COUNTY NEWS.

Sam Corbet makes a tip top postmaster.
John W. Poe has gone to Las Cruces.

Billy Atkinson, foreman of the Lea ranch, was in town Tuesday.
Wells only have to be sunk about twenty-five to thirty feet to find good water in this vicinity.

The ERA will now be a weekly visitor to the family circle of Lieut. D. H. Clark, Ft. Buford, Dakota.

They are catching fish out of the Pecos river this long season, so a gentleman writes us from below.
Mariano Torres died at his residence, above this place, Sunday night, of old age.

W. H. Hardy, J. A. Graves and J. M. Robb, of Seven Rivers, were proving up on land Saturday. The ERA follows them.

Parties from Roswell have been here selling watermelons. They were large and luscious and found ready buyers $1.50 each.

Mr. J. S. Whitley, returned from Seven Rivers and Roswell Tuesday night. He says he never saw a better all around cattle country.

D. C. Nowlin comes out in a business card in this issue. He is a first-class surveyor, and letters addressed to him at this post-office will receive a prompt answer.

Sheriff Poe will start on a tax collecting tour next month. See ad. on last page for dates and places of gathering in the shelds at the different precincts.

Frank Lesnet, on the Ruidoso, has taken a cow-boy on the shares, so we hear. The young gentleman made his appearance on the 3rd inst. The mother is doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Young and family made Lincoln a hasty visit—coming over on Monday and returning the next day. Dick is one of the pioneers of White Oaks, and one of the finest gentlemen in the county.

The last of the week a love-sick young man was serenading his best girl with a ten-cent accordion and a double-barreled shot-gun. He would play the instrument a while and then fire the gun. He was promptly arrested.

"Boston," that's all the name he is known by, came in Saturday with the iron door, which has a combination lock, for the new vault in the probate clerk's office. W. J. Littell, the contractor, is here, and will commence work in a few days.

In answer to several letters received during the last two weeks, about the Interpreter, we will say to all, that if you take the paper out of the office you will be held responsible for it. Refuse to take it from the office if you don't want it.

Maj. Llewellyn and Capt. Branigan, have sold their ranch on Indian Creek, south of Elk springs, near the reservation, to Mr. Casey of the Champion Cattle Co. Maj. Llewellyn has been appointed attorney for the above named company.

An artist is at work on the Chisum ranch, making an oil painting. He is the same man that put the Dorsey ranch, in Colfax county, on canvas. He has a beautiful subject to work on, and if he does it justice it will be one of the prettiest paintings that ever adorned the walls of an art gallery.

Lieut. Davies and wife, of Ft. Stanton, made friends in this place a visit Monday. In October next, the Lieutenant will be granted a six-month leave. He, with his wife and family, will visit the far east, New York, also the far west, California, before they return. Lieut. Davies is one of the nicest little gentlemen in the Fort, and we join his many friends in wishing him a pleasant journey and a safe return.

Dr. A. G. Lane and wife passed through Lincoln Wednesday on their way to the extreme southern portion of the county, where the Doctor goes to look after the schools, being county superintendent.

Three prisoners escaped from the penitentiary grounds in Santa Fe last week, among them being Dan McCarthy, who was sent up from this county at the last term of district court, for seven years for the stabbing of O. D. Kelsey. Full particulars on 3rd page.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Stevenson, of Dona Ana county, was over this week summoning jurymen for the U. S. Court in Las Cruces. J. J. Dolan, Jose Montano, Florencio Gonzales, Billy Mathews and one or two others were requested to be present at the above place on the 7th of next month.

Mr. Wm. Roberts has just received forty head of fine Hereford bulls for his mammoth ranch. A gentleman just up from below informed us that they were the handsomest creatures he ever saw, and that thirty-nine out of the forty looked like twin brothers.

The bunch cost the owners something over $12,000 and they think they got them dirt cheap.

McPherson & Biggs' saw-mill has been moved from the Patos mountains, near White Oaks, to the Agua Chiquita country. Mr. Biggs informed an ERA reporter last week that they thought the move a good one, that there was any quantity of fine timber and water at the new location, and that he thought they would have no trouble in disposing of all the lumber they could get out.

