NEW MEXICO NEWS SUMMARY

Ignacio Armijo met a horrible death at midnight on the 17th inst. at Albuquerque. He was a Santa Fe car window cleaner and with others was cleaning car windows when he stepped onto an adjoining track and was decapitated. The man leaves a widow and four children.

At Farmington on the 18th inst. Clarence Lyle, a young man of twenty-five years of age, attempted to commit suicide by cutting an artery in his neck with his penknife. He had complained of being despondent and had said he could not stand his troubles. His injuries were not thought to be necessarily fatal.

For the third time Mrs. A. S. Winchell, wife of a railroad employe at Albuquerque, gave birth to twins, the latter being born on January 23rd. Besides these three sets of twins, Mrs. Winchell has presented her husband with three other children, and she is yet a comparatively young woman. These facts should bring a smile on the face of the suicide proposition to President Roosevelt.

Territorial Game Warden Page B. Otero recently received word that sixteen Jamez Pueblo Indians have been arrested for violating the territorial game law, that forty more have been indicted by the grand jury at Socorro, and fifteen Indians have been arrested at Taos on a similar charge and that several Indians have been arrested in Valencia county for cattle rustling while on an illegal hunting expedition.

The connection of Albuquerque by telephone with the outside world was auspiciously celebrated Wednesday afternoon when the phonograph selection "Cavallera Rusticana" was transmitted to the office of the governor at Santa Fe with the new governor, Herbert J. Hagerman, at the receiver. The governor was delighted with the rendition. Albuquerque citizens were allowed to talk gratis to all long distance points during the day.

S. M. Ashenfelter, one of the best known attorneys of the New Mexico bar, died January 23rd, at Silver City of paralysis of the heart. He came to New Mexico in 1872, but lived several years in Colorado Springs. He served as district attorney of the third judicial district under Governor Ross. Mr. Ashenfelter published the first weekly newspaper in Grant county, the Southwest Sentinel, and was an ardent Democrat. He is survived by his wife and three daughters.

The secretary of the interior has temporarily withdrawn from any form of disposition whatever under the public land laws the following described lands in the territory of New Mexico for use in connection with the Alma and Red Rock reservoirs, and the San Carlos Irrigation project in Arizona: 3,300 acres in township 10, range 20 west, and 2,800 acres in township 11, range 20, for the Alma reservoir site, and 5,120 acres in township 19, range 19 west, for the Red Rock reservoir site.

Jose Guadalupe, governor of the ancient Indian Pueblo of Jamez and three brave Pablo Toya, Francisco Maque and Victoriano Lopez, were brought to Albuquerque a few days ago and placed in the county jail to serve a sentence of ninety days each for killing deer out of season. These arrests are part of a determined campaign being made by the New Mexico game warden against the hundreds of Indians who have been slaughtering game. The Indians are regarded as heroes in the village and came to jail attired in full regalia.

Governor Hagerman is the sixteenth and youngest American governor since the Organic Act went into force, not counting the four previous governors under military rule. Of his fifteen predecessors, only five are living: Lionel A. Sheldon, now in Pasadena, California; Edmund G. Ross, who is living quietly a few miles below Albuquerque; Wm. T. Thornton, now in Guadalupe, Mexico; L. Bradford Prince, and Miguel A. Otero, both of whom were present at the capitol to see Governor Hagerman inaugurated.

A Santa Fe dispatch of the 18th says: Judge Edward A. Mann of Alamogordo to-day granted a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Jap Clark, a cowboy, just released from the penitentiary and now held for killing James Chase at Torrance. Clark surrendered himself to Deputy Sheriff J. L. Lopez upon being released from the penitentiary and claims self-defense. The shooting occurred on March 14th and was really the final tragedy in the famous Lincoln county cattle feud. Clark claims that Chase fired the first shot, which took effect in his leg. A fusillade followed, in which bystanders took part, and it is not certain whose bullet struck Chase.

New Mexico Incorporations.

The following incorporation papers have been filed at Santa Fe: Clarivita Mercantile Company of Glorieta, Santa Fe county; capitalization, $50,000; incorporators and directors, Thomas Ruby and Alex R. Queiroz of Philadelphia and Walter M. Taylor of Glorieta.

The Lakewood Trading Company of Lakewood, Eddy county; capitalization, $20,000; the incorporators and directors are: R. S. Waller, K. B. Roberts and T. M. Waller of Lakewood.

The Hagerman Improvement Company of Hagerman, Chaves county; capitalization, $20,000; the incorporators and directors are: John W. Warren of Roswell and W. S. Davidson, E. D. Balcom, William A. Carson, L. W. Holt and A. R. Temple of Hagerman.

The Hallway Employes' Mutual Protective Society of San Francisco; the incorporators and directors are: F. M. Armstrong, A. Donald, G. J. Dives, J. M. Watson, H. L. Bishop, and R. O. Dunn.

The county central Republican committee met at Albuquerque and arranged the important matters transacted, adopted strong resolutions favoring the statehood for New Mexico and Arizona. Copies of the resolutions were mailed to every senator and representative in Congress, to U. S. Senator Andrews and to others at Washington, asking all to work and advocate the passage of the Hamilton joint statehood bill. District Attorney Clancy of Albuquerque has announced that he will prosecute the case against Gregory Page of Gallup, accused of killing Walter Jones, a government employe, at that place. It is thought witnesses will be summoned to appear before the next grand jury of McKinley county, which sits in May.

HAGERMAN INAUGURATED.

New Mexico's New Governor Assumes Office.

Devoid of ostentation and display, the inauguration of Herbert J. Hagerman as governor of New Mexico at Santa Fe January 22d was nevertheless impressive and was witnessed by an audience that crowded the spacious hall of representatives in the capitol.

Governor Hagerman is the youngest of the sixteen chief executives since the American occupation. Governor Otero escorted his successor from the executive office to the hall of representatives, where the supreme bench of six judges assembled.

Chief Justice W. J. Millie administered the oath. Among the guests of honor were J. J. Hagerman and wife, parents of Governor Hagerman, and Percy Hagerman of Colorado Springs, his brother.

At the Palace hotel at night, the citizens of Santa Fe gave a public reception and ball in honor of the inauguration.

Governor Hagerman announced that he would retain in office Adj. Gen. A. P. Tarkington, cousin of Booth Tarkington of Indiana, and also Miss C. H. Olson, who was private secretary of Governor Otero. In his inaugural address, the reference to President Roosevelt was loudly applauded and the peroration was followed by prolonged applause. He said in part:

"Fellow Citizens—To say that I am pleased with the reception which you have accorded me here would but illy express my sentiments to you, I am a new and untried man, who must seem very young to undertake the serious duties upon which I am about to enter.

"I have not the presumption to assume that the welcome you have accorded me here is any further a personal one than such as in the natural kindness of your hearts you would extend to anyone about to become governor of New Mexico.

"You welcome me as you do because every one of you, of whatever party, whatever creed or of whatever birth or ancestry, has confidence in the wisdom of that great man who now guides the destinies of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, and his trusted and courageous lieutenant, Secretary Hitchcock, to whom, as you well know, I owe in a great degree my appointment.

"And, my fellow citizens, it would be strange indeed, if the hopes you have built upon the wisdom of these two men were not high. They have the welfare of New Mexico very near their hearts. In the great multitude of affairs connected with their high offices they have time to inquire into and to investigate even in detail the administration of affairs in this territory.

"The measures they adopt in regard to New Mexico are only determined upon after thorough investigation and great care. If I have ventured to speak to you on this occasion of these two men it is because I wish thoroughly to impress upon you the great responsibility which I feel is involved in the position with which the President has honored me."

Fish for New Mexico Streams.

