County values jump

Lincoln County municipalities, unincorporated areas post gains in property values

DIANNE STALLINGS
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

The village of Ruidoso and the area outside Capitan led Lincoln County communities in new development property value growth this year.

After announcing last month that property values soared $65.2 million in 2008 based primarily on new construction and development, County Assessor Paul Baca recently broke down the areas that saw the most growth.

A countywide reappraisal will be on next year's tax rolls, ensuring that the $887 million taxable property value hit this year will be eclipsed.

Whatever may be occurring in other areas of the country, the growth in the county remains steady and he continues to receive inquiries from people wanting to invest in more business development, he said.

When taxable values in a county increase, the amount of tax levied to produce the same dollars as the previous year goes down. However, that doesn't always mean reduced taxes, because government entities often opt to leave the levy static to bring in more tax dollars to cover increases in operating budgets.

Baca explained that taxable values are listed by school districts and that Ruidoso and Capitan districts posted the biggest gains.

The conclusion come as no surprise. Besides the town of Capitan, the Capitan School District encompasses Alto Lakes, Kokopelli, parts of Ranches of Sonterra and Rainmakers, as well as three high-dollar subdivisions created by R.D. Hubbard, owner of Ruidoso Downs Race Track and Casino.

The village of Capitan saw a $760,000 jump in residential value and $225,000 in nonresidential, while those areas outside the municipality posted an $18.3 million residential and $2.9 million non-residential increase.

But the village of Ruidoso, considered the population and tourism hub of the county, remained the biggest contributor to the county's property value boost.

Residential property within the village grew by $19.5 million and non-residential by $4.4 million.

The city of Ruidoso Downs saw a $1.3 million growth in residential values and $2.9 million in non-residential.

Values for the areas outside of those neighboring municipalities increased by $4.4 million for residential and $3.7 million for non-residential.

Other areas posting increases in excess of a million dollars were residential outside Carrizozo at $1.2 million and $1.5 million for non-residential; residential in the Hondo area at $1.6 million; and non-residential inside Carrizozo at $1.1 million.

No-cost permits to be issued

■ Homeowners catch a break for minor repairs due to flood

DIANNE STALLINGS
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

Homeowners who work on minor repairs and cleanup at property damaged by the July 27 flood will be issued a no-cost permit by the Village of Ruidoso.

Deputy Village Manager Bill Morris presented a summary last week to village councilors that laid out the process.

Falling under the definitions of "minor" are interior repairs and shoring up of foundation walls and post footers, but not rebuilding patio walls or filling in yards washed away by floodwaters.

If permanent repairs do not exceed 50 percent of the market value of the structure, a standard permit process will be followed and only the area being repaired must meet current building code standards, Morris said. The structure is not required to be razed if it is below the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Flood Insurance Rate Map flood elevation.

"But it is highly recommended," Morris said.

Following federal, state and village rules, if permanent repairs likely will exceed 50 percent of the market value of the structure, an owner will need a certification by an engineer or surveyor of the elevation of the existing structure's

Community Channel 11 to reappear on cable

dstallings@ruidosonews.com

The Community Channel 11 will be back on the air for cable television viewers, but not exactly the way it previously appeared.

Ruidoso Mayor L. Ray Nunley said Tuesday he received more than a half dozen complaints from people asking about the removal of the channel programming, which posted community notices, televised races at Ruidoso Downs, Warrior football games and ran the audio from Rush Limbaugh's weekday radio program.

"After several calls, finally a live person came on," Nunley said of his attempts to reach representatives of Baja Broadband. He met with Phyllis Duncan and was assured the channel will reappear on cable, "but it may not be exactly the same format. They do plan to televise three football games and possibly the races in the future," the mayor said.

In a letter to Nunley, Baja Broadband General Manager David W. Johnson wrote that Baja now is a partner with Comcast Spotlight.

"We provide channels to our advertising partners strictly for the purpose of working with businesses interested in advertising on the channels we have on the cable system," he wrote. "When there are other community interests involved, we work with our partners to provide services mutually agreed upon."

He contended Baja officials were surprised when they found out about some of the items displayed on Channel 11 without the company's consent or involvement. He noted the company must follow rules of the Federal Communications Commission and terms of the franchise with the village.

Johnson said he will research the items broadcast in the past and get back to Nunley on the possibility of their continuation and the steps required.

"We are interested in airing events of local interest where feasible and

The Ruidoso Kiwanis Club presented plaques to Mr. Burger and McDonald's for their continued support of the Kiwanis Bug Program, designed to encourage students to improve their grades. Starting at the end of the second grading period and continuing to the end of each grading period until the completion of the school term, the Ruidoso Kiwanis Club awards students who have brought up one grade while maintaining the rest of their grades. The certificates can be redeemed at Mr. Burger and McDonald's. Pictured above are Carole Wiberg and Clinton Smith of Kiwanis, Jesse Velez (manager of McDonald's) and Dean Cantrall (shift supervisor).

Alto Lakes

The Alto Lakes Special Zoning District Commission will meet at 8:30 a.m., Thursday, at 8:30am in the Stag Room at the Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club, 1 Mulligan Drive, Alto.

The final agenda for the meeting will be published 24 to 48 hours prior to the meeting and will be posted on the bulletin board at the Country Club.

Capitan fundraiser

John and Cindy Foglesong will perform at a street dance fundraiser, 7-9 p..m., Sept. 5, at the Capitan Public Library, 101 East Second Street,.

The Foglesongs will feature country/western music with the accompaniment of a guitar and fiddle. Participants will have the opportunity for dancing and listening to two-steps, waltzes, and other toe-tapping country/Western favorites.

The Foglesongs have been longtime local residents of Capitan. They have performed at a variety of events primarily ranging from country/western to gospel music.

As an added feature, during intermission, line dancers from Ruidoso will demonstrate the art and enjoyment of line dancing.

Humane Society

The Humane Society of Lincoln County will hold its annual membership meeting, 5-6 p.m., Thursday, at the Resale Shop at the "Y," 430 Highway 70.

The public is invited to meet the board of directors, learn about an Adoption Center and Dog Park and to share ideas.

Burns continue

The prescribed burn in the Hale Lake area east of Ruidoso Downs will continue through today if conditions are favorable.

The burn began Tuesday. Some ash and smoke may drift into surrounding communities.

Officials with the Bureau of Land Management will conduct several prescribed burns on BLM-administered public lands southwest of Sierra Blanca Regional Airport beginning this week.

The project will continue through early winter.

Signs to alert the public will be posted and public access into the area is discouraged.

Nest funding

Help End Abuse for Life and the Nest domestic violence shelter receive operations funding from several sources, but the primary funder is the New Mexico Children, Youth & Families Department (CYFD).

Recently, the HEAL board of directors and staff hosted a reception for CYFD, as their Program Manager Karen Gaylord and colleague Shauna Fujimoto conducted a site visit and offered technical assistance at the shelter in Ruidoso Downs. Nine board members joined the full staff in greeting Gaylord and Fujimoto.

Our working relationship with CYFD is very valuable to our staff," commented HEAL Board President Susanne O'Malley. "It is a partnership focused on maximizing and providing the very best service possible for the women and children who come to our shelter."

For further information about the free and confidential services offered to victims of domestic violence at the Nest, call 378-6378 or toll free at 866-378-6378.

Attorney's conflict-of-interest roles spelled out

■ H. John Underwood represents village on Joint Use Board

Past criticism prompted attorney H. John Underwood to ask for a clear written understanding of what type of outside representation would constitute a conflict of interest with his work for Ruidoso in wastewater treatment plant issues.

The village council Tuesday approved a maximum $40,000 contract with Underwood to represent the village in issues before the Joint Use Board that governs the treatment plant co-owned by the village and the city of Ruidoso Downs. Councilors Michele Rebstock and Greg Cory voted against the motion that passed 4-2.

Underwood asked to insert an additional provision on conflict to avoid future controversy and to define the subjects on which he could represent other clients.

Specifically, he wanted assurances that he could continue to represent a developer before the planning and zoning commission.

Lawsuit questions

"Would this prohibit him from representing someone with a lawsuit against the village?" Cory asked.

"Would he be able to sue us?" Councilor James Stoddard chimed in, apparently in reference to a lawsuit on a nightly rental issue..

"Except on JUB matters, which he was hired for," Village Manager Dan O. Higgins said.

"And lobbying," Rebstock added, reminding councilors Underwood lobbies the State Legislature for the village. "I don't know how he can make money working for us and suing us."

Underwood explained that his representation is limited to the JUB. He represented a client on a planning and zoning application and a person suing another private person over nightly rentals once the village was removed as a co-defendant.

He couldn't accept terms that would prohibit him any other practice of law, he said.

Village Attorney Dan Bryant said he approved the wording of the provision, which states: "The parties acknowledge and agree that (Underwood) is a private practicing attorney in the community ... The parties also recognize that from time to time in his private practice, (he) may represent parties who appear before the municipal court, village planning and zoning commission, extraterritorial zoning commission, and who may seek building, sign, landscaping or other kinds and types of permits from the village."

Because of the limited nature of Underwood's representation on the JUB, no conflict of interest would exist, the provision stated.

Relationship issues

Rebstock also questioned Zack Cook, in practice with Underwood, sitting in for Bryant. Cook is married to Bryant's partner, Angie Schneider-Cook.

Bryant said he disclosed that relationship when he submitted his proposal to represent the village as attorney.

At the beginning of his partnership, some scheduling problems lingered from their individual private practices. With those now straightened out, only Bryant or Schneider-Cook will be sitting in the village attorney chair, he said.

"I don't expect that to happen again," Bryant said of Zack Cook's substitution for him at two planning commission meetings.

Bryant said when a question of conflict came up last spring, he researched how it could be handled within the council's jurisdiction.

"Based on that research, I inserted this language, which is consistent with the canon of ethics," he said.

Underwood also clarified that his lobbying contract is not legal representation.

Mayor L. Ray Nunley said Underwood's past work with the JUB represents "an institutional memory" that is invaluable to the village on wastewater treatment plant issues.

Deadline extended for 'Outdoor Classrooms' grants

DIANNE STALLINGS

New Mexico State Parks officials extended the deadline to Sept. 26 for schools and teachers to apply for transportation grants to take school children to "Outdoor Classrooms" on public lands across the state.

The previous deadline of Aug. 29 was extended. The transportation grant program is part of the Kids 'N Parks program, which is funded in part by a check-off option on the annual New Mexico Personal Income Tax form (PIT-D) that permits taxpayers to make a voluntary contribution from their tax refund to the State Parks outdoor education program.

"This program is part of our efforts to 'leave no child inside' and give New Mexico the nation's best outdoor classroom program," said State Parks Director Dave Simon.

"We hope the extended deadline will give more teachers enough time to apply for this funding, since lack of transportation is the number-one barrier to getting more kids into outdoor classrooms."

Grants may be used to transport school children to an outdoor education program at a state park; state wildlife area; a protected federal land area such as a national park, monument or wildlife refuge; or on private lands such as a nature center or ranch with outdoor education programs.

Teachers and school administrators who wish to apply for a State Park transportation grant can access and submit the simple application form through State Parks' Web site at www.nmparks.com.

Questions about the application and transportation grant program should be directed to Christy Tafoya, 505-476-3384; christy.tafoya@state.nm.us.

Change in process

Grants are not awarded on a first-come, first-served basis as in previous years, but now are competitive. The outdoor classroom program at the destination must correlate to classroom study and meet at least one performance standard from a minimum of two benchmarks for one or more content areas.

The transportation grant program is part of a large-scale effort by State Parks and the New Mexico Public Education Department to increase outdoor education across the state. Studies and research show that hands-on, outdoor education experiences can increase student test scores, reduce discipline problems, build citizenry skills and resource stewardship ethics, and increase teacher job satisfaction, Tafoya said.

The State Parks Outdoor Classroom initiative is one result of a joint study in 2005 by State Parks and the Public Education Department titled "Making New Mexico Schools Work Outdoors."

OUR OPINION

Emergency notification should be a way of life

Flood revealed flaws in alerting public

With the advent of the Web and its increasing usefulness in the news gathering process, we like to think that the newspaper is capable of disseminating breaking stories almost as they happen.

However, for truly urgent information, the public is still best served by the electronic media. In Ruidoso, that means radio.

But in the case of a wildfire, flood or other calamity, radio reports are of little use if the public doesn't know to switch the station on.

That's where a community alarm or emergency notification system is imperative.

We can look back and criticize the village's implementation of such a system as pitiful. Or overdue. Or unacceptable.

But that doesn't solve the problem, and there's nothing like a 500-year flood to illuminate our state of readiness.

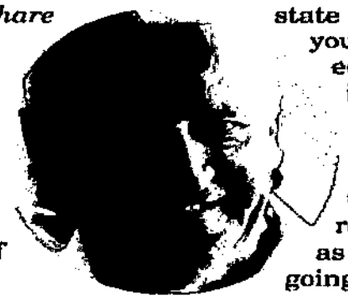
Supposedly, a software upgrade will have a Reverse 911 telephone alert system operating in about six weeks. The system was purchased two years ago.

But such a system is limited. The village needs a patchwork of sirens blanketing the town, and it needs to somehow educate residents and even visitors on the need, upon hearing the siren, to find a radio for valuable, reassuring, even life-saving instructions.

It's a way of life in Tornado Alley, and it should be a way of life in the mountains.

History will make this drifter larger than life

News item: New Mexicans are suing one another over where Billy the Kid was buried, who knows what, and why won't they share what they know.



NED CANTWELL

Fort Sumner is a busy little town near the eastern New Mexico border. She has a museum, a bowling alley, a library, four restaurants and a cluster of churches. She wasn't always so bustling.

It is July 14, 1881, as we take an imaginary journey to the Fort Sumner cemetery. It is a dreary Thursday morning. A scattering of townsfolk have gathered. The preacher is there, of course, plus various weathered cowpokes who have been asked to remove their guns, a pretty girl in her 20s blessed with child and a few town tag-a-longs who have nothing better to do.

"Bow your heads, please. We gather here today to celebrate the life of our dear beloved Henry and to lay him to rest...."

The pregnant young lady whimpers. "Darn him all to heck, he told me his name was Billy...."

"Quiet now, dear. I'll get to that," preacher cautions her.

"As I was saying, this young fellow wasn't really much of a guy, certainly not well thought of. My friends, that will change and this nondescript man will become famous and inspire squabbling 125 years from now.

"No, really, stop laughing. This is a funeral, for heaven's sake.

"Our feisty little friend was just 21. How cruel that he died as a mere youngster and could not have lived to a ripe old age to pursue the American Dream, which, in his case, meant killing as many people as he could.

"Henry McCarty was born in 1859. We think. Maybe not, maybe his real name was William Henry Bonney. His dad might have been Patrick, Michael, William or Edward McCarty. Truth is, we don't know who the heck this kid was. Makes no difference.

"He came to our beautiful state of New Mexico as a youngster and attended elementary school in Silver City.

"As we ponder his life and send this young man on to his maker, let us refer to him simply as 'Bill.' History is going to call this drifter Billy the Kid and history is going to make him larger than life.

"Before we bid Billy a fond farewell, let us look at his life. He was quite a cutup around Silver City where Mom, soon to die, was a jolly, hard-working lady and dad was often AWOL. While no Rhodes Scholar, he did OK at school. His teacher said Billy often volunteered to do chores. There is also the theory he threatened to beat the crap out of other kids if they didn't do his chores.

"While other youngsters left school and went on to become ranchers, lawmen, clerks and traders, Billy chose cattle rustling and gun slinging, He liked to brag about killing at least 21 people. Truth is, he had a big mouth and probably killed half that many. But it was a start.

"I predict that while we see Billy as a misfit thug, one day he will become such a folk hero that in the 21st century there will be dissension among the people leading to lawsuits arguing over whether this is really Billy the Kid and is he really buried here in Fort Sumner.

"May the Lord bless him. Amen."

As the crowd disburses, one of Billy's gang looks glances at another and says, "There is one nutty preacher with way too much imagination."

NED CANTWELL – ncantwell@beyondbb.com - warns that each and every detail of Bill's funeral may not be historically accurate.

YOUR OPINION

We have the right to question prison

To the editor:

THIS IS IN response to Cristina Cole at Fort Stanton, and will be my last response to this "already done deal": Camp Sierra Blanca.

First of all, you don't know me at all. You have no idea if I volunteer in and around Lincoln County (where I reside) or not. You have no idea if I "have money" or not.

My husband and I moved here eight years ago after having worked 30 years and 28 years, respectively, at one job and were able to retire. We came out here to visit for six years before we bought land, built a home and moved to beautiful Lincoln County. We also pay taxes that keep Camp Sierra Blanca going.

You talk about the "clients" of Camp Sierra Blanca and Debra Pritchard calls them "kids." They are neither. They have committed a crime or they wouldn't be there in the first place.

The second year we lived in the area, two of your "kids" escaped, followed the river up to Ranches of Sonterra and broke into a house, stole guns, etc., and were on their merry way. Thank goodness no one was home.

Two years ago, two more "kids" escaped, made their way to TR's market in Alto and carjacked a law abiding citizen. Thank goodness he was not hurt.

Last year two more "kids" escaped. This time they headed towards Lincoln and hitched a ride from an older gentleman. One got in the front seat and the other in the back seat where he felt under the seats and found a gun and stole it. Thank goodness he didn't use it on the driver. And off they went to Carlsbad.

Hmmmm, these are the "kids" that you have there now, low-risk, first-time offenders and you wonder why we are concerned at the prospect of you bringing in medium-risk, repeat offenders. So what are we to expect from them?

And the statement made at the meeting held on Wednesday, Aug. 20 (yes, I was there), that you were only putting up the 14-foot fence to "make the community feel at ease and not to keep the 'kids' in" was laughable.

The "kids" there now may be very helpful, but do the community a favor and don't help by sending the "more hardened kids" into the community.

As for advice, take some, we live in a democratic society and we have the right to question how the State Department of Corrections runs things, especially in our own community.

I sure wouldn't want my law-abiding kid living in an ENMU dorm right up the hill from Camp Sierra Blanca at the newest state project.

Lastly, I find your letter to be a personal attack on me, someone you don't even know and think I shouldn't question things going on in my community. Guess again!

Peggy Whittemore
Alto

Woman to be admired

To the editor:

ON THE BASIS of a recent letter to the editor from Christina Cole, it is obvious that she does not know Peggy Whittemore. Mrs. Whittemore is an active Fort Stanton and Lincoln County volunteer, spending countless hours to improve the quality of life for all of us. She is a woman to be admired and emulated, not criticized.

Lincoln County is alive and well, and ever-changing and growing. Now, Debra Pritchard, head of New Mexico Children Youth and Families Department, wants to place a prison at Camp Sierra Blanca, which is part of Fort Stanton, in the middle of Lincoln County. Pritchard, apparently, wants to blame real estate developers, and does not understand that Lincoln County is growing and does not want a prison nearby.

Fort Stanton is now a state monument and is growing in stature as a major tourist attraction in southern New Mexico. Nearby, ENMU-Ruidoso will soon become a major learning center with students coming from all around the United States. Do we want a prison with 14-foot chain link fences just minutes from beautiful and historic Fort Stanton, from a university and from the Spencer Theater?

I think the answer is a resounding "No!" Please tell Pritchard, our state senators and representatives, our county commissioners and our village councilors that Pritchard, her prison and her prisoners need to be some place else.

Supports entire GOP slate

To the editor:

RECENTLY THE SUPREME Court of New Mexico ruled to place Steve Sederwall on the ballot for sheriff of Lincoln County against the Republican incumbent, Rick Virden. Sederwall will run as an Independent.

Sheriff Virden ran unopposed in the county Republican primary. The Republican Party of Lincoln County strongly supports Sheriff Virden in the November election and is working diligently to elect our entire slate of Republican candidates.

Big thank-yous

To the editor:

I WOULD LIKE to thank all of you that helped us make the Big Brother Big Sister 2nd Annual Rubber Ducky Derby possible.

Beginning with The Hubbard Foundation for sponsoring and donating the Derby's prize money once again, your generous support is much appreciated. Thank you for your pleasant and helpful attitudes to those of you who helped us in the setup, organization and promotion of the event including Rifle, Ellen, Erma and Tonya at the Village of Ruidoso; Barbara and the staff of The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce; Kerry Gladden and staff at The Agency; and the staff at the Ruidoso News, KBUY, KWES and KIDX Radio Stations.

To those of you who took the time to help sell the tickets for our Derby, I cannot thank you enough for helping us make this event happen. So a big thank you to Sharon and Javier at City Bank's Gateway Branch; the staff at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, Kathy Richardson at the Village of Ruidoso's Forestry Department; the staff at Ruidoso Office Supply; Lynn Willard and staff at the Ruidoso Animal Clinic; Ken Foote at the Lincoln County Solid Waste Alto Transfer Station; the staff at City Bank's River Crossing Office; Kerry Gladden at the Agency; Lynn Carter at Pine Cliff Condos; Brenda Asbury at City Bank Mechem Office; Dan Austin CPA and Frieda, Jill Dennis and Derrick from the Roswell headquarters; Lesley Hayes, program director for Lincoln County; and the Big Brother Big Sister "Bigs & Littles" who assisted us.

A special thanks to Ron Buckner, Cyrus Foote and Beverly Foote for selling tickets, running errands, making phone calls numbering ducks, and taking care of whatever else came up at the time.

Thank you to all who stood out in the rain on the day of the race and helped release and round up the rubber ducky racers in the rapidly rising river.

Finally, thank you to all who showed your support for Big Brothers Big Sisters with your purchase of tickets for the Rubber Ducky Derby.

Your support is very important and essential for our program.

Life and death decisions: Which trees to cut, which to spare

Tim Lydon
Writers on the Range

I live in a part of the West where protecting houses from fire is a dangerous and expensive business. It's that incendiary mix of homes and forest alongside publicly owned lands, the kind of place that's bankrupting the U.S. Forest Service.

My home is in northwestern Montana. It's not a flashy McMansion; it's a modest house built 30 years ago, and it's just two miles from town. But my neighbor happens to be 30,000 acres of timber-company land, and its neighbor is a national forest. Any day, a campfire or lightning strike could erase my home.

Westerners know that wildfires grew bigger, hotter and more costly in the last decade. Although fringe elements blame environmentalists or too much wilderness, the true cause is the hapless combination of a century of Forest Service fire suppression, diminishing snowpacks and the growing droughts associated with climate change – not to mention a reckless housing boom on fire-prone lands.

In my community, the government offers grants for landowners to thin unhealthy forests, making them more resistant to big fires. The idea is to mimic the low-intensity ground fires once common here, by removing litter, pruning trees and thinning overcrowded stands.

It's a treatment long overdue on the dense woods that have taken over one acre near my house. Last autumn, foresters walked the land with me, showing me how to make it fire-safe. In late February, with the snow still three feet deep, I went out with my loppers and crosscut saw and got to work.

It seemed a simple project: Each day after work I'd lop branches until dusk, pruning up to 10 feet. My wife, Barbara, piled the branches, and even as bark and lichen fall on our faces, we enjoyed ourselves. We found fox and grouse tracks in the snow and a magnificent cottonwood we had never even noticed.

In March, we got busy on the fir thickets. This was easy, too, removing spindly saplings that starve bigger trees and offer flames a ladder to the canopy. The ladder can transform a creeping ground fire into a roaring wall of flame. As we removed the last saplings, we begin to focus on taller firs. And that's when our confidence wavered.

With the forest more open, we became nervous, wondering if we were creating a sanitized park or losing privacy. Then there's another problem: We're tree-huggers.

Removing fir thickets is one thing, but choosing older firs to go is harder. One offers shade for a young cedar, while another shelters some well-used deer beds. We decided to wait.

We moved to the cedars, growing thick in the absence of fire. But cedars are special. Along the Northwest coast they provided canoes, fish hooks, clothing and planks for longhouses. Here in the Northern Rockies, their fibrous bark and drooping fronds are unique among our spruce and fir. We cut a few, but quickly moved on.

The spruce should be easier. They're abundant along the edge, with their crowns mixing together and inviting a hot fire. When we fell small-diameter trees we can almost hear the larger ones sigh in relief. But after six trees we stall again. We really should take out some taller ones, but each reaches skyward with pointy crowns, their trunks straight as a ship's mast. We stare for a while, then walk away.

Removing a few snags should be simple. We quickly down four, our saw gliding through their brittle trunks. But we become bogged down about the rest. The woodpeckers are frequenting one, while another – broken at 30 feet – might be nice for an owl. Barbara walks to a scraggly pine and shakes it. "How about this one?" It's a runt, with a scant crown and rounded top, yet it's a white pine, and we only have a few. We leave it.

One afternoon in late March, I'm out there alone. After long deliberation, I decide to remove a tall fir. It'll create some much-needed spacing between crowns. Finally, a firm decision.

But before I can make the first cut, Barbara arrives. She shatters my resolve, pointing out that two nearby birches are dying. Removing the fir might create too large an opening, eliminating winter shelter for deer and others.

We go inside. From the window, I see we've created a giant slash pile, but the acre still looks thick. I'm learning that reversing a century of fire suppression while maintaining a diverse forest for the future doesn't happen overnight.

> Maybe our woods just need a good fire, not a couple of hack imitators like us. They need something indiscriminate, something drastic, like a wolf on a young elk.

Maybe our woods just need a good fire, not a couple of hack imitators like us. They need something indiscriminate, something drastic, like a wolf on a young elk. It may not look pretty, but just as wolves strengthen elk herds by culling the weak, fire strengthens forests. Without remorse, it removes the young and sick, favoring big Doug firs or ancient cedars. The stories are singed across their trunks.

All this makes me think of the Forest Service, which manages millions of acres of fire-starved woods. The agency doesn't pine over cutting trees, but it suffers a paralysis similar to ours. Often, its thinning proposals are thwarted by citizens opposed to logging. Sometimes the distrust is justified, when logging projects mask themselves as fire restoration. Added to that tug-of-war, bureaucratic requirements hobble attempts to use prescribed and natural fire. Then there's the budget crisis, which makes simply functioning a heroic achievement for a collapsing bureaucracy.

In the end, 95 percent of fires on public lands still get suppressed each summer, and fire-prevention projects lag far behind. This winter, George Bush lopped away even more at fire-prevention funding, further endangering firefighters, homes and forests.

Meanwhile, living with inevitable fire is anything but easy, and that goes for the government, as well as for landowners like me.

The gambling life: Ranching's endless list of challenges

Mary Flitner
Writers on the Range

The other day I heard a newsman refer to "these perilous times" for business people. No kidding, I thought. The gloomy picture featured rising costs, increased property taxes, deepening recession, employee demands for more insurance and benefits, market risk – the list went on.

I thought of the risks we've faced in ranching, with more to come. Big sigh.

Suddenly, I laughed out loud. I remembered being 50 miles from home in 1979, at the Labor Day Horse Race in Tensleep, Wyo. We were in business for ourselves then, too, and our financial picture could charitably be described as bleak.

Land-rich, cash poor, is the way the bankers put it. The livestock market was at rock bottom, and nobody was buying ranches, even if we'd wanted to sell.

The races, though: Held on a dirt track at the edge of town, the annual races featured mostly ranch horses brought by people who just wanted to have some fun and see which horses could run.

Despite the gloomy business setting we were in, we gathered up some friends and a couple of fast horses and rattled off to Tensleep in a beat-up old pickup and trailer, ready for the horserace.

The sunny autumn day attracted a jolly crowd from nearby towns and ranches. The entry fees were small; our horses won their races and we made a little money. We joked about being a small-time syndicate as we placed some bets, laughing and enjoying our good fortune. Fun is where you find it, especially during hard times.

