Newsboy at Ten, Now Is Rich Man

Interesting Story of a Young American's Rapid Transit Up the Ladder of Fortune.

WINS BY BUSINESS BRAINS

Stevenson Disposes Gloomy Convictions Entertained by Many That Opportunities for Success Are Not What They Used to Be.

New York.—Here in the story of a young American's transit up the ladder of fortune which should prove a cogging reading generally, but especially to American boys and youth. And again especially to such of these who in humble jobs pursue the gloomy conviction that opportunities for success and wealth are not what they once were in their native land, who give credence to the commonplace expression of opinion that Rockefeller, Carnegie and their like long ago "grabbed it all."

The story is that of Harry Stevenson, an Ohio youngster—for he is still a youngster. He began his business career when he was ten years old. His establishment was at the corner of Fifth and Syracuse streets, Cincinnati, and consisted of a pair of sturdy legs (bare in summer) an array of newspapers a clear voice, durable lungs and dynamic energy.

He is now thirty. He is president of a New York corporation with an official credit rating of $125,000, the controlling director of two additional thriving companies that with other subsidiaries are soon to be merged into a super organization, of which the one-time "newsboy" will be the directing mind.

When he was ten years old his lodgings were frequently found on a pile of old newspapers in the comfortable warmth of a Cincinnati newspaper's pressroom. His home is now a handsome villa at Douglaston, L. I.

Story of Poor Boy's Success. But the best of the story of the little "newsboy's" advance to riches is that it is along an open road of American opportunity, to be easily, clearly traced, step by step, with no mystery or magic about it. Just as there is no mystery or magic in it, it is no "luck story" either. It is simply an interesting, admirable story of a little ten-year-old toiling the scratch in the battle of life valiantly, energetically and thoughtfully and winning handsomely.

His parents were both living but were very poor and Harry took a job after school assisting an older boy selling newspapers. There was in Cincinnati an organization of the newsboys who held by right of might the most desirable street corners for the vending of newspapers—big boys in their late teens. But Harry discovered that a very little boy just entering his teens could, for the payment of $10 down and a monthly rental of $3, hire from these bigger boys a desirable corner. He got $2 a week and commission on increased sales of his papers from his big boy employer.

Forged to Buy Bible, Now Reads It in Jail

Harry Steinholt, twenty-six years old, a member of the Washington State National Guard, lost his grip on his conscience when he catered a counterfeit dealer's shop in Tacoma, Wash., and tendered a check for a Bible, a rosary, and some change. Because of the unusual request, the dealer thought the check was good and the transfer was made. The check came back marked "no funds." Steinholt was arrested, and now reads his Bible and his beads in jail.

Out of this he moved the $10 necessary to acquire the exclusive right to sell newspapers from the corner of Fifth and Syracuse streets. Very soon afterward, actually before his second teeth were in place, he evinced what is perhaps his most distinct gift—that for organization and development. Six months later he was paying rent for two other corners and the salaries of two negro kids of about his same age to sell papers for him from his additional stands. At fifteen he was the licensee of ten corners. He had ceased having papers himself—merely supervised the operations of his employees while getting in full days' attendance at public school himself. His "interest" netted him forty dollars a week and he had become the chief breadwinner of his family.

At seventeen he decided that the dignity of manhood required a higher form of education than that of newsboy—or of a "news" newsboy. He turned over his ten corners to the control of two younger brothers. The newsboy carried a high jump, for he tried to cut himself up as a real estate operator. Admittedly, all he carried out of this was experience. It seems folks purchasing homes and lots or dealing in estates were absurdly disinclined to do business in such responsible matters with a lad of seventeen who looked fourteen.

Then Dr. Elliot of Harvard entered Harry Stevenson's life. Not that Dr. Elliot ever knew it. But the distinguished pedagogue, it will be remembered, arranged out of his vast scholarship a "five-foot shelf of books" which he calculated contained the cream of human knowledge. The "five-foot book shelf" was widely, nationally advertised. And an advertisement for men to sell the "shelf" which he saw in a local newspaper decided Stevenson to abandon the career of a real estate operator and seek a job as the purveyor of a high grade of knowledge.

Cells Five Feet of Knowledge. He sought and found R. D. Stanley, manager for that section for the company which was pushing the Elliot "shelf." He got the job. Harry Stevenson quit selling Dr. Elliot's "five-foot shelf" at twenty. He had "covered" the high schools of six states. Unwittingly the distinguished Harvard "prexy" had laid the foundations for a "newsboy's" fortune, for

Told to Kill Pet Chicken, Girl Takes Poison Dose

Rather than kill a pet chicken which had broken its leg, Edna Fanchel of Flint, Mich., drank poison in an attempt to kill herself. The girl's mother told her the chicken would have to be killed because of its injury, whereupon the girl ran into the house and grabbed a bottle of poison. Her sister knocked the bottle from her lips before she had taken much of the poison. Physicians said she would recover.

