Market Where Eskimos Buy and Sell Blubber

Mounted Police Direct Empire

Canadian Force Covers Area of 1,432,000 Square Miles.

New York.—Lord Byng of Vimy, governor general and commander in chief of the Dominion of Canada, has just released the 1923 annual report of the royal Canadian mounted police, that brilliant force which has been guarding a geographical empire which extends from the temperate to the arctic zones, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, since 1873.

Hon. Ernest LaPointe, minister in control, remarks in a letter of transmittal of less than thirty words that he is forwarding this routine document. Commissioner Cortlandt Starnes, in command of the force, is equally terse. But within those pages lie stories of daring and devotion to duty, of death and crime, and of a myriad of prosaic deeds faithfully performed by a dwindling body of brave men.

While the duties grow in volume last year the force grew smaller. The personnel that 70 officers and men, and by last September the total strength was 53 officers, 1,000 noncommissioned officers and constables and 543 horses. This gives a personnel of 1,143, as compared with 1,071 in 1922. Three years before, moreover, there was almost twice as many horses.

But those who are left "carry on." In the 12 months covered by the report, 10,463 cases were investigated and handled, and 2,950 convictions for crimes and misdemeanors were secured. The force handled 3,858 naturalization inquiries, besides a mass of detail for all other parts of the Dominion government.

Enforces Thirty-Five Laws.

"To a great extent we may be described as a handmaid to other departments," remarks Commissioner Starnes. Yes, verily, 20 of them were assisted in the past year, as in all previous ones.

The statutes which the royal Canadian mounted police help to enforce throughout the Dominion, and uphold single handed in the North, are as follows:

Animals contagious disease act, alien labor act, air board act, bankruptcy act, Chinese immigration act, customs act, Canadian temperance act, forest reserve and parks act, explosives act, fisheries act, Indian act, inland revenue act, income tax act, live stock pedigree act, militia act, migratory birds act, naturalization act, naval act, navigable waters protection act, Northwest game act, Northwest territories act, opium and narcotic drug act, post office act, penitentiaries act, pension act, railway act, radio telegraph act, secret commissions act, soldiers' settlement board act, special war revenue act, steel control act, ticket-to-leave act, war measures act.

For offenses against the person the police investigated and prosecuted whites and Indians under 17 sections of the Dominion criminal code; for offenses against property, 25; offenses against public order, 5; offenses against religions and morals, 7; miscellaneous justice (perjury and conspiracy), 2.

Hand of Law Is Everywhere.

Mere statistics, however, tell a dull tale, and in this instance they fail to give a full account of the royal Canadian mounted police, better known as the Northwest mounted police. For instance, they protect buildings belonging to the Dominion government; post guards on the offices of the receiver general in Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Victoria; furnished escort for harvesters' excursions; assisted Nova Scotia in raising a provincial constabulary; help Manitoba and Alberta control the fur trade; act as game wardens; co-operate with the civilian police in cities like Montreal, Vancouver, Halifax and St. John, which are out of their administrative sphere, in their fight against bootlegging, the narcotic drug traffic, and white slavery, and a little matter like taking 131,309 finger prints in the course of a few years.

The police co-operate with the international bureau for the suppression of the white slave traffic, and assist Rev. John Chisholm in his system of "strangers' secretaries," etc., which guides young women to safety when they arrive from abroad, and in other ways help him, the report says.

Sergeant Blakeney tells of a thrilling adventure he and Corporal Caldwell and Constable Fahie had in rowing the captain and crew of a liquor smuggling craft who greatly outnumbered them. And so had 1,700 gallons of rum were sequestered—but the coup was so neatly turned that there were no "dead men's chests" for any jolly cutthroat to sit upon.

"An American seems to have been the principal behind the captain of the vessel," Blakeney says virtuously.

There was also the liquor seizure effected almost single-handed by Detective Sergeant F. Lucas, aboard the rakish steamship Lolly Gally Head.

The report notes with regret that such crimes, and those mentioned in preceding paragraphs, are increasing. This is also true of counterfeiting, and the widespread conspiracies to defraud the government through the manipulations of exchange have caused an immense amount of extra work.

A good example of typical British celerity in handling crime is shown in a post office theft handled by Detective Sergeant L. McLatchlan. The $3,000 package was stolen on June 30; Sergeant McLauchlan took the case on July 3; two days later the guilty clerk confessed and the following day he was sentenced.

