MORE ANCIENT RUINS FOUND.

The Most Magnificent Yet Discovered in North America Was Lately Unearthed in New Mexico.

Rev. G. S. Madden and Rev. Dr. Geo. L. Cole, of Los Angeles, came in from Bland last night, having been engaged for the past week in making archaeological researches in the region half way between Bland and Espanola, and about twenty-four miles west of Santa Fe. Under the guidance of Mr. Madden, who in the past year has spent much time traveling through the region of cliff dweller ruins, Dr. Cole and son and Prof. R. W. Bullock, of Greeley, Colo., last week made some immensely interesting and important discoveries in Parajito canon. They found a communal building, the dimensions of which are 450x560 feet, built of carefully dressed stone laid in mortar, with cement floors, one room of which they excavated. They also made excavations in the burial ground near by, and in both instances they were richly rewarded for their efforts. From the floor of the room they removed about four feet of earth and debris, and exposed a huge fireplace, in which were four large earthen vessels containing the bones of some animal which had evidently served as food for the ancient occupants of the place. Beside the fireplace were found standing several brightly polished altar stones, placed there, perhaps, because their polished surface served to reflect the sun's rays upon the family hearthstone of this curious people, who were probable sun-worshippers. Fragments of pottery were found upon the floor, and two stone axes of Indian make; also a rusty piece of iron that had once served the purpose of a huge knife. Five stone pipes were found; also a bundle of flutes or fifes made from the wing bone of a turkey or eagle, though they were larger than such bones usually are. These are provided with holes for the fingers, like the flutes of today, and were unquestionably used as musical instruments.

The structure contains from 1,000 to 1,500 rooms on the ground floor, and must have been at least two stories in height, possibly three. The upper floor walls were of adobe, it appears, and Mr. Madden's idea is that the domestic life of those people was spent in the upper rooms, that, possibly they lived in true oriental fashion on the roofs of their dwellings. The first floor rooms are also rectangular in shape, and measure 9x12 feet as a rule. The ceilings were high, probably ten feet, and the walls are found in a good state of preservation, now six to ten feet in height.

In one apartment were found large pieces of slag and the remains of a furnace, indicating that these people had some knowledge of smelting ores, and several pieces of copper ore yet untouched by heat were also found near by. A part of the slag was run over an ear of corn, the imprint of which is plainly visible.

In the burial mound were unearthed numerous skeletons, one lying on top of another, and ranged alongside of the bones were the best collection of pottery that Dr. Cole has yet had a hand in securing. In all, about twenty-five pieces of pottery were found. It is of superior quality, as Indian pottery goes, of unique design, and decorated in colors, inside as well as outside. These vessels are heavier than the usual run, some of them being a half inch in thickness. From one of the graves was taken a piece of cloth having a peculiar spiral weave; also the decayed sections of two baskets of intricate and artistic make, the material being a vegetable plant growth found on the adjacent mountains, and mortars, pestles, and one small but richly colored turquoise was also found.

The communal building has 1,200 to 1,500 rooms, and there are hundreds of smaller ruins scattered between Bland and Espanola, a distance of twenty-five miles, showing that more people lived in that section than live in all of New Mexico now. Inscriptions are found in great abundance and other signs point to an advanced civilization.

Mr. Madden does not deem the buildings older than from four to six hundred years, and believes that the inhabitants were driven southward by earthquakes, or the pressure of a foreign invasion, after having lived peacefully at least a thousand years in the Rio Grande valley, and having sent out the colonies that settled Mexico and founded the dynasty of the Montezumas.

The collection was boxed up at Bland and shipped to the Northwestern University at Chicago, which institution Dr. Cole is representing in his archaeological work. The doctor's son had a fine camera with him and took many photographs and measurements which Dr. Cole will refer to in his forthcoming book on the ancient ruins of this section.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

TOWNE AND TEDDY TO TAKE THE STUMP.

Washington, July 26.—Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota, is to be pitted against Roosevelt on the stump. Vice-Presidential Nominee Adlai Stevenson's operations are intended to lie along other lines. It is expected he will visit and confer personally with a great many leading old-fashioned Democrats, who have been dissatisfied with the course of the party since 1896, and try to convince them that their present duty is to come out and work for the party and exert all their great influence to restore confidence in the conservatism of Democracy.

He will undoubtedly make some speeches during the campaign, but they will be of the old-fashioned Democratic sort, and it is calculated that his greatest contribution to the strength of the ticket will be through his personal influence upon individuals.

OUR TROOPS TOOK NO PART IN LOOTING TIEN TSIN.

