their relatives.

Those very loud cheering sections from the grandstands are most definitely kinfolk to the cowboys in the arena.

It may sound like all of Carrizozo has filled the center grandstand section, but it is just the Ferguson-Shafer-Gallacher-Gutierrez-Cooper family and several dozen of their closest friends.

John Cooper, Arabela rancher and patriarch of the Cooper family tree and all its branches, sits every year in a chair along side two life-long friends in the shade where he has a bird's-eye view of the arena. John has a son, grandsons, sons-in-laws, and assorted shirt tail relations on at least three or four of the teams entered in both Capitan and Corona.

"No body gets a bigger kick out of it than I do," Cooper said, not ever admitting which team he was rooting for the most.

In good-natured fun, the families simply cheer for all the teams. In fact, "all" pretty much covers the number of teams with relatives on them.

Gilbreath charge flies to Rainbow win

Thewayouwantmetoo sets new record in winning second Triple Crown jewel

BY TODD FUQUA
RUIDOSO NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

All the way through the Rainbow Futurity juvenile race Sunday at Ruidoso Downs, it looked as though this was going to be Mike Joiner's weekend.

The quarter horse trainer had already won the Rainbow Derby the previous day with Brimmerton, and earned another notch in his belt when Bringinsomecash took first in the futurity juvenile. If Mr Fifty Nine could have won the $625,000 Rainbow Futurity, Joiner would have pulled off an unprecedented hat trick.

But it wasn't to be, as the Sleepy Gilbreath-trained Thewayouwantmetoo broke clean from the gate, then found a wide-open track after the field spread out. Jockey Roy Baldillez then ran the filly to a win with a track record of 19.209 seconds.

"She got away really super good," Gilbreath said. "And she looked pretty good to me."

The time was 7/100th of a second better than the time Miranda Fame posted during the Rainbow Futurity trials two weeks before.

It was a fast race on a sloppy track, as the rain and mist never let up, and every horse was battling the elements.

But Thewayouwantmetoo was never fazed by the mud. Indeed, none of the horses in the running seemed that affected by the conditions. Hardly Hateful and DM Shicago each made a strong challenge at the end, but each got bad starts and couldn't overcome Thewayouwantmetoo's lead.

"She's lightly raced compared to some of these other horses, and she came back from the trials really well," Gilbreath said. "She got away super good, and 100 yards out of there, I knew she was going to win."

With the win, Thewayouwantmetoo's earnings got a big boost, as her $300,001 earnings for the victory put her lifetime winnings at $304,485 in four starts.

"This is her fourth race, and they've all been here," said Thewayouwantmetoo's owner Shawnea Smith. "She's got a full sister and half brother that loved racing here, too."

Smith, whose husband Carl has a cutting horse business and was in Fort Worth, Texas, during the Rainbow's running, was almost out of breath and speechless while in the winner's circle, talking to her husband constantly on a cellular phone.

"We have a horse in the cutting finals in Fort Worth," Smith said. "So he stayed there, while I was here watching the race, so I've been telling him all about this."

"He couldn't believe she set the new record," she added. "Everything about this race was perfect. She just broke perfect and everybody spread out at left her the whole track to herself."

There's no question about the future of this filly, she was already paid up into the trials for the All American Futurity, and both owners and trainer feel confident. Thewayouwantmetoo can recover well from her record-breaking performance.

"It all depends on whether she can get into that race," said Gilbreath, referring to the multi-million dollar All American. "But she's very capable."

"I am so pleased with the way she ran today, and I'm excited to see how it all comes out," Smith said. "Just give us a fair break, and we'll all be happy."

It was another big payoff for bettors who placed their money on Thewayouwantmetoo, as the 8-to-1 shot paid $32.60 to win and contributed to a $704.80 trifecta payoff.

Anyone living in the Ruidoso area can tell you the monsoon rains that have fallen in the last two weeks have been a blessing.

Things are getting greener, the Rio Ruidoso is flowing higher, and fire restrictions have been lifted in the surrounding forest.

Horse owner Bobby Cox could count the rain a blessing as well. He watched his colt Brimmerton win Saturday's $306,000 Rainbow Derby in the slop and muck at Ruidoso Downs.

"There were some great horses in there, and we were just happy to be in the same company with them," Cox said. "We're just blessed to win it."