The standing of the police is revealed by this court incident in Montreal. Staff Sergeant E. C. P. Salt testified. Sergeant S. W. Zaneth came next:

"Sergeant Zaneth corroborated the previous witness. When cross-examined by Mr. Monette, Justice Wilson declared: 'I do not know whether it is absolutely necessary to cross-examine the witness if he corroborates the previous evidence on oath. My experience of the royal Canadian mounted police is that they have always given evidence in the most loyal and upright manner.'

"'Certainly, your lordship,' replied counsel for the defense, 'I am of that opinion myself and gladly abandon the cross-examination.'"

Nor is there lacking a ceremonial duty now and then. We read:

"On the occasion of the visit to Vancouver of the late President Harding, in July, 1923, mounted escorts and orderlies were provided and other measures taken for the welfare of the party. Our services have been acknowledged in the most complimentary terms."

All of the foregoing achievements by the royal Canadian mounted police have been in addition to the purpose for which they were originally organized a half century ago—the maintenance of law and order in the bleak and trackless Northwest, where even to this day there are but 10,000 inhabitants scattered over an area of 3,432,000 square miles. That means a land, including the Yukon, half the size of the entire continental United States and ten times as great as New York, New Jersey and New England combined.

There the force is seen at its best. Stationed in lonely units of a little corporal's guard, and even less, these men uphold the majesty and dignity of the British empire. Isolated at strategic points across that broken plain which drains into the Arctic ocean, some parts of the region so bare that only moss and lichens grow, they perform the duties of police officers, magistrates, coroners, marriage license clerks, postmasters, veterinary inspectors, immigration officers, customs officers, collectors of royalties, mining recorders, timber and land agents, fishery inspectors, game wardens, inspectors of weights and measures, issue permits for the export of fur, administer estates of decedents, guard criminals and insane persons, minister to the sick, and even officiate at funerals when clergymen and priests cannot be present.

Such is their work, not to mention solitary and perilous journeys through the snows, across great stretches of water like Great Bear lake, or Great Slave lake, each covering more than 10,000 square miles; or down mighty rivers like the Mackenzie, the Arctic Red and the Hard Indian. Traveling absolutely alone, hunting down murderers, for days meeting only the polar bear, the arctic fox, the caribou or the musk ox, they go steadily on their way.

Undergo Hardships.

These arctic detachments are gradually being strengthened. In 1903 new ones were established at Cumberland gulf in Baffin island, and a temporary one at Bathlie island, on the coast of the Arctic ocean.

To hold murder trials great distances must be traveled. One judicial party, for instance, left Quebec for Pond inlet on July 7, and did not arrive until August 31. They got back October 4. Judge, prosecutor and counsel for the defense made the trip under escort of our force, and the crew of their vessel became the jury. The trial "was conducted with all the decorum of a Supreme court in civilization," and every step was carefully explained to the native Indians.

"After the termination of the trial, the judge addressed the entire Eskimo population outside the detachment, telling them what they had to expect from the representatives of the government, that they could expect kindness and protection from the police if they behaved well, but if they committed any crime they could expect to be punished.

It is mentioned quite casually that the force has not overlooked a report of the alleged murder of an Eskimo north of Repulse bay in the winter of 1920, and that the inaccessible region will be penetrated as soon as possible.

It is fitting to conclude this summary with an account of the experience of Inspector C. H. Wilcox and his party, who spent a lonely winter at Craig harbor. Their ship left them with supplies on August 23, 1922, and did not get back until August 9, 1923. The supply of game was inadequate, and no Eskimo would live there. So:

"The sun was last seen on October 25 and did not again appear until February 19, a period of 109 days of darkness and intense cold. Severe blizzards were frequent and during January the wind blew for 21 days without a break, at times with the violence of a gale; in a period of 304 days the wind blew strongly for 221 days, frequently compelling the men to remain indoors for days at a time. The coldest temperature was 61 degrees below zero. Patrols for a distance of 75 miles were made on foot. The discipline was excellent, and the men were cheerful throughout."

Charles M. Hatfield, known as "the rainmaker," who signed a contract to make it rain at least one and one-quarter inches within an area seventy-five miles in diameter in the vicinity of Hanford, Calif., between March 15 and April 15, was given a check for $8,000 by farmers who engaged him.

Police of San Francisco are seeking George E. Carr as a result of the startling story told by Miss Rose Fahey. She appeared at police headquarters and said that Carr, her brother-in-law, had abducted her six days ago in Seattle and forced her at the point of a gun to accompany him on the 1,200-mile ride to San Francisco. She was on the verge of collapse as a result of fright and exposure.

California and Arizona, sovereign states of the Union, are in arms against each other over the cattle infection quarantine. Measures to prevent the spread of the foot and mouth disease from California into other parts of the United States have brought about an extraordinary situation where armed guards from each of these states are face to face on the border near Yuma, Ariz.

