Proposed School Law Amendment.

Mr. Hinkle's bill to amend the present school law is in substance as follows says the New Mexican. It repeals sections 4 and 30, and provides that section 13 be amended by striking out the words "that no district shall be entitled to receive any portion of the common school fund in which a common school has not been taught at least three months during the twelve months preceding."

It is asked that section 19 be amended to read: "Hereafter all school directors shall be elected at each general election and shall enter upon duties of their office the first Monday in January following their election; and hold same for two years thereafter unless removed for cause."

Also that section 24 be amended to read: "That the county commissioners of each county shall annually at the time of making tax levy, or other purpose required by law, levy a tax on all taxable property in the county, not to exceed two mills upon the taxable property of the county. The tax collector shall collect the same, and other taxes and pay the same to their respective county treasurers."

It demands that the section relating to the auditor and treasurer be repealed and that section 35 read as follows: "All moneys arising from the enumerated sources herein collected shall be paid into the county treasury to the account of the general school fund to be apportioned to the several school districts the same as the regular school fund."

The Prince of Wales has had an invoice of cigars made and shipped to him from Havana, Cuba. They cost $1.87 each. No wonder the son of his mother is always in debt.

Anarchy in France.

The manifesto and bellicose meeting of the Anarchists and Socialists, together with the recent explosion which is directly traceable to them scarcely threaten a new French revolution.

The elements of the combination are hardly harmonious and Paris is not so ripe for revolt as it used to be. The Republic has taught many people that voting is easier and better way to secure their rights than barricades and dynamite. It is more difficult, in consequence, to secure adherents to the red flag, and while trouble may indeed arise, and while rioting may break forth, Paris knows a better government than either comming or empire, and there will probably be no revolution and no extraordinary outbreak.

One of the significant signs of the times, is the quiet of the army. Amid all the agitation of the last few weeks the French soldier has stood still. He is not what he was ready to land in any popular movement involving killing. He is a disciplined soldier, self-imposed obedience to his officers and impressed with the sense of the graver duties that may some day devolve upon him. The Republic has done more to repress anarchy in France than a dozen empires could have accomplished.—N. Y. World.

The theory advanced by Lieutenant Britton Davis that the recent Indian murders in the Las Animas valley were the work of a band from Old Mexico, and not the Kid and his followers, is receiving considerable credence by those who are posted in such matters. At the time of the murders Kid was reported to be several hundred miles from the scene.—Headlight.

News has reached here that Kid and his band were surrounded by United States troops in the mountains near San Carlos, Arizona, last week. The soldiers came upon the Indians about 1 o'clock in the morning, but the renegades escaped in darkness. His squaw has returned to the agency, and the troops are again in pursuit of the outlaw.—Headlight.

It is evident that the poll tax law caused quite a falling off in the vote of this territory this year. This falling off may be attributed partly to the fact that the law requires the payment of poll tax at least 60 days prior to the general election, and at that time there was very little interest being taken in politics in this territory. Many who would have paid the poll tax later in order to vote neglected the matter and were unable to vote. If the law had permitted the payment of poll tax as late as the last day of registration there would have been very few voters in the territory who would have neglected to pay their poll tax and the candidates for office on one side or the other have paid up the delinquent taxes. The poll tax is a just item for the school fund and ought not to be repealed. It should be amended so that the poll tax could be paid at any time prior to ten days before any general election. Such a law would disfranchise nobody and would put more than $50,000 into the school fund of the various counties of New Mexico.—Clayton Enterprise.

The birth of a princess to the emperor and empress of Germany, a little before dawn on September 13, diverted public attention from the cholera and from other grave interests. Now that Empress Augusta Victoria has given birth to a first daughter, and not a seventh son, her mind and that of emperor feel relieved of the uneasiness which their superstitions belief in the illego prophecy of the old abbot of the Convent of Lehuin has caused them.

