Pan American Tree of Peace Should Grow Fast

The ambassador from Chile, Don Beltran Mathieu, is here seen placing nitrate from Chile at the roots of a tree just planted at the Pan American building in Washington in commemoration of the meeting there of the 40 members of the Pan American highways commission who have arrived from South America for a tour of the United States to study our roads. The tree is thus assured of rapid growth.

Cause of Cancer and a Cure

Serum Is Successful as Germ Is Isolated.

Philadelphia.—The cause of cancer has been discovered, also a treatment for it, which, although still in the experimental stage, is producing remarkable results, according to the Philadelphia North American.

That this most dreaded disease is due to a microorganism has been scientifically established. The germ has been isolated and its parts as the causative factor proved by the conclusive laboratory test known as the Koch cycle.

The discoverer is Dr. T. J. Glover, a native of Toronto, Can., thirty-six years old, and a graduate of the medical school of the University of Toronto, class of 1911. For four years he has carried on his research work in New York. The antitoxic serum he has developed apparently is effective only in the treatment of carcinoma, the commonest and most destructive form of cancer.

Tests Are Successful.

Dr. Glover first succeeded in inoculating animals with the germ he had isolated in certified specimens of cancer from human beings, and with it reproduced the disease in monkeys and all lemmon animals. Then, through injection of the serum, he arrested or modified its course and later immunized scores of such animals against infection.

Within the last two years this serum has been tested on more than 200 cases of cancer confirmed by pathological, X-ray, and clinical histories, and in every stage of development from incipiency to hopelessness.

Nearly 100 of these had been treated in the National Stomach hospital in Philadelphia, where the most complete tests have been made and the largest number of patients observed.

In a majority of these cases there have been favorable results, and in some instances the subjects have been discharged as symptom free, a condition the laymen would call cured.

Thus it appears from the laboratory results secured by Dr. Glover, and from the records of these cases, that this terrible malady, as old as human history and of late years increasing at such a rate as to alarm both the medical profession and the public, has at last been brought to the point of control, joining the ranks of syphilis, smallpox, typhoid fever and diphtheria.

100,000 Deaths a Year in U. S.

In view of the fact that the cancer death toll in this country alone now is figured at 100,000 a year, and that the disease is increasing at the rate of 2½ per cent annually, the meaning of this discovery is obvious.

The discovery of the cancer germ leads logically to the hope that a method soon may be found for determining the presence of the microorganism in the blood, thus making possible the detection of the disease in incipiency and its prevention.

Dr. Glover has made significant experiments along this line, with decidedly encouraging results. He has distributed a limited amount of the serum to hospitals in various parts of the country to be tested under pledge of secrecy and without charge pending the official announcement.

From these experimental clinics there have been received highly favorable reports of results which coincide with those obtained in Philadelphia over a period of 18 months.

The Journal of the American Medical Association in February, 1920, charged Dr. Glover with unprofessional conduct in trying to commercialize his discovery. Prior to that time the Toronto Academy of Medicine had made an adverse report on his work. Toronto medical men of high standing subsequently explained the situation, leading to these charges in such a way as to minimize their significance.

Paroled Criminal Jars Faith of Dickens' Son

London.—Sir Henry Dickens, who, as a London magistrate, has found in actual life that the faith of his famous novelist father in human nature is not always justified, has just commented on a case that was brought before him recently. Sir Henry some time ago remarked that he was determined to try a great experiment with a man who was arraigned before him.

Although the prisoner had a long criminal record, Sir Henry paroled him and found work for him. Three months later the man was again arrested.

"It was one of the greatest disappointments I have ever experienced," said Magistrate Dickens. "I will never try such a thing again."

White Cedar Held Precious in Japan

Fast Vanishing Supply Held for Temple Use.

Washington.—A representative of a western lumber concern, who has returned from a visit to Japan, has informed Manager Bialock of the Seattle office of the Department of Commerce that the supply of white cedar in that country is controlled by the imperial family and comes from one of their estates. There is also a white cedar which comes from the island of Formosa, but this is less desirable because it has a tendency to be pink in the center.

The Japanese white cedar of the highest grade is considered practically sacred. All of the wood 18 inches and up in diameter is reserved for the building of temples. The cheaper grades, however, are disposed of like other woods. Especially fine pieces are reserved for the temples of the emperors. Only white cedar grown in Japan is used for building temples.

In the opinion of this visitor, most of the white cedar shipped to Japan is used for exposed beams on the inside of dwelling houses, where this wood is prized for its appearance and long duration. One instance is cited in which a Japanese paid $1,100 in gold in this country for a choice beam 18 inches square, 20 feet long, with perfect diagonal grain.

Polish timber exports in 1923 increased to 1,186,047 tons, valued at approximately $9,000,000, from 1,023,688 tons, valued at $4,000,000, in 1922, Assistant Trade Commissioner Baldwin, Warsaw, reports to the Department of Commerce. Virtually the entire increase, which is said to have led to excessive exploitation of Polish timber resources, occurred in the first half of the year. Following the imposition in June of export taxes intended to check excess cutting and equally to stimulate the domestic wood-sawing and manufacturing industry by limiting the export of raw materials, shipments in the second half of the year fell to mere fractions of their former volume.

Change to Be Made in Twelve Shipboard Craft

Washington.—Immediate conversion of an initial group of 12 shipping board cargo vessels to Diesel-propelled types is planned by the board, whose experts have been studying for several months a program which eventually will involve an expenditure of $25,000,000, the amount authorized by congress for this purpose. President Coolidge has signed the bill providing the means, and the established board was represented as prepared to adopt the plans drawn up by its construction engineers.

Daughter of Rasputin Makes a Visit to Paris

Maria Gregorievna, claiming to be the daughter of Rasputin, the famous evil genius of the late czarina of Russia, arrived in Paris recently after many tribulations and adventures. She claims to be one of the five legitimate children of the notorious monk. She claims to have lived with her father in Petrograd, and each week he took her to see the czarina. She also tells of the terrible ordeals after Rasputin's death, when she was imprisoned with her brothers and sisters, and eventually sent to Siberia, from where she made her escape. She hopes to obtain some engagement on the stage, as she is a very talented girl and a good dancer. She is shown wearing the same costume which she wore while she lived with her father, and with which she arrived in Paris.

