Postmaster General Henry C. Payne died in Washington city since our last issue. He was a man of national reputation and had been at the head of the post-office department since 1902.

The Santa Fe New Mexican thinks that the late floods will result in the early completion by the Santa Fe railroad of the Belen cut-off, from Puerco on its main line below Albuquerque, through Abo pass, to connect with its other line building west through Oklahoma.

A girl in Denver has lately made $50,000 in a coal oil operation. The oil was in a gallon can held by her rich aunt while starting a fire, and the girl was her nearest of kin. This is all right for the girl, so long as she does not try to work this same old antiquated deal.

It is to be presumed that the emblems adopted by the republican and democratic parties this coming election, will be the flag and the rooster, respectively. This is as it should be. Old Glory always stays in the air and always will do so, while a fighting cock is doomed, sooner or later, to go with his head down and his tail feathers making a trail in the mud. The appropriateness of the emblem becomes more apparent when we remember that the rooster always does a lot of crowing just before his downfall.

Word comes from Roswell that the lower stories of most of the buildings were flooded, from one to five feet deep, and forty-two buildings were melted down or washed away entirely. At last accounts some of the inhabitants were trying to trade their naked lots for ranches, goats, sheep or anything that has hair and wool on it up here in Lincoln county.

This year there can be no valid reason why any republican should oppose his county ticket. There is not a scrub on it. The objection so often urged against former tickets, that certain persons on them were incompetent or dishonest, or both, does not hold when it comes to the different individuals composing the ticket selected, by the late republican convention. It is composed of representational citizens of Lincoln county, and each candidate is worthy in every way and should secure the support of every voter who believes in republican principles and republican supremacy.

The question now agitating the democratic party is to find out who is running their National Campaign. A hotel man from Indianapolis by the name of Taggart, was supposed to be in charge, then came the statement that Sen. Gorman was to give the matter his personal supervision without entirely displacing the former boss, and now the dispatches announce that Judge Parker, in order to instill a little life into the lagging cause has determined to take the bit in his teeth and do a little sprinting of his own. Teddy needs something a little more strenuous on the part of his opponent in order to make the race interesting, even if it does only come in spurts.

The editor of the Capitan News seems to think most of the generals in command and a majority of the soldiers of the Union Army during the war of the Rebellion, were democrats. It is universally conceded that all who were in the Confederate Army were democrats and if one-half of the troops on the other side were of the same political faith, then we must say the democratic party must have had a hades of a row along about '61 to '65. The writer knows of one regiment of Yanks which voted in 1863 and out of over 800 cast just nine were democratic, and there was no intimidation either. It is to be presumed that this was a fair average of the relative political standing of the soldiers in the Union Army.

The Santa Fe New Mexican of October 7th, says:

"W. H. Andrews, republican candidate for delegate to congress, reached the territory yesterday from Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and went immediately to Tierra Amarilla to be present at the republican county convention and ratification meeting there on Saturday next. Senator Andrews proposes to devote every day from now on until election to the republican campaign and expects to visit every section of the territory. He will do aggressive and energetic work and has no fear of the outcome. That the people will be pleased with his personality, and his appearance admits of no doubt and that they will like him all the better after becoming personally acquainted with him is sure."

The report is being circulated in certain parts of the county that Mr. Canning, our candidate for treasurer, is still connected with the Taliaferro Mercantile and Trading Co., and is being used by his opponents to defeat his election. Just how much of a misdemeanor it would be for him to be connected in a business way with the democratic candidate for the same office it is hard for the average mind to determine, yet it is being used for political claptrap.

A statement is made by Mr. Canning in this issue over his own signature, denying any connection with the firm mentioned. His word is as good as his bond and if the matter needed any further confirmation it can readily be obtained of Mr. Taliaferro.

From the latest reports it seems that the damage along the lower Bonito and the Hondo valleys was much greater than at first reported, and will reach at least $100,000, by the destruction of growing crops, orchards and washing away of the soil. From the Hulbert ranch to the junction with the Ruidosa, the flood took out about everything, and there the waters of the two streams coming together struck the saloon of J. E. Wharton, landing it high and dry against a tree on the premises of Rev. Pope, some distance down stream. After guzzling the contents of this saloon, the already giddy waters went on a tour sure enough and had it about all their own way down to the Pecos, leaving ruin, and in many cases, destitution in their path. Outside of this valley Lincoln county managed to absorb about all the water that fell, doing but little damage outside of washing out some of the roads, and the ranges will be all the better for the soaking they got.