Mr. Alcock consulted the ranchmen south and north of the fence built by him from the Mal Pais across the plains to the White mountains, before erecting it. They were willing and wanted it built. It keeps cattle from drifting and saves the expense of a sign rider for both Mr. Alcock and parties living on the other side. If all interested are satisfied, we see no reason why outsiders should raise a howl.

Lieut. R. B. Paddock, of the 6th cavalry, and Lieut. J. J. Wienberg, of the 13th infantry, have been ordered to Leavenworth for a two years schooling. Thirty-five have been selected from the different posts in the United States, and Ft. Stanton gets two of them. These officers will receive a strict military schooling, and when they return they are supposed to be competent to wear the handle of Major. Messrs. Paddock and Wienberg were to leave the first of the week.

Geo. Kimbrell purchased a package of watermelon seeds last spring, of one of our merchants, and he says only three hills come up out of the whole package. How much more would you want to come up out of a ten-cent investment? Let us see. Say only one melon was grown to the hill. At $1.50 a-piece they would bring you $4.50; seeds, 10 cents; time spent, say one hour; count the hour's work worth $1.00. There would be $3.40 net out of an investment of ten cents. George doesn't care so much for the ten cents, though, as the waste of the seeds.

WHITE OAKS—August 16th.
Maj. Gorden, who is interested in the Williams coal mine, and some others is in town.

A. G. Lane and wife will start on a trip to Roswell, Seven Rivers and Black River this week. They go on school business.

Gov. Rees is expected in this county this week. He advocates the building of a rail road from Albuquerque down the Pecos valley.

Jim Redman has been in town sick for the past week. He is recovering and will soon be able to resume his duties on the Carrizozo ranch.

A large fishing party left here on Monday morning in three wagons, consisting of the Rev. M. Jewell and family, E. W. Parker and family, J.

E. Slight and family, (but no) family, the Misses Lane, Bittler, Sam Wells, and others. They will be gone until Friday and the Rev. M. Jewell will preach Saturday night and two sermons on Sunday.

Gov. Chase, of Dry Gulch, has been spending a few days in camp. He had just come from a fishing trip on the Bonito. It rained so much that they had to give up the sport.

A. J. Bond and party have been heard from and says that he killed three turkey's and caught lots of fish. Arthur, you will have to show the feathers at least.

The church service, held here during the past week were well attended every evening. Mr. Jewell deserves the thanks of this community for his faithful services.

Mr. Frank Coe and family of the Ruidoso, spent a few days here last week visiting friends. People here are inclined to think that Mrs. Coe has the prettiest baby ever seen in Lincoln county. The baby was baptised here. [Hold on; you're hitting pretty close to home.—Ep.]

TULAROSA CANON—August 16th.
An attack of influenza has kept your correspondent under the weather for the past week. As I could not stand the mustard plaster racket, I tried some of the "patent medicine" up the way. But instead of following directions and taking moderate doses, I concluded that by taking the same ad libitum a cure would be the sooner reached. As a result I have been, as Mrs. Spiry Gamp would say, "in disposed" indeed. Nevertheless the shadows have avanted and "Richard" is himself again.

A respective pugilistic entertainment took place in the lower part of the canon a few days since. Like Sambo I admire the manly exercise "when I am sorter propitious like on the suburbs of the crowd," but rather stay away from the ropes. For which reason I guess I had better call no names, but thank the gentleman in private for the item they have given me. It may not be out of place to express the hope, that "such pleasant little affairs, as make life really enjoyable," will take place every once and awhile. Let me observe that I have long eschewed the enjoyments of life. (Emphasize that sentence Mr. Editor).

Mr. Will Smith, brother of the popular "Charlie," arrived last Sunday from Rochester N. Y., and will make his home in this locality. He expresses himself well pleased but he evidently looks at things around him as Sandy Macallister did at the sun, when it once charged to burst through the mist that envelops the "Duchman's Cap." He is welcome and we wish him success and longevity as a New Mexican.