The California State Supreme Court denied the appeal of Joseph Wagner, D. O. Russell and Joseph Vargo, convicted in Sacramento last August of violating the California criminal syndicalism act. The appellants contended the evidence was insufficient and that witnesses testifying in behalf of the prosecution were prejudiced. Attorneys for the defense, however, conceded the men were members of the Industrial Workers of the World.

J. Frank Norfleet, "Nemesis" of the Denver bunco pack, most of whom are now behind it at the Colorado state penitentiary, may be reimbursed for his years of man-hunting to bring the pack to justice if a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Marvin Jones of Texas and backed by Representative William M. Vaile of Denver goes through. The bill would give Norfleet $17,000 which he spent in chasing over the country rounding up the bunko.

Since the beginning of the year 1924 there have been 4,753 cases of smallpox reported in California, says the weekly bulletin of the State Board of Health, issued in Sacramento. This means, the bulletin says, that during the first fifteen weeks of this year more cases of smallpox have been reported during any single year, with the exception of the year 1921. Incomplete figures, according to the bulletin, show that seven deaths occurred out of the total number of cases reported.

WASHINGTON

The John D. Rockefeller interests have contributed $27,000 to the American Society of University Women, to be used in promoting rural education, it was announced at the opening of the organization's third annual convention in Washington. The grant will be known as the "Laura Spelman Rockefeller fund," in memory of Mr. Rockefeller's wife, who died in 1915.

Senate Democrats went on record for a cash and insurance bonus bill in a minority report of the finance committee made public by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, although it was indicated on the floor the party would support the pending straight insurance bill "to assure enactment into law of a bonus measure." The report declared such a plan would cost the government about $1,000,000,000 less than the pending bill.

President Coolidge announced in an address at the annual luncheon in New York City of the Associated Press that with firm establishment of a settlement of the German reparations question he would favor steps looking toward the calling of another world conference to consider further limitation of armaments and the codification of international law. Disclaiming any ability to announce a formula that would guarantee the peace of the world, the President declared there were, however, certain definite things which should be done to relieve the world "of much of the burden of military armaments and diminish the probability of military operations."

The Interior Department announced the opening of about 311,000 acres of public land in Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Arizona and Nevada to homestead and desert entry. Official plats of the land surveyed are to be filed in local land offices, which later will announce the dates when the tracts will be available for entry.

An extra appropriation of $1,500,000 to combat the foot and mouth disease in California was approved in the Senate. The House had previously acted favorably on the bill.

Great Britain is opposed to any further conferences of experts as a means toward inducing nonsignatory states to subscribe to the principles laid down in the Washington naval treaty.

The Mexican embassy in Washington has announced receipt of advices from Mexico which said that with the occupation of the southeastern states "the rebellion started last December has come to an end, and the authority of the government re-established over the whole of the republic."

A cable to the Nippu Jiji, a Honolulu Japanese newspaper, from Japan states: "Japan has a concise plan to the United States immigration bill, but it will not be executed at present." Ambassador Hanihara is returning to Tokio to report to the Japanese government and will not return to Washington for some time.

Further litigation has been started in connection with the discovery of Tutankhamen's tomb, according to the London Daily Express, which says a writ was served at Howard Carter's instance upon the directors of the British empire exhibition at Wembly for alleged violation of his copyrights through the erection of a model of the tomb as a sideshow on the exhibition grounds.

After an absence of nearly six months from all participation in soviet affairs, Leon Trotsky, war minister, has re-entered public life with an energetic and aggressive spirit. He has addressed numerous political meetings at Tiflis, Baku, Kharkov and elsewhere, and he told of plans for physical development of the Red troops to enable them to combat the armies of bourgeois countries more effectively.

Inhabitants of Batan island are menaced by the eruption of a volcano three miles northwest of San Bionicio valley, according to a wireless message received in Manila from the yacht Apo, on which Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood is inspecting the northern islands of the Philippine archipelago. The report describes the eruption as violent, with ashes and ashes and devastating clouds of gases rolling down the mountainside and causing the adjacent country to look like "no man's land" in France during the World war.

GENERAL

Mourning over the death of her 10-day-old baby which was buried only a few hours before her capture in Jacksonville, Fla., Celia Cooney, New York's "bobbed hair bandit," confessed to taking part in fourteen robberies in that city, according to police, and said she was "glad it's all over."