TOUGH ON J. JAMS.

A Kansas City paper tells of a man in that town who has had sixteen distinct attacks of dohrum tremors and is still hunting for a different brand of snakes. Never fear, Jim will fetch him yet. Like some kind of medicine he never fails.

WHY SENATOR ANDREWS SHOULD BE ELECTED.

The best thing for the people of New Mexico to do in the present campaign is to work and vote for W. H. Andrews for delegate to congress.

The reasons are obvious. He is a man who does something. His acquaintance with men of prominence and influence both in the east as well as the west is quite extensive. He has a broad insight as to governmental affairs and could do the territorial much more good than an inexperienced man.

Besides congress, without the slightest doubt, will be strongly republican in both its branches and the advantages of having a man there who affiliates with the majority can readily be seen, while on the other hand, if the democratic candidate should be elected we would simply have Money and "My relatives" to look after the varied interests of this great and growing commonwealth.

A BUTTONED-UP ORACLE.

A party of democratic editors called on Judge Parker at Esopus a short time ago and fired oratory and other harmless missiles at him for an hour, thinking no doubt to draw out some of the latent force and garnered wisdom supposed to be hid away somewhere in the cold storage chamber of his mentality for the purpose of piecing out the deficiencies so conspicuous in his letter of acceptance.

About all they got was this: "I shall not take up your time with any reference to the great issues upon which our party, through its platform and candidates, confidently appeals to the people for endorsement."

Not much slogan about that! It was to get something from this famous oracle, concerning the "great issues" of the campaign, that these men had gone up to the temple at Esopus. What would Teddy have said? Certainly nothing evasive.

The people love a strenuous man. One who is not afraid to say and do something, and do it openly and above board.

JOE BAILEY'S JABBERWOCK.

In a political speech made at Brownwood, Texas, a few weeks ago, Senator Bailey is quoted as saying: "If you hold an election tomorrow and exclude those who cannot read and write, the republicans could not carry four states." Well, now, statistics do not read that way. Suppose we take ten representative states, five republican and five democratic. Counting the native born white males of twenty-one years old and over, and omitting the foreign born and negroes in each, gives the following percentage of illiteracy: Alabama 11 per cent, Florida 9 per cent, Georgia 12 per cent, Louisiana 10 per cent and Texas 6 per cent, all democratic. California 1 per cent, Vermont 2 per per cent and Iowa 1 per cent; these last are republican states.

Following up Senator Bailey's unjustified assertion, let us compare the two states, Texas and Iowa, as to educational statistics, since they were admitted to the Union by the same congress and are therefore nearly the same age, as states.

Texas with a population of 3,048,710, has a school enrollment of 712,629.

Iowa with a population of 2,281,858, has a school enrollment of 560,173. Texas employs 16,170 teachers, Iowa 29,073. Texas for schools has expended $5,923,551, Iowa $9,556,890, during the same time.

Neither Senator Bailey's bald-headed assertions nor his knock-down arguments whether directed against a defenseless fellow member of congress or accounting for republican votes seem to count as against the facts.

LUCKY LINCOLN.

There is no other county in the territory of New Mexico that possesses more attractions or has grander opportunities for improvement than this county of Lincoln. Future developments will some time prove her resources to be inexhaustible, while the people who settle within her borders, will find her climate that happy medium that best conduces to health, vigor and the enjoyment of life.

Nature in the first place has made an equitable division of her territory into mountain, plain and valley. About every mountain range within her limits carries the precious metals, in paying quantities, while her iron and coal deposits are simply immense. Her plains afford grazing ground for vast herds of cattle and sheep, and the hill country a pasturage for goats, while her valleys produce all the different cereals in abundance, so if she was cut off entirely from the outside world there would be no difficulty in supporting many times her population.