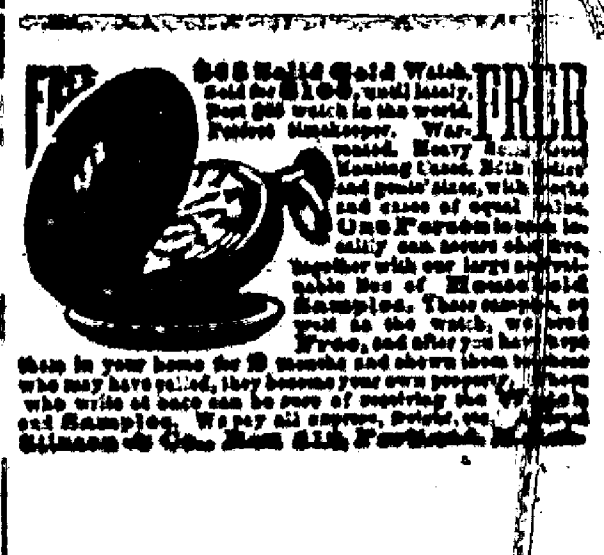

In these prophecies it was predicted that an emperor of Germany would have seven sons, but none of them would succeed him on the throne. The emperor and empress as well as the majority of the German people, believe that these prophecies are meant for William II, because he has already six sons, and because this prophecy follows a number of others which have been fulfilled. The abbot is said to have written in his book about four hundred years ago that the Mark would change its ruler and become the property of Hohenzollerns in the above manner, and this was the first step on the ladder on which the Hohenzollerns rose to their present high position. The prophet of Lehuin also predicted that the old German empire would be totally destroyed by a Western usurper, and this was proven true by Napoleon I.

It is further stated by the abbot that the German empire would be resurrected in another generation by a monarch who would reign long and wisely, and would die at a very old age, beloved and revered by his subjects. This tallies exactly with the reign of Emperor William I.

The next prophecy was that this aged and beloved ruler would be followed by one who would rule but a few weeks and would die, and that he in turn would be followed by one who would have seven sons, of whom, as above stated, not one would be his successor.

The Hohenzollerns all believed in the truth of these prophecies, and it worried the present ruler greatly. Through the birth of a daughter on the basis of the superstition has been destroyed for the present, but the emperor and his wife are young, and the seventh son may yet be born.—Ex.

The sale of peanuts has become an important branch of the wholesale grocer's, confectioner's and baker's trade. Years ago all the peanuts came from Africa, which continent continues to largely supply Europe. The great bulk of those consumed in America come from Norfolk, Va., that port placing from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 bags (averaging from 50 to 100 pounds each) per annum on the market. Virginia is the principal contributor to this enormous output, the quality of these grown there being superior to all others when properly graded, and her freight rates, an important factor, being low. This is in consequence of competition between the ocean carriers and railroads. The Virginia nuts are of large size, "two in a pod." The Wilmington or North Carolina variety is mostly used for "shelled nuts," being too heavy to retail by the quart, and in a shelled state are used by confectioners. The Tennessee peanut instead of two kernels in a pod, has three, is larger, and covered by a reddish skin. When roasted they do not present to the eye so attractive an appearance as the Virginia nut, looking as though over cooked. In fact there is all the difference between these products of different sections as between potatoes grown in Maine and the West. Apart from the wholesale grocers and produce merchant's whose goods regularly reach the consumer, there are many retailers, like the peddlers and hawkers, whose stocks are generally of an inferior grade, the shells being large and the contents often lacking. It will be a matter of surprise to some readers to some readers to learn that one New England firm puts out 1,000 pounds a day of the "shelled" in peanut taffy alone, which finds a ready sale in all parts of the country.  FRIDAY, JAN 13 1893.

THE LOCAL BUDGET

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Barber have returned from their southern trip.
 Mr. Isaac Ellis returned Wednesday from Bonito with a load of lumber.

John West, clerk at Rosenthal & Co.'s, has gone to Tularosa, to attend the wedding of his sister.

Mrs. Weidman has had daisies blooming in the open ground every day this winter, up to date.

