FIFTH YEAR NUMBER 17

CAPITAN, NEW MEXICO, AUGUST 16, 1919

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE $1.50 A YEAR

Mrs. Price Dies.

Mrs. R. A. Price died in El Paso on Friday night the 8th inst., following an operation for adhesion of the intestines.

The death of Mrs. Price is a terrible blow to the family and is much regretted by her many friends in Capitan. So far we have been unable to secure an obituary, but will probably be able to do so for a future issue of the paper. The husband and daughter have moved to their ranch in the Mountainair country, where they will live in the future. This family will be greatly missed by the people here.

Au Attractive Enterprise.

M. H. Howard and sons now have their picture show plant installed. It is evidently one of the best equipped picture shows in the country and is a credit to the town. Everything about the plant is new and of a fine and costly quality. They have a large motor engine and the whole plant is operated by electricity. The piano cost $750 and is of the best manufacture. The building is lighted with electricity and will have a seating capacity to accommodate all who patronize the show. The plant has been installed by Mr. Geo. Dingwall, of Carrizozo, who is one of the best electricians in the west.

Carrizozo News Items.

[From Carrizozo Outlook.]

Geo. Clements, jr., suffered what might have proved a very serious accident last week at his father's ranch near Corona. He was riding over the range when his horse losing his footing fell, pinning George under him. His right thigh is badly bruised, but he sustained no other injuries.

Clay. Henry Lutz returned from Ft. Sam Houston Thursday morning, having received his release from the U. S. service. He will, as reported last week, assume full control of the affairs of Lutz & Son on the big Ramlette Sheep Ranch near Anch, which transfer to this Company from the Ancho Sheep Co. will take place the 15th of the present month.

Dr. R. E. Blaney returned from the east Thursday. He spent the major portion of his time with relatives at Kankakee, Ill., chief among whom was his aged mother, to whom her son's visit came as descending blessing in her advanced years. The Doctor stopped over on his return trip in Chicago to attend to some business matters of importance.

The following message was received on Saturday morning by relatives of Sgt. Morgan Reilly:

"Landed safely. Destination. Camp Merritt. Sgt. A. M. Reilly."

The message came from New York and brought with it glad sunshine for the Reilly home. He will, after certain measurement of military red tape have been taken, come west and be released at Camp Funston, Kansas, where he first encamped.

Mr. Hal Young of Nogal, who with his niece, Miss Johnson, hurried to the bedside of his sister, Mrs. M. H. Dove at San Antonio, Texas, returned Monday only to receive the news of her death yesterday. Mr. Young has been somewhat ill himself since his return which will prevent him from making the long trip to attend the funeral.

Will Ed Harris and sister were in from White Mountain Wednesday. Mr. Harris is improving nicely from the painful effects of a broken ankle, which injury he received about two weeks ago.

County Commissioner W. H. Sevier returned from Carrizozo Wednesday where he had attended a term of commissioners court called to finish the count of the ballots cast in the Capitan box for sheriff in the election of 1918. He stated that the count showed there were six illegal votes found for Hyde, but they also found one legal vote in the Capitan box for Hyde that had never been counted, and one in the Lincoln box that had not been counted, which only increased Corn's vote four, and the result of the election could not be changed.

All the teachers for the Capitan school have been elected. The last was Miss Irma Mitchell, of Albuquerque, who will teach in the grades and have charge of the classes in music. Miss Mitchell's former home was Oneda, Ill., and she graduated at the Knox Conservatory of Music, in Illinois. She is not only a fine pianist, but plays the violin and other musical instruments.

Alto News.

George Hagee and J. R. Jones, of Tularosa, were here Friday with a load of fine fruit, melons and honey.

Dr. Woodsell, of Roswell, delivered a discourse at Alto Sunday night. He will be here again on the August 24th, which will be the fourth Sunday. It will pay the people hear him; he holds the audience spell bound with his eloquence.

Mrs. John Lackey was taken to Roswell Monday for surgical treatment.

Several of the Alto people are going in the Mountainair country prospecting.

Eufa Humphrey, of Tularosa, is visiting her grand mother, Mrs. T. A. Hagee.

One of Charlie Jones' milk cows came up the other morning with her tail either cut off or jerked off. It is a mystery how it was done.

It is an assured fact that the potato crop is a failure here in the mountains.

Alto looked like a fresh plowed field Sunday evening after the heavy rain fall where the cars slid and skidded.