Even on the Mesas water has been procured at no very great depth and the land is being rapidly taken up and ranges established away from the water courses which will ere long make their owners comfortable and prosperous.

Within the county lies the Galinas, Jicarilla, Capitan, Patos, Carrizo, Ticson, Nogal and White mountain ranges, opening a field for the prospector unexcelled anywhere in the southwest.

With all these advantages who can doubt that the future of this county is a bright one? Add to all this the fact that her people are progressive, peaceable and law abiding. She has one railroad traversing her entire limits, with others heading her way, so that one could not well miss it by coming here and staking a claim.

THE OUTLOOK is not engaged in any emigration scheme, any further than a sincere desire to see the country build up as it deserves to, but speaks from his knowledge of the facts.

NEW MEXICO GAME LAWS.

As there are a good many inquires as to the latest provisions of the game laws of the territory, a synopsis of the same is given for the guidance of those who wish to hunt without being hunted:

OPEN SEASON FOR GAME.

Deer with horns—with gun only—November and December, each year. Limit, one deer.
Elk, antelope and mountain sheep—killing absolutely prohibited.

Wild turkey and mountain grouse—with gun only—October, November and December.

Quail—with gun only—October, November, December, January and February, each year.

Pheasants, (every species), killing absolutely prohibited.

OPEN SEASON FOR FISH.

Mountain trout (every species) with rod, hook and line only—May 15 to October 15. Size limit not less than six inches. Weight limit 15 pounds per day.

Bass (large and small mouth species), May 15 to October 15—with rod, hook and line only. Weight limit 25 pounds per day.

Game or fish killed or caught within the territory of New Mexico, must not be sold at any time. Where water is taken by ditch for irrigation or other purposes from streams wherein are living fish, as mentioned in the act, wire screens must be placed at the intake of such ditches.

It is unlawful for any railway, express company or any of their agents or employes to receive or have in possession for transportation any of the above mentioned game or fish.

Use of dynamite, drugs, sawdust, etc., is a felony.

Railway construction in the last few years has wrought a great change in the eastern half of New Mexico, and the work is not yet completed.

When the Rock Island built its line across the territory from the Pan Handle of Texas to El Paso it opened up a part of New Mexico that had been a sealed book to all but stock growers and a few adventurous prospectors. The general public knew practically nothing about that part of the territory. Following the construction of that line came the new road from Santa Fe, tapping the Rock Island near the point where the latter crosses the parallel upon which Albuquerque stands. It is but in accord with natural development that a company is now building a line from Albuquerque to connect with the one from Santa Fe.

This new road will put Albuquerque in connection with the Rock Island system and open for it an outlet to the East in competition with the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe. Albuquerque will also get the benefit of new connections with Santa Fe and El Paso.

All this is good for New Mexico, and in a measure it improves the relations between this city and that territory. But if Denver is ever to obtain competitive connection with points in the central and southern parts of New Mexico it will be through an extension of the Denver & Rio Grande system. Ever since General Palmer formed the original scheme of building the Rio Grande there has been talk of such an extension, but it does not as yet seem to be in sight.

It would be well for both Denver and New Mexico if the Rio Grande were extended all the way to El Paso, with branches running to Silver City and various points in the southeastern part of Arizona.—Denver Republican.

Pecos Valley Oil Fields.

With more than two townships of oil-bearing land in the Pecos valley, New Mexico, a syndicate headed by Los Angeles men and backed by eastern capital proposes to supply the fuel for the long desert haul of three transcontinental railroads.

The 80,000 acres, lying in a basin with a formation similar to the strata and incline of the Pennsylvania fields, are checked with holes that reach down to oil sand and expert California opinion is that the field cannot fail.

The project has been financed on an elaborate scale and a few months will determine whether the Southern Pacific, the Santa Fe and the Rock Island will cease to draw on southern California wells for their fuel supply over the great southwestern deserts and depend on New Mexico for their oil as well as much of their coal.

The owners of the vast mineral belt declare that a ready railroad market, and the character of the oil for fuel, give them immunity from the Standard Oil squeeze. They do not intend to be forced out nor to sell to that concern.