Still Keeps Time

Montevideo, Minn.—Mrs. Thomas King of this city, a sister of the late Rev. Thomas J. Gibbons, who before his death ten years ago was Vicar General of the Catholic diocese of St. Paul, is the owner of the oldest and most noted clock in this section. The clock was found 200 years ago in the scrap heap back of a monastery in the Swiss alps by a Belgian priest. The priest rebuilt the clock and it passed through many hands until it finally came into possession of Father Gibbons. It still keeps accurate time.

During the first quarter of 1924 there was one real estate agent's license issued for ever 100 of population in California. This information is derived from a survey made by the California Real Estate Association.

Six persons, including Dr. F. W. McNair, president of the Michigan College of Mines, lost their lives, and sixteen others were injured when a solid mail train of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad crashed into the rear end of eastbound passenger train No. 2, from Denver, at Ottawa, Ill.

H. L. Partridge, Globe attorney, was appointed special master by United States District Judge Fred C. Jacobs to take testimony in the controversy between state officials and cotton growers at Postvale, Ariz., as an outgrowth of Arizona's mandate for destruction of cotton declared to be infected with boll weevil. The findings of the special master will be returnable to Federal Court Aug. 2.

Cooks and waiters at Fort Whipple hospital, near Prescott, Ariz., discharged by Col. G. A. Allo, post commandant, when they went on strike in protest of a demand of patients for removal of Miss Ruth Dodge, chief hospital dietician, are looking for new jobs. The dietician's discharge was asked following an epidemic of illness a week ago when 500 patients and employees were sick after eating tainted ice cream.

With the arrest of three alleged confidence men in Salt Lake City it is believed that a bunko ring somewhat similar to that uncovered in Denver two years ago, has been broken, according to local officials who were instrumental in investigations that led to the arrest of the three. The men are Ed McCoy, Robert Hawes and Jim Dalson. A fourth, whose name was not made public, is being sought in connection with the alleged attempt to fleece Frank Stoves of Birmingham, Ala., out of $10,000.

WASHINGTON

Japanese and other Orientals are barred from the United States under the new immigration law which went into effect July 1. Despite the protests of Japan against the terms of the law, immigration officials of the Department of Labor expected the Japanese officials to co-operate with a view to strict enforcement of the new restrictive provisions.

Secretaries Wilbur and Weeks published a joint order affecting a reorganization of the aeronautical board and setting forth a "revised precept" for its operation. The action was designed to meet criticism that the board hitherto has failed to accomplish the purpose of serving as a pivotal point around which the two services could work in the mutual development of aircraft without competition.

Dates for formal notification of President Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice presidential candidate, of their nomination by the Cleveland convention were fixed for July 24 and 31, respectively.

President Coolidge signed certificates which will be given the various Indian tribes in recognition of the services of their members in the army and navy during the World war. Some of the certificates were presented to the tribes of the Standing Rock and Fort Berthold reservations at exercises at Mandan, N. D., July 4. W. Irving Glover, third assistant postmaster general, represented the President in the presentations.

More than 4,500,000 illiterates will be entitled to vote in November for President of the United States and members of Congress, the illiteracy commission of the National Education Association stated in a report submitted at the association's convention in Washington. Another report disclosed that a poll of 8,000 teachers throughout the country indicated the majority of them were in favor of lengthening the school day.

Criminal indictments were returned by a federal grand jury against Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior; Harry F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny, Sr., oil operators, and E. L. Doheny, Jr., as an outgrowth of the leasing of the naval oil reserves.

President Coolidge called upon the administrative heads of the government tonight to measure up to the "full test of our national character" by giving efficient administration so that further reduction in taxes for all of the people may be accomplished.

FOREIGN

All members of Premier Mussolini's cabinet, in order not to embarrass the premier in reconstructing the government as promised in his speech in the senate a few days ago placed their portfolios at his disposal.

Thirty miners were asphyxiated by an explosion in the colliery at Hartgloggnitz, Austria. Rescue work was impossible, owing to defective gas masks, and some of the rescue party lost their lives.

Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commanding the three United States army planes flying around the world, fractured a floating rib on his right side in a fall near the flying field at Calcutta. Despite the pain, he announced he would continue flying. The planes hopped off for Allahabad at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

For the seventh time since coming into office, the MacDonald Labor government was defeated in the House of Commons on a conservative motion to amend the finance bill on a minor point in the committee stage. The amendment, which was supported by the Liberals, in spite of Chancellor Snowden's opposition, was carried by 220 to 163.

The Richmond Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of California, after spending $1,500,000 searching for oil deposits on the Bondoc peninsula in the province of Tayabas, has announced its decision too discontinue drilling activities in the Philippine islands for the present. All the company's drilling equipment will be dismantled and stored in Manila until needed for further drilling.

Both houses of the Japanese diet, at the first sittings of the current session in Tokio and almost as their first business, passed resolutions strongly opposing the action of the United States in enacting, as part of its new immigration law, a clause prohibiting the entry of Japanese. The passages of the resolution in each instance followed the presentation of addresses by the premier, Viscount Taka-Akira Kato, and the foreign minister, Baron Hijuro Shidehara.

Transvaal, the rangy bay son of Tracery, won the grand Prix de Paris at 129 to 1, the longest odds with which a winner of this blue ribbon event at the French turf has ever rewarded its backers since the race was created. Never was a grand prix victory received amid such dead silence; the 150,000 spectators, a record crowd, appeared to be stunned. There were a few hysterical shouts here and there among the immense crowds, testifying that there were a few holders of lucky tickets.

GENERAL

Adolph B. Spreckels, nationally known sugar magnate and manufacturer, died at his home in San Francisco a few days ago.

A New York grand jury gave back his smile to Frank Tinney, the comedian, when they exonerated him of charges of third degree assault brought by Imogene Wilcox, Follies beauty.

A warrant charging an attempt to do great bodily harm was issued by the prosecuting attorney's office in St. Louis against Paul Farina, who was arrested on complaint of Howard "Ducky" Holmes, who asserted that Farina had struck him in the eye. The warrant was applied for by Attorney Patrick Cullen, retained by Ban Johnson of the American League.