Frank Taylor is what Artemus Ward calls an "amossing" boss. Today he was narrating in the lofty rhetoric, for which he is noted, the many and varied attractions of a certain county in the Lone Star State, while his remarks were anything but complimentary to his surroundings. At last one of his auditors, wearied by Frank's metaphorical effulgence, said:

"If it is such a h— of off a fine country why in the name of the non-denied shoel, didn't you stay there?" "I did stay as long as they'd let me, — the sons of —!! (Tableau, as the curtain fell.)"

School closes in about three weeks and the soul of the weary pedagogue, like a winged boat, floats into the diamond morning of the past. Anon he stands as the evening shadows creep by the murmuring waters of a limpid stream, watching the reflection of the stars, as they grasp with their jeweled fingers the curtain of the night. Again the scene changes: And

"The mock bird softly whistles
In the dewy breath of morn'
The moon is on the altar,
And the tassel on the cord,
But 'shaw! Let 'em be ov—"

so willing, some girls are hard to make "savy" what is up! Mary Ann, for mercy sake, have some style about you, girl! What? you bet he does. "Dulce sidentem, Mary Ann amabo, dulce loquentem." GRANIZO.

FORT STANTON—August 18.
The officers and their ladies had a dance in the Library Hall last night.

Regimental Veterinary Surgeon Waugh, 6th cavalry, is here looking after the cavalry horses.

On Friday night the dudes gave another of their enjoyable hops. Everybody had a good time.

Capt. Wallace's celebrated setter, Dash, is dead. The Captain will miss Dash, as they were inseparable. The big horse race, did not come off. Hitch somewhere. Bring them to the scratch and let the best horse win.

Capt. Rogers and family, Capt. Pratt and Mrs. Davies took a fishing jaunt Saturday. Usual fisherman's luck.

The lawn tennis fever has struck the Fort. Don't think it will be an epidemic, as the doctors understand the diagnosis of the form.

Kid Heller, of the Adjutant's office, is the proudest man in Lincoln county. Cause: a bouncing boy born on Saturday, August 15, 1885.

The barber of D. troop says your correspondent has done him great injustice. He says the shoemaker is only a second hand dynamiter, and he wants everybody to understand that he is the original dynamiter of D troop.

Lieut. R. B. Paddock, 6th cavalry has been detailed for the school of application at Fort Leavenworth, Kas. He will leave for there in a few days. The Fort will lose a fine officer and gentleman in this detail. He is a general favorite.

Sergeant Simon of H. troop, was right when he said with schooners of beer at 5 cents he would do fine shooting at Leavenworth. He got on the department team No. 7. "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Old boy, keep up the schooners, and when you get to snalling you may get on the division team.

The wing shots around the Fort have had fine sport the last week bagging upland plovers. They have been very plentiful, and many's the one that's been broiled for the table use, and right fine eating; they are. They won't remain with us long, as they are a migratory bird. We wish they will longer this week and allow us the pleasure of bagging a few more of them.

Sergeants Horan, Rogge and Gray, of troop E left Monday for the Ruidoso on a fishing pass. From the amount of rations taken, they have gone for a stay. It's money to marbles that E troop never sees a mess from these great fishermen. They may be able to buy a few from some one-suspender boy, who understands the art. LATER.—It's said that they forgot to take the fishing hooks.

The Albuquerque Journal of August 16, 1885, contains a letter from here over the signature of "Stanton." Now, please, "Stanton," don't jump on poor me quite so hard. It really hurts to be told that one only writes to pick fun and ridicule at everybody, and you wind up "God forbid me ever doing that." Now, "Stanton," that looks very nice in print, but the holy parson you have called on to forbid you from ever having any fun, is not going to do it, because "God helps the man who helps himself," and all you have got to do is to write in your "different style," and I will do the same, in doing so our pencils will not come together in deadly array. What say you, is it peace, or war?
DEERS.

STOLEN.
A sorrel horse 14 1/2 hands high; white forefeet, star on forehead; 12 years old. From "41" troop, 6th Cavalry, at Fort Stanton, on the night of August 18, 1885. A liberal reward will be given for its return.