In the late afternoon, we'd gathered at the bar in town noisily celebrating our victories, when a local fellow started bragging that he had a horse back at his ranch that was faster than any of the others, and he'd bet $1,000 cash to prove it. Somehow, we heard ourselves saying, "Well, then. Go home and get him. You're on."

When we pooled our money to cover the bet, our syndicate only had $300 of the $1,000 we needed, so somebody had to write a check for the remainder. There were no ATM machines back then, and cashing an out-of-town check on a holiday wasn't easy.

Nobody had money to spare, and many of us ranchers were heavily in debt.

A thousand dollars was a lot of money 29 years ago, borrowing at 16 percent interest rates. But somehow, we got the money together and went back out to the track at dusk, each of us secretly wondering if that horse really could outrun ours, and what we'd do if we lost.

With a lump in my throat I stood thinking of groceries, school clothes for the kids and how we'd pay the bills.

We waited nervously for the guy to show up. Our friend Delmer, who owned "our" horse, was sweating bullets. "How'd we get into this?" he asked. "I've never been much of a gambling man."

After a quiet minute, my husband roared and slapped him on the back. "What? Delmer, you've gotta be kidding. You've gambled more than this every day you've been in the ranching business. You've been bucked off horses, run over by cows; you've walked home when your truck broke down, worked jobs, made a living against all odds. You've gambled on cattle prices and the weather and the price of hay.

This horserace is nothing at all compared to being in business for yourself. So if we're all gambling anyhow, let's at least have a little fun at it!"

We did. At the starting line, a cowboy had the cash money snapped in his polyester shirt pocket for safekeeping; winner would take all.

When the flag dropped, the horses jumped out neck and neck, their hooves pounding in the dirt. The dust flew; we could barely see the finish line and we didn't know at first who'd won or lost. We did win, though, and we gathered up our money and left town as quickly as we could, feeling more relief than triumph. We knew that $1,000 meant a lot to the loser, too.

> We gathered up some friends and a couple of fast horses and rattled off to Tensleep in a beat-up old pickup and trailer, ready for a horserace that could break us for good.

Looking back at what we risked that day, I want to give heart to young friends who are struggling to succeed as ranchers, or in any business. "Win some, lose some," I want to say.

Of course it's perilous. Of course there's risk, but there's also reward and sometimes profit, and certainly adventure, satisfaction, achievement.

Definitely it's a gamble, but oh, the fun of the race.

H&R Block Income Tax Courses starting soon.

H&R Block, leaders in the tax preparation business for 50 years, is currently encouraging people to enroll in their Income Tax Course. Classes begin soon and are held in a number of convenient locations in the area. H&R Block has taught more than two million people how to prepare taxes and develop personal tax-saving strategies during the past 20 years.

H&R Block has experienced instructors and the best teaching materials available. Students taking the six-week course will learn to complete both federal and state tax returns and learn the ramifications of the latest tax laws. Students learn through hands-on experience with actual case studies. After course completion, many students use their skills to generate a seasonal or part time income.* Some even are trained to become H&R Block Tax Professionals.

Free falling: doing work in zero gravity

Editor's note: Gwynne Skaggs Ryan, a 2004 graduate of Ruidoso High School, currently attends New Mexico State University and will graduate with a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering in May 2009. Following is the last part of her recount of a truly unique undergraduate student experience.

On the morning of my flight, Ellington Field radiated excitement and apprehension; six months of hard work and sacrifice was boiling down to a three-hour flight with 10 minutes of microgravity.

While sitting in preflight briefings, boarding the plane and flying out to the Gulf of Mexico, the combined thought of all present could almost be felt, "Please let our project work!"

The first few parabolas are reserved for fliers to adapt to the new environment. Fliers are seated on the cabin floor, unsure of what is to come, waiting impatiently for the famed sensation of 0g. I could feel the nervous butterflies forming in my stomach, like the first time I rode the Titan roller coaster at Six Flags in Arlington. The clicking, as the car is initially hoisted to over 250 feet before the fall, and I frantically wonder if this is really such a great idea.

The same process happens on the C-9, only there is more time to contemplate this question as the excitement builds. Just as I had decided participating in the microgravity project was not one of my best decisions, the pilots announce that we are beginning the first climb and to prepare for hypergravity. Hypergravity is just as I expected, similar to, but more intense than, the heaviness experienced when an elevator initially begins to move upward.

All doubts fall away as the plane noses over, enters dirty air (the transition phase between hypergravity and microgravity) and finally emerges into zero gravity. Zero gravity cannot be described nor conveyed in mere words; no earthbound experience comes close.

The sensation is floating in air, not falling. I am gently lifted from my seated position and childlike joy bubbles up from within as expressions of surprise and delight fill the cabin. I am content just to float upwards and drink in the sensation, then abruptly the plane begins to pullout of the dive and I sink back down and prepare for hypergravity. After three parabolas, we are adjusted to the environment and ready to begin working on our experiment.

My team's project was an experimental verification of an algorithm proposed by an NMSU professor, designed to calculate the changing inertial properties of a free-floating system.

Identifying internal properties for a free-floating system, like a spacecraft, is critical for the effective and accurate operation of the internal control system that is based on accurate knowledge of the system's internal properties.

In order to identify and record the system's internal properties, there needs to be an initial and final state developed through different system configurations – like different load distributions.

This change in the system's state allows the proposed algorithm to calculate the inertial properties for the final system configuration. We altered the system's internal properties by moving a single-axis robotic arm that is preprogrammed to go from one position to another in order to induce a change in angular velocity of a mockup hosting satellite body.

Parameters such as final orientation of the robotic arm relative to the hosting body, the initial angular velocity of the system and masses attached to the host body were varied in specified intervals to enhance the test performance and help us understand the dynamic principles involved. Now, all we have to do is interpret and analyze the loads of data gathered.

My flight experience at JSC was beyond words. We learned invaluable crosscutting skills in engineering application, technical communication, fundraising and teamwork. I will use my experience to encourage students in New Mexico to pursue higher educational opportunities, specifically in the fields of science and engineering. The particular flight program that I participated in is restricted to undergraduate students, and I have one more summer that I will be considered an undergraduate.

EDUCATION BRIEF

The Capitan Alumni Association invites you to attend the 2008 Homecoming activities, beginning Thursday with a pep assembly at 1 p.m., followed by the parade at 2 p.m. The parade will travel from east to west, ending in the school parking lot. That evening, the Capitan Tiger Volleyball team plays the Carrizozo Grizzles at 4 p.m. in Carrizozo. On Friday, from 5-7 p.m., join the Capitan Alumni Association for free hot dogs, chips and drinks. The football kickoff will be at 7 p.m. against the Carrizozo Grizzles.

Students design surprise for RHS faculty

Each school year, the Ruidoso High School student council tries to do a "staff appreciation" project. In the past, the students have given the teachers some sort of little back-to-school gift, or at Christmas, put little goodies in their boxes.

This year, the council decided to do something different. The staff lounge at RHS is 23 years old and desperately needed a makeover. Considering council advisor Yelena Temple is a big fan of HGTV and home improvement, she talked second-year student body president Cassie Thompson into doing their own version of "While You Were Out."

"While You Were Out" is a show on the HGTV network about room makeovers completed while the owner of the house is away.

The council was up to the challenge and began working June 24, completing the project within a week. Not only were the walls painted, but the bulletin boards were covered with fabric, the cabinets were totally refinished – including hand-painted artwork by Monica Sanchez – and the kitchen backsplash was tiled. Approximately three to five students per day gave up part of their summer vacation to work in the lounge, and a total of 19 students completed the project all together.

Those that worked on the project were – Painters: Brenda Pinon, Courtney Kessler, Carly Reynolds, Ellyn Koehler, Angela Gardner, Cassie Thompson, Brittney Marshall, Cait Kipp, Danielle Cadena, Claudia Marmolejo, Jacob Rigsby, Chad Susan, Yelena Temple and Marikka Temple

Fabric: Sarah Koehler, Ellyn Koehler, Tamela Parker, Cassie Thompson

Cabinets: Scott Thompson, Forrest Sanchez, Monica Sanchez, Frankie Gavin, Brenda Pinon, Cassie Thompson, Marikka Temple.

Cabinet Artwork: Monica Sanchez.

The council would like to extend its gratitude to Holiday Inn for donating furniture, and Imports Etc. for donating accessories. The council would also like to thank Martha Sanchez for her help with framing and Curt Temple with his assistance on the cabinets and tile.

Finally, the council thanks RHS principal Stephanie West for giving permission to do this project.

Teen Spotlite

Sponsored by Lincoln County DWI Prevention

Teen Spotlite continues to feature area teens that have made a difference in their community. Tyler Coleman is a teen that unselfishly gives of his self to others. Tyler is the son of Gary and Angela Coleman and a freshman at Ruidoso High School. He was a member of SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) at Ruidoso Middle School and plans to be active in the Ruidoso High School Chapter. Coleman is a serious student and strives to make good grades.

Coleman is also an active teen. He plays football, basketball and golf for the Ruidoso school teams. Away from school he enjoys hunting and being in the outdoors. Coleman also makes a difference by attending events designed to provide skills integral to a leader. He attended the first Light the Fire Youth Summit which was designed to provide students with leadership skills and provide them opportunities to be a voice in the community.

Being part of the Gateway Church of Christ Youth Group is a focus for Coleman. This summer, he was a counselor at a youth camp where he mentored third and fourth grade students. Besides giving back to his community, Coleman was part of a group that traveled to Mexico this past summer. The group made the trip south to assist in building a foundation for a much-needed church.

Coleman entered his high school years this fall, but already has plans for his future. These plans include attending Lubbock Christian University in Lubbock, Texas. After completing his Bachelor's degree, Coleman plans to then enter veterinarian school. His diverse interests are evidence of his desire to make a difference in our world.

where we can secure the necessary rights to display these events," Johnson wrote.

Later in the council meeting, when the only public hearing on the agenda came up, Planning Director Bob Decker told councilors that David Robinson asked for a postponement of his appeal of a Village Planning and Zoning Commission denial of his four-cabin project.

Decker said after the July 27 flood, he checked the third of an acre property at the west end of Sudderth Drive and found it suffered significant damage.

"We went out to look and advised him of the damage." Decker said. "He has to reevaluate the project."

"A lot of the land is not there any more," Village Manager Dan Higgins added.

Instead of a steep slope, the land now is a sheer cliff with most of the bank eaten away.

In their denial, planning commissioners worried about the erosion on the lot and drainage into the river. However, they expected the property to wash away from the top, not from bottom, Decker said.

In other action, councilors:

• approved a contract with the state Forestry Division for a Ruidoso Wildland-Urban Interface Hazardous Fuels Reduction cost sharing program.

• adopted a resolution in support of a change of scope of work for the MAP cooperative program with the New Mexico Department of Transportation for Fiscal Year 2007-2008. By approving the resolution, the street department can use the remaining money from the Gavilan Canyon bridge project to begin construction on the Close Drive Bridge. To date, Gavilan used $148,263 of the $271,953 allocated and the village's 25 percent match already was met with in-kind services.

• adoption of a resolution of commitment to funding of the FY2008-2009 MAP Funding Program of the NMDOT, dealing with a municipal arterial program cooperative agreement. The $233,333 agreement covers part of the cost of the design and bridge replacement of Second Bridge on Main Road.

• approved an addendum to a professional services agreement with TKO Advertising Inc., for marketing and advertising services to mitigate negative effects from the July 27 flood in the amount of $10,000.

• approved a memorandum of understanding with the U.S. Forest Service for cooperation on prescribed fire projects conducted within the village.

• approved a Wildland Arson Response Task Force Group mutual assistance agreement.

lowest finished floor in relation to the FEMA Flood Insurance Rate Map flood elevation; a current appraisal from a licensed appraiser of the market value of the structure only, excluding the value of the land and any other improvements on the property; and a bid price for the work from a licensed contractor, including demolition, electrical, plumbing and mechanical costs.

If the bid price for the work is higher than 50 percent of the appraised value of the house, the entire structure must be brought up to code and elevated above the FIRM flood elevation.

Owners are "going to have difficulty with old cabins," Morris said.

If the structure is determined to be in the floodway, it must be moved out of the floodway or placed on a flow through foundation that does not reduce the capacity of the floodway, he said.

If the structure is in the floodplain, but not the floodway, it cannot reduce the cross section capacity of the floodplain and may require a flow through foundation, he said.

Any footer, including post footers for decks, must be designed, sealed and signed by a registered engineer. A "no rise" certification also must be provided by a registered surveyor or engineer, Morris said.

Councilor Michele Rebstock asked if trailers at a mobile home park at the intersection of Mechem and Sudderth Drives, which experienced severe flooding, will have to be elevated before they are replaced.

Village Planning Director Bob Decker said a FEMA specialist in mitigation is examining the situation. An engineering evaluation will be required to identify which units have to be moved and how far, he said.

"Will we be proactive and notify the owners before they invest time and money in making changes?" Councilor Ron Hardeman asked.

Decker said he and staff are cruising the area regularly and if they see work that requires a permit, they stop it.

He's also asked other people to watch and notify the department. He was told by the FEMA expert that frequently, people are paid to repair property, don't follow new standards and end up in court, or they take the money and don't repair anything, Decker said. Some just abandon the structure.

Hardeman asked how the village deals with property owners who don't try to clean up and the situation becomes a public nuisance.

Decker said the council can declare a nuisance by resolution and after 10 days if the owner doesn't do the work, the village can and either charge the owner or file a lien against the property

Mold concerns

Mayor L. Ray Nunley said he worries about mold problems in seasonal homes owned by people who may not be back in town until next summer. FEMA officials talked about putting flyers into the monthly village utility bills.

Morris said he hoped to convince people in town over the Labor Day holiday to use part of the time to clean up any mold problems in their structures.

Rebstock asked if councilors would consider a moratorium on new development in the floodplain until FEMA and village staff have time to study and decide if any new restrictions should apply.

"I think we have ample safeguards," Village Manager Dan O. Higgins said.

Hardeman said officials with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers should be part of any approval process for waterfront development before applications come for action to the Village Planning and Zoning Commission. The Corps is suppose to regulate riverfront development, he said.

"Maybe we could include that by ordinance," Nunley said.

Public Works Director Randall Camp said no development is allowed in floodway and the Ruidoso River charted a new course in several areas as a result of the flood.

He said Corps officials are reexamining the maps for possible reclassification.

"It's all within their jurisdiction," Camp said, "There are no floodway requirements except, 'Thou shalt not build.' There are rules in the floodplain. They are working intently with us on the bridges. They're looking at everything, including driveways and culverts."

Hardeman said if a lot or structure washed away, the owner can't rebuild in the same place, because that means it is in the floodway.

"We have a stake in it, because the debris damages our bridges," Hardeman said.

In other business, Nunley appointed Mary Austin, Dwayne Goar, Phillip Appel, Frankie Jarrell and Art Hinz to the Village Cemetery Board.

SERVICE AWARDS

Rhonda Burrows, right, Lincoln County Healthcare coordinator, presented three Community Service awards from Lincoln County Health Care Services to, from left, Mary Crenshaw, Liz Tradle and Alice Stokes for their extraordinary effort to assist residents to sign up for state coverage health insurance. Their efforts helped make a difference for many local families, she said.

LCMC administrator: Sole Community Provider program increasingly important

dstallings@ruidosonews.com

A drop in patient volume at the Lincoln County Medical Center means a supplemental payment from the program that reimburses the county-owned hospital for indigent care is more important than ever, says the administrator.

James Gibson received approval from county commissioners last month for a supplemental Sole Community provider payment in Fiscal Year 2008-2009 of $149,018.40.

As the only local provider of hospital care, the medical center in Ruidoso receives three federal dollars for each local dollar paid under the SCP program to offset the cost of healthcare to those treated without insurance and unable to cover their bills. The supplemental is offered in addition to the regular annual SCP payment and the amount varies each year.

For the current fiscal year, the county paid a regular SCP contribution of $584,494.

County Manager Tom Stewart said the current carryover in the hospital budget for FY2009-2010 is $1,325,884 and the supplemental can be covered. The budget comes from a special property tax levy approved by voters for the hospital.

Gibson told commissioners that he was asking in advance, because once the supplemental money is received, it must be distributed quickly.

"In the past, I have asked for a "not-more than" number and what I'm asking for today is $149,018.40," he said. "If it comes in less, we receive less. If it's more, we have to ask for additional money."

The amount paid for the SCP program remained close to static for the last three to four years, because patient volume helped LCMC overcome shortages in the indigent program, Gibson said.

"This year the volume flattened and we really need the supplemental more so than we have in past," he said. "Gas prices affected EMS (Emergency Medical Services) dramatically. It lost $130,000 over seven months."

The lack of snow impacted ski resort business, which trickles down to the hospital in the form of injuries treated. A drought prompted closure of the national forest, which also discouraged spring tourists and campers.

"Bad debt is moving up, a reflection of the economy. We're not enjoying a fiscal year like we did last year and money certainly is needed to continue the capital programs we have at the hospital," Gibson said.

Earlier in the meeting, commissioners also approved $53,029 in 55 claims under the SCP, bringing the year to date total for claims to $227,544.

Under the county Indigent Healthcare Fund, financed by a gross receipts tax approved by voters, 62 claims for a total of $45,973 were approved. That brought the total for the first two months of the fiscal year to $92,280.55.

Stewart noted that last year, the average monthly payment was $44,272 and this year, it is $46,140. At that pace, the county would need $553,683 to finish the year and $571,633 was budgeted.

"This fact means that the program requires close monitoring," he said.

Commissioner Eileen Lovelace was surprised to see such a high figure for July and August. Chairman Tom Battin questioned if some adjustment was needed to the amount allowed for payments to providers, which excludes LCMC, but covers independent physicians, providers and out-of-county hospitals.

"I'm concerned we're within less than $20,000 of our budget at this rate," he said.

Stewart recommended to hold off until a mid-year review, "and then it may warrant some adjustments."

Commissioner Dave Parks said October and November were "critical months" in the previous fiscal year.

Rhonda Burrows, County Indigent Healthcare Fund coordinator, said she saw a recent decline in applications under the indigent healthcare fund and hopes the trend may continue with an increase in the number of people signing up for the state health insurance premium subsidy program.

The state program began in 2005 as a public-private partnership to provide premium assistance for low-to-moderate-income individuals to be insured. Two years ago, she found 30 people enrolled in Lincoln County.

"I thought that was pitifully low," she said. The state doesn't have resources to assist people in the enrollment process, but with volunteer help, Burrows and one assistant, "Today, we have nearly 400 enrollees," she said. "That's a drop in bucket with an estimated 5,000 uninsured in the county, but it's a significant drop. Providers and hospitals are getting paid and not drawing down on our indigent fund."

She agreed that a mid-year review might result in some payment cutbacks, such as going back to a cap of $10,000 per patient for out-of-county hospitals. This year, the cap was increased to $12,500.

"Because we act by resolution, we can quickly adjust the payouts," she reminded commissioners. "Many of our residents must seek specialty treatments for cancer and orthopedic conditions out of county."

The University of New Mexico hospital in Albuquerque receives about $100,000 a year for treating Lincoln County patients, 20 percent of the total indigent healthcare annual budget. "I don't think they have any complaints about our payout policies," she said.

Yet hospital officials pushed legislation that would give them "first dibs" on indigent care money from dedicated gross receipts taxes in counties.

Stewart said he's worried about state hospital association officials "mucking around in indigent funding." They talk about taking indigent healthcare money generated by gross receipts to help some counties pay their sole community provider payments, but those communities could enact a special property tax levy of up to 4.25 mills to cover the expense. Lincoln County voters earlier this year approved 3 mills for eight years for capital improvements and operations, which includes the SCP payment. One mill equates to $1 for each $1,000 of taxable property value.

"I think that's a travesty," he said of the plan to take money from a county willing to tax itself to cover the deficit of another that is not.

Burrows said before the special legislative session ended, senators were advised that none of the counties favored the plan included in House Bill 19 introduced by Elias "Lucky" Barela (D-Valencia).

"We have to be vigilant about indigent funds," she said. "A number of entities are eyeing them because of the healthcare crisis."

Fire officials set to initiate year-round burn program

DIANNE STALLINGS
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

"The burns will be carefully planned and manned to provide the utmost control," said Ruidoso Fire Chief Tom Gavin.

Ruidoso fire officials plan to initiate a year-round prescribed burn program this fall as a recurring hazard reduction and fire prevention effort.

Fire Chief Tom Gavin said visitors and residents may see smoke drifting around the village, but it's a necessary side effect of managing a healthy forest and reducing the risk of fire.

Officials hope to complement the prescribed fire programs being conducted by the U.S. Forest Service and the Bureau of Indian Affairs on federal land in watersheds adjacent to the village by bringing fire down into the village on municipal property, he explained.

"The burns will be carefully planned and manned to provide the utmost control," Gavin said.

"Fire department personnel will conduct pile burns in late summer during the monsoon season and associated green-up, as well as during the winter when they will burn the heavier fuel concentrations with associated snow cover. Broadcast maintenance burns will occur in the early spring."

The use of prescribed fire by the fire department significantly expands the role of the department in the area of wildland fire and as it related to the maintenance of the wildland-urban interface, Gavin said.

"For many years , the village Forestry Department has been thinning forest stands within the village," he said.

"The proposed burning program will facilitate the routine removal of the down and dead fuels that accumulate during thinning and will maintain the treated areas with a recurring broadcast burn program of seven to 10 years in recurring frequency."

Detailed prescribed burn plans will be presented and reviewed by the New Mexico Environment Department and the Bureau of Air Quality. The plans will consider a broad scope of weather conditions, staffing and control features to ensure a safe conclusion, he said.

This fall, about 174 acres in the Grindstone watershed are targeted, with 377 acres in the Alto watershed. Burning could begin in mid-October and continue through the winter, as conditions allow.

Gavin, who is trained for the highest level of Prescribed Burn Boss, will supervise the projects.

The approved prescribed burn plans for Grindstone and Alto projects are open for public review Monday through Friday at the main fire station in School House Park at the intersection of Paradise Canyon and Sudderth Drive.

If requested, the public will be notified of exact ignition dates as each project is scheduled based on weather conditions. For more information, contact Gavin at 575-257-FIRE.

Nancy B. Ellis

Nancy Ellis of Midland died peacefully on Thursday, August 28, 2008, after a long and courageous battle with cancer.

Nancy was born July 9, 1935, in Anson, Texas to Vernon V. and Maurine Littlefield Blackley. She moved to Morton, Texas in 1941 and attended elementary and junior high schools in Pep and graduated from Morton High School in 1953. While in high school, she participated in numerous activities including a state basketball finalist team. She earned a BBA from Hardin-Simmons University in 1957, moved to Midland, and was employed by Humble Oil & Refining Company in 1958, where she met Cecil B. Ellis. They were married on September 13, 1958, in Morton and their life together took them from Midland to Denver, Colorado, to Scottsdale, Arizona, and back to Midland. Retirement followed in Ruidoso, New Mexico for 11 years before returning to Midland again in 2006.

Always active in the community and many other activities, Nancy will be missed by countless friends and acquaintances whose lives she touched with her kind and giving spirit. She was passionate about her family and showed it in many ways, but she was an exceptional cook and Meemaw's mashed potatoes were a family favorite. She loved cards, whether it was bridge with friends, spades, or Skip-Bo with her granddaughters. She was active in the Permian Basin Landwives Association, the Lincoln County Medical Center Hospital Auxiliary, and always very active in her church.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her sisters, Judith Coleman and Susan McAnnelly.

A devoted friend, daughter, wife, mother and grandmother, Nancy leaves to cherish her memory: her loving husband Cecil; her three sons, Col. Earl Bryan Ellis and his wife Barb of Biloxi, MS; Edwin Lee Ellis and his wife Tracy; Bradley Wayne Ellis and his wife Amanda, all of Midland. Eight granddaughters will forever miss their biggest fan; whether it is basketball, soccer, swimming or other activity none had a bigger supporter than their beloved Meemaw. Granddaughters are Micah Ellis of Hollywood, California; Haley and Paige Ellis of Biloxi, MS; Beth, Megan, Foster, Logan and Wesley Ellis, all of Midland. She is also survived by her sister, Beverly Walthall and her husband Wayne of Durango, CO., and a host of extended family.

Our family would like to acknowledge the exceptional care given by the nursing professionals at Medical Center Hospital (8th floor central) in Odessa. Jane, Donna, Lori, Gilmer, Kim, Keitha, Judy, Vanessa, and Rhonda: there are no words to describe our gratitude for your compassionate care of our mother in her last days on this earth. May God richly bless you all. The family requests that memorials be directed to Manor Park, 2208 North Loop 250 W., Midland, Texas 79705, any hospice care service, or other organization of choice.

Memorial services in honor of Nancy were held Tuesday, September 2, 2008 at Crestview Baptist Church with Reverend Steve Schorr officiating.

Arrangements are under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home, 801 Andrews Highway, Midland, Texas 79701 (432)683-5555. To place on-line condolences please visit www.mem.com.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Hector Ramon De Leon was brought into this world.
On June 11, 2008,
the Lord called him home.

Hector was the beloved son of Mercedes Fernandez-Wells and stepson of Lewis Wells, of Ruidoso Downs, and son of Hector G. De Leon, of Miami. Hector was the proud father of two beautiful girls, Zaryah and Zantaysah De Leon. He will be missed, and loved, and lives forever in our hearts.

Stolis Winner is the one

Stolis Winner raced to his third Grade 1 futurity win of the season with a late-running victory over Jet Black Patriot in the 50th running of the Grade 1, $1.9 million All American Futurity on Monday afternoon at Ruidoso Downs.

The 3-2 favorite Stolis Winner, in the fourth post position, and Jet Black Patriot, in the three hole, broke side-by-side and went to the front. Stolis Winner prevailed in the final 200 yards of the 440-yard race to get the win in by a half length in :21.17. It was another one-and-three-quarter lengths back to third-place finisher Jess Zoomin.

"It was a two-horse race," said winning jockey G.R. Carter Jr. "Stolis Winner got his head in front and I got into him a little bit about halfway. I didn't want to take any chances." It was the second All American Futurity win from 13 tries for Carter, also winner of the 1998 running aboard Falling In Loveagain.

Stolis Winner is now the solid favorite to be named champion 2-year-old and champion-2-year-old gelding on the strength of his wins in the Grade 1, $1 million Heritage Place Futurity at Remington Park and then the Grade 1, $625,000 Rainbow Futurity and now the All American Futurity.

New Mexico Open set to tee off

MIKE CURRAN
mcurran@ruidosonews.com

The New Mexico Open will begin play for the fifth year in a row at the Inn of the Mountain Gods Championship gold course Wednesday when Pro-Am teams will hold two separate competitions – an 8 a.m. and a 1 p.m. shotgun start.

Each team will consist of four amateurs and one pro and will compete against each other in that time frame. Wednesday's play will conclude with a dinner and auction at 6 :30 p.m. Monies raised from the Pro-Am festivities will go to help Big Brothers Big Sisters of New Mexico.

Thursday, at 3 p.m., a long-drive exhibition and competition will be held. Four of the competing players are members of the Long Drive Tour.

Regular Open action will commence Friday, at 7:30 a.m, with an additional 12:30 p.m. start.

This year's event will be comprised of 164 players from all over the country, including four-time PGA Tour winner and 1999 NM Open winner, Notah Begay, six-time Nationwide Tour winner, Sean Murphy, former National Club Pro champion, Steve Schneiter and Brian Kortan who played in this year's U.S. Open in Southern Calif. and finished second to last years NM Open winner, Jaxon Brigman.

