State Parks Grow Rapidly in Favor

"A Park Every Hundred Miles" Is National Slogan.

Washington, D. C.—"City parks and national parks are well enough known; now enters the state park, which, in popularity, bids fair to rival its older park sisters," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The forthcoming national conference on state parks, at Gettysburg, Pa., will emphasize the rapidly multiplying uses of these state reservations," the bulletin points out.

"Many visitors are expected to attend the conference, both because of the varied program touching upon so many phases of outdoor life, and also because the conference is meeting at one of the most famous battlefields of modern times, notable for its memorials to the men of both the North and the South who fell there, and also for the scenic beauty of the panorama of knolls and hillsides that form the Gettysburg state reservation.

"Arrangements for the meetings are being made by John Barton Payne, chairman of the conference on state parks, whose headquarters are at the National Red Cross building, in Washington, D. C.

"A Park Every One Hundred Miles."

"The rapid growth of these parks makes the slogan 'a park every hundred miles' seem not so impossible as it sounds. Twenty-six states now have their own park systems, and these parks range from the vast Adirondack park, in New York state, with more than three million acres, to the one-acre sand bar in the Connecticut river, which is Hart Island State park, of Connecticut.

"Michigan leads all the states in the number of its state-owned parks, with thirty such reservations. Connecticut, though one of the smallest states, is second, with twenty-five parks.

"Then comes New York, with twenty-two parks; Minnesota, with seventeen; Pennsylvania, with fourteen; while Iowa, with its thirteen reservations, to which it invites tourists to 'go back from prairie land to fairyland,' is the leader of the state park movement in the Middle West.

"Havens for the tourist are afforded in interesting numbers of the state parks; some of them offer camping places for the entire vacation period. In Wisconsin the city dweller can rent an island for a nominal sum, and play Swiss Family Robinson for several weeks.

"Many of the best known state parks embody world renowned scenic features—notably Niagara falls, New York. They furnish a panorama of the varied physical features our country possesses—from the curiously modeled gorges of Hammonasset Brook State park, of Connecticut, to the tropical setting of the Royal Palm State park, of Florida, less than fifty miles southwest of Miami.

"Historic and literary shrines are preserved, as in Lincoln's home, in the Old Salem State park, of Illinois, and in James Whitcomb Riley's 'old swimmin' hole' on an Indiana reservation. Indiana also preserves in some of her parks her magnificent waterfalls, which fact may be an item of news to many travelers whose knowledge of her geography is confined to car-window observations on transcontinental trips.

When Illinois Was Under Ocean.

"Starved Rock park, in Illinois, perpetuates for older history than that to be found in textbooks—its limestone formations date back to a period when America's inland was the floor of a sea.

"Tropical jungle, the giant redwood trees of California, the sand dunes of Indiana, waterfalls, lovers' lanes, the jeweled lakes of Minnesota, the mountain outlooks of Connecticut—these are a few of the wonder spots which states have set aside for the use of all their people and as a heritage for their children."

Find Ailanthus Tree Makes Splendid Pulp

Madison, Wis.—Officials of the United States forest products laboratory here announce discovery of what is declared to be an excellent and valuable pulp wood from the ailanthus tree, otherwise known as the "tree of heaven." A half-cord of ailanthus wood was sent to the laboratory from the Pennsylvania state department of forestry for experimental purposes. Officials declare it developed into a high-grade of book paper.

"If you take Noah Webster's word for it, a park used to be 'an enclosed piece of ground stocked with beasts of the chase, held by prescription or the king's grant.' The idea of the state parks conference seems to be that today a park is 'an enclosed piece of ground stocked with beasts, trees, flowers, or other scenic features, not to be destroyed, but held by prescription of the people for their own use.'

"The annual conference this year to be held during the last week of May at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, will consider the development of the many uses of these state parks.

"Their value as game refuges, for camping and nature study, extension of trails for hiking, establishments of more museums for preserving specimens, and their wider use in scientific study will be considered.