Page B. Otero, territorial game warden, is receiving applications for fish with which to stock private ponds, reservoirs and streams. He expects to liberate thousands of fish in the streams of the territory next fall.

The fish come from the government hatchery at Leadville, Colorado, and are mostly native and rainbow trout as these sporty little fish apparently do better in the shallow streams of New Mexico than any other variety. Some ranchmen and farmers who have reservoirs, turned loose a few catfish and succeeded in raising them by feeding artificial foods. The trout, however, is abundantly able to care for himself and all he wants is enough water to cover his back. He does not care how swift or cold it may be and seems to thrive even in the high mountain streams.

"The fish are distributed by the rail way companies," said Game Warden Otero, recently. "The fish car comes around each year and those who have been allotted fish, must be at a designated point to receive them and care for them until they can be liberated. For the territory I will release fish in the Gallinas river at Las Vegas; in the Rayada, Colfax county; in the Santa Fe river; the Nambé; Teague and Guenado rivers in Santa Fe county; in the Pecos and its branches in San Miguel county, and in streams in Grant and other southern counties. Last year I released fish in many other streams and I think they are doing nicely. We must depend to a great extent on the owners of lakes, reservoirs and other water courses and systems to propagate fish in the territory. However, I find that the fish already released here afford fine sport during the fishing season and if I can protect them, the streams will all be fully stocked in the next few years."

To Colonize in New Mexico.

Seventeen families, mostly fruit growers and ranchers, residing in Fruitmore, a suburb of Canon City, Colorado, have formed an organization for the purpose of colonizing a portion of the San Juan valley in New Mexico. It is stated that 10,000 acres of land have been entered under the homestead clause of the desert act of Congress; as soon as weather conditions permit, possession will be taken. Engineers have already built a twenty-four mile ditch with a fall of eighty feet, from the San Juan river for irrigation.

The company proposes to expend from $70,000 to $80,000 on improvements. One project is the construction of a huge plant to light Farmington and Aztec. The land lies in the midst of a fine fruit growing and farming country, and the promoters of the enterprise expect big returns for their investment. W. E. Black, L. A. Schamp and J. D. Gay, of Canon City, are stockholders.

Mother Held for Murder.

Mrs. Mary Aiken, charged with burying her eight-months-old boy alive at Lakewood, on the night of January 7th, at a preliminary hearing at Carlsbad, was kidnapped by a man with a false charge of murder. Bond was refused and the woman was committed to jail.

Mrs. Aiken is twenty-five years old and is attractive. She claims the baby was kidnapped by a man with a false face. The father, who seemed demented, left the county several weeks before the crime was committed and cannot be found.

District Attorney Hervey says it is the most peculiar murder case that has ever come under his observation. The absence of a motive puzzles the officers. The prisoner seems perfectly sane and did not show any signs of excitement or emotion when arrested and placed in jail when shown the corpse of her child or at the preliminary hearing.

Mail Carrier's Narrow Escape.

E. A. Winter, who returned to-day from a trip to Roswell, says a Santa Fe dispatch, tells a tale of miraculous escape from death on the snow covered plain between Roswell and Torrance.

He started out from Roswell on an auto carrying the mail between Roswell and Torrance. About forty miles from Torrance the auto broke down in the snow and the night was spent in a hut serving as a midway house. The next day progress was made only for a few more miles, when Mr. Winter was advised by the chauffeur to walk to the nearest ranch, which was fifteen miles distant.

It was 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the wind was blowing a gale over the snow covered mesa. Mr. Winter started out, but after wandering about for five hours, laid down in the snow to rest. He aroused himself, however, with a supreme effort, but sought to retrace his tracks in the moonlight.

He walked for another seven hours before he came upon the auto, which had been deserted by the chauffeur. He crawled into the rear box and covered himself with a wagon cover to keep from freezing until a second auto came up and took him back to Roswell, after he had been out three days and three nights, the last twelve hours without food or shelter.

Zinc in New Mexico.

In his review of the mining industry in New Mexico, published in Mining and Engineering Journal, Prof. C. R. Keyes of the New Mexico School of Mines says:

"Of the metals, zinc now takes the lead. The ores are chiefly carbonates and sulphides, which are shipped east. There are some silicate ores, some rare combinations with copper, and also with manganese. Zinc mining has only begun in New Mexico. The ores are abundantly and widely distributed, chiefly west of the Rio Grande. Socorro county is the principal producer, its output promises a rapid increase. Grant county comes second in production.

"New Mexico may soon be one of the largest zinc producers in the Union. The development now going on in the Magdalena district will within a year make two of the mines the largest of the kind in the United States. Zinc ores are now being shipped from several counties; and a number of other counties will soon be in the list of active producers."

New Insurance Commissioners.

A Santa Fe dispatch of the 19th says: The appointment of Dr. J. H. Sloan of Santa Fe of Santa Fe by Governor Otero to succeed ex-Deputy Commissioner Pedro Peres as insurance commissioner of New Mexico, came as a surprise, for it was generally understood that the appointment would be left to Herbert J. Hagerman, who will be inaugurated as governor on Monday. Dr. Sloan is popular, having been mayor of this city several times and being elected on the Democratic ticket and was for years a Democratic leader. He is a member of the Territorial Medical Board. The appointment, of course, is a personal and not a political one. The other candidates for the place were R. M. Harding, director of the United States Weather Bureau of Grand Junction, Colorado; A. E. Peres of Bernalillo, son of the former insurance commissioner, and his deputy, Simon Nueztam, ex-postmaster of Santa Fe, and Dr. G. W. Harrison of Albuquerque.

Will He Hanged at Taos?

The Territorial Supreme Court has affirmed the sentence of the lower courts in the case against Howard Chenoweth, convicted of murder, who escaped recently from the jail at Silver City, Grant county, and John Conley, also for murder, who will be hanged at Taos on February 16th. Conley was at one time a well-known resident of Denver, where he held a number of minor positions. About a year ago while doing assessment work on the Guadalupe placita in Taos county, he shot and killed James Redding of Questa, aged nineteen years, and Charles Purdy of Red River, aged seventy years. Shepherds who heard the shots found the bodies, while Conley sped on to Questa and Red River, where he was arrested after holding off the posse for several hours. Conley claimed he did the shooting in self-defense and the evidence upon which he was convicted was entirely circumstantial.

STATEHOOD BILL

PASSED THE HOUSE BY FORTY-FOUR MAJORITY.

PROVIDES FOR TWO STATES

State of Oklahoma to Include Indian Territory—State of Arizona to Include New Mexico—Stipulates for Prohibition and Against Polygamy.

Washington.—The House passed the statehood bill according to schedule Thursday. The Republican opposition to the measure spent its entire force the day before, and no effort was made to defeat the bill on its final passage, only thirty-three of the "insurgents" voting against the measure. The bill passed by the vote of 194 to 150.

The debate which preceded this vote began at 11 o'clock and was practically featureless so far as any hope was entertained of changing the measure in the slightest degree.

The bill as passed provides that Oklahoma and the Indian Territory shall constitute one state under the name of Oklahoma, and that Arizona and New Mexico shall constitute one state under the name of Arizona. Should the terms of admission be ratified by the residents of the territory in question, their respective state constitutions must contain clauses prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors and plural marriages.

The constitution of Arizona must prohibit the sale of liquor to Indians forever, and that of Oklahoma for twenty-one years.

There are many other stipulations concerning schools, courts and political subdivisions of the proposed new states. Little interest was manifested in the day's proceedings, aside from the actual vote on the bill.

Basing his prediction of the great future development of Arizona and New Mexico on the accomplishment of his own state, Mr. Kahn of California depicted the wrong that was being done in joining these two territories as one state.