The race was a close one, with race favorite Planet Holland and Special Alternative fighting with Brimmerton to the very end.

Rodeo contestants put New Mexico on the map at nationals

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

It is a given fact that the National High School Rodeo Finals rank right up at the top of "tough" for the contestants that qualify from each of the 39 states, five Canadian provinces and entire nation of Australia.

With 13 performances and more than 1,550 contestants, the competition is high and the week is grueling.

The second go-round began on Thursday as the Ruidoso News went to print and finished up on Saturday night. That round saw some New Mexico rodeo hands pull to the top.

Qualifying in the top 25 in any event is a mark of skill above the norm. Winning a round ranks right up there with winning the lottery. Each event has 120-130 contestants competing for those top spots.

There were two New Mexico second round winners. Shibil Davis, Raton, in the bareback riding and Casey Sisk's 88 point ride in the bull riding.

That score for Sisk got him a tenth place in the short round as only 9 cowboys had covered two bulls for a qualified score.

When the dust had settled Sunday afternoon and national champions were named, Jared Green and Kanin Asay of Powell, Wyo., shared the national championship in bull riding with 164-point average scores.

Green entered the short round in first place, but had a no score in the final round. Asay entered the round with 84 points on one ride. He scored 80 points in the short round, took second in the round and claimed a share of the championship.

Not to be daunted with a bull riding no score in the short round, Green split first/second/third in the short round bareback riding with a 76 point ride. Green ended up fifth in the boys all around for the finals.

Tyler Rose Walton, not just another pretty face but a proven New Mexico all round hand, competed in the NHSRA queen contest. Walton tallied up 657.5 points for second place behind Kansas cowgirl Emily Aldridge who won the title with 687.5 points.

Walton place 2nd in modeling, personality, appearance and the personal interview. She won the horsemanship portion of the contests and was 5th in the 2 minute speech contest and 8th in the impromptu speech contest.

New Mexico rodeo contestants making the top end of the second round and final round were:

with wins over Christina Sanders of Santa Fe, 6-1, 6-2, and Los Alamos' Samantha Slutzky, 6-0, 6-0.

Also seeded No. 1 in 16 singles, McDougal completed the tournament with wins over Miranda McCaul, Albuquerque, 6-0, 6-0, and Tina Minkwitz, Alamogordo, 3-6, 6-2, 7-6. The final match lasted more than 2 1/2 hours.

McDougal completed the July tournament schedule with an appearance in the New Mexico State/El Paso County Junior Open, hosted at the El Paso Tennis Country Club July 23-26.

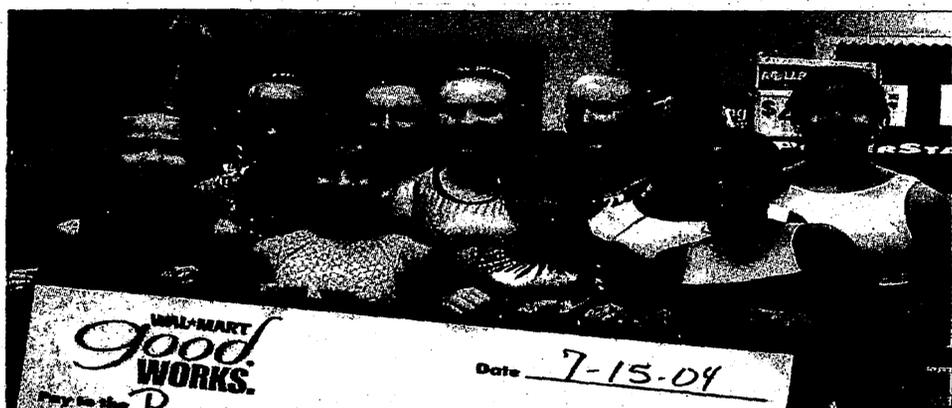

She teamed with doubles partner Nicole La Ferriere, Las Cruces, to win the championship in girls 16 doubles with wins over Carolyn Lopez and Amy Ferguson, Albuquerque, 8-3, and Lauren Chavez and Sandra Walker, Albuquerque, in a rain-abbreviated 7-2 match.

In girls 16 singles, McDougal reached the semi-finals with wins over Johanna Wesson, Albuquerque, 6-0, 6-0 and Alexandria Rios, Albuquerque, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. She lost her semi-final match, 6-2, 6-4 to Ferriere, and in the playoff for third place, fell to Nilsa Ramirez, El Paso, 6-1, 6-4.

