The Girl From New York
By M. QUAD
Copyrighted

The girl from New York appeared at a farm house thirty miles from the city one hot day in August for a two weeks' vacation. It was a place where a limited number of people were "accommodated" for $7 per week and scenery thrown in, but Miss Davis happened to be the only stranger at the farm just then. She was good looking, knew how to wear her clothes, and the hired man who swung her hammock between two trees lost his heart to her in the doing of it. He had thought of marriage in an indefinite way and had thought of a bride big enough and strong enough to wash, churn, milk, make soft soap and run carpets and be a practical helpmate. Miss Davis was petite and white faced, but his love went out to her just the same. He decided that if she would marry him he would keep a hired girl and cut the carpet rags himself. That evening he saw more of her and fell more deeply in love, and his mind was made up to lay his heart at her feet as soon as he had finished plowing the corn.

There were other hired men around there and near by was a farmer who was a widower. There was also a windmill man "laying" up with a game leg and a young man circulating around to sell incubators. It wasn't three days before the girl had them all at her feet. One had rescued her from humbees, another had twisted the neck of an old ram that menaced her, a third had heroically killed a garter snake that crossed her path, and a fourth had pulled her out of a swamp where she was looking for coconuts and bananas on the huckleberry bushes.

As for the windmill and the incubator men, they came in on their check. They began on offering her unprecedented bargain in goods and ended by falling in love. It wasn't the stenographer's fault. She was out for her health and to break the routine of office work, and the greater the number who fell in love with her the more delightful the vacation. She gave them all an equal show and a fair show, but the trouble with each and every one of them was opportunity. Even a man selling the best windmill on earth, one warranted to produce wind to run itself, is a little shy about popping the question in the presence of two or three other men. If she made a date to walk with the incubator man in the orchard, at least two hired men turned up to spoil it, and if she wandered over the meadows in the dusk of evening to hear the whippoorwills sing as she clung to the arm of a hired man they were closely followed by ghostly figures.

The usual thing followed. Five or six men can't court one girl and still be friendly enough with each other to talk politics. The windmill man got out of bed in the night to vow that he would smother the incubator man and his incubators into a jelly, and he of the chicken hatcher raised his right hand to heaven and took his solemn affidavit to ruin the windmill industry of the United States. The hired men swore to various things by various attitudes, and of course all this swearing was bound to produce results.

Not a week had passed when one night as he was wending his way homeward through the summer darkness one young farmer was hit in the ear by a cucumber thrown by a ghostly yet vigorous hand. Then a second encountered a ghost face to face and was warned in an awful voice that death was on his trail, and the next night the windmill man was hit with a rock as he sauntered along with bulging heart.

This couldn't go on in this way forever of course. In the first place, the stenographer had only two weeks off, and in the next a man in love must either have things settled within a reasonable time or hang himself. There came a time when the girl from New York must speak up and let her choice be known, and she was equal to the occasion. She made a date with each and every one victim, irrespective of politics or religion, 'down on the edge of the frog pond at a certain evening hour. Each thought himself the favored one and each was there to swear that his love would last through ages. It was a tryst and a twist. There were a good many twists. They had discovered each other and scared all the frogs out of the neighborhood with their swear words and their solar plexus blows and their rolling about before it occurred to the windmill man to sit up and say:

"Boys, I had a date to meet the girl on this spot."

"So did I," was answered in chorus.

"She was to give my answer."

"Same here."

"But has anybody seen her?"

"No."

"Then let's quit slugging and investigate. She may have fallen off a fence and broken a leg."

The crowd moved up to the farm house. The red hammock no longer swung between the cherry trees. The green rocker on the veranda no longer rocked. There was no sylphlike form wandering around the rosebush or looking for fireflies on the croquet grounds. The girl from New York had departed on the evening train and hadn't even left an old pair of slippers to comfort those who had loved her so truly and well.

"Any remarks?" asked the windmill man as he looked around at the crowd.

"Nothing, I guess," said the incubator man, "except to move to adjourn."

And the motion was carried unanimously.

How Solicitous.

Owes His Life to a Neighbor.

Mr. D. P. Daugherty, well known throughout Mercer and Sumner counties, W. Va., most likely owes his life to the kindness of a neighbor. He was almost hopelessly afflicted with diarrhoea; was attended by two physicians who gave him little, if any, relief, when a neighbor learning of his serious condition, brought him a bottle of Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy, which cured him in less than twenty-four hours. LINCOLN COUNTY MINES.