Brigman, from Dallas, will not be on hand this year to defend his title, nor will the two previous title champions. The Nationwide Tour is a developmental organization and the top players usually use that status as a springboard to move on to higher competition, such as the PGA Pro regular tour. PGA competi-

Noconi upsets Heartswideopen in thrilling Derby

TY WYANT
For the Ruidoso News

Noconi, a maiden just two starts ago, upset champion Heartswideopen in her bid to become quarter horse racing's all-time leading money earner in the Grade 1, $1,065,648 All American Derby on Sunday afternoon at Ruidoso Downs.

R.D. Hubbard and Johnny T.L. Jones' homebred Noconi, trained by Paul Jones, made the lead with 100 yards left in the 440-yard stakes and Heartswideopen made a furious late bid, but came up a neck short at the wire. Ramon Sanchez guided Noconi over the sloppy track to the win in :21.16, equaling the stakes record set by Significant Speed in 2002.

"My horse won last time and kind of built his heart up a little bit," said Jones. "Sometimes when you win, you get a little confidence. The horse is getting better. He just ran the perfect race, and that's what I knew he needed to do to beat her [Heartswideopen]. It worked out great."

Richard Frandsen's Decati finished third in the year's richest quarter horse derby.

It was the fourth stakes win in three days at Ruidoso Downs for Hubbard-Jones connection. On Saturday, Hubbard's Ketel Won captured the All American Gold Cup and Joan Dale Hubbard's Tricky Dust won the 870-yard Brigand Handicap. In Friday's Zip Pocket Overnight Stakes for thoroughbreds, R.D. Hubbard's Going Wild won.

"From the time we ran the trials I thought we had a good shot," said Hubbard. "I really thought we'd run first or second."

Manny and Javier Rodriguez's Heartswideopen was sent off as the strong favorite in her quest to surpass world champion Refrigerator as quarter horse racing's all-time leading money earner. World champion Refrigerator earned $2,126,309 and

Hubbard, Jones combine for two big stakes

TY WYANT
For the Ruidoso News

The Hubbard family and trainer Paul Jones swept the quarter horse stakes at Ruidoso Downs with champion Ketel Won winning the $50,000 All American Gold Cup and championship contender Tricky Dust capturing the $40,000 Brigand Handicap.

R.D. Hubbard's Ketel Won, the 2007 champion aged horse and champion aged stallion, easily ran the 440 yards in :21.21, just .01 off the stakes record he set in the 2007 All American Gold Cup.

"I had a lot of horse in this race. I didn't push him at all," said winning rider Ramon Sanchez, who rode Ketel Won for the first time.

A copper-colored and elegantly conformed son of Stoli, Ketel Won was making his first start since winning the Grade 1, $400,000 The Championship at Sunland Park on Dec. 9.

In his start before The Championship at Sunland Park, he won the Grade 1, $200,000 Zia Park Quarter Horse Championship.

Last summer at Ruidoso Downs he took the Higheasterjet Handicap before his All American Gold Cup victory.

"He's just a racehorse. It was a really good race the first time back [from a layoff]," said Lisa Saumell, the Jones Stable's manager in New Mexico. "I think Ramon realizes what he was sitting on now, so he's ready for California.

"He's another [Ruidoso Downs track-record holder] Planet Holland. He's very confident and likes to run. Ketel Won is on his way to another championship year."

Ketel Won probably made his final New Mexico start in the Gold Cup and will now travel to Los Alamitos Race Course in Southern California for a fall campaign that could lead to a second championship season.

His probable engagements include the Grade 1 Go Man Go Handicap (September 27) and the Grade 1 Los Alamitos Championship (October 25).

His ultimate goal is the Grade 1, $1 million Champion Of Champions (December 13).

Ketel Won, the 3-5 favorite, crossed the finish line one-and-a-half lengths ahead of 22-1 longshot Little Bit Of Ah Ha, who was a head in front of Catscape.

In the Brigand Handicap, Joan Dale Hubbard's homebred Tricky Dust got up in the final jump to score his third win from four 2008 starts and affirm his position as the frontrunner for champion distance horse honors.

Tricky Dust raced the 870 yards in :45.51.

Champion jockey G.R. Carter Jr. hustled the 8-year-old Tricky Dust through a hole on the inside during the final 100 yards to get the head-bobbing decision over longshot City Class. Vital Winner was just a nose back for third in the field of eight older horses.

"This is the first time I ever rode this horse, but I've watched him run several times," said Carter. "Paul [Jones] told me that he didn't think he'd really like to run on the rail, but the way the race set up I had no choice but to come on the race if I wanted to have a shot of winning. He responded for me really well and made me look good."

Jones said: "I told G.R., 'The horse won't quit; he'll give it his all.' G.R. did a really good job of maneuvering. He kept him close at the start where he could be in striking position to find an open spot. It was a smart ride on G.R.'s part.

"The only thing I can say about him (Tricky Dust) is he's all class."

Tricky Dust won the Brigand Handicap for the third-straight year and is the two-time defending Ruidoso Downs distance horse of the meet.

This year, Tricky Dust won the Grade 3 Red Cell New Mexico Distance Challenge at Sunland Park and then started his Ruidoso Downs season with a win in the Fine Loom Handicap. In his previous start, he was on a sloppy track in the Master Salls Handicap and was never in contention.

The $67,500 Land Of Enchantment Stakes for thoroughbreds, owner Joe Allen and trainer Joel Marr, hopefully, started a successful weekend when Fullofenergy raced to a two-and-a-quarter length win as the 9-5 favorite.

On Sunday afternoon they send out Peppers Pride in her quest to become the first thoroughbred to win 17 consecutive races.

Fullofenergy went to the lead in the 7 1/2 furlong stakes and held off all of his rivals for his third win from six 2008 starts.

Regular rider Carlos Madeira was up for the win in 1:32 4/5.

Ty's Pache was second and Alex's Ragtimeband was third in the full field of New Mexico-breds.

Ruidoso Warriors drop first game at Roswell

MIKE CURRAN
mcurran@ruidosonews.com

The Warriors fell short in their away opener at Roswell, 21-7. But there were some bright spots in the game.

The Ruidoso defense played well and denied the Coyotes any score in the entire second half and the offense showed signs of potential future firepower.

They were in the red zone three times but couldn't punch it in and at other times costly turnovers put the offense in poor field position.

Roswell running back, Andrew Aho, caused some missed tackles and helped his team's cause in the win.

RHS quarterback, Darrell Carr, had 22 passing attempts for 11 completions for 142 yards and rushed for 23 yards.

Marcos Rubio had 11 carries for 35 yards, Martin Morales caught six for 86 yards and Keith Brower pulled in four for 56 yards.

Defensively, Derek Grant, made 11 tackles with five assists, broke up one pass and grabbed one fumble recovery. Sophomore safety Brendan Flack contributed to the cause with eight tackles, two assists and an interception, while Jerrid Marquez stopped eight Roswell runners.

Robert Coronado joined the fray with five tackles, six assists, one breakup and an interception and Gavin Gilson took down five of the Coyotes ball carriers with four assists and one knock down.

The Warriors' lone score came on a 10-yard pass from Carr to Brower in the end zone between three Roswell defenders in the fourth quarter.

Roswell managed all their scoring in the first two quarters of play.

Up 19-0, Flack made his timely interception at about the Warriors' 5-yard line and Roswell pushed the RHS offense back to the one before making a safety-scoring tackle in the end zone giving the Coyotes a 21-0 lead at the time.

"Although we lost there were some encouraging moments for us in the game," Head Coach Kief Johnson said.

"The offensive line has improved immensely from the Lordsburg scrimmage a week ago. And we expect that advancement to continue into the Socorro game this Friday."

Johnson liked much of what he and his coaches saw in the Roswell contest.

"Flack and Coronado had two important interceptions and Grant played an exceptional game," he said.

"He was all over the field from the inside linebacker position.

"The 4A Coyotes are a good team but we had our chances to win that contest. We made our share of mistakes, especially with turnovers, but we'll deal with that as a team and stick together."

By putting the Roswell loss behind them the Warriors must now prepare for their first regular season home game against Socorro at Horton Field on Friday at 7 p.m.

"The Socorro Warriors are a scrappy squad and we must continue our intensity, recuperate and strengthen ourselves for the task ahead," Johnson concluded.

Peppers Pride will wait for record win after Lincoln scratch

TY WYANT
For the Ruidoso News

Joe Allen's Peppers Pride bid for a record 17th consecutive win is put on hold after she was scratched from the Lincoln Handicap on Sunday afternoon at Ruidoso Downs.

Trainer Joel Marr scratched Peppers Pride after the track was turned sloppy due to showers over the previous 36 hours in the Ruidoso area.

She has never raced on a wet track.

"It took four years to get here and I wasn't going to chance it in a 2-minute race," Marr said. "I wanted to look out for her safety.

After the sixth race there was a big downpour and the sloppy, muddy and wet conditions you can't control.

"The track was as good as can be, but I wouldn't be able to live with myself if something happened."

The undefeated Peppers Pride shares the record of 16-consecutive wins with Triple Crown winner Citation, two-time horse of the year Cigar, Santa Anita Derby winner Mister Frisky and Louisiana-bred Hallowed Dreams.

Peppers Pride won her first two career starts at Ruidoso Downs and last year's Lincoln Handicap.

She has earned $861,665 from her 16 wins, all sprinting against New Mexico-bred company.

The 5-year-old Desert God daughter ships to Zia Park in Hobbs with the Marr stable on Tuesday.

Last fall, Peppers Pride made two starts at Zia Park, capped by her win in the $182,000 New Mexico Fillies and Mares Championship.

The Stoli-sired gelding was a 25-1 longshot in the Heritage Place Futurity, but now the fans are believers.

He won the Rainbow Futurity at 4-1 odds and captured the All American Futurity as the 9-5 favorite. Runner-up Jet Black Patriot was the 5-2 second choice.

Stolis Winner's earnings of $1,789,467 make him the all-time highest money-earning 2-year-old quarter horse. It also places him in eighth-position on the all-time list of leading money-earning quarter horses.

He has won six straight races and has seven wins and a second-place effort from eight career starts.

"This horse is phenomenal," said Taylor. "He's so level headed. He came over [to the saddling paddock] so calm, just like it was another day."

It was the first All American Futurity win for Stolis Winner's owner-breeder Jerry Windham and trainer Heath Taylor. They were each connected to three horses in the final field.

Taylor, the nation's leading trainer of 2008 money earners, also saddled third-place finisher Jess Zoomin and seventh-place finisher Winners Version.

"Other than family events, marriage and the kids being born – this is what I've worked for this every day of my life since I was 9 years old" said an emotional Taylor in the winner's circle.

Windham owns and bred Stolis Winner, bred and co-owns third-place finisher Jess Zoomin and bred seventh-place finisher Winners Version, the only horse to qualify for the Ruidoso, Rainbow and All American futurities at Ruidoso Downs.

"It was great and wonderful," said Windham. "I wish that Jess Zoomin could have gotten up for second, but that black horse [Jet Black Patriot] was unbelievable."

Janelle and Richard Simon's Jet Black Patriot, one of eight horses trained by Eric Curtis, came into the All American with five straight wins, including the Grade 1 Lee Berwick Futurity and the Grade 2 Mardi Gras Futurity in his native Louisiana.

"It's already a blessing just to be a part of it, just to make it," said Curtis. "Yeah, I'm happy."

Third-place finisher Jess Zoomin had a troubled start, being bumped by fourth-place finisher Calif Fugitive.

Jess Zoomin rallied, but was never able to get close to the top-two finishers.

The Windham-bred Jess Zoomin set a track record at Remington Park in his Heritage Place Futurity trial and then finished second, as the 7-5 favorite, behind Stolis Winner in the Heritage Place Futurity.

The complete order of finish was Stolis Winner, Jet Black Patriot, Jess Zoomin, Calif Fugitive, Jess Significant, This Wager Is Hot, Winners Version, Iamasurebet, Mighty Corona and Burner On.

In the $150,000 All American Juvenile, a race for horses who did not qualify for the All American Futurity finals, Clarence Sharbauer Jr.'s Kool Cade picked an opportune time to win his maiden with the win in :21.78 for 440 yards.

J.R. Ramirez was aboard the Hawkinson-sired Kool Cade for trainer Mike Joiner.

Kool Cade came into the Juvenile with two second-place finishes and a third-place effort from three career starts. He was second in his All American Futurity trial behind 10th-fastest qualifier Burner On.

Mr Perrys Wine, owned by La Feliz Montana Ranch and trained by Carl Draper, was just a head back for second and the Wes Giles-trained One Diamond Kitty finished third for owner-breeders Jay and Mary Lou Standafer.

The thoroughbred action on closing day of the summer season at Ruidoso Downs featured the $60,000 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Championship and the $50,000 Dale Wood Stakes.

In the Thoroughbred Championship, One Lucky Buck dominated by more than six lengths for his fourth win from six 2008 starts for trainer Bart Hone.

Jockey Mark Villa guided One Lucky Buck over the one-and-a-sixteenth mile in 1:45 for the gate to wire win.

Funny Justice was second and Broke Sharply was third.

In the Dale Wood Stakes for juveniles, Hoya won a stretch battle with Quindici Man for his second win from two careers starts.

Jockey Casey Lambert hustled Hoya through the stretch while Joe Martinez gave Quindici Man a rousing ride.

The Chris Hartman-trained Hoya raced the 6 furlongs in 1:12.

It was 12 lengths back to third-place finisher West Of Texas.

tors, aged 50 and over, normally compete in the Champions Pro Tour. The latter group will also be playing at the NM Open.

At least six of the top 10 money earners from the Adams Pro Tour will also be at the Inn of the Mountain Gods to vie for the first prize.

"It is somewhat disappointing that the past three title holders will not be here," event coordinator Reeves McGuire said. "But they have used this tournament to better their stature in golfing circles and you certainly can't fault them for that."

The Open will wrap up action Sunday when the lowest scored 50 players battle it out for the distinction of being the 2008 New Mexico Open champion.

"We once again expect an exciting climax in one of this year's premier golfing events," Ruidoso resident McGuire said. "A wide-open field of top-flight players will contend for the prestigious title of champion and there's no telling who'll come out on top."

DERBY

Heartswideopen has earned $1,885,282, fourth on the all-time leading money-earning list.

It was Heartswideopen's second defeat from 13 career starts and ended a nine-race winning streak for the 2007 champion 2-year-old and champion 2-year-old filly. She had made each of her 12 previous starts on a fast track.

"The racetrack kind of got away from her and she couldn't make her comfortable run when I asked her," said Heartswideopen's jockey Bonifacio Perez.

It is likely the final career start for Heartswideopen. Trainer Carl Draper has said that she will be bred in 2009, but left open the option that she could return to racing after the breeding season for a limited campaign. She will not race again unless she is completely sound and happy, according to Draper.

Noconi, a gelded son of Mr Jess Perry, earned $532,824 for his second career win. He won his maiden in his All American Derby trial when he raced the 440 yards in :20.983, the fastest qualifying time from the five trials.

Noconi, the 5-1 second choice, was winless in his first 10 starts, but was a respected stakes horse with a second in last year's Hobbs America Futurity and thirds, each behind Heartswideopen in the Grade 1 Ruidoso and Rainbow derbies.

The All American Derby victory gives Noconi a berth in the Grade 1, $1 million Champion Of Champions at Los Alamitos Race Course on December 13. "Looks like the Champion of Champions is our goal," said Jones "I was going to go to Zia Park, but I'm thinking he has to go to California now. We'd like to get him over the track."

The Denny Ekins-trained Decati has stepped forward in the All American Derby. The gelding finished second in his All American Derby trial behind Heartswideopen, beaten by three quarters of a length.

The complete order of finish in the All American Derby was Noconi, Heartswideopen, Decati, Wild Six, Possum Fast, First Moonflash, White Or Wrong, First Timber, MBN Finest Hour and Captain Courage.

The supporting stakes on the All American Derby card were all thoroughbred stakes, the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby and three other stakes for New Mexico-breds that were rescheduled after they were postponed from the cancelled Zia Festival program on July 27.

In the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby, odds-on favorite Quiet Again, owned by Paul Bruce Thompson, drew out in the stretch for his third win from nine career starts.

The gelding from the Jimmie Claridge stable raced the 1 1/16 mile on a sloppy track in 1:47 1/5 with Duane Sterling aboard.

The son of Kentucky Derby winner Real Quiet won by an expanding 3 3/4 lengths over Youarefun. Lord Gallop was third, another 6 lengths back in third.

Bob Haynsworth and Sue May's Dixieland Chime dominated the $67,500 Road Runner Handicap by seven lengths as the strongly backed 5-2 second choice.

He raced the 5 1/2 furlongs in 1:04 on a sloppy track.

Elegant Time finished second and I Can Cope was third in the field of seven New Mexico-bred sophomores.

The Greg Green-trained Elegant Time won his first four starts, including the Dine Stakes, before finishing fourth in the Don Juan Ornate Handicap in his start before the Road Runner.

The makeup of the $67,500 Lincoln Handicap for New Mexico-bred distaffers was drastically changed after Peppers Pride was scratched in her quest for an all-time record 17-consecutive wins.

In Peppers Pride's absence, Charlie's Pizzazz withstood a mild late challenge from Silver Expression to get her third win from her latest five starts. Let The Musicbegin finished third.

With Alejandro Medellin up for trainer Thomas Peirce Sr., Charlie's Pizzazz was timed in 1:11 1/5 for the six furlongs for the diminishing one-length victory.

In the $67,500 Sierra Starlet Handicap for sophomore New Mexico-bred fillies, the Ray Ashford-trained Askmetodance got the 1 1/4 length verdict over Inexcessive Choke. Rapid Bull was third in the field of 11 runners.

Askmetodance, owned by the Double Eagle Racing Stable, raced to her fifth win from seven career starts.

FUNERALS DEATHS

Robert F. Lucas

A memorial service for Robert F. Lucas, 71, of Ruidoso was Tuesday, Sept. 2, at 11 a.m. in the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso. Mr. Lucas passed away Thursday, Aug. 28, 2008, in Ruidoso. He was born Feb. 18, 1937, in Ashland, Kan.

Mr. Lucas was retired from the U.S. Navy serving during Vietnam, and was a lifetime member of the V.F.W. He had moved to Ruidoso from Prescott, Ariz., in May 2005. He was also a member of First Baptist Church. He married Vivian on Nov. 2, 1996, in Prescott.

He is survived by his wife, Vivian, of Ruidoso; his brother, William T. Lucas of Tempe, Ariz.; his children, Laurie Graves and her husband Dennis of Loveland, Colo.; Lisa Bennett and her husband Mark of Loveland, Colo.; Jason Graham and his wife Jennifer of Yuma, Ariz.; Tiffany Parker and her husband, Ted of Yuma,; Heidi Lakey and her husband Matt of Owassa, Okla.; and Tammy Willis of Elk City, Okla.; 14 grandchildren, Dustin Lake, Tiffany Brown, Amy Lake, Andrea Bennett, Taylor Graves, Travis Graves, Jayden Trammell, Jason Graham, Jr., Emma Graham, Julien Parker, Domenque Parker, Gage Lakey, Jordyn Lakey, and Ashlynne Lakey and 3 great-grandchildren, Samantha Brown, Alexandra Brown, and Sydney Lake; and the families of Gene King and Tony McKee.

The family has requested memorials to Gideon Bible, P.O. Box 188, Alamogordo, NM 88311-0188.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.lagroneruidoso.com.

Vernon Lee Miller

Graveside service for Vernon Lee Miller, Sr., 82, of Nogal, will be Thursday, Sept. 4, at 1 p.m. in Nogal Cemetery with Mr. Leslie Earwood officiating.

Mr. Miller passed away Monday, Sept. 1, in Ruidoso. He was born Oct. 31, 1925, at Lonewolf, Okla.

He moved to Nogal in 1969 from El Paso, Texas. He was retired from Goodyear Tire as a mechanic.

He served in the Navy during World War II and was a member of Carrizozo Church of Christ.

He married Mary Etta Means on Sept. 30, 1949, in Alamogordo, and she preceded him in death on Jan. 27, 2006.

Survivors include his children, Glorietta Miller, Vernon Lee Miller, Jr., and Esther Hinson; a sister, Ammel Bevill; seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by a son, Luke Miller, on Nov. 9, 2007.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.lagroneruidoso.com.

Roberta Schuller

Roberta Schuller, a longtime El Paso resident, died Aug. 28, 2008, in Ruidoso, where she and her late husband of 67 years, John C. Schuller, retired in the early 1970s.

She is survived by her daughter Chris Schuller Turner of Ruidoso, sister Barbara Preece of Rosedale, Calif.; and grandchildren Amanda Burke of Atlanta, Ga., John Lewis of New York City, Roberta Beireis of Stephenville, Texas, and Kent Christopher Turner of Houston; and five great-grandchildren.

Her daughter Brenda Lewis and sons Robert and John C. III preceded her in death.

Born Roberta Booker in Douglas, Ariz., she studied art and science for three years at the University of Arizona where she was the lead in many plays and sang second soprano.

She was a member of Gamma Phi Beta, PEO, a patron of the arts and an avid student of European history. She continued her education at UTEP.

After moving to Ruidoso, Roberta and John C. enjoyed traveling the country by private plane and motor home.

Roberta was a gourmet cook, avid reader and artist.

She was known for her sweet disposition, kindness and humor and, above all, for her beauty.

Although afflicted for decades with Parkinsons, she never complained.

Memorial service Saturday, Sept. 6, at 1 p.m., at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount, 121 Mescalero Trail, Ruidoso.

Preferred memorials to The Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinsons Research, Church Street Station, P.O. Box 780, New York, NY 10008-0780.

Carrizozo Labor Day Street Fair

The annual Carrizozo Labor Street Fair brought out the crowds, the smiles along with food, fun and music on Monday. Top left, Rocking Horse Day Care and Pre-K were grand marshals in the parade. Top right, the enduring, hardy crew of the Carrizozo Yacht Club had to bring their own water but shared it with the crowd via water balloons. At left, the Carrizozo Chearleaders worked a booth as a fundraiser and joined the music with some dancing and percussion. L-r is Ayla Perez, Danielle Cartier, Kathleen Schlarb, Patricia Greenlaw and Jenna Schartz. At right is the Lincoln County Out Ryders covered wagon advertising next June's Carrizozo Cowboy Days. Bottom left, Paul Pino, hometown boy success story, sang with his Tone Daddies band. His mix of music included many songs he had written, including a crowd favorite, called "Carrizozo."

LCSWA board waives Carrizozo late fees

The Lincoln County Solid Waste Board has waived $3,174.33 in late fees on uncollectible solid waste accounts for Carrizozo residential customers.

The move came at the request of the Carrizozo Town Council and Mayor Bob Hemphill after audits revealed $7,691.32 in uncollectible solid waste accounts.

The LCSWA Board action also turned over all solid waste accounts to the town in a manner similar to the Village of Capitan.

The action will assist Carrizozo in directly pursuing the outstanding waste accounts.

Carrizozo will now pay its entire community solid waste bill monthly and pursue payment or collection directly with residents to avoid being in arrears.

In other business at its Aug. 26 meeting, the board:

• waived $31.44 in fees following approval by the Lincoln County Assessor's office;

• heard results of a Aug. 26 FEMA meeting with an inquiry to LCSWA and the Village of Ruidoso Solid Waste about proper disposal of flood related debris including dirt by LCSWA, VOR and private contractors;

• heard that the City of Ruidoso Downs is working on its outstanding solid waste bill of $19,000 due LCSWA, some of which is uncollectible from residential customers;

• approved the 2010 - 2014 ICIP Capital Improvements Plan for the NM Department of Finance and Administration;

• approved and renewed a professional services agreement with Operational Consultants, for solid waste consultant.

• approved membership of the new county-wide Illegal Dumping Task Force, naming Lincoln County Under Sheriff Pat O'Brien, Kevin Kennedy (Capitan), Gary Williams (Ruidoso Downs), County Road Superintendent Albert Hernandez, County Code Enforcement Officer Renee Santos, Todd Fuqua (Ruidoso News), Dusty Voss (Carrizozo trustee). Other nominations are pending.

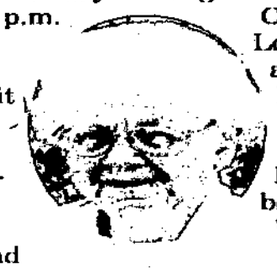
The next LCSWA board meeting is scheduled for Sept. 23. For more information, contact the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority at 378-4697, toll free 1-877-548-8772 or via email at lcswa@valornet.com.

Arts in the Orchard coming up

Don't forget the Art In the Orchard this coming Saturday and Sunday. The times are 10 a.m. – 5 p.m. It will be held in the old orchard next to Dr. Wood's home.

Let's hope it doesn't rain like it did this weekend for the garage sale. We had 2 1/2 inches Saturday and it rained and misted Sunday. The sun did shine Monday.

The Tinnie Baptist Church had a fire Saturday morning. There was mostly smoke damage and damages to the steel door. The members held church in the Fellowship Hall. The fire was of electrical origin.



ROSALIE DUNLAP

Our prayers with the people of Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and others who were hit by Hurricane Gustav. There are two other hurricanes on their way to the U.S. One is hurricane Hanna with Iris and Josephine behind.

With the garage sale, I don't have much news this week.

One couple in the shop were from Michigan, spending their honeymoon touring New Mexico.

COUNTY BRIEFS

FFA meat projects

The Carrizozo Municipal Schools Meat Science Laboratory will be in operation from now until December.

The laboratory will be accepting domesticated livestock for processing after Sept. 1, 2008.

Please contact Christopher Scott at 648-2346 for appointments or further details.

The Carrizozo FFA will be conducting its annual meat sale until Sept. 19, 2008.

Products include smoked hams and turkeys, beef and chicken fajitas, chicken tendors, rolled and patty sausage and bacon.

Delivery will be the week of Oct. 13.

First Friday Street Dance

Capitan Public Library's First Friday event will be 7-9 p.m., Sept. 5. John and Cindy Foglesong will provide the music for a fundraiser Street Dance.

As an added feature, during intermission, line dancers from Ruidoso will demonstrate the art and enjoyment of line dancing.

Admission will be $5 per person at the entrance.

All proceeds will go toward the operational expenses of Capitan Public Library.

The library is located at 101 East Second St., in Capitan.

For more information, call 354-3035.

Blood drive

The Carrizozo Student Council is sponsoring a blood drive. The drive will be held on Thursday, Sept. 4, from 1:30-5:30 p.m., in the multipurpose room in the Middle School building.

All who donate in the month of September are put into a drawing for $1,000 in gas.

Students that are 16 years old or older are eligible to donate with parental consent.

For more information, call Carol Wilson at 648-2346, ext. 135.

Capitan yard sale

The Capitan Public Library and the Capitan Chamber of Commerce are prmoting the annual Village Wide Yard Sale on Saturday, Sept. 13.

Sales will start at 8 a.m. Anyone participating in the event must have their information in to the Chamber by noon, Sept. 11.

Participants must live within a 5-mile radius of Capitan.

Entry fees are $5 and will cover the advertising, a sign for their yard and their address on the handout map.

Entry forms and signs may be picked up at the chamber, library or the Not 2 Shabby Shop.

Maps will be available at these establishments on Sept. 12-13.

The Not 2 Shabby Shop will be having a huge sale that day.

The CW is 'Priveleged' to have a new comedy-drama

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

It's not a far cry from "The Nanny Diaries." Even its star thinks so.

Another recent college grad becomes a novice caretaker as the producers of "Gossip Girl" give The CW another series with "Privileged," premiering Tuesday, Sept. 9. Based on Zoey Dean's book "How to Teach Filthy Rich Girls," the comedy-drama casts appealing JoAnna Garcia ("Reba," "Welcome to the Captain") as Yale-educated optimist Megan, who loses a tabloid job but lands a new career.