Thomas E. Teegarden, D. L. Casselmann and D. A. Casselmann are the Los Angeles men who, undertaking the big project, have enlisted the support of New York, Chicago and Milwaukee capitalists.

Teegarden returned yesterday from San Francisco, where, in consultation with Peck, plans were outlined and capital guaranteed for an aggressive development of the New Mexico fields, already so well opened that Los Angeles experts pronounce them beyond the speculative stage.

There are several rigs at work in the field. More have been ordered here and will be shipped at once. L. G. Sarnow, who has drilled as many wells in California as any other man, will have charge of the drilling.

The opening of these fields will follow a year of sluggish development or assessment work to allow a quiet extension of territory until at least these men hold possessory mineral title to most of the lands that appear to be embraced in the oil zone. The fields are located at McMillan Station, in Eddy county, near Carlsbad.—Los Angeles Examiner.

F. M. Bradford has been appointed postmaster at Russia, Otero county.

The penitentiary authorities now have thirty-three convicts at work on the Santa Fe end of the scenic Route road and twenty-four on the Las Vegas end. Very satisfactory progress is being made and the construction work is as durable and solid as it can be made by the most skilled and competent workmen.

Word comes from Kelly, a mining town in Socorro county, that during a thunderstorm George T. Wilkins was struck by lightning and instantly killed. He was on an ore wagon handling ore from the Kelly mine to the railroad station when killed. He was about twenty-seven years old and leaves a widow and two children.

Former Governor W. T. Thornton, who now resides in Guadalajara, Mexico, has gone to Chicago to confer with capitalists regarding the project of building an electric street railway system in Guadalajara. Mr. Thornton, on behalf of the syndicate, has made an offer to pay the city of Guadalajara $400,000 for the franchise for the proposed electric railway system. Since leaving New Mexico Thornton has become heavily interested in important industrial projects in that country.

A Santa Fe dispatch of September 11th says: Grading on the Albuquerque-Madera is being prosecuted with vigor. Fifty men were employed on the work at present. They are under the supervision of J. W. Orchard, thousands of them are piled up at Moriarty and along the grade to Tijera pass. On Monday the work of trucking is to commence with a force of 100 men and fifty teams. This force is to be increased to 150 men and 100 teams. A camp has been pitched at Frost Station. Later a camp will be established between Tijera cañon and Albuquerque. Work to be done on the Albuquerque-Madera as well as the branch from Frost to the Madera cañon and is to be completed by November 1st. Chief Engineer J. J. Pender is in charge of the project.

The richest man in Mexico, General Land, has been reported to be worth $200,000,000. It is said he is going to make a visit to New York. He will be surprised to see how the country has prospered since he finally abandoned it to the rats.

Graphic Description of These Indians by Colonel Sellers.

Colonel D. K. B. Sellers has returned to Albuquerque, says the Journal, after a most interesting trip to the wildest and most remote part of the Navajo reservation. Colonel Sellers penetrated to the heart of the Carrizo mountains, near where the four corners of New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah come together. The object of his trip was primarily to interest some of the Indians in the project of coming to the Territorial Fair and giving a rendition of the sacred fire dance.

The country is what is known as the Black Horse country and is nearly 150 miles north of Gallup. Black Horse is the great man of the region. He is the leader of a band of natives who have absolutely refused to accede to the demands of the United States or to come when summoned by the federal authorities. A strong body of troops, including detachments from Fort Wingate and Fort Defiance, under the command of Captain Plummer, who is well known in Albuquerque, were sent out to round up the refractory clan, but the Indians stood pat and would not sign a treaty. Black Horse still continues to be the leader of the northern Navajos, and while he does not make trouble he has successfully defied his Uncle Sam's efforts to make him submissive. The federal officials have the greatest respect for him. He always goes heavily armed, accompanied by a bodyguard of ten Navajos, the pick of the tribe, Bear Face, who is to come to the fair, being one of the guard, and his principal lieutenant. Black Horse lives in lofty isolation and allows no white man to hunt or prospect on his domain. If one makes such an attempt he is not shot, but is forcibly deported from the big chief's preserves.

It was into this forbidden region that Colonel Sellers, by dint of his wide acquaintance among the Indians and the regard in which he is held by them, managed to penetrate.