Eastern Capitalists View the Situation and Are Most Favorably Impressed.

There came in from New Mexico this morning a party of eastern capitalists, escorted by Captain J. H. Floyd of Mowmence, Ill., and Clem. J. Studebaker of South Bend Ind. The party consists of the following: G. E. Fegans, Dr. P. G. Kullen, J. H. Hobbs, Hon. H. J. Weber and C. E. Finley, all of Joliet, Ill.; B. Congleton, C. F. Congleton, W. H. Howland, T. B. Howland, J. W. Lee and Milton George of Chicago; W. J. Allen, Waukegan; J. Q. C. Vanden Bosch, South Bend, Ind.; J. C. Fowler, Hartford, O.; and Wm. Esterly, Cleveland, O.

They are just down from the Nogal, White Oaks and Parsons country, where they have been inspecting the properties of the Eagle Mining and Improvement company and the American Gold Mining company, with a view to investing in these companies. Some of them are already heavily interested.

A better pleased lot of men never were seen before and when seen at the Zeiger this morning they were all glad of an opportunity to speak of the wonderful mining prospects and possibilities of that promising section of New Mexico, touched by the Rock Island road.

They are particularly impressed with the great quarry (it is not a mine in the ordinary sense of the term) that constitutes the Parsons group and adjoining claims. It is a vast body of low grade free milling gold ore one mile long and about a quarter wide and runs $4 and upwards to the ton.

The Eagle company is just completing its telephone line which connects White Oaks, Nogal, Parsons, Walnut, Carrizozo and the American mines. Part of the line is a double wire.

Each member of the party had a good word to say about the properties of the company, and of the country generally. Even the scenery was expatiated upon with the utmost delight. They were upon Nogal Peak last Sunday, which is 11,300 feet high and as several of them said "we could see all over New Mexico."

C. E. Finley, of the party, had with him a basket of apples from White Oaks and he was as well pleased with this exhibit as he was the mines. The apples were of extraordinary size the largest one weighing 13 1-2 ounces and the others were very nearly as large.

The largest ones came from the orchard of Dr. Phaten at White Oaks and came from a six year old tree that produced forty-four of these this year. He has in the orchard eight and nine year olds that produced two and one-half bushels of these large apples to the tree.

Two or three of the visitors will leave for their home tonight but the rest will remain over till tomorrow. They all went over to Juarez this morning.—El Paso Herald.

A grand mask ball will be given by the Select Knights and Ladies on Thanksgiving night, Nov. 27, at North Capitan.

Apples Galore.

This season proves that the apple is to be one of the red letter industries of Lincoln county. Its people and press will always here after make it a subject of interest and remark. The county has this season produced something like fifteen hundred bushels of this common sphere.

The upper Bonito valley, above Fort Stanton, has fifteen farms with orchards, not counting the adjoining high mesas, and the crop of this section will aggregate five cars of 600 bushel baskets each. Capitan is the railroad shipping point for all the fruit grown in the county.

One of the enterprising merchants of the county who recently returned from El Paso informs me that apples were fifty cents a bushel box and they had 50,000 boxes in storage there.

Let us see! The picking, packing, packing boxes and hauling to Capitan cannot be done for less than 25 cents per box and the railroad charges for freight to the Pass city are 30 cents more. Now, then! The apple growers of the county will have to pay the dealers in that bright city five cents a box to take our apples as a present.

The great Armour plant in Kansas City has cold storage for 50,000 barrels and other plants there have storage for 65,000 more, with Leavenworth as much more; and these are in the heart of the middle west apple belt. It seems strange that El Paso should be able to care for so large an amount of cold storage. It looks to one up a tree that they were spreading it on to our northern friends pretty thick.

There are also enormous cold storage plants in Chicago, St. Louis and other points. These are always full every year. I call to mind one season when the crop was almost a failure in the middle west that they were filled from New England and York state. It was common talk that they were freighted from that locality to Missouri points at 25 cents a barrel.

Then again, the fruit buyers have an association with a large membership conducted on up-to-date rules. In New York state they have sunk into their burrows and drawn the holes in with them, and the apple growers have gone a gunning for them. The literature of the press emanates from the bureau of the apple buyers' association; when they have made the producer pretty sick the stocks in the country will change hands; then presto, change—the prices will be elevated. History repeats itself annually.

From all available reports the apple crop seems to be good all over the county, the fruit is large with few culls, besides there is a considerable number of new orchards coming into bearing. On the other hand there is a larger population with more money to buy with; also we are having exporting markets. The orient is a new customer. They know of no better fruit than the orange.