Mr. Mondell of Wyoming followed in the same line. He predicted the time when the representatives of the flourishing West would object to the representation accorded the dead and dying East, because of its past prosperity.

A brief speech in opposition was made by Mr. Lloyd (Ark.) also.

The debate shifted to the other side at this point. Mr. Cole (Ohio) was opposed to substituting hills for homes or mountains for men. Mr. Capron (R. I.) began a speech in favor of the bill, and then said he would yield to Mr. Hepburn if he would recount the experiences of the territories of Maine and Iowa. Mr. Hepburn complied. Three times, he said, the people of Iowa rejected statehood, and when she accepted it was by the barest majority; four times the territory of Maine refused to come into the Union, and her final acceptance was barely carried. Should the people of the territories now in question vote against coming in they should not be dragged in.

Upon the assertion that ninety-eight per cent of the people of Arizona opposed to becoming a state with New Mexico, Mr. Webb (N. C.) based an argument against the bill. Mr. Moon made an impassioned plea for Arizona.

Mr. Smith (Arz.) made a most emphatic denial of charges that the railroad and mining interests were working against joint statehood. Mr. Lloyd (Mo.) depicted the injustice of uniting Arizona and New Mexico, and charged that the only argument in favor of doing so was the fear of increased power of the West in the Senate. The roll call on the bill was begun at 3 o'clock. In just twenty-two minutes the result was announced: 194 ayes, 150 noes and 8 answering present.

"The bill is passed," declared Speaker Cannon. Thirty-three Republicans voted against the bill.

THE BOON OF DEATH.

Ohio Woman Asks It for Incurable Sufferers.

Columbus, Ohio.—Painless death for pain-racked sufferers who have no chance for recovery and who desire to live no longer will be possible if a bill introduced in the General Assembly of Ohio is passed. It provides that persons suffering from incurable diseases or from injuries from which there is no hope of recovery, may be legally chloroformed to death, or killed in any other painless way which physicians may design.

The measure was introduced by Representative Hunt of Cincinnati at the request of Miss Anna Hall, who has for years been a student of the subject. Her interest was aroused first by the illness preceding the death of her mother from cancer of the liver.

Miss Hall sat in the gallery of the House and witnessed the voting down of a motion to reject her bill. The vote was 78 to 23. Miss Hall wept when she saw that her measure was to be received and sent to committee.

Miss Hall is a woman of wealth and a member of a highly respectable Cincinnati family. Her father, who is an Arctic explorer, died a few years ago. Under the provisions of the bill, a person of sound mind who is sick unto death and who is suffering unbearable agony can ask a physician to administer an anesthetic until the patient becomes unconscious and dies. The physician must consult with three other physicians before administering the drug and also must admonish the patient that certain death is to follow. The physicians, after death ensues, must notify the coroner of all the facts of the death in signed statements.

Al Welch, said to be a first-class cook, stole a piece of cloth for the express purpose of getting into the county jail at Pueblo. As a result he has a sixty-days' job of cooking in that institution, at the end of which time he figures that it will be worth enough to resume his profession as a tramp.

DRY DOCK AT SEA.

Four Vessels Towing Big Structure to the Philippines.

The huge floating drydock Dewey, now on her way from the Patuxent river to the Philippines, is proving herself a thoroughly seaworthy craft. Dispatches from Norfolk, Virginia, announce that malls received from the naval fleet which is towing the drydock tell of her satisfactory behavior in a storm off Cape Hatteras, and any ship or drydock or other object built to float which can weather a Cape Hatteras storm deserves to be marked O. K. without further inquiry.

There certainly never was a stranger thing seen on the waters than the Dewey as she will appear to passing vessels. A big red box of steel, 500 feet long, 134 feet wide, and towering forty-two feet above the water with straight sides and square corners, towed by three or four vessels with gigantic cables so long that there appears to be no connection between the tugs and the dock—that's the way the Dewey will look to the ships that encounter her on the high seas. In the construction of this strange craft 11,000 tons of steel, 2,000,000 rivets and 130 tons of paint were used. The cost was $1,250,000, and she is not only the biggest floating drydock in the world, but so big that the largest and heaviest warship in existence could be placed in her and lifted high and dry above the water. The capacity of the Dewey is 20,000 tons, but the largest warship yet projected is only 18,000 tons.

If this drydock makes the voyage to Manila in safety the United States will then be prepared for any contingency which may arise in time of war. Under present conditions our warships in the far East dock at Hong Kong or Shanghai, but if war should arise between America and any other nation those ports would be closed to American ships. It was to guard against the dangers to which we would thus be exposed that the government ordered the construction of the Dewey. The distance, 14,000 miles, is much longer than a floating drydock has ever before been towed, but the immense size of the thing is an element of safety, and naval officials consider that there is less risk in the undertaking than would appear at first thought.—Colorado Springs Gazette.

Will Fly to Washington.

F. M. Mahan of Chicago, who is one of the many inventors of flying machines that have lately sprung up in all parts of the country, announces that he has perfected a machine in which he expects to fly to Washington on April 23rd, his eightieth birthday, and deliver a message from the mayor of Chicago to President Roosevelt.

In Happy Holland

(Special Correspondence.)

We have reveled in the rare beauty of nature under sunny Italian skies; drawn deep breaths of joy and elation amid the monarch Alps, felt happy and contented on the bosom of the Rhine, our hearts all the while singing praises of the Maker of such a world. But now we are in the Netherlands and a new chord is sounded within our inmost thoughts, for this queer, little, historic, picturesque country was formed by the ingenuity of man. Everybody loves Holland! You may grow weary of the continuous sightseeing, regal palaces and stately cathedrals lose some of their charm, and picture galleries pall, but even the tired traveler feels new life and zest when the train steams along the sides of silvery canals and his eyes rest upon the peaceful, level, emerald landscape and he sees upon the twilight sky outlined the gray, revolving arms of many windmills.

We are nearing Amsterdam, which you know is the largest city. It has been called a "vulgar Venice," but I resent the name, for their only similarity lies in the fact that both places are threaded by canals and crossed and recrossed by small bridges. To me the one throbs with vitality and prosperity, just as the other is a halcyon dream city. The queen's palace, like many we have seen, is not imposing without, but its decorations in marble, on the interior, are elegant. Some of the friezes bear the imprint of Phidias's hand. The throne-room is spacious and beautiful, and having seen Italy, it was easy to picture her sweet, girlish face and form rising from the big arm chair whose high back was finished with the letter "W." Incrusted with sparkling gems. The reception room is one of the largest in Europe.

In the Jewish Quarter.

One of the sights of Amsterdam is the Jewish quarter, for it is a well-known fact that this nationality form a great part of the population of the city. Having been driven from their former homes by papal persecution, they sought refuge here and the art of polishing diamonds was here introduced by them in the sixteenth century. I had forgotten that the philosopher Spinoza was born in this vicinity, swarming quarter and that Rembrandt, too, lived for fifteen years in close proximity to these people, though he was not of this stock.

Early one morning we took a trolley near our hotel and caught the boat for the excursion on the Zuyder Zee. While Amsterdam and Rotterdam are interesting and unique with their tall, leaning houses and watery avenues, still they are not typical Holland, for a visit to this country is incomplete unless you turn aside from the progressive cities and take the lazy travel by canal through bright, green fields, rich pasture lands, where black and white cattle graze leisurely, and stop at the marvelously interesting dead cities, whose customs are almost as primitive as were Adam's and Eve's.

