Mr. Bryan says he is in the world to do good. He is undoubtedly "doing" Judge Parker good.

What has become of Mr. Bryan's paramount issue, imperialism, these days? One never hears of it even from Mr. Bryan himself.

The republican party has always been a consistent party. The democratic party changes its policy about every four years.

The trouble with the democratic papers of the territory is, not that they know so much, but that they know so many things that are not so.

The advance guard of the democratic host has now pitched their tents in the republican gold standard camp. They may be expected to catch up on the tariff march of progress in about eight years more.

The American people are not being fooled much by the democratic talk about high prices and high tariff. Since the days of Cleveland and free trade they have learned that it is the ability to get things that counts.

The political agony will soon be over and the Outlook can turn its attention to local and county affairs. The candidates that are elected will then be the servants of the whole people and Lincoln county will forge ahead as she has never done before, because her resources are becoming better understood and will attract men and money to develop them.

A vote next Tuesday for Senator W. H. Andrews means just that much given in material aid to the advancement of New Mexico's resources. A vote for Money means simply a vote for "me and my pa."

After the election the United States will go right on the same as now, governing the Philippines in the best interests of the Filipinos, and not in accordance with the plans of the democratic party, if they have any plans.

Some of the European diplomats want the President of the United States to step in and stop the war in the far east; Kuro-patkin wants somebody or something to stop the Japs. It is really wonderful how many dissatisfied people there are in the world.

"I believe incidental protection to our own industries is right and proper," said Henry G. Davis in the American Senate. This is the same Henry G. Davis who pronounced as "admirable" the St. Louis platform which declares that protection is "a robbery of the many to enrich the few."

The feminine fad for snake skin belts had but a short run—merely a waistful extravagance. Besides it made the fellows squirm every time their arms came in contact with them and there was a disagreeable rustle about them very irritating to those sitting in the next room.

Instead of Mr. Andrews seeking to load the people with additional tax burdens, as is charged by certain irresponsible persons, he continues to build railroads which develop the country, give employment to hundreds of men, and eventually pay about one-half the taxes in the counties through which they run.

As Mr. Rodey, who is seeking to disrupt and defeat the republican party, by open collusion with the democratic bosses, still holds his seat in congress by the grace of that party would not common honesty as well as common decency demand that he first be "well off with the old love before he is on with the new."

We think it was Carter, of the Albuquerque Sunshine, who told the story of a Las Vegas man, who being too lazy to work, too proud to go to the poor house and too honest to steal, determined to commit some genteel offense which would give him free board and lodging in jail for a few days, without leaving any serious strain on his reputation. He accordingly went out on the street and began kissing all the girls he met. Before he found one who would order his arrest he starved to death. That kind of thing might have happened in Las Vegas or even in Albuquerque, but here in White Oaks—well! What! It is a terrible thing to let a fellow being starve in a land of plenty.

Speaking of the marriage of Judge Frank W. Parker to Miss Anna Davis, which occurred at Santa Fe recently, this affair should not be confounded in any way with the Parker-Davis nuptials which were pulled off at St. Louis during the democratic convention held there some time ago. Henry Gassaway would be entirely too frisky as a running mate for our New Mexico judge.

With such shining examples before him as Horace Greeley, Salmon P. Chase, Lyman Trumbull, on down through a long line of illustrious malcontents to Jerry Simpson, Delegate Rodey should have considered well his course before taking his ink. It took the Pecos populist two leaps to land himself in the democratic ranks, but it now looks as if Rodey would do it at a single jump.

Judge Frank W. Parker, of the Fifth Judicial District, was married to Miss Anna Davis at Santa Fe, October 26. Notwithstanding the fact that the judge will now take on much added dignity, he can expect to have his opinions overruled about every day and the judicial ermine hung up to air in the back yard on Sundays. He no doubt will be compelled frequently to hold court in chambers where he will not be the deciding judge, and where demurrers will not be entertained even for a little bit.