"As I was going along a road up in the mountains," said Colonel Sellers, in describing his trip, "I suddenly came upon a number of Navajos hauling green pine branches and piling them up in a pyramid which had reached a height of twenty-five feet or more. I know they were preparing for some kind of a dance and by using what Navajo lingo I possess I inquired if it was going to be a fire dance. They said 'no' and said something else I couldn't understand. But I stayed and watched and presently an old buck mounted the pile accompanied by his three daughters, all of whom appeared to be under 20 years old. It then dawned upon me that this was an auction. It was carried out much as a white man's auction, the old man clapping his hands and yelling and the young braves making bids. Finally the youngest girl was sold for twelve ponies and six sheep, and the older sisters brought about the same. A dance was gone through with before and after the sale. When the girls were sold and got down from the rude auctioneer's stand the joshing they got from the old squaws was a caution.

"It was the most comical and interesting ceremony I ever saw and the jabbering and yelling of the bidders and the auctioneer was frightful. "There are only three Navajos who are considered eligible to lead the fire dance. Bear Face is considered the best qualified of the three. So for that reason I hunted up Bear Face. I found him in his hogan and after some persuasion got him to come down to the Farmington Fair. There Sheriff Jim Elmer and some more friends of the Navajos came to my assistance and we worked upon the old man until he consented to bring a party of fifty bucks to Albuquerque. It will be the first time that Bear Face or any of his followers have been to a town and the sights of the city will be marvelous to them.

"Bear Face is one of the most grotesque human beings I ever saw. His whole countenance was clawed out of shape in a fight with a bear. He has only one eye, which is away around on the side of his face. Both ears were torn off, his nose is crushed out of place and his mouth is fearfully distorted. If you should take a big squish and stamp on it with both feet you might get a fair representation of the face of this fearfully disfigured Indian. He is a frightful spectacle. "The most curious thing about the fire dance, and something which is not generally known, is the fact that the Indians daub the entire body with adobe to prevent being burned by the flaming torches of cedar bark used in the dance. A thin paste is made of adobe and smeared all over the naked body of the Indian, completely incasing him in a covering of mud, which, being almost the exact hue of the Indian's skin, is not noticeable. With gypsum and red clay the Indian then streaks himself all over from head to heel and is ready for the dance. It is very rarely that one gets his back burned by being beaten with the torches, as the adobe hardens and completely protects him.

"The dance at the fair will be one of the only three or four real sacred fire dances that have been given for many years. The real fire dance is different from the Yabecha as a waltz is from a quadrille. It is very seldom given and this may be the only opportunity of a lifetime to see the weird ceremony just as it is given in secrecy among the Indians. The fire dance will be given in the city on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights of the fair. On the other nights Indian girls will be auctioned on rough riding and other dances and races will be given. "The fire dance is always given for the healing of some Indian who is ailing after looking up to his fellow braves and having received, so to speak, the thirty-third degree.

"The Elmer, Berk McQuinn, Navajo Bill and Al Dardin are four men who know more about the Navajos and can manage them better than any other white man living. They will command the appetites from Farmington and will have charge of the Indian party at the fair. The fair will be held at Farmington on the 26th of September.

Special Agent J. P. Marshall of the Lewis & Clark Centennial Expedition, which will be held in Portland, Oregon, next year, was in Santa Fe last week arranging for a New Mexico exhibit at the Portland Fair. In speaking of the New Mexico exhibit at the St. Louis World's Fair, Mr. Marshall has the following to say: "New Mexico has a very fine mineral, fruit and cereal exhibit now at St. Louis, which, upon the closing of that exposition, will be moved to Portland, as easily as returned home, and be in the good company of the foreign United States government exhibits and visitors. It is a shame that the exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition, in the west, and the Legislature would not see the matter of transporting it to the Exposition at Portland, Oregon, as easily as returned home, and be in the good company of the foreign United States government exhibits and visitors. Miss Nellie Holmes, treasurer of the Young Woman's Temperance Association of Buffalo, N. Y., strongly advises all suffering women to rely, as she did, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your medicine is indeed an ideal woman's medicine, and by far the best I know to restore lost health and strength. I suffered misery for several years, being troubled with hemorrhagia. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains and frequent headaches. I would often wake from restful sleep, and in such pain that I suffered for hours before I could go to sleep again. I dreaded the long nights as much as the weary days. I consulted two different physicians, hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, I tried your Vegetable Compound and the recommendation of a friend from the East who was visiting me.