Passing through the locks, the scenery at once grew striking, canals and ditches are the fences, and from near and far 10,000 windmills swing their massive arms. Approaching Broek and listening to the melodies from the towers, Jean Ingelow's lines came back to me:

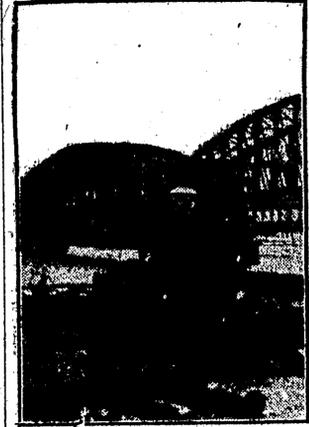

"You bells in the steeples, ring, ring out your changes,
How many soever they be,
And let the brown meadow lark's note
As he ranges
Come over, come over to me."

The Cleanest Village in Holland.
This is the cleanest village in Hol-

the town clock, which was somewhat similar to the one we saw at Bern and not unlike the celebrated one at Strasberg. Mounickendam is one of the dead cities, yet at one time, when The Hague was a mere village, it was a flourishing, commercial city, one of the twenty-nine great towns of Holland. Grass grows upon the desolate streets which were once bustling with trade, but its inhabitants were idle, while ruin was accomplished within their city gates. When a similar disaster threatened Amsterdam her sons arose in battle line, and the North sea canal was the result of their mighty effort, and Amsterdam now has unobstructed access to the German ocean.

Taught to Fight Water.

The people of Holland are taught to fight water just as the armies in other countries are schooled to handle the rifle or big guns, and we can understand their knowledge in this art when we study the activity which they display in their daily lives, and learn that they are now projecting a gigantic undertaking which they will doubtless carry through successfully. They desire to convert, the Zuyder Zee into an enormous lagoon with an area of over a thousand square miles, two-thirds of which could be made into a polder, or marsh, the beds of which have been reclaimed by draining.

Of all the towns of Holland none is so winning as the island of Marken, which just rises above the water. Many of its homes are on stilts. It is inhabited exclusively by fishermen, about a thousand in number. Their homes are neat and attractive, decorated in old Delft ware. The costumes of these people are very quaint. We find them just as they were 300 years ago. Here are the true Dutch maidens in their singular dress and odd-shaped headgear and wooden shoes. Marken babies wear three caps, just as we see them in pictures or on Delft patterns, and the men are sturdy Dutchmen. The three slow, honest fishermen who are drawing in their nets before me are worthy water fighters, but they know more than this, for the man of Holland has also had time to make his name famous in commerce, among manufacturers. It is well known in history, in freedom's cause. His name ranks high in art and architecture.

As we turn our faces toward Amsterdam once more we get a good view of the dike around Zuyder Zee. What a stronghold it appears, and yet what vigilance it requires to keep

GUEST MADE TO TAKE TRAIN.

Maine Hotelkeeper Was in No Humor for Fooling.

George Moses, proprietor of the old tavern at Bucksport, Me., rarely allowed the desires of his guests to interfere with his general plans for running his hotel.

Many years ago a relative of mine spending the night at the tavern, asked Moses to see that he was called in time to take the early train out of Bucksport. Moses looked sternly at him and said: "So you want to be called at 4 o'clock, do you? Well, where do you think you be—in New York? I want you to understand, young man, that I am the heliboy, the porter, the head waiter and the clerk

Dragged Him Out of Bed.

In this tavern, and I don't sit up all night to wake people up.

A long argument ensued, and finally Moses agreed that the early call should be put through, and my uncle retired without any compunctions of conscience for causing so much trouble.

In the morning, when called, he decided, as there was a blinding snow storm, to wait for the afternoon train, so replied to Moses' gruff "Time to get up" by saying: "I guess I won't take that train."

Like a whirlwind Moses dashed into the room, dragged the shivering form out of bed on to the icy floor, and with a wrathful "By gum, you will take that train," he stood by and watched the hurried dressing to see there was no backsliding, and my uncle took the train.—Boston Herald.

STEAMBOAT RUNS STREET CARS

Baltimore Company Thus Meets Extra Demands for Power.

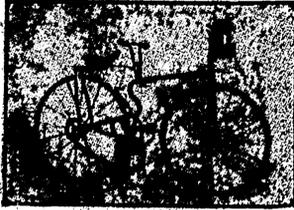

A steamboat is being used to help operate the electric street cars in Baltimore, and it is a rather novel experience to be whisked into the suburbs with the knowledge that one is being propelled by a steam craft in the harbor down in the center of the city.

The great power plant of the United railways and electric company cannot meet the extra demand for power due to the placing of 100 new and heavy cars on the routes.

To overcome the difficulty the railway corporation, which operates all the cars in Baltimore and its suburbs, has hired the Baltimore and Philadelphia steamboat Lord Baltimore and moored her at the dock alongside the power house of the corporation, down on the Patapsco river.

The boilers and machinery of the steamboat were originally built for a torpedo boat destroyer, and the vessel has more than the ordinary steam-making power.—New York Herald.

Shergold's Safety Bicycle.

The Shergold safety bicycle was constructed in the eighteen-seventies. To operate its brake the rider had to twist its handlebars around. The thickness of its chain is also noteworthy.

Greedy Seagulls.

A Nantamo fisherman had a unique experience with a flock of seagulls several evenings ago. He reached Nantamo in an open boat containing two tons of herring.

While uptown the seagulls took possession of the boat. On his return all but sixty flew away. This number had so gorged themselves with herring that they could not fly, but hopped about in a state of helplessness. The fisherman finally climbed into the boat and lifted them overboard. They were able to swim with an effort, and most of them went ashore to recover from the efforts of their feast.—Telegraphic Ledger.

Whisky shipped in Barrel of Apples.

The United States customs officials have made an important seizure at Newport, at the office of an express company. A barrel supposed to contain apples, consigned to parties in Maryland from Quebec, was opened and found to contain thirty-two quarts of sealed Canadian whisky. A layer of apples covered the bottles.—St. Albans Messenger.

PAIN IN THE JOINTS

Rheumatic Tortures Cease When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood.

The first sign of rheumatism is frequently a pain and swelling in one of the joints. If not combated in the blood, which is the seat of the disease, the poison spreads, affecting other joints and tissues. Sometimes rheumatism attacks the heart and is quickly fatal.

The one remedy that has cured rheumatism so that it stays cured is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills expel the poison from the blood and restore the system, so that the poisonous matter is passed off as nature intended.

Mrs. I. T. Pitcher, of No. 180. Monmouth street, Newark, N. J., suffered for about three years from rheumatism before she found this cure. She says: "It began with a queer feeling in my fingers. In a little time it seemed as though the finger joints had lumps on them and I could not get my gloves on. Then it grew worse and spread to my knees. I could not stand up and I could not sleep nights. My suffering was more than I can describe. I took a great deal of medicine, but nothing even gave me relief until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I read an account of a cure in a case that was exactly like mine and my husband got me some of the pills. I took them for three weeks before I really felt better but they finally cured me."

Mr. Pitcher, who is a veteran and a member of E. D. Morgan Post, No. 307 of New York, substantiates his wife's statement and says that she now walks without difficulty, whereas a year ago he was compelled to push her about in a wheeled chair. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pitcher are enthusiastic in their praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I tried ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE recently and have just bought another supply. It has cured my corns, and the hot, burning and itching sensation in my feet which was almost unbearable, and I would not be without it now."—Mrs. W. J. Walker, Camden, N. J. Sold by all Druggists, 25c.

The Deadly Workshop.

More men are killed and maimed in Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, in peaceful pursuits in one year than were killed and wounded in many of the great battles of history. Statistics for the last year show that there were killed and injured in the iron and steel mills and blast furnaces 9,000 men.

In other mills, shops and factories 4,000 were sacrificed and each died or were hurt, while the coal mines swell this figure 400 more, and the railroad victims include an additional 400, making up a grand total of 17,700 who were killed or injured in one year.

Vermont Blueberries.