The outgoing of A. D. W. Roberts, has sold his house in Lincoln to his successor in office.

Judge Cronin took his departure for Santa Fe last Monday. He will be absent for several weeks.

J. C. Delaney and Thos. Eubank were in town for a few hours Monday.

Mrs. A. O'Neill, P. M. at Fort Stanton, came down to Lincoln this week to make affidavit to her quarterly returns, there being no notary public at the Post. She states that a remittance of $91 postage funds was taken by Parker, the mail robber, but as she has evidence that the money was registered and mailed, she does not expect to be the loser.

New Cook Book Free.

The Price Baking Powder Co., Chicago, has just published its new cook book, called "Table and Kitchen," compiled with great care. Besides containing over 500 receipts for all kinds of pastry and home-cookery, there are valuable hints for the table and kitchen, showing how to set a table, how to serve, how to enter the dining room, etc.; a hundred and one hints in every branch of the ordinary art. Cookery of the very best and richest as well as that of the most economical and home-like is provided for.

"Table and Kitchen" will be sent postage prepaid to any lady patron sending for a ticket (name, town and state) plainly given. Postal card is as good as a letter. Add one Price Baking Powder Co., 124 1/2 and 125 Michigan Street, Chicago, Ill.

Special Offer to Subscribers.

THE WEEKLY GLOBE-DEMOCRAT.

The farmer, the merchant, or the professional man, who has not the time to read a large daily newspaper, will find in the Weekly Globe-Democrat, consisting of ten pages, a paper that exactly suits him—brimful of the best news of the day, sufficiently condensed to meet his needs. Though strictly republican in principles, it never on partisan as to suppress any important news necessary to a correct knowledge of current events. Once a reader, always a reader. Price, $1.00 per year. Any person sending us three dollars for three yearly subscriptions, the weekly will receive and copy free for a year. A sample copy may be had by writing for it. Subscriptions received by all post-offices, by news-dealers throughout the United States, or directly by Globe-Democrat Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Berthold Fleisher, of the house of Michaels & Co., left Lincoln on Monday last, for a visit to his mother, in New York City, whom he has not seen for seven years. Mr. Fleisher stands with the best of the many enterprising young business men of this place, and his friends here join with the Republicans in the wish that he may enjoy "to the top of his bent" his well-earned vacation.

At the election last Monday, Jose Cordova was chosen Justice of the Peace, and Griego Constable.

The following, taken from the Portland Transcript, applies as well to New Mexico as to New England:

"The Maine Board of Prison Inspectors, in their annual report do the public a service by calling attention to the abuse of the pardoning power, in the following words:

"There is not a single convict that does not cherish the fond hope of executive clemency, encouraged by friends and the greed of unscrupulous attorneys. We find on examination of the prison records that since Maine became a State, 103 per cent. of all the prisoners committed to the prison have gained their freedom by virtue of a pardon. We suggest the propriety of taking the pardoning power from the governor and council entirely, and giving it to the Supreme Court, and by them to be made use of only on discovery of new evidence and after a careful study of a complete copy of all the evidence in the case at the time of the trial."

Instances of the abuse of executive clemency have been furnished by every State, and even by the President of the country, and in many cases the great danger to society therefrom has been plainly shown. As a reward of "good behavior" is the pretext often unnecessarily urged, and the crafty, and for that reason more dangerous, convict is the most likely to avail himself of this easy road to liberty. This led to the release of Sawtelle from a Massachusetts prison, who was sentenced for a crime against a man that should have ensured his life imprisonment, and the result of his release was the cold-blooded butchery of his brother. The most heinous abuse of the pardoning power is probably that of the custom of letting loose two convicts at the Massachusetts State Prison, upon each recurring Thanksgiving. Considering the difficulty experienced in this country of procuring the imprisonment of offenders caught even red-handed, the people would seem to be justified in demanding their care-keeping. What with un-called-for recommendations to mercy and other foolery of the sort the average criminal gets a light enough sentence, and there interference with well-merited punishment should end."