The Outlook has finally reached its last issue during the present campaign. During this time it has not said one word derogatory to the character or standing of the gentlemen on the opposing ticket. They are all friends of the editor, whom he takes pleasure in meeting at any time, and he has not yet discovered that a man becomes a hyster and a rascal the moment his political associates select him to fill some one of the county offices. Whether elected or defeated he can still greet them as neighbors and friends, as one who holds character above partisanship and manhood above mud slinging.

The tariff does not seem to be much of an issue this year with the democrats. Last spring a New York paper said that a democratic candidate was wanted who should be in favor of free trade but who would be content not to meddle with the tariff at the present time. Judge Parker just fills the bill. In his letter of acceptance he said he believed the tariff ought to be reduced, but as the senate would remain republican during his entire term, if he was elected, there could, in all probability, be no change in the tariff. This, no doubt, would relieve his administration of a very great responsibility and give satisfaction to the mass of both parties.

THE CANDIDATE.

I tramp the country o'er and o'er,
I sleep upon the ground,
I beg for votes from door to door.
Through all my dismal round,
And when a voter I have caught,
I try to cinch him fast.
But dog my cats, it comes to naught,
He slips my grip at last.

W. S. PRAGER, THE MAN.

The reasons for Mr. Prager's election to the next Territorial Assembly, are so plain that it is hardly necessary to recite them.

This district is vitally interested in prospective legislative matters at the coming legislative assembly. No man could be selected for this office who could do as much for us as Mr. Prager. He is personally acquainted and on friendly terms with every man who will have any influence at Santa Fe next winter. He is one of the pioneers of this district and knows our needs and interests perhaps better than any other man. He is a part of this country and its interests are his interests. Would it not therefore be folly to send practically a stranger to the legislature when such an able man as Mr. Prager is willing to devote his time, influence and energies to our service?

Think this over and lend your personal influence in behalf of Mr. Prager on election day.

The editor of the Outlook during the campaign now about to close has not regaled its readers with a weekly fulmination as to the character and fitness of the candidates running on the republican ticket. This he considers of questionable utility even in doubtful cases where a candidate is but little known to the voters. But in the present instance it would have been wholly uncalled for. The men composing the ticket are all pretty generally known throughout the county, some were born within its limits and the others have been residents of the same for many years. Taken all through it is characterized by some of the men of the opposing party as the best all-around ticket ever put before the people by the republican party. Be this as it may, they are all men of high character and so universally respected by all classes that anything further said in their behalf would be superfluous. They will average up a man for man with their opponents on the democratic ticket, and in most cases are far better qualified by business methods and training to discharge the duties of the offices they are seeking to fill. It is a mighty poor kind of republican who will not vote his ticket next Tuesday.

BETTER THAN DEMOCRATIC GUSH.

The American public knows its work in the Philippines. It has no cause and no reason to be ashamed of it. Six years ago it found the archipelago without public education, without a civil administration either honest or efficient, without sanitation, undefended shores, open to Moro raids, organized local robbery (dacoity) in progress over every island, its lands burdened by the exactions of the friars, and its cities scourged by every contagious disease known to the east. It had never known local self government, representative institutions, or civil and religious liberty.

In six years the United States has removed the incubus, centuries old, of land ownership by Spanish monastic orders. It has reduced the islands to peace and crushed local robbery. It has restrained the plague, small-pox and tropical fevers with a system of sanitation before unknown. It has created a system of popular education. It has spent upon this work alone the sum of which Spain used to support its garrison. It has expended more upon education in the Philippines than Great Britain spends in all India. It has begun local self government. Representative institutions are near. Civil and religious liberty are assured to all. The trade of the islands has doubled. Great disasters have been met by liberal appropriations. This great work has been done in six short years.—Philadelphia Press.

The astute embryo politician of the Capital News has very considerably and eternally settled the tariff question in his own mind, and for his constituents by a consecutive course of wrangling with illogical conclusions in the way taken almost wholly from the foreign literature run through the pages of Tom Taggart's dry

The less the people can buy, the less the market demands. The less the demand, the less the production. The less the production, the less the work. The less work, the more workers idle. The more workers idle, the more workers ready to accept lower wages, and the lower the wages will be. Hence—the higher the tariff the lower the wages!

