FOURTH YEAR, NUMBER 10

CAPITAN, NEW MEXICO, NOVEMBER 16, 1918.

An Astounding Week.

[From the El Paso Times.]
The present week is one that will loom large in the history of the world. Its days of historical events is probably unequalled. Within seven short days we have seen the once powerful war lord of Germany hurled from his throne and driven into exile, his son slain by his own soldiers, his navy rent by mutiny and the army he once believed invincible forced to yield and accept the harshest terms ever imposed upon a beaten nation in modern times.

Germany today is defeated more thoroughly than the most optimistic of its enemies hoped would be the case after another year or two of bitter warfare. Kaiserism is dead and the home of absolutism has become a hotbed of socialism, torn by dissensions and threatened with starvation. Kings and princelings have abandoned their thrones to make way for the rule of the people. Emperor Karl of Austria, scion of a house which for centuries ruled with an iron hand, has joined the growing band of ex-monarchs, leaving his country to be divided up among the polyglot peoples that once formed the population of the dual monarchy.

William Hohenzollern, whose hand held the torch that set the world on fire, is a fugitive, friendless and despised, awaiting the day when his enemies will demand his extradition and punishment for his unspeakable crimes. He made a determined effort to stave off his downfall, but without avail—even von Hindenburg deserted his former master and refused to be responsible for the consequence if the discredited war lord attempted to retain his seat on the throne.

It has been a great week for the cause of democracy and humanity. Never in all history have tyrants fallen in such numbers and so completely. In the world today, unless it be in Russia, there is no ruler who holds sway save by the consent of the people of his dominions. The doctrine of divine right has received its death blow, and the world, emerging from four years of carnage and strife, may well look forward to an era brighter and fairer than any that has fallen to the lot of humanity since the dawn of history.

B. F. Pankey, republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, lead the ticket in the election, receiving 2417 majority. The next largest was School Supt. Mr. Wagner received 2342 majority. Senator Fall got a majority of 1675, the lowest was her Reynolds, for Justice of the Supreme Court, who received 813 majority.

New Mexico is to have B. C. Hernandez for its representative in congress again. He made a good representative before and we expect a good record in the next congress.

Mariano Chavez, a young man died in Capitan last week of pneumonia. He was a brother of Amably Chavez who recently died at Camp Pike, Ark. He was a man of good character, and had been an employe of the Tittsworth Co. for some time and up to the time he was taken sick. He leaves a wife and three children.

An Apology.

We will have to offer the Mountaineer readers an apology as well as an excuse in this issue. Last week our engine got out of commission and the paper was unusually late in coming out. This week we are delayed. The editor has been absent several days; then our print paper has been delayed in reaching us, and we are compelled to go to press with a small amount of local reading matter. We hope that such another train of circumstances will not attend us again; we feel sure that some of them will not, at least.

Would Try Rulers Held Responsible for World's War.

Paris, Nov. 13.—Several members of the chamber of deputies today proposed in the chamber a resolution requesting to enter into an agreement with other allied government for the trial of all former rulers who were responsible for the great European war. Under the resolution the extradition of the rulers would be requested, no matter in what country they have taken refuge.

Red Cross Meeting.

A meeting of all the members of the Capitan Branch of the American Red Cross for the purpose of electing an Executive Committee will be held at the Capitan School House on November 20th at 8:30 p.m.
Mrs. Geo. A. Titworth, President.

The Republicans claim they will have a two-thirds majority in the legislature.

Mr. Abe Foster was in town Tuesday making proof for title to his land. He was accompanied by his sons John and Will Foster, whom he used for witnesses.

Mr. R. G. Day, of Carrizozo, has been here for some time engaged in painting, and at the present is painting interior of the bank building. The work that Mr. Day has finished shows him to be a thorough master of his trade and up to date in all its details. Those who may want work in his line can find no one who could give them better satisfaction.