But 'shaw! Let 'em be ov—

STOCK NEWS.

Several ranch trades are about to take place.

The calf crop on the Carrizozo range will probably reach 3,000 this season.

Last week we said the ranch property of Donaciano Serrano had been sold for $10,000. It was a mistake. It should have read John Schriener.

The people seem to take it for granted that President Cleveland will enforce his order and move the cattle raisers from the Cheyenne and Arapahoe lease. The thing has been gone over before with the same result, that the cattle remain. There will be no change in the programme. Texas L. S. Journal.

Bloody murren has made its appearance among the cattle near Fairview. Hill & Adams lost four head of cattle by this disease last week. It is also reported that Alphonto Bourquet of Canada de Alamosa, and Ed. Fest of Cuchillo, have lost quite a number of head of cattle by this trouble.—[S. W. Sentinel.

We believe that Col J. W. Dwyer, of Colfax county, New Mexico, who had been in Denver for the past few days, negotiating the sale of a couple thousand steers, returned home without making the sale. Some of the people hereabouts who are wanting cattle preferred to wait and see if the order from the President to move the cattle out of the Indian Nation would not knock the bottom out of prices in this west country. The expectations is a delusion, we think. The Cherokee cattle will scarcely come this way in any numbers.—[Colorado Record.

Walter L. Vail of the Empire ranch near Pantano, Arizona, is in Los Angeles, California, and in an interview with a reporter of the Express of that city, states, that he intends to ship beef to New York and eastern markets already dressed, and that the object of his visit to Los Angeles is to make arrangements for freight rates over the Southern Pacific, and if they are desirable he will build his own refrigerating cars, and enter into business on an extensive scale. It is hoped that Mr. Vail will receive favorable rates and that shipping beef from Arizona will become one of the features of the territory.

New Mexico must be quite depleted if all the animals that have passed in and through Colorado the present year purporting to come from there were straight goods—bred there, to the manor born, as it were. We believe fifty thousand have come from the Pecos River, in Lincoln county. It is fair to presume that some of them at least followed up that famed river from southern Texas. At any event, many of them had the same appearance as the low down coast cattle.—[Colorado Record.

The above is a slur on Lincoln county cattle. Some of these Texas fellows, driving herds through to Colorado, knowing the reputation our county has for good cattle, have taken advantage of its good name to make a sale. Cattle in this county will compare favorably with the finest herds in the territory. That's what stockmen are doing down here—raising cattle.

The Times-Democrat letter from New Iberia, says: "Charbon is still prevailing to an alarming extent among the stock in this parish. On the broad prairie west of this place the decomposing carcasses are so numerous as to vitiate the atmosphere. Steps are being taken to have the carcasses disposed of by burning. For this purpose a large quantity of oil and tar has been sent to the infected districts. The malady has carried off hundreds of horses, mules and cows. It is reported that several persons have been attacked with the disease, which in one case resulted fatally. Similar advice have been received from Cypre, Bayou Teche, and points on the prairie.

tions was a practical joke, perpetrated by the great warrior on the President. It seems to us that it was a great piece of foolishness on the part of the President to send the General of all the armies of the United States to confer with and settle the disturbances of a few dirty, greasy, thieving Indians, when a captain would have been an officer of sufficient rank to accomplish the desired result, and we believe Sheridan, who usually this time of year is seeking a cool place for quiet rest, thought so too, and to reciprocate, has recommended the President to undertake what will be found an impossibility. The cattle are completely fenced in by quarantine, and their owners will probably tell the President that if he wants the cattle driven out he will be obliged to do it himself. He cannot turn the United States army into a band of cowboys, and we dare say Sheridan has a good laugh every time he imagines Cleveland mounted on a broncho trying to head a wild Texas steer.—[Comet.

NOT A GOOD DESCRIPTION.