A cosmetics tycoon ("Fatal Attraction" alum Anne Archer) feels her orphaned twin granddaughters (Lucy Kate Hale, Ashley Newbrough) need a guiding hand. Enter Megan, who struggles to adjust to her fabulous new surroundings as well as her new duties - especially since one of her teen charges resents her quite openly. Megan also deals with estranged relatives, a rich neighbor (Brian Hallisay) and a friend (Michael Cassidy) she doesn't know is in love with her.

That's a lot for one heroine, but actress Garcia is glad for the challenge. "It's one of those things that feels really special," she says. "It's a lot of work, but it's welcome. I have 11 animals, so I have someone full time who takes care of my house and all that stuff." Garcia also got engaged recently, and she admits the long hours she's putting in on "Privileged" have placed wedding plans on hold, but she says, "it's a really exciting time."

Executive producer Rina Mimoun, formerly of "Pushing Daisies" and "Everwood," is happy to put the new show's initial thrust on Garcia's shoulders. Megan's drive, explains Mimoun, comes from "the whole idea that when you want to change the world, sometimes you just have to start with two spoiled teenagers and go from there. Megan sort of sees the opportunity with this one girl that she might be able to actually make a difference."

Clearly the veteran among the female leads of "Privileged," Archer likes weekly work, having appeared on such shows as "The L Word," "Ghost Whisperer" and "It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia." She's especially glad to be playing someone classy and accomplished, since she reasons, "There aren't a lot of roles for women, especially as the years go on. The minute I read (this) script, I knew it was the right thing for me to do.

"That's one reason. The other is that there's nothing like being around a lot of young people. I can't imagine anything more wonderful than being around young energy, all the excitement of their lives opening up. I feel like kind of a mentor."

Garcia appreciates her steady television employment, even if some gigs haven't lasted long.

"There's not a minute that goes by that I'm not aware of that," she maintains. "I have an extraordinary team that navigates the waters of this business for me, and I'm given the blessing of just picking good work. 'Reba' afforded me the ability to not have to take a job just for money, and also gave me a good foundation where I feel more prepared for the responsibility of my own show."

With the new, much-promoted "90210" as its CW lead-in, the makers of "Privileged" hope to get a good sampling right from the start. Mimoun believes "90210" is "more of a traditional soap, and we're really hoping to keep this almost like a romantic comedy tonally. While we're sort of delving into similar issues, (they're) going to come up in a totally different dynamic."

Anne Archer stars in "Privileged," premiering Tuesday on The CW.

On the 'Fringe' with an airplane, a woman and a cow

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2It

TV writer/producer J.J. Abrams has a thing about airplanes.

In his ABC espionage series "Alias," CIA superspy Sydney Bristow kickboxed bad guys aboard a disintegrating airliner. His hit ABC drama "Lost" began with a spectacular airplane crash that stranded passengers on a mysterious island.

Now in his new Fox series, "Fringe," premiering Tuesday, Sept. 9, the pilot episode opens with a horrific malady that fells the crew and passengers of an unfortunate flight that lands on autopilot at Boston's Logan Airport.

Abrams has obviously survived whatever flights he's taken, so what's going on?

"One of the things that I was obsessed with growing up," Abrams says, "were the 'Airport' movies. I love them. The first one, which was the most straight drama, was actually the least of my favorites. I liked them the more insane they got."

As director of the upcoming "Star Trek" prequel movie, Abrams worked with writing partners Roberto Orci and Alex Kurtzman. The trio liked one another and sought another reason to work together.

The result is "Fringe," starring Australian actress Anna Torv as FBI Special Agent Olivia Dunham, who is drawn into an ever-widening web that begins with the doomed airliner but has no end in sight.

Also starring in the thriller, shot in and around New York, are John Noble as unstable scientist Dr. Walter Bishop; Joshua Jackson as his brilliant but rebellious son, Peter Bishop; Lance Reddick as Phillip Broyles of Homeland Security; Kirk Acevedo as FBI agent Charlie Francis; Mark Valley as FBI agent John Scott, who's involved with Olivia; Blair Brown as enigmatic corporate executive Nina Sharp; and Jasika Nicole as Olivia's FBI aide, Astrid Farnsworth.

There's also a cow ... but that would be telling.

"This was really just us sitting around," Abrams says, "throwing ideas around, things we loved as kids and things we would love to see again."

Among Abrams' influences, he says, are the Ken Russell movie "Altered States" (that film centers on the protagonist entering an isolation tank, as Olivia does in "Fringe"), and Michael Crichton movies such as "Westworld" and "Jurassic Park," which, notes Abrams, "look at corporate culture in a suspicious way."

Also, a dinosaur eats a cow in "Jurassic Park."

Abrams goes on to also name "The Twilight Zone," "The X-Files" (coincidentally, the new "X-Files" feature film takes place in a snowy winter, as does the "Fringe" pilot), "Night Stalker" (also an influence on "X" creator Chris Carter) and "Frankenstein."

"The idea of technology and humanity clashing," Abrams says, "how that reconciles, those are things that I love."

Abrams is also known for creating distinctive TV heroines, from Keri Russell's peripatetic college student in "Felicity" to Sydney Bristow (Jennifer Garner) to fugitive castaway Kate (Evangeline Lilly) in "Lost" to, now, Olivia.

As to how the newest addition to the group compares to her predecessors, Abrams says, "As created and subsequently expanded upon by Damon (Lindelof), when he and I created 'Lost,' Kate was a very troubled, complicated criminal. She was very different from Sydney Bristow, who was a fully righteous, kick-butt character who could not be more different from Felicity, who was sometimes emotionally darling but often almost spastic in the way she would act out and deal with people.

"I feel like Olivia has a very specific back story that has given her her drive. She's, in many ways, an everyman, almost ordinary in many ways, but because of her past, she's found herself in this situation where she's confronting some of the most terrifying stuff in the world.

"She's a little bit like all of them. She's a little bit of Felicity, because she's an innocent in some ways. She's guilty of some stuff in the past, so I guess there are elements of Kate. She's incredibly tough and strong and confident at times, as Sydney was.

"In a way, she's pieces of all of them, but, I hope, a distinct voice."

"She's a really responsible human being," Torv says. "She takes on probably more than she should, but she's just fundamentally responsible and capable.

Anna Torv stars in "Fringe," premiering Tuesday on Fox.

"She gets thrown when she should be, but she picks herself up and gets cracking. She doesn't turn the other cheek."

Olivia may not turn the other cheek, but according to Torv, she's very likely to fall on one from time to time.

"She's not a magic person," Torv says. "She's not a cartoon hero. She's a real woman. She's an FBI agent, and her training comes into play, but she's not magic.

"Her fighting is real; her running is real. She does get knocked and falls over, and she does get passed, but she keeps going. I'm keen for that."

As for the cow, she has been recast since the pilot, which was shot in Toronto, but Torv says, "The cow is back. We have a New York cow now."

A Closer Look

'Blood' a fang-tastic blend of romance, horror and black humor

© Zap2It

His last TV series may have been set in a funeral home, but there's very little that's grave about Alan Ball.

The man who won an Oscar for writing "American Beauty" is justifiably proud of that earlier show, "Six Feet Under," but these days he's clearly delighted to be working on "True Blood," his quirky new series about vampires in the Deep South that premieres Sunday, Sept. 7, on HBO.

"I don't feel the need to grapple that much with existential angst at this point in my life," Ball explains. "I prefer to just have fun and be adventurous and get into a different kind of storytelling. I've never worked on a show that had quite this kind of energy. It's like popcorn, like an amusement park ride."

This particular ride started a couple of years ago, when Ball was killing time before a dentist appointment and picked up a paperback copy of Charlaine Harris' novel "Dead Until Dark," the first in a series set in a world where vampires have "come out of the coffin" and begun to mingle openly with humans after a new synthetic blood product has given them an alternative to killing for survival.

The book was purely an impulse buy, Ball says, but he quickly was drawn into the story of telepathic Louisiana barmaid Sookie Stackhouse, who falls in love with Bill Compton, a handsome, 173-year-old vampire.

"I found myself looking forward to my reading time before I went to bed," Ball recalls. "I'd say, 'I have an early day tomorrow, so I'll just read one chapter,' and I would read five. When it was over, I said, 'Where's the next one?' There had been five books published at that point, and I went through them like candy. Somewhere around the middle of book three, I realized that this world and these characters totally sustained the big-time investment. I thought, 'There's a TV series in here.'"

When Oscar winner Anna Paquin ("The Piano") read the script, she fell in love with the role of Sookie, even though she looked nothing like the blond, suntanned woman Harris described in her books.

"At the time, I was extraordinarily pale and brunette and kind of looked more like a vampire than a perky waitress girl," Paquin says. "Honestly, I thought they would cast someone who already was blonde, but thankfully Alan has a lot of imagination and is able to see something in someone beyond just the outside packaging.

"This script was unlike anything I had ever seen: quirky and funny and dark and sexy and violent, just all kinds of things all in one. This character was also very different from anything else I had ever done. I wanted this role very badly."

Ball concedes that he just didn't buy the idea of Paquin as a Southern barmaid at first, but her audition sealed the deal.

"What I could buy, even at that first reading, is that this girl has been hearing people's thoughts her entire life, and it has made her kind of neurotic," Ball says. "Anna was really smart about how she played that, because a lot of women would come in and they would be overly Southern, like sorority girls, and this girl is so not that. The role is a lot deeper than that, and ultimately Anna just made Sookie more interesting that anyone else did."

Some hair dye and spray tan later, Ball had his Sookie, but nearly gave up hope of finding an actor to play his vampiric lead, Bill.

"I've discovered that if you give an actor fangs, they go insane," Ball says, laughing. "They tend to dig into this bag of tricks that we've all gotten used to from other vampire movies and TV shows. Stephen Moyer had a sort of stillness, and he didn't go mad. He's incredibly handsome, he's a really fine actor, and he really seems like he could be a man from another era. He made me feel sympathetic and attracted and scared, all the things that character really needed."

"I decided early on to make him as still as possible," explains Moyer, a British actor best known to American audiences for his work in the miniseries "The Starter Wife." "No heartbeat. No superfluous movement. He has no nervous tics at all.

"As soon as I got off the plane in the South, the first thing I noticed was the heat: Bang! It forces you to slow down immediately, and it even affects the way people talk. I find that as soon as I start to go into Bill's voice, I start to slow down."

The first 12-episode season of "True Blood" is largely a very faithful rendering of "Dead Until Dark," but Ball is keeping his options open in future seasons.

"I'm walking a fine line here," he says. "I don't want to disappoint fans of the books, but at the same time I don't want to tell a story that is already out there. Obviously, I want to create stuff that people will be surprised by. I hope a lot more people read Charlaine's books, but as that happens more and more, I'm going to feel the need to have more and more surprises in the series.

"It's kind of gonzo, this world that Charlaine created, coupled with this cast and crew and writers. We are all just so entertained by the process of making the show, and I hope that translates to the audience. I just wanted to make a very entertaining show."

Anna Paquin and Stephen Moyer star in "True Blood," premiering Sunday on HBO.

An Inside Look

Jonas Brothers keep rocking on MTV Video Music Awards

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2It

Oh, to be a Jonas Brother these days.

Among other things, it means having countless young female admirers, a big Disney Channel presence, a hot-selling new CD - and a prime spot on the 2008 MTV Video Music Awards.

Nominated for best pop video and video of the year (both for "Burnin' Up"), siblings Joe, Kevin and Nick will be a featured act at the music channel's annual event Sunday, Sept. 7.

The VMAs normally boast a superstar host, but the job goes this time to British actor-comedian Russell Brand ("Forgetting Sarah Marshall"). Others up for honors range from Madonna and Taylor Swift to Ne-Yo and Pussycat Dolls.

For the Jonases, these are heady times indeed, with a high-grossing concert tour and added popularity from their Disney Channel ventures "Camp Rock" and "Jonas Brothers: Living the Dream." Riding the heights of the music charts anew with "A Little Bit Longer," the trio discussed the VMAs and other matters in a recent interview.

Q: What's your take on performing at the Video Music Awards?

Joe: It's always been a dream just to go, so to not only be there but also to have a big part in it is really exciting for us. It's cool that MTV is noticing what's going on. Our fan base has really helped us get where we are.

Kevin: This is huge for us. We're so excited; we can't believe it's actually happening. We're truly honored, really blown away, by the opportunity to do it.

Nick: It's such an honor to be asked, it's going to be awesome.

Q: Is reaching out to a slightly older audience a prime consideration for your doing the VMAs?

Kevin: I think that's always a goal. You always want to see more people at your shows, and hopefully, everyone will go out and pick up the new album, too.

Joe: I think a lot of our fans will watch, and I just hope it's one of those memorable performances. We do our best.

Nick: The great thing about our fans is that they've been so positive about everything we've done so far. We're not trying to "break out" or anything like that. We're just making music that we love, and they're into it.

A Closer Look

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

The 2008 NFL season's first weekend also marks the reteaming of one of the best-loved duos from ESPN's heyday.

On Sunday, Sept. 7, Dan Patrick joins former "SportsCenter" partner in crime Keith Olbermann in the studio for NBC's "Football Night in America" pregame show.

The pair will do highlights for "Football Night" all season long on Sundays, alongside hosts Bob Costas and Cris Collinsworth and analysts Tiki Barber and Jerome Bettis.

Those who remember the pair's 1992-97 stint on the late edition of "SportsCenter" were privy to some pretty entertaining television: Olbermann with his catchphrases ("That's a 1-3 putout if you're scoring at home ... or even if you're alone") and Patrick with his reaction shots and snark.

But unlike their days in Connecticut, Patrick says that they're just a piece of the puzzle at NBC now, and the improv and the inside jokes will take a back seat to football.

"I think our role is just to complement everybody else," he says, "not to have a palace coup and take over the show. At least I don't see it that way. And this is something that was met with open arms by Bob Costas and Cris Collinsworth, that Bob is the one who spearheaded it. He's like, 'Hey, I'd love for you guys to do the highlights.' Collinsworth and Tiki and Jerome said, 'We don't want to do the highlights. We just want to talk football.'

"So it just sort of played out in a way that seemed natural, that working with Bob and reuniting with Keith and just going in there having fun, being true to the sport, and I think that's sort of how I'm wading into this process, just to be part of the formula, not remix it."

Eli Manning and the New York Giants play the Washington Redskins Thursday on NBC.

THURSDAY

5 p.m. on KOBR KTSM NFL Football

Whose dreams of an undefeated season can the New York Giants ruin this season? Well, for starters, the Washington Redskins', if the Super Bowl champs have their way with their NFL East rival in tonight's season-opener at Giants Stadium, where 80,000 raucous fans await Eli Manning and his mates. Preseason notwithstanding, it's the Jints' first official appearance at home since bursting New England's perfect bubble in the Super Bowl.

6:30 p.m. on MAX Movie: The Darjeeling Limited

Offbeat filmmaker Wes Anderson ("The Royal Tenenbaums") charts the train journey of three newly reunited siblings - played by Owen Wilson, Jason Schwartzman and Oscar winner Adrien Brody ("The Pianist") — in this 2007 comedy-drama about the men's efforts to re-establish their family ties. They're mixed on visiting their mother (Anjelica Huston), but they soon have other matters to worry about. Schwartzman also co-wrote the script.

7 p.m. on KOAT KVIA Ugly Betty

Oh, baby! Betty (America Ferrera) wants to get along better with Henry's (Christopher Gorham) pregnant ex, Charlie (Jayma Mays), so she throws her a baby shower. Charlie isn't the most gracious guest of honor, but that's forgotten when she goes into labor at the party. Christina (Ashley Jensen) is shocked to discover that the baby renting her womb belongs to Wilhelmina (Vanessa Williams) and Bradford. Hilda (Ana Ortiz) makes a love connection.

7 p.m. on KASY Movie: The Contractor

A skilled sniper (Wesley Snipes) who has gotten out of the business is lured back into action to finish a job he never completed in this 2007 melodrama. Having failed to kill a master terrorist, he's given another chance when the criminal is captured in London. Things go awry, and he's soon on the run from British authorities for being an apparent murderer himself. Charles Dance and Lena Headey ("300") also star.

Jennifer Aniston is scheduled to appear on "Stand Up to Cancer" Friday on ABC.

FRIDAY

6 p.m. on E! KDBC KBIM KOAT KVIA KOBR KTSMStand Up to Cancer

Here's hoping people didn't get their telethon quota for the week from Jerry Lewis. This one, airing on ABC, CBS and NBC, is only an hour, but it packs a lot of star power into the time period and the cause: stepping up research into the causes of cancer and getting treatments to those who need them. Among the celebrities slated to appear are Jennifer Aniston, Lance Armstrong, Neil Patrick Harris, Hilary Swank and Sally Field.

6 p.m. on TCM Movie: Swiss Family Robinson

A couple and their three sons are shipwrecked on a deserted tropical island during a sea voyage from Europe to New Guinea. Despite wild animals and pirates, the family manages to make the most of its misfortune and create a personal paradise. This heart-warming 1960 movie stars John Mills, Dorothy McGuire, James MacArthur, Tommy Kirk and Kevin Corcoran.

7 p.m. on KFOX KASA Are You Smarter Than a 5th Grader?

Host Jeff Foxworthy's folksy charm and the unaffectedness of the resident fifth-graders — not a junior prima donna in the bunch — have made this game show, starting a new season tonight with a two-hour episode, a hit with viewers. Of course, as "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire" reminded us, it's also great fun to watch grown-ups blow the answers to easy questions.

8 p.m. on KDBC KBIM CBS Fall Preview

Hang in there; the new shows are almost here. This special offers an overview of what's coming to the Eye network later this month. New shows premiering soon include the sitcoms "Worst Week" and "Gary Unmarried," the dating dramedy "The Ex List," the detective drama "The Mentalist," and the spooky "Eleventh Hour." Here, you can get more substantial samples than what the commercial-length promos provide.

SATURDAY

5:30 p.m. on KOAT KVIA NASCAR Racing

Jimmie Johnson was on quite a roll this time last year, with a series-best five wins heading into the Chevy Rock & Roll 400 at Virginia's Richmond International Raceway. By the time he was done circling Richmond's 3/4-mile oval, he'd won again, his sixth of 10 wins in 2007 en route to the Chase title. Johnson won't win that many this year, but he defends his Richmond title tonight before looking ahead to the start of the playoffs next week.

6:30 p.m. on FX Movie: Firewall

It has to be said: Harrison Ford is too old to be an action-movie star. But the great Paul Bettany, who does well with every character he plays, good or bad, is a decent enough reason to watch this 2006 crime drama. Bettany stars as a criminal mastermind who forces a security expert (Ford) to rob a bank. Virginia Madsen, Carly Schroeder, Jimmy Bennett and Robert Patrick co-star.

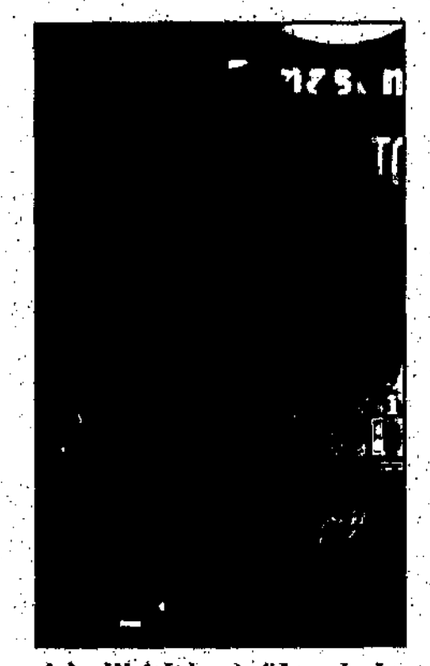
7 p.m. on WE The Locator

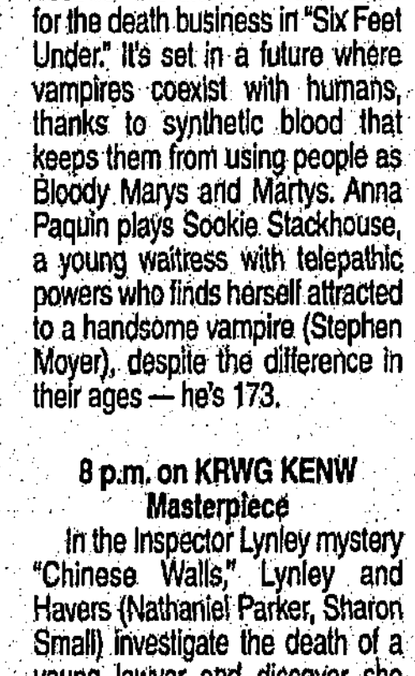
Who doesn't love a reunion of long-lost loved ones? That's the stock in trade of Troy Dunn, subject of this new series. A former private investigator, he got into the business of tracking down family members and friends when he helped his own mother find her biological parents. Each episode covers one case; some involve adoptees seeking birth parents or vice versa, while in others, noncustodial parents and friends who lost touch want another chance.

8 p.m. on KFOX KASA America's Most Wanted: America Fights Back

Next time you find yourself thinking that good TV never lasts, consider "AMW." Starting its 22nd season tonight, it's helped bring more than 1,000 people to justice. But host John Walsh won't rest on his laurels; as long as there are fugitives to find and viewers to call in tips, those numbers will keep going up.



John Walsh hosts "America's Most Wanted: America Fights Back" Saturday on Fox.



Toby Keith performs on "America United: In Support of Our Troops" Sunday on ABC.

SUNDAY

6 p.m. on HGTV 25 Biggest Renovating Mistakes

Yeah, you've probably committed one or two of these blunders if you've ever undertaken a home renovation. This new special counts down the most common errors that homeowners make in undertaking remodeling projects. A panel of experts explains how to correct the mistakes and offers tips for avoiding more of them in the future. If you've got a renovation in your future — or a botched one in your past or present — take notes.

7 p.m. on HBO True Blood

With this new series, Alan Ball does for the undead what he did for the death business in "Six Feet Under." It's set in a future where vampires coexist with humans, thanks to synthetic blood that keeps them from using people as Bloody Marys and Martys. Anna Paquin plays Sookie Stackhouse, a young waitress with telepathic powers who finds herself attracted to a handsome vampire (Stephen Moyer), despite the difference in their ages — he's 173.

8 p.m. on KRWG KENW Masterpiece

In the Inspector Lynley mystery "Chinese Walls," Lynley and Havers (Nathaniel Parker, Sharon Small) investigate the death of a young lawyer and discover she had a hot secret life moonlighting as an Internet porn star. Speaking of heat, romantic sparks are rekindled between Lynley and his estranged wife (Catherine Russell). Isabella Calthorpe also stars.

8 p.m. on KOAT KVIA America United: In Support of Our Troops

Bob Hope is gone, but his spirit lives on in this new special, in which a galaxy of stars honors U.S. service members from stages around the country and the world. Janet Jackson, Snoop Dogg, Pamela Anderson, Toby Keith, D.L. Hughley and Z.Z. Top are among the performers appearing during the show, which includes troop tributes and human interest stories in addition to the music and comedy.

MONDAY

7 p.m. on KFOX KASA Terminator: The Sarah Connor Chronicles

We know that Sarkissian isn't dead ... but what about Cameron? When last season ended, John (Thomas Dekker) had just discovered a photo indicating that the possessor of the Turk computer — who tried to blackmail him and his mother (Lena Headey) — was still alive. And Cameron (Summer Glau) had just been in a car explosion. Will she be back? Richard T. Jones also stars in the season premiere.

8 p.m. on KRWG KENW History Detectives

In this new episode, Gwen takes on the case of mysterious encrusted objects found by beachcombers along the Orgeon Coast to find if they might be cannons from the 1846 shipwreck of the USS Shark. Elyse looks into why an old Connecticut farmhouse changed hands six times in 15 years shortly after the assassination of a Russian czar. Tukufu tries to decypher whether an unsigned portrait was painted by the author of "The Prophet."

8 p.m. on KDBC KBIM Two and a Half Men

Alan (Jon Cryer) should know better than to help plan Evelyn's (Holland Taylor) wedding to her rich fiance, Teddy (Robert Wagner). While he struggles with things such as the menu and flower arrangements, Charlie (Charlie Sheen), true to form, pursues his devious future stepsister (Jenny McCarthy). We'd say we were shocked, but we'd be lying.

8 p.m. on KOAT KVIA CMA Music Festival: Country's Night to Rock

Trace Adkins, Billy Ray Cyrus, Faith Hill, Jewel, Miranda Lambert, Sugarland, Taylor Swift and Dwight Yoakam are among the stars slated to perform, along with a few surprise guests. It's not all music, though; you'll also hear "awww"-inspiring stories of deserving fans who are rewarded with personal attention from their idols.

Billy Ray Cyrus is scheduled to perform on "CMA Music Festival: Country's Night to Party" Monday on ABC.

TUESDAY

4:30 p.m. on HBO Movie: Martian Child

No, it's not a sci-fi movie. The always excellent John Cusack stars as David, a widower and science-fiction author who considers adopting a child. Up for his consideration is Dennis (Bobby Coleman), an abandoned youngster with social issues who thinks he's from Mars. Dennis' imagination often runs wild — but who better to understand him than a sci-fi writer?

8 p.m. on KRWG KENW Debating Our Destiny II

8 p.m. on KWBQ Privileged

In this new series, 23-year-old Megan Smith (JoAnna Garcia) has a Yale education, a relentlessly positive attitude and a plan to conquer the world of journalism. But in one crazy day gets fired from her job at a tabloid, meets cosmetics mogul Laurel Limoges (Anne Archer) and becomes the live-in tutor for Limoges' twin teenage granddaughters (Lucy Hale, Ashley Newbrough) in the lavish environs of Palm Beach. Score!

8 p.m. on A&E The Cleaner

James Madio ("Band of Brothers") guest stars as a jockey whose wife becomes concerned after he starts exhibiting hostile and frenetic behavior; William (Benjamin Bratt) realizes the jockey has an addiction to his sport as well as to drugs.

WEDNESDAY

7 p.m. on KOAT KVIA Wife Swap

One family lives in the fast lane; the other lives in the Clean Zone. In this episode, Joy, an affluent mom who keeps her family's home spotless, trades places with Stephanie, whose family is into drag racing and doesn't give points for neatness. It's hard to say which family will have a harder time adjusting to the new rules — the neatniks who now have to be sloppy or the casual clan that has to clean up its act.

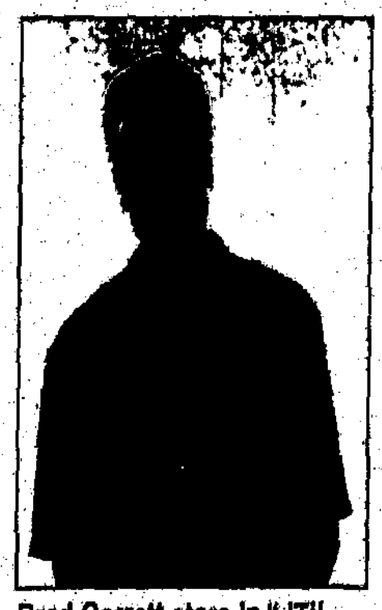
7 p.m. on KOBR KTSM America's Got Talent

Leave it to Simon Cowell to find a way to bring Jerry Springer and David Hasselhoff together on television. As America continues to produce acts that boggle the mind, we the viewers get to decide who stays and who goes. This week the remaining 10 acts from the top 20 perform for a chance to win a $1 million prize. And no, a ventriloquist can't win two years in a row.

8 p.m. on KFOX KASA 'Til Death

When this series premiered, many saw it as just another stale sitcom about married life. That other sitcom is long gone, making it easier to get a fresh look at this show and see that Brad Garrett and Joely Fisher really do make beautiful, often discordant music together as a long-wed couple.



Brad Garrett stars in "'Til Death" Wednesday on Fox.