That seems to go through the machine all right. We do not claim to be a tariff reformer a little bit, but let us try just a shovel full for luck. Now turn. Here she comes!

"The lower the duties, the more goods imported, the more foreign goods imported, the less manufactured here. The less manufactured here, the more laborers thrown out of employment. The more laborers thrown out of employment, the more starvation and want. The more starvation and want among the laboring men, the more charitable soup houses necessary. The more soup houses established, the more tamfool tinkering with the tariff has been done. The more tamfool tinkering that has been done, the more calamity to the country. The more calamity for politicians of the above caliber to feed upon, the more votes. Hence the lower the tariff the easier access to the public crib."

DON'T KNOW HOW TO BE DECENT.

A democratic newspaper not a thousand miles from here, gets into a fit of the megrims and horrors over the defeat of Rodey in the republican convention and vapors as follows in last week's issue:

"Will the hard working, tax-burdened people of New Mexico vote for such a man as W. H. Andrews in preference to their champion, friend and neighbor, E. S. Rodey?"

Such silly drivel coupled with senseless abuse of the regular republican nominee, mixed up in about equal parts with five cents a line local notices, neighborhood items not taxed, and a few legal ads, take up about four pages of the sheet above referred to.

If that kind of thing was to go on forever, we might all pray for the fool-killer of hike him to this same newspaper office and gather the fruit that hangs ripe for the knocking. If Mr. Rodey has ever relieved in any preceptible manner "the hard-working, tax-burdened people of New Mexico," during the four years he has been in congress, nobody has ever heard of it. Besides if Mr. Rodey had been re-nominated this same sheet would have been howling just as lustily "fraud, corruption, Hubbleism" and "Statehood fiasco." This kind of work is necessary, no doubt, to remind humanity of its depravity, but are never expected to become a factor in running a decent political campaign, at least not during the present cycle of anthropological evolution.

ANDREWS VERSUS MONEY.

The democratic papers are now claiming that Senator Andrews is not a citizen of the territory. Well, he has been here long enough to have served in the New Mexico Council from Sierra county, where he has extensive mining interests. He has been here long enough to build over a hundred miles of railroad through a country hitherto undeveloped, paying the way for thousands of homestead settlers along its line through the rich Estancia plains. He has been here long enough to secure the investment of millions of hard cash in New Mexico enterprises, which ought to entitle him to some credit, rather than the abuse which is heaped upon him simply because he seeks an office which will put him in a position to do even more for the material interests of the territory. On the other hand what has Mr. Money done? The son of a Mississippi congressman, he came here about eight years ago, following Horace Greeley's advice. At the time, if he did not actually have an appointment in his pocket he must have had a commission sprouting for a very short time thereafter we find him holding office by appointment and he has somehow succeeded in drawing an official salary by appointment most of the time since; thus taking money out of the hands of the taxpayers instead of putting it in as Senator Andrews has done.

This paper has no fault to find with Mr. Money. He is no doubt a very capable trustworthy young man and probably earned his wage, but it can see no manner of reason or consistency in this abuse of the other man whom these same hyster newspapers would be lauding with windy compliments for his grit and enterprise if he were not running for office, or was so unfortunate as to be on the democratic ticket.

Can anybody recollect when the affairs of this county were not in the hands of the democrats? Other offices have changed hands frequently, but this, the most important of them all, so far as the taxpayers are concerned, persistently remains in the hands of the opposition party, simply because republicans have, through personal grudge, or real or fancied wrong, made it possible. It is high time this office should have an airing by a republican hand, so let every voter who is in favor of economy in their county affairs put his shoulder to the wheel next Tuesday and elect Estalano Sanchez and Capt. Krouse, remembering that a vote against either one of these men may result in giving us a democratic board for another two years, and democratic economy does not always economize in public office.

From the large quantity of manure being dumped in the gutters in upper White Oaks anyone it looks as if the town was going into the hot bed business and would have plenty of vegetables and other green truck for the early spring market.