For six weeks or more the stentorian howl of the maverick, whose left dorsal fin receives for the first time the imprint or the red-hot branding-iron, has been heard in the land, mingled with the shouts of the cowboys as they scoured the plain in pursuit of the agile steer. The spring round-up—the gathering together of each owner's cattle, the branding of his calves, and the return to his range of the stock that has wandered afar off in search of food and shelter during the long winter months—has been in progress. In this work the cowboy is an all important factor. Modern writers have pictured this individual as a modest, religiously inclined young man, who wouldn't say "sheol" even if a steer tried to kick the roof off his dome of thought, nor do more than gently chide the erring creature if it endeavored to impale its liver upon his horns. More ancient history tells us that the cowboy is a cross between an Italian brigand and a buzz-saw; that he is a walking armory and arsenal; that he spends one day in the saddle and twenty-nine in saloons, shooting out lamps and filling graveyards; that he is a holy terror, a killer from Undertaker-ville, a howling hyena, a bad man from Bitter Creek, etc., etc.

The truth of the matter is that he is neither one nor the other. He may respect churches, but because of his mode of life he seldom rises to the dignity of a deacon. He is just as apt to swear as any other man, and he don't call it "sheol" either. He carries nothing more deadly in the weapon line than a pocket-knife, and never seeks quarrels. He is a good rider, and long experience has made him more intimately acquainted with all the wonderful evolutions and ramifications of bucking broncho. He can throw a lasso with unerring aim, is in the saddle twelve hours a day, and is as much of a gentleman as any other—considering his lack of opportunity to acquire what the world calls "polish," and no more so. He is neither a saint nor a sinner; a jovial, light-hearted, hard-working young fellow, who minds his own business, but who will not be imposed upon.—[Globe-Democrat.

SENATOR VORHEES.

We quote below a part of Senator Vorhees' speech, while defending Capt. Edward T. Johnson, who killed the seducer of his wife in Tennessee. It is such words as these that makes men's hearts soft and bring tears to the eyes of the lookers-on. He said:

"I appeal to you to permit my client to make one honest fight for the purity of home. In his early youth he fought under the beautiful the starry flag—emblem of united power and glory—and with eager enthusiasm offered his young life in the cause of his country, as he saw the right. On the 23d day of September, 1864, this sad and lonely man, bereaved and stricken beyond cure in this world, made one battle down in yonder mountain gorge, twelve miles away, not merely to punish the destroyer of his own dear home, but in vindication of the principal which makes all home secure from the intrusion of the lustful outlaw. He fought for 'Home, home! Sweet, sweet home!' and when the reports of his double-barreled gun echoed on that autumn morning throughout these mountains of Green county, and throughout the State of Tennessee, and all over the Union, they were welcomed by all except lechers, libertines and adulterers as a fit accompaniment to the spirit, letter and melody of the immortal.

"Gentlemen, when you render your verdict as you soon will, it will ring joyously through the world. I have not a doubt that it will be. For the last two hundred years since the dissolute and debauched reign of Charles II. of England, no man free-born and invested with all the rights of citizenship has ever been punished in an English speaking nation for slaying in good faith the seducer of his wife, daughter or sister. After the Restoration in 1660 and during the reign which followed, it is a matter of history that female virtue was a mockery and a jest. The wife, the sister, the daughter were open to the approach and solicitation of the adulterer and the seducer. A carnival of immorality, a banquet of lust succeeded, during which the injured husband was the sport of sarcasm, the jest of the clown, while the successful seducer and the lady of licentious pleasure constituted the hero and heroine of public and private life, at the parlor, ball-room and the stage. The Counts followed their King, and the fashion he made for the times. If a manly husband slew a privileged and presumptuous scoundrel for dishonoring the bed made sacred by marriage vows, he was punished.

"But since that degraded, bawdy reign, both in England and in America, the husband who fights an honest battle for the purity of home has been sheltered in safety, not only by the common law of England as molded by custom but by the common law of mankind as written in the verdicts of juries and derived from the inspiration of the Most High.