Family Viewing

THURSDAY

11:15 a.m. on AMC Movie: The Shakiest Gun in the West

If this seems familiar, that's because Bob Hope made it as "Paleface." This time, Don Knotts plays Jesse W. Heywood, a Philadelphia dentist who heads west to the town of Big Springs. Not the sort to start trouble, he soons finds himself in crazy situations. A pretty undercover agent (Barbara Rhoades) tricks the jittery dentist into marriage so she can do her job better. Jackie Coogan, Donald Barry and Ruth McDevitt round out the cast.

SATURDAY

9 a.m. on SHOW Movie: Mr. Nanny

Hulk Hogan as a maternal figure? As unbelievable as it may seem, the bulky wrestler takes on the role of Sean Armstrong, the caretaker and bodyguard to two obnoxious children in this 1993 comedy. But it's not all fun and adult torment — Armstrong also must stop the theft of microchip designs.

SUNDAY

11:30 a.m. on FAM Movie: Sky High

If you think it's easy to be the child of superheroes, ask the young man (Michael Angarano) who's in that situation in this comedy-fantasy from Disney. Kurt Russell and Kelly Preston play his superpowered dad and mom, who aren't aware that he may lack their abilities as he enters a special school. A villain's reappearance forces him to rise to the occasion. Co-stars include Lynda Carter, Danielle Panabaker and Bruce Campbell.

12:30 p.m. on SHOW Movie: Emma

As Jane Austen's charming yet maddening matchmaker Emma Woodhouse, Gwyneth Paltrow test drives the Brit accent that would be heard to better, Oscar-winning effect later in "Shakespeare in Love." But the American actress holds her own against potent U.K. co-stars Ewan McGregor, Jeremy Northam, Alan Cumming, Sophie Thompson, Juliet Stevenson and Polly Walker in this 1996 comedy hit.

MONDAY

11:30 a.m. on SHOW Movie: D3: The Mighty Ducks

The ragtag youth hockey team of 1992's "The Mighty Ducks" and its 1994 sequel returns in this 1996 outing, which finds the players winning athletic scholarships to a private academy. The snooty varsity team and its no-nonsense coach (Jeffrey Nordling) give the Ducks considerable grief for their ethnic diversity, gender mixing and unconventional style, but a little resourcefulness and some help from their ex-coach bring about the requisite Disney ending.

TUESDAY

12:30 p.m. on TCM Movie: Royal Wedding

Fred Astaire has one of his most famous dance partners — a hat rack — in this 1951 musical directed by Stanley Donen and written by Broadway's Alan Jay Lerner. Astaire and Jane Powell play sibling performers who go to London and find respective romances with another dancer (Sarah Churchill) and a member of royalty (Peter Lawford). Astaire literally dances on the ceiling.

WEDNESDAY

7 p.m. on KENW Movie: The Natural History of the Chicken

This entertaining documentary is a feast of chicken nuggets about the species in general — chickens see as well as humans but hear even better, and they love music — and certain birds in particular. For example, you'll meet Valerie, who froze to death in a blizzard and was revived by mouth-to-beak resuscitation, and Cotton, a true cock of the walk whose turn-ons include swimming in the pool, having his feathers styled and watching opera on television.

Horoscopes

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
Aries, fire can spread quickly and right now you want to let the flames burn. The trouble is you may not be able to stand the heat. Cancer sheds light on the situation.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, it's remarkable what can be accomplished when you stop over-analyzing everything. Go with your gut and you will find things will work out for the best.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21
Gemini, expect to make a few stops on the road to your destination. However, you'll find the journey to be just as enjoyable as the destination. So take your time.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22
Trouble seeing the forest for the trees, Cancer? It's time to change your perspective. You will find that things seem much more manageable when you look at them in a new light.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23
You give the impression of all bark and no bite, Leo. When others get close to you they find out about the real pussy cat that lies beneath the bravado.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Big changes are in store, Virgo. You're uncertain if you can manage the upheaval. There's no looking back -- only forward -- so it's best to prepare for change.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Dissatisfaction at work has you on the job hunt, Libra. The stars indicate that a new career isn't quick in coming, so expect it to take some time before you find a new path.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, cede control to someone else, even though you might not want to. You will find that you can actually trust others to do a good job.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, you will come out victorious in a battle of wills. You may discover that the competition wasn't exactly what you initially thought it would be.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
You learn that you are better off in the long run, Capricorn, when you put the needs of others above your own. Therefore, make an effort to volunteer your time to help your family or friends.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
Aquarius, a stubborn streak rules the week. Others find that you're difficult to be around. It's best if you consider what others have to contribute.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20
It's time to pay a friend or family member a visit, Pisces. It's been past due and you can actually use a change of scenery and company.

CHOOSING APPLIANCES FOR YOUR LIFESTYLE

Enter a department store or even a big-box electronics retailer and you'll be met with aisles of glistening appliances -- everything to meet your every whim or desire. But do you really need all of those bells and whistles? Are you simply drawn in by the novelty of these gadgets?

Many people purchase appliances on a whim, without really giving thought to how they will actually use them. An avid chef might need a six-burner range, but what about a bachelor who simply heats up leftover takeout? Probably not.

There are microwaves that can heat up food automatically after scanning the product's UPC code on the box. But doesn't it take the same amount of time to simply punch a few digits into the keypad? Don't spend for frills you'll never use.

Before visiting the store, think about how you will use the appliances you are purchasing -- large and small. Consider the convenience items you will need and the features you can do without. This will help you get the most machine for the money. Remember, sometimes an appliance is not worth the expense because the set up and clean up are (Cont'd from pg 14) time consuming, or you find you're not using the self-cleaning or de-wrinkling feature on it, or whatever the gizmo may be.

One thing to consider when getting new appliances is that newer models are much more energy efficient than models even 10 years old. Energy star models can save you money on energy bills and may even garner you tax benefits.

Another thing to consider are rebates on any models of appliances you're considering. Rebates may be manufacturers' ways of making one model appear more affordable than another. But in reality, if you fail to mail in the rebate you won't realize the savings. It is estimated that 50+ percent of people fail to redeem rebates. For those who do, failing to follow the rebate directions exactly results in rejection of the rebate.

Before simply falling for the features or the appearance of an appliance, consider reading customer reviews about it. Consumer Reports and other watchdog agencies may have published reviews about the appliance's performance. This may help you narrow down your choices even further, and eliminate one appliance that at first seemed to be the perfect choice, but until deeper scrutiny.

You can also save some money by foregoing extended warranties on your appliance purchases. Research indicates that the cost of the extended warranty fails to be worth the purchase, as the warranty is seldom needed. Even if an appliance breaks down after the manufacturer's warranty has expired, repair costs may be less than the cost of the extended warranty anyway.

DANGEROUS JOBS:

New figures indicate that working on cell phone towers doing maintenance and construction has become the deadliest job in America. Based on a report featured by RCR Wireless News, fatality numbers for this profession are 183.6 deaths per 100,000 workers. Five tower workers died during one 12-day span earlier this year alone. These statistic make cell phone tower work more dangerous than ranching, fishing and ironworking.

Cleaning Leaf Stains:

Many homeowners find that, if they haven't been diligent with cleaning up leaves that have dropped from trees in the autumn, the pigment in these leaves may end up staining driveways and other concrete or masonry surfaces. The result is brown, red, yellow, or green leaf impressions that can be difficult to remove. Removing these stains can be done with the same methods used for cleaning other concrete stains. Because certain chemicals used to clean concrete can be extremely caustic, it's important to start with the safest method of cleaning and then move up as attempts to remove stains are made but not successful. For example, start with a pressure-washer that shoots a high-speed stream of water at the surface that may remove a thin layer of the concrete and the stains. Household bleach or outdoor strength bleach can also be tried. Many masonry cleaners on the market contain phosphoric acid, which is generally safe for do-it-yourselfers if the warnings are heeded. Trisodium phosphate (TSP) is another option, but many areas ban the use of products containing phosphates. One of the strongest and most dangerous concrete cleaning products is muriatic acid. This is a derivative of hydrochloric acid and it will virtually break down everything it touches, with the exception of some plastics. Muriatic acid is best left for professionals as it requires safety goggles, rubber boots and even rubber overalls for the safest application. Plus, the acid can produce noxious fumes and can spurt out of a container if mixed improperly.

Desmond Child

Q What can you tell me about the person—or persons—behind the name Desmond Child, which I've seen attached to so many hit songs over the years?

Peter Chase, Redding, Calif.

Florida-born Desmond Child, 54, is one of rock music's most successful songwriters and producers – not to be confused with Destiny's Child, the 1990s pop trio of Beyonce Knowles, Kelly Rowland and Michelle Williams. It's Desmond, not Destiny, whose name you've seen connected to a whopping 70 Top 40 smash singles, including KISS' "I Was Made for Loving You," Joan Jett's "I Hate Myself For Loving You," Aerosmith's "Dude Looks Like a Lady," Ricky Martin's "Livin' La Vida Loca" and the Bon Jovi hits "You Give Love a Bad Name," "Bad Medicine" and "Livin' On A Prayer." You can see him on TV as one of the judges on the Great American Country network's talent-search competition, The Next GAC Star, as it builds toward a Sept. 10 finale.

Q Back in the early '50s, I listened to Sky King on ABC radio. I remember commercials for Peter Pan Peanut Butter. I say the announcer was Mike Wallace, who would go on to fame on TV's 60 Minutes. Is that correct?

Ronald D. Ahlen, Independence, Iowa

Yes! Mike Wallace (then known as Myron Wallace) was indeed an announcer on radio's Sky King, extolling the virtues ("won't stick to the roof of your mouth" like other brands) of Peter Pan Peanut Butter.

Ask American Profile

Q What can you tell me about my favorite country singer, Darryl Worley—particularly what he likes to do when he's not making music?

—Gail Burt, Hardwick, Ga.

Worley, 43, a country radio favorite over the last eight years with hit singles including "I Miss My Friend," "Have You Forgotten" and "Awful, Beautiful Life," is an avid outdoorsman who loves hunting and fishing and playing with his new daughter, Savannah, born in March. On Sept. 6, he'll host his seventh annual fundraising event, the Tennessee River Run, in Savannah, Tenn. The nine-day affair, which benefits numerous charities through his own Darryl Worley Foundation, includes a motorcycle ride, 5K run, an auction, talent show, and live music by Worley and his Nashville friends. For ticket information, visit www.darrylworley.com.

Country music singer Darryl Worley loves the outdoors.

—Ashley Centofonti, Romney, W. Va.

That's supermodel Naomi Campbell jiving to the Michael Jackson tune "Thriller" with a floor full of colorful animated lizards in the SoBe Life commercial, which debuted during the 2008 Super Bowl. The catchy spot marked the first time "Thriller"—which turned 25 years old earlier this year—was licensed for a TV commercial.

SCULPTING GLASS WITH VOLCANIC ASH

Glassblower Lloyd Gladson poses at the Hoffstadt Bluffs Visitor Center near Mount St. Helens in Washington state, where he creates art that incorporates ash from the mountain's 1980 eruption.

An audience at the Hoffstadt Bluffs Visitor Center near Toutle, Wash., watches as glassblower Lloyd Gladson, 40, gently rolls his blowpipe, shaping cranberry-colored molten glass into a work of art. In the distance behind him is Mount St. Helens, with its huge crater resulting from the May 18, 1980, eruption that spewed volcanic ash over 11 states.

It's an appropriate spot for Gladson's demonstration, as each of his creations incorporates the mountain's ash into a secret glass recipe that's used to make items such as vases, bowls, birdfeeders, ornaments and lamps that are sold at his Original Mount St. Helens Volcanic Ash Glassworks shop in nearby Centralia, Wash. (pop. 14,977).

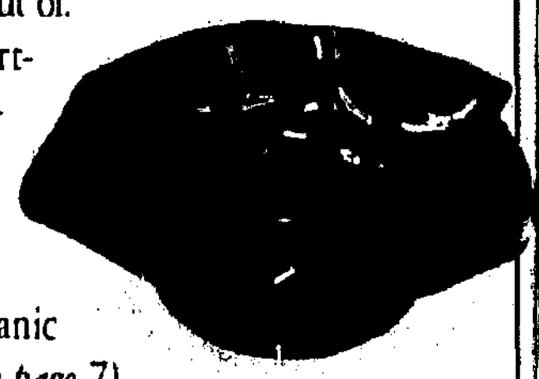
After shaping and forming the hot glass for a few minutes, Gladson places it back into a 2,300-degree heating chamber, continually rotating the blowpipe so the glass reheats evenly. When the glass becomes pliable again, he returns to his workbench, where he cuts, stretches and bends the glass.

"This work really tries your patience," he tells onlookers, "because I have to remember that the glass is the boss. I'm not."

Ten minutes later, the audience gets a brief look at his creation—a colorful glass candy dish—before it's placed into a cooling chamber where it remains overnight.

Gladson's glassblowing demonstrations, which take place April through September at the visitor center, have become a popular attraction. "During the summer, people are fighting for a spot to watch Lloyd," says Jamie Westervelt, who works at the center's gift shop where some of Gladson's creations are sold. "He makes some amazing art."

His love for glassblowing didn't begin until his early 20s. "Prior to that," he says, laughing, "glass to me was only good for looking out of and drinking out of."



In the early '80s, Gladson was working in the parts department of an automobile dealership when he met glassblower Steven Hank Claycamp, founder of the Original Mount St. Helens Volcanic Ash Glassworks. Claycamp originated the idea of adding the mountain's ash into glassworks in June 1980, when he discovered that the volcanic

Education

TALKING WITH YOUR KIDS ABOUT SCHOOL

Julie Kravetz, 39, a divorced mother of two, learned how to talk to her 5-year-old daughter, Mia, about her school day through trial and error.

"Whenever I asked her direct questions about her day, like 'What did you do in school today' or 'Did you have fun during recess,' I got one-word answers and that was really frustrating," recalls Kravetz, an advertising executive who lives in Springfield, N.J. (pop. 14,429).

Kravetz decided to change her tactics. Now, instead of asking direct questions, she uses another approach to communicate with her daughter about school. "I will say something like, 'Mommy read a great book today' and she will often chime in with, 'We did some reading in school today too,'" Kravetz says. The new approach has helped encourage two-way conversations.

"I am a working mother, so when my daughter wasn't talking with me about her day, I felt really shut out of an important part of her life," Kravetz says.

Kravetz's dilemma is a common one and her solution is a smart one, says Betsy Corrin, a child psychologist at Lucile Packard Children's Hospital in Palo Alto, Calif. (pop. 58,598), and a professor at the Stanford University School of Medicine. "It becomes a tug of war," Corrin says. "Parents are trying to get information and often their intensity scares their kids off, so the kids just shut down."

By adopting some new strategies, you can encourage even the most reserved child to open up and share information about their school day. Here are some ways to get your child talking:

• Time it right. "Don't pounce on your child or children the minute they walk in the front door," Corrin says. "Let them unwind first." When you do approach them, don't pressure them. "Ask your child to 'hang out' and then casually ask if anything happened in math class," Corrin suggests.

• Be specific. "'How was school' is kind of abstract for a child and they don't really understand what you want to know," Corrin says. "Ask more (specific) questions, such as 'Did you see Suzy today' or 'Did you play tag during recess.'"

• Talk about yourself. Just like Kravetz does, talk about yourself to get your child to open up about himself or herself, says Dr. Leon Hoffman, a New York City-based child psychoanalyst and director of the Pacella Parent Child Center. "Just talk about your day. Chat with them about what you did or what daddy did or ask them about their teacher, because it is sometimes easier and safer for children to talk about other people than themselves," he says.

• Use technology. "Many older kids today communicate by text message or e-mails, and if your child is one of them, this may be a very valuable way to communicate with him or her," Hoffman says.

• Take a deep breath. "If your child will only give you one-word answers, don't drive yourself crazy or try to force your children to talk, because that won't do anyone any good," Hoffman says. "Keep working at it." ★

GREEN TOMATO CASSEROLE

- 4 thick French bread slices, torn into small pieces (about 2 cups)
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 4 medium green tomatoes, cut into ¼-inch slices (about 1½ pounds total)
- 1 cup shredded sharp Cheddar
- 1 tablespoon butter

1. Preheat oven to 400F. Lightly grease a 1½-quart casserole, deep-dish pie pan, or 4 ramekins.
2. Place bread in a food processor and pulse to a coarse texture. Combine sugar, salt and pepper in a small bowl; mix well.
3. Arrange one-third of the tomato slices in the bottom of pan. Sprinkle one-third of the sugar mixture, one-third of the breadcrumbs and ⅓ cup Cheddar over tomatoes. Repeat with a second layer. For third layer, add remaining tomatoes, sugar mixture and bread crumbs. Dot with butter. Cover with foil.
4. Bake 1 hour. Uncover and sprinkle remaining ⅓ cup Cheddar on top. Bake 5 minutes longer, or until cheese melts. Remove from oven and let stand 15 minutes before serving to allow the flavors to blend. Serves 4.

ash contained 68 percent silica, a major component of glass. The resulting glass took on a unique green tint and became a popular item among tourists wanting a piece of the famed mountain.

Gladson eventually left his auto-parts job to work as Claycamp's apprentice. After years of study, Gladson mastered the craft and, in 2003, he purchased the business from the retiring Claycamp.

"I've worked with Lloyd since he was an apprentice and I've seen his work get better every year," says Paula Lux, the glassworks' office manager.

While there's still novelty to the glassworks because it contains Mount St. Helens volcanic ash, it's Gladson's craftsmanship that has collectors scrambling for his original, hand-blown artwork.

"We have Lloyd's pieces all over the house," says Jean Toepfer of Vancouver, Wash. "Whenever we travel north, we always stop by the shop and pick up something new. We give them as gifts, plus we have about 50 very artistic pieces of our own."

Gladson expects to be making his art for years to come, as he has a 10-ton stockpile of ash, gathered right after the eruption, that he keeps in dry storage. Currently, it's illegal to gather ash from the eruption area.

Together, he and his apprentice, Mike Anderson, 21, create more than 10,000 pieces of art each year, sometimes as many as 100 pieces in a day, which range in price from $20 for a small, colorful Christmas ornament to $500 for a large, mushroom-shaped lamp.

"This never gets stagnant," Gladson says. "I love the freedom of glassblowing." ★

IT DOESN'T HAVE ANY ALCOHOL*

When we set out to make new Tequila Lime Salsa, we knew only one thing could give us real tequila taste. ■ It's called tequila. ■ Blue agave tequila, to be exact. ■ We start by cookin' it down to concentrate the flavor and get rid of the alcohol. ■ Then we add a whole heap of other fine ingredients like vine-ripened yellow tomatoes and hand-picked jalapenos. ■ All finished off with a squirt of lime juice. ■ In other words, your taste buds are in for one heck of a ride. ■ Just try your best to eat responsibly.

BUT YOUR TASTE BUDS STILL MIGHT PASS OUT.

EXERCISE YOUR LUNGS

© Mike Watson Images Ltd.

Michael Asarch, 47, spent 20 years building swimming pools for a living. Now, instead of building pools, he swims in one three times a week to exercise his lungs and improve his breathing.

A longtime smoker who was diagnosed with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) in 2000, Asarch breathes with the assistance of an oxygen canister 24 hours a day, seven days a week. His lung disease prevents him from breathing well enough on his own to get the oxygen his body needs. "When I swim, there is a metal tank on the side of the pool with 50-foot nose cannula to deliver the oxygen," says the Denver father of two.

Despite his breathing difficulty, exercise is an important part of Asarch's treatment. On the days he doesn't swim, he takes 20-minute walks. "If you just sit in a chair all day and feel sorry for yourself, your lung function is only going to get worse," he says.

COPD, which is estimated to affect 30 million Americans and is the fourth-leading cause of death in the United States, is a term referring to chronic diseases in which the tubes that carry air into and out of the lungs are partly blocked. Chronic bronchitis, the inflammation and eventual scarring of the lungs' air passages, and emphysema, the enlargement and destruction of air sacs in the lungs, are the most common forms of COPD.

Most cases are caused by cigarette smoking. Other risk factors include long-term exposure to lung irritants, including certain chemicals, dust, fumes or secondhand smoke, as well as genetic factors.

How exercise helps

During its early stages, the disorder causes minimal shortness of breath. Some people, like Asarch, eventually require supplemental oxygen to help them breathe. While there is no cure, the disease typically is managed with medications and lifestyle changes, including quitting smoking and increasing physical activity.

"Exercise is an integral part of the treatment of COPD," says Dr. Barry Make, co-director of the COPD program at the National Jewish Medical and Research Center in Denver.

Regular physical activity has numerous benefits for people with the lung disease. "For starters, it reduces shortness of breath, which means patients can do more and go further without getting short of breath," Make says. "This really improves their quality of life."

Exercise also helps lessen the depression and anxiety that often go hand-in-hand with COPD. It also helps with weight control, which lowers the risk for other health problems, such as heart disease and diabetes—diseases that claim the lives of many people who have smoking-related lung disease.

Asarch says exercise has been tremendously beneficial for him. "I'm feeling better than I have in a long time," he says. "Exercise keeps your airways open and when you have COPD, everything starts closing up, so it's vitally important that you get out and move."

Exercise regime

A typical exercise program for a person with COPD consists of a warm-up stretch, some strength training to help with the muscle weakness that can accompany the disorder, and aerobic activity. Those who have any breathing problems should talk to their doctor before beginning an exercise program.

"I advise patients to build up to exercising three or four days a week for at least 20 minutes at a time," Make says. "If they also need to lose weight, I recommend exercising for longer periods of time."

Following a brief warm-up, aerobic activity such as walking, swimming or riding a stationary bicycle can be very effective, he says. A physical therapist can plan an appropriate strength training routine.

Exercise is an essential part of pulmonary rehabilitation programs, comprehensive programs that also include education about lung disease as well as psychological and nutritional counseling. Asarch participated in pulmonary rehabilitation before adopting his own exercise regimen.

"The whole key is to exert yourself a little bit," says Asarch, whose breathing has improved enough that he can take his daughters on weekend camping trips. "I may not be able to do a lot of the physical stuff that I used to," he says, "but we still go places and there is a lot I can do." ★

Story by Denise Mann of New York City.

BREATHING BETTER WITH COPD

Certain breathing exercises can help people with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) breathe better and more deeply.

"People with COPD have lungs that are hyperinflated," explains Dr. Samuel A. Allen, a pulmonologist at William Beaumont Hospital in Troy, Mich. "There is no more room for their lungs to expand," he adds. "The only way they get air in and out is to breathe fast and shallow."

One breathing technique that can help people with COPD control shortness of breath when exercising, climbing stairs, bending or lifting is called "pursed-lip breathing." To practice this exercise, inhale through the nose until the abdominal muscles expand. Then, purse your lips as if you were about to whistle or give a kiss, and exhale gently through the mouth while making a hissing sound. The exhalation should be twice as long as the inhalation. This technique slows the breathing rate and helps to keep airways open.

Yoga, a series of stretching exercises that link breath with movement, can help, too. "Yoga can help people with COPD concentrate on their breathing and breathing patterns and learn to control the respiratory muscles and decrease the anxiety surrounding being short of breath," Allen says.

Poor posture can compromise breathing by squeezing the lungs, but yoga poses in which you keep the neck, head and spine straight and relaxed can help with breathing by encouraging lung expansion.

If you have COPD or any breathing problems, talk to your doctor about which breathing exercises will be most helpful for you. ★

ADVAIR® helps significantly improve lung function so you can breathe better.*

If you have COPD, including chronic bronchitis, emphysema, or both, ADVAIR 250/50 may help.
ADVAIR works differently than other COPD medications. It is the only COPD product with an anti-inflammatory and a bronchodilator working together to help improve lung function. Talk to your doctor and find out if ADVAIR is right for you.

Get your first full prescription FREE! Go to advairCOPD.com or call 1-800-504-2218.

It is not known how anti-inflammatories work in COPD.

Important Information: ADVAIR DISKUS 250/50 is approved for adults with COPD, including chronic bronchitis, emphysema, or both. You should only take 1 inhalation of ADVAIR twice a day. Higher doses will not provide additional benefits. People with COPD taking ADVAIR may have a higher chance of pneumonia. Call your doctor if you notice any of the following symptoms: change in amount or color of sputum, fever, chills, increased cough, or increased breathing problems. ADVAIR may increase your risk of osteoporosis and some eye problems (cataracts or glaucoma). You should have regular eye exams. Thrush in the mouth and throat may occur. Tell your doctor if you have a heart condition or high blood pressure before taking ADVAIR. Do not use ADVAIR with long-acting $beta_2$-agonists for any reason. ADVAIR does not replace fast-acting inhalers for sudden symptoms.

*Measured by a breathing test in people taking ADVAIR 250/50, compared with people taking either fluticasone propionate 250 mcg or salmeterol 50 mcg. Maximum effects may take several weeks. Your results may vary.

†See advairCOPD.com for eligibility rules.
Please see accompanying important information about ADVAIR DISKUS 250/50.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA.
Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

ADVAIR DISKUS 250/50
(fluticasone propionate 250 mcg and salmeterol 50 mcg inhalation powder)

GlaxoSmithKline

If you smoke and want to quit, you can learn more at way2quit.com.

Important Information about ADVAIR DISKUS

(fluticasone propionate 100, 250, 500 mcg and salmeterol 50 mcg inhalation powder)

What is the most important information I should know about ADVAIR DISKUS?
In patients with asthma, long-acting beta$_2$-agonist medicines such as salmeterol (one of the medications in ADVAIR®) may increase the chance of death from asthma problems. In a large asthma study, more patients who used salmeterol died from asthma problems compared with patients who did not use salmeterol. So ADVAIR is not for patients whose asthma is well controlled on another asthma controller medicine such as low- to medium-dose inhaled corticosteroids or only need a fast-acting inhaler once in a while. Talk with your doctor about this risk and the benefits of treating your asthma with ADVAIR.

ADVAIR should not be used to treat a severe attack of asthma or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) requiring emergency medical treatment.

ADVAIR should not be used to relieve sudden symptoms or sudden breathing problems. Always have a fast-acting inhaler with you to treat sudden breathing difficulty. If you do not have a fast-acting inhaler, contact your doctor to have one prescribed for you.

What is ADVAIR DISKUS?
There are two medicines in ADVAIR: Fluticasone propionate, an inhaled anti-inflammatory belonging to a group of medicines commonly referred to as corticosteroids, and salmeterol, a long-acting inhaled bronchodilator belonging to a group of medicines commonly referred to as beta$_2$-agonists. There are 3 strengths of ADVAIR: 100/50, 250/50, 500/50.

For Asthma
- ADVAIR is approved for the maintenance treatment of asthma in patients 4 years of age and older. ADVAIR should only be used if your doctor decides that another asthma controller medicine alone does not control your asthma or that you need 2 asthma controller medications.
- The strength of ADVAIR approved for patients ages 4 to 11 years who experience symptoms on an inhaled corticosteroid is ADVAIR DISKUS 100/50. All 3 strengths are approved for patients with asthma ages 12 years and older.

For Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease
COPD is a chronic lung disease that includes chronic bronchitis, emphysema, or both. ADVAIR DISKUS is used long-term, twice a day, to help improve lung function for better breathing in adults with COPD. ADVAIR DISKUS 250/50 has been shown to decrease the number of flare-ups and worsening of COPD symptoms (exacerbations).

Who should not take ADVAIR DISKUS?
You should not start ADVAIR if your asthma is becoming significantly or rapidly worse, which can be life-threatening. Serious respiratory events, including death, have been reported in patients who started taking salmeterol in this situation, although it is not possible to tell whether salmeterol contributed to these events. This may also occur in patients with less severe asthma.