Next up for McDougal is the High Point Junior Open Aug. 2-5, to be played at the High Point Sport and Wellness facility in Albuquerque. She will play girls 16 singles and doubles.

Hondo Soil and Water to host solar pumping tour

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

A little over a year ago Preston and Will Stone decided it was time to again check into the option of solar pumping for one of their remote wells. Ten years prior, the cost had been prohibitive.

The well they wanted a solar system for is the farthest from the ranch headquarters. The Stones had to make two trips a day to maintain the generator that ran the pump. Each trip was a two-hour round trip on rough roads that put considerable wear and tear on vehicles. The scenario is not unusual to New Mexico ranching. The remote well locations and plenty of New Mexico sunshine is making solar pumping a very viable option for water production.

Depending on the depth of the well and the lift the water has to be pumped, solar pumping systems can be a very economical option.

The Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District is sponsoring a tour on Thursday, Aug. 5, on the Stone Ranch. The tour will show the system set up in May 2003 on a 430-foot well.

Anyone that is interested in learning about solar pumping is welcome to come.

Even on overcast days, the six-gallon-per-minute well will pump 2-3/gpm. "It has to be pretty dark for it to quit completely," said Preston Stone. "Peak hours on a sunny day are 10 a.m.-3 p.m. There are other systems in operation around the county; some pumping as much as 25/gpm. It just depends on the situation."

Sunny Watts, Watts Well Service of Mayhill, will be on hand during the tour to explain the solar pumping systems, outline the options and costs and tell potential users if solar is a good option for them or not. The tour group will meet at 1:30 p.m. at the 90 degree turn on Highway 246, nine miles north of Capitan. The will leave the meeting point at 2 p.m. to travel to the well site.

Dulcie Sultemeier was a late starter to 4-H but is catching up in a hurry.

Corona's Sultemeier goes the distance for 4-H and FFA

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Dulcie Sultemeier lives on a ranch 22 miles east of Corona on the Round Mountain Ranch with her parents Mark and Barbara Sultemeier. As in much of Lincoln County, long distances aren't an issue, they are just a way of life.

So like many of her peers, Dulcie has to make an extra effort to participate in a school, sports and youth activities like 4-H and FFA. She thinks it's worth it.

Dulcie will start school the Monday after the county fair in August. She will be an 8th grader ready to start her second year in FFA as well as girls sports.

She participates in volleyball, basketball and track and tennis. Tennis is not offered by the school but for two summers now Dulcie has participated in a tennis camp in Albuquerque to perfect her playing.

This is only Dulcie's second year in 4-H. Most kids her age are on their fourth or fifth year in the organization. But even with a late start, she is starting out with winners. At last year's county fair she placed a first and second with her breeding sheep in the fine wool division.

This year she is again showing breeding sheep as well as a 19-year-old horse she calls Drifter. She will show him in the western pleasure, trail and at halter.

Indoor 4-H exhibits for Sultemeier will include baking, photography and arts and crafts.

Dulcie is excited about school this year. Her class is growing. She shared the seventh grade with one other student, Josh Gage. She heard there is a new kid in her class, this year so they will be an eighth grade class of three at Corona Schools.

In FFA last year Dulcie participated in wool, horse and horticulture judging. This coming year she hopes to at least stick with the wool judging. "Rachel Lueras was my mentor. She'd shoot me if I didn't stay with it," Dulcie says with a laugh. "I might add wildlife judging to the list though."

Dulcie has enjoyed the people skills that 4-H and FFA has taught her. "You have to talk to the judges, show your animals in front of a crowd. It all helps," she explains.

And she is looking forward to see the seventh graders endure FFA greenhand initiation. "It's their turn now," she said. Dulcie is a member of the Corona 4-H Club with Sabra Davidson and Leanne Hutcheson as her leaders.

Prizes to be given for best of show in indoor exhibits

Senior centers honor employee of the month

Archuleta recognized for more than a decade of service.

BY JULIE CARTER
FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Linda Archuleta has worked for the county senior centers for 11 years. Last week she was recognized by the county after nomination by senior director Ada Hendryx as employee of the month from the Lincoln County Senior Centers.

