A Representative of the Rock Island Visits This Section and is Surprised Pine Orchards—He Visits a Company Reservation to Him.

Thad Van Horn of the traffic department of the El Paso-Rock Island route was in Capitan Wednesday of this week sizing things up and trying to encourage people who has anything to ship to let their road haul it to market for them.

This desire on the part of the railroad to assist the people in finding a market for their produce will greatly stimulate the industries of the country and may justly be regarded as the forerunner of a great activity in all the pursuits of the country. The fact that there has been no market for their produce has deterred the growth and development of the agricultural and horticultural industries of the country and the people have confined their crops to such things as they could use at home and have limited their production to what they could dispose of in the country.

This year for the first time in the history of the country the crop of apples and other fruits have exceeded the demand of the home market and as a consequence the people are beginning to look around for an outlet into other markets and the disposition of the railroads to meet the people half way will have the effect of putting new life into every industry in the county.

The action of the Rock-Island in getting out and offering to lend whatever assistance is in their power to the development of the resources of the country shows what may be expected of this road when the connection is made at Santa Rosa and this country brought several hundred miles nearer Kansas City and other eastern markets. Then through the low rates which that road proposes to put into effect, the people of this country can find a market for every pound of produce they can raise. While Mr. Van Horn came up at the solicitation of Mr. J. N. Coe, who has several car loads of apples which he wishes to market, he was wholly unprepared for what he saw and said his visit to the orchards of the surrounding country were a complete revelation to him. He also stated that his road would not only haul Mr. Coe's apple crop to market for him but would assist him in finding buyers.

He seemed very much gratified to see so many young orchards throughout the country and expressed the opinion that Lincoln county in a few years would ship a car load of fruit every day during the season.

Will Connect January First.

C. B. Eddy, president and general manager of the El Paso & Northeastern, who returned yesterday from a trip to New York. In speaking of the progress being made on the extension says:

"We have about fifty miles of the extension yet to construct, but we hope to meet the Rock Island construction at Santa Rosa about the first of January, possibly sooner. They are across the Canadian river. That is about eight miles from Santa Rosa, but I suppose they have considerable track laid this side of the river by this time."

THANKSGIVING.

The President Issues His Proclamation.

Washington, Nov. 2.—President Roosevelt today issued a proclamation fixing Thursday, November 28, as a day for national thanksgiving. It is as follows:

"The season is nigh when, according to a time-hallowed custom of our people, the president appoints a day as a special occasion for praise and thanks giving to God.

"This Thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good president. We mourn for President McKinley because we so loved and honored him; and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people deep anxiety for the country, and at the same time a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of strong, orderly, popular liberty, which as a nation we have thus far safely trod.

"Yet in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year in particular has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in things material and been able to work for our own uplifting in things intelligent and spiritual. Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us, and that true homage comes from the heart, as well as from the lips, and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which on this earth and at this time each of us does his duty to his fellow men.

"Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their wonted occupations and at their several homes and places of worship thank the giver of all good for the countless blessings of our national life."

DISTRICT COURT*IN SESSION

The Wheels of Justice Begin to Turn at Lincoln Last Monday.

Judge McMillian With His Usual Dispatch Sets the Machinery of Justice in Motion—A Long Docket to be Disposed of.

The November term of court for Lincoln county convened at Lincoln Monday of this week with an exceedingly long docket before it. Judge McMillian and the other members of the court did not arrive from Roswell until about 10 o'clock Monday morning owing to the very bad condition of the roads. The heavy rains that had fallen a few days previous had made the roads almost impassable and the trip from Roswell was a slow and tedious one. But immediately upon his arrival Judge McMillian made his way to the court house and the wheels of justice began to turn slowly at first owing to the usual delays in impanelling the juries etc., but as soon as this routine work was disposed of every thing moved with clock-work precision. Clerk Griffith who had been absent from his place in Eddy and Chaves counties owing to being detained at Socorro by his duties, arrived to join the court here and attend to the records in person. By noon the grand jury had been impaneled and the petit jury for the week formed.

"Yet in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year in particular has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in things material and been able to work for our own uplifting in things intelligent and spiritual. Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us, and that true homage comes from the heart, as well as from the lips, and shows itself in deeds. Engines Go Dead.

The strike of the boilermakers in the shops of the El Paso & Northeastern at Alamogordo continues to cause the company a great deal of trouble in the operation of trains. Since the strike began the trains have been running very irregular and in one or two instances the engines died before reaching Capitan and the mail and passengers had to be brought in on a wagon. The bad quality of the water used for engine purposes makes it necessary that the engines be worked on after each trip. Shortage of workmen in the boiler department makes this impossible and the result is that after the first or second trip the engines leak so badly that it is impossible to keep steam up in them.

Dinkelstiel's Book Review.