Miss Jane Cody Carlos, 14 years old, granddaughter of Col. William F. Cody, will cavort the broncs equestrian statue of "Buffalo Bill," at the Cody, Wyo., entrance to Yellowstone Park, the Buffalo Bill American Association has announced in New York City. The statue is the work of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

St Paul will be the concentration point for more than 2,000 high-grade cows which are to be placed in the hands of Montana farmers through the medium of the Montana Mutual Dairy Loan Association of Missoula, Mont. Purchase of a 160-acre farm, just north of the state fair grounds at St. Paul for this purpose was announced a few days ago by Montie Lovinson, general purchasing agent of the Montana concern.

A hospital has no right to hold a human being because of an unpaid bill, Judge Joseph B. David of Chicago ruled in signing an order giving Mrs. Gertrude Nodino the custody of her 14-month-old baby. Judge David issued a writ ordering the removal of the child from the hospital and placing it in the hands of a temporary guardian when Mrs. Nodino charged that authorities of the Englewood hospital refused to turn the child over to her until a hospital bill of $105 had been paid.

Insects and flies, rather than curses projected through the ages by monarchs of King Tut's era, and their priests and undertakers caused him to suffer much during the thirty-four years he has been delving into their ancient past, said Howard Carter, who "dug up" King Tut, on his arrival in New York City on the Berengaria.

Dr. Charles W. Baker, a physician at Rossville, Tenn., a village thirty miles north of Memphis, was arrested by federal authorities on a warrant charging misuse of the mails in connection with the alleged collection of fraudulent claims from the Woodmen of the World, fraternal insurance organization with headquarters in Omaha, Neb.

The deathbed wish of Mme. Eleonore Duse will be respected and her body will be buried in a little cemetery behind an old stone church at Asolo, near Venice, it was made known in Pittsburgh. The famous tragedienne's love affair with Gabriello d'Annunzio had Italy as its stage and members of her troupe here believed Duse wanted her mortal remains to rest amid the ruins of her castles of dreams.

A woman, believed to be Brooklyn's bobbed-haired bandit, and a man who said he was her husband, were arrested at Jacksonville, Fla., by two New York detectives. The woman gave her name as Cecilia Cooney, and the man was booked as Edward Cooney.

Formal denial that he had intended to "threaten" the United States when he told Secretary of State Hughes that "grave consequences" would follow the passage of the Japanese exclusion act in Congress, has been made by Masano Hanihara, Japanese ambassador to the United States.

Your Next Car

Will be this Light-Six, if you learn the truth

We made a canvass of men who bought rival cars in this class. And we found that 96 in each 100 bought without knowing these facts.

So, for your sake and our sake, we want to present them to you.

Save $200 to $400

Studebaker builds 150,000 fine cars yearly. It builds in model factories, modernly equipped. It has spent $38,000,000 in the past five years on new-day plants and equipment.

By quantity and up-to-dateness it saves large sums per car. A car like this Light-Six, built under ordinary conditions, would cost $200 to $400 more.

11.4% less to run

This supreme quality means lower operating cost. Owners of fleets of cars in this class made audited records to prove this.

They compared 320 cars, running up to 25,000 miles each. And they found that the Studebaker Light-Six cost 11.4% less to operate than the average of its rivals. This includes depreciation. The saving was nearly one cent per mile.

The reasons are these

The Studebaker Light-Six, in its chassis, represents the best we know. In steel and in workmanship it is identical with the costliest cars we build.

It is designed and superintended by an engineering department which costs us $500,000 yearly.

Each steel formula has been proved the best for its purpose by years of tests. On some we pay 15% premium to makers to get them exactly right.

Each car in the building gets 32,900 tests and inspections.

The crankshafts are machined on all surfaces, as was done in the Liberty Airplane Motors. This extra care costs us $600,000 yearly, but it means perfect balance in the motor.

There are 517 operations in making this car exact to 1/1000th of an inch. And 122 are exact to one-half that.

Made by the leaders

This is one of the cars which has made Studebaker the leader in quality cars. Our sales have almost trebled in three years. The trend toward Studebakers has become a sensation.

Back of this car is an honored name, which for 22 years has stood for high ideals.

Behind it are $90,000,000 of assets, staked on pleasing you better than others.

Before you pay $1,000 or more for a car, these are facts you should know and compare. You owe that to yourself.

Send for the book

Mail us the coupon below. We will send you free our new book that will inform you on five simple things which reveal the value of a car. For instance: It will enable you to look at any car and tell whether it's been cheapened to meet a price or offers true quality.

It will tell you why some cars rattle at 20,000 miles and others don't. It shows one single point in a closed car which measures whether you're getting top or medium quality. The book is free—clip the coupon below.