Archuleta oversees the menus and food ordering at five county centers - Ruidoso Downs, Capitan, San Patricio, Corona and Carrizozo. She says she loves the seniors and they are the best part of the job.

"They are all a little different in each area of the county," said Archuleta. "Some are more active and younger acting but they are all special."

A Carrizozo native, Archuleta married her husband Ernest in 1970. They have five grown children and two grand children.

When she first went to work at the senior center, she brought with her 17 years in restaurant experience. Since then she's taken many nutrition classes and even some culinary arts classes.

"I was challenged to learn alternative ways of food preparation and I really liked that," she said. "I cook much differently now even at home, watching the fat, salt and sugar content."

Before a week ago, Archuleta didn't even know they were giving county employee-of-the-month awards. "I just want everyone to know I really enjoy working with Ada and the entire staff in all the county center kitchens."

Linda Archuleta was named the County Employee of the Month from the Lincoln County Senior Centers. Archuleta is the head cook over the five county senior facilities.

POLICE BRIEFS

Ruidoso Downs reports
Shoplifting arrests

Ruidoso Downs police arrested two female juveniles from Chihuahua, Mexico, charging them with shoplifting $38.16 worth of miscellaneous merchandise from Wal-Mart Super Center July 11. The two were released to their parents.

Police cited Beau J. Allen, 20, of Ruidoso, June 29, charging him with shoplifting $2.96 of merchandise. He was released after being cited.

Juveniles drinking

The juvenile probation officer told police officers had seen numerous juveniles drinking near the North Central Mobile Home Park on July 16. An officer detained five of the juveniles, discovered they were foreign nationals, and contacted immigration officials, who took over the case.

Fireworks

An officer was dispatched to River Lane about fireworks being fired on July 12. The officer issued a nontraffic citation for fire danger to the mother of a juvenile who had been firing the fireworks.

Attempted abduction?

A juvenile and his father came to the Ruidoso Downs Police Department to report that two males and a female attempted to get the juvenile to get into a vehicle with them at the All American Park about 5:45 p.m. July 15.

Matches made off with

A resident of the 800 block of Utah Lane reported on July 23 that someone stole $20 and some matches from her home. An officer took a detailed report of the incident.

Fire starters

A structure fire brought officers to the Rocky Mountain Mobile Home Park about 2:20 p.m. on July 16. They found two juvenile males playing with matches and toilet paper—and a small wooden shed that had caught on fire. The fire was put out without incident and the juveniles were turned over to their parents.

Vandalism on Barcus Road

BY SANDY SUGGITT
RUIDOSO NEWS STAFF WRITER

Vandals were active along Barcus Road in Ruidoso between July 19 and 20.

Several residents of Barcus Road in Ruidoso reported vandalism, with injury to property ranging from $10 to $480 in damages, according to police reports.

Five victims reported that the damage occurred between 10 p.m. July 19 and as early as 6:30 a.m. July 20, up to about 12:55 p.m., but most noticed the damage by 7 or 7:30 a.m.

Four of the incidents occurred in the 400 block of Barcus Road and one in the 200 block.

A carved bear valued at $300 was broken in one yard, and a wooden wagon and two flowerpots were damaged.

A large birdhouse on a post valued at $200 was broken off at the ground and found laying in several pieces, and a real estate sign was "beaten up and bent," the report states.

In another yard, a carved bear valued at $400 was broken from its anchor in the ground, and the bear was thrown over the fence into the yard.

Yard lights and a decorative birdbath were broken at one residence, and, in another, a Mongoose skateboard was thrown into the yard, breaking a rain gauge.

FUNERALS DEATHS

Pedro Barela Baca

A prayer service for Pedro Barela Baca, 80, of Bent will be at 6 p.m. today at St. Joseph's Mission in Mescalero, with the funeral Mass at 10 a.m. Thursday at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Bent. Burial will follow at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Cemetery.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso, 257-7303.

Gregory Neal Jefferson Sr.

Graveside services for Gregory Neal Jefferson Sr., 53, of Ruidoso Downs will be at 4 p.m. Thursday in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Ruidoso.

Mr. Jefferson died Saturday, July 24, 2004, in Ruidoso Downs.

He was born June 12, 1951, in San Angelo, Texas, and moved to Lincoln County 20 years ago from Texas.

He attended the Four Square Gospel Church in Capitan. He married Norma Pinkston on June 23, 2003, in Carrizozo.