The Capitan bank will soon be ready for business. It is understood that Mr. F. J. Sager, cashier of the Exchange Bank of Carrizozo, will open the new bank and be here several weeks until it is good working order.

Miss Lucila Price who has as school at Kelley, this state, is spending a few weeks with her parents in Capitan. She had to close her school on account of influenza, but is expecting a telegram to return and open school.

Jake Hulse, the Capitan Waggon Yard man, keeps a supply of feed on hand. When farmers come town they can find a good place to have their teams cared for. Good clean camp houses for campers.

W. M. Spillers the Baca Canyon ranchman was in town on business this week.

All the finishing material for the Capitan bank building has arrived and a force of workmen are at work getting the building.

IDEAS ABOUT AGE ARE WRONG

Writer Complains That World Thinks of All Men As If They Were Young.

It is the fashion nowadays to speak of a youth of eighteen as if he were a child, and of a man of thirty-five as if he were yet growing. The ancients had no such ideas, and it has taken the lack of seriousness of the past three or four generations to spread them as they are. I often remember with pleasure a reference of Guy Patin—the charming literary physician of the seventeenth century—to a M. Lenglet, a man of twenty-six, professor of rhetoric at the College d'Harcourt, rector of the Paris university. Guy Patin says a man of twenty-six, as he might have said a man of forty-six; there is not the least intention of contrasting this man's years with his high position. William Pitt was not supposed either, to be a crude youth, and the French revolutionists—most of them men between twenty-five and thirty-five—were never taxed with immaturity.

We think of all men who are not elderly, as if they were young men, liable to the mistakes of young men, and this not infrequently leads them to act as if they really were very young men. But most men of seventeen are clear about their ethical code, and who is there who has gathered some experience, and has not found that the possibility of foregoing the cleanliness of their souls is more unpleasant to them than to most of their seniors?—Ernest Dimmet, in Atlantic Monthly.

JUST PART OF DAILY GRIND

Wounds and Death Merg Incidents to American Soldiers When Duty Sounds Its Call.

There were four of them, and their mission was to transport a machine gun to a wooded hilltop commanding the enemy lines. It was not very far to look at. But they had to crawl the entire distance under fire. All night long they crawled, except when they froze into stillness under the light of the star shells. Before they were halfway there, two of them were wounded and had to work their way back to the lines over the same perilous ground. The other two kept on. The danger increased as they approached the top of the hill. Both of them were bleeding from flesh wounds. Both were spent with the exertion of the long ascent dragging their gun. But their only thought was to do what they had come to do. Just at dawn they rounded the top of the hill. The first thing they saw were two German officers standing with binoculars sweeping the American lines. Quick as thought, without waiting to place their gun, one "Yank" held it while the other fired. The officers went down, and the enemy guns woke up. The two boys made cover with their gun and answered the fire. Before the day had fairly broken, they had "cleared out" the nest of enemy guns and had their own gun advantageously placed.

The Triumphal March of

A NEW CREATION OF SCIENCE AND NATURE

WHEN we announced Bevo recently, our hopes were high. We knew that we had the most unusual soft drink that had ever been offered: A beverage combining the nutritive extracts of wholesome cereals, the zest of Saazer Hops; a flavor all its own and absolute purity. We knew this because, true to our own ideals, we had experimented for years before we were satisfied to say, "We offer you Bevo— it is good and it is good for you."

High as were our hopes for its reception, we have realized them far and beyond our expectations.

Bevo today is an established popular success. Everywhere the same question is asked:—"Have you tried Bevo?"

Now, one final word. We promise you that, in accord with the known principles of Anheuser-Busch and all its products, Bevo not only will forever maintain its present high standard of quality, but as time goes on our great endeavor shall be to make this soft drink even more perfect in every detail of its goodness.

You will find Bevo at inns, restaurants, groceries, department and drug stores, picnic grounds, baseball parks, soda fountains, dining cars and other places where refreshing beverages are sold.