"Each year finds new state records in the movement for state park systems. In Kentucky the legislature has just passed a measure creating a state park commission. Three proposed sites for parks in the Blue Grass state are the place near Bardstown, where Stephen Foster wrote 'My Old Kentucky Home,' the place of Lincoln's birth, near Hodgenville, and Mammoth cave."

SCIENCE EXPECTS TO CONQUER INSANITY

Finds Way to Rejuvenate Mankind by Treatment.

Washington.—Science is approaching mastery over insanity, old age and other ills through study of the endocrine glands and discovery of means of their control, Dr. William J. A. Bailey of New York declared in a paper at a session of the American Chemical society.

Describing development of basic knowledge about endocrine radiation with the gamma ray as being of transcending importance to the human race, Doctor Bailey, who is director of the American Endocrine laboratories, declared "we have corrected aberration, disease, old age and, in fact, life and death themselves in the endocrines."

"If we look more to the endocrine glands and less to the head," he said, "we have an excellent chance of eradicating insanity.

"In and around these glands," he added, "must center future efforts toward human rejuvenation, a goal for which the world has sought and one which now seems to be truly realized."

Study of the principles involved in endocrine limitation, said Doctor Bailey, has placed science on the threshold of a new era.

"We have too long regarded insanity as purely a brain condition," he declared. "Its seat is unquestionably in the endocrine glands, which absolutely control every brain function.

"No greater truth has been vouchsafed to mankind than that these lowly ridges of colloidal ooze regulate all body activity, down to the tiniest cell. I am satisfied, from clinical experience, that a method of endocrine limitation is now available whereby we can definitely, practically without exception, retard the progress of senescence and give a new lease of relatively normal functioning power to those whose sun of life is slowly sinking into the purple shadows of that longest night.

"Rejuvenation means more today than any other subject that can concern a man or woman. The wrinkled face, the crows skin, the dull eye, the listless gait, the faulty memory, the aching body, the destructive effects of sterility, all spell imperfect endocrine performance."

Finds a $500 Diamond in a $2.04 Chicken

Gloversville, N. Y.—John Antillo, a local barber, made a profit of $497.96 through the purchase of a chicken for $2.04—and his deal was perfectly legitimate.

He purchased the chicken at a market and, while cleaning the crop, but rolled a diamond estimated to be worth $500.

The "home town" of the chicken is not known, it having arrived alive as part of a shipment from various parts of the state.

Burglars entered the Great Northern station at Belt, Mont., knocked the dial off the safe with a sledge, blew open the safe with nitro and carried away the entire cash contents—53 copper pennies—the agent having deposited the receipts earlier in the day and left only the 53 cents. The dead bodies of Agnes Black, a divorcee, and Robert M. Snyder, a watchman, each with bullet wounds in the head, were found in Snyder's apartment in a downtown rooming house in Seattle. Unrequited love, he said, appeared to have prompted Snyder's act.

Flames and smoke are belching from the crater of a volcano, supposedly extinct for centuries near the Colorado line in New Mexico, according to automobile travelers reaching Walsenburg, Colo., from the South. The eruption is said to be from a cone near the Raton park. The travelers did not go near enough the eruption to ascertain whether lava or ash was being thrown from the old crater, but declared smoke was issuing from a fissure in the ground near Folsom, New Mexico.

Officials of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company at Denver have received instructions from the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to submit license blanks to all owners of commercial radio broadcasting stations in this territory with a view to eliminating infringements on the company's patents. The blanks are being mailed out this week. Forest fires which have been raging in northern Montana are reported as being under control. Favorable weather and an absence of wind enabled fire fighters to confine the fires to areas which had been partly burned over. Reports from Whitefish and Hallspell indicate that the fires, which have destroyed several thousand acres of timber have been checked and that no more ranchers had been driven from their homes.

APPLE MILDEW AND ITS CONTROL

Bulletin by New Mexico College of Agriculture for Control of Pest

Reports are coming to the experiment station at the New Mexico College of Agriculture that powdery mildew of apples is liable to prove a serious disease in New Mexico this year.