To Whom It May Concern.

In regard to the "anonymous letter" which I received in the mail at the Post Office at Capitan, Sunday April 27th 1924 which was very threatening and insulting. I have never gave any one cause to be unfriendly toward me—let alone threaten me. Who ever is the author of this letter are so cowardly and contemptable and so low and deplorable I shall pay no attention to them whatever. My record as a citizen in your midst is open to inspection to every one.

I never came to New Mexico running, and I don't purpose to run away.

Who ever think—I am in "the dark" as to their meaning—I have not said anything to any body or about any body that I will take back.

PAT DIXON.

For Sale.

Did Not Indict.

The grand jury did not indict W. B. Parker, Ward, Leslie and Merojildo Padilla for arson as we understand they considered the evidence insufficient and of a very contradictory nature.

It is considered by a great many Lincoln county citizens that the evidence given against was manufactured to get them indicted.

Strayed or Stolen.

Grand Jury Findings And Court Matters.

The grand jury, after a week's deliberations, reported in 10 no bills and 21 true bills, most of the true bills being of a minor nature except those of George L. Ulrick and F. J. Sager of the Exchange Bank, who were indicted on three counts for having and holding in their possession, liberty bonds, $300 belonging to A. Y. Swearingen; $500 to Hal Young and $7,500 to S. A. Miller.

The three men, Titsworth, Hobbs and Simer, who were accused of being connected with the killing of Robert Hurt near Capitan some time ago and were bound over, were indicted for murder in the first degree.

E. D. Boone, former cashier of the Lincoln State Bank was indicted for forging a note to the amount of $900.

"Light Horse Harry" Lee, who plead guilty to forging a check on N. B. Taylor & Sons to the Titsworth Co, was first given a penitentiary sentence, but the same was suspended on his promise to leave the state.

The case in which Titsworth, Hobbs and Simer were indicted for the murder of Robert Hart will be tried in the Jan[illegible] term of court in Alamogordo upon [illegible] for a change of venue.—Carrizozo Outlook.

Married.

Mr. Tim Burch and Miss Edna Maryfield of Hondo, were married in Roswell the first of the week.

Edna is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Maryfield formerly of this vicinity but now living near Hondo and is considered a most excellent girl and knows how to work. We hope Tim won't get jealous and accuse us of trying to flirt with his wife when we say—she is "good looking." Edna will make a dandy good partner and what more could be expected?

Tim is the son of Richard S. (Dick) and wish to say that there is no better boy in Lincoln county.

THE MOUNTAINEER extends its best wishes to this couple.

Farm Seed Loan Committee Appointed.

E. M. Bricklov, A. J. Rolland and Jno. A. Haley have been notified of their appointment as a committee to handle the government Seed and Feed Loan for Lincoln county. The committee has not been furnished the details of how the matter is to be handled, but has been assured that blanks and instructions are on the way from Washington, and as soon as they arrive the committee will be prepared to consider applications from farmers who desire to take advantage of this loan.

Applicants are urged to have their requests well in hand, so that when they call upon the committee early action may be taken.

OPERATION RESPONSIBLE FOR CONTROL FOREST FIRES

Denver.—Forest fire damage in Colo-o has been held to a minimum dur-the last ten years by the interest responsibility taken by local citi-s, according to Allen S. Peck, dis-t forester, U. S. Forest Service, nver, Colorado. Residents in and und the forest regions of the state ve not been content with leaving m to burn until discovered by a ble officer. Nor have they consid-d their duty done when the fire was orted. In many cases the forest ger has made a long ride in search an ever-diminishing smoke only to d a fire under the control of volun-r fire fighters from the local com-nity. This splendid spirit is an in-aluable asset to Colorado which as a te is dependent on the forests not ly as the source of economic neces-ies but as an important attraction to housands of visitors every summer. The problem which now remains to solved is the elimination of man-used fires. It is folly for the public pay trained foresters to act as a dy guard for careless campers and hers and thus to accomplish what dinary care on their part should do, d it is an injustice to place the bur-n of these fires upon the shoulders volunteer co-operators, whose homes d other property are threatened. The per care with camp fires, matches d burning tobacco in the forests will minate nearly four-fifths of the 170 es which burn every year and reaten the forest of the state.