Survivors include his wife, Norma, of Ruidoso Downs; children Geeva Faye Jefferson, Tyson Jefferson, and Gregory Jefferson Jr.; his mother, Rosie Jefferson; stepchildren Amber Yarbrough, Dusty Baker, Heather Surratt and William Surratt Jr.; four grandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso.

Brenda Mansfield

No services are planned for Brenda Mansfield, 51, of Ruidoso.

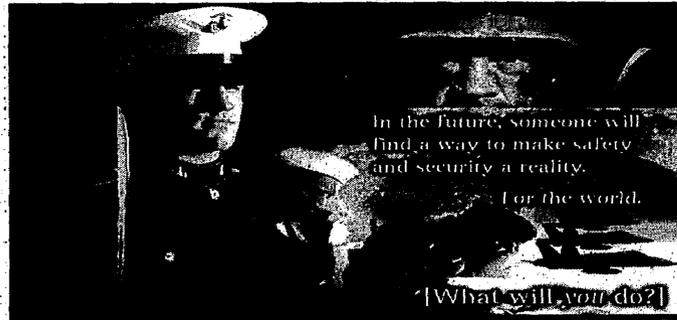

Mrs. Mansfield died Friday, July 23, 2004, at her home.

She was born Oct. 5, 1952, at Truth or Consequences.

She moved to Ruidoso in 1993 from Austin, Texas. She was a teller at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Survivors include her children Patricia Loyd and her husband, Mike, of Waco, Texas, Ginny Mansfield and her husband, Bobby Meece, of Ruidoso, and James Mansfield and his wife, Elizabeth, of Austin; grandchildren Richard Loyd, David Meece, Billy Meece, Genna Meece and Garrett Mansfield; her parents Mary Means of Ruidoso and Charles Porter of Corona; brothers Ronnie Porter, Dennis Porter and Henry Means and sisters, Linda Greer, Lorrie Pritt and Amy Porter.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso.

"Visit our hospital and we'll take care of you, and your taste buds."

— Santos Robledo, Food Services, Memorial Medical Center

Memorial Medical Center serves 500 to 600 meals every day in its dining facility. One of the more frequent diners is Jesus Robledo, who works in the hospital's environmental services department, and whose wife, Santos, is the hospital's lead caterer.

"We take great pride in preparing all our meals," says Santos. "We put a lot of tender loving care into everything we prepare, just like we were cooking for our own family. Every Friday, we serve our famous red and green enchiladas. It's been a tradition at the hospital for a long time. People really look forward to it. I'm often asked for the recipe."

Memorial Medical Center is like a second home for Santos. She was born at the hospital in 1950, the year the hospital opened, and all three of her children were born here as well.

Santos has worked at the hospital since 1977. Starting out as a part-time dishwasher, she's worked her way up, serving first as a cook and then as head cook for food services. Today, as the lead caterer for the hospital, she leads a team that prepares all the meals for special meetings and events at the hospital, for example, the monthly Shining Star luncheon, honoring the hospital's Employee of the Month.

Santos also prepares special treats for the physician staff. Her delicious homemade deep-fried chips and salsa are a favorite in the physician lounge. Jesus likes them too, when he can get his hands on them.

"Jesus doesn't get the homemade chips at home," explains Santos. "We buy them at the store."

The food services department at Memorial Medical Center serves approximately 200,000 meals a year to its patients and guests.

Not wrong to yearn for heaven

Q: Is it wrong to want to die and go to heaven? I've lived a full life and God has been very good to me, but now I'm feeble and sick and I yearn to go to heaven. But so far God hasn't seen fit to answer my prayer. Am I wrong to pray this way?
— Mrs. P.B.

Billy Graham
MY ANSWER
TRIBUNE MEDIA SERVICES

A: We weren't meant just for this life; we were meant for eternity. That, in fact, is why Christ came: to prepare us for eternity by taking away our sins and clothing us in His righteousness. The Bible says, "If only for this life we have hope in Christ, we are to be pitied more than all men" (1 Corinthians 15:19). And that's why it isn't wrong for you to yearn for heaven — for heaven is your true home. Jesus said, "In my Father's house are many rooms. ... I am going there to prepare a place for you" (John 14:2). The Bible also says, "Now we know that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building from God, an eternal house in heaven" (2 Corinthians 5:1). Just as I yearn for home whenever I am traveling, so we should yearn for our heavenly home as long as we are on this earth. At the same time, as long as we are on this earth, God has a purpose for us. Yes, old age brings its own burdens and problems (which make us yearn for heaven even more). But you can still pray for others and show them His love. Paul said, "I desire to depart and be with Christ, for that is better by far; but it is more necessary for you that I remain" (Philippians 1:23-24). Rejoice in every day God gives you — but rejoice most of all for the gift God has promised you of eternal life in Christ.