Guard against substitutes. Have the bottle opened in front of you, first seeing that the seal is unbroken and that the crown top bears the Fox.

Japanese Beetle in New Jersey.

A public hearing on the proposed quarantine of a portion of New Jersey on account of the Japanese beetle, a serious pest of certain vegetables and fruit, was held by the United States department of agriculture in Washington recently. As a result of infestation of the Japanese beetle in parts of Burlington county, N. J., the proposed quarantine is intended to prohibit the shipment from this territory of green sugar corn, ripe tomatoes and ripe peaches which might cause this pest to spread. A campaign of eradication authorized by congress is now in progress, and the proposed quarantine is deemed necessary to support the measures that are being taken for the suppression of this dangerous pest.

His Expedient.

The army examiner was getting somewhat out of patience with the dull candidate before him. But he controlled his temper, and gave him a last chance to distinguish himself.

"Let it be supposed, sir," he said, ironically, "that you were a captain in command of infantry; that in your rear was an impassable abyss; that on both sides of you there rose perpendicular rocks of tremendous height; that in front of you lay the enemy, outnumbering you ten to one. What, sir, in such an emergency would you do?"

"What would I do?" responded the applicant, "I should resign!"

Studying Deep-Sea Life.

A peculiar advantage for the study of marine life is credited the biological station established at Messina about two years ago. The sudden rise of the ocean bed at the strait of Messina causes very unusual upward currents from great depths, and these are so strong as to bring many of the deep-sea animals forcibly to the surface, where they are caught from small boats. The animals are taken under conditions less abnormal than usual. Many of them are able to produce light and some even vary the color of the light at will.

Local Patriotism.

The extent to which all classes of society have brought their patriotism into practice has been marvellous, was a remark made by Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, V. C., in a recent conversation.

As an instance of this he mentioned how cheaply yet efficiently a wounded soldiers' hospital, within a stone's throw of his residence at Harlow, was run.

Sir Evelyn is actively interested in its management, and his daughter works there every day as a pantry maid, along with others similarly stationed in life. The cooking is done by three ex-cooks, who will not accept a penny for their services. The whole laundry work is done free of charge.—London Times.

Ancient Cameo Sold.

Probably executed for that patron of the arts, the Roman emperor Hadrian, a superb cameo of the head of Medusa, wonderfully carved from a boss of translucent chalcidony, was sold at auction here, recently, bringing 1,750 guineas (about $8,750). It was a classic reminder of a classic sale, for it formed part of the incomparable Marlborough gems which realized, en bloc, 35,000 guineas in June, 1875, passing to the late David Bromilow, of Battersea Park. The collection was formed by George, third duke of Marlborough, and comprised gems which had belonged to such famous connoisseurs as Thomas Howard, earl of Arundel; William, second earl of Bessborough, and Philip Dormer, earl of Chesterfield.—London Telegraph.

Aerial Compasses.

Many difficulties had to be overcome in the production of a satisfactory compass for aerial work. Chief among these was that of neutralizing the magnetism of the engine (and in particular the magneto), and of preventing the effect of centrifugal force, which caused the card or dial inside the compass to swing in a direction quite independent of north when the airplane was banking on a turn. However, a truly excellent compass is now in use.

The Least of These.

It is not the support of a nation buying billions of dollars' worth of Liberty bonds, breaking bottles over the sterns of new ships, knitting socks or cheering us in the movies that brings home to us the magnitude of our trust.

It is all fine, but it is all too big for any one man of us to grasp. But we appreciate how great our trust is when we hear that the folks have had two pounds of sugar in six weeks, that the lady next door let her bread burn in the excitement of reading our last letter, and that the lady next door to her is working in an office and keeping the children in school while her husband is over here.—The Stars and Stripes.

Forged to Move.

"We've got to have a bigger house."

"Outgrown the present place?"

"No. We have rooms enough, in fact more than we need, but the cellar is too small."

"What's the idea?"

"We can't store six tons of soft coal in anything less than the basement of a church."

