

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR LINCOLN COUNTY.

Party of Chicago Capitalists Spend a Week Looking Over the Country.

Surprised and Delighted With the Splendid Opportunities Afforded Here for the Profitable Investment of Capital.

Mr. J. M. Rice, manager of the Eagle Mining & Improvement company of Parsons was in Capitan last Saturday accompanied by David I. Gelder, a wealthy Chicago jeweler and heavy holder of stock in the above mentioned company. Both of these gentlemen took the evening train for Chicago. While in town both Mr. Rice and Mr. Gelder were very welcome visitors to the Progress office. In conversing with Mr. Gelder it was learned that he was one of a party of six Chicagoans who had become interested in the Eagle Mining company and had come out here to look over the country. The party consisted of Mr. Gelder, R. C. Sturgeon, Peter De Tamble, Mr. Risitter, Mr. Olson and were shown through the country by John M. Rice and Captain Krouse. They spent about a week here dividing their time between the Nogal and Parsons mining district where the properties in which they are interested are situated. In speaking of his visit Mr. Gelder said in part:

"My visit out here has been a wonderful revelation to me and has afforded me one of the pleasantest trips of my life. While I only came on business the trip nevertheless has been one continuous round of pleasure. There is also another thing which has done much to make our trip one long to be remembered. I refer to your climate and delightfully cool mountain air. I never felt so well in my life as I have in the short time I have been here, which is saying a good deal as I have always enjoyed excellent health. One ought to live forever in the balmy sunshine and pure ozone of this section. "But what has surprised me most is the virgin wealth of this country. Mineral of all kinds to the Progress only $1.50 per year.

all appearance is here in almost unlimited quantities, while timber enough to supply every need of industry for years to come is here to facilitate the rapid growth of the country which is bound to be the outcome of the undeveloped resources of this section. The opportunities for the profitable investment of capital are greater here than in any other country I have ever seen. The man who invests his money in Lincoln county enterprises, in my opinion, makes no mistake as he is sure to reap dollars where he only invested cents. I have been pretty well over the Parsons and Nogal mining districts in which the properties in which I am interested are situated and I can tell you it would be hard to imagine a more promising country. I bought stock in the Eagle Mining company simply upon the representation of others but now since I have seen the properties myself I am more than ever pleased with my purchases.

"The only thing which is at present lacking in this country is capital and that is coming. There seems to be everything here to make a prosperous country except the man with the money, but as he is as anxious to find such a country as such a country is to find him the two will not be long in meeting one another. In my opinion another five years will witness a marvelous change in Lincoln county. The natural resources of the country are too great and far too attractive to capital to long remain undeveloped. Capital is daily seeking just such a country as this and when it finds it will not be slow to recognize it as its natural affinity. "What I have said will be corroborated by every one in our party so my utterance may be regarded as voicing the sentiment of the entire party."

LINCOLN COUNTY NEW MEXICO.

Its Advantages Succinctly Set Forth in Bulletin No. 13

Issued By the Territorial Bureau of Immigration—The Ideal Country for the Farmer, Cattleman, Orchardist and the Miner.

Since 1891, Chaves and Eddy and in part Otero and Guadalupe counties have been created out of Lincoln county and yet the county has an area of 4,984 square miles. Of this area 2,725,000 acres are still subject to entry under the federal land laws, of which 2,614,000 are surveyed and 111,000 acres are unsurveyed. Only 30,000 acres are under cultivation. Lincoln county is bounded on the north by Valencia and Guadalupe counties; on the west by Socorro county; on the south by Otero and Chaves counties, and on the east by Chaves county. It is in the Roswell land district with a federal land office at Roswell, Chaves county.

The population of Lincoln county in 1900, according to the census, was 4,953, or less than one inhabitant to the square mile. Since then, however, owing to railroad construction and rapid mineral development, the population has more than doubled and conservative estimates place the population at 10,000.

The assessed valuation of Lincoln county for the year 1901 was $1,215,959, being a larger per capita wealth than most of the other counties in New Mexico possess.

Lincoln county lies in the drainage area of the Pecos river, the principal tributary of which, the Rio Hondo, rises in Lincoln county and has as its tributaries the pretty streams of clear, cold water known as the Bonito, the Ruidoso, the Eagle and Little Eagle creeks. The headwaters of the Rio Felix and the Rio Salado flowing into the Pecos are also in Lincoln county. Nogal creek and a number of independent water courses, the latter dry during several months of the year, flow from the picturesque mountain sides. Shallow lakes, dry part of the year, springs and deep and shallow wells add to this water supply. Storage reservoirs to supplement the present primitive irrigation system, could increase the cultivated area of Lincoln county to 100,000 acres but until new sources of water supply are discovered, the greater part of the county will be given up to stock ranges and mining operations. Many of the streams are stocked with trout, bass and other fish.