STAYING HOME FROM WORK MEANS MONEY LOST

Many Women Know This by Experience

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Help You As It Helped These Women

Mrs. McDole's Experience

Ludington, Michigan.—"I suffered every month and was very irregular, had headaches all the time, was thin and pale, with no appetite. I had taken all kinds of medicines, and every doctor told me I would have to face an operation before I would be well again. I was doing factory work, and I had to stay at home so much that I was getting discouraged. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did so with good results. I am now feeling fine. I have advised all my girl friends, who have such troubles as I had, to take your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. THERESA McDOLE, 429 S. Rath Ave., Ludington, Mich.

Greatly Relieved

Los Angeles, California.—"I was in such a condition that I was scarcely able to walk, even to do my housework. I had no energy, was depressed and often wished to die. I am a chef, but was totally unable to do any cooking. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it with success. After the fourth bottle I felt much better, and after the tenth I never felt better in my life, as it resulted in a complete recovery. I certainly recommend it to all I hear complaining and you can use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. MARY SULLIVAN, 923 E. 46th Street, Los Angeles, California.

Greatly Relieved

Jersey City, N. J.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for cramps and fainting spells. I do office work, and have been in this condition four or five years, having to stay at home from work a day or two at a time, quite frequently. I have taken about ten bottles of it, and have been greatly relieved. I recommend it myself and you may print these facts with my full address."—LOUISE SCHONWELDER, 112 Woodlawn Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

No matter what your work is, a great deal depends upon your health. It is discouraging to be obliged to stay at home frequently on account of sickness.

Your trouble may be caused by some female weakness, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought relief to many women just as these letters state. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Origin of Safety Pin

The first safety pins were long, slender pins of bronze, characteristic of Italy. Evidently some one one day conceived the idea of bending the body of these pins after putting the pin through the garment, so as to hold it more securely. Later an improvement was made by having a disk formation in the bend of the pin, containing several twists of fine wire, which acted as a spring and held the pin in place. The original bow pin is said to have been found in graves dating back to the Tenth century B. C. There have been many evolutions of the material used and the shape and style of the safety pin, but it is interesting to note that the primitive and simplest form is the one which has survived and is used at the present time.

Finds "Tides" in Lava in Crater of Volcano

The discovery of daily and monthly "tides" in lava in the crater of Kilauea volcano in the Hawaiian islands was made recently by Dr. T. A. Jaggar, director of the Hawaiian volcano observatory of the United States weather bureau. The observatory is on Kilauea.

Dr. Jaggar says the observations might be valuable in predicting future eruptions. The liquid lava shows a twice-a-day fluctuation in level of from two to seven feet, a daily variation of three to five feet, and a monthly shifting of the time of maximum and minimum level. This would not be the case if the tides were due to weather conditions which change irregularly, but it might be due, Dr. Jaggar says, to control by the sun and moon.

The hard lava floor of the crater shows a daily change in level of about one foot, but the times of maximum and minimum are nearly opposite those for the liquid lava, the high level occurring in the morning in the case of the liquid and after midnight in the case of the solid lava during a period of two months when observations were taken.—Kansas City Star.

The Marriage Knot

When you talk of the "marriage knot" do you realize that the knot was ever anything more than a mere figure of speech? Among the Babylonians tying the knot was part of the marriage ceremony. The priest took a thread of the garment of the bride and another from that of the bridegroom and tied them into a knot which he gave to the bride, thus symbolizing the binding nature of the union.

Black Hole of Calcutta

The "Black Hole of Calcutta" was an apartment in which 150 English prisoners, captured by the Nawab Siraj-ud-Daula, were confined over night of June 20, 1756. This apartment was 18 feet by 14 feet and 10 inches. It had only two small windows, obstructed by a veranda. The crush was dreadful, and after a night of terrible suffering from pressure, heat, thirst and want of air, there were left alive in the morning only 23 survivors.

HOG-PROOF GATE IS HANDY CONTRIVANCE

It is common practice to run hogs in the same field as cattle. To allow the cattle the liberty of passing into adjoining fields and at the same time prevent the hogs from doing so, a special kind of gate is required. Two types of such gates, that have been found very effective, are shown in the illustration. Figure 1 shows a gate consisting of two wide planks, one nailed to the gate post and the other arranged parallel to it, with a space of about 2 feet between. The second plank is nailed to strong stakes that are securely driven into the ground. The hogs can climb over this plank because they can approach it at right angles, but cannot get over the other because the second is so close. A hog (this has been proved many times) will usually climb over the first plank into the chute and run along it back into the yard, thinking, apparently, that it has accomplished its purpose.

a heavy gas pipe or iron rod, which is also passed through the gate posts as indicated, allowing the tank to rotate freely. The hog can get on the tank as indicated but the moment the hind legs are clear of the ground the weight on the tank causes it to turn and the hog promptly returns—a rather provoking situation for the hog, but it works.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Often Happens Teeth of Young Pigs Are Harmful

Frequently when sows carry their pigs beyond the usual period of gestation, it will be found that the pigs' teeth have made an abnormal growth, and often the teeth are discolored. This has led to the common saying that "pigs born with black teeth never do well."