Beaten to death and their bodies carefully covered by sheets and blankets, the bodies of Otto Eder, taxicab chauffeur; his wife, Prudence, and their three sons, Roy, 11 years old; Harvey, 6, and Jack, 3, were found in their home in Chicago. There was no disorder in the house and no attempt at robbery was apparent. Police said they thought the family had been killed by a half-witted person or one filled with a lust to slay.

American Jews have contributed $3,500,000 toward the rebuilding of the Jewish homeland in Palestine under the British mandate within the last three years, it was reported in Pittsburgh at the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Zionist organizations of America by Emanuel Neumann, national secretary of the Palestine foundation fund. Of this sum, the Palestine foundation fund has raised $2,000,000, the balance being obtained by sixteen other agencies, Mr. Neumann said.

The international committee of bankers of Mexico announced in New York that the Mexican government had failed to deposit sufficient funds to meet interest payments on the $500,000,000 debt for the first six months of 1924. No further disbursements on warrants of the various bond issues involved in the debt agreement therefore will be made until further notice. Unofficially bankers interested in Mexico's finances expressed the opinion that the suspension of payments, made necessary by the recent revolution, would be only temporary. The committee, they said, would not declare Mexico in default at this time.

Approximately seventy-five out of 200 leases for sale on Osage land were disposed of for a total of $2,000,000 at Pawhuska, Okla. The largest single bid on a 200-acre tract was made by the Phillips Petroleum Company, which obtained a Burbank field lease for $505,000. The highest bid, also by the same company, on east side tracts, was $22,000.

Richard F. Grant of Cleveland was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at a meeting of the directors, succeeding Julius H. Barnes of Duluth, Minn.

DAY AND NIGHT SERVICE STARTS

FIRST DAY AND NIGHT AIR MAIL RECEIVED ON OPPOSITE COASTS

POSTAL TEST SUCCESS

MAIL PILOTS REACH SAN FRANCISCO AND HAZLEHURST ON SCHEDULE TIME

San Francisco.—The first westbound air mail, which had left Mineola, N. Y., 34 hours and 40 minutes earlier, arrived at the air mail field here. The two planes, which arrived five seconds apart, were piloted from Reno, Nev., by Curt H. Winslow and W. Huhing.

The mail which had started west from New York at 11:05 eastern daylight saving time, had traversed the width of the continent in a total elapsed time ten seconds more than the schedule for the New York-San Francisco service.

Six sets of pilots had driven the planes which carried the westbound mail. Eight hundred and eighty-five miles had been traversed in the dark.

Hazlehurst Field, New York.—The first east-bound transcontinental mail service airplanes, piloted by Wesley L. Smith, arrived here six minutes behind schedule, with 12 pounds of mail weighing 231 pounds.

The plane left Cleveland 14 minutes behind schedule, due to the delay of a mail truck.

Although Pilot Smith encountered an unfavorable east wind of twenty miles an hour and a thunder shower over the coal region of Pennsylvania, he "picked up" eight minutes.

One of the pouches contained an assortment of fresh-cut Colorado flowers for Mrs. Calvin Coolidge from Mrs. James B. Power, wife of the postmaster of San Francisco.

The San Francisco mail reached here thirty-two hours and five minutes after being dispatched from Crissy field.

Omaha.—Formalities and novelty of the first flight over, and with mail to be moved along on a minute-saving schedule, fliers of the night air mail service have settled into the routine of carrying the transcontinental mail on time.

The whoops and shouts that greeted the first ship as they swooped out of the darkness onto the illuminated landing fields are missing. In contrast to the crowds which hailed each arrival, mechanics roused from sleep inspected incoming planes and toned up those scheduled to go out. Field attaches instead of high postal officials transferred the mail from one plane to another.

W. G. Hopson, who left Chicago several hours earlier, was the first flier to land at the Omaha field. Frank Yager hopped off a short time later for Cheyenne, Wyo., with one stop scheduled at North Platte.

Pilots reported the flares marking the course worked perfectly and weather conditions were reported favorable.

Broadway Limited Wrecked

Lancaster, Pa.—The "Broadway Limited," one of the Pennsylvania railroad's fastest passenger trains from New York to Chicago, was wrecked one mile east of this city, eight of the nine cars leaving the rails. Two women passengers and one member of the crew were slightly hurt.

Use of Super-Power Advocated

London.—The importance of super-power development as a factor in improving public welfare was endorsed at the world power conference by speakers of many nationalities, including American, British, Spanish and Italian. James P. Newman, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, declared that American labor had no quarrel with such developments and was ready to co-operate with finance and engineering skill to bring the power industry to its finest development.

Synthetic Law Branded Illegal

New York.—The synthetic law, a blend of state and federal statutes under which Prohibition Director Yellowley raided a cafe and arrested four patrons as material witnesses, was called "illegal and unheard of" by Federal Commissioner Doyle, when the prisoners were arraigned before him. The commissioner warned Director Yellowley that the agents who conducted the raids were subject to charges of false arrests. The four witnesses were dismissed.

Loraln Death Loss 84

Lorain, Ohio.—Efforts are being made to make an authentic inventory of the property damage sustained by this city in the tornado which demolished the main business section and much of the residential section. The loss has been estimated at $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. The death list was reduced one, to sixty-four, when it was definitely established that Harry Arndt was a duplication of Harry Artis, who was killed in the State Theater block.

New Mexico State Items

The Gallup State Bank is now going ahead with plans to improve its banking house in such a way that it will soon be one of the finest in this part of the state. The entire interior of the building will be remodeled.

Farmers in the vicinity of Deleit have imported 10,000 pounds of sweet potato plants and over 1,000 tomato plants to supply the local trade during the summer. The onion crop also bids fair to be one of the best ever grown in this district.

At a meeting of the town board of Alamogordo last week a permit was granted for the Alamogordo Golf Club to lay out a nine-hole course near the city. The club, which was recently organized, is now in a prosperous condition and the membership is increasing.

The board of county commissioners of San Miguel county has arranged for the refunding of county bonds amounting to $110,000. The county has also sold $9,000 worth of bonds for the erection of a new school house on the big Storrie project near the city.

One of the most successful singing conventions ever held in the state took place last week at Canyon, east of Clovis, over 6,000 people taking part in the program. About 1,000 people gathered for the big event and thousands came from eastern New Mexico and western Texas.

