H. B. Fergusson came down from Albuquerque, arriving here Sunday and returning Monday evening. His trip was on business connected with the Compromise and Old Abe mines.

J. G. Riggle, now of Capitan, has been appointed coal oil inspector for this part of the country, and things ought to brighten up seeing the octopus has been put on its good behavior.

Al Roberts was laid up for repairs here for several hours Saturday. N. B. Taylor & Sons did the surgical work and sent him and his team back with their heads and tails up.

We have taken more orders for Tailor made clothing this spring than ever before. It proves fit and quality, and the prices are right.

Mel Paden has been quarantined for the past week. It is a case of the measles acquired, it is thought before leaving Roswell. He has been quite sick but is now on the mend and it is believed the worst is over.

Jack Leighner has abandoned the elusive oil fields which he was assis ing to locate up beyond Red Lake, for the less seductive, but more tangible occupation of house carpentering at Carrizozo.

But a light vote was polled at the school election held here Monday. Joseph Spencer being elected by a majority of twelve votes and will serve for the term of three years, from July 1st.

Our merchants are keeping right up with the times so it does not pay to send away and get inferior goods at the same prices. Do your trading at home and you will not be bilked.

The smiling face of Joe Spence was seen on our streets yesterday, but Joe was carrying it around as natural as life. He is stopping with his brother Charlie while here.

R. B. Thomas, of Santa Fe, an expert in coal and iron, was in this vicinity looking into the resources of the country hereabouts for several days, and getting options on properties with a view of developing them at no distant date.

Professor Fayette A. Jones, well known throughout the territory as a geologist, and now in the employ of the government, was here for several days during the past week looking up mineral formations and getting data for a forthcoming report.

THE KIND OF GIRL SHE IS.

The following descriptive "lines" have been sent in without any name attached.

They evidently show that somebody has made herself solid with a fellow who means business, though he may be more dizzy than discreet.

Do the girls who write poetry for this paper when the OUTLOOK man is away, recognize the brand?

My sweetheart is of classic mould,
And tosses high her head;
Her hair is of that flaming gold
Which some folks might call red.

Her eyes are like two buckeyes ripe,

Just bursting from the pod;
Her lips tempt me a kiss to swipe,
Or, maybe, forty odd.

And oh, she is the sweetest lass!
At picnics or in town;
She hove a dish of apple sass,
And knocked Si Peters down.

When talking through the tell-a
fone,

She treats me rather nice;
But when I catch her all alone,
She somehow turns to ice.

And when I try to sidle up,
She pouts, and looks so queer;
I feel just like a wabblin' pup,
Or else a yearling steer.

But I'll git her yet or bust.
My galluses well nigh;
I'll ketch her when she's makin'
crust,

And squish her into pie,
AND THEN I'LL EAT HER UP.

Willie Gallacher is home from the Agricultural College at Mesilla Park for the summer vacation. Miss Maggie returned with him from El Paso, where she had been visiting relatives and friends during the month of May.

Mrs. Zella Bird, formerly Grumbles, is back from Globe, Arizona, where her husband is in business, and is stopping at the Grum's ranch. She was up seeing some of her friends in town several days ago, who are glad to welcome her back.

The board of county commissioners have been figuring up the property returns of Lincoln county this week, and find an increase in valuation of a little over a quarter of a million dollars during the past year. This is a pretty fair showing, and ought to lighten the burden of taxation very materially.

From the vigor and push of the atmosphere here for the past few days it would appear that the elements had created a vacuum somewhere over in Texas, and that country was drawing on New Mexico in that emphatic way which is inclined to disturb our serenity. Now if it had been in March?

Geo S. Treat has completed the roof of his chop emporium to replace the one ripped up by the zephyrs some time ago. Judging from the look and smell of it, no gentle, self-respecting shower will try to break through, or trickle down over the viands he serves out to his customers under the name of nice, tender, juicy steak.

Mrs. Don McDonald has purchased the Canning residence on the north side. The Cannings will occupy the Gumm property until their new house is ready for occupancy at Carrizozo, which will not be until later in the season.

THERE IS A HEN ON.

This office is in receipt of the following circular which is here given for the information of those interested.

Should it not be convenient for you to attend, please answer the questions below, sign your name and return the slip, so that your opinion may be had, as future action will depend on the expression of sentiment. Please give an expression of your views if you cannot be present.

Some of the Mexican people gave a very pleasant ballie at Bonnell hall last Saturday night which was well attended.

Then blow ye winds at morning,
Blow ye winds all day;
And just keep on a-horning
The dust in the same old way.

So blow ye winds of morning,
Keep up your racket, so;
You need give us no warning,
But blow, BLOW, BLOW.