You should not take ADVAIR if you have had an allergic reaction to it or any of its components (salmeterol, fluticasone propionate, or lactose). Tell your doctor if you are allergic to ADVAIR, any other medications, or food products. If you experience an allergic reaction after taking ADVAIR, stop using ADVAIR immediately and contact your doctor. Allergic reactions are when you experience one or more of the following: choking, breathing problems, swelling of the face, mouth and/or tongue, rash, hives, itching, or welts on the skin.

Tell your doctor about the following:
- If you are using your fast-acting inhaler more often or using more doses than you normally do (e.g., 4 or more inhalations of your fast-acting inhaler for 2 or more days in a row or a whole canister of your fast-acting inhaler in 8 weeks' time), it could be a sign that your asthma is getting worse. If this occurs, tell your doctor immediately.
- If you have been using your fast-acting inhaler regularly (e.g., four times a day). Your doctor may tell you to stop the regular use of these medications.
- If your peak flow meter results decrease. Your doctor will tell you the numbers that are right for you.
- If you have asthma and your symptoms do not improve after using ADVAIR regularly for 1 week.
- If you have been on an oral steroid, like prednisone, and are now using ADVAIR. You should be very careful as you may be less able to heal after surgery, infection, or serious injury. It takes a number of months for the body to recover its ability to make its own steroid hormones after use of oral steroids. Switching from an oral steroid may also unmask a condition previously suppressed by the oral steroid such as allergies, conjunctivitis, eczema, arthritis, and eosinophilic conditions. Symptoms of an eosinophilic condition can include rash, worsening breathing problems, heart complications, and/or feeling of "pins and needles" or numbness in the arms and legs. Talk to your doctor immediately if you experience any of these symptoms.
- Sometimes patients experience unexpected bronchospasm right after taking ADVAIR. This condition can be life-threatening and if it occurs, you should immediately stop using ADVAIR and seek immediate medical attention.
- If you have any type of heart disease such as coronary artery disease, irregular heart beat or high blood pressure, ADVAIR should be used with caution. Be sure to talk with your doctor about your condition because salmeterol, one of the components of ADVAIR, may affect the heart by increasing heart rate and blood pressure. It may cause symptoms such as heart fluttering, chest pain, rapid heart rate, tremor or nervousness.
- If you have seizures, overactive thyroid gland, liver problems, or are sensitive to certain medications for breathing.
- If your breathing problems get worse over time or if your fast-acting inhaler does not work as well for you while using ADVAIR. If your breathing problems worsen quickly, get emergency medical care.
- If you have been exposed to or currently have chickenpox or measles or if you have an immune system problem. Patients using medications that weaken the immune system are more likely to get infections than healthy individuals. ADVAIR contains a corticosteroid (fluticasone propionate) which may weaken the immune system. Infections like chickenpox and measles, for example, can be very serious or even fatal in susceptible patients using corticosteroids.

How should I take ADVAIR DISKUS?
ADVAIR should be used 1 inhalation, twice a day (morning and evening). ADVAIR should never be taken more than 1 inhalation twice a day. The full benefit of taking ADVAIR may take 1 week or longer.

If you miss a dose of ADVAIR, just skip that dose. Take your next dose at your usual time. Do not take two doses at one time.

Do not stop using ADVAIR unless told to do so by your doctor because your symptoms might get worse.

Do not change or stop any of your medicines used to control or treat your breathing problems. Your doctor will adjust your medicines as needed.

When using ADVAIR, remember:
- Never breathe into or take the DISKUS apart.
- Always use the DISKUS in a level position.
- After each inhalation, rinse your mouth with water without swallowing.
- Never wash any part of the DISKUS. Always keep it in a dry place.
- Never take an extra dose, even if you feel you did not receive a dose.
- Discard 1 month after removal from the foil pouch.
- Do not use ADVAIR with a spacer device.

Children should use ADVAIR with an adult's help as instructed by the child's doctor.

Can I take ADVAIR DISKUS with other medications?
ADVAIR and certain other medicines may interact with each other. Tell your doctor about all the medications you take, including prescription and nonprescription medications, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

If you are taking ADVAIR DISKUS, do not use other long-acting beta$_2$-agonist–containing medications, such as SEREVENT® DISKUS or Foradil® Aerolizer,® for any reason.

If you take ritonavir (an HIV medication), tell your doctor. Ritonavir may interact with ADVAIR and could cause serious side effects. The anti-HIV medicines Norvir® Soft Gelatin Capsules, Norvir Oral Solution, and Kaletra® contain ritonavir.

No formal drug interaction studies have been performed with ADVAIR.

In clinical studies, there were no differences in effects on the heart when ADVAIR was taken with varying amounts of albuterol. The effect of using ADVAIR in patients with asthma while taking more than 9 puffs a day of albuterol has not been studied.

ADVAIR should be used with extreme caution during and up to 2 weeks after treatment with monoamine oxidase (MAO) inhibitors or tricyclic antidepressants since these medications can cause ADVAIR to have an even greater effect on the circulatory system.

Generally, people with asthma should not take beta-blockers because they counteract the effects of beta$_2$-agonists and may also cause severe bronchospasm. However, in some cases, for instance, following a heart attack, selective beta-blockers may still be used if there is no acceptable alternative.

The ECG changes and/or low blood potassium that may occur with some diuretics may be made worse by ADVAIR, especially at higher-than-recommended doses. Caution should be used when these drugs are used together.

In clinical studies, there was no difference in side effects when ADVAIR was taken with methylxanthines (e.g., theophylline) or with FLONASE® (fluticasone propionate).

What are other important safety considerations with ADVAIR DISKUS?
Pneumonia: People with COPD taking ADVAIR may have a higher chance of pneumonia. Call your doctor if you notice any of the following symptoms: change in amount or color of sputum, fever, chills, increased cough, or increased breathing problems.

Osteoporosis: Long-term use of inhaled corticosteroids may result in bone loss (osteoporosis). Patients who are at risk for increased bone loss (tobacco use, advanced age, inactive lifestyle, poor nutrition, family history of osteoporosis, or long-term use of drugs such as corticosteroids) may have a greater risk with ADVAIR. If you have risk factors for bone loss, you should talk to your doctor about ways to reduce your risk and whether you should have your bone density evaluated.

Glaucoma and cataracts: Glaucoma, increased pressure in the eyes, and cataracts have been reported with the use of inhaled steroids, including fluticasone propionate, a medicine contained in ADVAIR. Regular eye examinations should be considered if you are taking ADVAIR.

Blood sugar: Salmeterol may affect blood sugar and/or cause low blood potassium in some patients, which could lead to a side effect like an irregular heart rate. Significant changes in blood sugar and blood potassium were seen infrequently in clinical studies with ADVAIR.

Growth: Inhaled steroids may cause a reduction in growth velocity in children and adolescents.

Steroids: Taking steroids can affect your body's ability to make its own steroid hormones, which are needed during infections and times of severe stress to your body, such as an operation. These effects can sometimes be seen with inhaled steroids (but it is more common with oral steroids), especially when taken at higher-than-recommended doses over a long period of time. In some cases, these effects may be severe. Inhaled steroids often help control symptoms with less side effects than oral steroids.

Yeast infections: Patients taking ADVAIR may develop yeast infections of the mouth and/or throat ("thrush") that should be treated by their doctor.

Tuberculosis or other untreated infections: ADVAIR should be used with caution, if at all, in patients with tuberculosis, herpes infections of the eye, or other untreated infections.

What are the other possible side effects of ADVAIR DISKUS?
ADVAIR may produce side effects in some patients. In clinical studies, the most common side effects with ADVAIR included upper respiratory tract infections, throat irritation, hoarseness and voice changes, thrush in the mouth and throat, bronchitis, cough, headache, nausea and vomiting, infections in the ear, nose, and throat, viral respiratory infections, and muscle and bone pain.

Tell your doctor about any side effect that bothers you or that does not go away. These are not all the side effects with ADVAIR. Ask your doctor or pharmacist for more information.

What if I am pregnant, planning to become pregnant, or nursing?
Talk to your doctor about the benefits and risks of using ADVAIR during pregnancy, labor, or if you are nursing. There have been no studies of ADVAIR used during pregnancy, labor, or in nursing women. Salmeterol is known to interfere with labor contractions. It is not known whether ADVAIR is excreted in breast milk, but other corticosteroids have been detected in human breast milk. Fluticasone propionate, like other corticosteroids, has been associated with birth defects in animals (e.g., cleft palate and fetal death). Salmeterol showed no effect on fertility in rats at 180 times the maximum recommended daily dose.

What other important tests were conducted with ADVAIR?
There is no evidence of enhanced toxicity with ADVAIR compared with the components administered separately in animal studies with doses much higher than those used in humans. Salmeterol was associated with uterine tumors. Your healthcare professional can tell you more about how drugs are tested on animals and what the results of these tests may mean to your safety.

Our Picks

by NEIL POND

A Pony in the Picture
by Victoria Randall
Hardcover, 120 pages, $14.95

Once up a time, a camera and a pony were usually all it took to get a kid to smile. Saddle up and ride along with this charming collection of more than 200 vintage photos, ranging across nearly 80 years, which depict children alongside or atop ponies in a variety of seasons and scenarios. "Remember," writes the author, "a pony is a pony, not a small horse. Which is perhaps why we love them so—because they never seem to grow up, and perhaps, if we love them enough, we won't grow up, either."

Lonesome Dove
2-disc Collector's Edition
DVD, $19.95

Texas writer Larry McMurtry's sweeping, mythic tale of two Texas Rangers on a perilous, 2,500-mile cattle drive was a major television event in 1989, winning 14 awards and becoming the most-watched TV miniseries in history. This new DVD set provides a remastered, widescreen brush-up, along with a making-of documentary and on-set interviews with stars Robert Duvall and Tommy Lee Jones, and McMurtry. After almost 20 years, it's still one heckuva ride. ★

Welcome to Graceland

When the King of Rock 'n' Roll died Aug. 16, 1977, his ex-wife, Priscilla, was overcome with emotion — and doubts. She worried not just for her daughter, Lisa Marie, Elvis' only child, but also for all the people around the globe to whom he meant so much. "How is this world," she wondered, "going to survive without Elvis Presley?"

Thirty-one years later, Presley's faithful followers keep his memory alive, especially when they visit Graceland, making the ultimate pop-music pilgrimage to one of America's top five most-visited historic homes. Each year, more than 600,000 people tour the 17,000-square-foot residence on Elvis Presley Boulevard in the Whitehaven section of Memphis, Tenn. Some, like Nancie Cratt, 52, of Houston, come twice a year — in January for Elvis' birthday, and in August, around the anniversary of his death.

"It's so nice to go somewhere where you do not have to explain to anyone why you're an Elvis fan," says Cratt, president of an Elvis Presley fan club. "Why all of us want to know so much about this one man is still a mystery to me. But we go because it's like a family reunion, and we all just feel closer to Elvis at Graceland."

Built for a doctor

The mansion, as the home is commonly referred to, was built in 1939 for Memphis physician Dr. Thomas D. Moore and his wife, and dubbed Graceland for Mrs. Moore's great-aunt. But today, everything about it, from the tuned music-themed gates to the stained-glass peacocks in the living room and the "TCB" (Taking Care of Business) lightning bolts painted on the walls of the TV room, reflects Elvis and his often eclectic decorating tastes.

Presley bought the property for $102,500 in March 1957 as a home for himself and his parents, Gladys and Vernon. Visitors taking Graceland's "audio tour"—available in eight languages—even hear Elvis' voice as they walk through the home, grounds, outbuildings and the Meditation Garden where Presley and his parents are buried.

"It's the most unique historic home tour you'll find anywhere in the world," boasts Kevin Kern, media relations manager of Elvis Presley Enterprises. "At other historic properties, you might hear someone impersonating the voice of a president, but our tour offers you the opportunity to hear from the people who lived there — not only Elvis, but also Priscilla and Lisa Marie. And you can listen to recordings of Gladys and Vernon and Elvis singing. When you're actually hearing the people who lived and breathed inside those walls, it becomes a very real place."

And how. In this perfectly preserved time capsule of the 1950s, '60s and '70s, it's easy to imagine Elvis cutting up with his friends in the Jungle Room, instantly recognizable for its "fur"-covered, Polynesian-style furniture and lime shag carpet. And in Elvis' parents' bedroom, where time stopped with Gladys' death in 1958, you can almost see her getting ready for the day, with her colorful dresses lined up in the open closet as if she's trying to decide which one to wear.

Entrance prohibited

The mansion tour also includes the dining room, music room, poolroom and kitchen. But not every room of this White House of Rock 'n' Roll is exhibited. A downstairs apartment is off-limits to the public, as is the upstairs, including the bathroom where Elvis died. According to Kern, the private living quarters of Elvis, Priscilla and Lisa Marie "will never be opened up," as "very few people were invited to that inner sanctum" even when Elvis was living. While Priscilla and Lisa Marie do not stay at Graceland when in Memphis, they do enjoy personal time there.

"When the ladies are in town, if they wish to come out to the house, they give the staff advance notice," Kern says. "We'll take down the ropes and roll out the white carpet to cover up the black tour path, take the protective coverings off the things in the kitchen, and the house becomes a home again. If it's Christmas, Priscilla and Lisa Marie will sit on the furniture in the Jungle Room and open presents. This is where Lisa Marie grew up, so it's very much a special place for her."

Still, there are changes from when Elvis lived in the home, but most of them are in the outbuildings and grounds, where a horse grazes in the pasture where Elvis once rode Rising Sun, his registered palomino. Presley's racquetball building now is used to display his floor-to-ceiling gold records, and it houses the piano where Elvis sang his last song, "Blue Eyes Crying in the Rain," on the morning he died. And his famous gold lamé suit, still an eye-popping wonder after 50 years, holds center court in the now-rechristened trophy building, which Elvis originally had designed to accommodate his sprawling slot-car racetrack.

Room to grow

Graceland comprised about 14 acres of towering oaks and farmland when Elvis, barely 22 years old and not long out of public housing, originally bought it. But the New York-based CKX Inc., which controls 85 percent of Presley's name, image, and likeness (Lisa Marie owns the remaining 15 percent, along with the house and its artifacts), has, over time, acquired more than 100 acres on the same side of Elvis Presley Boulevard as the mansion. The company's immediate plans are to build a new 80,000-square-foot visitor center, high-tech museum and convention hotel, at a cost of $250 million. No timetable has been announced for the expansion.

Meanwhile, on acreage across the street, fans can tour Presley's car museum and his two airplanes, and see exhibits such as 56 of his bejeweled jumpsuits; "Private Presley," which focuses on Elvis' U.S. Army years; and "Elvis '68," a salute to the TV special that marked his comeback.

In one of many shops, fans can spend $100 to play pool on the table where Elvis and the Beatles squared off in 1965 when the British band visited him. Elsewhere on the grounds is a chapel where couples can marry, and then check into nearby Heartbreak Hotel. You'll find it down at the end of, yes, Lonely Street, or so says a small, tongue-in-cheek road sign.

The cultural shrine of Graceland—the most famous rock 'n' roll residence in the world—fascinates celebrities, too. Bruce Springsteen famously jumped the wall while Elvis was alive, and in recent years, Loretta Lynn stood in line and bought a ticket like everyone else.

Many fans take in Memphis' other tourist treasures—Sun Studio, Beale Street, the National Civil Rights Museum, among them—on their visit. But Jackie Reed of the Memphis Convention and Visitors Bureau, confirms that Graceland is by far the top area attraction. And it's no surprise.

"You may have the other seven wonders of the world," Reed says. "But we've got number eight right here." ★

This and That

SEPTEMBER 2008

My Dad is a meat and potatoes guy. So when he goes to an "Italian" restaurant, he orders spaghetti and meatballs — the kind most of us grew up on. He doesn't care about its origins or if it's really Italian. All he knows is that he likes it and it's familiar, so he orders it.

Which brings me to our cover story on spaghetti and meatballs. While chefs Mark Strausman and Pino Luongo delight in sparring about Italian cooking and the right and wrong way to do it, their take home message is this: It's all good because it's about family and heritage and love — which is what all food should be about.

Speaking of love, you'll love our Country Couture Cookout, a welcome change to burgers and dogs which are "so yesterday," as my daughter says. And surprisingly, my son Sam (above) loved the catfish and grilled corn with chipotle butter and Parmesan cheese. Guess he's not going to take after his grandpa. Happy fall.

MEATBALLS WITH SPAGHETTI

Queens-bred Mark Strausman holds true to the Italian-American classics he grew up on.

Two Meatballs

TWO CHEFS, TWO OPINIONS, TWO ITALIAN DINNERS.

PASTA WITH MEATBALLS AND MUSHROOMS

One's a city boy from Queens; the other a native of Tuscany. One likes his meatballs immersed in a bold red sauce on top of spaghetti, the other prefers veal meatballs alongside spaghetti in a delicate vegetable butter sauce. One upholds his Italian-American upbringing, the other, classic Italian techniques. Together, Pino Luongo and Mark Strausman, co-owners of Coco Pazzo in New York City, face off in their book Two Meatballs in the Italian Kitchen (Artisan, 2007). Filled with Tuscan classics, such as Tuscan Pot Roast and Mushroom Risotto, and Italian-American hybrids, such as Veal Parmigiana and Spaghetti with Meatballs, the book explores the differences in Italian food and Italian-American food. But first and foremost, it celebrates the breadth and love of Italian cooking in America. !

The Great Meatball Debate

MARK—I like the sense of abundance you get with a big, juicy meatball.

PINO—That's my problem with it—the proportions are all off. Italians like their food to make sense aesthetically, for the sauce to fit with the pasta. And there's nothing more incongruous than a big meatball with a skinny strand of spaghetti. I say serve the spaghetti as a first course and save the meatballs for a second.

MARK—For my customers, there's nothing more beautiful than a pile of spaghetti topped with a couple of meatballs.

PINO—In Italy meatballs have always been very much an improvised dish. The frugal housewife would buy the butcher's leftovers, which she'd chop up and mix with some stale bread to bind everything together. It was a testament to the cook's talent that she could make something so good out of scraps of meat. The most important ingredient wasn't the meat. It was the stale bread—the way it absorbed the flavors of the meat and in turn gave the meatballs a tender texture.

MARK—Meatballs are all about the meat. As soon as Italian-Americans could afford to buy meat, they created big, juicy meatballs. I think their happiness and generosity and love of life are symbolized by this dish.

PINO—Well, I think that the Italian culture of parsimony has produced a better dish than Italian-American prosperity.

Instead of making big round meatballs the size of golf balls, I make grape-sized balls and flatten them a little. This way when you pan-fry them, they cook all the way through and get a perfectly crunchy crust.

MARK—But I don't pan-fry my meatballs. I simmer them in the tomato sauce until they're cooked through. ¡

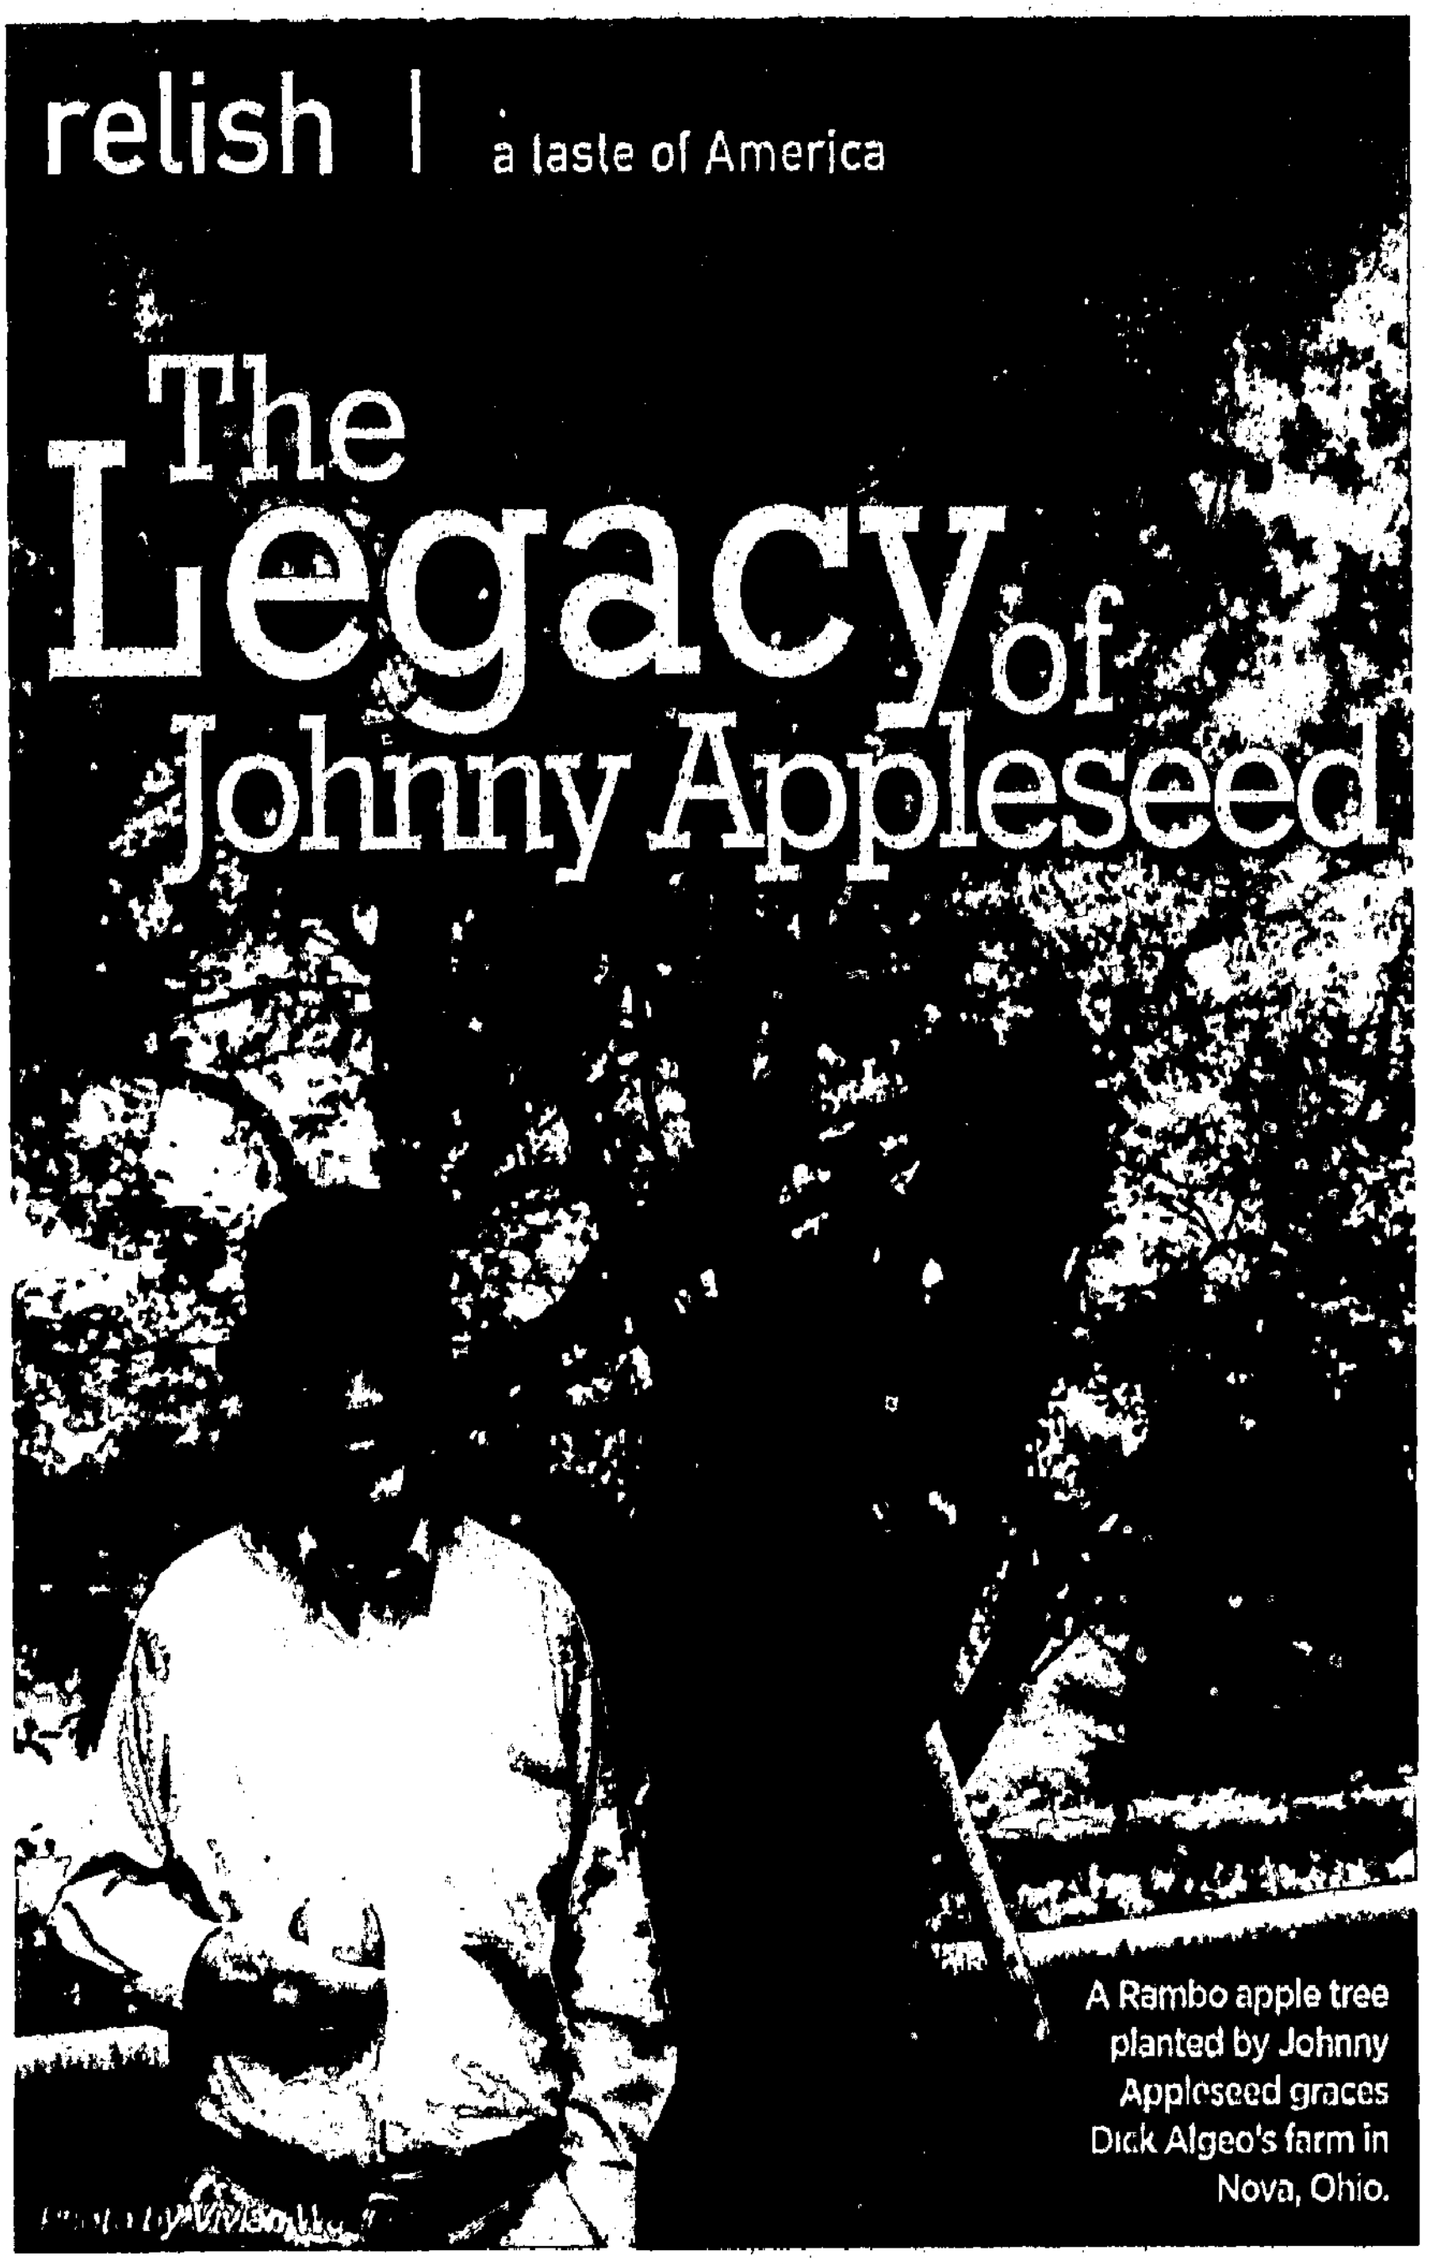
The Legacy of Johnny Appleseed



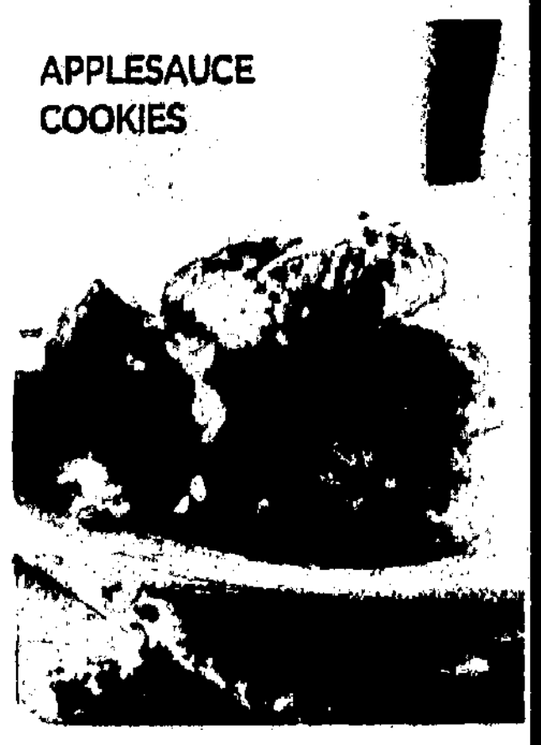
A Rambo apple tree planted by Johnny Appleseed graces Dick Algeo's farm in Nova, Ohio.