Apple powdery mildew is caused by a fungus which grows superficially upon the leaves, tender twigs, blossoms, and fruit of the apple tree. The first manifestation of the disease is usually small, grayish or whitish felt-like patches of fungus growth on the underside of leaves, which become curled and wrinkled. The fungus patches rapidly enlarge until generally the entire leaf becomes covered with the felted growth and a powdery coating of many spores. The mildew spreads rapidly to the twig. The twig growth is soon checked. In severe infections the twig is killed. The effects of fruit infection are to dwarf the apple and produce a russeting of the skin beneath the fungus.

CONTROL: Liquid sulphur sprays should not be used as a summer spray on apples in New Mexico, as severe burning of the foliage will result. Any of the following sprays will be efficient. 1. Sulphur dust. 2. Ammoniacal copper carbonate, prepared as follows: dissolve 6 ounces of copper carbonate in 3 pints of ammonia and dilute with 50 gallons of water. Prepare this solution fresh each time it is needed. 3. Sal soda Bordeaux mixture. Dissolve separately in water 4 pounds of copper sulphate (use a wooden vessel) 5 pounds of sal soda, and 2 pounds of lime. Add these in the order given to water in a spray tank, and make up to 50 gallons.

Where this disease has become established, sprays should be applied at intervals of three to four weeks, following the calyx spray. An application of lead arsenate can be added for control of the codling moth.

PRESIDENT SIGNS MEASURE EXCLUDING THE JAPS JULY 1.

BROWN MEN BARRED AS IMMIGRANTS, BY THE BILL.

Washington May 29.—The immigration bill was signed today by President Coolidge.

Despite the provision making Japanese exclusion effective next July 1, put into the measure over his vigorous opposition, the president decided because of other considerations, to give the executive approval necessary to spread the legislation on the statute books.

It was pointed out that inasmuch as the present immigration law expires on June 30, a veto might have made it necessary to rush through an emergency measure in the closing hours of the session. Such a step, the president felt, would not be practicable in view of the tangled legislative situation and the certainty that any emergency provision would be met by many attempts at amendments and possibly blocked altogether.

Besides the Japanese exclusion feature the bill contains a number of provisions which were the basis of stubborn contests when the legislation first was under consideration in the senate and house. One question long in dispute was the method of determining national quotas, which under the measure as finally passed, are reckoned at 2 per cent basis of the 1890 census.

This, and all other disagreements over the provisions of the bill have been subordinated to the Japanese exclusion issue ever since Ambassador Hanihara on April 11, sent a note to the state department suggesting that the possibility of "grave consequences" be considered before an absolute legislative barrier was reared against the Japanese. The note was characterized both in senate and in house as a veiled threat and both reaffirmed quickly and by overwhelming majorities, their desire for exclusion.

If it isn't in your medicine chest when you need it, some one is going to suffer in your home. Come in and let us supply your emergency needs today.

BUSINESS MEN VISIT CAPITAN

Capitalists and Bankers Looking Into Business Situation Here.

Three or four business men and bankers were here this week looking Capitan and vicinity over from a business standpoint. They inspected a few mining properties, the railroad facilities and the commercial conditions in general.

The gentlemen were, or seemed to be rather optimistic concerning their inspection. It is possible, and decidedly probable, that the results of the inspection will be indicated in a substantial manner.

Among the visitors were Messrs. Beal and Jones, who are heavily interested in a chain of banks throughout this country, as well as other enterprises.

AN ADVERTISER'S ANNOUNCEMENT

This advertising space in the Capitan Mountaineer has been taken by the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad Company for a few issues, in order to reach the people for the purpose of encouraging a mutual and renewed effort on their part and of the Railroad, so that in recovering from the financial effect of the unusual lean years we have been passing through, we will all have in view the development of all the resources which our country affords to bring each community up to any practical degree of prosperity which it is possible to maintain. Especially such communities as are situated in counties through which the Railroad runs. The Company believes that to aid in doing this it would be advantageous if both the public and the Railroad Officials could each have more information and a better understanding of each other's exact situations and necessities.