These teeth are often long and sharp and prick the tender udder of the dam when the youngsters are sucking. This causes the mother great pain, and usually results in the cow refusing to allow the pigs to suck. It also causes sore udders, which soon become infected, this in turn causing severe trouble and often results in spoiled udders.

The hog breeder should watch the young litter for symptoms of pigs with sharp teeth. Immediate steps should be taken to remove the trouble as soon as it is detected.

Save Lambs and Increase Profit From Farm Flock

"Save the lamb and increase the profits from the farm flock" should be the slogan of every flock owner at this season of the year. From now until the lambs are ready for market a little extra feed and care will be money well spent. Ewes that were in good condition at breeding time and have had good care should produce a large percentage of strong, vigorous lambs, with additional feed and care, from now until the lambs are ready for market.

The ewe should have dry, comfortable quarters. The shed or barn should be clean, dry, well ventilated and arranged to avoid the ewes crowding through the doors and around the feed racks, as crowding will, a great many times, cause injury to the unborn lamb and in many cases cause death to the ewe. Exercise is an essential as feed.

Plan to Prevent Horns

Horns are prevented from developing by thoroughly rubbing a stick of caustic potash, upon the dampened skin over each horn button when the calf is less than one week old. Apply lard or vaseline freely around the horn button. Wrap one end of the caustic pencil with strong paper to protect the fingers. Keep caustic out of calf's eyes.—Dr. A. S. Alexander.

Frozen Silage Is Safe

Feeding frozen or moldy silage to dairy cows or feeding steers is a harmless practice. At least this is the opinion of dairy husbandry officials at Iowa State college, although feeding this kind of silage in considerable amounts may cause the cows to scour or go off feed for a few days. Other than this, the officials say, there are no harmful results from feeding moldy or frozen silage. Extreme care, they say, must be exercised in feeding any kind of silage to sheep or horses.

Most Satisfactory Hog

A hog which remains in good health from the day he is farrowed until he is loaded on a market-bound train is usually a satisfaction to the farmer, the packer and the consumer. But there are many disease and parasites which beset him during the few months allotted for his economic performance. If this performance is to be a profitable one, the hog grower must keep sharp watch over his herd and learn to know something of the symptoms.

New Mexico State Items

Half of the wall of the new city reservoir at Albuquerque is completed and the entire job will be finished in the next thirty days. The work is being rushed both night and day by the contractors in charge.

According to a report by C. O. Breece the McKinley Land and Lumber Company will start at once on the erection of a big logging camp at Agua Fria and work will be started as soon as the camp is completed.

The Security State Bank of Portales, which was reopened about six weeks ago, was forced to suspend operations last week. Failure to secure financial backing is said to have been the cause of its inability to remain open.

At a recent meeting of the board of education of the Roy school district, Superintendent Bazzil was re-elected to take charge of the schools for the coming year beginning July 1. Through the efforts of Mr. Bazzil the Roy schools now rank among the best in the state.

Indictments charging first degree murder were brought against Mrs. Nannie Holsey, Luther Foster, William Archer and Geng Perdue by the grand jury of Eddy. The four defendants have been in the Eddy county jail since the first of the month in connection with the murder of Fred Halsey, well known live stock man.

The assessed value of property in New Mexico in 1920 was $400,000,000. For 1923, the assessed value of all property was $315,000,000—a loss of $90,000,000. In 1919, the value of farm products was estimated at $40,000,000. The estimate for 1923 was only $29,000,000 in spite of the added value of a new crop—cotton.

According to figures given out in Deming over 600 acres of cotton will be planted in Luna county this year, or ten times that of 1923. Last year the total acreage for the county was only about sixty, but the experiment proved such a success to the farmers that many of them are going in strong for the crop this season.

The newly organized First National Bank of Clovis opened last week with a capital and surplus of $61,500. R. N. Dowdle, as acting vice president and J. E. Putnam, cashier, will be in charge of the institution and under an agreement with all the depositors the new bank will handle the deposits of the old First National Bank.

A bill by Senator A. A. Jones, New Mexico, for the transfer of books from the Navy Department to the Interior Department with the intention of giving them to the Indian school here, and Indian schools at other places, has been passed by the Senate and is now in the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C. Just what books these are, the bill does not indicate.