My last Kansas City Star reports that C. C. Clements of that city has just sold 1000 barrels of Ben Davis apples at $2.75 for No. 1 and $3.50 for No. 1 extras; this would equal fully one dollar a box for our product.

P. G. Patore has just finished harvesting his apples, which are most all No. 1 extra. Eating apples, such varieties as most of us grow in this section, will command a dollar a barrel more in any market than Ben Davis apples. The apple is a mountain fruit.

The last issue of the Nogal Republican was about as rank a specimen of a rotten campaign sheet as could easily be imagined. The whole paper was made up of malicious assaults upon the personnel of the Democratic ticket. Instead of pointing out the superiority of the Republican candidates, as any decent partisan paper would have done, it adopts a mudslinging policy that is not only disgusting to the party it is supposed to represent but absolutely nauseating to the general public.

COAL STRIKE ENDED.
The great coal strike in the antarctic region of Pennsylvania has at last been settled by the miners and operators agreeing to submit their difficulties to arbitration and work will be resumed at an early date. The settlement of this great labor strike may be said to be a victory for organized labor, as the operators in agreeing to arbitration virtually recognize the mine workers' union. The plan to arbitrate came from the operators after they saw that all other efforts to break the strike and resume operations were futile in the face of the determination of the miners to win or starve. Great credit is also due President Roosevelt for hastening the settlement of the strike, as it was through him that the pressure was brought to bear on the coal barons that forced them to ultimately agree to this method of adjusting the differences involved in the controversy. From the moment the president interested himself in the controversy matters began to shape themselves for an early settlement, and his earnest labors in behalf of the public finally came off victorious. Had it not been for his initiative the strike might today be still on with no prospects of settlement, as had the matter been left to the miners and operators it is not at all probable that either side would have yielded. The settlement of this great strike, however, is not due to President Roosevelt alone, or any other one man, but to the irresistible force of public opinion. President Roosevelt's actions simply hastened to crystallize this public sentiment, which in turn brought the solution of the knotty problem. Whatever else may be said of the strike, it has been productive of good in so far as it has brought the nation to a realcoming congress some remedial legislation will be attempted. The arbitrary attitude of the trusts and their utter disregard for the public is now better understood than ever before, and now that it is so understood can be better remedied. The greed for power on the part of these monopolies may after all prove their undoing.

THE Nogal Republican, the self-constituted organ of the Republican party in Lincoln county, will disrupt the party in the county unless the leaders of the party curb the editor's propensity for mudslinging. No intelligent person, of whatever political faith, wants such rot dished out to them as was handed out by that sheet last issue. It is an insult to the intelligence and self respect of the party.

PUMPING FOR IRRIGATION.
Result of Tests in Irrigating Alfalfa at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Mesilla.
A summary of the first test is for a bed of 6 3/4-10 acres of alfalfa which had been without water for fifty-five days. It was irrigated July 30th in 23 hours and 45 minutes, at a cost of about $1.30 per acre for fuel. The fuel cost $3.25 per cord.
The same field was irrigated on September 15th in 14 hours and 20 minutes at a cost of about 70 1/2 cents per acre for fuel. The ground was not nearly so dry as in the first test, yet it was dryer than it would have been under normal conditions, i. e. the soil had become dryer than would have been allowed if water had been available for irrigation all the season. Mr. O. C. Snow inspected the field on the day of the test and his judgment coincided with that of the writer. Since the soil was dryer than it would have been under normal conditions, it is evident that more water was required for this irrigation and, therefore, the cost greater, than would have been under normal condition of soil moisture. The conclusion must naturally be drawn, although the actual figures are yet to be determined, that the cost of irrigating alfalfa under our conditions of soil, etc., lies somewhere below 70 1/2 cents per acre for fuel.

The following data was taken during the test and may be of interest to some:
Steam pressure 60 pounds.

Vacuum gauge reading at beginning of test 16.
Vacuum gauge reading at end of test 16.
Total lift about 32 feet.
Pump used, R. D. Wood & Co. (Philadelphia) centrifugal.
There was thought to be very little loss of water by seepage through the ditches, between the well and field, for the reason that the main acequia was used for nearly half the distance.
Measurement of the water was made by a rectangular weir 24 inches wide. The depth of the water over the weir measured by the aid of a hook apparatus thus insuring great accuracy.

A CIRCULAR.

How Commutation of and Second Homestead Entries May be Made.