Though cracked, splintered and held together by chains, the last known living apple tree planted by John Chapman, or Johnny Appleseed, still produces a good crop of tart, red-striped apples each fall.

Growing on the farm of Dick and Phyllis Algeo near Nova, Ohio, the 170-year-old tree has long been a proud member of this family, which still has four generations living on the farm.

"It's been handed down through the family that Johnny planted it," says Dick, 81, of the tree by his family farmhouse. "And when I got older, I understood the importance of it."

In the early 19th century, Chapman, by trade a nurseryman, wandered throughout Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana planting apple trees, as well as mediating between white settlers and Native Americans and spreading an appreciation for nature. For a while, he lived in Mansfield, Ohio, just up the road from the Algeo farm, which was founded by the family's Scottish ancestors in 1837. And at some point, family lore has it, he visited the farm and planted the tree that grows there today.



APPLESAUCE COOKIES

The Algeo tree is an old-fashioned Rambo variety, and cuttings from the tree have been taken by the conservation organization, American Forests, to sell to the public as Johnny Appleseed Trees. Rambo apples were introduced to America around 1640 by the Swedish immigrant Peter Gunnarsson Rambo, and the variety on the Algeo farm is a Winter Rambo.

These tart, flavorful heirloom apples are particularly good for pies and dumplings. They also make good applesauce, which Phyllis, 81, prepares by cooking down chopped, peeled and cored apples, putting the mixture through a sieve and then freezing it. Her grandkids love the applesauce, and she uses it in cookies, following a recipe that has been handed down for generations.

Typically, apple trees live only 50 or 60 years, so the Algeo tree has surprised experts with its longevity.

"Every spring I think it's the last year," says Phyllis, as she looks proudly at the tree. "But Johnny's watching over it."

By Vivian Wagner, a freelance writer in New Concord, Ohio.

The Algeo Family Applesauce Cookies

Cookies:

- ¾ cup shortening
- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 egg
- ½ cup applesauce
- 2¼ cups all-purpose flour, sifted
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 cup raisins
- ½ cup chopped walnuts

Topping:

- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon

1. Preheat oven to 375F.

2. To prepare cookies, combine shortening, brown sugar and egg; stir well. Stir in applesauce. Combine dry ingredients. Add to shortening mixture; stir well. Fold in raisins and nuts. Drop by tablespoons onto a greased baking sheet.

3. To prepare topping, combine sugar and cinnamon in a small bowl and sprinkle on cookies. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. While cookies are warm, press down slightly to create a crinkly appearance. Makes 32 cookies.

a Grain

Montana farmer Alvin Rustebakke is the new American farmer, having transformed a three-generation family spread on the High Plains into an organic paradise. Discharged from the army in August 1945, Rustebakke returned to his family's 1,500-acre farm outside Scobey with his "city-gal" wife, Dorothy. The newlyweds soon bought the 240 acres adjacent to his father's wheat-and-barley spread; the two generations worked side by side, using traditional agricultural methods for 34 years. After his father's death, the land was incorporated into one operation.

One day in the mid-1970s, Rustebakke got to thinking that something was off. "Here I was spraying my wheat with poison," he says in his gravelly twang, "and we were eating this stuff – and feeding it to other people, too."

"About the time most of our friends were thinking about retiring, we started Great Grains Milling Co., and we have been keeping our noses to the grindstone ever since."

—Alvin Rustebakke

So, in 1979, when his friends were thinking about retirement, Rustebakke kicked into high gear and transformed his spread into a certified organic farm growing hard red spring wheat. "The Cadillac of wheat," he says. "You won't find any better."

To match his new harvest, Rustebakke bought a brand new granite stone mill, which doesn't crush the wheat the same way steel rollers can. Today, Rustebakke's son John has taken over most of the farming duties; Alvin and Dorothy work in packaging and distribution, selling their organic whole-wheat and golden wheat flours, wheat bran, and unground wheat berries, terrific for adding a nutty crunch to soups and salads. Theirs is an on-going success story, three generations of American farming, adapting and changing to meet the times. i

Wheat berries, whole-wheat flour and wheat bran are whole grains that contain ample amounts of fiber and antioxidants. Try adding them to your favorite recipes.

Refrigerator Bran Muffins

Make the batter in advance, ladle into a sealable plastic container, and refrigerate up to two weeks. This is a great base for all sorts of add-ins. Try shredded carrot, raisins, dried cranberries or pineapple.

- 2 cups All-Bran cereal
- ⅔ cup wheat bran
- 1⅓ cups boiling water
- 2⅔ cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon grated or ground nutmeg
- Vegetable cooking spray
- 2 cups low-fat buttermilk
- ½ cup pasteurized egg substitute
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- ½ cup vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1. Mix cereal and wheat bran in a large bowl. Add boiling water, stir well and set aside 1 hour.

2. Whisk together flour, baking soda, cinnamon, salt and nutmeg in a medium bowl.

3. Preheat oven to 375F. Coat muffin cups with cooking spray.

4. Add 1 cup buttermilk to bran mixture; stir well with a whisk. Add remaining buttermilk, egg substitute, granulated sugar, brown sugar, oil and vanilla, stirring until smooth.

4. Add flour mixture; stir until a thick batter forms.

5. Fill each cup with ⅔ cup muffin batter. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, until puffed and lightly browned. Makes 2 dozen muffins.

Pasta with Meatballs and Mushrooms

Here's Pino Luongo's answer to American spaghetti and meatballs: A delicate dish of fresh pasta with small rounds of veal flavored with mushrooms, sweet peas and mint—and no tomato sauce in sight. Pino suggests a short pasta here, but linguine also works well.

Meatballs:
- 8 ounces ground veal
- ¼ cup freshly grated Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese
- 1 large egg yolk
- ½ cup unseasoned bread crumbs
- 1 small garlic clove, minced
- 2 teaspoons chopped fresh flat-leaf parsley
- ½ teaspoon kosher salt
- Coarsely ground black pepper
- ¼ cup olive oil

Sauce and Spaghetti:
- 2 tablespoons olive oil, plus more for drizzling (optional)
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 12 ounces white button mushrooms, sliced ½ inch thick
- ½ teaspoon kosher salt
- Coarsely ground black pepper
- 1½ cups fresh sweet peas or thawed tiny frozen peas
- ½ cup vegetable broth
- 6 fresh mint leaves
- 1½ pounds hot cooked, fresh or dried linguine (½ cup cooking liquid reserved)
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter
- ¼ cup freshly grated Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese

1. To prepare meatballs, place meat in a large bowl; add cheese, egg yolk, bread crumbs, garlic, parsley, salt, and pepper. Mix gently. Roll into grape-sized portions.

2. Heat ¼ cup olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Working in batches, place meatballs in the pan, without crowding, and sauté until browned and crisp on one side, about 3 minutes. Flip and cook until other side is browned and crisp, about 2 minutes. Remove meatballs with a spatula and place on paper towels to drain. Repeat with remaining meat mixture.

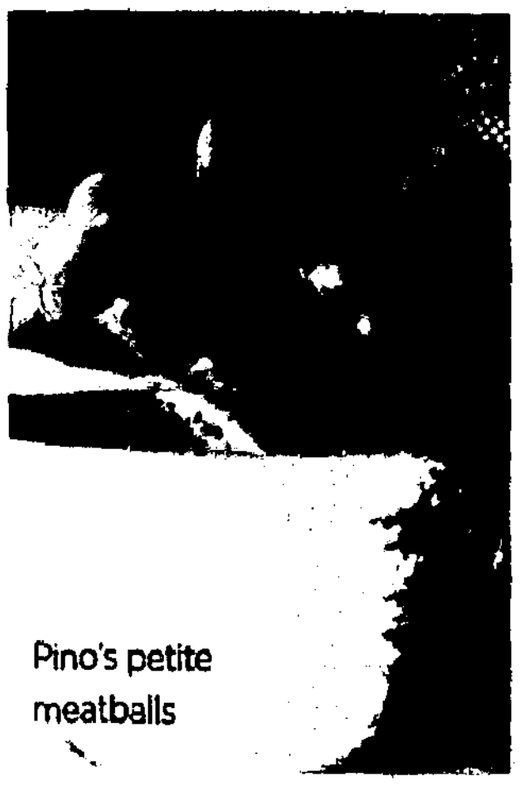
3. To prepare sauce, heat 2 tablespoons olive oil in a large skillet over medium-high heat. Add onion and sauté until translucent, about 4 minutes. Add mushrooms, salt and pepper, and sauté 5 minutes. Add peas, toss, and cook 2 to 3 minutes. Add broth and mint and cook another 5 minutes. Add meatballs, toss well, cover and keep warm.



Pino's petite meatballs

4. Add cooked pasta to sauce. Add butter, cheese, and a few tablespoons of the reserved pasta cooking water, and heat over very low heat. Toss thoroughly, drizzling with more olive oil if desired. Serves 8.

Ranch MAKES VEGETABLES DELECTABLE

Meatballs with Spaghetti

Strictly an American invention, Mark Strausman's spaghetti and meatballs are the classic dish most remember from childhood. "I don't fry my meatballs, as Pino does. I simmer them in the tomato sauce until they're cooked through. If you are like Pino and can't bear the idea of meatballs on top of spaghetti (I'd like to know how many of you there are out there!), you can prepare this dish without the spaghetti and simply serve the meatballs in the sauce with lots of crusty artisan bread."

Meatballs:

- 1 cup day-old sourdough bread cubes (crust removed)
- 1 cup whole milk
- 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 medium red onion, finely chopped
- 8 ounces ground veal
- 8 ounces ground chuck
- 8 ounces lean ground pork
- 8 ounces sweet Italian sausage, removed from casings and crumbled
- 3 tablespoons dried oregano
- ½ cup freshly grated Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese
- ½ cup freshly grated Pecorino Romano cheese
- 2 large eggs
- ¼ cup chopped fresh flat-leaf parsley
- 1 teaspoon kosher salt
- ½ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Sauce and Spaghetti:

- ¼ cup extra-virgin olive oil
- ½ medium red onion, minced
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 tablespoon tomato paste
- ½ cup dry red wine
- 2 (28-ounce) cans Italian plum tomatoes, with juice, puréed in a food processor
- 1 teaspoon, kosher salt
- ½ teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes (optional)
- 1½ pounds hot cooked spaghetti or linguine

1. To prepare meatballs, place bread and milk in a medium bowl and let stand 5 minutes.

2. Heat large Dutch oven over medium heat. When hot, add olive oil. Add onion and cook until soft and golden, 5 to 7 minutes. Remove pot from heat.

3. Place veal, beef, pork and sausage in a large bowl; using your hands, mix well. Add oregano, cheeses, eggs, parsley, bread mixture, onion, salt and pepper, mix well.

4. To prepare sauce, heat a large saucepan over medium heat; add olive oil. Add onion and garlic, cook 5 minutes. Add tomato paste; stir 1 minute. Add wine, tomatoes, salt and red pepper flakes, if using, and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low; simmer gently 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

5. Form 16 golf-ball size portions of meat. Add to sauce.

6. Simmer gently until meatballs are thoroughly cooked and no longer pink in center, 1 to 1½ hours. Serve meatballs and sauce over spaghetti. Serves 8.

relish | great tailgate wines

If you're heading to the game with a carload of food and friends (and beer's just not where it's at for you), pick up these good-quality, easy-quaffing sips for the pre-kickoff feast. Choose one depending on which style of wheels best captures the spirit of your tailgating style

Wine columnist Wini Moranville guides you to the best bottles for the money.

The Pick-Up Truck Pick

Don Miguel Gascón 2007 Malbec (Mendoza, Argentina; $12). If you're hauling along a grill in that flatbed, roll out this wine. Full-bodied, deeply fruity, yet firm, it will stand up to your meatiest foods.

The Honda Civic Pick ▷

Rosemount Diamond Label 2006 Merlot (South Eastern Australia; $10). For a reliable, easy-sipping, go-with-anything pour, reach for this ripe and plummy, medium-bodied wine.

The "Monster SUV Packed with Friends" Pick

Boho 2006 Chardonnay (Central Coast, California; $24/3-litre box). This wine's refreshing tropical fruit flavors will go down easy on warm afternoons. Plus, it comes in a box, which is virtually unbreakable, easy to tote—and easy on the wallet.

The "College Beater" Pick

HRM Rex Goliath Cabernet Sauvignon (California; $9). A highly drinkable, deeply fruity Cab at an attractive price for the just-turned-21 crowd.

The Pink Cadillac Pick

Barefoot White Zinfandel Bubbly (California; $10). If your tailgate feast is more about fruited chicken salads and classy canapés than burgers and dogs, pop open a bottle of this pretty pink. You may be surprised at this refreshing and surprisingly refined bubbly.

Ask the Wine Geek

Wine expert Charles Smothermon answers your questions.

Q. I ordered an expensive bottle of wine at a restaurant last weekend and wound up hating it. Should I have sent it back?

A. It might not be much consolation, but you probably did the right thing by not returning the wine. The basic rule is that simply not liking a wine isn't grounds for returning it. But a flaw in the wine—such as oxidation or cork taint—is always a good reason to send it back. If it's oxidized, it will smell and taste unpleasantly old, often like Sherry. And a corked wine smells like moldy, wet wood or cardboard.

Country Couture

Make it a Dixie Day

Southern food is more than barbecue and fried chicken. And since you can grill out longer below the Mason-Dixon line, folks tend to get really creative with their outdoor cooking. To honor the last days of summer and the impending tailgating season, here is a menu that offers something different, yet still familiar. Corn gets gussied up with chipotle butter, biscuits with fresh rosemary, and catfish with pesto. If you're tired of burgers and dogs, strike up the grill for a menu that's just a little bit of country.!

Wheatberry Salad

Wheatberries are whole, compressed wheat kernels. They're a nutty, flavorful addition to healthy, main-course salads like this one, made with dried cranberries, pecans, apples and vegetables.

- 2 cups wheat berries
- 4 quarts water
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 pound roughly chopped smoked turkey or rotisserie chicken
- 1 tart apple, such as Northern Spy or Granny Smith, peeled, cored and diced (about 1 cup)
- 4 green onions, thinly sliced
- 1 cup dried cranberries
- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 3 tablespoons walnut or corn oil
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
- 1 tablespoon fresh chopped sage, or 1 teaspoon dried
- 2 teaspoons fresh thyme leaves, or ½ teaspoon dried
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper

For more whole-grain, recipes go to relishmag.com/grains

1. Place wheat berries in a large pot; add water. Bring to a boil over high heat. Reduce heat to low and simmer until tender, about 1 hour. Drain in a colander and cool.

2. Place wheat berries in a large bowl; stir in remaining ingredients. Serve cold or at room temperature. Serves 10.

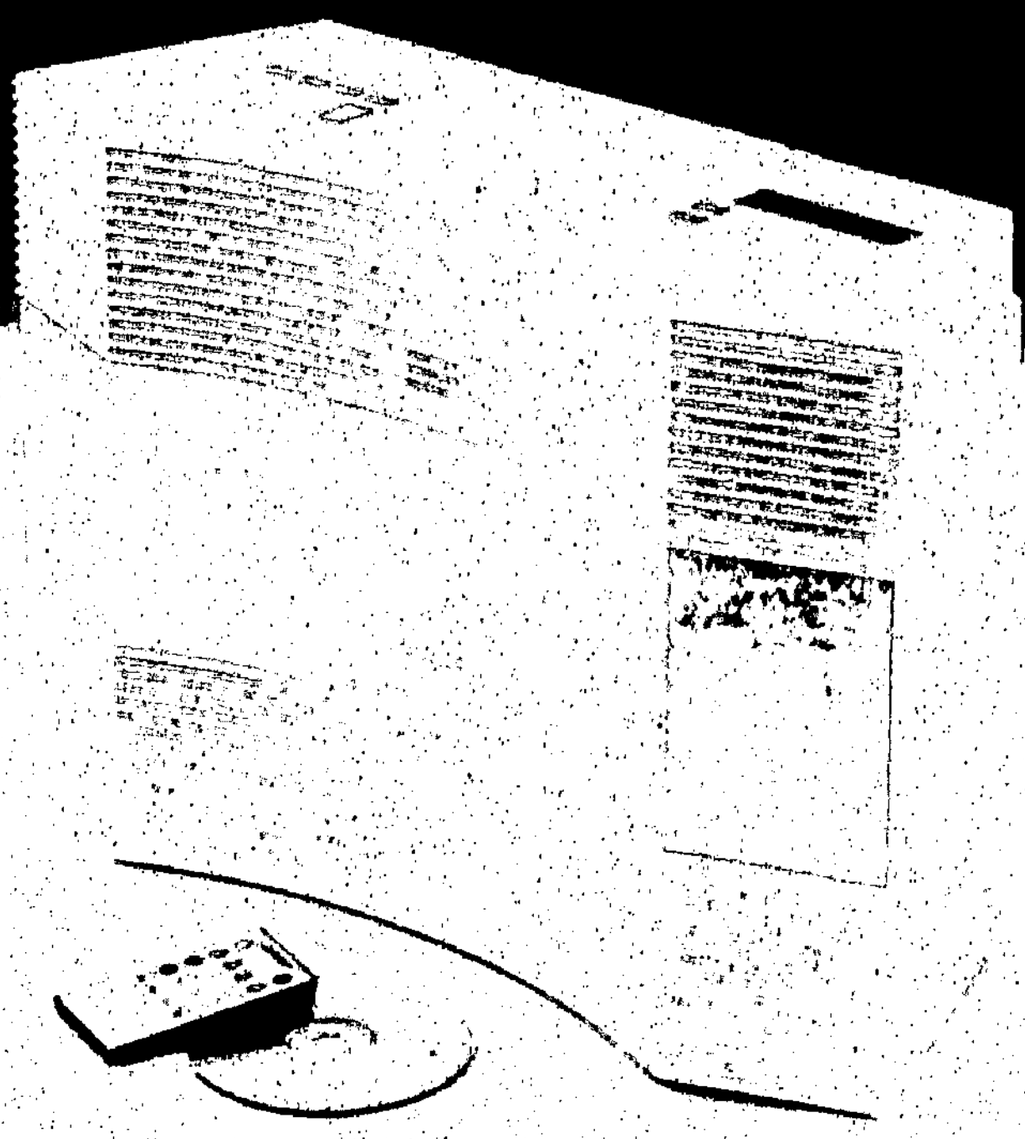
Presenting the Acoustic Wave® music system II.

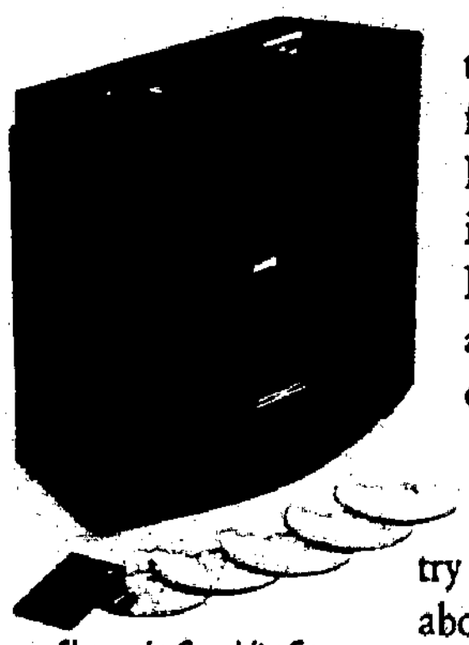


Our best one-piece music system.

When we introduced the original Acoustic Wave® music system, Sound & Vision said it delivered "possibly the best-reproduced sound many people have ever heard." And the Oregonian reported it had "changed the way many Americans listen to music."

Today, the improved Acoustic Wave® music system II builds on our more than 40 years of industry-leading innovation to deliver even better sound. This is the best one-piece music system we've ever made, with sound that rivals large and complicated stereos. There's no stack of equipment. No tangle of wires. Just all-in-one convenience and lifelike sound.

Even better sound than its award-winning predecessor. With recently developed Bose® technologies, our engineers were able to make the acclaimed sound quality even more natural. Play your favorite vocalist – a challenging test for any audio system. Or play an acoustically demanding piece with a bass guitar or percussion. We believe you'll appreciate the quality of the sound even at volume levels approaching that of a live performance.



Shown in Graphite Gray with optional 5-CD Changer.

Use it where you like. This small system fits almost anywhere. You can move it from room to room, or take it outside. It has what you need to enjoy your music, including a built-in CD player and digital FM/AM tuner. You also can easily connect additional sources like your MP3 player or TV.

Hear it yourself risk free for 30 days. Use our Excitement Guarantee to try it in your home for 30 days. Be sure to ask about our payment plan, which lets you use your own major credit card to make 12 easy payments, with no interest charges from Bose.*

FREE Travel Case when you order by Sept. 30, 2008.

Ask about adding the optional 5-CD Changer for hours of uninterrupted music at home. Or, if you like, take the system with you using the optional Travel Case you'll receive for free when you order now. This case is a $149 value. It includes a connection cable for your MP3 player, and a cord to power the system from a car, RV or boat. You can even play your system right inside it.

Compare the performance of the Acoustic Wave® music system II with large, multi-component stereos costing much more. And discover why Bose is the most respected name in sound.

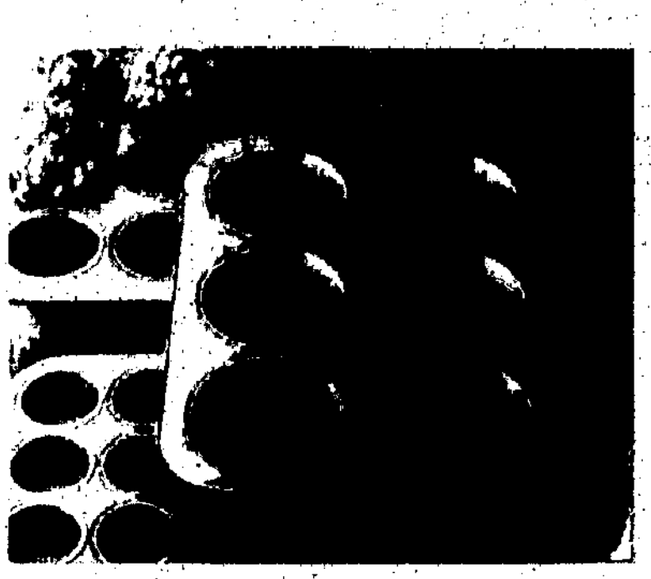
Tomato Time
Summer tomatoes deserve the extra attention and precision slicing that this 5-inch Wusthof Grand Prix II Serrated Tomato Knife delivers. The serrated blade penetrates tomato skin without crushing or bruising the delicate interior, so you can cut paper-thin slices. #11507; sale price $54.99.



Muffin Pans
Ideal for mini-quiches, muffins (like our Wheat Bran Muffins on page 8) and cupcakes. Ceramic-reinforced nonstick finish means baked goods easily slide out of the pan. Professional-grade aluminized steel conducts heat for even baking and browning. Swiss-made nonstick coating will never chip or peel, and the surfaces will never bend, warp, rust or corrode. Rolled lips add tensile strength and rigidity to prevent warping. #24292; 6-cup, $19.99; 12-cup, $22.99; 24-cup, $19.99.

Get to Grilling
Nonstick rectangular grill basket with detachable 13-inch rosewood handle holds vegetables, fish steaks and shellfish securely. Perfect for grilling our Prosciutto-Wrapped Asparagus (page 15). The basket is dishwasher-safe and measures 14½ inches by 10¾ inches by 1½ inches. #21471; sale price $14.99.

HEALTHNEWS: Anti-Aging Breakthrough

Erase Wrinkles Without Botox®*!

Breakthrough anti-aging cream combines three scientifically advanced wrinkle-reducing ingredients for real results.

In recent years Botox® has been promoted as the leader of anti-wrinkle treatments. Although it can be successful, it is very expensive, painful, must be administered by a physician, and, in many cases, two to three treatments are needed for the desired corrections. After years of research and testing, a safer, more affordable product offering real results is now available.

Hydroxatone® Vs. Other Products
Hydroxatone® is a real Botox® alternative without the same risks associated with Botox®. There have been a number of anti-wrinkle products introduced over the last few years. Few of these provide valid scientific evidence that they provide real results. The leading bio-chemist that developed Hydroxatone® with Dr. Fiorillo decided to incorporate the three leading and complimentary anti-wrinkle ingredients into Hydroxatone® (Argireline®5, Matrixyl™ 3000³, and Hyaluronic Acid) to provide real results. Hydroxatone® was the first to combine these three, resulting in the unrivaled scientifically advanced anti-wrinkle product on the market.

Up To 68% Reduction Of Deep Wrinkles
Unless you've actually tried Hydroxatone®, it's hard to imagine it can work the miracles users claim it does. But women and men of all ages are using Hydroxatone® and seeing real and noticeable results every day. The cumulative results that are seen within two weeks will continue with daily use. Over six months this will increase to as much as 68% reduction in deep wrinkles.

Why Hydroxatone® Is So Effective
Hydroxatone® is unlike any other skin cream you've ever tried because it relies on THREE proven ingredients; Matrixyl™ 3000³, Argireline®5 and Hyaluronic Acid.