The blueberry canning factory at Island Point, Vermont, has shut down after canning 300,000 gallons of product. Over 1,500,000 pounds of berries have been used, and seven carloads of lumber were required to box the goods for shipment.

"This," remarked Mr. Sappyehead, "is my photograph taken with my two French poodles. You recognize me, eh?" "I think so," said Miss Sulfuric. "You are the one with the hat on, are you not?"

To the housewife who has not yet become acquainted with the new things of everyday use in the market, and who is reasonably satisfied with the old, we would suggest that a trial of Defiance Cold Water Starch be made at once. Not alone because it is guaranteed by the manufacturers to be superior to any other brand, but because each 10c package contains 16 ozs., 12 ozs. It is safe to say that the lady who once uses Defiance Starch will use no other. Quality and quantity must win.

No one who starts out to hunt trouble has use for a gun.

Every housekeeper should know that if they will buy Defiance Cold Water Starch for laundry use they will save not only time, because it never sticks to the iron, but because each package contains 16 oz.—one full pound—while all other Cold Water Starches are put up in ½-pound packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a 12-oz. package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance. He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 ozs." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

ALL SICK WOMEN

SHOULD READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

In All Parts of the United States Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effectuated Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge.

The present Mrs. Pinkham has for twenty-five years made a study of the ills of her sex; she has consulted with and advised thousands of suffering women, who to-day owe not only their health but even life to her helpful advice.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa., writes:

"I suffered for a long time with female trouble, and finally was told by my physician that I had a tumor. I did not want to submit to an operation, so wrote you for advice. I received your letter and did as you told me, and to-day I am completely cured. My doctor says the tumor has disappeared, and I am once more a well woman. I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world."

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.

land, and has many residents of wealthy Amsterdam merchants. We walked over the town and spent awhile in a model cheese factory, where all the process of cheese-making was shown us, and where we purchased the most delicious fresh cheese which we enjoyed with our lunch an hour later. The cow stalls were as clean and neat as one of our own living rooms. Our next stop was at Mounickendam, which is a pretty little village paved with yellow brick and built of contrasting red bricks. The houses look trim and fresh, although they date from the sixteenth century. We noted the striking of

THE OUTLOOK

WHITE OAKS, NEW MEXICO.

A perpetual grin is about as exasperating as a sticky fly on a hot day.

When a man boasts of his morality, shy off—some of his screws are loose.

Some people think they appear wise when they seem only disagreeable.

I envy the wife of a great man; but my tears just splash upon the husband of a great woman.

An editor, generally speaking, is a moral man, because he is too busy and too tired to be anything else.

People who amount to anything don't have to throw a continuous stream of hot air on their ancestors.

Put a lock on your purse and your sympathies when a fellow slaps you on the back and calls you his best friend.

A woman who couldn't hit a nail on the head to save her life has been known to knock a man silly without even trying.

A man who always is truthful when he tells his wife that he is going to the club should be put in a glass case. But—sh!—if she believes him, don't say a word.

Many a man who proposes offers a woman an old moth-eaten dove with an unholy record of three escapes; but he wants a brand new, triple-plated article in return.

Castles for Sale

Former Homes of the Aristocracy of France Offered in Open Market.

(Special Correspondence.)

Castles in Spain are probably the cheapest in the world, for a person with a sanguine temperament and a little imagination may build them at any time. In this respect they have an advantage over the chateaux of France shown in the illustration.

But some of these French chateaux are wonderfully cheap—are, indeed, almost in the class of abandoned farms. Castles on the Rhine used to be within the reach of moderate fortunes, but they have greatly increased in price lately. In the same way there has been an increase in the price of Italian palaces.

Neither the Rhine castles nor the Italian palaces are so numerous as the chateaux of France. There were many of them built many years ago, some of them dating from the days of Louis XIII.

That these places should be purchased at small prices is due to the centralization in the life of France which has taken so many of the population to the cities. Young men in the families that owned these houses in the past had usually enough to live on and possibly maintain the chateau in a meager fashion that was a strange contrast to its early grandeur.

Sometimes a wealthy marriage helped the owner to hold on to the chateau. These conditions all existed until the time came when these places were offered for sale.

This was the result of the feeling among young Frenchmen that it was not beneath their dignity to work. Nowadays men of the oldest families are anxious to make a name and a fortune just as if they had not a long line of titled ancestors behind them.

Helms Are at Work. They enter all professions. They are lawyers, engineers, architects and scientists. These professions take them to Paris if they do not lead them far beyond the borders of their own country.

Such houses as those shown in the pictures are little more expensive than the best of the "own your own home"

Chateau De Villandry. The noble pile with the sloping roof known as the Chateau de Villandry can be bought for $28,000. It was built toward the close of the sixteenth century and is regarded as a very pure specimen of that period.

The wings of the house enclose a beautiful court of honor. There are ornamental gardens in the French and English style done by experienced landscape gardeners toward the close of the last century.

A lake lies in the woods of the large park surrounding the house and there are conservatories, terraces in the front of the chateau and several islands in the River Cher that belong to the property.

Older still is the chateau near Dreux which was put up in the days of Louis XIII. and is called a perfect specimen of the architecture of that period, having undergone no alterations or changes in any other style since it was first built. There is a court of honor, and the lake, as the picture shows, stretches almost to the windows in one wing of the house.

Just as It Was Built. The principal building is two and a half stories high and is accounted remarkable both in original beauty and in its present state of preservation. There are kitchen and fruit gardens, conservatories and a very old chapel.

Louis XIII. Castle. Antedating even the building of the main house. The park was laid out by the famous Le Notre.

Built in Sixteenth Century. The Chateau de Farguette stands near a palace famous in medieval days. The castle is medieval in architecture, having been built in the sixteenth century. It is in good preservation, however, and has been occupied until recently, when it was put on the market. The cost of this house and its twenty acres is but $18,000.

The severe and forbidding architecture of the house is proof of its antiquity, although that could not be clear to many persons who seek for more beauty in a home. To those who want a castle that not only is really old but also looks old the up-adorned exterior would not be repellent.

For $30,000 there is a beautiful chateau in the style of Louis XIV., that possesses a park of twenty acres and a facade of stone columns from one end of the house to the other. There are also beautiful woods and architectural gardens attached to it.

Another chateau, that looks as big as a railroad station, can be bought

Chateau De Farguette. for $22,000, although it was put up in 1760 by one of the most noted architects of his day. There are sixty-two acres of wild and ornamented ground about the house.

Another chateau more modern but beautiful can be had for $22,000, along with its twelve acres. It has existed for about a century and years ago received the name of Le Chateau des Penitents because of its rather ecclesiastical aspect. The Seine runs at the foot of the lawn and the views from the windows stretch through the valley to Paris.

There are many other chateaux of the same kind offered for sale, but these are typical and show that next to Spain France is an easy country to acquire a home in.

TRICK EASILY SEEN THROUGH.

Mine Promoters Not Sharp Enough to Deceive Hannah.

"Hannah, I can't make this out," said the old farmer, as he looked up from his paper. "Here is a company out west that advertises a gold mine. It has $1,000,000 worth of ore in sight. It estimates the amount of ore on the claim to be at least $100,000,000. Its shares are $100 par value and non-assessable. It offers shares at one cent each to the first 1,000 people who apply. It reads straight enough, but—"

"Samuel, what an old blockhead you are," exclaimed the wife. "Why, even a blind man could see through that trick."

"Well, what's the trick?" "Why, they want to make you a shareholder, and as soon as that's done they'll send on a begging letter asking you to contribute $5 toward a steeple for some Baptist church somewhere. You just let that stock alone. We have been Methodists for over thirty years, and we have got along without a steeple to our church, and if the Baptists can't do the same let 'em sell off their cows to build one."