The Progress is in receipt of the following circular from the Land Office which is reproduced here for the information of the general public:

Registers and Receivers,
U. S. Land Office,
Gentlemen:

Your attention is called to the provisions of section 2 of the act of Congress of May 22, 1902 (Public, No. 122,) entitled "An act to allow the commutation of and second homestead entries in certain cases," which read as follows:

That any person who, prior to the passage of an act entitled "An act providing for free homesteads on the public lands for actual and bona fide settlers, and reserving the public lands for that purpose," approved May 17, 1900, having made a homestead entry and perfected the same and acquired title to the land by final entry by having paid the price provided in the law opening the land to settlement, and who would have been entitled to the provisions of the act before cited had finally entry not been made prior to the passage of said act, may make another homestead entry of not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres of any of the public lands in any State or Territory subject to homestead entry: Provided, that any person desiring to make another entry under this act will be required to make affidavit, to be transmitted with the other filing papers now required by law, giving the description of the tract formerly entered date and number of entry, and name of the land office where made, or other sufficient data to admit of readily identifying it on the official records: And provided further, That said person has all the other proper qualifications of a homestead entryman: And provided also, That commutation under section twenty-three hundred and one of the Revised Statutes of any amendment thereto, or any similar statute, shall not be permitted of an entry made under this act, excepting where the final proof, submitted on the former entry hereinbefore described, shows a residence upon the land covered thereby for the full period of five years or such term of residence thereon as added to any properly credited military or naval services shall equal such period of five years.

Under said section any person may make another homestead entry for lands in the ceded Indian reservations affected by said act of 1900, supra, and perfected the same and acquired title to the land by final entry under section 2291 U. S. R. S., or by commutation under section 2301 U. S. R. S., or any amendment thereto, or any similar statute, by having paid the price provided in the law opening the land to settlement. You will require each applicant for another entry hereunder to furnish sufficient data whereby his former entry may be identified, and show that he has all the other qualifications of a homestead entryman.

It will be observed that an entry made hereunder can not be perfected by commutation under section 2301 R. S., or any amendment thereto, or any similar statute, excepting where the final proof, submitted on the former entry "hereinbefore described," shows a residence upon the land covered thereby for the full period of five years, or such term of residence thereon as added to any properly credited military or naval service shall equal such period of five years.

Very respectfully,

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A Necessary Precaution.
Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute cough cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane. Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it.—Robt. Hurt.

A Remarkable Record.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Robt. Hurt.

Three robbers were walking by the roadside one evening after a day of fruitless anxiety. "It's a pity," said one of them, "that we can do no better than this. I am unwilling to let a day pass without some gain."
"Here's a chance," said another, and as they looked up they saw on the brow of the hill before them a man riding on a donkey and by a string leading a sheep with a bell attached to its neck.
"I will steal that sheep," said the first of the robbers.
"You cannot," said the second. "Do you not perceive the cord and the bell?"
"I see them," said the first, "but they present no obstacle to me. I'll steal that sheep!"
"If you do," said the second, "I'll steal the donkey."
"What?" said the third. "Steal a man's donkey from under him? You cannot."
"You will soon know better," said the second.
"If you do," said the third, "I'll steal all the clothes the man has upon him or forfeit my pretensions to professional excellence."
"Bah!" said the other two. "You will attempt what you cannot accomplish. We will see," said the third.
The unsuspecting man was plodding along without thought of injury when the first approached and cut the cord and bell from the sheep's neck and attached the bell to the donkey's tail where its jingle continued to be heard. In due time the man looked behind to observe the condition of his sheep and to his horror, found it was gone. It dismay and distress he proceeded to the first person he met and asked if he had seen any one with a sheep.
"Yes," replied the person, "I saw a man clambering down the hillside with such a prize, but I thought it was his own."
"Hold my donkey for a moment," said the man, and as the person did so he went in the wrong direction in pursuit of the robber and his sheep.
Finding, however, that his pursuit was vain, he returned, tired and breathless, to where he had left the donkey. But lo, it was not there! Sheep and donkey both were stolen from him. Sad and perplexed, he sat down to reflect and to grieve over his losses, but soon he heard the wailing of some one in distress.
"What is that?" he said. "Can and see be more miserable than I?"
But the cry of anguish became louder and louder. He hastened to the place whence it proceeded and there beheld a man weeping as though there was no comfort for him.
"What is this, my friend?" said he. "How are you afflicted?"
"Alas," said the man, "I'm ruined forever!"
"Ruined!" said he. "How are you ruined?"
"I came to this well for a draft of water," he replied, "and while I drank I let drop a costly gem, and it lies beneath the water."
"Is that all?" said he.
"Ah," exclaimed the other, "it is of great worth!"
"So it may be," said the honest man, "but I have lost my sheep and donkey which I was unwilling about to sell at the next market town that I might pay off some pressing debts, yet I do not bewail my loss."
"What's that loss?" replied the other, "compared to my loss of a gem worth thousands of dollars and without which it would only cost my life to return to the king my master, who sent me with it as a gift of a royal friend beyond the seas?"
"Why do you not go down in the water and recover it?" asked the man.
"Alas," said the other, "I cannot swim, and I should only drown!"
"Then I will go down for you," said the good, honest man.
"Will you?" exclaimed the other. "Do so, and here are four golden pieces for your pains, more than the sum of all your losses!"
The honest man received the pieces of gold and placed them in his pocket and then took off his clothes and descended into the water. But after a long and careful search he came out of the well to ask the stranger on which side the gem had fallen, when, lo, he was gone! And the poor country man was without sheep or donkey or clothing, there all alone by the brink of a deep well, and the robbers were all too wise to waste the money of the man whose whole means of support were all "wheat farming," but now, in the light of events following, we have reason to consider a blessed means to lead us to better farming. Green county, Wis., is today one of the greatest dairy countries in the northwest, if not in the United States. Two hundred and forty cheese factories exist in that county and nearly half as many more in the counties adjoining, mostly controlled by Green county men. Over 20,000,000 pounds of cheese are made annually, bringing a gross income of about $3,000,000, and not one pound of this great amount is cheddar, or so called American, cheese. It is what is termed fancy cheese, mainly of the three most popular varieties—Swiss, Limburger and brick cheese.—Admission Before the Minnesota Dairy men's Association.