Hospital Humor.

In an American hospital in France a lieutenant who had lost both his legs in battle received a package from his wife. In it were six pairs of socks. Raising himself as best he could in the cot, the lieutenant said:

"Say, boys, what am I going to do with these now?"

"I guess you're just out of luck," was the reply.

Soldiers Learning English.

It has been discovered that there are thousands of men in our National army who cannot speak or read English. For this reason the library war service of the American Library association has established classes in English in nearly all of the big training camps. There is a heavy demand for books, and even "First Readers" are on the list of books asked for and not course—supplied.

NO GENERAL RULE POSSIBLE

Matter of Proper Amount of Bodily Exercise Must Be Left to Discretion of Individual.

"It is an axiom that mental excellence is to a very considerable extent dependent upon a man's physical condition," declared Secretary of State Robert Lansing. "It is equally true that rules of health, except the most general, depend in large measure upon the individual and upon his peculiar needs."

"If I were asked to lay down rules which might be applied generally," continued the American premier, "I would embody them in the phrase 'More fresh air and less food.' How much bodily exercise should be taken and its character depend upon the individual, his physical condition and, to an extent, on his tastes. Of course, exercise is, as a rule, beneficial, but it ought to be a pleasure to the one taking it if he would get the best results."

"It may sound like heresy, but I sometimes wonder whether exercise, when it is not a diversion, is really worth while. Certainly the mind is not rested if it rebels against certain forms of physical training which are being taken, and recreation for the mind of one engaged in intellectual pursuits is, in my opinion, one of the most essential purposes of exercise of the muscles."

"I believe, however, as I have said, that fresh air is one of the great restoratives, and the fact that exercise is generally taken in the open is one of its chief benefits."—From "Secretary Lansing's Story of His Health and Energy," by Alrichard M. Winans in Physical Culture.

KILL OFF PREDATORY BEASTS

Ridding Ranges of Ravaging Rogues Results in Saving More Than $5,000,000 Worth of Stock.

It is estimated that the bureau of biological survey of the United States department of agriculture is saving annually over $5,000,000 worth of live stock for the ranchers of the Rocky mountain section as a result of its intensive campaign against predatory animals, which has been in progress during the past three years. During this period 30,453 coyotes, 5,035 bobcats, 1,823 wolves, 201 mountain lions, and 137 bears have been trapped or shot, and many other animals have been poisoned. The income from the sale of pelts of animals killed by government hunters to protect live stock during the last year will aggregate approximately $1,000,000. This work is of special importance, because the cattle and sheep which are already on the range producing meat, wool, and leather are afforded protection, and thus the actual sources of these essential commodities are being conserved for market. Furthermore, clearing the range of predatory animals is making conditions more favorable for stocking the grazing areas to full capacity and for improving the quality of the breeding stock.—United States Department of Agriculture.

Accurate Shooting.

In France a German plane, swooping around a farmhouse, was started and soon driven away by very accurate fire. At least the firing was accurate enough to convince Fritz that he was in no safe neighborhood.

But he didn't know that the rifle was being handled by a lieutenant colonel in the American army, who, engaged at the audacity of the hostile birdman, grabbed the weapon and soon had the "supremacy of the air" in that particular locality well under control.

One Way Out.

Two bluejackets were in the wash-room washing clothes, preparatory to the weekly inspection. They were both regulars and had enlisted for four years. One of them had been in the service one year, and was rather tired of being on the station so long, and expressed his sentiments to that effect. The other, looking up at his discontented "buddy," said, "Well, if you don't like it, give three years' notice and quit the navy."

DELIGHTED IN HIS FREEDOM

Youngster's Chief Enjoyment of Vacation Came From His Defiance of All Conventionalities.

The best sort of vacation and the only kind that really is a benefit to the one taking it, according to Lewis Weisenberger, is the one on which all conventional rules of conduct are broken. To enjoy a vacation one must do absolutely as he pleases, Mr. Weisenberger continues.