Lincoln county may, properly, be classed as a mountain county, although that portion north of the Capitan and east of the Jicarilla and Gallinas ranges, is mostly rolling prairie, which is also true of a strip along the western border. The average elevation of the county is from 4,000 to 8,000 feet.

AGRICULTURE AND HORTICULTURE

It is the lack of water alone that keeps Lincoln county from being the granary and the orchard of the southwest. Climate and soil are perfect for the raising of fruit and grain. The orchards on the Bonito, the Ruidoso and other streams produce the finest fruit in the United States. Lincoln county fruit takes prizes or its size, color and flavor wherever exhibited. There are good markets for all the fruit and grain that can be produced in the county. Some success has been obtained in cultivating the ground without irrigation, deep plowing, subsoiling and thorough cultivation having produced south of Nogal crops of from 50 to 70 bushels of corn per acre. Potatoes are grown with success in several parts of the county, especially in the mountain valleys, the average yield being two and a half tons to the acre, oats 40 bushels, onions six tons and alfalfa four to five tons per acre; cabbage 30,000 pounds; beans 4,000 pounds, apples and pears 25,000 pounds and grapes 8,000 pounds to the acre.

Along the streams a considerable acreage is devoted to the raising of corn, oats, wheat, rye and other grains and as well as almost every variety of vegetable common to this latitude. These products are all consumed in the mining camps of the vicinity and in addition, large quantities of grain, flour and vegetables are shipped in from other localities to supply the large and growing demand incident to mining enterprises. Farmers can be multiplied in this region without creating any diminution in the high prices at which farm products are sold in the local markets.

While Lincoln county is justly proud of the varied and limitless natural resources in its bounds, it boasts of the excellence of the fruits which supply, not only the local markets, but which are shipped elsewhere and command the highest prices. Along the Ruidoso, Eagle Creek, Bonito, the Hondo, Three Rivers and in many other localities remote from streams of water, are produced apples, peaches, pears, plums, cherries, grapes, strawberries and many other varieties of fruits, which, in flavor, surpass any other raised in the west and are equal to any in the world. The orchards which have reached the age of bearing are universally paying well and some of the older and more careful and intelligently treated are yielding fortunes to the owners. It is needless to say that these prolific sources of income are rapidly increasing in number and size and with the ever enlarging demand for the character of fruit raised in the mountains canons of Lincoln county, this must soon become one of the greatest producers of wealth of the county.

There are in Lincoln county 150,000 head of sheep, many of them of improved stock, 8,000 goats, the greater part high grade Angoras, 75,000 head of cattle, many of them blooded Herefords, 3,000 horses and 150 mules. The county is a stock country par excellence. Its (Continued on last page.)

"JOHN P. ROBINSON, M. E." Something About a Candidate Whom Lowell Respected. John P. Robinson, the subject of one of James Russell Lowell's "Homes of Lowell's" articles, was a brilliant lawyer of the town of Lowell, a scholarly gentleman and a wit. It is said of him that he had read Homer's "Iliad" so much that he could recite nearly the whole of it from memory. Mr. Robinson was a favorite stump speaker about the period of 1850. He was a Whig and had the ambition to represent his district in congress.

In 1842 he received the Whig nomination for this position. It was a bad year for Whig candidates, as the Liberty party had then begun to present serious opposition to a majority vote at that time required to elect, and there was no choice at the regular election. The Whig party, always divided, feared Mr. Robinson could not be elected so no further trial and induced him to withdraw from the contest that it might present a candidate more acceptable to the anti-slavery vote. This was a severe disappointment to Mr. Robinson. He became disgusted with the Whigs and thenceforward turned the anti-slavery advocate.

A few years later, after General Caleb Cushing had been in the Mexican war, he was nominated by the Democrats as their candidate for governor of Massachusetts, upon which Mr. Robinson wrote a letter declaring he should leave the Whig party and support General Cushing. This induced Lowell's poem "Governor Briggs" was then the Whig candidate for governor and Lowell had two verses to his verses. The last read:

To John P. Robinson, Esq. Who is dead for Boston. And the second:

To John P. Robinson, Esq. Who is dead for General C. - Boston Herald.

Can't it please," says a western newspaperman, "they tell a good story on them to David R. Atchison who had the honor to be president for the duration of our Sunday by virtue of his position as president pro tempore of the senate. There was a good deal of discussion about bringing Kansas to this country and much talk about the great lawyer. A bill had been introduced to organize to defray the expenses and was then before the senate. The word Mayor was falling in everybody's ears and it had not escaped the attention of Senator Atchison though he didn't know what it meant at that time. There was talk one day in the chambers about the Mayor and the propriety of voting for a bill to pay the expenses, no one knowing that he was a great orator and a friend of this nation."