Advanced Anti-Wrinkle Results

- 68% Reduction Of Deep Wrinkles In Just 6 Months
- Diminished Age Spots & Increased Suppleness
- Enhanced Production Of Healthy, Radiant New Skin
- Tightened And Toned Skin

"Within two weeks of using Hydroxatone®, I was getting compliments on my skin from friends and co-workers. My skin not only feels great, but it looks great too! You've made me a Hydroxatone® believer!"
— Robin B., Los Angeles

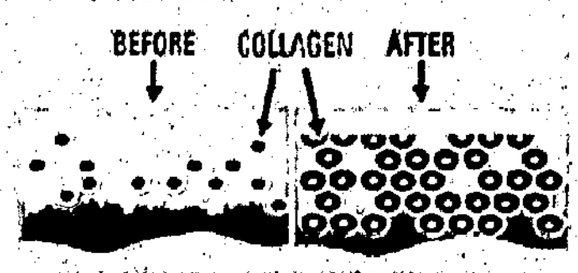
But Hydroxatone® doesn't stop there! It also includes other natural antioxidants, botanicals, vitamins, and peptides...designed to nourish your skin while fading wrinkles.

Matrixyl™ 3000³ – is clinically tested to promote collagen production in the skin.

Argireline®5 – is a combination of amino acids formulated to relax facial wrinkles, reduce the degree of existing wrinkles and stop their future development.

Hyaluronic Acid – is virtually unmatched in hydrating the skin, resulting in increased smoothness, softening, elasticity and decreased facial wrinkles.



There Is No Comparison
Forget Botox® or any other radical and dangerous treatments. Throw out other creams that simply don't work! Hydroxatone® is the anti-wrinkle cream that is proven. Within two weeks Hydroxatone® users will start to see results. With continued use, their skin will become softer, smoother, more radiant, and younger-looking...and that's GUARANTEED.

"I'm 51 years old and my skin hasn't looked and felt this good in 15+ years. All the tiny wrinkles and lines have virtually disappeared. This product is fantastic."
-Rose P.

"I talk to so many women who would do almost anything to look younger. That is why I recommend Hydroxatone® to so many of my patients."
—Dr. Michael Fiorillo is a world renowned board certified plastic and reconstructive surgeon and co-developer of Hydroxatone®.

Having A Hard Time Finding Hydroxatone® ?

For years consumers have only had expensive and ineffective alternatives to achieve younger looking skin. You may have seen other inferior anti-wrinkle products costing hundreds of dollars at some high priced salons and upscale department stores. The manufacturer of Hydroxatone® is so confident in their anti-aging treatment that they are offering a 30-day risk free trial offer... because seeing is believing!

Call today to get your supply of Hydroxatone® risk free, for just a small S&H fee. Our operators are available to let you try one of the greatest breakthroughs in wrinkle fighting technology without spending hundreds of dollars.

AS HEARD ON PAUL HARVEY NEWS

New advanced portable heater can cut your heating bill up to 50%

Heats a large room in minutes with even heat wall to wall and floor to ceiling

Does not get hot, cannot start a fire and will not reduce humidity or oxygen

A new advanced quartz infrared portable heater, the EdenPURE®, can cut your heating bills by up to 50%.

You have probably heard about the remarkable EdenPURE® as heard on Paul Harvey News and on television features across the nation.

The EdenPURE® can pay for itself in a matter of weeks and then start putting a great deal of extra money in your pocket after that.

A major cause of residential fires in the United States is portable heaters. But the EdenPURE® cannot cause a fire. That is because the quartz infrared heating element never gets to a temperature that can ignite anything.

The outside of the EdenPURE® only gets warm to the touch so that it will not burn children or pets. Pets can sleep on it when it is operating without harm.

The advanced space-age EdenPURE® Quartz Infrared Portable Heater also heats the room evenly, wall-to-wall and floor-to-ceiling. And, as you know, portable heaters only heat an area a few feet around the heater.

Unlike other heating sources, the EdenPURE® cannot put poisonous carbon monoxide into a room or any type of fumes or any type of harmful radiation.

Q. What is the origin of this amazing heating element in the EdenPURE®?

A. This advanced heating element was discovered accidentally by a man named John Jones.

Q. What advantages does infrared quartz tube heating source have over other heating source products?

A. John Jones designed his heating source around the three most important consumer benefits: economy, comfort, and safety.

In the EdenPURE® system, electricity is used to generate infrared light which, in turn, creates a very safe heat.

After a great deal of research and development, very efficient infrared heat chambers were developed that utilize three unique patented solid copper heat exchangers in one EdenPURE® heater.

Q. How can a person cut their heating bill by up to 50% with the EdenPURE®?

A. The EdenPURE® will heat a room in minutes. Therefore, you can turn the heat down in your house to as low as 50 degrees, but the room you are occupying, which has the EdenPURE®, will be warm and comfortable. The EdenPURE® is portable. When you move to another room, it will quickly heat that room also. This can drastically cut heating bills, in some instances, by up to 50%.

The EdenPURE® comes in 2 models. GEN3 Model 500 heats a room up to 300 square feet and GEN3 Model 1000 heats a room up to 1,000 square feet.

End of interview.

The EdenPURE® will pay for itself in weeks. It will put a great deal of extra money in a users pocket. Because of today's spiraling gas, oil, propane, and other energy costs, the EdenPURE® will provide even greater savings as the time goes by.

Readers who wish can obtain the EdenPURE® Quartz Infrared Portable Heater at a $75 discount if they order in the next 10 days. Please see the Special Reader's Discount Coupon on this page. For those readers ordering after 10 days from the date of this publication, we reserve the right to either accept or reject order requests at the discounted price.

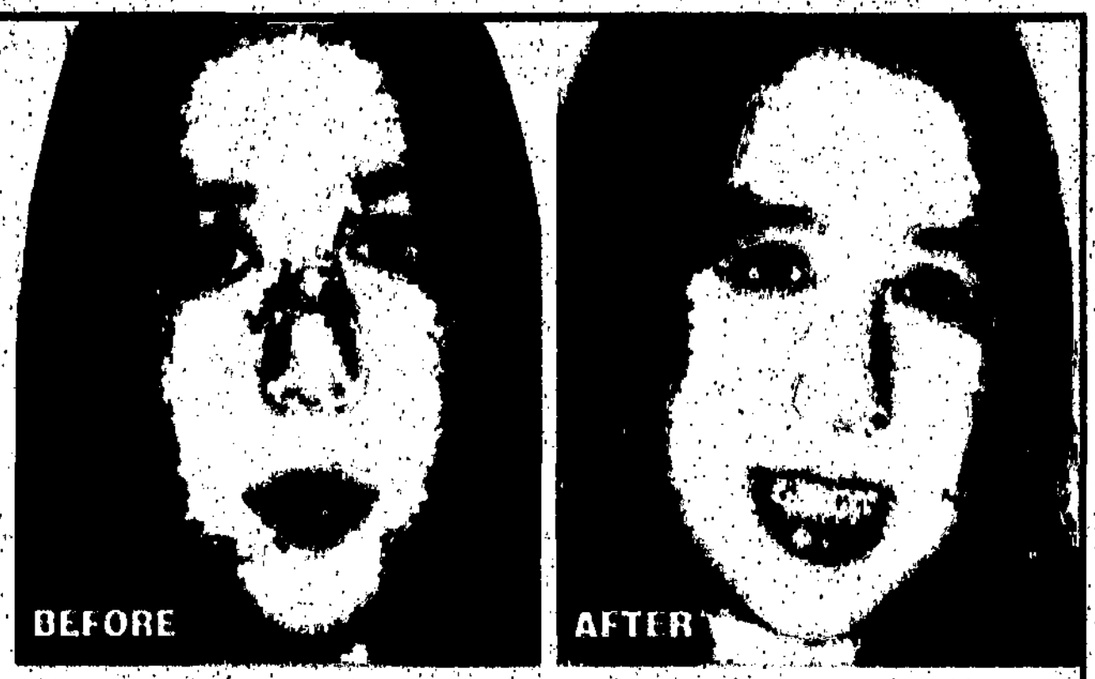
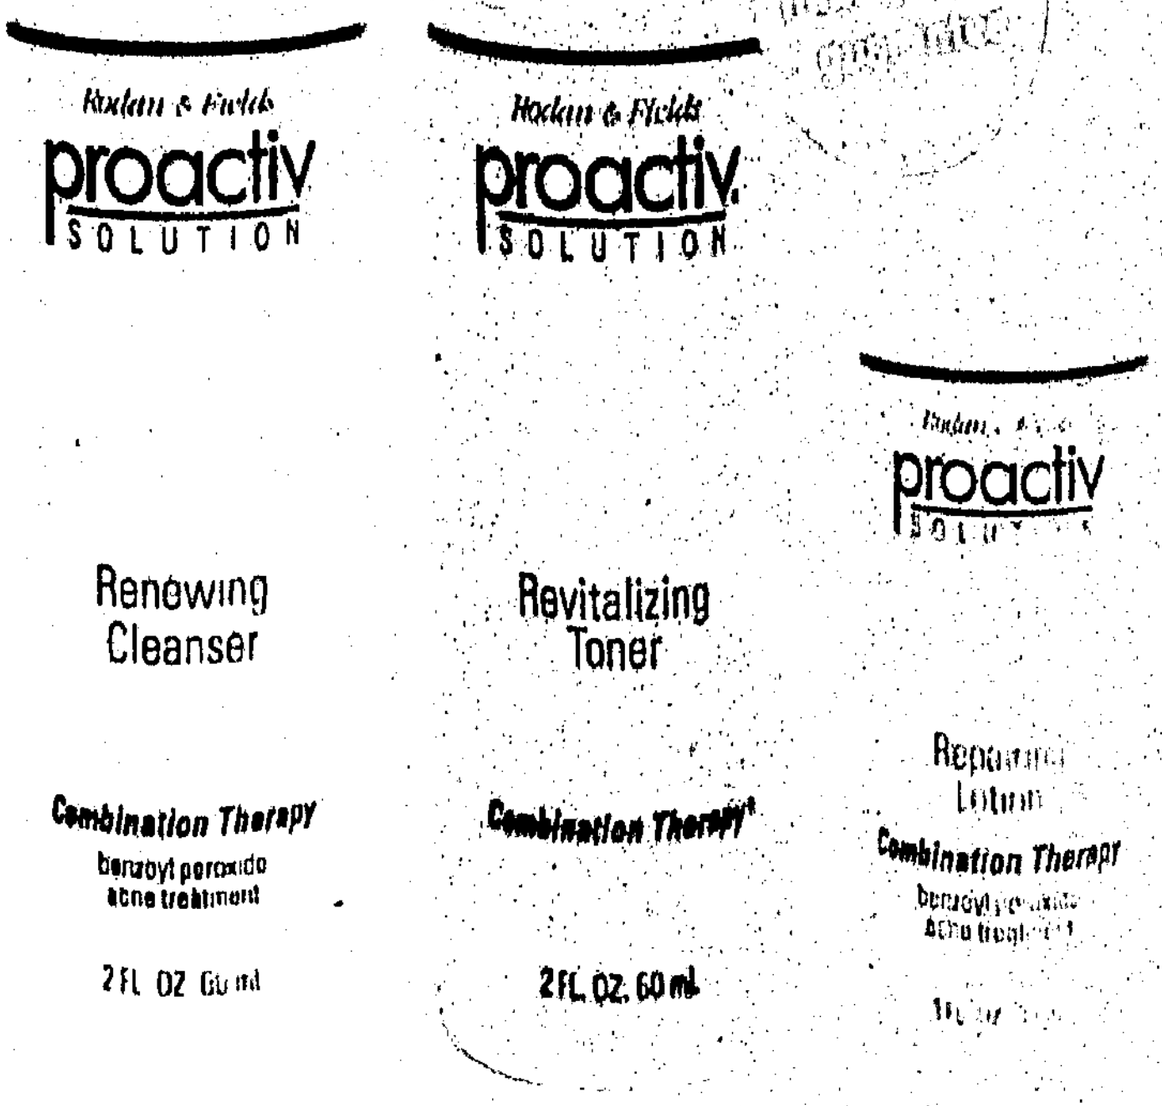
Proactiv® Solution worked for these kids. We guarantee it will work for yours ... or your money back.





Now you can help solve the acne problem. And show them how to move on to happier things.

Imagine a happier, more confident, acne-free teenager. That just might be the biggest benefit of the guaranteed Proactiv® Solution. Developed by two female dermatologists, it's a complete system that cleans the skin, helps heal blemishes and actually helps prevent future breakouts.

Benzoyl Peroxide cleanser attacks acne-causing bacteria, while it buffs away oil, dirt and dead skin cells. A refreshing, alcohol-free toner lifts away impurities that can plug pores. And the medicated Repairing Lotion is designed to attack bacteria all the way down at the source, helping to prevent new blemishes.

It works so well that clear skin is guaranteed! Let your teen try it for a full 60 days. If both of you are not completely satisfied with the improvement, just return the bottles – even if they're empty – and we'll refund 100% of the purchase price (less shipping and handling).

Dr. Katie Rodan and Dr. Kathy Fields, two Stanford-trained dermatologists devoted over five years to developing Proactiv® Solution, while treating over 1,000 patients a month. Now it's available to you without a prescription!

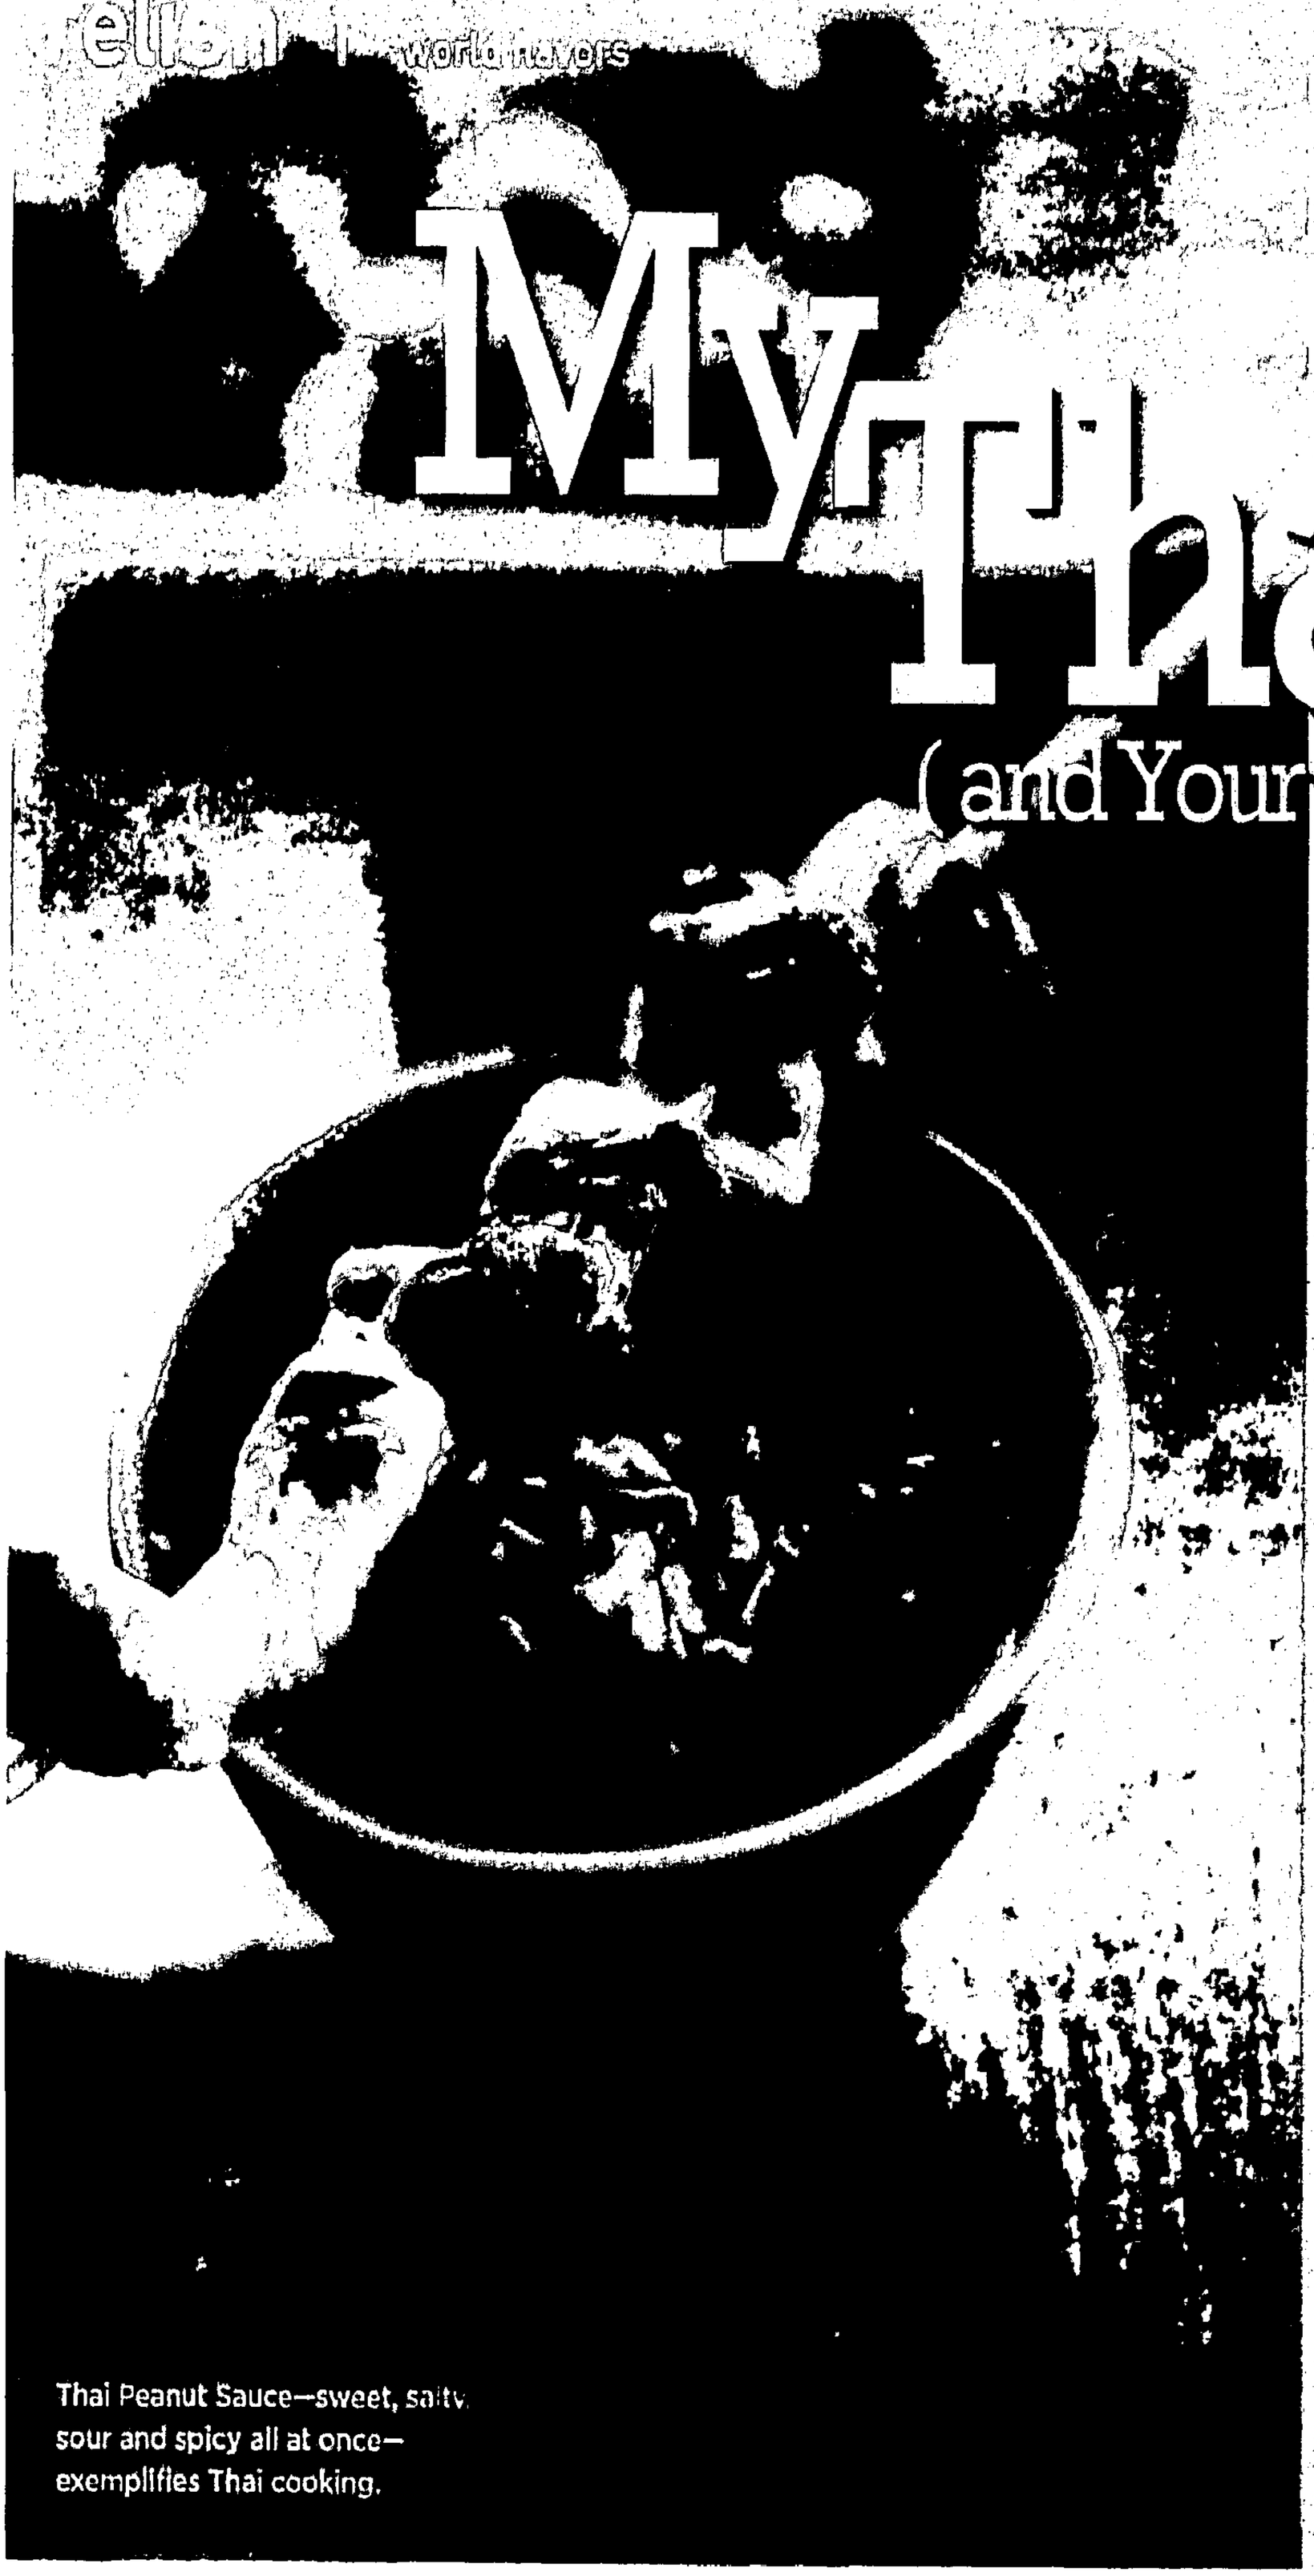
My Thai (and Your Thai)



Thai Peanut Sauce—sweet, salty, sour and spicy all at once—exemplifies Thai cooking.

Thai cuisine offers an explosion of fresh, clean flavors that's simply irresistible. The balance of spicy, sweet, salty and sour that makes the dishes so distinctive also makes them personal. The spirit of Thai cooking is one that invites every cook to make adjustments to suit individual taste. If my Thai is not exactly your Thai, you might kick up the chiles or go easy on the lime, tweaking the flavors so they harmonize perfectly in the only mouth that really matters—your own.

Cooking Thai food at home can involve ingredients you may not have in your pantry (see page 2). Supermarkets are an increasingly good source for some Thai essentials, and Asian markets and online grocers can provide the rest. One ingredient you won't easily be able to do without is fish sauce (nam pla). Look for a high-quality brand such as Squid or Tiparos, and don't be put off by the aroma—fish sauce is a magical, transforming ingredient, and one of the secrets to great Thai cooking.!

Thai Peanut Sauce

Try this creamy peanut sauce with grilled chicken or pork (a terrific way to introduce kids to Thai food), as a dip for cucumber slices, or tossed with a tangle of noodles. Add as much or as little crushed red pepper as you like.

- 4 teaspoons peanut oil
- ⅔ cup minced shallots
- 4 garlic cloves, minced
- ½ teaspoon crushed red pepper
- 6 tablespoons creamy peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons hoisin sauce
- 2 teaspoons dark brown sugar
- ¾ cup water
- 1 tablespoon fresh lime juice

1. Heat oil in a heavy saucepan. Add shallots, garlic and crushed red pepper; cook over low heat until fragrant and just beginning to color, about 3 minutes.

2. Whisk in peanut butter, hoisin, brown sugar and water. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 1 minute. Stir in lime juice.

3. Serve warm or at room temperature. Makes 1½ cups.

Thai Beef Salad

This main course salad captures the essence of Thai cuisine. Full of contrasting textures (crisp greens, tender beef, crunchy peanuts) and tossed with a vibrant dressing, it's a bright, healthful dish that's alive with flavor.

- ¼ cup fresh lime juice
- 3 tablespoons fish sauce
- 1 tablespoon, plus 1 teaspoon, dark brown sugar
- 1 serrano or jalapeño, seeded and finely chopped
- 1¼ pounds flank steak
- 2 teaspoons peanut oil
- Coarsely ground black pepper
- 6 cups torn romaine lettuce
- 1 small red onion, halved and thinly sliced
- ½ English cucumber, halved lengthwise and sliced
- ¼ cup roughly chopped fresh mint, divided
- 3 tablespoons roughly chopped fresh cilantro, divided
- ⅓ cup coarsely chopped unsalted peanuts

1. Combine lime juice, fish sauce, brown sugar and serrano in a small bowl; whisk.

2. Prepare grill or preheat broiler. Brush steak with peanut oil; season with pepper. Grill or broil, turning once, until medium rare, about 5 minutes per side. Remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes.

3. Combine romaine, red onion, cucumber, and half the mint and cilantro in a large bowl. Add all but 2 tablespoons of lime juice mixture, toss well, and mound salad on a large serving platter.

4. Thinly slice steak across the grain, and toss with remaining lime juice mixture. Arrange steak on top of salad. Sprinkle with remaining mint and cilantro and chopped peanuts. Serves 4.

Per serving: 370 calories, 18g fat, 60mg chol., 37g prot., 15g carbs., 4g fiber, 1120mg sodium.

PORK & INKBLOT TESTS

Remember those tests where you look at spilled ink on a page and say that it looks like a butterfly or an angel playing a banjo? Someone else looks at the same oil stain and sees Madagascar or a 1983 Honda Civic hatchback.

This may seem odd, but when I'm in the grocery store, I pick up a package of pork chops and stare at it. And every time, I see something different—Brais 1 Garlic-Ginger Chops, Honey-Pecan Por Cutlets, or Portobello Pork Chops. It just takes a little imagination.

That's what's great about The Other W e Meat®—it can become whatever you can visualize. Except maybe a stagecoach being pulle y Vegas show s.