When Stevenson Stopped He Had, Besides Having Supported Himself in Comfort and Sending Money to his Family, a Bank Balance of Exactly $10,000.

Next he evolved a scheme all his own. It was called the American Circulator corporation, its business was to buy from dealers the unused copies of magazines of the month. He sent out agents securing subscriptions for month-old magazines at about half the rate that would have to be paid for the magazines when fresh from the press. The scheme paid, but only moderately, but by this time he was sufficiently matured to tackle the real estate game with some success, and between these two interests managed to put another $10,000 to his bank account in the next five years.

Out of the study of house building that came about in his real estate operations he grew particularly interested in roofing in all its different methods, processes and materials used. This led him to a Cleveland roofing concern whose product he had decided was the best of the middle Western concerns. He had, moreover, in securing information regarding the company, found that they had done little or nothing to push their product in the East.

He picked up a telephone classified directory, consulted the list of roofing companies and picked out the company of which Morris H. Elvidge is president. Half an hour later he was in conversation with President Elvidge in the latter's office. He knew the concern to be first class and highly prosperous and went there with the design of offering his $20,000 to be invested in the company and with it a place for himself on the selling staff. President of Company.

After ten minutes, Elvidge turned the tide of questions as to his company and instead began some sharp questioning himself as to young Mr. Stevenson and soon had all the facts regarding the "newsboy" and his subsequent career. The end of twenty minutes' talk was astonishing to Stevenson—agreedly astonishing.

"Keep your $20,000 in the bank," said Elvidge, "but you are in business—this business—right now."
"What territory will you give me?"
"Territory?"
"As salesman?"
"The whole country."
"What?"
"I am starting you," said Elvidge, "from this minute as president of a subsidiary company of ours. You shall have complete charge. I particularly want you to organize the selling staff. Hire your men and try to tell them how you do it yourself."
This conversation took place on May 10, 1918. On March 1, 1922, Harry Stevenson bought the controlling interest of the company from President Elvidge for $75,000. This money represented bonuses which had come to him as president for increased showing in the business of the concern. Meanwhile Stevenson organized two other companies, taking in the outlying interests to which the asbestos products could be swung.

And that's this particular "newsboy's" story; not a romantic tale of a treasure hunt, to be sure, but a strikingly practical one.—Charles Semerville in the New York World.

What Is It Worth to Change a Tire?

On the road changing a tire is not an especially pleasant task. The dust or mud, the grease and grime, the tedious delay—all are things we like to avoid.

But the time to think about these things is when you buy the tire—not after the blow-out occurs. Foremost tires blow out much more easily than others. Outward appearance counts for little.

It is the material in the tire and the construction of it that determines its strength.

Goodyear recognizes these facts and all Goodyear tires are made of long staple cotton.

Take the 30 x 3 1/2 Cross Rib Clincher Tire here illustrated, for example.

It is made of Arizona cotton, the fibres of which average 1 1/2 inches long.

Many 30 x 3 1/2 clincher tires are made of short staple cotton from 1/2 inch to 1 1/4 inches long.

This means less strength and greater danger of blow-outs—more tire troubles.

Yet this high grade guaranteed Goodyear Tire costs only $10.95.

You can buy some tires for even less than this but none with the fine materials and construction of this one. Can you afford to take a chance on more frequent tire troubles for the sake of the slightly lower price of cheaper tires?

One of the buildings will be in connection with the women's dormitory and will provide space for at least fifty-four beds. The other building will contain a complete operating room, X-ray room, reception room and other smaller quarters.

HOW BOOKS ARE DISINFECTED Method Employed in France Is Said to Be the Most Successful Yet Devised.

The danger of contagion from books that have been in the hands of persons suffering from various diseases has led to the invention of methods of disinfecting, of which none appears to be more effective than that devised by a member of the municipal council of Paris.

This process consists of two features. In the first place, the books are placed in a "bater," where a strong current of air opens every leaf, and an aspirator sucks out the dust and deposits it in a receptacle. Then they are suspended in a disinfectant, the covers being bent back and held by clips, so that the leaves are widely opened, and placed over a heater, which for a long time subjects them to a temperature of 103 degrees Fahrenheit. The paper is not damaged, and the efficiency of the process is said to be well demonstrated.

Can Be Overdone. "Some say slang enriches the language." "There's such a thing as getting too much dirt."

Quarrelsome. "Before we were married her people said we would never get along." "Why?" "Well, they were partly right."—Detroit Free Press.

Married.

On last Saturday the 12th occurred the marriage of Mr. Margarito Chavez and Miss Felice Peralta at the Catholic Church, the Reverend Father J. H. Cirra speaking the ceremony. That night as is the custom among Spanish or Native people there was held a big dance at Howard Hall in honor of the newly weds in which a large number attended—every one including the American and Spanish speaking people were cordially invited.