John Looney, New Mexico rancher and former political boss of Rock Island, Ill., added a new chapter to his stormy and interesting career when he stepped out of the federal jail at the state penitentiary under a $10,000 appeal bond. Once again Looney, who had been in many legal and political battles, and who is now making the supreme fight against the ravages of disease, breathed the free air.

One of the first charters for a state bank to be granted for some time, was received by W. W. Hayward and his associate for the State Bank of Alamogordo. It is believed that the bank will be a great success and will do much to increase the volume of business in the city. The incorporators for the State Bank of Alamogordo are W. W. Hayward, $20,000; Mrs. H. M. Hayward, $2,500; J. H. O'Horn, $500; all of the above parties recently of Las Cruces, N. M.; and F. C. Holland, $1,000; H. H. Stovenson, $1,000, Alamogordo, N. M.

The fact that the Las Vegas Cowboys' band made an impression on the people of the entire country, is shown by the letters received by Director Patterson upon his arrival home from the big Kiwanis convention in Denver. One of the important inquiries came from Cheyenne, Wyo., requesting that the band take part in the Frontier Day celebration to be held there this season. The big day in Cheyenne is to be held the latter part of July and it is possible that the band will make the trip at that time.

The New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell has again been placed on the honor roll by the War Department for the sixteenth time. The standing of the Roswell institution is given in the report as 97.40, making it one of the highest in the country. The institute was first placed on the list in 1909 and its name has been there ever since that year, either ranking at or near the top of the list. The enrollment of the school during the past school year was 340 and there is now every indication that the year 1924-25 will break all records and go over the 400 mark which was reached in 1918 and 1919.

Former Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall, now living quietly in his ranch home at Three Rivers, in a statement to the press stated that he welcomed his indictment as "affording an opportunity for the United States courts to pass upon so-called evidence and to construe the laws of Congress."

J. M. Hawkins of La Luz, representing the Public Relations Department of the El Paso & Southwestern Railway Company, is making a survey of commercial and industrial conditions in counties through which this railroad passes, and his report for Otero county is very optimistic. The railroad wishes to cooperate with the people in these counties, developing their natural resources to their highest point. The county has lost none of its population, the report says, and its lands, orchards and farms are producing as great quantity and variety as ever. Not a natural resource other than range grasses during the recent drouth has been even temporarily lost. Ranges are improving and the 40,000 cattle in the county are valued at $750,000.

Nogales, Douglas and Naco, the three ports of entry in Arizona, were added to the list of southern border ports which are to be closed at 9 p. m. each day instead of midnight. The same regulations will apply to these ports as have been applied to the California ports and that at El Paso, which have been closed at 9 p. m. daily in an effort to check illicit traffic and the movement of contraband. Indications were given at the treasury that several Texas ports will come under similar regulations at an early date.

Pure Honey

OUR CHOICE HONEY will be on the market in a few days. We cater to particular people. Here are some reasons why you should buy the Hedstrom-Allen honey:

1st—We use Queen Excluders. These separate the young bees from the honey. You get the pure honey with the true flavor.

2nd—We leave honey in the hives and let the bees ripen it. This gives it the best flavor and it will keep its true flavor always.

3rd—We make prompt deliveries and our prices are low for this high-grade honey.

Be sure to put in your order early if you want some of this delicious honey.

Lincoln County Picnics.

Enormous crowds were in attendance at the two Lincoln county picnics on July 4th this year. Everyone seemed imbued with the holiday spirit and nothing took place, of a disagreeable nature, to mar the festivities of the day.

Over at Nogal, Mr LeBaron and his associates were successful in their labors to exceed the past excellent reputation that community is noted for in the matter of picnics. The scheduled sporting events took place in proper manner, being only slightly curtailed by the shower of rain that visited the celebration during the afternoon. The bird that is responsible for the excellent cooking of the barbecue deserves much credit.

Over at Fort Stanton Mr. Wunsch and his bunch of young assistants did themselves proud in the character of entertainment and refreshments offered their guests. The sporting events were far above the average, the ball game being about the keenest, cleanest and most exciting exhibition of the national pastime ever witnessed in this part of the country.

The "Mountaineer" believes it voices the opinions of all that attended either or both of these two Independence Day celebrations when we say that they will go down in history as the best of their kind that were ever attempted in this county.

Random Thoughts Along the Way.

(By Clement Hightower)

Mrs. Governor Chacon's Christian name is most fitting, "Soledad" is solitude in English and the position she now occupies as the solitary female chief executive of a sovereign state in the American union, would seem to make the name very appropriate.

In view of the extreme harmony(?) that exists in the Democratic ranks at this time, Mrs. Chacon would seem to be that party's best bet for candidate for governor this fall. Her candidacy would give the "hard boiled" ones in both parties something to think about.

The democrats in the eastern part of the county are worrying considerable over the selection of candidates that can carry the west end vote and they have about decided to run George White for sheriff and Bob Stuart for assessor, both are old timers in the county and well known as staunch democrats.

The old boy suffered very little inconvenience from the frost, perhaps his tin'ards are copper bottomed.

Several parties in this locality celebrated the anniversary of our Declaration of Independence with automobile collisions—exercising their "personal rights," perhaps. Three collisions are reported to have occurred nearby.

Last Saturday a young man from Hondo, driving a Ford sedan, ran into the mail car, which was traveling just ahead of him. It appears that the mail car slowed down to allow a car from the opposite direction to pass at a narrow place in the road and the driver of the sedan was unable to check up in time to avoid the bump. The sedan was injured considerably and the occupants badly jolted. The mail car escaped with a broken rear axle.

THE NATION mourns with President and Mrs. Coolidge, in the death of their son, Calvin Jr.

"AND WHY beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?"

FOR THE first time since his "brow of labor crown of thorns" speech, William Jennings Bryan has failed to dominate a Democratic convention.

LINCOLN County had an opportunity to demonstrate to the world, its ability to pull off two separate and distinct Independence Day celebrations of the highest quality.

NUMEROUS rains over the county the past fortnight have sculptured a composite statue of Lincoln county citizens, in which the subject is depicted as wearing a most satisfied smile on its face, while bearing aloft in one hand, the "horn of plenty." To the left of the main statue is to be seen one of the opposite description: a figure with writhing form and facial distortion, representing the mental anguish of habitual knockers.