A town meeting should be called at an early date and arrangements made to repair the road to the canyons in Carrizo mountain, in order to accommodate, not only ourselves, but sojourners from other places, whom we are pretty sure to have with us during the summer months. To attract others we should make our surroundings convenient and attractive.

The men who have been working the South Homestake mine for several months past have also secured a lease on the North and will work the new mine under the same management, using the South mill in the reduction of ore. This will require a considerable addition to the force of men at work and will help out the camp just that much. When to this number is added the Old Abe contingent it will make quite a respectable showing.

Violated Confidence.

No one who follows the news of the day or reads political and diplomatic history can fail to note the frequent unpleasant situations which arise from violated confidence. Sometimes it is the spoken word which is made public without authority, but more often it is a letter, says Youth's Companion. The most careful writer, if he have thoughtless or unscrupulous correspondents, may find himself thus suddenly embarrassed. Nor is it a sufficient answer to say that it serves him right, that he ought never to put his opinions on paper if he is unwilling that they should become known. A public man may often say as a private citizen what propriety would not allow him to say in his official capacity. The fault lies in a fundamental misconception of the nature of a letter. Every letter not especially addressed to the public should be considered confidential until the writer gives permission for its publication. To treat it otherwise is to show a lack of sense, of honor, of courtesy, or of all three. The most deplorable action of all is the publication of a private letter for the sake of vindictive, or trying to vindicate, oneself. Take whole matter of confidences and the instability of letters is one which to be good taste and good breeding. The real gentleman will no more be guilty of a breach of honor in this direction than he will be guilty of using against an opponent a piece of information which was given to him in confidence. Yet here is a curious thing - many a person who holds himself to a rigid rule in such matters as have been mentioned will regard the affair quite differently as soon as death steps in. "Since the letter is no longer alive, there can be no harm, and so forth," is the common introduction to posthumous letters which ought never to have been made public. If the dead hand can keep its grip in the affairs of church and state and land, shall it loose it in matters of honor?

Grand Opera at Home.

Grand opera at home via your telephone receiver is a New England and New York scheme. A central power plant is to be established wherefrom music by electricity is to be transmitted through telephones to the homes of the subscribers. A battery of alternators is to be installed which will transmit musical electrical waves and these are adjusted to as many different vibrations as the strings of a piano. To play the instrument a piano keyboard is used. The pressing of a key will operate a switch which will close the circuit leading to the alternators adjusted to produce the note that the piano string would produce. But the note will be sounded in the ear of the operator from the battery itself. The vibrations will be communicated to the main wires, which will transmit them through branch wires to the other end of the telephone. There the note will be sounded. One of these receiving telephones will be connected with the operator so that he will know how his playing sounds to all others connected with the main wires. The receiving telephones will be fitted with a megaphone-like device warranted to carry the notes through the room as well as an organ would. The woodwind, brass and string tones of the orchestra are easily produced by making the required harmonics in the required proportions.

Lesson from Figures.

The United States every year expends about $110,000,000 in pensions for wars that are past and somewhere between $180,000,000 and $200,000,000 in being prepared against wars of the future. In the last fiscal year there was paid out for the naval establishment $122,000,000, for the support of the army and the military academy, $77,000,000. Taken altogether, pensions, the navy and the fleet called for $349,000,000. A comparison between the costs of the arts of war and the arts borne by the government is afforded by the fact that the agricultural appropriation for the last fiscal year was $6,942,040. The comparison is made even more striking when we realize that from 1839 to the present day, counting the present proposed appropriation, the aggregate appropriation for the department of agriculture are $68,737,272.12, or $12,000,000 less than was expended on the army last year. Yet we are a peaceful nation, depending largely on agriculture for our prosperity.

Dispatches from Pierre, S. D., tell of the high winds and dust storms. John Carlson's farmhouse was bombarded by potatoes during the dust storm and every pane of glass on the southeast side broken out. The high winds after denuding a field recently planted to potatoes lifted the tubers themselves and buried them violently through the air.

Onion Juice is said to be a cure for appendicitis. That disease will probably now cease to be either fashionable or interesting.

DEATH OF MICHAEL DAVITT.

Great Irish Statesman and Patriot Dies at Dublin.

Dublin - A notable career closed Wednesday night, when, after a long and painful illness, Michael Davitt died peacefully and painlessly at 12 o'clock in the presence of his eldest son, Michael, and his two daughters, who had devotedly attended him through his illness, and of many of his most intimate friends, including John Dillon.

The greatest sympathy has been displayed by all classes of society during Mr. Davitt's illness.

Death was due to blood poisoning, which followed two operations for necrosis of the jawbone, and spread so rapidly that all efforts to stay its course were unavailing.