Washington, July 26.—The navy department this morning received the following cablegram from Admiral Remy:

"Taku, July 25.—Bureau of Navigation, Washington: Col. Meade condemned to Mare Island hospital with rheumatism, Major Wallace succeeding to the command of the First regiment. My obtainable information clears the marines of any imputation of burning of houses or looting at Tien Tsin. REMY."

ROTTENNESS OF REPUBLICANISM.

Outrageous Misuse of the Bureau of Education to Distribute Campaign Literature Printed in England.

Washington, July 24.—An exposure of the administration's method of circulating pro-British literature through the Bureau of Education, an account of which was printed in the Republic of Sunday, was brought about through J. D. Via, of Virginia, a former superintendent of the bureau's folding room, and Congressman Richardson, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, to whom Mr. Via reported what he had discovered on a visit to the bureau's mailing room.

Mr. Richardson promptly addressed a letter to Prof. Harris, chief of the bureau, requesting that copies of pamphlets bearing upon the relations between Great Britain and the Boer republics be forwarded to his office. In response Mr. Richardson received a large package of pro-English literature, all the publications having been issued by the Imperial South African Association of London.

Chairman Richardson has ascertained that Prof. Harris issued personally the orders which caused the work of distribution to be begun, and then took a steamer for England. It is believed that Harris received orders from Secretary Hitchcock and that Hitchcock was instructed to make use of Harris by some person who was authorized to speak for the president.

It has developed that the postage on the literature was not paid by the bureau or the department, but by persons whose names are withheld.

Senator Hanna, as chairman of the national committee, or Perry A. Heath, as secretary of that body, undoubtedly guaranteed that the postage bills would be paid. The disclosures prove that the Republicans are alarmed over the Boer issue, and, fearing to meet it in the open, are endeavoring to counteract the effect of the Democratic position by a secret, and as Representative Richardson adds, "illegal distribution of pro-English literature."

Mr. Richardson said: "It is the most outrageous misuse of the powers vested in government officials that has ever come to my attention. It is also clearly illegal."

THE PANAMA REVOLUTION GROWING MORE SERIOUS.

New York, July 26.—A dispatch to the Herald from Panama says:

"Fighting between the government troops and the revolutionists began early yesterday morning. The rebels attacked the outskirts of Panama and the fight continued all night, with heavy casualties on both sides. Efforts begun yesterday to bring about an armistice in order that the dead might be buried and the wounded collected, kept up during the night and proved successful this morning. It was agreed by the leaders that hostilities be suspended until noon tomorrow. The consuls are using every effort to prevent a bombardment of the city by the insurgents. Among the revolutionists killed are Generals Temistocles, Diaz and Joaquin; on the government side, Colonel Barona, Majors Holguin and Rolando Linares and Captain Pedro Pachio are killed."

GOOD BASE BALL GAME:

WHITE OAKS VS. CAPITAN.

Saturday afternoon the White Oaks base ball team left for Capitan to cross bats with the Capitan boys on their own grounds.

About thirty-five White Oaks people, besides the nine, were in attendance upon the game Sunday to enjoy the sport, and incidentally, to "root" for the White Oaks team.

The game was called at 1:30, p. m., and the White Oaks boys took the field. Captains scored one run and were returned, and our boys came to the bat, scoring four runs. The second inning Capitan made a goose egg, but scored one run each in innings three and four. White Oaks was goose-egged in second, third and fourth innings. Capitan scored twice in the fifth inning, making them one ahead, and excitement ran high. But our boys had an inning coming, and led off with four scores, the game standing 8 to 5 in their favor. At the end of the game the score stood 12 to 7 in favor of the visiting team, the White Oaks boys winning without playing their ninth inning.

John Gallacher scored the only home run made by either team.

JOSEPH AND FRANK SPENCE ARE TRAVELING IN EUROPE.

Chas. Spence, of the firm of Spence Bros., who own ranches near here called at the EAGLE office yesterday and gave the EAGLE a brief account of the trip his brothers, Joseph and Frank Spence, are making through the countries of Europe.

They first made a tour of the eastern states winding up in New York, from which city they sailed on July 7th, for Queenstown Ireland, arriving there on the 14th, of July. In their first letter home, which was dated Dublin, July 16th, they write: "We go from here to Belfast, then through Scotland, England, Germany, Belgium, Switzerland and France, and will leave Paris for New York about September 15th." They say of Ireland: "The Irish people are glad to see Americans, and as they say, 'Why shouldn't we be? All our sons and daughters are in America.'" They declare, although "Mexicans," they have been received and treated as princes, and have greatly enjoyed their trip thus far; and consider it well worth the while of those who have the means and disposition to see the countries of Europe.