By GEORGE V. HOBART.

From The Rocky Mountain News.

"The Higher Life"—a novel in four flights, by M. Santos-Dumont. Illustrated in wood-cuts and stone-brushes. Published by Cloud & Co.

SN DIS work I find dot M. Santos-Dumont has followed in der footsteps of many popular authoresses py using gas as a foundation for her book.

Der färist ding vich strikes us about M. Santos-Dumont is der wild desire vich always burned mit him to rise in der world.

"Ven bud a leedle boy I would wish dearly," he says in de appendix end of his book, "to get to der top of der ladder und haf somevun to remoof der ladder. If I stayed up I knew I was successful. If I come down I dittent know anything for a week or two."

Der chenerae reader will notice a peculiarness about dis chentlemen's name. It starts off mit "M," and der thar is eight bars rest until id come to Santos. Dis is a french custom. Every man in France begins his färist name mit "M," und den refusals to tell der rest of id. To me id seems couch a stony habit.

In der obeng chabter of "Der Higher Life" we learn of der early struggles und trials vich M. Santos-Dumont accumulationed.

I v-lud vish to quote a cubble of chabters, please:

CHAPTER FAIRST.

"My fäirst desire to god off der earth habbenen ven I was extremely young."

"Van day vil ouid in der Brazilian diamond fields; picking der fäicious vite stones from der trees, id suttently occurred to me vot a trifoliate life I was leading."

"Diamonds, diamonds everyvare und nod a place to pawn."

"I become restless."

"My father owned der diamond plantation, so I vent to him und eggsplainedation vat a tired feeling I had, und how I longed to rise in der vorla."

"Father ad vunce turned abould fifteen volts into his right foot und I rose for a distance of four feet."

"I returned almost immediately, und dia short flying trip made deep impression upon my mind und uvderseise."

"Ten years later I lefd home just to cownince my father dot I could rise in der vorla mitout bin kindly collaporation."

CHAPTER TWICE.

"Van day vite in New York 1 cent lib to der thirty-eighth floot of o skyscraper building."

"Der elevator was extremely nerfous dot day."

"Vile coming down I was pained und subried to obserf dot my stomach dit not travel mit me."

"Id was alwavs abould a floor behind me."

"Efery dime der elevator stobbed some udder part of my interior would chump mit fricht und rush away frant me."

"I shake to der charged'affaires of der elevator abould id."

"I complained biddlerly to him abould such a inhospitable invention vich rushed through spaco mit a man's eggsterior und left his interioes to bump its-way downstairs."

"Der charge d'affairs of der elevator tolle me if I dit nod like it to get ouid und fly."

"Dot was der inspiration vich drove me to build der flying machine."

In "Der Higher Life" M. Santos-Dumont has put mud vich vich will make der book famous.

In chaber ninety-eafen he says: "Der man dot rises mit dat lark und stays date has a chach."

"A balloon in der air is worts two in der bushes."

"Vot goes ub must come down unless you build dem right."

Altogether I counted abould two pounds uf vision in der book but mosd of id is in French, vich makes id unspeakable.

"Der Higher Life" will shordly be dramatized, but id will nod be seen in New York for many years because dare is nod room for subay blasting eggplosions und a flying machine in der same atmosphere.

I think id would be a splenit idea for der cheneral public if ebery man vould visit till he invents a successful flying machine before he writes a book.

INDUSTRIES OF LINCOLN COUNTY.

Providence has done more and man has done less for Lincoln county than for any section of the southwest. We can say it without fear of successful contradiction, that Lincoln county is richer in natural resources, than any other section in the territory.

Lincoln county includes the largest and richest mineral belt in the territory, which has not yet been prospected, let alone being developed. The deepest mine in the county is the Old Abe at White Oaks and next to it outside of White Oaks is the American mine at Nogal. The American is only 170 feet in depth and has yielded over a half million dollars in gold. The Old Abe has produced nearly a million dollars in gold returns. There are hundreds of prospects in the county that are more promising on the surface than either of the above mentioned properties, that are lying idle for a lack of capital to develop them and place them among the list of rich producing properties.

The mines and prospects of Lincoln county include gold, silver, lead, copper, cobalt, nickel, wolframite, etc., and vast deposits of both bituminous and anthracite coal, adjacent to these vast beds of coal is the largest and best deposit of iron ore to be found in the United States today.

The high character of this iron and its close proximity to an inexhaustible supply of fuel, makes possible the establishment of iron and steel works at Capitan at no distant day. There are other valuable and rare minerals and precious stones not mentioned above to be found in Lincoln county, but up to date no prospectors have bothered to prospect for these.