Davitt's chief claim to distinction rests on the fact that he founded the Irish Land League, the greatest agrarian organization of modern times. As father of the Land League, he became the popular idol of the Irish people. He was noted as an orator.

In 1865 he became a member of the Fenian Brotherhood, the result being that in 1870 he was sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude. After serving seven years of the sentence he was released on a "ticket of leave" and two years later, supplied with funds from the United States, he began an anti-landlord crusade in Ireland, which ended in the formation of the Irish Land League.

Shortly after the league was formed he went to America to organize an auxiliary association. He was rearrested shortly after his return in 1881 and sent back to penal servitude, where he remained little less than a year. For a seditious speech against the British government he was again imprisoned, this time for three months, in 1883.

He was first elected a member of Parliament while a prisoner in the Portland convict house in 1882, but was disqualified by a special vote of the House of Commons, because he had not completed his term. Again elected in 1892 from Meath, he was unseated by a petition.

The same year Davitt was returned unopposed by Cork, but was forced to resign in 1893, owing to bankruptcy arising from proceedings in the petition, which he had fought against as long as he was able to obtain funds.

A few years later he set out on a tour of Australia and the southern British colonies. While traveling he was informed of his return to the House of Commons, again unopposed, from East Curry and South Mayo. He at once returned, serving continuously, becoming famous as the Irish leader, till 1899, when he resigned and went on a tour of the world.

As an author Michael Davitt is known for his "Leaves From a Prison Diary," published in 1885; "Defense of the Land League," 1891, and "The Boer Fight for Freedom," 1902.

MEAT INSPECTION BILL.

Indorsed by the President, Who Gives Packers Warning.

Washington - An important conference was held at the White House regarding the meat inspection amendment of Senator Beveridge of Indiana to the agricultural appropriation bill.

The President discussed the question with Senator Custer of Montana and Professor Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, who investigated certain packing houses and later talked over the matter with Senator Beveridge.

At the conclusion of the conference Senator Carter dictated the following statement bearing upon the President's attitude: "The meat inspection amendment placed on the agricultural bill has met with the opposition of the packers and their friends who seem to be bending every effort to defeat it. The President says that if the amendment is enacted into law he will be content to remedy the evils complained of through the law.

If, however, the amendment is defeated he will feel constrained in the discharge of his official duty to the public to send to Congress the reports in his possession relating to the abuses existing in the packing houses. He feels that it is better to refrain from making the reports public, not through any regard for the beef packers particularly, but because an official statement of the facts would injure the stock raisers of the country, thus making them innocent victims of a line of abuses for which they were not primarily in any sense responsible.

"The only answer that can be made to the consumers of our meats at home and abroad will be the enactment of a law through which an efficient and sufficient inspection shall be made."

Senator Carter said that the packers have asked for more time in which to consider the amendment.

"One of the principal questions which they are considering," he said, "is whether they or the government shall pay for the inspection service. It seems a foregone conclusion that they will decide that Uncle Sam shall pay for the work."

Senator Beveridge points out that the expense will not exceed 5 cents on a carcass of beef and 3 cents on a carcass of hog. The aggregate of expense will be probably $1,500,000 a year. It will be so widely distributed that it will not fall as a burden on the packers.

Militia for Jamestown Celebration.

Washington. - President Roosevelt has issued a proclamation inviting the governors of states and territories to participate at their own expense in the Jamestown celebration of the first permanent settlement of English-speaking people on the western shore by sending such organizations of the militia as in their judgment will afford proper military representation. The President says: "The historic nature of this celebration renders it peculiarly appropriate that the representation of the militia should be commensurate with the interests and pride of our people in their citizen soldiery, who have in the many ordeals of our colonial and national life met their military obligations with superb self-sacrifice and devotion."

The spring clip of wool is beginning to arrive at Albuquerque in plentiful supply. One hundred thousand pounds were marketed Saturday and Monday at the prevailing price, 16 cents, although the sale of forty sacks is reported at 18 cents. Much rivalry exists between local and Eastern buyers, which is expected to keep the price up to the top notch. Lambing averaged one hundred and ten per cent. throughout the district. Wool exported estimated the total clip to be 3,000,000 pounds, which compares favorably with amount marketed here last year. Woolen mills and scouring mills are in full operation and buyers are seeking all the available supply.

Visitors from surrounding towns, including 300 excursionists from Santa Fe, were present Sunday, May 27th, to witness the feast of San Felipe de Neri in Old Albuquerque. The feast exercises in honor of the patron saint opened with firing salutes by a battery, followed by the First Regiment band concert, solemn high mass and the Panegyric of St. Phillip by Franciscan friars at San Felipe de Neri cathedral, over 250 years old. After the military maneuvers by the National guard, games and races, the solemn procession of the patron saint formed at 4 p. m. and marched through the principal streets, priests and societies in full regalia attending. Following the benediction addresses were delivered by prominent citizens, and fireworks and balloon ascensions wound up the celebration.