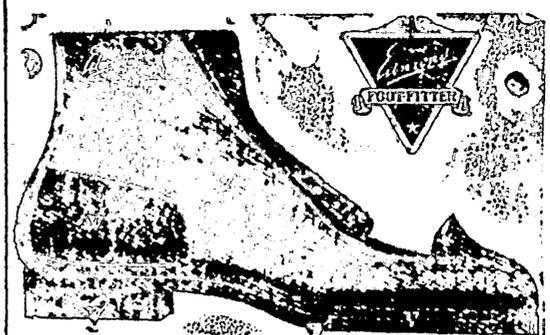

Margarito is a nephew of Henry and Margarito Silva two well known Lincoln county citizens stockmen and farmers, and a brother of Frank and Juan Chavez who are respected people who have employment at Fort Stanton.

Felice is the daughter of Mrs. Nicholas Peralta a widow of our town.

As is the custom, congratulations are in order and we extend them to this couple.

Seven Points of Supremacy

1. The sole which used in "FOOT-FITTER" is of the best quality obtainable. Even the leathers are of standard outside leathers.
2. "FOOT-FITTER" are the only shoes in the world having full length ramps and sole leather, box toes. This feature prevents slipping of the tip and makes a smooth outer and inner surface.
3. The leathers are shoulder controlled so that they fit tightly against the entire foot. There is no need of room for a cork insole. A small piece of cork is used to prevent squeaking.
4. The California leather counter pocket is of great value, for it saves the wear on the heels. There is no rough surface to rub against.
5. "FOOT-FITTER" shoes are which are generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe.
6. The vamp is reinforced with two-inch mesh. This absorbs the moisture from the foot, thus keeps the vamp from cracking and holds the shoe in shape.
7. A diamond "FOOT-FITTER" shoe is called "FOOT-FITTER" because they give the foot extra built up construction. Here they support the feet like a diamond shoe.

Brothers Meet After 35 Years

J. P. (Dad) Jolly and his brother William W. Jolly met Tuesday for the first time in thirty-five years during which time they did not hear from each other and neither knew of the others whereabouts.

Died

Mr. Ira Coffey last Thursday night at Fort Stanton after an lingering illness of something like six weeks duration.

Col. Prichard a Candidate for United States Senator.

To the Voters of New Mexico: Yielding to the suggestion of friends I have concluded to become a candidate for the office of United States Senator.

I will stand for nomination at the coming Republican convention of this state and will abide the action of that convention. I am not an independent, but a progressive Republican.

I am no apologist for the dereliction of anyone in public office, whether the individual be a member of my party or a member of some other party.

I believe in a tariff which will equalize conditions and business competition between the United States and other countries, and I especially favor a tariff law, which is reasonable and just, and which will fully protect every productive interest and every wage earner in the state.

I favor the reduction of taxes consistent with the proper maintenance of public schools, public highways and our state and county institutions.

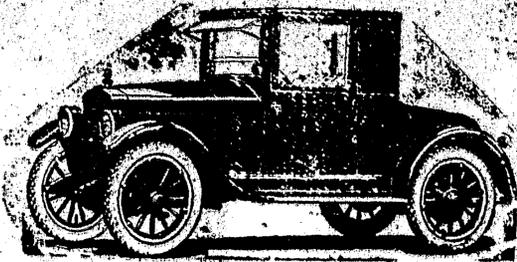

I favor the passage of a law by Congress requiring that textile fabrics or woven goods, be labeled by the manufacturer so as to truthfully tell the percentage of wool, cotton, silk or other materials they contain.

My position on the McNary bill pending before Congress, especially the reclamation features of that bill which apply to the Rio Grande Valley, is well known from a number of speeches made by me in favor and explanation of the bill during the last campaign.

If I should be nominated for the office named, I would make a thorough campaign of the state, advocate Republican principles, work for the success of our ticket, and if elected, would earnestly and faithfully represent the interests of the people of the entire state.

CROPS ALL GOOD

Western Canada Farmers Jubilant Over Prospects.

Harvest in Southwestern Manitoba Expected to Come Back to Bumper Yield of 1915.

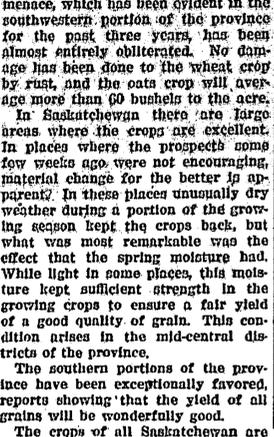

Those who have friends in Western Canada will be anxious to learn of the conditions there, and will be interested in knowing that generally the crop prospect is very favorable. Cutting and harvesting have become general, and it is anticipated that the results which will appear when threshing is completed will be highly satisfactory.

With the widely varying weather conditions that have prevailed in the different sections of the prairie provinces it would be impossible to forecast with any degree of accuracy as to how the crop is made. The Manitoba crop has held its own, and the outlook for the province as a whole is decidedly good.

With the exception of an area south and west of Brandon, grain crops in Manitoba continue to give promise of a good harvest, the best in fact for a number of seasons, reports the Canadian National Railways for the week ended July 22.