Discipline your 1-year-old with care

QUESTION: Please describe the best approach to the discipline of a 1-year-old child.

Dr. James Dobson
FOCUS ON THE FAMILY
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE

DR. DOBSON: Many children will begin to gently test the authority of their parents as they approach their first birthday. The confrontations will be minor and infrequent at first, yet the beginnings of future struggles can be seen. My own daughter, for example, challenged her mother for the first time when she was 9 months old.

My wife was waxing the kitchen floor when Danae crawled to the edge of the linoleum, Shirley said, "No, Danae," gesturing to the child not to enter the kitchen. Since our daughter began talking very early, she clearly understood the meaning of the word "no." Nevertheless, she crawled straight onto the sticky wax. Shirley picked her up and set her down in the doorway, while saying, "no" even more strongly as she put her down. Seven times this process was repeated until Danae finally yielded and crawled away in tears. As far as we can recall, that was the first direct confrontation of wills between my daughter and wife. Many more were to follow.

How does a parent discipline a 1-year-old? Very carefully and gently! A child at this age is easy to distract and divert. Rather than jerking a wrist-watch from his hands, show him or her a brightly colored alternative — and then be prepared to catch the watch when it falls. When unavoidable confrontations do occur, as with Danae on the waxy floor, win them by firm persistence but not by punishment. Have the courage to lead the child without being harsh or mean or gruff. Compared to the months that are to follow, the period around 1 year of age is usually a tranquil, smooth-functioning time in a child's life.

Send your questions to Dr. Dobson, c/o Focus on the Family, P.O. Box 444, Colorado Springs, CO 80903. Questions and answers are excerpted from books by Dr. Dobson.

Copp may get more 'Ps' than he planned

El Bombero! It is a title and position of rescue and recovery. It is a title and position of respect and reliability. And then, all of a sudden it is a title and position of fraud and falsity, thanks to Doug Copp. Of what is Doug Copp guilty? ... deception and deceit, and the height of hypocrisy.

Hypocrisy and self-promotion are mixed together with lies and misrepresentation to form a miasma of corruption that would tarnish the reputation of brave firemen, policemen, and EMTs. The investigation of the Albuquerque Journal found little evidence to support Copp's claim of 20 years of rescue work and certainly little rescue work post 9-11.

What in the world would bring a man to conjure up such egregious claims? Well, we all want to be popular, prominent, powerful, prosperous, promoted, and positioned. But, Doug Copp has gone to the extreme. Presenting himself as a rescue expert, damaged and diseased through his purported rescue work post 9-11, Copp received $649,885 tax free from the Victim Compensation Fund.

Clarifications
BY CHARLES CLARY
RUIDOSO PASTOR

That takes care of the desire for prosperity.

In his search for popularity, Copp attached himself by picture and personal bombast to real rescue persons in order to bolster his claims.

An exceptional con man, Copp produced a "casualty detection" machine. To help locate trapped survivors. Promoting himself to be interviewed by news media and talk show hosts, he played the part to the hilt. That takes care of the desire for popularity and promotion.

He would powerfully present himself in a way that would get him free lodging, meals, and travel. Power is a strong motivator.

Doug Copp has certainly gained prominence (the kind that he did not want) and position (the revealing front page of the A-J). Some sickness is at work in Copp, all right, and the disease is called human hypocrisy brought on by an inordinate desire to be some one special, and an inordinate desire to be some one other than who he really is.

Many folks have the same psychological problem, but very few have the boldness and brains to pull it off. What will happen to Copp?

He may get more of the desired "Ps" than he wanted... punishment, prison, parole, etc.

But, remember this, in our crazy society, he may be lauded and honored for putting a big one over on the public, the press, and the politicians.

We all need help for today and hope for tomorrow, but Jesus is the only way.