Extensive Wire Tramway.

Every indication points to an early revival of mining in the Cochiti mining district near this city, which has lain idle for five or six years, says an Albuquerque dispatch. Percy E. Barbour, general manager of the Navajo Gold Mining Company and Superintendent E. M. Thompson, are here and to-day secured the signatures of local owners of mines in the district and town lots in the town of Bland, granting the Navajo company the right to construct an aerial tramway through Bland from the Lone Star and other mines to their mill, a distance of 7,000 feet. None refused to sign the petition and Mr. Barbour stated to-night that he hoped to have day and night shifts working inside of ten days. Work on the tramway will commence soon. Superintendent Thompson comes here from Leadville a number of Denver people are interested in the Cochiti district.

Octogenarian Suicide.

A Roswell dispatch of May 27th says: The body of Maris Whiteman, the celebrated Jewish character of the Southwest, arrived to-day from Alamogordo, and interment was made in South Side cemetery.

He committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a 45-60 Winchester rifle, and his head was nearly torn from the body. He was eighty-eight years of age, having been born in Lipna, Russia, May 10, 1818.

The passing of this character, resented in Emerson Hough's novel, "Heart's Desire," as "Whiteman, the Jew Merchant," ends an eventful career.

He deserted his native Russia when sixteen years of age to escape army service, and walked to Germany. He went to London, and at the age of twenty-two sailed for New York. From there he went to Alaska and traded merchandise to the Indians for gold nuggets. He went to San Francisco in 1845, and engaged in mining.

He was engaged in the sailing business between San Francisco and Melbourne, Australia, for several years, about 1850, and dealt extensively in cats and dogs, having introduced the first cats and dogs in Australia. On one shipment he took several thousand cats and dogs to Melbourne from "Frisco." These he disposed of at a good price.

He was among the frontier characters in Colorado, Wyoming and Nevada in the early days. He lived in Nevada and Pueblo for a number of years, and three of his children were born in Colorado. He came to New Mexico with his family in 1879 and was engaged in the mercantile and mining business in the western part of the territory during the reign of lawlessness and in the time of "Billy, the Kid."

In 1899 he moved with his family to Roswell, and later went to Alamogordo, where he was engaged in mercantile business at the time he killed himself.

He was one of the oldest Masons in the United States, being a charter member of Franklin lodge of New York City.

Sixty-five years ago he traveled around the world in the interest of Masonry and made researches in Egypt and the Holy Land.

He was wealthy and was a member of the mercantile firm of the Whiteman Brothers company here. His sons, Charles and Lincoln Whiteman, are prominent citizens of this city. Charles Whiteman is chief of the Fire Department, and Lincoln is a member of the Board of City Aldermen.

Roswell Murder Trial.

Nathan Hendricks, after being convicted of third degree murder and sentenced to the penitentiary for eight years after trial for his life, was placed on trial the second time to-day, says a Roswell dispatch of May 26th.

Hendricks shot and killed William Hainbolt, a deputy sheriff here, February 8, 1901. He was apprehended in North Dakota about one year after, brought here and jailed. Fred Higginson, brother-in-law of the murdered man, at that time was sheriff and jailer. Hendricks for fourteen months was kept chained in the jail. Much excitement was created at the time by the announcement that vermin had eaten into the prisoner's flesh and that he could not remove his clothes on account of his shackles. He was tried in November, 1903, found guilty of murder in third degree, and sentenced to the penitentiary for eight years. Upon appeal the prisoner was released on bond and new hearing ordered.

One remarkable feature of the case was the friendship displayed by Hendricks' employer to him. Hendricks was a cowboy employed by Frank Divers. Divers employed eminent lawyers for the defense, went on the man's bond and has aided him in every way financially. It is said that Divers made the statement that himself and wife would spend the balance of their days in a tent before they would see Hendricks wear stripes or hang.

Hendricks claims he fired the fatal shot in the defense of the life of his brother, Oliver Hendricks. Rainbolt, it is claimed, was intoxicated and arrested Oliver Hendricks at a dance on the charge of having a gun on him, and had a gun drawn on the man when Nathan fired.

The defense is represented by Hon. W. W. Gatewood of Roswell, Hon. U. S. Bateman of Roswell, J. H. and W. W. Beal of Sweetwater, Texas. The trial will consume a month.

Military Institute.