"Well," said Senator Atchison after a short reflection, "if I take it from the name he is entitled to the Mayor of Kansas; he is a good fellow, and I shall vote for the bill."

"There was some general smiling, but no one dared to correct the senator, and as soon as they could make their escape that crowd of senators went into the chamber to have out their laugh over Atchison's mistake in understanding the word Mayor and Mayor."

not heard, her widow, another lady, her names who has never placed or visited to show in the publicity of her late husband. She has, however, taken her share of the work. Her many years she accompanied her in 14 years, having completely the duties of travel and helping in the work. But always she has kept herself in the background, and only those who know the great newspaper intimately have heard of this gentle, sweet, good woman.

Her mother came via Mrs. James G. Howell, who is a sister of Henry G. Howell, the Chicago publisher. It was in 1862 that she first met Mr. Mealy, who was then just at the begining of his career as an evangelist. During their first few years of married life their financial outlook was gloomy indeed. Mr. Mealy had not then made a reputation as an evangelist, and although he was enthusiastic over his work, there were times when it seemed that he must abandon preaching in order to provide for his family. During those trials, on the brighter years which followed, Mrs. Mealy was always a faithful helpmate.

Mrs. Mealy is the mother of three children, two of whom have died recently. She still makes her home in Northfield, Mass. During the latter part of her husband's career she was compelled to give up the life of travel and devote herself to her home and her children. Her plans for the future have not been announced, but it is probable that she will attempt to carry on much of the work at Northfield which Mr. Mealy had set on foot.

...sonal experience of our soldiers in the Philippines on a slow and steady march. The exploits of Captain Bernard A. Byrne of the Sixth Infantry in attacking superior numbers of island bandits has a touch of romance and of thrilling interest attached to it.
 Byrne is now lieutenant colonel of the new Fortieth United States Infantry and owes his promotion to his remarkable achievement in the island of Negros last July. He was with his company among the mountains when he came upon a camp of 450 organized natives who live by plunder of friend and foe and incidentally play Aguirre's game by waylaying, robbing and even fighting American soldiers. Byrne had 57 men. He attacked with a rush, using bayonets or clubbed muskets at close quarters. He left 117 bandits dead, including their chief, and many wounded and did it with a loss of but one killed and one wounded.
 On the 31st of August Byrne attacked a bandit stronghold at Gula and added to his renown as a fighter. The bandits were lodged in a town accessible only by a road leading up an almost perpendicular slope, where the assailants were exposed to view for a quarter of a mile. The bandits rolled heavy stones down the hill into the American ranks, but only three men were hit by them. At close quarters the bandits showed fight, and 21 were killed and thirty wounded. They numbered 400. A large quantity of Filipino supplies and weapons were taken from the bandits.
 Byrne did not receive a military training either at West Point or in the ranks of the army. He was appointed from civil life to the office of second lieutenant and learned his art on the plains, fighting Indians. He led his company in the charge at San Juan hill.

The boys of the First Colorado brought home a story quite the opposite of that relating to Byrne's exploit. It is one of heroic defence made by a handful. The night of Feb. 4, when the Filipinos suddenly burst forth, the regiment lay in front of the insurgent blockhouse No. 4. The American outpost in front of the blockhouse was located in a clump of trees known as "the orchard." It was manned the night of Feb. 1 by two corporals and 12 privates. They had all served through the Spanish campaign and knowing that a new regiment lay behind them felt that the cause rested in their keeping that night.

When the mutterings of the gathering storm reached the little band, it was agreed that they would hold the fort to the last and not be in a hurry to call for help. The opening shot was fired, and the insurgents in and around the blockhouse showered Mauser and Remington bullets into "the orchard." Lying in the rice ridges, the Colorado men answered as best they could, firing at the flashes of the enemy's guns. At the end of two hours it was found that the stock of ammunition was about gone. A hurried conversation was held, and it was decided not to abandon the post. All the ammunition on hand was given to five men, M. J. Parkhurst, H. J. Helm, G. S. Eichelrath, G. B. Schull and G. A. Hawkins. These five were to stay and try to hold the post in the face of swarms of Filipinos only 200 yards distant while the others went back three miles to the nearest American camp for ammunition and support.

An attack upon the isolated vedette post during the night was expected to a certainty, and, feeling that they were taking their lives in their hands, the devoted men gave last messages to their comrades to be sent to friends at home. When the envoys returned with help and bullets, the defenders stood by their guns, with their last round in the chambers, awaiting the insurgent attack. At daylight the First Dakota marched up from the reserves and charged the fort. In the first line the brave Colorado pickets of "the orchard" post advanced and helped rout the enemy which had missed the splendid chance to destroy them.