"I guess you're right, Hannah. What tricks they do invent nowadays to make a man think he is going to get something for nothing and then find himself flippopped."—Baltimore American.

Too Sealy to Believe.

Miss Maria Wilde, an authority on ceramics, told this little story recently of her early days as a collector: "I was buying some pieces of Bealock one day when the salesman asked me if I knew the secret of the high glaze of the Irish Bealock. On my replying in the negative he said he had it from good authority that it was obtained by putting powdered fish scales in the mixture.

"The next time I saw J. Hart Brower, the Trenton potter, who succeeded in making American Bealock superior to the original Irish product, I told him with some elation that I had discovered the secret of the glaze and related the powdered fish scale story. As Mr. Brower listened a look of amusement overspread his countenance, and when I had finished he said: "Miss Wilde, that's a fish story."

Told of King Alfonso.

The king of Spain is young and likes to have a good time; yet he is often obliged to work twelve hours or more a day. Not long ago he handed his prime minister a sealed petition, with the request that it should be granted unconditionally. When it was opened it was found to be in the king's own handwriting. He demanded for himself an eight hour day and no work on Sundays and holidays. On another occasion his automobile was stopped by a policeman who did not recognize him at once, but who presently began to apologize profusely. "Why was the automobile stopped, anyway?" said the king. "Because motor wagons are not allowed on this street." "Very well," retorted Alfonso; "then I shall have to be more careful in future."

IN LAND OF DREAMS

EVENTS REVEALED TO THOSE WHAPPED IN 'SLUMBER.

Englishman Saw Vision of Brother's Murder and Identified His Slayer—Man Killed Wife While in Sombambulist State.

Not long since the first hanging occurred in the new province of Alberta, western Canada.

Charles King an American, and Edward Hayward, an Englishman, mining prospectors, had gone upon a trip together to the shores of the Lesser Slave lake.

During the trip Hayward mysteriously disappeared. It transpired later that King, during a quarrel, had shot and killed him.

Terrified by his deed, King sought to remove all traces of it by burning the body in a camp fire.

Some Indians had seen the men together, had heard the fatal shot and found some bones, buttons from clothing and various metal articles known to belong to Hayward in the ashes of the camp fire, and so King was arrested.

From far away England, the former home of the victim, however, came the strangest part of the story.

On the morning after the murder in western Canada, Hayward's brother Henry, then at the old home, told his sister that during the night he had had a dreadful dream.

In it he had seen his brother Edward shot and the remains cremated in a fire.

Every detail was perfect. The surroundings of the crime were shown, and the features of the man who did the shooting were clearly revealed by the dreamer.

When Harry Hayward went to western Canada to take part in the prosecution of his brother's murderer he related this dream.

He was shown a number of photographs and promptly picked out from them that of King as the man whose face had been revealed to him.

At Lockland, Ohio, last summer, the police discovered a man who had broken into and scattered the contents of more than forty houses, and yet they did not arrest him.

He was a well-known and respected citizen, and it was found that his depredations had been committed in his sleep. Early one morning he was found sitting, fast asleep, outside the roof of a house that he had entered.

As no valuables had been removed from any of the houses entered, and as it seemed to be conclusively proved that the man's marauding expeditions had been conducted while he was under the mysterious influence of dreams, he was not arrested.

The dangers of somnambulism were recently illustrated in the town of Stockwell, England, a month or so ago, when Francis Lake, a highly esteemed resident, while walking in his sleep, shot and nearly killed his wife.

It was conclusively shown that Mr. Lake had no motive and no intention of killing his wife. He had been known for some time to walk in his sleep; but never before had the results been serious. In their investigation the police were convinced that Lake was not guilty of intentional wrong.

The Limit in Exclusive Affairs.

During a whooping cough epidemic at Wellington, Mo., one little girl who had planned to give a birthday party found herself unable to do so because of danger of spreading the distemper from which she was just recovering. Finally, she decided to confine her guests to those who had already had the disease. It was an ultra-exclusive affair which excited no envy.

Pigeon's Long Memory.

BROODING FEMALE WALLED UP.

African Bird That Keeps its Mate Imprisoned.

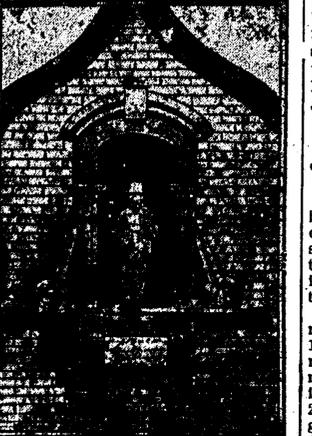

A remarkable mode of incarceration is practiced by the hornbills, birds with immense bills and horny crests, which inhabit Southern Asia, the Malay Islands, and Central and Southern Africa. In most, if not all, species the brooding female is walled up in a hollow tree and fed by her mate.

She remains confined in her prison until the eggs are hatched, and in some species until the young birds are able to fly. Meanwhile the mother has become temporarily incapable of flight, as she has moulted, or at least shed all her wing feathers, during her captivity. But the male is indefatigable in providing for his family, and is said to work so hard that he is reduced almost to a skeleton at the end of the brooding season.

According to the theory of many natives the female is imprisoned to prevent her neglecting her duty of brooding, and if she has been unfaithful or negligent her mate closes the little window of her cell and abandons her to a painful death by suffocation. The true story, perhaps, is this: The female walls herself in so that she cannot fall from the nest after losing her feathers, and also to protect herself from enemies. The building material is her own excrement. This version is less poetical than the other, but it is probably nearer the truth. It is supported by the statement that the female liberates herself as soon as the young birds are well grown, so that her prison is less formidable than it appears.—Scientific American.

Warning to Thriftless.

A quaint tablet is fixed on the exterior wall in the center of almshouses built for four windows by Mrs. Hester Clark in 1735. The tablet has a curious figure of a man wearing a cocked hat. Formerly this figure held a hatchet in his right hand, but the hatchet is now suspended against the wall.

The following inscription appears below the figure: "He that gives away all before he is dead, Let 'em take this hatchet and knock on ye head."

Ugly Deer in Vermont.

It is seriously affirmed that farmers in the northern part of Rutland county would like permission to kill a big, ugly deer that would weigh dressed 300 pounds and has immense horns. This terror of the woods, they say, chases men to cover, will not yield the right of way when he meets teams in the road, and in devious ways makes himself decidedly unpleasant. He recently paid a visit to a Castleton farmer and, when ordered away, refused to leave, although seven other deer that were with him turned and fled when the farmer and his dog went out. The big deer, however, was in no humor for debate, and promptly charged the collar into the barn.—St. Albans Messenger.

Preacher a Lamplighter.

By an agreement with the village authorities of Southold, Long Island, to light and extinguish the street lamps each night for $25 a month, Rev. James Murray, pastor of the Southold Universalist church, has brought upon him the criticism of many of his congregation. Southold's populace retires very early. All street lamps must be extinguished promptly at 11 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Murray's salary of $700 a year will be increased by $200 through his work on the street lamps. He proposes to use the time spent on the street twice each evening in thinking out his sermons.—New York Tribune.

TWENTY YEARS OF IT.

Emaciated by Diabetes; Tortured With Gravel and Kidney Pains.

Henry Soule, cobbler, of Hammondsport, N. Y., says: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me eight years ago, I've reached 70 and hope to live many years longer. But twenty years ago I had kidney trouble so bad I could not work. Backache was persistent and it was agony to lift anything. Gravel, whirling headaches, dizziness and terrible urinary disorders ran me down from 168 to 100 pounds. Doctors told me I had diabetes and could not live. I was wretched and hopeless when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, but they cured me eight years ago, and I've been well ever since."