The graduating exercises of the New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell took place May 24th at the mess hall. There was a large and fashionable gathering present. "America" was rendered. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. G. W. Read. The valedictory address was delivered by Noyes Weltmer of Santa Fe. The band then played an overture and a medley, the "Bits of Remick's Hits." The diplomas were then delivered to the graduating class, the members of which then and there received their diplomas. There was more music, a realistic fantasy, "Evening in the Camp" being the subject. The delivery of the scholarship medals then took place, as well as of the commissions to the two graduates, Noyes Weltmer and Ralph H. Ludlum, who under the statutes and by appointment of the governor were appointed second lieutenants in the New Mexico National Guard. These were delivered to the recipients by the Rev. E. McQueen Gray of Carlsbad. The march "New Mexico Military Institute," by Captain Fletcher, was then played by the band. The benediction followed.

BREEDS DISEASE

CHARGE THAT TUBERCULOSIS CATTLE ARE SOLD.

MEAT SERVED TO THE PUBLIC

ASTOUNDING REVELATIONS THAT CALL FOR SEARCHING INVESTIGATION AND STRINGENT LEGISLATION BY CONGRESS.

Washington.—The public of the United States and the world is amazed at the revelations concerning the preparation of meat, as set forth by Upton Sinclair and verified in part by other witnesses. Sinclair claims that he has proved, among other things, that diseased, particularly tuberculous, cattle, and those suffering from actinomycosis, or lumpy jaw, are served to the public as fresh, pure meat. He also charges that the filth around the slaughter houses is appalling; that consumptive employees expectorate and commit other unspeakable nuisances upon the floors of the packing houses; that the meat falls upon this tainted floor and is not afterwards cleaned.

Another serious charge is that chickens and other poultry are kept in gold storage until they fairly rot to such an extent that they will not hold together. They are minced, deodorized and canned for public consumption. Decomposed meat, it is said, is dyed and smoked to remove the traces of decay and treated with chemicals to destroy the stench, after which it is canned and disguised with a pretty label.

While Sinclair does not charge the big packers with deliberately dealing in meat that is known to be diseased, he makes it clear that there has grown up around the stock yards a vast industry confined almost exclusively to the handling of rejected meat.

It is even said there is testimony at hand to show that diseased and crippled animals, killed because unfit for food or even the rendering tanks, are dug up after being buried under the supervision of inspectors, hurried to one of the diseased meat factories and converted into food.

Dispatches from Chicago go far to confirm these statements. Dr. William A. Jacques, who has contributed stirring articles on the terrible conditions prevailing in the packing house district to medical journals, said to-day:

"Upon invitation of Commissioner Reynolds, who was sent out here to make an investigation by President Roosevelt, I showed him many things in the stock yards that were worse than anything which he could imagine, and which sickened him.

"Together, we watched employees of the packing house skimming grease off the surface of 'bubbling creek,' the fetid stream which carries off the refuse of the slaughter houses. We learned that this rotten grease was to be converted into a sort of lard for cooking purposes.

"I wish to say," continues Dr. Jacques, "that I can take the carcass of a badly decomposed dog or other animal, decayed to the point where one can hardly breathe, and by treating it with poisonous deodorizers and a little coloring matter, rig the foul mass up in a manner that would deceive the eye as well as the olfactory organs of an expert meat buyer. In minor respects, Upton Sinclair has exaggerated, but I am convinced that all his most serious charges can be backed up with convincing proof."

One of the most horrible of Sinclair's charges is that men and women who operate the sausage machines frequently sacrifice fingers to the sausage, and no attempt is ever made to pick the mangled member, but the public gets it in "country sausage."

"It is decidedly to the interest of the American National Live Stock Association to have as rigid an investigation of the methods in use at the large packing houses as the government can perform," says Murdo MacKenzie, president of that organization, last night.

"If the confidence of the people in the purity of the meat they are getting is destroyed, it will do the stockmen great harm. However, that is beyond the province of our association, and though we would like to make sure that the meat sent from the packing houses is pure, we must depend on the government to see to that."

PACKING HOUSE SCANDAL.

It is Creating a Great Amount of Interest.

Denver.—The report of bad conditions in many of the great packing houses has revived unpleasant memories of the old "embalmed beef scandal" and there is a general demand that the whole subject be probed to the bottom. A morning paper says:

"No matter what are the details of the report on stock yards conditions— which report President Roosevelt is said to have used as a lever to secure the passage of the inspection legislation through the Senate—credit for improved conditions in the meat industry in the future must remain with one man, Mr. Upton Sinclair, author of 'The Jungle.'"