The county will soon take the lead as one of the heavy producers of as first class quality of lumber. The timber is here in abundance. Just as soon as the demand is made upon us for building material large sawmills will be erected and lumber manufactured and shipped from Capitan. At present small sawmills in the White and Capitan mountains supply the local demand.

The country is covered with a most luxuriant growth of grass that serves to fatten thousands of heads of cattle yearly. No country in the southwest is as this as a stock growing section.

Water "the God of all harvest" which is a most important factor, is here in abundance, and is distributed throughout the country in the form of springs and running streams. The streams which flow down from the White mountains are the purest water found in New Mexico. It is pure and healthful draught of life saving liquid, fresh from the brew of nature.

The climate is the most perfect to be found anywhere or, at least that is what competent government experts say. The United States Government recognizing this fact has located the National Marine Hospital for consumptives at Fort Stanton, five miles from Capitan. In the mountainous parts which include two thirds of the country, springs reigns perpetually. The thermometer rarely ever registers as low as zero in winter or reaches the eighty degree mark in summer. The rainfall averages from ten inches per annum, on the plains to one hundred and twenty inches high up in the mountains. The average rainfall at Capitan is about sixty inches per annum.

In most parts of the country the average rainfall is ample for the growing of crops.

All of Lincoln county is a veritable health and pleasure resort. One can find almost any climate or scenery desired within a few miles of Capitan. Large banks of snow are to be found in the months of July and August. In sight of Capitan, some of which never melt the year around, where here we have a semi-tropical climate in cold water.

Hundreds of pleasure and health seekers visit the White and Capitan mountains every year. They come to regain strength, etc., and it has only been within the prevails among the Boers. We do not know the condition in the Transvaal

today; we do not know that the Boers have suffered defeat. Much movement of the British is heralded as a victory,

while every movement of the Boers is reckoned as a rout or retreat. I do not know the actual question.

"Conceding, which I do not, that the Boer forces are or will be crushed, the loss of a republic will be irretrievable.

Though it may be a hundred years before another opportunity is given to strike for independence, it will be done.

I shall not talk of terms of peace. The English can never conquer us so long as a man or an ox remains alive in the country."

Mr. Weisse said that the party had fixed upon June 30 as the time for leaving the United States, but were not sure of that, as events might prolong their stay. Concerning the suggestion that the Boers make new homes for themselves in America, Mr. Weisse says:

"While we believe that the Boers will obtain freedom, at least partial freed-dom, within a year or two, if not at once,

we are very uncertain as to the future

If any definite offer is made to us as the official representatives of the people in South Africa, we shall be glad to let it be known our people and give them an opportunity to decide. We are the country and the people. When the Boers go to America their total world loses its representative power.

"But I do not think that all Boers would come, and I doubt whether a majority of the Boers in the Orange

River State and in the Transvaal would be ready to leave their planted homes and go to America. I do not think that the Boers are the British dog will not follow them."

You always eat when they eat and you know they have been hanging around the country by themselves and you know there are no signs of the Boers in the country.

After spending the day exploring the great underground passage, lined in a wagon drawn by four spirited horses, they left town about 9 o'clock and the fact that they did not return until the light of the day began to show in the east bespeaks the charms the place had for them.

The following is a list of those who went to make up the party:

Misses Edna and Jessie Campbell,

Bell Stevenson, Cinnie Meers and

Mrs. Koup and Messrs. O'Connel,

Mason, Schmidt, Kerr and

Clements.

Now having passed over Misses

C. Rovell. She is a sister of Fleming

H. Rovell, the Chicago publisher. It was in 1892 that she first met Mr.

Moody, who was then just at the beginnings of his career as an evangelist.

During their first few years of married life their financial outlook was gloomy indeed. Mr. Moody had not then made a reputation as an evangelist,

and although he was enthusiastic over his work, there were times when it seemed that he must abandon preaching in order to provide for his family.

During these trials, as in the brighter years which followed, Mrs. Moody was always a faithful helpmate.

Mrs. Moody is the mother of three children, two of whom have died recently. She still makes her home in Northfield, Mass. During the latter part of her husband's career she was compelled to give up the life of travel and devote herself to her home and her children. Her plans for the future have not been announced, but it is probable that she will attempt to carry on much of the work at Northfield which Mr. Moody had set on foot.

A Woodward Avente was stopped at Dot

Add street to let a lady wearing a spring hat alight. At the same moment a lady wearing her winter hat wanted to take the same car. They met face to face on the sidewalk. They were strangers. The one with the spring hat had the right of way

and she turned her head in a decent manner.

Winter hat felt that the odds were against her, but she turned up and looked the other square in the eye and refused to give way.

"All over!" shouted the audience as rushing the audience to the billets, but the odds were in favor of the odds, and Winter hat would not budge, and winter hat would not move.

"All aboard!"

But spring hat glared at winter hat, and the end of her