"I am glad that I followed her advice, for every ache and pain is gone, and not only this, but my general health is much improved. I have a fine appetite and have gained in flesh. My earnest advice to suffering women is to put away all other medicines and to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Miss NELLIE HOLMES, 540 No. Division St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Irene Crosby, prominent in Social Life in East Savannah, Ga., adds her testimonial to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—"It always gives me pleasure to find an article of real value and unquestioned merit. I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound well calculated to relieve and cure the various troubles arising from irregularities and menstrual pains.

"Much suffering could be spared if we only paid more attention to proper living and diet, but as long as women do not do this, your Vegetable Compound has come to the front as a true friend in need. I have been very pleased indeed with the relief it has brought me. I find that I have perfect health now, and that my mind is also more clear and active since I used your Vegetable Compound. It has been of great benefit to me, and I gladly recommend it. Very sincerely yours, Miss IRENE CROSBY, 313 East Charlton St., East Savannah, Ga."

Remember that every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her case or symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and is cheerfully given to any ailing woman who asks for it.

making inquiries into the cheapest forms of producing light, experimented with Cuban fireflies among other things. The insects were placed in the center of concave mirrors and the most delicate instrument in the government observatory was employed to measure the amount of heat radiated by them.

A sperm candle was used for comparison and a flame spot from it which was just as big as the firefly was thrown into the mirror.

The instrument recorded the heat from the candle at once; but no movement was caused by the insect, although the instrument was so delicate that, had the firefly produced even as little as one eighty-thousandth part of the heat produced by the tiny spot from the candle, it would have shown on the records.

It was different with light. Comparing the flame spot of the candle and the light from the insect, the instrument showed that the firefly gave one-eighth as much light as the candle, size for size. Compared with the full flame, it was found that the insect gave light amounting to one sixteen-thousandth part of a candle.

Sparrows Attack a Cat.

Forty sparrows desperately fighting a large cat for the possession of a young bird, made things interesting on Wednesday afternoon at Charles street and North avenue.

The cat had caught a young sparrow and started north on Charles street, when a few other birds saw him. They flew at the cat so savagely that he was compelled to hunt for shelter. More birds joined in the attack, and when the cat reached the Northampton hotel he ran against the windows in the quest for a place of safety. "Jerry" Grover of the hotel opened the door and declares that nearly fifty birds were after the cat, which was compelled to drop the young bird, which was dead. The cat was given shelter in the hotel until the army of birds disappeared.—Baltimore Sun.

Prohibition in Georgia.

"Georgia," said Congressman Livingston of that state, at the Riggs House, "is almost a prohibition commonwealth. Out of a total of 137 counties, 126 have voted that no intoxicants shall be sold within their borders. In the few remaining counties that voted 'wet' the saloons must close at 10 at night and not reopen earlier than 6 o'clock in the morning. We live in a part of the Union where temperance is a common virtue and where the baneful effects of overindulgence in liquor have been reduced to a minimum."—Washington Post.

Weightman's Quinine.

Old Weightman made the greater part of his fortune of $30,000,000 to $130,000,000 in quinine, of which the annual world's consumption is approximately 14,000,000 ounces or 6,720,000 grains. You and I and every one we know have taken a few grains now and then. Twenty-five, thirty, forty years ago the profit in handling this most staple and stable of drugs was enormous. The market has been cornered many times.—Victor Smith in New York Press.

Lesson For Women.

Jersey Shore, Pa., Sept. 26 (Special).—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done wonders of good for me." That's what Mrs. C. B. Earnest of this place has to say of the Great American Kidney Remedy.

"I was laid up sick," Mrs. Earnest continues, "and had not been out of bed for five weeks. Then I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and now I am so I can work and go to town without suffering any. I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have good reason to praise them everywhere."