"President Roosevelt was one of the first to read the book, and, with characteristic vigor, he marked many passages and called upon two trusted lieutenants to investigate and make the report which is now the center of so much interest. No doubt this report will be made public in full. Indeed, it can not be kept secret in the face of the insistent public demand that has arisen. If it is as bad as indicated by advance reports from Washington, the public will be only too glad to have the packing interests make their answer." As matters stand, secrecy can not be tolerated on either side. The public must know the truth, for it is the public that is most vitally interested.

NEW SAN FRANCISCO

PLANS FOR MAKING CITY MOST BEAUTIFUL IN AMERICA.

In Rebuilding a Scheme of Fine Public Buildings and System of Parks and Boulevards Is to Be Followed.

A new and more beautiful San Francisco to rise out of the ashes of the old. Long before the earthquake and fire came to devastate the queen city of the Pacific coast there had been talk of remodeling the California metropolis, but the one great obstacle to the carrying out of the elaborate plans which were to make the place the most beautiful city in America was the great number of fine buildings that were in the way and which would have to be leveled.

And while the projectors of the city—more beautiful were urging and others were hesitating, mother earth aroused herself and shook the city up to such an extent that there is nothing now in the way of carrying out the most elaborate scheme which may be prepared but money and the adoption of a definite plan. Of the former there is abundant evidence that the millions which will be available when needed, and it is certain that before many weeks plans for the rebuilding of the city will be ready.

This rebuilding scheme, it is declared by its promoters, will make of the city the American Paris in the arrangement of its streets, and the American Naples in the beauty of its bay and skies.

The man most prominently identified with the movement for the beautifying of San Francisco is Daniel Hudson Burnham, who designed the court of honor at the Chicago world's fair, and who has built many magnificent buildings at Chicago and elsewhere. The plans for the ideal San Francisco are chiefly his, and how far his ideas of a metropolis with broad boulevards, and great parkways, and wooded heights, a city of sunken gardens, or airy bridges, of stately gardens and broad expanses are to be realized remains to be seen. But it is more than likely that in the main his scheme will be carried out.

It provides first for a civic center where all the principal city buildings are to be located and also the new union railroad station. About this is to be a broad, circular boulevard, a perimeter of distribution, and beyond this is a series of broader boulevards or parkways connecting the hills, which are to be converted into parks themselves.

About this is to be the encircling boulevard following the shore line of the peninsula. The scheme includes also the extension of the avenue leading to the Golden Gate park, known as the Panhandle, the building of a Greek amphitheater on the Twin Peaks, with a statue of San Francisco greeting the countries of the orient. The plan also provides for a new parade ground at the Presidio and the building of numerous parks and playgrounds throughout the city. Mr. Burnham's plan for the New San Francisco leaves Chinatown out of the reckoning.

Twin Peaks and the property lying around them would be acquired for park purposes by the city. The idea is to weave park and residence into interesting and economic relations, and also to preserve from the encroachments of building the hill bordered valley running to Lake Merced, so that the vista from the parks to the ocean shall be unbroken. It is planned to preserve the beautiful canyon or glen to the south of Twin Peaks and also to maintain as far as possible the wooded background formed by the hills looking south from Golden Gate park. This park area of the Twin Peaks, which includes the hills which surround the San Miguel valley and is terminated by Lake Merced, is a link in the chain of parks girdling the city.

To the north of Twin Peaks lies a natural hollow. Here it is proposed to create an amphitheater or stadium of vast proportions. The gentler slopes of the Twin Peaks will probably be used as villa properties. The plans for Twin Peaks also include a collective center or academy which is to be arranged for the accommodation of men in various branches of intellectual pursuits. A little open air theater, after the Greek model, would form a part of this scheme.

Even Telegraph hill is to have its precipitate sides terraced and is to be transformed into a park, according to the design of Mr. Burnham. To carry out all the plans of the architect would be a large task just now, but the citizens of the new San Francisco expect that the broad general lines will be laid down and then in the course of time the rest will be added.

Tremendous Itching Over Whole Body—Scratched Until Bled—Wonderful Cure by Cuticura.

"Last year I suffered with a tremendous itching on my back, which grew worse and worse, until it spread over the whole body, and only my face and hands were free. For four months or so I suffered torments, and I had to scratch, scratch, scratch, until I bled. At night when I went to bed things got worse, and I had at times to get up and scratch my body all over, until I was as sore as could be, and until I suffered excruciating pains. They told me that I was suffering from eczema. Then I made up my mind that I would use the Cuticura Remedies. I used them according to instructions, and very soon indeed I was greatly relieved. I continued until well, and now I am ready to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one. Mrs. Mary Metzger, Sweetwater, Okla., June 28, 1905."

Hotel Man Who Was Not to Be Over-awed by Dignitaries of State.