"You can but render one of two verdicts in this case. If Captain Johnson is guilty of anything he is guilty of murder in the first degree, and should suffer death. If you should reach that conclusion, I pray you tell your wives and children, as they cluster around you in love and happiness and ask you all about the great trial, what was said and what was done, what the truth was and what it was all about—tell them this defendant was feeble and sick, hardly able to appear in court, and could not hear much of what was said if he was here; that his wife, whom he loved with tender, deep devotion, had been ruined and defiled by his seducer; that his wife was without fault and had done no unmanly thing, yet you have decided he shall die on the gibbet. Tell them all, and they will be filled with wonder and horror at such a verdict."

It is needless to say that Capt. Johnson was acquitted. Such words as these strike a tender spot in the heart of a man. These fiends who makes man's home a hell, should suffer death ten times over.

FAIR PLAY.

"Git up!"

It was in 1864, down in front of Grant's army, and I was a mile or so outside of the Union pickets, having been on a scout. In making my way back I had been followed pretty closely by half a dozen Confederates, and had eluded them by hiding in a thicket. After an hour's rest I was creeping along on hands and knees toward the nearest field fence when the above command reached my ears, and a "reb" stepped in view from behind a large tree.

"Yank, in course?" he queried, as he looked me over, holding his carbine ready for a shot.

I nodded in the affirmative.

"How are you heeled?"

I had a navy revolver in my belt, and showed it to him.

He threw down his carbine, drew a navy revolver from his own belt, and, coming quite close, he said:

"Yank, one of us has got to die. A week ago some of you 'uns set the cabin afire and turned my poor old mother out in the fields to take sick and die. I swore on her grave that I would kill the fust Yank I could draw a bead on, and you're my meat!"

"Are you going to shoot down a prisoner in cold blood?"

"That ain't Silas Curtis, not much! It's ten paces—one—two—three—fire! You shall have fair play."

"You mean we shall fight a duel?"

"Sorter one. I expect you'll shoot at me and miss, and I'll shoot at you and put a ball into your head. I'm no bushwhacker, to shoot a man down without a show; but I'm dead certain to kill you, all the same."

We backed away from each other. The woods were fairly open, and when we had thirty feet between us there was no obstruction to deflect a bullet or annoy the eye.

"All ready, Yank?"

"Yes."

"I'll be fair. You may do the counting. Good-by to you, for I'm a lead shot."

"One, two, three,—fire!"

The two pistols made one report, but as the noise filled my ears I went down. I was bewildered, half unconscious, but realized that I was hurt.

"Shoo, now, but I just raked his scalp!" I heard the man say, as he bent over me. "Say, Yank, we must have another shot. You cut powerful close to my ear, and mebbe I dodged a bit. Come, fair play, ye know."

I tried to rise up but fell back, and at that moment two bushwhackers pushed out of the woods and came running up. I heard loud talking, oaths, threats, and a bullet from a pistol tore through the cloth on my shoulder. Then I must have fainted, for the next thing I remember was of being carried on the man's back through the woods. When he felt me moving he laid me down and asked:

"Say, Yank, how fur is it to your lines?"

"About a mile from where we fought."

"Straight north?"

"Yes."

"Because these bushwhackers was bent on killing you, and to see fair play, I had to plant 'em both. Reckon I ain't no more business in the Confederacy after this. Reckon Uncle Sam won't be any wus on me nor Jeff Davis. Yank, kin ye hang to my neck?"

"Yes."

"All right. Keep this 'ere handkerchief sorter waving, as a signal to the pickets, and I'll carry ye safe to an ambulance."

And clinging to the back of the man who had thirsted for my blood, I was soon inside the lines, and Sam was explaining to the pickets:

"No I ain't no deserter. I've been sorter driven in here because Silas Curtis will see fair play if it takes a leg."

PRISON DELIVERY.