WHEN THE balloting at the Democratic convention reached the tenth heat it was practically certain that neither Governor Smith nor Mr. Meadoo had anything but the slimmest chance to get the nomination. The bitterness displayed by those two factions toward each other had the effect to forever dispel any possible hope of their reaching an agreement as to nominee or platform. Each controlled sufficient votes to prevent the other from getting the required two-thirds majority and that they exercised this veto power is attested by the fact that the exhausted delegates were compelled to cast their ballots more than an hundred times to complete the principal object of their assembly. A certain amount of the bitterness was felt this distance from the field of battle, which as effectively drew the lines between the followers of McAdoo and Smith as could have been the case had we been in the very shadow of the convention hall instead of hundreds of miles distant. Shake hands and forget.

Tourist Camp Ground.

With the season for auto tourists with us, Capitan is one of the towns in the Southwest that does not have a public camp ground for them, yet she has one of the best locations that could be had.

Right in town we have our little public square with a number of delightful shade trees and a well in the center. Across the road is another space that would make an ideal parking ground.

Why cannot our business men and other citizens get together and clean up this space and make a camp ground out of it? There is plenty of room in the shade to pitch small tents and do all necessary cooking, while the cars could be parked in the open.

It would not cost many dollars to put the pump and well into good shape. Arrangements could probably be made for enough soft water for drinking purposes. If each one would contribute his share the cost would be felt by no one and every property owner and business man would benefit.

Let's get together on this and and get something done. Let's have a little more of that community pull together spirit.—Contributed.

"You say that your friend speculated on a large scale," remarked the waggish one. "May I enquire what was the use of the large scale?"

"Certainly," returned the cheerful guy. "He needed it to weigh the consequences."—Boston Transcript.

JUVENILE ORATOR AT NOGAL PICNIC.

Master Henry Humphrey Delivers Address at Celebration.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It has been suggested to the Carrizozo entertainers that this Lincoln County Picnic is in a measure a festival dedicated to the folks who have lived in days that are gone by. Our manager has been asked to arrange his programme accordingly.

The request is quite proper. Today is a day dedicated almost entirely to events of the past and to the men and women who have joined the great majority but whose deeds live on.

I shall discuss only Home and Country and what they mean to us all.

An indestructable nation is one composed of people who are intensely loyal to their home; their community, to the State, and to the Nation. As long as this condition exists all goes well. It is a known fact that every living thing makes for itself a home; the cow on the range has a particular place where she can nearly always be found, the wolf has his lair, the squirrel if undisturbed will live for years in the same old hollow oak tree, while the rabbit will keep to the same swamp thicket all his life. Even the fish have certain places where they habitually gather. Most every thing will, if necessary, fight to defend its home and in defence of their country and their homes. Men and women have done deeds that live in history, song, and story.

Previous to the Great War it was the custom of generals before going into battle to address their troops, appealing to their patriotism and reminding them that they fought in the defense of their home and their country. This they found brought out the best that was in their men. It has been proven by the following incidents which I will narrate:

Leonidas and his 300 Spartans, their backs to the home land and their faces to the invading Persians, outnumbered beyond all hope of victory, fought until none were left alive. In the pass which they so ably defended, on a rock can this day be read the following inscription: "Stranger, go tell the Lacadaemonians that we lie here obedient to their commands." Europe saw Attila and his hordes of terrible Huns slowly spread over Europe until they reached Orleans, near the Marne River, in what is now France. The people of Orleans knew that the fall of their city meant the destruction of their home land and civilization for a time at least and desperately they defended their city until the Romans and the Visi Goths could send them aid and they hurled the Scourge of God out of Western Europe never to return. Later, Charles Martel of the same country, saw the Mohammedans capture the Spanish Peninsula, cross the Pyrenees, and advance on Tours, in Southern France. Calling on all who could bear arms in defense of their home land, he met the invading hosts, threw them over the Pyrenees and they never returned. Just as Sobieski, King of Poland, seeing the Turks about to take Vienna and knowing that with the fall of that city his own country stood in immediate danger of Turkish invasion, rushed southward with his army and fell on the Turks, with a fury that drove them back, defeated, to the Asiatic frontier and Europe was saved for the White Race.

In one of the numerous wars between England and France, Henry V, King of England, found himself on continental Europe, facing a French Army that outnumbered his ten to one. Riding to the head of his troops he addressed them, finishing a short plain speech with this statement, "I don't know how you feel about the situation, but as for me I will conquer here or I will die here. England and the Home land will never pay a ransome for me." Tllowing their caps into the air, the English long bowmen cheered their king, stood to battle and won. At Trafalgar the message Nelson flashed to his other ships before that terrific and decisive battle, was simply, "England expects every man to do his duty."

No greater heroes ever lived than those who wrested the independence of this country from Great Britain and it is to their memory we bow this day. "Have you anything to say?" the British asked Nathan Hale as they were about to hang him as a spy. "I'm sorry," he replied, "that I have but one life to give for my country." Sergeant Jasper was one of the heros of the wars with Great Britain. After a battle they missed him and when a searching party found him he was lying dead on the field of battle, the Stars and Stripes clasped to his breast. "Don't," said the brave commander, Lawrence, as his men carried him below decks in the midst of a fearful naval battle, his life ebbing out, "Don't give up the ship."

We who stand here today, the heirs of those who have passed on, occupy a position that is most favorable; we carry the same Flag that has never known defeat; we are loyal to our country, to the State, and to the community. The fact that you good people, the residents of one of the oldest towns in Lincoln County, have been willing to dedicate this event to the memory of the old timers, have asked us to sing the old time songs, indicates that you are loyal to the community, the past and to the present.

We are proud to have had you invite us to come up here to assist, we hope our efforts have pleased you. Just now financial conditions are not good and folks find it hard to smile, but smile we must, and always things are not quite so bad as they seem, and always the sun is shining somewhere and it always breaks through the clouds sometime.

Fort Stanton-"Spinner Games

The three game series of baseball between the Fort Stanton team and the El Paso "Spinners" on July 4, 5 and 6, made baseball history in this part of the world.

The two teams were evenly matched and fought the games earnestly and hotly. The visitors managed to take the major end of the scores, grabbing off two of the three games.