They tell this one on former Gov. George Hoadly of Ohio:
 Once upon a time, in the midst of a campaign, Mr. Hoadly was to deliver a speech at a little town in the great and glorious Buckeye State. When he reached the one hotel the town boasted he walked up to the register and wrote his name. The proprietor—head-porter-steward-headwaiter-depot-runner—was behind the desk in his shirt sleeves, his hat on the back of his head, and a cigar stump held between his teeth. When the visitor had put down his John Hancock, the factotum turned the register around, read without the flicker of an eyelid the name there written, wrote "10" beside it with a lead pencil, and said:
 "You kin jest take yer grip right up that stairway there an' back down the hall clean to th' end. Yer room's right on th' left hand side of th' hall, in th' corner—number 10."

With considerable astonishment and not a little injured dignity Ohio's chief executive pointed to his name, smiled faintly, and said:
 "I am George Hoadly."

"Yep; I notice," said the rustic without turning a hair. "An' yer room's right there at th' end of th' hall—number 10. Can't miss it."

With more hauteur, and almost quivering with outraged importance, the guest said impressively:
 "I am George Hoadly, governor of the state of Ohio!"

Turning, then, with a look of exasperated impatience on his face, the hotel man exclaimed:
 "Well, what d'ye expect me t' do—kiss ye?"—Judge.

Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free continue to suffer rather than submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female diseases.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise sick women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Mrs. T. C. Willadsen of Manning, Ia. She writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:
 "I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude in words. Before I wrote to you telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steadily, and spent lots of money in medicines, but it all failed to do me any good. I had female trouble and would daily have fainting spells, backache, bearing-down pains, and my monthly periods were very irregular and finally ceased. I wrote to you for your advice and received a letter full of instructions just what to do, and also commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have been restored to perfect health. And it has been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

Upon Singular seems to have exploded a bomb in the Chicago packing houses.

At the present rate of improvement Raton will soon be one of the very first towns in the territory.

The railroad track from San Antonio to Carthage is rapidly being rebuilt and trains will be coming out to the coal fields in about ten days.

The shake up at Cananea has subsided and the Mexican troops hold the town, while Col. Greene has provided for the safety of the women.

The loss of life in the San Francisco earthquake and fire, as reported officially by Secretary McCall, figures up 300 dead and 1000 injured. The loss of property, however, is said to be appalling.

Alarming symptoms have returned. Another earthquake shock was felt in San Francisco on the night of the 4th causing the people to rush into the streets with fear.

Orders have been issued to the National Guards of New Mexico, Arizona, Louisiana and Texas, as well as the Regulars on duty in the Southwest, to go into camp at Austin, Texas, the first part of August for their annual drill and instruction.

This town, during the past week, has let a golden opportunity slip, which probably may not come again for many years, and all because men cannot see alike, and each has a right to his own opinion, as well as the shaping of his own business affairs.

In this country they throw nothing worse than rice, carpet tacks, bouquets and old shoes at a married couple starting on their wedding journey. Over in Spain they mix in a few bombs when their king gets married just for emphasis. But it makes it a little rocky for the bystanders.

New Mexico now has a fresh, new Attorney General and but few people would know anything about it if the newspapers did not give the thing away. Capt. W. C. Reid, of Roswell, assumed the duties of that office, by appointment of the governor, on June 2nd.

Two prisoners escaped from the penitentiary June 1st, by concealing themselves in a car of brick which had been loaded inside the inclosure. It was dead easy. These fellows were bricks themselves and of course the guards could not distinguish them from the balance of the lot.

It is reported the men employed to take the school census in the fashionable residence portions of Chicago after traveling around for a day or two, throw up their jobs. They were allowed one cent for each name enumerated, but couldn't find enough children at that rate to earn three square meals a day. Now in the ghetto quarters and down about the stock yards it is different.

THE MORAL SEARCH LIGHT.

The English army, which for centuries has been fighting inferior races, has a new weapon against the savages. In fighting the Zulus it has been found that the search light comes in handy. When the light is turned onto their camps in the night the native fancy the eye of God is on them and they fly in dismay. modern civilization has also its search light, the press. The lime light of publicity is the great deterrent of evil. The Scriptures are as true today as thousands of years ago. "Men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil," and when the search light of the newspaper is thrown upon their deeds what a scattering and terror!

Especially within the last two years has the search light been efficient. It has been turned on evil in high places and has sent wretches to suicide and exile. It has condemned the mighty to wither in the sight of men or die of shame. The search light is turned upon the predatory rail of the millionaire and he quails before it. It flashes into the light of public scorn the looters of great insurance companies and blasts and ruins whole families; it throws its beams upon the people's representatives and each man stands revealed; and now it is turned upon the corporations that are monopolies and upon the graft and corruption of the railroads. Albuquerque Citizen.