WINE OF CARDUI
Miss Ida M. Snyder,
Treasurer of the Brooklyn East End Art Club.
"If women would pay more attention to their health we would have more happy wives, mothers and daughters, and if they would observe results they would find that the doctor's prescriptions do not perform the many cures they are given credit for."
"In consulting with my druggist he advised me to take Wine of Cardui and I took it and have every reason to thank him for a new life opened up to me with restored health, and it only took three months to cure me."
Wine of Cardui is a regulator of the menstrual functions and is a most astonishing tonic for women. It cures nearly suppressed, too frequent, irregular and painful menstruation, falling of the womb, white and bloody discharges, is helpful when approaching womanhood, during pregnancy, after childbirth and in change of life. It frequently brings a dear baby to homes that have been barren for years. All druggists have $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

ber is being handled at Alamogordo this year than last and it is being shipped as far as Hutchinson, Kansas, for the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad, and a large amount is being sent to the Mexican Central railroad.
 The Alamogordo and Sacramento Mountain Railway company has let the contract for the extension of the line about four and a half miles, which will take it to the head of Russian canyon. Work has commenced on the grade. The extension will open up a new area of timber, and from the terminus of the line the New Mexico Tie and Lumber company will extend tramways the entire length of Russian canyon.

The enrollment for the present year at the Socorro School of Mines exceeds that of any previous year and is still increasing.

Sneak thieves have commenced to flourish at Albuquerque and two houses were entered Saturday night. The fair is the attraction which has taken a gang of them there.

Court is in session at Carlsbad, Judge McMillan presiding. The grand and petit juries were called and sworn. Indictments were returned against Blue Clark and Tarleton Brogaw for larceny of cattle. They entered pleas of guilty and were sentenced to six months in the penitentiary.

Another murder is reported from Socorro. Luciano Hernandez was found on Saturday night drunk and badly beaten up about the head and body. Soon after being taken into the house he died. Francisco Marquez, Mariano Chavez and a third man named Guerra were arrested on suspicion and are now in jail.

It is reported that the ranges in Grant county are simply fine. In the Burro mountains and many other parts of the county grass is nearly knee high and growing luxuriantly. Cattle are in fine condition and will soon be rolling fat.

The jail at Alamogordo caught fire last week from a defective flue but was soon discovered and the fire extinguished. There were about a dozen prisoners in the jail at the time and had not the fire been discovered when small it might have proven very disastrous to those poor jail birds confined therein.

Ninety-four cadets have been enrolled at the institute at Roswell already and more coming. Owing to the steady increase in popularity and number of students the building of a new dormitory was necessary and the work on that building has been hurried to completion. The new rooms are now ready.