The games were replete with excellent stick work, brilliant mound performances, air tight infield defence and sensational fielding in the outer gardens.

The results were as follows:

First game:

Spinners 100 111 100	5	10	1
Stanton 000 120 100	4	9	6

Batteries: Sackett and Leggett; Mickey and Pitts.

Second Game:

Spinners 020 000 300	5	14	6
Stanton 101 310 10x	16	19	3

Titus, Mcdonald, Sackett and Morton and Leggett; Flores and Pitts.

Third Game:

Spinners 012 410 510	14	22	5
Stanton 004 210 012	10	15	1

Clay and Leggett; Flores and Merchant, and Pitts.

Looking Backward

Link Sheely, old time cowman, was in town trading this week.

O. P. Humphrey of Little Creek was a business visitor during the week.

T. C. Jacobs (father of our present postmistress) was here trading.

Scipio Salazar, a prominent sheepman and county official was here trading. (He now lives at Albuquerque and his years are many.)

A negro minister discovered two men playing cards on Sunday—and for money.

"Rastus," said the minister, "don' you know it's wrong to play cards on de Sabbath?"

"Yes, passon," answered Rastus, roefully. "But believe me, ah'd payin' fo mah sins."—The Hudsonian.

Railroad Merger Application Made.

El Paso, Texas, July 1, 1924.

Application on behalf of the Southern Pacific Company and El Paso & Southwestern Railroad Company was filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, by representatives of the two companies asking for an Order approving and authorizing the proposed unifying of the two properties through an exchange of securities. There was filed at the same time with the Commission an application on behalf of the Arizona Eastern Railroad for certificate of convenience and necessity covering proposed new construction between a point near Toltec (about 31 miles east of Maricopa) on the Southern Pacific via Phoenix to a point on the Southern Pacific just east of Yuma. It is the intention of applicants to do all they can to secure favorable action by the Commission as soon as possible.

The El Paso & Southwestern will receive from the Southern Pacific $20,000,000.00 par value of Southern Pacific stock and $20,400,000.00 face value of Southern Pacific 5 per cent. bonds. These securities cover not only the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad but the Nacozari Railroad and other valuable assets in the treasury of the El Paso & Southwestern.

Many Hotel Visitors.

Recent arrivals at the Buena Vista Hotel represent a widely distributed area of the United States and also many of the largest cities, such as New York, San Francisco, Denver, Houston, Kansas City, Dallas, Albuquerque, Austin, El Paso, and numerous others. States represented have been New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Missouri, Colorado, Arizona, California, and New York.

Guests have been tourists, traveling salesman, week end visitors, merchants from nearby towns, summer guests, educational inspectors, motion picture people, highway supervisors, wool buyers, etc. On the whole the nature of the patronage has been cosmopolitan rather than provincial.—Contributed.

Roswell Milk Ordinance.

Roswell city authorities and the County Health officers deserve congratulations on the comprehensive milk ordinance just enacted. It is the outcome of much hard work and careful study. A great deal of the credit for it is due Sgt. M. F. Leonard, who has served as sanitary inspector of the city for several years. With such local authority the Health Office should soon be able to bring up the quality of the local milk supply to a satisfactory standard.

A Colorado Case

Mrs. E. G. Holden, 322 4th Ave., near 3rd St., Greeley, Colo., says: "My back ached and for two weeks I could hardly help myself. If I moved a little a pain went through me and felt as though it were cutting me in pieces. I was nervous and had severe headaches, and my kidneys annoyed me badly. Favorite "Hold" Barred; Lawyer Lost Eloquence

A generation ago nearly every one had heard the story about the boy who lost his coat button and with it the championship of his spelling class.

County Judge Chester Bryan tells a story which has for its theme the same grip of habit. When he was a young lawyer, the judge relates, he knew a shrewd but eccentric old criminal lawyer, who invariably wore a linen duster when he addressed the jury. As his eloquence waxed warm he thrust his hands into the side pockets of the duster and flapped the garment up and down to punctuate his remarks.

Once when he was to make the closing argument for the prosecution in a hotly contested murder case, some friends of the defendant managed to get hold of the linen duster and sewed up both pockets.

The old attorney started his argument, felt for his pockets and found that he had none. He was so excited that he forgot everything he had intended to say. The defendant was acquitted.—Houston Post.

Mastering a Torrent

What is considered an important engineering triumph has been accomplished in the Swiss Alps in harnessing, with specially constructed turbines, a stream of water flowing at the rate of 540 feet a second, or more than six miles a minute, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. The column of water has the strength and rigidity of a steel bar, and such force that each of the four 8,000-horse power units in the plant is driven with a stream only one and three-eighths inches in diameter. To withstand the terrific pressure, special apparatus had to be built. The water is taken from the Lake of Fully and flows through three miles of steel pipe with a fall of approximately one mile to reach the turbines.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

AFTER THE DAY'S WORK

"TELL me," said the venerable sage, "where the young men and women are at nine o'clock in the evening, and what they are doing, and I'll inform you what role they will play later in the real drama of life."

A little reflection will convince even those who are indifferent to the tendency of the times, that the old wise man was right. It is not so much what is accomplished in the working hours, under the guidance of a captain, as what is done in the hours of freedom, that counts in shaping human destiny.

The plain tales of history and biography pile fact upon fact in confirmation of this living truth.

Turn to their chapters and read them closely.

As you proceed, you will find that the conspicuous men and women whose achievements are shining as beacon lights in today's unrest and darkness, were those who gave close attention to their spare time, using it to improve their minds, rather than for frolic and useless diversion.

They found their greatest pleasure in picturing a brilliant future, in which they resolved to play a leading part. With this purpose in mind, they sought the companionship of Wisdom whether among elders or with instructive books.

Thus they began in youth to steer their craft safely to a secure haven, where they knew that in the years to come they would be protected from the storming winds that beat against the water-logged craft of old age.

Such men and women were not enslaved by the hands of the clock.

Being free, they scorned the eight-hour day, and planned a day of their own, in which they often labored till midnight.

Whatever they found to do they did with all their might, quite regardless of the giddy world at large, keeping always before their mental vision the far-off goal.

Their chief concern was not the passage of time, but how they might conserve and use it to their utmost advantage.