The Company has had many assurances of appreciation from those along the route of its railroad in New Mexico who are acquainted with its efforts in giving them good railroad service, and is confident that it will increase those friendships wherever such information becomes more general. Its agents would undoubtedly be benefited and be enabled to serve the public by knowing more completely and thoroughly how it can the better serve them. There are many, however, who do not know the difficulties and disadvantages which a railroad has, both on account of natural difficulties and the very strict regulation and control of carriers under present day laws, and expect more from it than it can reasonably do and still furnish the public with efficient service.

The Company does not intend to make any complaints, nor to inveigh against the laws; which it is carefully and cheerfully obeying and which it believes in the main are wise and proper. This space is to be used only for giving you information as to what this Company is doing, and will furnish you if it can, information which it is in position to gather of facts, and perhaps, occasionally, suggestions, in the hope that they will be of aid to you in working out your own prosperity and that of each community. It recognizes that you, too, have been giving good service in courageous effort practically as pioneers in what, though mostly a desert, is not on that account devoid of resources, and that all communities have as a rule given a fair deal and that both individuals and communities are entitled to credit for what you have accomplished.

No part of this space used by the Company shall contain reference to politics or political measures or propaganda of any kind. The articles will contain only information given in the hope that it may be of value to you and to your communities, concerning such affairs of the Company as you are directly interested in; and possibly local information as to your own county and the possibilities of development therein. The Company asks that you read what it has to offer from time to time, in accordance with the above, and give it credit for good faith and accuracy in presenting the same.

The first article along the lines above suggested will appear in an early issue.

Kipling was right! "The fe male of the species IS the dere-er of the two."

The word "tourist" can rightfully be interpreted as "money" when they come in by droves—that is, money to us of this favored land. That which the tourists receives in health and recreation makes his investment a good one. They are benefited by our climate and we need their money. Let's "swap."

The reception given our army fliers at Tokio, Japan was the last word in the point of enthusiasm and hospitality. We may not fully realize the meaning of such an achievement as that of bridging the Pacific, but if we were all crowded upon a dinky little old island, such as are the Japs, it would strike home.

H. Ford, a machinist of some town in Michigan, was in this city early in the week. Ford, who is a dreamer, is suffering under the delusion that he can perfect a carriage that will run of its own accord. He is trying to raise money to continue his foolish experiments by selling stock in a company he intends organizing, promising the most fabulous returns for each dollar invested in the project. This writer hopes none of his readers will be taken in by the smooth talking grafter from the "noth" for his scheme is as impractical as a machine that flies, or one that talks, would be.

It is the ambition of the editor of this paper to make it a home publication, and in order gratify this ambition and make this your paper I need the help of a party in each community who will send in the local news from his or her particular neighborhood. I shall be only too glad to refund the amount spent in postage and put your name on mailing list. Correspondents are wanted at Lincoln, Hondo, Fort Stanton, Tegnie, Glencoe, Regal Picacho, Arabela, Corona, Alto, Carrizozo, Ruidoso, Parsons, Picarilla, White Oaks Spindle, Carolita and White Mountain. If you can't come to send in the articles yourself please urge another to do so, that your community will be heard from each week.

CROP CONDITIONS IN NEW MEXICO

Crop and Weather Report for New Mexico by U. S. Bureau

Temperature and precipitation both averaged below the normal—the temperature slightly below, and the precipitation much below. Temperature conditions, however, were largely local in character, and an occasional excess of temperature occured in the midst of a considerable area of deficient temperature. An excess was common along the eastern border and over much of the Canadian and Northeast district, but the greatest deficiency was reported from the Northwest and Southwest districts.

A sharp cold period occurred on the 16-17th, the latter proving the coldest day of month, with a severe and general freeze over practically all of the State. On the other hand, the warmest period occurred from the 20th to the 23d or 24th, and the 23d was probably the warmest day of the month.

There was but one general period of precipitation — that from the 21th to the 26th or 27th, but scattered rains (or snow occurred on many other dates. In northern countries and over the higher mountain areas, considerable snow occurred. While the snowfall aided the water supply and the irrigation outlook, it added little to the stored depth, disappearing quickly and causing temporary high water in the streams. Even the previously stored snow settled rapidly, and largely disappeared from the lower levels, but a goodly depth remained over the higher mountain areas.