Chas. Spencer, Grant county; Daniel McCarthy, Lincoln, and Jas. S. Lancaster, of Bernalillo county, short term convicts confined in the temporary penitentiary quarters, walked off and disappeared at 2 o'clock this morning. Five guards are kept on duty at these quarters during the night, and patrolmen relieve each other every hour and a half whose duty it is to walk around the building every three minutes, the distance being about forty yards. These guards are kept down stairs where are confined most of the convicts, and in a forty foot room on the second floor, nine prisoners, all shackled and chained to the floor, are kept under the surveillance of the guards. The guards in charge of this floor last night were Canuto Alarid and one Borrego. But one door opens into this room or hall, and according to the rules one guard sits square in the door-way, facing the apartment, while the second guard patrols around the outside of the building, and every hour and thirty minutes they change off, the guard at the door being relieved and sent on patrol, while his companion takes up position in the door-way. Canuto Alarid sat in the door-way, shot gun in hand, and at 2 o'clock this morning Borrego went up stairs to relieve him. Counting noses of the convicts, as the law requires, whenever a change is made, revealed the fact that three prisoners were missing. Canuto Alarid declared he had not been asleep, and for the life of him could not or would not tell anything about the escape. These prisoners wore irons about their ankles that had been riveted at a blacksmith shop, and a chain, one end of which was secured to the floor by a heavy staple, was attached to the shackles and locked securely with a regulation jail lock. With files, supposed to have been stolen while at work on the penitentiary grounds, these three prisoners picked the locks, thus being released from the floor chains; then they broke out six large nails which held a side window down, attached a blanket inside, crawled through the window holding on to the blanket, slide down the side of the adobe house into the alley, and made good their escape. All this was done while Canuto Alarid sat there within five feet of the convicts who could not possibly have crossed the floor to reach the window without clanging their riveted shackles on the floor loud enough to awaken a dead man. Borrego, the patrol, should have passed in and out of this alley every minute and a half—but he didn't.

The jail-birds still wore the shackles when they left the house but have got rid of them ere this. Eight mounted guards started in pursuit at daylight under Deputy Warden Conklin, the supposition being that the men went north. Warden Gregg offers $20 reward each out of his private purse for the capture of the prisoners. He summarily dismissed Alarid and Borrego as guards and will immediately adopt a different plan of choosing guards in which he will have the co-operation of Gov. Ross.—[New Mexican.]

A HINT TO WIVES.

Wife (at the breakfast table)—What time was it when you came home last night, dear?

Husband (with an aching head)—Well-er, I dont know exactly.

Wife—It must have been three o'clock. Were you detained at the office?

Husband—Er-yes.

Wife (anxiously)—I'm afraid you are working too hard, dear. You ought not to confine yourself so closely to business. I am not surprised that you have a headache occasionally in the morning. You really must take better care of yourself. By the way, dear, can you let me have $20?

Husband—Certainly, with pleasure.

It's wrong to mob a man for cold-blooded murder, but it's all right to mob him for horse stealing, if the Professor can be believed.

The Territorial Fair, will be held at Albuquerque September 20th and 30th, and October 1st and 2nd. Lincoln county should be represented.

If JUDGE VINCENT has the backbone a man holding his position is supposed to have, he will dismiss Phillips at once and appoint Webb instanter.

Down in Georgia they tax bachelors $2.50 annually. This tax should be a national one. Tobaccos, whiskies, wines etc., are taxed as luxuries, why shouldn't bachelors be willing to pay for their fun?

It is a custom in all civilized countries to hang men for meditated murder and to send them to the penitentiary for horse stealing. Sly believes in letting them go for murder, and hanging them for horse stealing.

From the way the Professor throws up his hands and shouts "glory," "glory," as to the acquittal of Aragon for the killing of Johnny Hurley, does he mean to convey the idea that his sheet is the champion of murderers?

WONDER if these newspapers who have been blackmailing Genl. Black, because he deserves a pension and is getting it, don't feel ashamed of themselves after reading that letter he wrote to his Danville friend? Shame on you.

HERE is a neat case for a suit for damages: In Atlanta, Ga., a street car ran over a boy in the dark, breaking his leg. He proved to be the son of the driver. Now, why should not the father sue the company for damages?

JONES, the Indianapolis postmaster, who was appointed by the new administration, and who the civil service reformers wanted bounced as an offensive partisan, has been tried and found all wool and one yard wide. He will still continue "to hand you your mail" just like the good Democrat that he is.