John Taylor entertained a host of his young friends at home Monday evening. Every one present reports a very enjoyable time, just as one can when the world is young and hearts are light. Lucky is he who can carry sunshine and youth in his heart always.

El Paso and Old Mexico seems to be a Mecca for White Oaks men with business qualifications. There are almost enough already holding positions down in that lower country to organize a colony. They climb back here however, once in a while to get a breath of cool, invigorating air, lest they forget.

Rev. Paul Bentley, of the Methodist Church South, who was assigned to this charge by the late annual conference of that church, arrived Wednesday and assumed the care of his flock. From Rev. Bentley's personal make-up we should infer that he would not be averse to indulging a little muscular Christianity if occasion required.

A party of hunters consisting of N. B. Taylor, S. G. Wiener, Alfred James, Allen Lano and George and Ed Queen, went out to Red Lake Thursday of this week. They expect to bag every thing found ranging wild between the lake and the Oacura Mountains, from a giraffe to a "Wahabito" or never come back wearing a whole hide.

Will Tomkins who was working for the Santa Fe Railroad company on a bridge near Deming received quite a painful injury about a week ago. A ladder on which he was standing fell with him, his knee striking on a timber fracturing his knee cap about the center. He was taken to the company hospital at Las Vegas, and was doing well at last accounts without much danger of the hurt lasting him for any great length of time.

W. M. Lino came in a few days ago for a visit with home people. He has been away most of the summer and fall hunting underground currents and deceiving them to the surface. He now wears his best suit of clothes and a benign smile. He has just recently struck a fine well of water about six miles northeast of Corona, and in a fine range country, not heretofore utilized. He has already had some very tempting offers for his find, but may conclude to utilize it himself.

Doctor and Mrs. Paden have lately returned from a short visit to the Ellis ranch near Oacura. Doc didn't bring any slaughtered game back with him, but then he says he did not go to hunt. The inference is that the quail and cotton-tails saw him coming and took to the high hills. From him the Outlook man learns that Mrs. Ellis started to the World's Fair last Sunday, taking with her some of apples from her own orchard that will just about lay over anything in that line raised anywhere else in the world. If they are like the ones Doc brought back with him they are beauties sure enough, and the fruit and vegetables raised on that ranch go almost beyond ones credulity.

Educational Column

Conducted by Prof. H. C. Harper
ANGUS, NEW MEXICO.

Miss Ada Martin has taken charge of the Hulo school on the Riohondo.

Miss Lyman is teaching the Pflugston school on the Mesa.

Mrs. Ruth Cooper has a large school at Confort this year.

J. B. Wharton is teaching a large school at Hondo.

The Territorial Teachers Association will meet at Silver City Dec. 27, 28, and 29. Prof. H. C. Harper has been requested to read a paper before the association.

Since Colonel Chaves, our present Supt. of Public Instruction, has definitely stated that he is not a candidate for reappointment to his present position, it is to be hoped that the leading educators of the territory may prevail upon Governor Otero to appoint a practical schoolman to this important position.

It is also to be hoped that the voters of this county may place at the head of our schools as county superintendent, the most experienced man in school work available.

In his eleventh annual report the Territorial Superintendent of Public Instruction says: "There should be more equitable distribution of the school funds, to the end that the work in lower grades and primary schools in the rural districts shall be systematized, their general standing raised and placed upon a more substantial footing. The time has now arrived when it becomes the imperative duty of the territory to call a temporary hall, devote its greater energies to the building up of its common schools proper, and thus bring them within reasonable touch of the school work as carried on in the higher institutions."

"This education forms the common mind.
Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."—Pope.

To The Public.
I wish to emphatically contradict the rumor that is being persistently circulated around the county, that I am connected in business with the democratic candidate for treasurer.

I severed my connections with the Tallaferra Mercantile Co., of White Oaks, on February 1, 1902, and since that time have not been directly or indirectly interested in any kind of business with Mr. Tallaferra. I make this public announcement in view of the fact that it is currently reported that we are business partners.