The month was fairly favorable for farm work and much progress in plowing. Planting was well along in southern districts, and had begun in central and northern. Ranges improved slowly, and stock began to pick up. Alfalfa was damaged quite generally by the severe freeze of the 16-17th, and much fruit was lost.

Jitney Turns Over

A youth of some 14 years of age, and whose name we were unable to learn, succeeded in ditching a Ford coupe at the curve in the road just east of town, Thursday morning.

The lad was rather agitated and ill at ease as he explained the situation. It seems like he was endeavoring to lower the speed record between Roswell and Carrizozo, in which latter town he claimed to have an aunt.

The car was but slighty damaged and the boy was able to walk into town after the accident.

Stanton Wins.

A one sided game of baseball between the Fort Stanton and a team representing the El Paso shops of the E. P. & S. W., was won by Fort Stanton by an overwhelming score, in which one Mr. Parker wielded a wicked willow (or, maybe its ash), to a place in baseball glory by his flock of circuit bingles.

The game was well attended.

Save the Forests!

Secretary of agriculture Wallace declares approval of the McNary-Clarke bill for forest conservation and production and gives some startling figures in support of his warning.

There are large forest assets—about 250,000,000,000 acres—partly stocked with culled and second growth timber and about 81,000,000 acres of practically barren cut-over and burned land.

Our Country is consuming timber about four times as fast as it is being replaced, and under the present lack policy "no new growth of wood has adequately taken the place of the virgin timber which has been removed."

The timber remaining will be a better asset than was the timber that has been taken. Consumers will pay for the diminished supply in ever-rising prices.

COLORADO LABOR INDUSTRIES KEPT BUOY THIS MONTH

Denver.—A moderate shortage of certain classes of labor, principally sugar beet field workers, has been caused by an unprecedented program of general construction, building and improvements which has provided employment for thousands of workmen, according to the report for April on labor conditions by Quinee Record, Eighth district director for the employment service of the United States Department of Labor, issued here. Demands for general farm labor are increasing with shortages already existing in several localities, principally in the Sugar City, Colorado Springs and northern Colorado districts.

There is a noticeable increase in manufacturing, especially in Denver and Pueblo, where the mining machinery, building material, meat packing and steel plants are operating to capacity with some overtime work. Metal mining activities have increased slightly and experienced miners are in demand. While coal mines are operating part time, this condition is normal at this season. Building construction and general improvement programs are exceptionally large and have caused employment of hundreds who were out of work during the winter season.

The number of workers on construction projects, particularly the Moffat tunnel, where it has been increased to approximately 500, is growing. No immediate shortage on this project is contemplated. About 400 workers are now engaged on work on the Public Service Company of Colorado's electric power plant at Boulder lake; a gymnasium and stadium are under construction at the State University at Boulder, a water tunnel for municipal water works at Glenwood Springs is under construction, the Pueblo flood control project is progressing with approximately 450 workers now engaged, actual preparations are being made for oil drilling in the Craig, Fort Collins and other districts, but with more than sufficient local labor to take care of this work.

In addition to the large highway program now under construction, four new contracts totaling seventeen and seven-tenths miles, and costing approximately $1,000,000, have recently been let, work in connection to start immediately. Railway shop employment is normal, with indications for increased employment in shops and other tracts work within thirty days.

In Denver the surplus of labor, both skilled and unskilled, existing one month ago has been almost entirely relieved, some of the surplus labor being absorbed in agricultural activities in nearby farming sections.

A large mining machinery plant has materially increased its forces and is now running a night shift. Indications are that further increases at this plant will soon be made and that there will be a shortage of skilled mechanics later on.

Meat packing plants are working full time, with slightly increased forces, and some departments overtime. The packing companies anticipate an immediate slight shortage of labor on account of some of their employees accepting work on the farms.

Large Oil Shale Reserve in Colorado

Denver.—The large reserve of oil shale in Colorado, which has been estimated to contain 2,000,000,000 barrels of oil, and which has not yet been touched, would be of utmost importance to the country should another war occur, according to J. D. Isaacs, geological expert, who is conducting a mapping survey in northeastern Colorado. The value of such shale cannot be estimated because of the fact that at present still oil may be produced much more cheaply than oil from shale.