And this forgetfulness of the clock is what the world needs today for a better devotion to duty and a higher development of brotherhood among the peoples everywhere, and especially for those who know that from the heart of man come the things that exalt or debase him.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHETHER a girl appears indignant, delighted, or merely bored, at an "unexpected" kiss, depends on how long she has been expecting it.

Every young husband is a little Christopher Columbus, so far as discovering a new way to conquer a woman is concerned.

The tragedy of most marriages is that they are just one long-continued state of "company—without companionship" or "loneliness for two."

A woman is never satisfied! The woman with "nothing but money" would gladly spend her last dollar to buy romance and a Prince Charming; and the woman with nothing but love in a cottage" wishes that she could mortgage the cottage to buy a motor car.

In love, some men are born wise, a few acquire wisdom, but most of them refuse even to permit wisdom to be thrust upon them.

Girls may have changed; but, waiting for a man to discover that he's in love, is still the same old maddening, nerve-wrecking process that it was before the petting party made us so frank and spontaneous.

Yesterday's quarrel, like yesterday's kiss, and yesterday's dinner is buried with a man's dead past; and nothing so aggravates him as to have a woman dig them up and try to perform an autopsy on them.

The saddest sight on earth is that of a bachelor sitting alone before the fire and musing over his collection of old-beer openers.

In spring flirtations, as in gambling, the "cheerful loser" is the only sure winner.

THE HAT'S DAY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A HAT is very well-behaved
"Most all the time. When friends have raved
About your hat, it looks so nice,
And even tried to learn the price,
A hat is never mean nor proud:
It bows its head, when yours is bowed,
And acts the very way that you,
When you are complimented, do.

But I have often noticed that
There's something strange about a hat:
For now and then it acts so queer
It's quite astonishing, my dear.
For now and then the winds arise,
And then right off your head it flies,
And you must run and chase it then
Before you catch your hat again.

A hat is well-behaved until
Its friend the Wind comes up the hill
And then it wants to romp and run
And fly away and have its fun.
A hat will be as nice and good
As anybody ever could
And then it ups and blows away—
For even hats must have their day.

SCHOOL DAYS

Mother's Cook Book

Mother's Cook Book

Hundreds of stars in the pretty sky,
Hundreds of shells on the shore together;
Hundreds of birds that go singing by!
Hundreds of bees in the sunny weather.

Hundreds of dewdrops to greet the dawn;
Hundreds of lambs in the purple clover,
Hundreds of butterflies on the lawn,
But only one mother the wide world over.

SEASONABLE FOODS

DURING the summer days cooling dishes, not too rich, are most appetizing.

Fruit Soup.

Pick over, wash, mash a quart of raspberries or strawberries. Add two cupfuls of sugar and let stand an hour. Press through a double thickness of cheesecloth. Add two cupfuls of cold water and bring quickly to the boiling point. Add a tablespoonful of gelatin softened in three tablespoonfuls of cold water. Add the juice of half a lemon, turn into a shallow bowl and serve cut into small cubes, in sherbet cups.

Jellied Tomato Bouillon.

Cook one quart of tomatoes for one-half hour in a covered dish, with one minced onion, three cloves, two teaspoonfuls of salt, a little pepper, a bit of bay leaf and a teaspoonful of sugar, with a little minced parsley. Strain through a double cheesecloth; add three tablespoonfuls of gelatin softened in one-half cupful of cold water. Stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Set aside to become firm. Break with a fork and serve with salted wafers.

Jellied Bouillon.

Soak one tablespoonful of gelatin in three tablespoonfuls of cold water for five minutes, then add two cupfuls of hot, well-seasoned bouillon; stir until well dissolved. Chill when thick and serve gently stirred with a fork to break into small pieces. Serve in bouillon cups.

Chicken Pudding.

Butter a baking dish or casserole, put in two cupfuls of leftover chicken and pour over the following: Two eggs beaten and added to two cupfuls of milk, one can of corn, one teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper. Put into a pan of hot water and bake in a hot oven until firm in the center.

Lemon Jelly With Vegetables.

Soften a package of lemon jelly, adding a pint of boiling water. When cool add a cupful of finely-minced celery, a small minced onion, a cucumber finely diced and a handful of shredded almonds. Stir into the mixture and allow it to harden in small molds. Unmold on head lettuce and serve with a mayonnaise dressing highly seasoned. Garnish with cubes of tomato jelly or small sections of the fresh, sliced tomatoes.

MEN YOU MAY MARRY

By E. R. PEYSER

Has a man like this proposed to you?

Symptoms: Talks in bellowing monotone. Knives, pistols, ropes, knots, wrenches, camp prowess, shooting tales are the subjects of his talk. At a dance he'll come up and shout: "Did you ever hear the story of how we and we pitched his tent in the Adirondacks with the guy-ropes, etc., etc.?" He doesn't think anybody but himself can do any feat job but himself. He never saw active service yet. He talks forever of artillery and camps and transportation.

IN FACT

He is in transports over his own skill.

Prescription to Bride:

Break up housekeeping ceremoniously so he can mend it! Tell your friends in his hearing—"I never need a plumber or carpenter with Bill about the place," etc.

Absorb This.

ALFALFA EXCELLED CLOVER FOR STEERS

Alfalfa excelled clover hay as a roughage for fattening steers in a test conducted at the Wisconsin experiment station during the past winter. With 1,050-pound steers alfalfa proved superior to clover in rate of gain produced, feed requirements for gains and selling price when finished.

The steers were fed for 112 days and had an average daily ration of about twenty-seven pounds of silage, ten pounds of ear corn and six pounds of hay. The steers on the clover hay ration were allowed an average of 1.3 pounds of cottonseed meal daily, while the alfalfa-fed steers got but .80 of a pound of cottonseed per head daily. This difference was made to allow for the higher protein content of the alfalfa.

The steers on the alfalfa ration made gains of 2.20 pounds daily, while the clover ration produced gains of 1.88 pounds. On each hundred pounds of gain, alfalfa had a saving over clover of approximately 65 pounds of corn (on the shelled corn basis), 54 pounds of hay and 241 pounds of silage. The alfalfa-fed steers brought 10 cents more per hundred than the other lot when sold. The alfalfa lot made about $3 more profit per head than those fed clover, with corn at 60 cents per bushel, clover at $12 per ton and alfalfa at $19.40 per ton. The profit of the clover steers was doubtless cut down somewhat by the larger amount of expensive cottonseed charged against them.