According to reports reaching Roswell actual construction work has been started on the eighteen-mile stretch of road across the Mescalero Indian reservation. The contract has been let Wilson and Orr of El Paso and 100 head of horses, ninety men and thirty-five wagons have already been moved in to begin the work. The total cost of the new road will be about $350,000.

George Hunker, Democratic state chairman, has fixed the date of the Democratic state convention to select the New Mexico delegates to the national convention as May 24, according to word from Las Vegas. The convention will be held at Las Cruces. Originally the date was fixed as June 2, but changed to permit delegates to take advantage of the special railroad rates to be in effect for the Good Roads convention at Albuquerque.

Among the new operating concerns to enter the Farmington oil fields is the Pacific Oil Company of Los Angeles, according to reports given out a few days ago.

A national defense society has been formed in Roswell and the first activity will be to try to secure a military training camp in the White mountains west of Roswell. The officers of the council are: V. A. Nicholas, President; Claude Slimpick, secretary. The members are: E. A. Cahoon, George Fletcher, George L. Jewett, Charles L. Mason, Will Dobbereh, Fred Miller, C. J. Stilwell, A. S. Taube, J. F. White and Julius Garst.

H. G. Keenan, secretary of the New Mexico sanitary board, at Albuquerque, advised the Santa Fe railway officials at Los Angeles, that tourist automobile tents and other paraphernalia cannot be shipped into New Mexico from California unless they bear an inspector's certificate showing that they have been thoroughly fumigated. Keenan heard that tourists affected by the Arizona embargo were shipping their outfits in to the state expecting to resume their westbound journey in New Mexico.

The thirtieth annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of New Mexico will be held in Albuquerque May 6, 7 and 8, according to announcements made last week. This is the annual business meeting of the church and about sixty delegates are expected to attend.

Another big livestock deal was closed in Deming last week when the Warm Springs Cattle Company sold about 1,500 head to Warren and Son, of Three Oaks, Mich. The Warren company will send the cattle to Mexico, where it has large holdings.

Invasion of the Forest.

In the matter of longevity insects belong cannot compete with trees, but according to mortality tables, human beings are more fortunate up to certain ages.

A forest at maturity contains about 8 per cent of the trees that started life there. The percentage of human beings living from ten to fifty is much greater than in the case of trees. About 65 per cent of trees die before they are eighty years old, while only 37 per cent of persons die before reaching that age.

"IF ANYONE WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT TANLAC LET THEM SEE ME"

"If anybody wants to find out about Tanlac, just let them see me," is the hearty proposition of Joseph H. Baker, 550 North Third St., Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. Baker went overseas with the famous Thirtieth Division during the World War and participated in the St. Mihiel, Valley of Vesres and Argonne drives, having been cited for bravery in action in the Argonne. He is now a popular member of the Memphis Fire Department.

"When I came back from over there," said he, "I was in a mighty bad fix. I had been gassed and after getting home I got down with pneumonia. This left me 'all in,' without appetite, down in weight, livery out of fix, and suffering from constipation, biliousness and headaches without end.

"Tanlac put me to eating as never before, shot my weight up fifteen pounds and made a strong, well man of me—and I feel fine even to this day. I can't say enough for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Gave Her Ideas

A successful English novelist, Miss Sheila Kaye-Smith, generously acknowledges that in the case of two of her stories a fellow-author supplied the basic idea. "The germ of my novels," she says, as quoted by the writer, "is generally a more or less abstract idea which has somehow got entangled with a place. For instance, 'man who subdues a rough piece of land—country back of Rye,' was the germ of 'Sussex Gorse,' and 'woman farmer—Romney Marsh,' was the germ of 'Joanna Godden.' Both these ideas were given be by W. L. George." Miss Kaye-Smith works quickly and corrects little, but it takes her eight months to complete a story.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Brain and Growth

Dr. Hrdlicka says that the brain grows after the body's development ceases. The brain develops, with use, to the age of fifty or sixty. In some cases to an extent that the size of the head is actually increased. Aside from this physical development, the body seldom grows after the early twenties, although Dr. Hrdlicka says that under proper exercise, diet and living conditions the body may grow until about the thirtieth year.

Strong Bank-Note Paper

The secret of making the linen base for Bank of England notes has been kept for 800 years by the trusted employees of one firm. Of a peculiar whiteness, the paper is so tough that a folded note can sustain the weight of 50 pounds without tearing. In the days before postal orders became common, it was customary, when sending money by mail, to cut a note in halves, inclose the first with the invoice and await acknowledgment before parting with the second.—Popular Mechanics.