Southern Corn Bread.
 A favorite southern dish is Virginia corn bread. It is served in a deep, round baking dish and is dipped out with a spoon. As a breakfast dish it is unequalled. Break two eggs into a bowl and add about one-half cup of flour, one cup of meal, one-half cup of milk, one spoonful of lard and butter mixed and a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat thoroughly. Then add a cup or more of hot water. It should be very thin and should be poured into a deep earthenware dish to bake.

P. W. Thompson was a visitor to Lincoln this week on business.

A large White Oaks delegation passed through here last Monday en route to court.

J. W. Whitesides was in Lincoln this week doing a little quiet but effective electioneering.

Ed. C. Pfingsten, county commissioner from this precinct attended court at Lincoln this week.

Guy H. Herbert spent several days in Lincoln and on the Hondo this week looking after business interests.

T. E. Wilcox the jovial railroad agent at North Capitan attended court at Lincoln several days this week.

Keoughs marking oil for marking sheep and goats, in better and cheaper than tar. For sale by, WILCH & TITSWORTH.

A. E. Williams of this place, deputy mineral surveyor, is at present in Las Cruces, near where he has some mineral land to survey.

Capitan has presented rather a deserted appearance the past week on account of an absence of a large part of its population at court.

The Capitan Transfer company have leased their stable at this place to W. M. Trafton and will now devote their entire attention to their Carrizozo business.

It is rumored that a telephone line is to be established between Carrizozo and Parsons by the way of the American mine at Nogal by the Eagle Mining & Improvement company.

It was reported last week that the Lincoln Trading company had succeeded to the business of the Southwestern Mercantile company at this place and North Capitan, but such is evidently not the case as the latter is still doing business at the same old stand in the same old way.

W. H. Brewer left this week for his home in Birmingham, Alabama on a visit to his old home. He expects to be absent about a month.

Richard Werner accompanied by his wife came up from Carrizozo last Tuesday. Mr. Werner came up to take Wm. Brewer's place while the latter is absent on a months visit to his old home.

Among the attorneys who attended court at Lincoln this week are H. B. Ferguson and E. C. Chavez, Albuquerque; Judge A. A. Freeman, J. E. Wharton, R. E. Lund, John Y. Hewitt, White Oaks; Messrs Sefillo and Baca, Socorro; and Frank C. Matteson and Joseph Hall, Capitan.

A very sad accident occurred at mine No. 4 last Tuesday afternoon which cost the lives of Dave Thompson and Wm. Webster. Both of these unfortunate men had just quit work for the day and were standing in the main slope waiting for a car to take them to the surface when the roof above them gave way letting several tons of rock fall upon them. Both Thompson and Webster were highly respected miners. Webster leaves a wife. Thompson was the son of P. W. Thomson of North Capitan and a very bright young man. The bereaved wife and parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

A Correction.
John M. Rice while town in last Saturday took occasion to inform The Progress that the article which appeared in its columns a few weeks ago in regard to the Eagle Mining company using the water of the Bonito for cyaniding purposes is such a way as to poison it was entirely erroneous. Said Mr. Rice: "We are as much interested in keeping the water of the Bonito pure as any one living below could possibly be as we own considerable property below the proposed site of the cyanide plant. Our policy always has been and always will be to preserve the purity of the water of that stream. Even were we inclined to perpetrate such an outrage we would be restrained out of deference to our own interests if for no other reason. The fallacy of such a story should therefore be apparent to every one."
The Progress takes pleasure in making the correction and congratulates the people living along that stream in having a man among them who appreciates the importance of a stream to country as does Mr Rice.

NEW MEXICO.

mountain slopes yield ideal pasture for goats, while the grass covered mesas and plains invite the herds of cattle and flocks of sheep. The mild winters, the luxurious and nutritious growth of grass and the contour of the country make it a paradise for stock. There are many extensive and prosperous stock ranches in the county, but there is room for many more, if wells are dug or drilled for additional water supply.

COAL MINES.

Lincoln county is rich in coal as well as in other useful and precious minerals. At Capitan the New Mexico Railway and Coal Co., is carrying on coal mining upon a large scale. The output of the mines at this point in the year 1901 was 200,000 tons of coal. The company employs 200 men and is at present working two seams of coal, one three and one half to six feet and the other two and one half to three and one half feet thick.

At White Oaks an especially fine quality of coal is mined upon a small scale by the Old Abe company. The White Oaks coal fields are capable of extensive development and now that a railroad passes within six miles of them will undoubtedly soon produce as large a tonnage as the Capitan fields. At present Lincoln county produces about thirty carloads of coal per day. The coal is mostly bituminous although indications of anthracite coal also exist.