BIRD APARTMENTS RENT FREE

Orchardists Seek to Encourage the Woodpecker to Settle in Their Orchard, as it Were.

It may sound like a joke to speak of the manufacture of woodpecker nests, but there is actually a factory in Maine that takes many orders for such nests.

The birdhouses are constructed of pine blocks 15 inches long and from five to six inches in diameter. The back of the block is squared to permit of the patent adjustment being properly attached to the tree or placed where the house is to be located, a canopy or top piece to keep out the weather being made like a roof. A perfect nest is drilled by a reamer. Within three inches of the bottom a cork-screw indentation is made to the bird entrance, as the toes of the woodpecker are in pairs, two before and two behind, with sharp, strong claws, the whole structure of the roof making it adaptable for climbing.

The houses are sold to orchard owners, as the claim is made by the ornithologists that the woodpecker's feed consists chiefly of insects and their larvae, which the birds get by digging into the bark and wood of trees. The woodpecker's tongue is an important instrument in obtaining its food, as it can be extended far beyond the bill, its tip being horny and furnished with a barbed element.

LIVE IN PRACTICAL SLAVERY

Esthonians Little Better Than Slaves to the Germans, Who Own Ninety-Tenths of Land.

Esthonians, or Esths, who have repulsed repeated attacks from the Bolsheviks and recently drove a force under Trotsky to ignominious flight, are described by Dr. Edwin A. Grossveener in a National Geographic society bulletin as follows:

The Esths are a Finno-Ugric people, once savage and adventurous, terrifying the Baltic with their piracy, constantly attacking and attacked by the Danes and Swedes. Their first subjection by the Brothers of the Sword and their enforced acceptance of Christianity crushed their spirit and rendered them serfs to the German masters.

The Esths outnumber the Germans in the old province of Esthonia 20 to 1; yet nine-tenths of all the land is held by Germans.

In the former province of Livonia the Esths constitute nearly half the population, while the Germans are less than one-fifteenth. There the land is divided into estates averaging over ten thousand acres in extent, none owned by an Esth or Lett but almost invariably by a German.

The Russian government at times endeavored by agrarian laws to alleviate the condition of the peasant. Such efforts failed against the cold resistance of the great proprietors.

The Esths have clung devotedly to their national language, the sole inheritance from their past. They love poetry and song. Their physical characteristics are Finnic; their faces short, broad, beardless; their foreheads low, mouths small, arms long, legs short. Despite their extreme poverty education is relatively advanced. All but 4 per cent are Lutheran Protestants.

Since the sudden universal awakening in 1918 the Esths have been insistent upon national recognition. But ownership in the land is their greatest need.

WHEN FLYING IS UNIVERSAL

Some Highly Interesting Legal Problems That Will Call for Intelligent Settlement.

A series of interesting questions has been made concerning contingencies that may be expected when the air is actually used for miscellaneous traffic. How, for example, will the man on the ground be protected against carelessness by the man in the air, and what kind of sign can the airplane carry which will serve to identify it if some earth-man wishes to lodge a complaint with the authorities? Or again, what will be the rights of the proprietors of a baseball park if an aviator evades the price of admission by flying about over the diamond? Or what will be the remedy of the man who is kept awake at night by airplane motors? What will be the limit of the private citizen's property measured perpendicularly, and how can he tell whether or not an aircraft is trespassing? Such questions are amusing to read, but in all seriousness they mean that the legal problems that will come up with the increasing use of airplanes will require ingenuity for settlement.

Queen of the Rhine.

A writer in the March number of The Sunday at Home recalls that Cologne, on the Rhine, which is now occupied by British troops, dates back to the year 87 B. C. In the year 50 A. D. a Roman colony was established there by Colonel Agricola, the wife of Claudia Casca, and the city was called after her. It has always been an important city, doing a large trade. The 1900 census shows a population of 423,000, of whom 60 per cent are Roman Catholics.

Cologne is a fortress of the first rank, the forts forming a semi-circle around the city. Being an ancient city, the streets are narrow and crooked. The Church of Ursula is said to contain the bones of 11,000 virgins, slaughtered, the legend informs us, by the ancient Huns because they would not break their vows of chastity. The great cathedral is one of the finest examples of Gothic architecture in Europe. It was centuries in building. The total cost has been about two millions.

$25 Reward.

Twenty-five dollars reward will be paid for the arrest and conviction of parties breaking into or unlawfully entering the Capitan school building.