Aside from the clover-alfalfa comparison, the experiment was interesting in showing that large steers can make gains of better than two pounds a day on ear corn, silage, hay and a limited amount of protein supplement.

Take Care of Sows Bred for Farrowing in Fall

Sows bred for fall litters are now on good pasture. A light grain ration is fed wherever the sows are not in reasonably good flesh. If they are on rape, clover or alfalfa, the grain may be of any sort. However, a quarter pound of tankage or oilmeal daily during the last month of gestation is a good investment.

It is most satisfactory to let the sows farrow at pasture, having sufficient movable houses or colts to furnish shelter for each. Both sows and litters do better than if confined to a small pen in a hog barn.

After farrowing the sow should be fed as before, increasing the ration later as may be necessary. Good pasture should be provided until snow comes—rape, alfalfa or fall rye. The greater thrift and vigor of the pigs will alone pay for the pasture. The grain it saves is clear gain.—H. C. Ashby, University Farm, St. Paul.

Blue Grass Pasture Is Valuable in Fattening

Results of experiments at the South Dakota experiment station show that when pigs received all the tankage and shelled corn they wanted from the self-feeder for a period of 100 days, both in the dry lot and on blue grass pasture, there was a difference of .17 of a pound daily in the gain in favor of the blue grass pasture lot. Two other lots were fed under the same conditions but received barley as the grain ration and made a return of .17 of a pound more daily in favor of the grass pasture lot. These results indicate that blue grass pasture is very valuable in fattening pigs for market even if tankage and grain are supplied in abundance and the pig is allowed to help himself. A bulletin giving results in detail has been prepared which may be had by addressing James W. Wilson, Director Experiment Station, Brookings.

Necessary Precautions to Safeguard Young Pigs

If the farrowing pen or house is thoroughly cleaned with scalding hot lye water, then disinfected, and the sow, especially her udder, is washed with strong soap suds before being placed in the farrowing house, the little pigs will start life without picking up worm eggs that cause so much loss each year. If these precautions have not been followed it will be necessary to worm the pigs later. This is worth while, but much more expensive and less satisfactory than preventing worms.

A satisfactory worm remedy consists of five grains of calomel and eight grains of santonin per 100 pounds of live weight. Keep pigs off feed for 10 to 12 hours and mix these drugs carefully and thoroughly in a thick slop. Use every possible precaution to insure each pig getting an equal share.

Feeding Rye to Pigs

The evil effects which some people have experienced from feeding rye to pigs is not due to the grain itself, but to a parasitic fungus known as ergot, which is commonly found growing in the heads of rye. Rye that is badly infested with this poisonous product would be dangerous to feed in large quantities, otherwise rye is an excellent food for hogs. It will give best results, however, if mixed with other grains, such as corn, barley or oats, and ground fine.

Health Is Great Factor

The health of hogs from farrowing to selling time is by far the greatest factor in determining whether the enterprise is to make a profit or a loss. From this standpoint the loss is usually figured on the basis of those that actually die from accident and disease. The fact of the matter is that, excepting those cases where a considerable proportion of the herd is wiped out by a pestilence, such as hog cholera, the greater loss cannot be so estimated.

Women Make Better Listeners Than Men

About the worst lecture audience one can find is an audience made up of the inhabitants of the average medium-sized industrial city. The mark of the machine is on such people. Their spontaneity is withered, their originality killed.

Their faces are burdened with the heavy dullness engendered by the monotony of the occupations to which they are tied. Subtleties of argument are wasted on them and they are impervious to all humor except the slapstick kind.

An agricultural audience is superior to an industrial one in intelligence, in sympathy, in tolerance, in every quality which a lecturer values in an audience. And most of the 6,000 or 8,000 towns which every year are visited by lecturers are agricultural towns.

There is, however, one audience better than an assemblage of farmers and their wives, and that is the audience provided by the average social or literary club. When it is a woman's club this is, indeed, the best audience in America. It is distinctly superior, for instance, to the average men's club for its capacity of sustained interest in a serious subject.

Turks Must Kill Crows

To relieve the city of Constantinople and its suburbs of a destructive plague of crows the authorities are issuing free powder and shot, and every male citizen is required to present at least one dead crow to the nearest police station or pay a fine of 100 piastres.

Always present in large numbers this year these crows, or more precisely rooks, have become a pest and have done much damage. They have ravaged the truck gardens around the city and on the Prinkipos Islands, those beautiful resorts in the Sea of Marmora, they have caused a water famine. The water supply of the islands is solely from cisterns, and the birds have so fouled the roofs as to make the water unpotable.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best—Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take for example, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

How to Prevent Rust

Rusting of tools and precision instruments may be prevented by protecting them in the following solution: A teaspoonful of kerosene in a glass of benzine to which a piece of paraffin, less than half the size of a pea, is added. When the solution has entered all crevices, remove it and place the instrument in one side so that the benzine may evaporate.—Popular Science Monthly.

Rarest Sea Shell

One of the rarest sea shells in the world is called the "Glory of the Sea." In shape and appearance it suggests an unfolding rosebud. Only 13 to 14 are represented in collections today. Three specimens of this beautiful mollusk were found in 1836 by a British scientist on a Philippine coral reef. A few weeks later the reef was destroyed by an earthquake.

Mrs. Shaw Calls Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a God-Send to Sick Women

Cambridge, Maine.—"I suffered terribly with pains and nervousness in my sides. Each month I had to go to bed, and the doctor told me I simply had to go under an operation before I could get help. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and I told my husband one day to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I took the third dose I felt better. I took it four times a day for two years, getting better all the time, and now for four years I don't have any pains. After taking the medicine for two years I had another child—a lovely baby girl now four years old—the life of our home. I do praise this medicine. It is a God-send to women who suffer with female troubles and especially for pains at the periods. I surely was very bad once, and I know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation."—Mrs. JOSIE M. SHAW, Route No. 1, Cambridge, Maine.

Radio in the Jungle

The railways of Burma, India, are reported to have adopted a method of radio communication to replace the ordinary telegraph in regions where the thick growth of the jungle and the many rivers make cable work difficult.