SORES ON HANDS.

Suffered for a Long Time Without Relief—Doctor Was Afraid to Touch Them—Cured by Cuticura.

"For a long time I suffered with sores on the hands which were itching, painful and disagreeable. I had three doctors, and derived no benefit from any of them. One doctor said he was afraid to touch my hands, so you must know how bad they were; another said I never could be cured; and the third said the sores were caused by the dipping of my hands in water in the dye-house where I work. I saw in the papers about the wonderful cures of the Cuticura Remedies and procured some of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. In three days after the application of the Cuticura Ointment my hands began to peel and were better. The soreness disappeared, and they are now smooth and clean, and I am still working in the dye-house. Mrs. A. E. Maurer, 2340 State St., Chicago, Ill., July 1, 1905."

THE WORLD'S RAILWAYS.

United States Greatly Surpasses Other Nations.

The United States leads the World, both in the present mileage and the recent growth of its railways. This is shown in a report on "the transportation routes and systems of the world," issued by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce of Labor. It points out that of the total railway mileage of the world, aggregating in 1904 543,000 miles, there were 211,074 miles in the United States, 35,323 miles in European Russia, 32,967 miles in Germany, 28,104 miles in France, 26,950 in India, 24,120 in Austria-Hungary, 22,634 in the United Kingdom, 19,611 in Canada, 15,550 in Africa, 14,113 in Australia, 11,559 in Argentina, 10,356 in Mexico, 9,561 in Italy, 9,368 in Brazil, 7,697 in Sweden, 7,322 in Siberia, Manchuria and the other former Asiatic possessions of Russia, 4,495 in Japan and 1,176 in China.

Thousand-Year Radium Clock.

The radium clock described some months ago by the Hon. R. J. Strutt is now manufactured by a London chemist. It consists essentially of a small glass tube in which a twelfth of a grain of radium is supported by a rod of quartz in an exhausted glass vessel, the lower end of the tube containing an electroscope of two aluminum films. Treatment with phosphoric acid renders the surface of the glass conductive. The positive charge received from the radium expands the leaves of the electroscope until they touch the sides of the tube, when they are discharged to earth and the leaves fall together. This is repeated at intervals of one minute, the estimate being that action will continue several thousand years.

THE LITTLE WIDOW.

A Mighty Good Sort of Neighbor to Have.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine, persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that I would not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman, from San Bernardino, Cal. "I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the birth of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief. "I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In two months my weight increased from 55 to 115 pounds, my nerves had steadied down and I felt ready for anything. My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had brought the change. "My 4-year-old boy had become very bad, last spring and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts, which he relished at once. He improved from the beginning, the screams disappeared and now he is fat and rosy, with a delightfully soft, clear skin. The Grape-Nuts diet did it. I will willingly answer all inquiries. VALENCIA WRECK

TERRIBLE STEAMSHIP DISASTER IN NORTHERN PACIFIC.

OVER ONE HUNDRED DROWN

Vessel Strikes the Rocks in Dense Fog—Only One Boatload Escape—Awful Scenes of Suffering and Death.

Victoria, B. C.—With ninety-four passengers and about sixty in her crew the steamer Valencia went ashore about ten miles east of Cape Beale in a thick fog about 12 o'clock Monday night.

Denver.—Theodore D. Shreve of this city was one of the passengers on the steamer Valencia.

Later.—The wreck steamer Valencia now lies submerged and broken, but a portion of a mast standing above the water, and the feet of steamers and tugs have to-day (Thursday) been turning their attention to patrolling the vicinity in the hope of finding boats, rafts or wreckage still afloat with survivors.

Ashore several parties have been toiling over most arduous trails, some carrying succor to those who were washed ashore, others scouring the rugged rocks of the shore line, seeking for any survivors that may have reached shore and be lying foodless and helpless.

Of the total company of 154, but thirty-three have been definitely accounted for, and three men believed to be other survivors were seen on shore by the whaling vessel Orion near the wreck.

With the three seen from the Orion added, the survivors total thirty-six, leaving a death list of 119 persons.

The nine survivors of the Valencia who are at Darling river telegraph hut, are reported from Bamfield to be in a deplorable condition.

WILLING TO SHARE WITH GOD

Simple Faith and Gratitude of a Little Child.

The simple faith of a little child, whether applied to parents, friend or to God, found an illustration in a story recently told by Dr. Levi G. Broughton of Atlanta, Ga., when he was in Boston.

"My little girl came to me a little while before Christmas and said: 'Papa, I want you to pray to God and ask him to have Santa Claus bring me a dolly for Christmas.' I promised, and on Christmas morning she found her doll, and called me to see it."

"I told her she might go over to her grandpa's, where brother was visiting, and find out. Presently she returned, with her face all covered with happy smiles, and exclaimed, 'O, papa! God sent brother a beautiful great big hobby-horse.'"

"Breakfast came soon after and as we sat down at the table she climbed upon my knee, and putting her arms around my neck she said again, 'Hain't God good? and he was gooder to brother than he was to me, wasn't he?'"

"I replied, 'Yes, he is good, and now what are you going to do for God, dear?'"

"'O, I'm going to let God play with my dolly all he wants to; and I'm going to ask brother to let God ride his hobby-horse, too.'—Boston Post.

Put His Foot in It.

J. Nota McGill, ex-register of wills for the District of Columbia, and now professor of patent law at Georgetown university, lost a hat, a point to a joke, and a goodly amount of temper yesterday.

Mr. McGill is not of the excitable kind, but when that norwester struck him he lost his head—or rather his hat.

"Hey, there," cried the ex-register, "stop that brand new hat of mine! Won't some one stop it?"

There was something in the professor's voice that appealed to a dapper looking stranger, who made a lunge at the head gear, but could do no better than put his feet through it.

"Well, you certainly have put your foot in it," shouted Mr. McGill.

"I say you've put your foot in it." "By Jove, say not so, old chap."

"Say not so yourself," growled the professor, "you surely have fixed my hat up all right."

"I am awfully sorry—wheally," confessed the dude. "Let me ave it mended."

"Oh, no," said the ex-register with sarcasm, "the brim is not worth a crown now."

"A crown? I should say it is! Why the bloomin' thing is worth a sovereign at least!"—Washington Post.

Busy American Women.

The American woman is going ahead. The census returns show that 5,000,000 and more women are employed in the nation's industrial life.

There are now three times as many women stenographers as there were ten years ago, while the number of women bookkeepers and accountants has doubled.

Women have risen to be treasurers of street railways, presidents of national and savings banks, secretaries of financiers on salaries of $10,000 and $12,500, executive leads of building and contracting firms; buyers for large stores, etc.

They are to be met with in a hundred responsible capacities, all of them outside the once circumscribed field of female occupations, and in all of which a talent for figures is a prime requisite of success.

EXTINCTION OF ANIMALS. Buffalo, Elephant, Lion, Giraffe and Others Passing Away.

Recently published translations from the German writings of C. B. Schillings, the noted African traveler and animal photographer, have been interesting a good many people in this country.

Mr. Schillings has an enthusiasm for this sort of scientific investigation that has carried him to daring lengths in the achievement of his purpose.

He realizes that the larger animals of Africa, etc.—are rapidly becoming extinct—that in a few more generations the world will know them only as it now knows the dodo; and for this reason he has undertaken to make an accurate and scientific record of their existence in their native habitat.

With its economic usefulness it is likely that the elephant will, in the course of time, take the status of the camel in the Orient and never become extinct.

The giraffes are almost gone, the rhinoceros and the "river horse" are becoming rare, and lions grow scarcer year by year.

A man by the name of Frank Bell, now in jail at Prescott, Ariz. has confessed to the assassination of Col. J. Francisco Chaves a year ago. Gov. Hagerman is investigating the matter.