Martin Will Continue Flight

Mitchell Field, N. Y.—The airplane in which Maj. Frederick L. Martin may resume his attempt to encircle the world, interrupted when storms wrecked his machine in Alaska, has been ordered shipped to New York from Langley Field, Va., by the first available steamer, according to a telegram received by Maj. William Ivens-ley, jr., commandant here. Major Hensley has been instructed to reship the plane upon its arrival in England, where Major Martin is expected to resume his flight.

Scales Show Loss of Bodily Weight

Five minutes from now, unless you eat or drink in the meantime, you will weigh less than you do now. In fact, you will weigh less a minute from now, because the body is constantly losing weight by evaporation and by loss of carbon in breathing.

Powerful but exceedingly delicate scales, devised recently by the Carnegie institute, are now being used to measure the sum of these losses, states the Popular Science Monthly, and numerous interesting facts have been revealed by the scales. The more clothing a person wears the more rapidly he loses weight, because of increased perspiration.

A football player was shown to lose 14 pounds in a game lasting 70 minutes. A marathon runner lost 6½ pounds in a three-hour race. Ordinary men, performing no exertion, but merely sitting in a chair suspended from the scales, have lost weight as rapidly that small weights had to be added constantly to keep the balance even.

Red Cross Preparations

According to plans of the International Red Cross committee at Geneva, a world atlas "showing clearly the site and extent of all great catastrophes, past as well as present, and of such as may reasonably be expected in the future" is proposed. Maps showing the distribution of earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, "tidal" waves, hurricanes, tornadoes, typhoons, droughts, floods, dust storms, conflagrations in cities, invasions of locust, famines and the epidemic centers of plague, cholera and yellow fever will be included. Preparation of this atlas will be preliminary plans for immediate action when the S O S is sent from the world's trouble centers.

LIVE STOCK

FOUNDATION STOCK IS BIG ESSENTIAL

The good breeder of live stock may be said to be the one that has been successful in the selection of the parents of his stock. The corner stone of success is selection. Care and feed are essential, but they can develop an animal no further than the inheritance that animal has received from its parents will permit. A man was seen one time upon the Denver market trying to buy a boar to take home to his herd. When engaged in conversation he showed that type, ancestry or health did not enter his mind. A boar was a boar and nothing more to him.

Selection is just as important to that man who was a producer of market hogs as it is to the producer of animals from which others breed. Satisfactory results cannot be obtained by taking anything as foundation stock and then save the best from their increase. There is quite likely not to be any best among the increase. The live stock man must decide upon his ideal before he starts in the business and selects his foundation animals with his ideal always before his mind's eye. It is impossible very frequently to obtain our ideal or even approach it, but to have a goal toward which to work and never reach it, is better than not to have any goal at all.

Selection is important, as has been suggested, and it may now be said that selection to a type is important. Diversity of types seen in a breeder's flock or herd is generally indicative of haphazard breeding operations. What is the value of uniformity of type? No one will question its financial advantages in feeding or selling. Many worry about which breed to raise, but the selection of and adherence to a type is even more important than the selection of a breed. The breeder of live stock must be a student of animal form and a judge to insure success in his endeavor.—D. W. Fairbanks, Colorado Agricultural College.

Winter Swine Slaughter Shows Decided Increase

During the winter months of December, January and February, 10,621,201 hogs were slaughtered in establishments operating under federal meat inspection. This number exceeds the previous record for three months, made December, 1918, and January and February, 1919, by more than one million hogs.

Those who have studied the reasons for this enormous increase say that many factors are involved. Increased breeding, due to the successful corn crop for the last two years and a satisfactory public purchasing power, have contributed to the record-breaking slaughter. The hogs have been somewhat lighter in weight, however, than in former years and the large number does not mean such a record-breaking quantity of pork as the hog slaughter might indicate.