In proof of this contention Mr. Weisenberger tells the following story on a young lad with whom he hibernated in the wilds of Michigan for several weeks this summer.

The campers had taken a large supply of towels with them, as bathing was expected to feature the holiday events. On arrival at camp each member of the vacation party received his apportionment of the towels and the lad was duly included in the division. On the second day of the vacation week Mr. Weisenberger was surprised to find the young lad's supply of towels packed securely away in one corner of the cottage, thus far untouched. He immediately summoned the lad and inquired whose towels he had been using, since his own supply was undiminished. He was not a little taken back by the lad's reply: "Aw, I didn't wash my face yesterday."

Even with face unwashed and towels untouched, the young barbarian probably enjoyed the vacation trip more than did any other member of the party, Mr. Weisenberger says. And the reason for the lad's enjoyment, he believes, is the fact that he violated all rules of personal etiquette and lived one entire day with his face innocent of ablutions.—Indianapolis News.

REALLY NO TROUBLE AT ALL

Possibly American Colored Cook and French Baker Belonged to the Same Lodge.

The American Red Cross canteen at Dijon, France, boasts the possession of Tom, a colored cook from the state of Georgia. Saturday nights Tom makes "something special." The last Saturday in August the special was chocolate layer cake. Thomas had no suitable oven, and so without the aid of a single word of French he induced a nearby French baker to loan his idle oven.

"How did you do it, Tom?" Miss Field, the directress, asked him.

"Oh, I jes' told him that these here boys of ours would certainly appreciate it if he would bake a little cake for 'em. An' he didn't make no fuss 'bout it. 'Certainment,' he says, and so I puts the cakes in the oven, an' that's all there is to it."

"Tom," replied Miss Field, "you are a wonder."

"That is what our boys said when they ate the cake."

Deserves a Better Job.

We climbed into a motor accompanied by Marcus, Marcus, by the way, is one of the characters of the unit, Major Theodore Waters writes in the Christian Herald. He is more than that; he is an institution, is Marcus—a product of the peculiar stress through which Jerusalem has passed. He says he is 14 years old but he looks much younger and acts much older. He can read and writes English, Russian, French and Arabic, and he passed through all the regimes, Turkish, German and English and he has taken toll of each in the acquiring of languages and dialects. Yet, strangely enough, he is both industrious and honest, and is the sole support of his widowed mother. If you would know what he looks like, imagine a gnome about three and a half feet high, as broad as a browne and as brown as a berry, with two big dark eyes that shine out of the middle of a perpetual smile.

New Motive Power for Barges.

In a novel English method of propulsion for canal barges, a small air pump driven by the engine creates a vacuum in the chamber containing the propeller, and this draws the water above the level of the canal. This arrangement is claimed to lessen the friction effects making increased speeds practicable. A barge of 32 tons was prepared for trial by mounting on it an old motor car engine of 18 to 20 horse power, and from preliminary tests was expected to run about five miles an hour when loaded, and eight or nine miles when empty.

Heroic Frenchman.

Lieut. S. Coulier, French ace, twenty years old, and who has brought down 17 Boche planes in France, has given onlookers thrills by his nerve performances at all fields in the United States. He came over from France a few weeks ago as instructor. His favorite pastime is to execute all the great stunts, such as spinning nose dives, loops and Immelman turns with 200 feet of the ground. The average flyer, even if expert, prefers to try this game several thousand feet higher, where he is safe.

Golfing Prospects.

An artillery officer, who had been a fairly well known golfer and a keen enthusiast, was looking out across a rolling plain in France that only recently had been heavily pounded by shell fire.

"I've seen some well trapped courses," he said, "but I must say this is the best bunkered course I've ever run across. There's a pit every 20 feet. Par here must be about 200."

AVIATORS MUST DO "STUNTS"

Feats That Seem Foolhardy Really Are Most Necessary in the Training of Pilots.