The Hamilton joint statehood bill passed the House of Representatives June 1st issue, and the pharisaical attempt to force the unwilling nuptials now goes unblushingly on in the Senate by a combine of eastern autocrats aided by a few western flunkies and trimmers.

General Joseph Wheeler died at New York Jan. 25. During the civil war he was one of the most famous and gallant of the Confederate cavalry commanders and rose from the rank of first lieutenant to that of lieutenant general. During that war he was wounded three times, had sixteen horses shot under him and lost over forty staff officers, either killed or wounded. In May 1898 he recaptured the United States service and was given a brigadier general's commission and served with distinction both in Cuba and the Philippines. After his return he was assigned to the department of the Lakes, and in 1900 was placed on the retired list. He was always an active campaigner and a forceful fighter as some of us "Yanks" have had occasion to know.

"Bull Dispensing Seeds", is a recent headline in the Albuquerque Journal in reference to a distribution of seeds made by the Agricultural Department to the farmers of New Mexico on the solicitation of Delegate Andrews. This kind of chump journalism may seem very smart and very amusing to that paper, but to the reader of average intelligence it must bring a feeling of mingled disgust, nausea and weariness. Especially is this the case when one considers the fact that a little part of, and tributary to Albuquerque there has, during the past six months, been over 20,000 acres of land taken up by homesteaders, made possible by the completion of the Santa Fe Central railroad, of which Mr. Andrews is the recognized head, and through whose untiring efforts it was built. Then there is the other fact that he is doing all that is possible for any man to do in congress for the welfare of the territory.

The Estancia country now appears to be the Eldorado of northern homesteaders. It is estimated that fully 950 claims have been made on homesteads in that region within the past two months. The best part of it is, they all come from localities where people farm for profit and make it win. There is not the least doubt but what this section of country will be a close rival of the Pecos valley both for grain and fruit, and the time is not far distant when they too will have arable water flowing on many farms. Take a region where springs like that of Antelope, Estancia, Tula and Mesquite are found, and it has almost invariably produced flowing water from so great depth. This will undoubtedly occur here, if it is found that there is not sufficient surface water and rainfall to produce abundant crops. The Santa Fe Central railroad is doing much to hold up this country and to induce special inducements in the way of freight and passenger rates to settlers. The prosperity of one section of New Mexico helps all.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

The address of governor Herbert J. Hagerman has a different brand from the slush the people of the territory have had served up to them on some former occasions of this kind. It is so full of meat that it is here given in full, and deserves a careful reading.

Fellow Citizens: To say that I am pleased with the reception which you have accorded me here would but illy express my sentiments. To you I am a new and untried man, who must seem very young to undertake the serious duties upon which I am about to enter.

I have not the presumption to assume that the welcome you have accorded me here is any further a personal one than such as in the natural kindness of your hearts you would extend to anyone about to become Governor of New Mexico.

You welcome me as you do because every one of you, of whatever party, whatever creed or of whatever birth or ancestry, has confidence in the wisdom of that great man who now guards the destinies of the United States—Theodore Roosevelt (applause) and his trusted and courageous lieutenant—Secretary Hitchcock, to whom, as you well know, I owe in a great degree my appointment. And, my fellow citizens, it would be strange indeed, if the hopes you have built upon the wisdom of these two men were not high. They have the welfare of New Mexico very near their hearts.

In the great multitude of affairs connected with their high offices they have time to inquire into and to investigate even in detail the administration of affairs in this territory. The measures they adopt in regard to New Mexico are only determined upon after thorough investigation and great care. If I have ventured to speak to you on this occasion of these two men, it is because I wish thoroughly to impress upon you the great responsibility which I feel is involved in the position with which the President has honored me.

It is a triple responsibility; the personal responsibility to the President and to the Secretary of the interior, the responsibility to the Federal Government and above all, the responsibility to you, the people of the great Territory of New Mexico. It is a position which, in itself, is a highly honorable one. No man can fill it in the way it ought to be filled or in the way in which he himself desires to fill it if he believes, even in his inmost soul, any personal hope for future political preferment of any kind whatever. If he does so, should he be the most honest man, some of his acts will inevitably be tinged by motives which are not for the best interests of the people whose welfare he is in honor bound to promote. Let it be thoroughly understood that this is said in no spirit of criticism, but as an attempt to define an ideal which is not beyond the power of any man to realize.

Fellow citizens, the Government of the United States and of its component parts is based upon the theory of universal suffrage. Upon this theory the United States have, in the face of the doubts and often sneers, of the monarchies of Europe, grown and prospered until they have now become one of the greatest nations in the world. Our forefathers made no mistake when they built upon the great truth that the voice of the people is its broadest and truest sense the voice of God. They believed, and events have justified their belief, that the only sovereign under whom any nation could permanently prosper is the people themselves. This is the foundation principle of our republic and is still the keystone of the arch of our governmental system. The moment we waver or deviate from this great principle we are endangering the whole structure of the republic. This is just as true now as it was a hundred years ago, and as it will be a hundred years hence.

Every bona fide citizen should primarily by his vote have as much to say in regard to the administration of public affairs as every other one, and every citizen should realize the honor and the responsibility that this privilege involves. He should realize that upon his individual efforts depends the safety and the very existence of the nation. Upon him depends the successful administration of our affairs. Upon him depends the making and the enforcement of the laws, for to him is given the duty of electing the men who make the laws, and without his sanction, co-operation and support no laws, however good, can be enforced. If ever circumstances arise under which the will of the majority of the people is frustrated, and the power is concentrated in the hands of a few who do not use it for the best interests of all, it is he, the voter, who is in a great degree responsible. It is just as true that when the voter by a free untrammelled and courageous use of the franchise, elects honest and efficient men to our legislatures, he can credit himself with the good that results from the efforts of his sworn servants.

It is often said that under our system of government the executive has a great deal of independent power. I consider any power the executive may have to be a delegated power and in no way independent. I believe that the Governor, whether he be elected or appointed, is as responsible to and dependent upon his sovereign, the people, as are their directly elected representatives. He has every right to believe and every reason to expect that those directly elected representatives will correctly and honestly voice the real sentiments and definite desires of their constituents. In particular instances he believes that such has not been the case, then it is his duty, not to act independently, but to the full extent that the law authorizes him to do so and go farther, to directly and courageously try to bring about the results which he honestly believes a majority of the people desire. These, my friends, I consider to be elemental truths and principles. I shall keep them constantly before me in the performance of my duty. I ask you, free and independent voters of this Territory, to do your part and I, to the fullest extent of whatever capacity may be in me, will do mine.

Dick Mc Main went last Saturday to Three Rivers where he will do mining near the head of that stream.

It now begins to look as if the Albuquerque Eastern and the extension of the Santa Fe Central from Torrence to Roswell would both be completed during the present year. This will make southwestern New Mexico forge ahead as it never has done before, as it will put it in direct communication with Santa Fe Albuquerque El Paso and Roswell.

Apportionment of School Funds

The following exhibit shows the amount of school funds apportioned to the several districts in Lincoln county for the quarter ending December 31, 1905. This includes the two last quarters of the year, as there was less than one hundred dollars of the general school fund to be apportioned in October, and consequently none was made, and the district clerks were notified at the time the reason therefor.

The present apportionment also includes the fund coming from the territory, as well as that arising from fines, licenses and poll tax, so that if any seeming discrepancy appears as to the amount apportioned to any one district the surplus arises from some of these sources.

The amount of money subject to apportionment is $2184.62. The total number of persons of school age is 1872. The rate per scholar is $1.16, which is apportioned to the several school districts as below, with $13.10 over and above for next quarter.