Roughage for Fattening Lambs in Feeding Test

Very little difference between alfalfa and soy-bean hay as roughages for fattening lambs was noted in a feeding test at the Illinois experiment station. The two hays were fed to lots of 25 lambs fed shelled corn in addition, with no supplement. Gains made by the two groups of lambs were almost exactly the same. The lambs given soy-bean hay ate somewhat more hay than those fed alfalfa, but the soy-bean hay group ate slightly less corn to compensate for the increased hay consumption. Somewhat more of the soy-bean hay was wasted than of alfalfa. At the end of the test the alfalfa lambs were valued ten cents higher than those fed soy-bean hay, but both lots brought the same price when sold at Chicago.

Tetanus in Lambs Often Follows Spring Docking

Tetanus is quite common among lambs at this time of the year, since it frequently follows docking if the operation is not properly performed. Tetanus is often spoken of as "lock jaw," though that is really not the correct name because the locking of the jaws does not always occur.

Little can be done for animals that are already diseased. The scab that has formed over the stump of the tail after docking should be removed and the stump painted with tincture of iodine two or three times daily. When docking lambs again the stump should be painted immediately after the operation. Some stockmen make a practice of searing the stump with a hot iron. The latter sterilizes the wound and also controls the bleeding.

Sunlight for Little Pigs

Sunlight is indispensable to the health and vigor of newly born pigs. This is true in all except extremely hot weather. The sooner they get it the better it is for them, and farrowing houses fitted to let in the sunshine are decidedly advantageous. As soon as the little fellows are strong enough to run around and follow after the sow they may be let outdoors into the sunshine. They ought to be strong enough to do this within from three days to a week.

Roughages for Brood Sows

It should be remembered that when forage is not available it is possible to utilize such roughages as soy bean or pea-vine hays. They are much cheaper than the concentrates and they afford the bulk which pregnant sows really need. Hogs cannot live on hay alone. They must have some concentrates. Hay can take the place of about one-third of the grain ration. It is always important to keep the ration well balanced.

Bluff That Almost Worked on Drummer

President L. L. Holland of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World said at a dinner in New York:

"Never bluff in your advertising. Some of us are too much given to bluff, perhaps. A drummer told me the other day how he was about to enter a plant in a bustling little western town when an enormous sign over the door pulled him up short—awed him, you know. The sign said:

"'To All Men.

"'We are a busy firm.

"'Unless your errand is of the first importance, go your way.

"'We are here to work; do not hinder us.

"'We are hustlers.'

"The drummer hesitated a long while. Was he worthy to enter that temple of labor or not? He decided in the end that he would risk it, and walked in timidly, to find the whole office force gathered round a table playing mah-jongg, while the boss read the rules of the game out loud from a big book."—Detroit Free Press.

Fresh depredations, charged to the night riders, are reported from Rio Arriba county.

Cutting of the first crop of alfalfa is now under way in the Pecos valley and while of good quality the crop will be light owing to the late frosts. There is still a good demand for the crop in the home markets and the price ranges from $20 to $25 per ton.

John Asa Griffin, for the past five years editor of the Deming Headlight, passed away at his home last week after an illness of about four weeks. Some four or five weeks ago Mr. Griffin suffered an attack of influenza which later developed into pneumonia, causing his death.

The shearing season is nearing a close in the San Juan valley and most of the sheepmen report a heavy clip of good quality, due to ample feed and the mild winter. While some buyers have been in the valley for some time going over the fleeces, very little buying has been done owing to the low prices on the markets in the East.

The Alamogordo town board has taken steps to annex an area north of town extending as far north as the highway, running east and west from the New Mexico blind school and as far east as college addition. The area is 1,850 feet wide and nearly a mile long. A special election to vote on this incorporation will be held at the town hall June 10.

According to a report reaching Roswell, the oil companies in the Artesia field are planning a pipe line from wells to the Santa Fe railroad, a distance of about seven miles. With three of the Illinois wells now producing and three more to be brought in in the next sixty days it is believed that the line is assured and the actual work will be started soon.