Before the war there was, says Edwin Bidwell Wilson in the Yale Review, much criticism of professional exhibiting aviators who, to thrill spectators, put their machines into all sorts of dare-devil attitudes and frequently themselves came suddenly down to death. In fighting, the ability to do all manner of "stunts" is essential. The more completely a pilot can control his machine, the more easily he can toss it higher and thither—cutting figure-eights, looping the loop, nose diving and tail diving—the better chance he has for his own life and the more certain he is to get his opponent. "So as are the continual reports of death by accident at our aviation training camps, we may rest assured that for an untrained pilot to go overseas to the front is almost certainly fatal, and that for every life lost in training, many are saved in fighting. Fortunately, airplanes today are so much stronger structurally and so much better equipped and controlled than before the war, that this necessary "stunting" in school and on the field is no longer really dangerous—the real danger now lies in physical inability to "stunt." Not only must the pilot of the single-seated fighting scout be thoroughly expert on the wing, he also must be a crack shot with his machine gun. Small wonder that it takes months and months to train an aviator who may develop into an ace.

HAS GOOD WORD FOR CROW

Australian Writer Points Out Objections When Bird Becomes a Real Benefactor to Mankind.

There are those who say that the crow deserves no mercy. There is no other pest eradicator, imported or otherwise, doing its bit so patriotically as the self-same crow. In Bannaland, Australia, says the Sydney Bulletin, the ravages of the sheep-maggot fly must make a loss of hundreds of thousands of pounds worth of jumbuck every year, about the only difference in one season being that the damage is probably greater than the last. Were it not for the bird whom no one has a good word for, the fly pest would soon duplicate itself with losses to sheep-owners increased accordingly. Every dead sheep or piece of offal in the bush is the depository of the eggs of unimagineable numbers of prospective sheep destroyers. Just about the time that the grubs are the size of a grain of rice, and a few days before they burrow into the soil, where they remain for about 15 days before coming forth, as a developed sheep-maggot fly, Brother Crow spies out the colony. Then he sends the glad tidings by wireless system, and all the family within range hurries to the banquet. When it is over a supply of grubs for the next meal has to be found elsewhere.

New Explosive.

The Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter mentions a new explosive being tested by the government which will save a considerable amount of glycerin. It is called nitrobyronel and is the product of Dr. Byron E. Eldred. It is claimed that it blows a chamber twice the size of that caused by T. N. T. (trinitrotoluol). In the manufacture of nitrobyronel neither nitroglycerin nor toluol is used. It is a hydrocarbon obtained by a by-product in coke-oven processes.

It is estimated that 50,000,000 pounds of glycerin is used in American industrial concerns, and a big saving in his important material, now growing scarce, can be effected through the employment of nitrobyronel.

If a shortage of glycerin should be imminent, the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter believes that the government would promptly start in to manufacture nitrobyronel.

U. S. Military Institute.

Major Barlow to Editors.

Under recent instruction from the Adjutant General of the Army there is to be training school opened December 1, 1918, at Fremont, California, the civilians, for the purpose of training Infantry officers.

Men selected for this school will be inducted and sent at Government expense. Duration of course will be about two months.

Camp Fremont is located at Palo Alto Santa Clara county, California, noted as one of the most beautiful spots in the United States. Nearby is Hamilton, upon which is located the famous Lick Observatory.

To be eligible for admission a candidate must be between the ages of eighteen and forty years, must be a citizen of the United States and not have been in any of the countries with which the United States is at war or allies of any such countries; must be graduates of a stated High School or have pursued an equivalent course of instruction; must be of good moral character, and have the physical qualifications required for general military service.

Registrants in deferred classification on account of industry occupations or employment including agriculture are not eligible for admission to the camp.

Candidate who registered June 5, 1917, and August 24, 1918, must make applications prior to November 14, 1918. Registrants of September 12, 1918, will be permitted to submit applications up to and including November 2, 1918.