Women who suffer should learn a lesson from this, and that lesson is, "cure the kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills and your suffering will cease." Woman's health depends almost entirely on her kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills have never yet failed to make healthy kidneys.

S. G. Wiener returned from his Ohio trip a few days ago. He had been east to buy goods and visit his people. While on his return trip his train ran into a freight this side of Dalhart and was thrown from the track, injuring quite a number of people, but none of them fatally. Before they could get back the bridge over the Canadian river had partially washed out, leaving the passengers between wreckage and deep water. They afterwards went dodging around all over Oklahoma and Texas, hunting dry land, and finally, after about ten days, pulled into El Paso for a square meal. Mr. Wiener then took the El Paso-Northeastern and got as far as Alamogordo just in time to strike another wash out between that place and Tularosa, where he was held up for another four days. Verily, the lines of the wayfaring man runneth outawampus as well as zigzag in the southwestern country these days.

HEART'S DESIRE.

A few months ago Emerson Hough, the famous author of "The Mississippi Bubble," paid White Oaks a flying visit while journeying through southeastern New Mexico, collecting material for future use in his literary work.

White Oaks has the honor of furnishing the background—the "Heart's Desire"—to Mr. Hough's charming short stories published in the Saturday Evening Post. It was here in the shadow of Lone Mountain, Baxter, Patos and grand old Carizo that Mr. Hough's mind was imbued with the subtle magnetism, the expanding and uplifting qualities of the southwestern frontier. This was over twenty years ago when Mr. Hough was a mere fledgling from college and in his own words "thought he was practicing law."

The characters in his stories are in the main, real ones, with names but slightly changed and in some cases not at all. Tom Ooby is the same Tom Ooby that the author traveled with from Las Vegas to this wild frontier mining camp, at the time of his first advent, and Tom, who has quit the road and taken to himself a wife and a permanent home at Tularosa seems to have so woven his weird stories of the wild southwest and his own personality, into the receptive mind of the author that the impressions cling to him through all the intervening years since he first came wool-gathering to the valley of "Heart's Desire."

house ranch—Judge LeCompte, of LeCompton, Kansas, notoriety—John Y. Hewitt and Col. George W. Prichard, now leading attorneys of the territorial bar, Doc, Paden and Dr. A. G. Lane, who have been probing and poulticing our people all these years; W. C. McDonald, once a marker of mineral claims, sections and town lots, now manager of the Carrizozo Cattle Company. George L. Ulrich, once and always Mack's right hand, now with the Exchange Bank—not the bank established by Chandler & Co., once so humorously described by Mr. Hough—Jones and Stanley Tallafarro, formerly proprietors of the Golden Era, in whose office the author did about his first journalistic work, Charlie Bull, at times disposed to be a little cynical, yet with his dry humor and guileless manner endeared himself to every man, woman and child in the town. Jim Brent, then and always a peace officer, E. W. Parker, manager of the Southwestern stage line and about everything else in sight from his outlook, and who brought a mint of money into camp and saw that it was invested too. William Watson, first and last a seeker of hidden treasure, and if you substitute old Jim for John Brothers, you will have the veritable landlord of the hotel at "Heart's Desire," whom the author claims to have "stood off" for many a square meal—all these names are familiar to those of us who have persistently clung to these hills and this wonderful valley where twenty odd years ago we were a part in the winning of this particular portion of the West.

Some of the actors in these stirring scenes of the long ago have passed to the unreturnable beyond. Some have gone to other fields of activity, but quite a company of us—it matters not how far we journey hence, it matters not how we try to graft ourselves on to other places and other scenes—in the end, like Longfellow's Arcadians, we are sure to wander back to our own "Heart's Desire."

To The Public.

I wish to emphatically contradict the rumor that is being persistently circulated around the county, that I am connected in business with the democratic candidate for treasurer.

I severed my connections with the Tallafarro Mercantile Co., of White Oaks, on February 1, 1909, and since that time have not been directly or indirectly interested in any kind of business with Mr. Tallafarro. I make this public announcement in view of the fact that it is currently reported that we are business partners. J. H. CANNING.