It is rumored here in town that the Post Surgeon made a post mortem examination of the body of Roney, who died suddenly at Ft. Stanton a short time ago. He found in his stomach three dinners and in his clenched hand a copy of the Interpreter. His diagnosis of the case is that the deceased came to his death by reason of a plethora of food and Sly's paper.

THE President intends to carry the war into Egypt if necessary in enforcing the order that the cattlemen shall move out of the Indian Territory. Several hundred soldiers have been ordered into that country, with the understanding that if the cattle are not moved by the time specified, they would be called upon to enforce the law at all hazards.

THE statement having been made that Gen. Zachary Taylor's body now occupies its fourth grave, the Louisville Times contradicts it and says: Zachary Taylor's body has never been removed from its tomb at the Taylor homestead, near this city, and consequently never rested at Cave Hill nor at Frankfort. Ekin, U. S. A., retired, perpetuated the custom sev-

WE RECEIVED a newsy letter from I. X. Peck, which we are sorry to say, came in too late for publication in this week's issue. It will be found in our next number.

THE fact that one of the ex-Confederates running for Governor of Virginia is a Republican, and has received the countenance of Blaine, will deprive the bloody-shirt organs of their main stock in trade.

ABOUT once a week, the eastern mail fails to reach us. Who is to blame? Yesterday our mail came up missing, none of the central or northern papers reaching us. Does the postal clerk on the railroad or the postmasters make these blunders?

A WOMAN, named Frankie Morris, who was tried at Osage Missouri, Kans., for poisoning her mother, was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. She was married the next day after receiving her sentence, to some fool who wanted a little notoriety.

C. METCALFE, of the Rio Grande Republican, was married a few days ago in Las Cruces, to a Miss Bowman. Charley, we wish you all the happiness in the world, but what's the matter with those wedding cards? We failed to get ours. LATER.—It came the very last moment and your life will be spared.

SOMESAY Congressman Springer, of Illinois, is the man referred to in that letter of Cleveland's, and our own Chief Justice Vincent the judge. Pshaw, don't you believe it. Vincent was one of the first men appointed by the new President, and if this letter had been written in regard to his appointment, it would have come out long ago. Spring(er) up another man.

WE HAVE noticed in several of the eastern dailies that Ferdinand Ward has decorated his cell with pictures of Gen. Grant, and says that the General's death was by far the greatest trial he had been called upon to bear during his stay in the New York prison. A trial that would result in sending Ward to the penitentiary for life would be better borne by the general public than such hypocritical snivelings over the death of the man whose financial ruin he wrought.

LET us see. This man Chavez who the Professor is going wild over, is the same man that he (Sly) had arrested in White Oaks for burning the Carrizozo range. Swore point-blank that he stood off on a hill some two or three thousand yards and saw Chavez, through a pair of field glasses, set the grass on fire, all for the sake of securing the few paltry dollars that Mr. Alcock and the Stock Association offers as a reward for such offense. Sly was under oath and so was Chavez. As Chavez was acquitted, Sly's word doesn't appear to amount to much. This too, since he repented. Dio Chavez offers $500 reward for the conviction of the man that killed his sheep.

THE New York World has secured the sum necessary to complete the Bartholdi statue, and now seeks pasturs new. It has taken hold of the Grant monument and is asking for subscriptions, from ten cents to $100, from all over the United States. The Liberty Statue was a national affair and the people liberally supported it, but doesn't the World think it is asking a little too much by wanting the people to contribute to this new enterprise outside their own city? This monument is for the City of New York, and the City of New-York should build it, and stop disgracing the name of the dead.

IF FOREIGN correspondents tell the truth, the authorities at Marseilles have been trying to conceal the outbreak of cholera there, and have even prevented the transmission of telegrams relating to the appearance of the plague. The first case among the residents of that city was discovered on July 25th, but it is believed that the demon had begun its work some days earlier among the soldiers stationed there. It appears that the ravages of disease last year did not teach the local authorities the value of sanitation, for the city is filthier than it was last summer. There is one case of suspected cholera reported in New Jersey, but whether the disease has really reached this country is not definitely known.