F. A. Jones, a consulting mining engineer, who is at present engaged in work in New Mexico for the United States mint, passed through El Paso today en route to White Oaks. He declared that the returns for New Mexico showed a creditable increase in the production of gold and silver, but the increased production in copper was especially noteworthy.

"New Mexico has been growing right along in the production of metals and the increase which will be shown this year in copper and other metals will give a notion of the outside world of what New Mexico is really worth as a mining field," said Mr. Jones this morning. - El Paso Herald.

The Estancia News is authority for the statement that the El Paso and Southwestern has arranged to get water from that place to supply a portion of its line. It will be shipped over the Santa Fe Central to Torrance. This again shows the folly of Mr. Eddy in leaving White Oaks out when the line was constructed. If he had come through here the road would have had an abundance of good, soft water to supply the line from Santa Rosa to El Paso.

The "silence" cure is the latest fad. It is recommended for nervous people and people who talk too much. The formula is for the patient to go off and sit by herself for an hour or more each day without opening the mouth and thus rest both the tongue and the brain. To make this remedy especially attractive to women it is said to preserve the beauty as well as the nerves, and prevent sallowness and wrinkles.

William Jennings Bryan will visit Russia before returning to this country, and watch the proceedings of the Douma while in session, in order to contrast it with the performances of senators (Tilman and Bailey in our own congress and also of a few republican members of that body. He will closely observe conditions over there where the people are not crucified on a cross of gold so cruelly. There is a mint of data to be procured in the czar's dominions that might be used in a presidential campaign, by way of contrast, and would serve as very vivid object lessons.

A territorial Undertaker's Association has been formed at a meeting of the fraternity at Santa Fe last week. Coffins, in all probability, will now be raised instead of lowered.

Martin Ramsey, a post graduate of John Hopkins University, and has served as one of the faculty of several others, and a prominent educator of the country, was arrested at Phoenix, Arizona, a few days ago as a common drunk, and was given twenty-four hours to leave town or go to jail. He began to use whiskey as a stimulant, just as thousands of others have done, and the habit grew on him until he has now become a pitiful outcast and common tramp, and can curse his fate in six different languages.

When one reads the account of all the odiferous things that go to make up the canned goods sent out by the packing houses, he is led to think if it is not embalmed it ought to be, and laid away until the resurrection morn to bother the angels in putting this and that together where it belongs, and classifying it either with the sheep or the goats, prior to opening up the gates of the respective corrals.

The statehood bill dies hard, but dying it surely is. It has got back into both the house and the senate and is being lingeringly jayed to death. The bill now occupies the position of a patient afflicted with skunk bite and is being operated on by an osteopath and a christian science expert both at the same time and is uncertain whether he is going to die of hydrophobia or hysterics.

John J. McCourt registered at the Angelus hotel in El Paso as a fresh arrival there. This tells the whole melancholy story. The heated term is on in that city of sand and sweltering climate. The family is enjoying the fresh, cool breezes of Lincoln county and there is another male widow in town down there. The Outlook man knows how it is himself as to the bereavement but is trying to accept the breezes, with a thankful heart, reinforced by a palm leaf fan.

The surveyors have been taken off the Dawson branch from Tucumcari, where they were making an attempt to straighten and improve that line, and are now working on the one by way of Las Vegas. It begins to look as if we were going to have direct railroad communication with the latter place after all. Now if they will only complete the Albuquerque Eastern, build the extension to Roswell and run a line through White Oaks, where it ought to have gone in the first place, we will be in direct communication with all the points worth speaking of, and can manage to jog along pretty comfortably for several years to come, and keep on developing our own inexhaustible resources.

There is a movement on foot to establish an immense iron and steel plant in this region of the country, the exact location of which has not yet been determined upon—which will be to the fortunate locality what that kind plant was to Birmingham, Ala., or Pueblo, Colorado.

Senator Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland, died in Washington on June 4th. He had served 22 years in the United States Senate and was the leader of his party during much of that time, besides being a prominent Democratic candidate for the presidency during several campaigns.

The anarchists are not all confined to Russia and Spain. We loaned a few to Old Mexico the other day, and they lost no time in getting in their deadly work at Cananea. They started in by killing George and Will Metcalf, who had charge of the lumber yard for Col. Green, of the Copper Company. They then set fire to the yard because their instincts led that way, and were about to dynamite the company property but were met by some of the employes, who were further reinforced by the Mexican rurales, and a fight ensued in which quite a number of the disturbing element were served with a quietus. At last accounts the disturbances had been quelled.