Telephone communication between Albuquerque and Gallup opened last week, it was announced by the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company. Two new copper circuits have been completed to Gallup, which now has a long distance service for the first time in its history. C. H. Stratton of El Paso, general manager for New Mexico and El Paso, was in Albuquerque for the opening ceremonies.

Through the efforts of Charles Arndt, Santa Rosa now has one of the finest tourist camp grounds in the state. For some time Mr. Arndt has been adding new equipment to the grounds and recently has completed a dance hall for the visitors which is thirty feet wide and seventy-five feet long. Later in the season a swimming pool will be installed with cement sides and bottom for the benefit of the tourists.

President Frank Carroon was re-elected head of the Normal University for 1922-23 by a unanimous vote of the board of regents at their regular meeting in East Las Vegas. The regents endorsed the work of the present school administration and found financial matters in good condition. Mr. Leo Anderson will continue as business manager. And the faculty thus far elected for the coming year consists very largely of the present force.

Announcement has been made that the preliminary examination of applicants for appointment in the medical corps of the regular army will be held at various stations in the Eighth corps area, July 25 to Aug. 2, 1921. There will be many appointments, and this will be an unusually good opportunity for qualified doctors to enter the service. Necessary application blanks, and full information may be secured from Maj. H. J. Castles, executive officer, 410th infantry, Roswell, N. M.

With the increasing dry hot weather the Lincoln forest officials are paying close attention to the fire hazard in the woods. H. C. Talcott of the headquarters office at Alamogordo has gone to the Sacramentos to rush the erection of the new sixty-foot steel fire tower there. G. Strickland, deputy supervisor, is on the Bonito inspecting and checking up on fire equipment.

There is much activity at the Mescalero Indian reservation with improvements under way and preparations being made for the planting of 2,000 acres of field and garden crops. The Indians already have made requisition for 250,000 pounds of seed, and probably more will be needed. The amount includes 125,000 pounds of oats, 20,000 of wheat, 20,000 of barley, and 10,000 pounds of potatoes. Agricultural work is done under direction of government supervisors. Annexes to both boys' and girls' dormitories are being built at the Indian school at a cost of $3,500 each. Thirty-two miles of fence, on Nueve canon near the eastern boundary of the reservation is to be rebuilt at an approximate cost of $2,000.

County Agent J. W. Were spent a week in the mountain section of Otero county assisting farmers in project work and in making application for aid provided by the recent agricultural appropriation. Mr. Were reports that conditions over the county are better than in several years. About 80 per cent of the spring plowing has been done and 75 per cent of the planting. Otero county's cultivated acreage amounts to nearly 10,000 acres. About seventy-five acres of cauliflower is being planted in the Cloudcroft Mountain Park section.

Lieut. Gov. Jose A. Baca of New Mexico died at his home in Las Vegas last week. He was 48 years old and is survived by his widow, one son and five daughters. The two oldest children, Jose and Emily, were attending the University of Missouri at Columbia. They were notified of their father's illness and started home, but did not arrive in time to see him alive. Mr. Baca was elected to the lieutenant governorship in November, 1922, and took the oath of office the following January.

Felt Better At Once

Volga City, Iowa.—"I will tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was all run down and could hardly be on my feet. I was so cold I could not keep warm. I had numb feelings and then heat flashes would pass over my body. I had severe pains in my sides and was very nervous. I saw your advertisement in the newspapers so I thought I would try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of the Vegetable Compound and I began to feel better as soon as I started taking it. I have taken it off and on for three years now. I keep house and do all my work for my husband and two little boys and make my garden. I feel fine and I tell others what the medicine has done for me. I think it is the best medicine in the world for women."—Mrs. THOMAS GRENDER, Volga City, Iowa.

Can Do Any Kind of Work

Fouke, Arkansas.—"I had the 'Flu' and after that I had a pain in my side and was not able to do my work I was so weak. I found an advertisement in a paper and it told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would do, and I took it. Now I can do any kind of work I want to. I think every family ought to keep it in the house all the time and I intend to do so."—Mrs. DORA PHILYAW, R.R. No. 2, Fouke, Arkansas.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

This shows that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For sale by druggists everywhere.