THE SETTING UP OF TYRANTS TO RULE.

France has shown the world how a government uses colonies to keep the public mind busy and the public temper quiet. Algiers, Tonquin and Madagascar have each served the purpose many times. Dissatisfaction with government policies has been stifled by a timely forced demand upon national pride. An expedition, reports of battles and parliamentary glorification over the march of the flag to wider frontiers have answered the purpose of momentary exaltation of public opinion while the interest in public reforms at home has time to exhaust itself and die out.

In most cases, possibly, this mode of guiding the popular impulse in France has been useful to the nation. Grant that much, just as we grant that a wise despotism might be the best government if a despotism could be depended upon. The question is whether we in America desire to be played with by a centralized government. Colonies destitute of the rights of manhood, controlled by a home government without constitutional limitation, differing from the sovereign race in customs and thought, are readily converted into nests of disturbance. The persons, always ambitious of office and power, who possess the home government will certainly use this ready instrument to lure aside or crush out criticism of home affairs.

When the American government becomes an unchecked tyrant in distant lands and among alien peoples, the citizens of America will become the playthings of ambitious and cunning leaders. It would soon be almost impossible to force a reform in domestic affairs, for example, in the trusts, in the tariff, in the currency or in the Federal expenditures against the will of the governing clique or the governing class.

Americans have been free and have held their central government in their hands because they have not been entangled in foreign alliances and have not burdened themselves with the troubled mastership of distant races. They have concentrated their political intelligence upon the problems arising from their domestic progress.

They cannot abandon their principles, change the foundations of their system and place military conquests above internal justice without paying the penalty of becoming the creatures of the strong governing class which they seat firmly in power by the very act of change. They will cease to command, and will learn the servile lesson of obedience. They will begin to tremble at the thought of criticising the government and acquire the habit of facile turning from one little diversion to another as bosses pull the strings.

The common people cannot gain anything from imperialism. If there is gain at all, it will be for a few syndicates. At the very best there is nothing for the masses but the foolish thought that they are in some way partners in glory, conquest and tyranny. There is abundant loss—loss of respect for the doctrine that all men are equal under the law, loss of liberty, loss of the power poor men possess as sovereign voters, loss of free speech, loss of interest in the people's own wrongs, and loss of ability to help themselves. Imperialism is an issue upon which the common people cannot wait. Give it the indorsement of popular approval in 1900 and it will not soon be curbed. No man can see how the people of the United States can restore their system of government if they deliberately throw it away when the question is squarely put.—St. Louis Republic.

Heartburn.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich heartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too frequently of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn may be avoided. The Great Presidential Campaign, 1900.

The wars of America have, heretofore, settled affairs of state. Great questions of policy, of national motives and national conclusions have been answered as soon as the battle smoke cleared away, and the victor realized his victory. The war with Spain is unlike its predecessors. It has not answered questions, but has created problems which may not be solved lightly. These problems are being formulated by the political parties, and before they can be definitely settled at the ballot box it is necessary that the people be informed in regard to the situation. The result of the campaign of 1900 will make a broad mark upon the page of history; it will doubtless establish the policy of the great Republic of America for a quarter of a century. It is vastly important, therefore, that every citizen shall study the situation through that best of mediums, a great newspaper. The Semi Weekly Republic which affords a comprehensive view of political situation in all its bearings. It publishes the new news. The Semi Weekly Republic is a Democratic paper, but it offers to its readers the news regarding all the political parties, and this without prejudice. It is a fair newspaper. Its telegraph and cable news service has been proved to be the very best employed by a modern paper. Its special features are unsurpassed. It is the newspaper for the reader who has not access to a daily paper.

News features, art, and literature combine to make the Republic's Sunday Magazine a specially attractive weekly magazine. The half-tone illustrations printed in this magazine surpass anything ever attempted by a newspaper. These products of photography are worth the price of the paper. Special articles by trained writers on the news and the subjects engaging the public attention are prepared for the Republic's Sunday Magazine. A distinctly useful and attractive feature of this magazine is the fashion department. Always reliable and up with the times, the ladies find the fashion page a delight. Indeed, The Republic's Sunday Magazine appeals to every member of the family.

The subscription price of the Semi-Weekly Republic is $1.00 per year. The Republic Sunday Magazine $1.25 per year. Both papers are now being offered at the very low price of $1.50 for one year. To secure this low rate both must be ordered and paid for at the same time.

Address all orders to THE REPUBLIC, St. Louis, Mo.
